

THE ROUGH GUIDE TO EUROPE ON A BUDGET

INSIDE THIS BOOK

INTRODUCTION What to see, when to go, author picks, ideas and more

ITINERARIES Plan your route around the continent

BASICS Pre-departure tips and practical information

THE GUIDE Comprehensive, in-depth guide to 36 countries, with highlights, expert reviews, language tips and full-colour maps throughout

We've flagged up our favourite places – a perfectly sited hotel, an atmospheric café, a special restaurant – throughout the Guide with the ★ symbol

Europe on a Budget chapters

- |                        |                  |                    |                |
|------------------------|------------------|--------------------|----------------|
| 1 Albania              | 10 Finland       | 19 Lithuania       | 28 Russia      |
| 2 Austria              | 11 France        | 20 Macedonia       | 29 Serbia      |
| 3 Belgium & Luxembourg | 12 Germany       | 21 Montenegro      | 30 Slovakia    |
| 4 Bosnia-Herzegovina   | 13 Great Britain | 22 Morocco         | 31 Slovenia    |
| 5 Bulgaria             | 14 Greece        | 23 The Netherlands | 32 Spain       |
| 6 Croatia              | 15 Hungary       | 24 Norway          | 33 Sweden      |
| 7 Czech Republic       | 16 Ireland       | 25 Poland          | 34 Switzerland |
| 8 Denmark              | 17 Italy         | 26 Portugal        | 35 Turkey      |
| 9 Estonia              | 18 Latvia        | 27 Romania         | 36 Ukraine     |

Make the Most of Your Time on Earth at roughguides.com

This fifth edition published March 2017

THE ROUGH GUIDE TO EUROPE ON A BUDGET

written and researched by

Jonathan Bousfield, Tim Burford, Kiki Deere, Marc Di Duca, Darragh Geraghty, Emma Gibbs, Lottie Gross, Matthew Hancock,
Eva Hibbs, Daniel Jacobs, Anna Kaminski, Gabriella Le Breton, Phil Lee, Norm Longley, John Malathronas, Olivia Rawes, Terry
Richardson, Emma Thomson, Kate Turner, Jeroen van Marle, Steve Vickers, Neville Walker, Luke Waterson and Matt Willis

roughguides.com

Contents

INTRODUCTION 4

Where to go	8	Ideas	14
When to go	12	Itineraries	22
Author picks	13

BASICS 28

Getting there	29	Festivals and annual events	37
Getting around	31	Work and study	38
Accommodation	36	Travel essentials	40

THE GUIDE 47

1 Albania	47	19 Lithuania	697
2 Austria	61	20 Macedonia	715
3 Belgium & Luxembourg	87	21 Montenegro	727
4 Bosnia-Herzegovina	113	22 Morocco	741
5 Bulgaria	127	23 The Netherlands	773
6 Croatia	153	24 Norway	801
7 Czech Republic	183	25 Poland	831
8 Denmark	207	26 Portugal	859
9 Estonia	237	27 Romania	895
10 Finland	255	28 Russia	915
11 France	275	29 Serbia	939
12 Germany	351	30 Slovakia	957
13 Great Britain	415	31 Slovenia	977
14 Greece	495	32 Spain	997
15 Hungary	545	33 Sweden	1083
16 Ireland	569	34 Switzerland	1113
17 Italy	603	35 Turkey	1139
18 Latvia	681	36 Ukraine	1177

SMALL PRINT & INDEX 1193

Introduction to Europe

Europe presents an irresistible challenge to the budget traveller. A potent mix of culture, landscape and history on the one hand and a cash-gobbling monster on the other, sticking to your daily allowance can prove tricky. But learn to zone out the “Spend! Spend! Spend!” siren song of its myriad restaurants, bars and shops and you’ll find that this compact little continent is simply the world’s greatest labyrinth. From London’s Royal Parks and Amsterdam’s canals to Istanbul’s Grand Bazaar and Germany’s Berlin Wall, just getting tangled up in its sights is a huge draw – you can do the Algarve, the Alps and the Arctic, all in one trip. There’s time travel here too: with Stonehenge and Ephesus, cathedrals and castles, châteaux and palaces (not to mention statement-making modern architecture), Europe’s man-made structures zoom you through millennia of civilization, a tumultuous history that scars and bejewels the continent by turns.

With its cultural kaleidoscope shifting not just from one country to the next but between towns and villages, relatively short distances can mean profound changes – bang for your backpacking buck, in other words, especially with the average gap-year trip getting shorter. And you needn’t miss out even in some of the world’s most sophisticated cities, with many iconic European experiences mercifully light on the pocket: think of aperitivo time in Rome, blini in Moscow, the freebie wonders at London’s British Museum and bargain lunchtime concerts in Paris or Dublin. You will have to spend a few bob, of course. Accommodation and travel are bound to devour a fair chunk of your funds; the glass-half-full response is, “What do I spend the rest on?”. Start by giving your taste buds the ride of their lives, be it in a Lyon bouchon, a smoky Turkish ocakbaşı, at a market or on the hoof (see Ideas, p.19). Don’t be tempted to skip breakfast, either – an oven-fresh croissant or calorie-jammed “full English” are not to be missed, and all the more important in a morning-after-the-night-before context, especially since Europe lives for the wee hours. Whether it’s Berlin and London's hipster dives, flamenco in Seville, Budapest's ruin bars or craft beer and organic wines in Bologna, there are countless reasons to stay up till sunrise. For fun en masse, check out the continent's festivals (see Ideas, p.16) – both traditional and modern – and the outdoor activities that animate its wide-open spaces (see Ideas, p.21), from horseriding in Bulgaria's Rila Mountains to surfing on Portugal's gnarled Alentejo coast. One advantage of budget travel is that it makes splurging all the sweeter – for a little flashpacking guidance, keep an eye out for our Treat Yourself tips throughout the Guide.

With just a few exceptions (see p.41), red tape won't be an issue thanks to Europe's unique "open borders" policy – you can travel hassle-free between countries that were once fierce enemies. To bolster your funds, consider working (see p.39), which can be a great way to meet people, immerse yourself in a country's day-to-day life and improve your language skills. But a word of caution – while you'll come across sleepy corners where things seem unchanged since some distant "Once upon a time" era, there's an atmosphere of unrest in others. The Eurozone financial crisis is rippling across the continent, having already destabilized governments from Ireland and Greece to Portugal and Slovenia, while 2016 saw Britain opt out of EU membership in the groundbreaking Brexit referendum. Recent terrorist attacks in France and Germany may make you wary, but remember that they're infrequent occurrences. When planning your trip and before you set off, keep an eye on the news and scour Twitter, which is also invaluable for up-to-the-minute reviews of new openings and off-the-beaten-track recommendations. The disaffected mood does have one upside: with its citizens so politically engaged, this is one of the most interesting times to travel in Europe for decades, and you're bound to have conversations and encounters that define your memories, whichever road you take.

Where to go

Europe has it all: sprawling cities and quaint villages; boulevards, promenades and railways; mountains, beaches and lakes. Some places will be exactly how you imagined: Venice is everything it's cracked up to be; springtime in Paris has even hardened cynics melting with the romance of it all; and Oxford's colleges really are like Harry Potter film sets. But others will surprise, whether for their under-the-radar nature (see Author picks, p.13) or because they're stuck with an old-established, out-of-date reputation – but then, isn't tweaking your mental map all part of the fun?

Budget travellers are best off combining practicality with stick-a-pin-in-the-map impulsiveness. If you're flying out, look for where the cheap fares will take you and start from there – try our Itineraries section (see pp.22–27) for inspiration. Those getting around by train – still the best option – should note which countries are accessible with an InterRail Global pass and the equivalent Eurail pass (see p.34). Depending on your time and budget, choose one corner of the continent then consider a budget flight for that unmissable experience elsewhere, be it a foodie pilgrimage to San Sebastián, a cultural splurge at the Edinburgh Festival, or St Petersburg's White Nights.

Great Britain maintains a certain psychological distance from its neighbours (as the Brexit referendum dramatically evidenced), and yet for many it's a European must-do, with iconic sights ranging from Big Ben and the Tower of London to Bath's Royal Crescent. North of the border, Scotland may opt for another independence referendum, given the population's dissatisfaction with Britain's decision to leave the EU. London has been feeling rather pleased with itself ever since the 2012 Olympics, and their legacy endures in the shape of the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park. A reuse of the Games site, it's close to the hip, budget-friendly buzz of the city's East End. A quick flight away, Ireland's west coast is an altogether more dramatic slice of the great outdoors, while a wander through Galway's cobbled streets is the perfect way to explore 2020's European Capital of Culture. With steep fares in Great Britain especially, this is one region to really milk an InterRail card. Those without one should book tickets far in advance, or get ready for some very cosy long-distance bus rides.

The English-Scottish rivalry runs deep, but it's not a patch on the Catalan-Spanish equivalent, and Catalan capital Barcelona fairly pulsates with dynamism. From there, Spanish capital Madrid is within easy reach while, to the south, Granada and Andalucía's great city of Seville provide an undiluted shot of Spanishness. To the north and east, France and Italy could exhaust your rail pass in one fell swoop, with some of the world's finest cuisine, architecture, landscapes and museums. Marseille in the south of France recently had a spectacular shake-up, and the Vieux-Port is now studded with gleaming modern architecture. Out west, Portugal is relatively easy on the purse strings; its beautiful Douro Rail Route will make a veritable golden ticket of your rail pass, and even the Algarve has a thriving hostel scene these days. Further south again, voyage to Morocco the romantic way – by boat – and splash out on a stay at a traditional riad, where “Europe” can feel very far away indeed.

Europe's best beaches

Mogren (Montenegro) Part of the so-called "Budva Riviera" that stretches either side of Montenegro's party town par excellence (p.735).

Olympos-Çıralı (Turkey) The 3km-long beach between the contrasting resorts of Olympos and Çıralı is among the most chilled in the Med (p.1168).

Ilha de Tavira (Portugal) Off the southern coast near the pretty town of Tavira (p.894) and backed by tufted dunes, this is one of the Algarve's finest, peaceful stretches.

Plage de la Rondinara (France) Shaped like a scallop shell, this vies with the turquoise waters of Santa Giulia and Palombaggia for title of "best Corsican beach" (p.350).

Chia (Italy) A sequence of shapely little bays lying just southwest of a quiet Sardinian village (p.679) – nearby lagoons are specked with flamingos, which come here to breed.

Hvar (Croatia) Hvar enjoys a growing reputation as the party capital of the Adriatic and there's a wealth of do-nothing-at-all beaches just a short bus or boat ride away (p.173).

Ksamil (Albania) This is still (just about) one of the Mediterranean's unspoiled corners – and with wonderful Butrint nearby, the beaches at the village of Ksamil (p.60) are an irresistible detour.

In spite of its famous Europe-Asia split, Turkey was supposedly closer to EU accession than Morocco. However, the terrorist attacks in Istanbul and Ankara in 2015 and 2016, the failed coup of July 2016 and the government's subsequent crackdowns have set back that schedule indefinitely, while nearby Athens experienced unrest in 2015 over Grexit fears. Still, both Athens and Istanbul remain excellent budget options. And with these countries' unforgettable ancient sites – not to mention Greek island-hopping or ballooning above the “fairy chimneys” of Turkey's Cappadocia – it's quite possible to feel blissfully removed from current affairs (should you so wish).

The “melting pot” cliché is often applied to Istanbul, but it's a fit for the Balkans too. Their rich diversity extends beyond the ethnic and cultural to landscape and urban make-up: the gorgeous coastlines of Montenegro and Albania; Croatia's islands; Romania's Saxon villages; the monasteries of Serbia and bridges of Bosnia; the architectural strangeness of Tirana and Skopje, capitals of Albania and Macedonia. Indeed, with evocative old quarters and (in some cases) relatively recent political turmoil, the Balkans' towns and cities are some of Europe's most fascinating – and affordable.

Into central Europe and the similarities between Slovenia and Slovakia don't begin and end with phonetics, these near-neighbours rivalling each other for mountain scenery and outdoorsy pursuits. Slovenian capital Ljubljana is an elegant charmer, while landlocked Slovakia boasts pretty Bratislava and Košice. Industrial Plzeň in the Czech Republic is regenerating around its own Capital of Culture 2015 award, while Prague is a treat just the way it is. Given their vast size, you'll be glad that Poland and Ukraine are enjoying improved infrastructure, a legacy of their stint as co-hosts of the 2012 UEFA European Football Championship – come for big city thrills with the likes of Warsaw and Kyiv, and a sense of discovery in less-touristed Wrocław and L'viv.

Once you hit Germany and its neighbours, you'll be glad of any money saved further east. That said, as nightlife hubs go, Berlin is pretty affordable; visit Munich for Oktoberfest if you like partying of a more traditional sort. Exploring the compact Netherlands by bike is both budget-friendly and oh-so-Dutch, while Amsterdam has some exciting new neighbourhoods to explore, especially around the former NDSM shipyard. Like the Netherlands, cultural heavyweight Austria does a whole lot with its modest size; yet with patches of mountainous terrain, this is one for the skis and snowboard rather than two wheels.

Finally, don't write off Scandinavia as unaffordable. Tourist cards, wild camping and university cafeterias – there are ways and means. And even if you can't quite stretch to the latest hot purveyor of “New Danish Cuisine”, plenty of Copenhagen's other famous pleasures can be enjoyed on the cheap – bakeries, bodega bars and cycling for starters. And the Northern Lights, visible from Sweden, Norway and Finland, might just be the greatest free show on earth. Finland serves up everything from the traditional culture of the reindeer-herding Sámi people to 2012 World Design Capital Helsinki. From there it's easy to reach the Baltic states of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania. Tallinn and Rīga are two recent beneficiaries of the European Capital of Culture award, and a little more vibrant for it – or head boldly into Russia, where Moscow and St Petersburg have some truly blockbuster sights. From Marrakesh to Moscow – only in Europe.

When to go

Europe is, for the most part, a year-round destination. In terms of budget, it makes sense to travel in the off season (October through to May) – cheaper menus appear on restaurant tables, hotels drop their rates, and haggling over prices becomes a realistic option. This is especially true of tourist hotspots like Paris, Barcelona and Rome, which attract far bigger crowds in July and August.

If you do decide to travel during the peak summer season, try heading east – the Balkan coastline, the Slovenian mountains and Baltic cities are all fantastic places for making the most of your money. When tourist traffic dies down as autumn approaches, head to the Med. The famous coastlines and islands of southern Europe are quieter at this time of year, and the cities of Spain and Italy begin to look their best. Wintertime brings world-class skiing and snowboarding to European mountainsides (though not guaranteed), and countless festive markets pop up in the towns and cities below. There are epic New Year parties everywhere from Moscow to Lisbon and, despite the cold weather elsewhere at this time of year, there's still the possibility of sunshine in Turkey and Morocco. Come spring it's worth heading north to the Netherlands, Scandinavia, France and the British Isles, where you'll find beautifully long days and relatively affordable prices before the summer season kicks in around July.

While weather extremes are not the issue they are in, say, Asia or Africa, you should still bear them in mind when planning your trip. The Arctic winter in Scandinavia and Russia can bring temperatures as low as  $-35^{\circ}\text{C}$ , with the sun barely rising above the horizon for months at a time. Conversely, summer days in central, southern and eastern parts of continental Europe can be sweltering – temperatures of around  $40^{\circ}\text{C}$  are not unheard of.

Author picks

From lungfuls of mountain air to gulps of super-strong beer, via floating taxis and hostels, cycle rides and kayaking, our authors share their top European tips.

Freewheeling Explore the Loire Valley's Renaissance châteaux, sampling delectable local wines (p.301); check out the street art in Málaga's SOHO district (p.1033); or glide around wonderful Copenhagen's famous cycle network (p.219).

Delicious dishes Relish the world's favourite cuisine at an Italian trattoria such as Florence's Sostanza (p.649); graze at the new gastromarkets in Córdoba (p.1036); and discover Britain's network of gastropubs and food markets (p.419).

Watery cities Spend the night in a floating hostel in Stockholm (p.1094); go wild swimming in Zürich (p.1130); board a boat to one of Helsinki's nearby islands (p.263); cruise along the canals of St Petersburg for a unique perspective on its historic sights (p.930); and absorb Venice's perennially stunning beauty from the seat of an affordable traghetto (p.638).

Under-the-radar towns Olomouc, Czech Republic (p.205), is a pint-sized Prague with fewer people and more charm (and cobblestones), while Berat (p.57) is a gorgeous Albanian town where row after row of Ottoman buildings loom down at you from the sides of a steep valley.

Drinking dens Order a knee-buckling Duvel beer at Brussels' historic La Fleur en Papier Doré (p.99) – a time-worn café once the favourite haunt of Surrealist painter Magritte and Tintin creator Hergé – or down a hefty home-brewed Columbus ale at Amsterdam's Brouwerij't IJ (p.787), housed in an old public baths.

Saddle up Head for Bulgaria's Rila Mountains (p.131) on horseback (or by foot) to enjoy the spectacular scenery spread out beneath Mount Musala (2925m), the Balkan Peninsula's highest peak, or go galloping among the wild ponies on Great Britain's rugged Dartmoor (p.447).

Our author recommendations don't end here. We've flagged up our favourite places – a perfectly sited hotel, an atmospheric café, a special restaurant – throughout the guide, highlighted with the ★ symbol.

LEFT ISLE OF SKYE, SCOTLAND FROM TOP VENICE, ITALY;
OLOMOUC, CZECH REPUBLIC; COPENHAGEN, DENMARK

Arts and culture

1 BERLIN WALL MEMORIAL, GERMANY

Page 364

An open-air exhibition of the Wall's most impressive remaining sections.

2 AYA SOFYA, TURKEY

Page 1146

Christianity and Islam meet in one magnificent Istanbul building.

3 BALLET, RUSSIA

Pages 929 & 937

Watch world-class performances at the Bolshoi or Mariinskiy theatres.

4 SISTINE CHAPEL, ITALY

Page 615

Michelangelo's jaw-dropping High Renaissance ceiling still inspires awe.

5 THE PARTHENON, GREECE

Page 503

The iconic image of Western civilization and template for buildings the world over.

6 SAGRADA FAMÍLIA, SPAIN

Page 1059

Gaudí's masterpieces are inseparable from the Barcelona experience.

7 TATE LIVERPOOL, UK

Page 462

Contemporary art displayed inside a beautifully converted warehouse.

Festivals

1 ST PATRICK'S DAY, IRELAND

Page 575

Dublin is the epicentre of March 17 shamrock-strewn, Guinness-fuelled fun.

2 SZIGET FESTIVAL, HUNGARY

Page 557

A week-long music and culture fest on Óbuda island, Budapest, which draws half a million revellers.

3 ROSKILDE, DENMARK

Page 226

Glastonbury's Scandinavian rival, with a mass naked run thrown in for good measure.

4 GENTSE FEESTEN, GHENT

Page 105

A two-week canal party so bacchanalian the entire city takes two weeks off work afterwards to recover.

5 FIESTAS DE SAN FERMÍN, SPAIN

Page 1071

Witness the hair-raising running of the bulls in Pamplona.

6 GLASTONBURY, GREAT BRITAIN

Page 447

You might end up caked in mud, but this legendary music festival is worth it.

7 EXIT FESTIVAL, SERBIA

Page 952

A beautiful fortress setting and top-name acts – what's not to like?

5

Eat like a local

1 FOOD MARKETS, GREAT BRITAIN

Page 429

Local, seasonal produce and a fantastic range of global influences.

2 CURRYWURST, GERMANY

Page 367

After a few steins, nothing else quite hits the spot like this curried street snack, a Berlin speciality.

3 SIMIT, TURKEY

Page 1143

Try one of these fresh bread rings with a little glass of sweet Turkish tea.

4 SMØRREBRØD, DENMARK

Page 211

Open sandwich as art form – and surprisingly filling.

5 PIZZA, ITALY

Page 607

Forget stuffed crust, the Neapolitan pizza is a thing of simple, unadorned beauty.

6 SNAILS, MOROCCO

Page 770

Tease out the flavoursome flesh with a toothpick, then slurp up the broth.

7 TAPAS, SPAIN

Page 1000

Small portions, big flavours – Spain's greatest gift to the world's taste buds.

6

7

The great outdoors

1 WINTER WONDERLAND

Pages 344 & 805

From Chamonix snowboarding to cross-country skiing in Norway.

2 THE NORTHERN LIGHTS

Pages 827 & 1110

Watch Mother Nature's greatest show in Tromsø or Swedish Lapland.

3 GET YOUR BOOTS ON

Pages 349 & 57

Tackle the GR20 in Corsica or go trekking in Valbona, Albania.

4 TAKE TO THE WATER

Pages 864 & 993

Try your hand at surfing in Portugal or rafting on the Soča, Slovenia.

5 GIDDY UP

Pages 109 & 573

Belgium's Ardennes region and Ireland's Connemara coast are perfect horseriding territory.

6 UNDER CANVAS

Page 37

Camping can help make Europe affordable – and even more beautiful.

7 TWO WHEELS

Pages 219, 1070 & 249

From freewheeling in Copenhagen and exploring Pamplona's medieval street maze, to wheeled marathons in Estonia's national parks.

Itineraries

You can't expect to fit everything Europe has to offer into one trip and we don't suggest you try. On the following pages is a selection of itineraries that guide you through the different regions of the continent, taking you from the misty Scottish Highlands to the souks of Morocco. Each of these itineraries could be done in two to three weeks if followed to the letter, but don't push it too hard – with so much to see and do you're bound to get waylaid somewhere you love or stray off the suggested route.

GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

Home to four proud nations, these two small islands pack in a huge amount – from stately homes and weather-beaten moors to theatre, Premier League football and Europe's best music festivals. Don't forget your brolly, drinking hat and sense of humour.

① London As the saying goes, when a man is tired of London, he is tired of life. One of the world's greatest cities is also one of the most expensive, but follow our tips to emerge with your wallet intact. See p.421

② Oxford The famous university town offers the chance to punt along the river, admire the college architecture or down a few pints in a medieval pub. See p.450

③ Snowdonia Despite the notoriously unpredictable weather, the Welsh mountains provide excellent hiking and some of Britain's best hostels. See p.477

④ York From a Viking museum and medieval streets to the soaring Gothic Minster, if you want to soak up some British history, York is the place to do it. See p.467

⑤ Edinburgh With its stunning cityscape, lively bars and – if you time it right – international festival, the Scottish capital has something for everyone. See p.479

⑥ The Highlands Find your inner Braveheart, knock back some whisky and hike, climb or ski surrounded by Britain's most stunning scenery. See p.491

⑦ Belfast A fascinating if troubled history, friendly locals and access point to one of Europe's natural wonders, the Giant's Causeway. See p.596

⑧ Dublin Yep, Guinness really does taste better here, though there's a lot more to see and do in Ireland's sophisticated capital. See p.575

⑨ Wild Atlantic Way Explore the rugged cliffs, ancient monuments, windswept beaches, hidden villages and lively towns along Ireland's west coast. See p.588

FRANCE AND SWITZERLAND

Still the world's number one tourist destination, France can smugly claim to have it all, from mountains and sun-kissed beaches to unrivalled food and fashion. Pricey it may be, but nearby Switzerland is worth the expense for its attractive, appealingly relaxed cities and the jaw-dropping mountain views.

① Paris Laze over a coffee in a Left Bank café, arrange a romantic rendezvous or tick off the many museums in Europe's most elegant capital. See p.281

② The Loire Valley Some of the most impressive châteaux you'll see in the country grace this bucolic valley, which is also prime vineyard territory. See p.299

③ Bordeaux An elegant, bustling city and world-famous wine-growing region, with some of Europe's top surf beaches just a short drive away. See p.309

④ The Pyrenees Clear your head after all that wine with the fresh air and fine walks of this mountain range bordering Spain. See p.316

⑤ The Côte d'Azur Nice, Cannes, Monaco – the names alone ooze glamour. Time to dress up and hit one of this chichi region's famed casinos. See p.323

⑥ Corsica France's adventure playground, Corsica is home to one of Europe's toughest and most rewarding treks, the GR20. See p.345

⑦ Lyon The country's gastronomic capital – eat at Daniel et Denise, a classic bouchon, to see how good traditional French cooking can be. See p.339

⑧ The Alps Try your luck scaling Europe's highest mountains, or spend a season as a ski instructor or chalet monkey. See p.343 & p.344

⑨ Zürich Laidback Zürich is still one of Europe's clubbing hotspots and has a wonderful riverside setting. See p.1128

BENELUX, GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

From fine chocolates and champion beers to fairytale castles, forests and clinking cowbells, this region has something for just about everyone. The cities can pass in a blur of late nights, but make time for the scenery too.

① Amsterdam Whatever you're looking for – cannabis, clubs, high culture or cuisine – the Netherlands' capital can provide it. See p.779

② Bruges It may be brazenly touristy but this gem of Flemish architecture is still worth a visit for its atmospheric canals and beautiful buildings. See p.106

③ Cologne Linked to Brussels and beyond by super-fast trains, Cologne makes a perfect first stop in Germany with its spectacular cathedral and lively festivals. See p.386

④ Hamburg Germany's northern gateway boasts a vast port, magnificent red-brick warehouses and a riotous bar and live music scene. See p.379

⑤ Berlin Some thirty years since the fall of the Wall, Berlin still has a raw, youthful energy that belies its history of division and destruction. See p.358

⑥ Dresden Bombed to bits in World War II, Dresden is the classic phoenix-from-the-ashes story and now one of Europe's favourite backpacker hangouts. See p.370

⑦ Munich From beer-fuelled thigh-slapping to modern art and mountain scenery, you'll find it all in Bavaria's capital. See p.405

⑧ Salzburg Hit the Mozart trail, pose Julie Andrews-style in homage to The Sound of Music or pull on some skis and head for the mountains. See p.77

⑨ Vienna Austria's capital is chock-full of palaces, museums and boulevards – with coffee and cake in a grand café never too far away. See p.65

SPAIN, PORTUGAL AND MOROCCO

Penélope Cruz, Cristiano Ronaldo, tapas, port and Rioja – it's hard not to warm to the Iberian peninsula. To the south, Morocco is just a short hop across the sea but seems a different planet in many respects.

① Bilbao Capital of the Basque country, Bilbao is Spain's friendliest city and home to one of Europe's most spectacular buildings: the Guggenheim. See p.1074

② Barcelona Innovative architecture, city beaches, late-night bars and an enchanting old town – you'll find it hard to leave the Catalan capital. See p.1053

③ Ibiza Amnesia, Pacha, Ushuaia – its nightclubs are famous the world over, but even on Europe's party island there are pockets of idyllic peace and quiet. See p.1048

④ Madrid Take your cue from the locals in the Spanish capital – if you're dining before 10pm, dancing before midnight and asleep before dawn, you haven't experienced a truly Madrileño night out. See p.1003

⑤ Porto Wander the winding cobbled streets of Portugal's second city – and sample a drop at one (or more) of the countless port lodges. See p.881

⑥ Lisbon Portugal's immediately likeable capital has a great setting, delicious food and a huge amount of historic interest. See p.865

⑦ Andalucía Spain in a nutshell – flamenco, fine wines, bullfighting and heat. If you're pushed for time, stick to the unmissable cities of Seville and Granada. See p.1023

⑧ Fez Once across the Strait of Gibraltar from Tarifa or Algeciras, dive head first into Morocco with a stay in this medieval labyrinth of alleys, souks and mosques. See p.755

⑨ Marrakesh Stunning, atmospheric city with the Atlas Mountains as a backdrop and the live circus that is the Jemaa el Fna square at its heart. See p.768

ITALY

If there's one country that deserves its own itinerary, it's Italy. Almost everyone who visits falls in love, whether with the designer-clad locals, the incomparable cuisine or the world's finest collection of art.

① Milan Prada, Gucci, Dolce & Gabbana... Milan is prime window-shopping territory, while the city's cathedral and da Vinci's The Last Supper are priceless experiences. See p.622

② Venice Despite seemingly sinking under the weight of its tourists, the most beautiful city in the world is frankly unmissable – and with some careful planning still possible to do on a budget. See p.633

③ Bologna Capital of the foodie nirvana Emilia-Romagna (think Parma ham, Parmesan, balsamic vinegar), Bologna is a must-do for anyone with a digestive system. See p.640

4 Tuscany Birthplace of the Renaissance, Florence rightly pulls in the masses; nearby Siena is just as beautiful, full of fun-loving students and an excellent base to explore the region's hill towns. See p.644 & p.651

5 Rome You can hardly "do" Europe and not "do" Rome. Whether you're stuck queuing for St Peter's, the Sistine Chapel or the Colosseum, you can at least rest assured that you're about to be wowed. See p.610

6 Naples The home of pizza – and the best place to eat it – Naples is also a frenetic, crumblingly attractive city with an intriguing dark side. See p.659

7 Pompeii From the ancient graffiti to plaster body casts, seeing a Roman town frozen in time is an experience you won't forget. See p.664

8 Matera Try sleeping in a cave in this hand-carved stone city – the perfect introduction to Italy's captivating far south. See p.668

9 Sicily Beaches, volcanoes and, in Palermo, one of Italy's most in-your-face cities – Sicilians simply do it better. See p.670

CENTRAL AND EASTERN EUROPE

Having long shrugged off the Iron Curtain, the region we used to regard as bleak and distant is now firmly at the beating heart of the continent. With elegant cities and vast tracts of unspoiled countryside, these countries provide a remarkable set of riches.

1 Prague The Czech capital would probably win a pan-European beauty contest for its architecture. As for the beer...well, let's just say you won't be disappointed. See p.188

2 Warsaw Beyond the Polish capital's immaculately reconstructed Old Town there are beautiful palaces and parks, not to mention restaurant, club and vodka-soaked bar scenes to explore. See p.837

3 Kraków Arty and atmospheric, picture-postcard-pretty Kraków should not be missed, though neither should a sobering trip to nearby Auschwitz. See p.848

4 L'viv This Central European gem has good backpacker hostels and a café-jammed, charming Old Town. See p.1189

5 Tatra Mountains Stretching between Poland and Slovakia, the Tatras are that rare thing – majestic wilderness without hordes of Gore-Tex-clad tourists. See p.854 & p.970

6 Budapest Two cities for the price of one: stately, museum-packed Buda and, across the not-so-blue Danube, nightlife and restaurant hotspot Pest. See p.551

7 Ljubljana Repeat after me: "Lyoo-bly-AH-nah". The Slovenian capital is a small, perfectly formed pit stop between central Europe and the Adriatic. See p.982

SCANDINAVIA

While it can hit your finances, Scandinavia is worth stretching the budget for. Apart from resembling Europe's answer to Middle Earth, it's also full of stylish cities, ingenious design and friendly locals.

1 Copenhagen Picturesque and user-friendly, the Danish capital is a lively, welcoming introduction to the region. See p.213

2 Gothenburg Sweden's second city boasts elegant architecture, fantastic nightlife and a fully functioning rainforest among its standout attractions. See p.1098

3 Oslo Paying €8 for a beer can put people off the Norwegian capital, but if you can get over the prices, you'll understand why it frequently tops "best places to live" lists. See p.807

4 The fjords No trip to Norway would be complete without a visit to the country's magnificent fjords. See p.816

5 Lofoten Islands A mild climate, wild scenery and cute, laidback fishing villages pull in the crowds to this remote archipelago in Norway's far north. See p.825

6 Lapland Synonymous with Santa, Lapland (whether Swedish or Finnish) fits the winter fantasy perfectly with reindeer, yapping huskies and the staggering Northern Lights. See p.272 & p.1110

7 Stockholm Scandinavia's best-looking capital offers up an unspoilt medieval core, über-hip nightlife and, incongruously enough, some fine beaches. See p.1089

8 Gotland Sweden's party island buzzes in summer when DJs hit the decks in Visby and the beaches fill with bronzed bodies. See p.1106

RUSSIA AND THE BALTIC COAST

Big scary bear it may be, but ever-changing Russia should not be missed, even if it's just to dip into its most "European" city, St Petersburg. Russia's compact Baltic neighbours, meanwhile, provide some of the most beautiful – and most fun – cityscapes in Eastern Europe.

1 Moscow Big, brash, expensive, surreal and exciting, twenty-first-century Moscow is almost a nation in itself and well worth the effort to get to. See p.922

2 St Petersburg With jaw-dropping architecture and priceless art collections, Russia's second city is at its best during the midsummer White Nights festival. See p.930

3 Helsinki The love child of the Russian and Swedish empires, yet brought up to be proudly Finnish, Helsinki is a fascinatingly schizophrenic capital. See p.261

4 Tallinn Having survived its tenure as a cheap stag- and hen-party hub, the beautifully preserved Estonian capital still retains a huge amount of charm. See p.241

5 Riga Larger and more cosmopolitan than its neighbours, Latvia's atmospheric capital is full of architectural treasures and is the gateway to some wonderful coastal scenery. See p.686

6 Curonian Spit This narrow strip of lofty sand dunes and dense pine forest is perfect cycling and hiking territory. See p.713

7 Vilnius The friendliest and perhaps prettiest of the Baltic capitals, Vilnius's largely undiscovered status means you can enjoy a break from the crowds. See p.702

THE BALKANS

A fascinating cultural meeting point, the Balkans today are exciting, safe and mercifully cheap. While Croatia and Bulgaria have been on the scene for a while, a trip to Bosnia-Herzegovina, Macedonia or Albania still scores high in the intrepid stakes.

1 Dalmatian coast Croatia's dramatic Dalmatian coast and islands are the perfect place to drop out for the summer, with unlimited watersports, cheap wine and vitamin D on offer. See p.167

2 Sarajevo War-scarred it may be, but this mini-Istanbul might just be Europe's most welcoming capital – you're unlikely to leave without making a friend or two. See p.118

3 Dubrovnik Rivalling Venice in its day, the "pearl of the Adriatic" has survived centuries of conquest and intrigue, not to mention being on an easyJet flight route. See p.178

4 Budva Montenegro's star resort boasts the requisite pretty Old Town, but it's the unspoilt beaches and throbbing open-air bars that pull in the party set. See p.734

5 Berat Whitewashed Ottoman houses huddle against the hillside in this gorgeous Albanian town, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. See p.57

6 Ohrid Impossibly picturesque, set on the shimmering shores of the eponymous mountain-backed lake, Ohrid is the jewel in Macedonia's crown. See p.725

7 Plovdiv Pay a visit to Bulgaria's buzzing second city to understand why the locals look down on Sofia, the country's capital. See p.142

8 Belgrade Hectic and hedonistic, the Serbian capital is fast attracting the hip crowd thanks to its adrenaline-charged nightlife. See p.944

9 Transylvania No, you probably won't see any vampires, but this history-steeped region holds myriad other attractions, from fairytale villages and colourful festivals to wolf tracking in the spectacular Carpathians. See p.907

GREECE AND TURKEY

Whether you're interested in classical antiquity and the founding of Western civilization or just sparkling blue seas and sandy beaches, Greece and Turkey are essential destinations.

1 Kefalloniá Beautiful Kefalloniá is the best place to hop on a moped and discover that perfect beach. See p.539

2 Athens Crowded, noisy and polluted the Greek capital may be, but once you've seen the sun set over the Parthenon you'll be hooked. See p.502

3 Íos A favourite among hard-partying backpackers, Íos retains a bohemian, hippie-era charm and is the best stop on the Cyclades island-hopping trail. See p.530

4 Crete Home to the Minotaur and a fair few trashy resorts, Crete also boasts the dramatic Samarian Gorge, Europe's answer to the Grand Canyon. See p.540

5 Ephesus Turkey's best-preserved archaeological site is a treasure-trove of ruined temples, mosaics, baths and some spectacular public conveniences. See p.1162

6 Kaş Fill your days mountain biking, paragliding or diving, then relive it all in some of the Med's liveliest bars. See p.1167

7 Cappadocia It's a long trip east but Cappadocia's unique volcanic landscape has an irresistible allure – stay in a cave hotel and visit a subterranean city. See p.1173

8 Istanbul Squeeze every kuruş out of your Turkish lira shopping in the bazaars, having a rub down in a hammam and enjoying the surprisingly hectic nightlife. See p.1146

BERLIN

Basics

- 29 Getting there
- 31 Getting around
- 36 Accommodation
- 37 Festivals and annual events
- 38 Work and study
- 40 Travel essentials

Getting there

Europe can be easily reached by air from just about anywhere in the world, with flights to all major European cities. It's also possible to arrive by ferry from across the Mediterranean or Black Sea, or on the Trans-Siberian railway from East Asia.

Air fares will always depend on the season; they're usually highest in the summer and over the Christmas period, as well as over public holidays. Note also that flying at weekends or requiring a nonstop journey sometimes adds quite a bit to the round-trip fare. Barring special offers, the cheapest published fares usually require advance purchase of two to three weeks, and impose certain restrictions, such as heavy penalties if you change your schedule. Most cheap fares will only give a partial refund, if any, should you cancel or alter your journey, so check the restrictions carefully before buying. You can often cut costs by going through a youth or student travel specialist (see "Agents"; p.31), which may offer low-cost or special youth or student fares, as well as travel-related services such as travel insurance, rail passes and tours.

If Europe is only one stop on a longer journey, and especially if you are based in Australia or New Zealand, you might consider a Round-the-World (RTW) air ticket. Prices increase with the number of stops – figure on around £1550–2500/US$2000–3300/Aus$2660–3850/NZ$2820–4660 for a RTW ticket including one or two European stopovers.

From Britain and Ireland

Heading from Britain and Ireland to destinations in northwestern Europe, it's not just greener to go by train, long-distance bus or ferry – it can be quicker and cheaper too. However, it's normally cheaper to fly than take the train to most parts of southern Europe.

By plane

London is predictably Britain's main hub for air travel, offering the highest frequency of flights and widest choice of destinations from its five airports (Heathrow, Gatwick, Stansted, Luton and City). Manchester also has flights to most parts of Europe, and there are regular services to the Continent from Birmingham, Southampton, Bournemouth, East Midlands, Bristol, Cardiff, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Leeds/Bradford, Liverpool and Newcastle. From the Republic of Ireland, you can fly direct to most major cities in mainland Europe from Dublin, Shannon and Cork. From Belfast, there are direct flights with easyJet to a handful of destinations; otherwise, you'll need to change in London or Manchester.

Budget airlines such as easyJet and Ryanair offer low-cost tickets to destinations around Europe (though not always the most convenient airports), though post-Brexit, prices may well go up as no-frills airlines have to negotiate their services in and out of the UK. There are also agents specializing in offers to a specific country or country group on both charters and regular scheduled departures.

EUROPEAN BUDGET AIRLINES

At the time of writing there were 39 budget airlines serving countries in or near Europe. We've listed the more established operators below, but for full details of routes visit flycheapo.com, while skyscanner.net is an invaluable price comparison resource.

Air Berlin airberlin.com

Blue Air blueairweb.com

Darwin etihadregional.com

easyJet easyjet.com

Flybe flybe.com

Fly Niki flyniki.com

Eurowings eurowings.com

Jet2 jet2.com

Norwegian Air Shuttle norwegian.no

Ryanair ryanair.com

Smart Wings smartwings.com

Transavia transavia.com

TUIfly tuiify.com

Vueling vueling.com

Wizz Air wizzair.com

A BETTER KIND OF TRAVEL

At Rough Guides we are passionately committed to travel. We believe it helps us understand the world we live in and the people we share it with – and of course tourism is vital to many developing economies. But the scale of modern tourism has also damaged some places irreparably, and climate change is accelerated by most forms of transport, especially flying. All Rough Guides' flights are carbon-offset, and every year we donate money to a variety of environmental charities.

By train

Direct trains through the Channel Tunnel from London to Paris (17 daily; 2hr 30min) and Brussels (10 daily; 2hr) are run by Eurostar. Tickets to Paris for under-26s start at £27 one-way, £55 return. For over-26s, the cheapest and least flexible tickets cost £29 one-way or £58 return; the further in advance you book, the cheaper the deals. Through-ticket combinations with onward connections from Lille, Brussels and Paris can be booked through International Rail and Rail Europe (see p.35).

Other rail journeys from Britain involve a sea crossing by ferry or, sometimes, catamaran. Tickets can be bought from International Rail, and from most major rail stations or from Dutchflyer (stena.line.co.uk/ferry/rail-and-sail/holland) if routed via the Hook of Holland. For some destinations, there are cheaper SuperApex fares requiring advance booking and subject to greater restrictions. Otherwise, international tickets are valid for two months and allow for stopovers on the way, providing you stick to the prescribed route (there may be a choice, with different fares applicable). One-way fares are generally around two-thirds the price of a return fare. If you're under 26 you're entitled to special deals.

From Ireland, direct rail tickets to Europe via Britain generally include both boat connections, and are available from Irish Railways offices in the Republic (1850 366 222, irishrail.ie), or Northern Ireland Railways in the North (028 9066 6630, translink.co.uk).

For rail passes, contacts and other types of discounted rail travel, see p.34.

By bus

A long-distance bus is often the cheapest option, although much less comfortable than the train. The main operator is Eurolines (eurolines.co.uk, eurolines.ie), with a network of routes spanning the Continent. Prices can be up to a third cheaper than by train, and there are marginally lower fares on most services for those under 26. There's usually a discount if you buy your ticket in advance, and bigger discounts for journeys booked a week in advance. Connecting services from elsewhere in Great Britain add £15 each way to the price of the ticket from London. Eurolines sell fifteen- and thirty-day passes; alternatively, consider one of the various passes offered by Busabout for their services around Europe (see p.35).

By ferry

There are numerous ferry services between Britain and Ireland, and between the British Isles and the European mainland. Ferries from the southeast of Ireland and the south coast of England connect with northern France and Spain; those from Kent in southeast England reach northern France and Belgium; those from Scotland and the east coast and northeast of England cross the North Sea to Belgium, the Netherlands, Germany and Scandinavia.

FERRY OPERATORS

Brittany Ferries UK 0330 159 7000, brittany-ferries.co.uk;

Ireland 021 427 7801, brittanyferries.ie. Cork to Roscoff (April–Nov); Portsmouth to Caen, Cherbourg, Le Havre, St Malo, Bilbao and Santander; Poole to Cherbourg; Plymouth to Roscoff, St Malo and Santander.

Condor Ferries UK 01202 207216, condorferries.co.uk.

Portsmouth to Cherbourg; Portsmouth, Poole and Weymouth to St Malo via Jersey and Guernsey.

DFDS Seaways UK 0871 522 9955, dfdsseaways.co.uk.

Newcastle to Amsterdam; Dover to Calais and Dunkerque; Newhaven to Dieppe.

Irish Ferries UK 0871 730 0400, Ireland 0818 300 400; irishferries.com. Dublin to Holyhead and Cherbourg; Rosslare to Pembroke, Cherbourg (March–Dec) and Roscoff (May–Sept).

P&O Ferries UK 0800 130 0030, Ireland 01 868 9467;

poferries.com. Hull to Zeebrugge and Rotterdam; Dover to Calais; Larnie to Cairnryan; Dublin to Liverpool.

Stena Line UK 0844 770 7070, stenaline.co.uk; Ireland

01 907 5555, stenaline.ie. Harwich to Hook of Holland; Rosslare to Fishguard; Dublin to Holyhead; Belfast to Cairnryan and Liverpool.

From the US

From the US the best deals are generally from the main hubs such as New York, Washington DC and Chicago to London. Fixed-date, nonstop advance-purchase tickets for midweek travel to London cost around US$420 in low season (roughly speaking, winter), US$710 in high season (summer, Christmas and Easter) from New York and Washington DC, US$775/890 from Chicago. For more flexible tickets, add at least a third to the price. Fixed-date advance-purchase alternatives include New York to Paris for US$645/815, US$650/800 to Frankfurt, US$730/830 to Madrid, or US$915/1115 to Rome; flying from Chicago, discounted tickets can be had for US$915/1380 to Paris and US$975/1140 to Frankfurt. There are promotional offers from time to time, especially off-peak, so check with individual airlines, or compare all available flights on www.skyscanner.net and look at the whole month option to see which days are cheapest; allowing at least one stop can significantly reduce the price of a ticket.

From the west coast the major airlines fly at least three times a week and up to twice daily from Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle to the main European cities. With fixed-price tickets, you can get from Los Angeles to London for US$770/815 (low/high season), to Paris for US$940/1245 and to Frankfurt for US$1000/1140.

From Canada

Most of the big airlines fly to the major European hubs from Montreal and Toronto at least once daily. From Toronto, London is your cheapest option, with the lowest direct round-trip fare around Can$470/700. Fares from Montreal to Paris start at Can$475/1000. Vancouver and Calgary have daily flights to several European cities, with round-trip fares to London from around Can$630/1280, depending on the season.

From Australia and New Zealand

There are flights from Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide, Brisbane and Perth to most European capitals, with not a great deal of difference in the fares to the busiest destinations: a return from Sydney to London, Paris, Rome, Madrid, Athens or Frankfurt should be available through travel agents for around Aus$980 in low season (Australia's summer, Europe's winter) and slightly higher in high season (though you can sometimes get great deals). A one-way ticket costs slightly more than half that, while a return flight from Auckland to Europe is approximately NZ$1175 in low season and from around NZ$1735 in high season. Asian airlines often work out cheapest, and may throw in a stopover.

Some agents offer "open jaw" tickets, flying you into one city and out from another, which needn't even be in the same country. For round-the-world deals and other low-price tickets, the most reliable operator is STA Travel (see below), which also supplies packages with companies such as Contiki and Busabout, can issue rail passes, and advise on visa regulations – they'll also do all the paperwork for a fee.

From South Africa

Many major airlines fly from Johannesburg and Cape Town to a number of European hubs. Flights from Johannesburg cost about ZAR11,000/10,700 to London, ZAR9150/11,720 to Frankfurt in low season/high season, around ZAR11,620/10,370 to Paris, and slightly more from Cape Town. Many of the cheapest deals involve flying via the Middle East with companies such as Turkish Airlines or Emirates.

AGENTS

North South Travel UK ☎ 01245 608 291, 🌐 nouthsouthtravel.co.uk. Friendly, competitive travel agency, offering discounted fares worldwide. Profits are used to support projects in the developing world, especially the promotion of sustainable tourism.

STA Travel UK ☎ 0333 321 0099, 🌐 statravel.co.uk; US ☎ 1 800 781 4040, 🌐 statravel.com; Australia ☎ 134 782, 🌐 statravel.com.au; New Zealand ☎ 0800 474400, 🌐 statravel.co.nz; South Africa ☎ 0861 781 781, 🌐 statravel.co.za. Independent and student travel, air tickets, student IDs, travel insurance, car rental and rail passes.

Trailfinders England & Wales ☎ 020 7368 1200, 🌐 trailfinders.com; Scotland ☎ 0131 243 2800, 🌐 trailfinders.scot; Ireland ☎ 01 677 7888, 🌐 trailfinders.ie. One of the best-informed and most efficient agents for independent travellers.

Travel CUTS ☎ 1 800 667 2887, 🌐 travelcuts.com. Canadian youth and student travel firm.

USIT Ireland (Republic) ☎ 01 602 1906, USA ☎ 1 866 647 3697, Australia ☎ 1800 092 499; 🌐 usit.ie. Ireland's main student and youth travel specialists.

Getting around

It's easy to travel in Europe, and a number of special deals and passes can make it fairly economical too, especially for students and those under 26. Air links are extensive and, thanks to the growing number of budget airlines, flying is often cheaper than taking the train, but you'll appreciate the diversity of Europe best at ground level, by way of its enormous and generally efficient web of rail, road and ferry connections.

By train

Trains are generally the best way to tour Europe. The rail network in most countries is comprehensive and the region boasts some of the world's most scenic rail journeys. Costs are relatively low, too – apart from Britain, where prices can be absurdly steep – as trains are heavily subsidized, and prices are brought down further by passes and discount cards. We've covered the various passes here, as well as the most important international routes and most useful addresses; frequencies and journey times are given throughout the Guide.

During the summer, especially if you're travelling at night or a long distance, it's best to make reservations whenever you can; on some trains (TGV services, for example) it's compulsory. See our "Extra rail charges" box for more on supplements.

For timetables, www.bahn.de is the best online resource, with comprehensive domestic and international rail listings across Europe, while www.seat61.com is another excellent source of information.

Finally, whenever you board an international train in Europe, check the route of the car you are in, since trains frequently split, with different carriages going to different destinations.

Europe-wide rail passes

InterRail

InterRail passes have long been synonymous with young European backpackers travelling across the Continent on the cheap. There are two types of pass available: the Global Pass and One Country Pass. Both can be bought direct from www.interrail.com and from main stations and international rail agents in all thirty countries covered by the scheme. To qualify, you need to have been resident in one of the participating countries for six months or more. The only countries in this book not covered by the scheme are Albania, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Morocco and Russia.

InterRail Global Pass The daddy of all rail passes, offering access to almost the entire European rail network. You can choose between five different time periods – continuous blocks of 15 or 22 days or one month – or set amounts of travel – either five days within ten days or ten days within 22 days. Youth (under-26) passes valid for second-class travel start from €264/£221 for five days up to €626/£525 for a month's continuous travel. Note that you cannot use the pass in the country in which you bought it, although discounts of up to fifty percent are usually available.

InterRail One Country Pass Same principle as the Global Pass but valid for just one country (or the Benelux zone of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg). Time periods and prices vary depending on the country. A three-day second-class youth pass will set you back €57/£48 in Bulgaria, €131/£110 in Spain and €154/£129 in France.

EXTRA RAIL CHARGES

Note that even if you've bought an InterRail or Eurail pass, you will still need to pay extra charges or supplements to travel on many high-speed trains (such as Eurostar, TGV and AVE), night trains and those on special scenic routes. Even where there is in theory no supplement, there's often a compulsory reservation fee, which may cost you double if you only find out about it once you're on the train. For details of charges check the InterRail website under "special trains" or "supplements". You can often avoid these charges if you plan your journey within domestic networks.

Eurail

Non-European residents aren't eligible for InterRail passes, but can buy a range of Eurail passes (www.eurailgroup.org/eurail) giving unlimited travel in 27 European countries. The different types of pass – Global Pass, Select Pass and One Country Pass – all need to be bought outside Europe. Apart from some One Country passes, all are available at discounted youth (25 or younger) rates for second-class travel and saver rates for adults travelling in groups.

Eurail Global Pass A single pass valid for travel in 28 countries:

Austria, Belgium, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Montenegro, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey. There are seven different time periods available, from five days' travel within a month, up to three months' continuous travel. Prices start at €358/US$394 for a youth pass valid for five days.

Eurail Select Pass Allows you to select two, three or four bordering countries out of the countries above; the Benelux zone of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg counts as one country. Prices start at €130/US$143 for a two-country youth pass valid for five days' travel within two months. Prices depend on the country combination; for example, a Hungary–Romania youth pass valid for five days' travel in two months will cost you €130/US$143, whereas the same period for France–Italy costs €218/US$239.

Eurail One Country Pass Offers travel within one of the following countries or zones: Austria, Benelux, Bulgaria, Croatia, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Greek Islands, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Scandinavia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain and Sweden. Prices vary depending on the size of the country/zone: for example, a youth pass in Scandinavia valid for three days' travel costs €175/US$192 and covers four countries; the same time period costs €151/US$166 in Spain.

Regional rail passes

In addition to the InterRail and Eurail schemes there are a few regional rail passes which can be good value if you're doing a lot of travelling within one area; we've listed some of the main ones below. National rail passes (apart from InterRail and Eurail) are covered in the relevant chapter of the Guide.

Balkan Flexipass www.raileurope.com. Offers unlimited first- and second-class travel through Bulgaria, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Greece, Macedonia, Serbia, Montenegro, Romania and Turkey. Prices start at US$163 (youth US$97) for five days' travel in one month.

Brit Rail Pass www.britrail.com. A variety of passes available for travel in Britain, including country passes for England and Scotland. Prices start from US$325 (youth US$260) for a flexipass covering three days' standard-class travel within one month.

European East Pass www.raileurope.com. Gives five days' travel in a month in Austria, the Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland and Slovakia for US$276, plus up to five additional days at US$30 each.

RAIL CONTACTS

UK

eTrains4u 📞 020 7619 1083, 🌐 etrains4u.com. Independent specialists for Continental rail travel.

Eurostar 📞 03432 186186, outside the UK 📞 +44 1233 617 575, 🌐 eurostar.com. UK to Europe via the Channel Tunnel.

International Rail 📞 0871 231 0790, 🌐 internationalrail.com. Global rail specialist.

InterRail 🌐 interrail.eu. Main website for buying InterRail passes.

The Man in Seat 61 🌐 seat61.com. Comprehensive informational site set up by a rail enthusiast.

Voyages-sncf.com 📞 0844 848 5848, 🌐 uk.voyages-sncf.com. British representative of SNCF French railways, sells rail tickets Europe-wide.

STA Travel 📞 0333 321 0099, 🌐 statravel.co.uk.

US AND CANADA

ACP Rail International 📞 1 866 938 7245, 🌐 acprail.com. Eurail agent.

BritRail Travel 📞 1 866 938 7245, 🌐 britrail.com. British passes. Eurail 🌐 eurail.com.

Rail Europe US 📞 1 800 622 8600, Canada 📞 1 800 361 7245; 🌐 raileurope.com. Official Eurail agent, with wide range of regional and one-country passes.

STA Travel US 📞 1 800 781 4040, 🌐 statravel.com.

AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND

CIT Holidays Australia 📞 1300 380 992, 🌐 cit.com.au. Eurail and Italian rail passes.

Rail Europe Australia 🌐 raileurope-world.com.au, New Zealand 🌐 raileurope.co.nz.

Rail Plus Australia 📞 1300 555 003, 🌐 railplus.com.au; NZ 📞 09 377 5415, 🌐 railplus.co.nz. Eurail and BritRail passes.

STA Travel Australia 📞 134 782, 🌐 statravel.com.au; New Zealand 📞 0800 474400, 🌐 statravel.co.nz.

SOUTH AFRICA

Rail Europe 📞 011 628 2319, 🌐 raileurope.co.za. Official distributor for European rail in South Africa.

STA Travel South Africa 📞 0861 781 781, 🌐 statravel.co.za.

By bus

Long-distance journeys by bus between major European cities are generally slower and less comfortable than by train and – if you have a rail pass – not necessarily cheaper. If you're only travelling to a few places, however, a bus pass or circular bus ticket can undercut a rail pass, especially for over-26s. There's also the option of a bus tour if you're on a tight schedule or simply want everything planned for you.

Eurolines 🌐 eurolines-pass.com. Offers the Eurolines pass, valid for travel between 51 cities in twenty countries. It costs £227/€270 (£269/€320 for over-26s) for fifteen days in high season (late June to mid-Sept as well as Christmas/New Year) and £294/€350 (£357/€425) for 30 days. Prices are around a third lower in low season.

Busabout 🌐 busabout.com. Runs a hop-on, hop-off service throughout Western Europe operating May–Oct. There are four “loops” as well as a Flexitrip Pass where you design your own route. Prices start from £655/€758 for a one-loop pass or £417/€496 for a two-week Flexitrip Pass. You can also buy one-way passes for example, starting in Rome and heading to Paris via Spain.

Contiki 🌐 contiki.com. Long-established operator running bus tours throughout Europe for 18- to 35-year-olds from three to 46 days. A thirteen-day “European Discovery” tour taking in the Netherlands, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and France starts at £1284/€1528 including hotel accommodation and meals.

By car

Driving can be an inexpensive way of getting around Europe, particularly if you're travelling with several other people and splitting the costs. Even renting a car can work out as cheap as either bussing or taking the train, since car rental in many European countries starts from around €25 a day for a compact vehicle. A number of European countries have car-sharing schemes that allow travellers to get a cheap ride by linking up with drivers heading to their desired destination and sharing petrol costs. These include BlaBla Car (🌐 blablacar.co.uk) in the UK, GoMore (🌐 gomore.com) in Denmark and Drivy (🌐 drivy.de) in Germany.

By ferry

Travelling by ferry is sometimes the most practical way to get around, the obvious routes being from the mainland to the Mediterranean islands, and between the countries bordering the Baltic and Adriatic seas. There are countless routes serving a huge range of destinations, too numerous to outline here; we've given the details of the most useful routes within each chapter.

By plane

Most European countries now have at least one budget airline selling low-cost flights online, and invariably undercutting train and bus fares on longer international routes. Apart from its environmental impact, travelling by air means you miss the scenery and “feel” for a country that ground-level transport can provide; there's also the inconvenience of getting between airports and the cities they serve, often quite a haul in itself. But, if you're pressed for time, and especially if you want to get from one end of Europe to another, flying can be the cheapest option. See p.29 for a selective list of budget airlines.

Accommodation

Although accommodation is one of the key costs to consider when planning your trip, it needn't be a stumbling block to a budget-conscious tour of Europe. Indeed, even in Europe's pricier destinations the hostel system means there is always an affordable place to stay. If you're prepared to camp, you can get by on very little while staying at some excellently equipped sites. Come summer, university accommodation (see www.university.com) can be a cheap option in some countries.

The one rule of thumb is that in the most popular cities and resorts – Venice, Amsterdam, Paris, Barcelona, the Algarve and so on – things can get very busy during the peak summer months. Be sure to book in advance.

Hostels

The cheapest places to stay around Europe are the innumerable hostels that cover the Continent. There are plenty of good-quality independent hostels in most major cities, including an increasing number of stylish designer hostels that can easily compete with lower-priced hotels on comfort, style and facilities. Many establishments are members of Hostelling International (HI), which incorporates the national youth hostel associations of every country in the world. Most are clean, well-run places, always offering dormitory accommodation, and often a range of private single and double rooms, or rooms with four to six beds. Many hostels also either have self-catering facilities or provide low-cost meals, and the larger ones have a range of other facilities – a swimming pool and a games room, for example. There is usually no age limit, but where there is limited space priority is sometimes given to those under 26. The best rates are usually available on the hostel website or through booking engines such as Hostelworld

(www.hostelworld.com) or Hostelbookers (www.hostelbookers.com). Strictly speaking, to use a HI hostel you have to have membership, although if there's room you can stay at most hostels by simply paying a bit extra. If you do plan to stay in hostels, however, it's certainly worth joining, which you can do through your home country's hostelling association. HI hostels can usually be booked through their country's hostelling association website, almost always over the counter at other hostels in the same country, and often through the international HI website www.hihostels.com.

Some countries also offer their own discount cards or schemes. In the Netherlands, for example, 27 hostels belong to the StayOkay scheme (www.stayokay.com) and purchasing a €17.50 card entitles travellers to a €2.50 discount a night. Students with ID get discounts in hostels across Germany, while in the Balkans many hostels belong to the Balkan Backpacker scheme (www.thebalkanbackpacker.com), which offers discounts to travellers who stay in more than one of their network of hostels.

YOUTH HOSTEL ASSOCIATIONS

USA ☎ 1 301 495 1240, www.hiusa.org.

Canada ☎ 613 237 7884, www.hihostels.ca.

England and Wales ☎ 0800 019 1700 or ☎ 01629 592 700, www.yha.org.uk.

Scotland ☎ 0845 293 7373, www.syha.org.uk.

Ireland (Republic) ☎ 01 830 4555, www.anoige.ie.

Northern Ireland ☎ 028 9032 4733, www.hini.org.uk.

Australia ☎ 02 9218 9090, www.yha.com.au.

New Zealand ☎ 0800 278 299, www.yha.co.nz.

South Africa www.hihostels.com.

Hotels and pensions

Most hotels in Europe are graded on some kind of star system. One- and two-star hotels are plain and simple on the whole, usually family-run, and rooms often lack private facilities; sometimes breakfast won't be included. In three-star hotels rooms will nearly always be en suite and prices will normally include breakfast. In the really top-level places breakfast isn't always included.

Obviously prices vary greatly, but you'll rarely pay less than €30 for a basic double room even in southern Europe, while between the Netherlands, Scandinavia and the British Isles the average price is around €85. In some countries a pension or B&B (also variously known as a guesthouse, pensão, Gasthaus or numerous other names) is a cheaper alternative, offering just a few rooms of simple

ACCOMMODATION PRICES

All accommodation prices listed are for high season. The prices we list for hotels, guesthouses, B&Bs, pensions and private rooms are for the cheapest double room. For hostels, it is the price of the cheapest dorm bed, and for campsites the cost of a night's stay per person, except where otherwise stated.

COUCHSURFING, AIRBNB AND WIMDU

Couchsurfing (🌐couchsurfing.com) gives travellers the chance to stay with local people free of charge, with hosts verified through references and a vouching system. Airbnb (🌐airbnb.com) and Wimdu (🌐wimdu.com) are other good options for budget short-term stays with rooms, apartments and other (sometimes unusual) lodgings listed by private individuals.

accommodation. In some countries these advertise with a sign in the window; in others they can be booked through the tourist office for a small fee. There are various other kinds of accommodation – apartments, farmhouses, cottages, gîtes in France, and more – but most are geared to longer-term stays and we have detailed them only where relevant.

Camping

The cheapest form of accommodation is a campsite. Most sites charge per person, with additional charges per tent and/or per vehicle. Facilities can be excellent, especially in countries such as France where camping is very popular. If you don't have a vehicle you should add in the cost and inconvenience of getting to the site, since most are on the outskirts of towns. Some sites also have cabins, which you can stay in for a little extra, although these are usually fairly basic affairs, only really worth considering in regions like Scandinavia where budget options are thin on the ground. Tourist offices can often recommend well-equipped and conveniently located sites.

As for camping rough, it's a fine idea if you can get away with it. In some countries it's easy – in parts of Scandinavia it's a legal right, and in Greece and other southern European countries you can usually find a bit of beach to pitch down on – but in others it can get you into trouble with the law.

Camping Card International

If you're planning to do a lot of camping, a Camping Card International (CCI or "carnet"; 🌐campingcardinternational.com), gives discounts on member sites. Check the website for details of all the relevant organizations in various countries that issue the card.

Festivals and annual events

There's always some event or other happening in Europe, and the bigger shindigs can be reason enough for visiting a place. Be warned, though, that if you're intending to visit a place during its annual festival you need to plan well in advance; accommodation can be booked up months beforehand, especially for the most famous events.

Festival calendar

Many of the festivals and annual events you'll come across in Europe have their origin in – and in many cases still represent – religious celebrations, commemorating a local miracle or saint's day. Others are decidedly more secular – from film and music festivals to street carnivals.

JANUARY

Twelfth Night (Jan 6) Rather than Christmas Day, in Spain this is the time for present-giving, while in Orthodox Eastern Europe, Jan 6 is Christmas Day.

La Tamborrada, San Sebastián, Spain (Jan 20) Probably the loudest festival you will encounter as scores of drummers take to the streets of San Sebastián.

FEBRUARY

Berlin Film Festival, Germany (early to mid-Feb) Home of the Golden Bear award, this film bash is geared towards the general public.

Carnival/Mardi Gras (mid-Feb) Celebrated most famously in Venice, but there are smaller events across Europe, notably in Viareggio (Italy), Luzern and Basel (Switzerland), Cologne (Germany), Maastricht (Netherlands) and tiny Binche (Belgium).

MARCH

Las Fallas, Valencia, Spain (March 15–19) The passing of winter is celebrated in explosive fashion with enormous bonfires, burning effigies and plenty of all-night partying.

St Patrick's Day (March 17) Celebrated wherever there's an Irish community, in Dublin it's a five-day festival with music, parades and a lot of drinking.

APRIL

Easter Celebrated with most verve and ceremony in Catholic and Orthodox Europe, where Easter Sunday or Monday is usually marked with some sort of procession; note that the Orthodox Church's Easter can fall a week or two either side of the Western festival.

Feria de Abril, Seville, Spain (mid-April) A week of flamenco music and dancing, parades and bullfights, in a frenzied and enthusiastic atmosphere.

King's Day, Amsterdam, Netherlands (April 27) King Willem-Alexander's birthday is the excuse for this anarchic 24-hour drinking and dressing-up binge — remember your orange attire.

MAY

Cannes Film Festival, France (mid-late May) The world's most famous cinema festival is really more of an industry affair than anything else.

PinkPop Festival, Landgraaf, Netherlands (late May/early June) The Netherlands' biggest pop music festival.

JUNE

Festa do São João, Porto, Portugal (June 23–24) Portugal's second city puts on the mother of all street parties, culminating in revellers hitting each other with plastic hammers.

Glastonbury Festival, England (mid-late June) Despite being one of Europe's largest (and most expensive) music festivals, Glastonbury is a surprisingly intimate affair, thanks to its beautiful setting and hippie vibe.

Roskilde Festival, Denmark (late June/early July) An eclectic range of music (rock, dance, folk) and performance arts, with profits going to worthy causes.

JULY

The Palio, Siena, Italy (July 2 & Aug 16) Italy's most spectacular summer event: a bareback horse race between representatives of the different quarters of the city around the main square.

Montreux Jazz Festival, Switzerland (early July) These days only loosely committed to jazz, this festival takes in everything from folk to breakbeats.

Fiesta de San Fermin, Pamplona, Spain (July 6–14) Anarchic fun, centred on the running of the bulls through the streets of the city, plus music, dancing and of course a lot of drinking.

Exit Festival, Novi Sad, Serbia (early/mid-July) Europe's hippest music festival, held in a beautiful fortress and attracting top DJs and artists from around the world.

Avignon Festival, France (early/mid-July) Slanted towards drama but hosts plenty of other events too.

Dubrovnik Summer Festival, Croatia (July & Aug) A host of musical events and theatre performances against the backdrop of the town's beautiful Renaissance centre.

Gentse Feesten, Belgium (mid-July) A ten-day canalside party of music and theatre so bacchanalian that the whole city takes two weeks off work afterwards to recover.

The Proms, London (July–Sept) World-famous concert series that maintains high standards of classical music at egalitarian prices.

Ramadan (May–June in 2017, 2018 & 2019) Commemorating the revelation of the Koran to the Prophet Mohammed, the month of fasting from sunrise until sunset ends with a huge celebration called Eid el-Fitr. Morocco, Turkey, Kosovo, Bosnia-Herzegovina, plus Muslim areas of Bulgaria and Greece.

AUGUST

Locarno Film Festival, Switzerland (early/mid-Aug) Movies from around the world compete on the banks of Lake Maggiore.

Sziget Festival, Hungary (mid-Aug) Week-long music and culture fest on Obuda island, Budapest, drawing almost half a million revellers.

La Tomatina, Buñol, Spain The last Wednesday in August sees the streets of Buñol packed for a one-hour food fight disposing of 130,000 kilos of tomatoes.

Edinburgh Festival, Scotland (last three weeks of Aug) A mass of top-notch and fringe events in every performing medium, from rock to cabaret to modern experimental music, dance and drama.

Notting Hill Carnival, London (last weekend of Aug)

Predominantly Black British and Caribbean celebration that's become the world's second-biggest street carnival after Rio.

Venice Film Festival, Italy (late Aug/early Sept) First held in 1932, this is the world's oldest film festival.

SEPTEMBER

Ibiza closing parties, Spain (mostly in Sept) The summer dance music Mecca goes out with a bang in September, with all the main clubs holding closing parties.

Regata Storica, Venice, Italy (early Sept) A trial of skill for the city's gondoliers.

Oktoberfest, Munich, Germany (late Sept/early Oct) A huge beer festival and fair, attracting vast numbers of people to consume gluttonous quantities of beer and food.

Galway International Oyster Festival, Ireland (last weekend in Sept) The arrival of the oyster season is celebrated with a three-day seafood, Guinness and dancing shindig.

OCTOBER

Combat des Reines, Switzerland (early Oct) Quirky cow-fighting contest held to decide the queen of the herd in the Valais region of Switzerland. The main event is the copious drinking and betting on the sidelines (and no, the cows don't get hurt).

NOVEMBER

Bonfire Night, Lewes, England (Nov 5) Huge processions and tremendous fireworks light up this sleepy town every year.

Madonna della Salute Festival, Venice, Italy (Nov 21) Annual candlelit procession across the Grand Canal to the church of Santa Maria della Salute.

DECEMBER

Christmas Festive markets sprout up across the Continent in the run-up to Christmas. One of the best is found in Cologne, Germany.

New Year's Eve Celebrated with parties across Europe, it's best experienced in Edinburgh where over a hundred thousand people cram the streets for Hogmanay, or in Moscow, with incredible fireworks over Red Square.

Work and study

The best way of getting to know a country properly is to work there and learn the language. Study opportunities are also a good way of absorbing yourself in the local culture, though they invariably need to be organized in advance; look online and check newspapers for ads or contact one of the organizations listed below.

Working in Europe

There are any number of jobs you can pick up on the road to supplement your spending money. It's normally not hard to find bar or restaurant work, especially in large resort areas during the summer, and your chances will be greater if you speak the local language – although being able to speak English may be your greatest asset in more touristy areas. Cleaning jobs, nannying and au pair work are also common, if not spectacularly well paid, often just providing room and board plus pocket money. Some of them can be organized on the spot, while others need to be arranged before you leave home.

The other big casual earner is farm work, particularly grape-picking, an option from August to October when the vines are being harvested. The best country for this is France, but there's sometimes work in Germany too, and you're unlikely to be asked for documentation. Also in France, along the Côte d'Azur, and in other yachthavens such as Greece and parts of southern Spain, there is sometimes crewing work available, though you'll need the appropriate experience.

Rather better paid, and equally widespread, if only from September to June, is teaching English as a foreign language (TEFL), though it's sometimes hard to find English-teaching jobs without a TEFL qualification. You'll normally be paid a liveable local salary, sometimes with somewhere to live included, and you can often supplement your income with more lucrative private lessons. The TEFL teaching season is reversed in Britain and to a lesser extent Ireland, with plenty of work available during the summer in London and on the English south coast (though again, some kind of TEFL qualification is usually required).

For further information on working abroad, check out the books published in the UK by Vacation Work; visit www.crimsonpublishing.co.uk for their catalogue. Also try www.studyabroad.com, a useful website with listings and links to study and work programmes worldwide.

Studying in Europe

Studying abroad invariably means learning a language, in an intensive course that lasts between two weeks and three months, and staying with a local family. There are plenty of places you can do this and you should reckon on paying around £230/US$300 a week, including room and board. If you know a language well, you could also apply to do a short course in another subject at a local university; check websites such as www.eurolingua.com, www.languagesabroad.com and www.europa-pages.com, and keep an eye out when you're on the spot. The EU Erasmus programme provides grants for university students from Britain and Ireland to study in one of 32 European countries for between three months and a full academic year if their university participates in the programme. Post-Brexit, British students may no longer be eligible for this scheme: check with your university's international relations office, or see www.britishcouncil.org/erasmus.

WORK AND STUDY CONTACTS

AFS Intercultural Programs US ☎ 1 800 AFS INFO, Canada ☎ 1 800 361 7248, Australia ☎ 1300131736, NZ ☎ 0800 600 300, SA ☎ 27114310113; www.afs.org. Intercultural exchange organization.

American Institute for Foreign Study US ☎ 1 866 906 2437, UK ☎ 020 7581 7300, Australia ☎ 02 8235 7000; www.aifs.com. Language study and cultural immersion for the summer or school year.
ASSE US ☎ 1 800 333 3802, Canada ☎ 1 855 886 8381; www.asse.com. International student exchanges and summer language programmes in various European countries.

British Council UK ☎ 0161 957 7775, www.britishcouncil.org. The Council's Recruitment Group recruits TEFL teachers with degrees and TEFL qualifications for posts, while its Education and Training Group runs teacher exchange programmes for those who already work as educators to find out about teacher development programmes abroad.

Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE) US ☎ 1 207 553 4000, www.ciee.org. Leading NGO offering study programmes and volunteer projects.

Cultural Vistas US ☎ 1 212 497 3500, www.culturalvistas.org. Summer internships in various European countries for students who have completed at least two years of college in science, agriculture, engineering or architecture.

International House UK ☎ 020 7611 2400, www.ihlondon.com. Reputable English-teaching organization that offers TEFL training leading to a Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults (CELTA), and recruits for teaching positions in Britain and abroad.

World Learning US ☎ 1 800 257 7751 or ☎ 1 802 257 7751, www.worldlearning.org. The Experiment in International Living (www.experiment.org) has summer programmes for high-school students, while the School for International Training (www.sit.edu/studyabroad) offers accredited college semesters abroad, with language and cultural studies, homestay and other academic work.

WWOOF Europe ☎ www.woofeurope.net. Volunteering on organic farms and with sustainable projects in various European countries.

Travel essentials

Costs

It's hard to generalize about what you're likely to spend travelling around Europe, but it's by and large not cheap. Some countries – Norway, Switzerland, the UK – are among the most expensive in the world, while in others (Turkey, for example) you can live quite well on a fairly modest budget. Remember, however, that all of Europe is modern and well toured, which means higher prices than in the developing world. In general, countries in the north and west of Europe are more expensive than those in the south and east, though keep an eye on exchange rates.

Accommodation will be your largest single expense, and can really determine where you decide to travel. Food and drink costs also vary wildly, although again in most parts of Europe you can assume that a cheap restaurant meal will cost €12–20 a head, with prices nearer the top end of the scale in Scandinavia, at the bottom end in eastern Europe, and below that in Turkey and Morocco. Transport costs are something you can pin down more exactly if you have a rail pass. Nowhere, though, are transport costs a major burden, except perhaps in Britain where public transport is less heavily subsidized than elsewhere.

The bottom line for an average daily budget touring the Continent – camping, self-catering, hitching, etc – might be around €37 a day per person. Adding on a rail pass, staying in hostels and eating out occasionally would bring this up to

PRICES

At the beginning of each chapter you'll find a guide to rough costs including food, accommodation and travel. Prices are quoted in euros for ease of comparison. Within the chapter itself prices are quoted in local currency.

perhaps €60 a day, while staying in private rooms or hotels and eating out once a day would mean a personal daily budget of at least €110. See box below, for tips on keeping your costs down.

Crime and personal safety

Travelling around Europe should be relatively trouble-free, but, as in any part of the world, there is always the chance of petty theft. Conditions vary greatly depending on the country: in Scandinavia, for example, you're unlikely to encounter much trouble of any kind, whereas in certain areas of large cities such as London, Paris or Barcelona, the crime rate is significantly higher. Also take care in poorer regions such as Morocco, Turkey and southern Italy. France, Belgium, Germany and Turkey have been rocked by a number of terrorist attacks recently, and potential terrorist activity remains a concern throughout Europe. Be vigilant when you're in crowded public spaces.

Safety tips

In order to minimize the risks, you should take some basic precautions. First and perhaps most

GETTING BY ON A BUDGET

Buy a rail pass Whether you're planning to take in all of Europe or just a few countries, a rail pass will save you money (see p.34).

Find a roommate Accommodation in hotels, pensions and private rooms is cheaper if you share, so buddy up.

Student/youth discounts If you're a student or under 26, make sure you bring your student or youth card (see p.44), and always ask about discounts.

Head for the countryside Don't spend more time than you need to in cities – prices are always higher there.

Shun tourist traps Eat and drink with the locals and try regional food as it'll usually be cheaper – and frequently tastier.

Self-cater Markets are full of fresh, seasonal picnic fare, which makes self-catering a treat.

Drink at home Have a few drinks before you go out – you can usually pick up booze from local shops at a fraction of the bar price.

Be flexible Transport is often cheaper in off-peak hours.

Sleep on the train Make your longest journeys overnight – you'll forego accommodation costs for the night.

Bargain, bargain, bargain Don't be afraid to haggle (especially in places like Morocco where it's expected), but know when to stop.

important, try not to look too much like a tourist. Appearing lost, even if you are, should be avoided, and it's not a good idea – especially in southern Europe – to walk around flashing an obviously expensive camera or smartphone: the professional bag-snatchers who tour train stations can have your valuables off you in seconds.

If you're waiting for a train, keep your eyes (and hands if necessary) on your bags at all times; if you want to sleep, put everything valuable under whatever you use as a pillow. Exercise caution when choosing a train compartment and avoid any situation that makes you feel uncomfortable. Padlocking your bags to the luggage rack if you're on an overnight train increases the likelihood that they'll still be there in the morning. It's also a good idea to wear a money belt.

If you're staying in a hostel, take your valuables out with you unless there's a very secure store for them on the premises. It's a good idea to photocopy your passport and send it to your email account, and leave a copy of your address book with friends or family.

If the worst happens and you do have something stolen, inform the police immediately (we've included details of the main city police stations or tourist police throughout); the priority is to get a statement from them detailing exactly what has been lost, which you'll need for your insurance claim back home.

Customs

Customs and duty-free restrictions vary throughout Europe. Non-EU citizens arriving in the EU can bring in one litre of spirits, four litres of table wine, plus 200 cigarettes (or 250g tobacco, or fifty cigars). There is no duty-free allowance for travel within the EU: in principle you can carry as much in the way of duty-paid goods as you want, so long as it is for personal use. Note that Andorra, Gibraltar, the Canary Islands, Ceuta and the Channel Islands are outside the EU for customs purposes, and the UK may join them, depending on post-Brexit negotiations. If you are carrying prescribed drugs of any kind, it's a good idea to have a copy of the prescription to show to suspicious customs officers. Note also that all EU members restrict the importation from outside Europe of meat, fish, eggs and honey.

Drugs

Drugs such as amphetamines, cocaine, heroin, LSD and ecstasy are illegal all over Europe, and although use of cannabis is widespread in most countries, and legally tolerated in some (famously in the Netherlands, for example), you are never allowed to possess more than a tiny amount for personal use, and unlicensed sale remains illegal. Penalties can be severe (in certain countries, such as Turkey, even possession of cannabis can result in a hefty prison sentence) and your consulate is unlikely to be sympathetic.

Electricity

The supply in Europe is 220v (240v in the British Isles), which means that anything on North American voltage (110v) normally needs a transformer – or at least a plug adapter if the power cord has a built-in transformer. Some countries (notably Spain and Morocco) still have a few places on 110v or 120v, so check before plugging in or you could fry your electronics. British and Irish sockets take three rectangular pins; elsewhere they take two round pins. A travel plug which adapts to these systems is useful to carry.

Entry requirements

Citizens of the UK (but not other British passport holders), Ireland, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the US do not need a visa to enter most European countries, and can usually stay for between one and three months, depending on nationality. EU countries never require visas from Irish citizens, and currently British citizens don't need them either, though the situation may change post-Brexit. Always check visa requirements before travelling with the embassy of the country you are visiting, as they can and do change; this especially applies to Canadian, Australian, New Zealand and South African citizens intending to visit Eastern European countries.

VISA ALERT!

Everyone needs a visa to visit Russia, which must be obtained in advance, and if you're passing through Belarus to get there, you'll need a transit visa for that country as well. Citizens of most countries also need a visa for Turkey, which is available at the border (see p.1141). South Africans need a visa for most European countries, so be sure to check with the appropriate embassy before travelling.

Twenty-six countries (Austria, Belgium, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Italy, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland), known as the Schengen group, have joint visas which are valid for travel in all of them; in theory, there are no immigration controls between these countries, though there may be spot-checks of ID within their borders.

Gay and lesbian travellers

Gay men and lesbians will find most of Europe a tolerant place in which to travel, the west rather more so than the east, where there can still be considerable hostility. Gay sex is no longer a criminal offence in any country covered by this book except Morocco, but some still have measures that discriminate against gay men (a higher age of consent, for example), and Russia has recently introduced a law against "gay propaganda", amid a new wave of homophobia. Lesbianism sometimes escapes such laws on the basis that its existence is not officially recognized, although that is not the case in Russia. For further information, check the International Lesbian and Gay Association's European region website at ilga-europe.org.

Health

You don't need inoculations for any of the countries covered in this book, although for Morocco and Turkey typhoid jabs are advised, and in southeastern Turkey malaria pills are a good idea for much of the year – check www.cdc.gov/travel for full details. Remember to keep your polio and tetanus boosters up to date.

EU citizens are covered by reciprocal health agreements for free or reduced-cost emergency treatment in many of the countries in this book (the main exceptions are Albania, Morocco, Russia, Turkey and Ukraine). To claim this, you will be asked for your proof of residence or European Health Insurance Card (EHIC). British citizens are currently eligible for an EHIC, and can apply for one at www.ehic.org.uk, though post-Brexit this may change: check www.gov.uk/european-health-insurance-card for the latest situation. Irish citizens can apply for a card at www.ehic.ie. Without an EHIC, you won't be turned away from hospitals but you will almost certainly have to pay for any treatment or medicines. Also, in practice, some doctors and hospitals charge anyway and it's up to you to claim reimbursement when you return home. Make sure you are insured for potential medical expenses, and keep copies of receipts and prescriptions.

Doctors, hospitals and pharmacies

For minor health problems it's easiest to go to a pharmacy, found pretty much everywhere. In major cities there should be at least one pharmacy open 24 hours – check any pharmacy window for a rota indicating the branch currently open all night. In cases of serious injury or illness contact your nearest consulate, which will have a list of English-speaking doctors, as will the local tourist office. In the accounts of larger cities we've listed the most convenient hospital casualty units/emergency rooms.

Contraceptives

Condoms are available everywhere, and are normally reliable international brands such as Durex, at least in western Europe; the condoms in eastern European countries, Morocco and Turkey are of uncertain quality, however, so it's best to bring your own. AIDS is as much of a problem in Europe as in the rest of the world, and members of both sexes should carry condoms. The pill is available everywhere, too, though often only on prescription; again, bring a sufficient supply with you. In case of emergency, the morning-after pill is available from pharmacies without a prescription in Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Greece, Ireland, Lithuania, Morocco, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey and the UK.

Drinking water

Tap water in most countries is drinkable, and only needs to be avoided in Morocco and parts of Turkey. Unfamiliar food may well give you a small case of the runs, normally over in a day or two.

Insurance

Wherever you're travelling from, it's a very good idea to have some kind of travel insurance. Before buying a policy, however, check whether you're already covered: students will often find that their student health coverage extends into the vacations and for one term beyond the date of last enrolment; and some credit cards include travel insurance.

Otherwise you should contact a specialist travel insurance company. A typical policy usually provides cover for the loss of baggage, tickets and –

ROUGH GUIDES TRAVEL INSURANCE

Rough Guides has teamed up with WorldNomads.com to offer great travel insurance deals. Policies are available to residents of over 150 countries, with cover for a wide range of adventure sports, 24hr emergency assistance, high levels of medical and evacuation cover and a stream of travel safety information. Roughguides.com users can take advantage of their policies online 24/7, from anywhere in the world – even if you're already travelling. And since plans often change when you're on the road, you can extend your policy and even claim online. Roughguides.com users who buy travel insurance with WorldNomads.com can also leave a positive footprint and donate to a community development project. For more information, go to roughguides.com/travel-insurance.

up to a certain limit – cash, as well as cancellation or curtailment of your journey. Make sure that the per-article limit covers your most valuable possession. Most policies exclude so-called dangerous sports unless an extra premium is paid: in Europe this can mean anything from scuba diving to mountaineering, skiing and even bungee-jumping. With medical cover, you should ascertain whether benefits will be paid as treatment proceeds or only after you return home, and whether there is a 24-hour medical emergency number.

Internet and email

In most European countries internet cafés are rare, since public wi-fi – often free – has taken over and data roaming has become significantly cheaper. Most hotels and many cafés and restaurants also offer free wi-fi.

Left luggage (baggage deposit)

Almost every train station of any size has facilities for depositing luggage – either lockers or a desk that's open long hours every day. We've given details in the accounts of the major cities.

Mail

We've listed the central post offices in major cities and given an idea of opening hours. Bear in mind, though, that in most countries you can avoid long waits in post offices by buying stamps from newsagents, tobacconists and street kiosks.

Maps

Though you can often buy maps on the spot, you may want to get them in advance to plan your trip: firms such as Stanfords in the UK (www.stanfords.co.uk) and Rand McNally in the US (www.randmcnally.com) sell maps online or by mail order. For extensive motoring, it's better to get a large-page road atlas such as Michelin's Tourist and Motoring Atlas. If you have a smartphone, the Citymapper app (www.citymapper.com) is invaluable when navigating public transport in big cities; it currently covers London, Rome, Paris, Hamburg, Brussels, Berlin, Lyon, Lisbon, Milan, Madrid and Barcelona.

Money

The easiest way to carry your money is in the form of plastic. Hotels, shops and restaurants across the Continent accept major credit and debit cards, although cheaper places may not. More importantly, you can use them to get cash out of ATMs throughout the region, including Morocco and Turkey, as long as they are affiliated to an international network (such as Visa, MasterCard or Cirrus). Using a cash card pre-loaded with multiple currencies, such as Travelex (www.travelex.com), is a good way to avoid paying bank withdrawal fees. In some countries banks are the only places where you can legally change money, and they often offer the best exchange rates and lowest commission. Local banking hours are given throughout this book. Outside normal hours you can use bureaux

THE EURO (€)

The euro is the currency of 19 EU countries (and a couple of others use the euro unilaterally). Coins come as 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 20c, 50c, €1 and €2, with one side of the coin stating the denomination while the other side has a design unique to the issuing country. Euro notes come as €5, €10, €20, €50, €100, €200 and €500. At the time of writing, £1 was worth €1.19, US$1 got you €0.90, Can$1 was €0.69, Aus$1 was €0.68, NZ$1 was €0.64 and ZAR10 was €0.63. Check www.xe.com for the latest exchange rates.

de change, often located at train stations and airports, though their rates and/or commissions may well be less favourable.

Phones

Since most people have mobile phones, public call boxes have become practically obsolete across Europe. It's easiest to call home via Skype or similar, though in some places it's still possible to go to a post office, or a special phone bureau, where you can call from a private booth and pay afterwards. Phoning from hotels tends to be very expensive.

To call any country in this book from Britain, Ireland, South Africa or New Zealand, dial 00, then the country code, then the city/area code (if there is one) without the initial zero – except for the following: Russia and Lithuania (where there is no initial zero); Italy, where the initial zero (or 3 for a cellphone) must be dialled; and Denmark, the Czech Republic, Latvia, Portugal, Spain, Andorra and Gibraltar, where there are no area codes, and the whole number must be dialled. From the US and most of Canada, the international access code is 011, from Australia it's 0011; otherwise the procedure is the same.

To call home from almost all European countries, including Morocco and Turkey, dial 00, then the country code, then the city/area code (without the initial zero if there is one), then the local number. The exception is Russia, where you dial 8, wait for a continuous dialling tone and then dial 10, followed by the country code, area code and number.

For collect calls, use the "Home Country Direct" service. In the UK and some other countries, international calling cards available from newsagents enable you to call North America, Australia and New Zealand very cheaply. Most North American, British, Irish and Australasian phone companies either allow you to call home on a credit card, or billed to your home number, though with mobile phone access becoming cheaper and easier worldwide, this would be a last resort.

Mobile/cellphones

Some North American cellphones may not work in Europe, though if your smartphone is unlocked, you can use it with a local SIM card in most European countries; in Australia and New Zealand, you can pre-order a SIM card from various countries from travelgear.com.au. Mobiles from the UK, Ireland, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa can be used in most parts of Europe, and a lot of countries – certainly in Western Europe – have nearly universal coverage. There's a cap on mobile phone charges within Europe, so EU residents can use their own phones within all EU countries for the same price as at home – post-Brexit, this may or may not apply to British citizens: check with your mobile company first. Many service providers, including those in the United States, offer call and data packages that can be used abroad at little or no extra charge.

Student and youth discounts

It's worth flashing whichever discount card you've got at every opportunity. For students, an International Student Identity Card (ISIC for short) is well worth the investment. It offers reduced (usually half-price, sometimes free) entry to museums and other sights, as well as qualifying you for other discounts in certain cities. It can also save you money on some transport costs, notably ferries. The card costs £12 in the UK, €15 in Ireland, US$25 in the US, Can$20 in Canada, Aus$25 in Australia, NZ$25 in New Zealand and ZAR100 in South Africa. If you're not a student but under 26, get an International Youth Travel Card, which costs the same and can in some countries give much the same sort of reductions. Both cards are available direct from www.isic.org or from youth travel specialists such as STA. You can download the ISIC app that allows you to search for discounts in the country you're travelling in.

As well as the above options, the European Youth Card (www.eyca.org) entitles anyone under 26 (or under 30 in some countries) to a wide range of discounts on transport services, tourist attractions, activities and accommodation for up to a year. It is available online for people living outside Europe and at designated outlets in 38 European countries. Although the card is valid across the region, prices vary across individual countries (from around €5 to €19), as do the relevant discounts.

NEWSPAPERS

British and American newspapers and magazines are widely available in Europe, sometimes on the day of publication, more often the day after. They do, however, cost around three times as much as they do at home. Look too for locally produced English-language papers and websites.

CLOTHING AND SHOE SIZES

WOMEN'S DRESSES AND SKIRTS

American	4	6	8	10	12	14	16	18
British	8	10	12	14	16	18	20	22
Continental	38	40	42	44	46	48	50	52

WOMEN'S BLOUSES AND SWEATERS

American	6	8	10	12	14	16	18
British	30	32	34	36	38	40	42
Continental	40	42	44	46	48	50	52

WOMEN'S SHOES

American	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
British	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Continental	36	37	38	39	40	41	42

MEN'S SUITS

American	34	36	38	40	42	44	46	48
British	34	36	38	40	42	44	46	48
Continental	44	46	48	50	52	54	56	58

MEN'S SHIRTS

American	14	15	15.5	16	16.5	17	17.5	18
British	14	15	15.5	16	16.5	17	17.5	18
Continental	36	38	39	41	42	43	44	45

MEN'S SHOES

American	7	7.5	8	8.5	9.5	10	10.5	11	11.5
British	6	7	7.5	8	9	9.5	10	11	12
Continental	39	40	41	42	43	44	44	45	46

Time

This book covers four time zones (see map, p.46). GMT (Greenwich Mean Time), aka UTC, or Universal Time, is five hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time, eight hours ahead of Pacific Standard Time, eight hours behind Western Australia, ten hours behind eastern Australia, twelve hours behind New Zealand and two hours behind South Africa. Note that all countries in this book (except Morocco and Russia) have daylight saving time from March to October. This change, along with daylight saving in North America, Australia and New Zealand, can affect the time difference by an hour either way.

Tourist information

Before you leave, it's worth checking the websites of the tourist offices of the countries you're intending to visit. For parts of central and eastern Europe, where up-to-date maps can be hard to find within the country, it may be worth contacting the tourist office in advance and asking them to send you any free maps and brochures they may have:

note that a few countries do not have any official tourist offices abroad, and you may have to contact their embassy instead.

Once in Europe, most countries have a network of tourist offices that answer queries, dole out a range of (mostly free) maps and brochures, and can often book accommodation, or at least advise you on it. They're better organized in the UK, Scandinavia, the Netherlands, France, Switzerland and Spain – with branches in all but the smallest village, and mounds of information; in Greece, Turkey and eastern Europe you'll find fewer tourist offices and they'll be less helpful on the whole, sometimes offering no more than a couple of dog-eared brochures and a photocopied map. We've given further details, including a broad idea of opening hours, in the introduction for each country.

Travellers with disabilities

Prosperous northern Europe is easier for disabled travellers than the south and east, but the gradual enforcement of EU accessibility regulations is making life easier throughout the European Union at least. Wheelchair access to public buildings nonetheless remains far from common in many countries, as is wheelchair accessibility to public transport. Most buses are still inaccessible to wheelchair users, but airport facilities are improving, as are those on cross-Channel ferries. As for rail services, these vary greatly: France, for example, provides well for disabled passengers, as do Belgium, Denmark, Switzerland and Austria, but many other countries make little if any provision. For comprehensive info on disabled travel, check out www.disabledtravelers.com.

Women travellers

One of the major irritants for women travelling through Europe is sexual harassment, which, in Italy,

Greece, Turkey, Spain and Morocco especially, can be almost constant for women travelling alone. By far the most common kind of harassment you'll come across simply consists of street whistles and catcalls; occasionally it's more sinister, and very occasionally it can be dangerous. Indifference is often the best policy, avoiding eye contact with men and at the same time appearing as confident and purposeful as possible. If this doesn't make you feel any more comfortable, shouting a few choice phrases in the local language is a good idea; don't, however, shout in English, which often seems to encourage them. You may also come across gropers on crowded buses and trains, in which case you should complain as loudly as possible in any language – the ensuing scene should be enough to deter your assailant.

VALBONA VALLEY NATIONAL PARK

Albania

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Tirana Delve into Albania's past in a giant, underground Communist bunker. See p.52
- ❷ Valbona Rural life surrounded by stunning alpine mountains. See p.57
- ❸ Berat Explore a hilltop maze of Ottoman houses. See p.57
- ❹ Gjirokastra Beautiful valley views and a charming old town. See p.58
- ❺ Ksamil's beaches Relax on some of the Med's least-developed beaches. See p.60

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.49

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €25, occasional treat €40

Drink Bottle of red wine €6

Food Qoftë (minced meat rissoles) €2

Hostel/budget hotel €10/€30

Travel Bus: Tirana–Saranda €8 Train: Tirana–Shkodra €1.50

FACT FILE

Population 3 million

Language Albanian (Shqip)

Currency Lekë (L)

Capital Tirana

International phone code ☎ 355

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

Beyond vague recollections of its Communist past, few travellers know much about Albania. Its rippling mountains and pristine beaches, lands littered with historical Roman ruins and pretty Ottoman towns remain largely undiscovered. Most never see the alluring azure lakes or the picturesque valleys occupied by immensely hospitable locals, and instead bypass the country for its far more popular neighbours.

Following decades of isolationist rule, this rugged land still doesn't seem to fit into the grand continental jigsaw, with distinctly exotic notes emanating from its language, customs and cuisine. But it's those idiosyncrasies that make it such an intriguing and rewarding corner of Europe, begging to be explored.

Most travellers make a beeline for the capital, Tirana, a buzzing city with a mishmash of garishly painted buildings, traditional restaurants and trendy bars. However, those seeking to take Albania's true pulse should head to the mountainous hinterlands, particularly the sleepy hillside towns of Berat and Gjirokastra – both essentially open-air museums of life in Ottoman times. Keen hikers will want to explore the valley of Valbona, where karst limestone mountains harbour astonishing biodiversity, and as the snowcapped peaks of the interior drop down to the ocean, the immaculate beaches along the Ionian coastline are among the Mediterranean's least developed sands.

CHRONOLOGY

168 BC The Romans defeat the Illyrian tribe and establish rule over present-day Albania.

395 AD Division of Roman Empire; Albania falls under the rule of Constantinople.

300s–500s Invasions by Visigoths, Ostrogoths and Huns.

1343 Serbian invasions.

1443–79 Resistance against Ottoman rule, most of it led by national hero Skanderbeg.

1614 Founding of Tirana.

1912 Albania gains independence.

1922 Ahmet Zogu becomes prime minister and president before finally crowning himself King Zog in 1928.

1939 Mussolini annexes Albania; King Zog retreats to the Ritz in London.

1946 Proclamation of People's Republic of Albania, led by Enver Hoxha.

1967 "Cultural Revolution" sees agriculture collectivized, religious buildings destroyed and cadres purged.

1979 Mother Teresa, an ethnic Albanian, wins the Nobel Peace Prize.

1990 Thousands scramble into Tirana's Western embassies in an attempt to flee Albania.

1992 The Democratic Party wins elections, ending Communist rule.

1997 Collapse of financial pyramid schemes results in mass bankruptcies.

2000 Artist Edi Rama elected mayor of Tirana.

2009 Albania joins NATO and applies for EU membership.

2013 Edi Rama elected prime minister.

2015 Erion Veliaj elected mayor of Tirana.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

It's getting ever easier to fly into Albania, with a growing number of international connections. Low-cost carriers provide connections from all over Europe and direct British Airways flights from London can be quite reasonable. You can also fly cheaply to Corfu then get a ferry to Saranda (see p.59). Visas are not required for citizens of most nations; South Africa is a notable exception.

Greece offers by far the simplest international bus connections – there are daily services to Tirana from Athens and Thessaloniki (from €25), and it's also possible to get direct buses to a number of other Albanian cities. From Macedonia there are direct services from Skopje to Tirana, via Struga and Elbasan. It is still not straightforward to get here from Montenegro – there are no services from the capital Podgorica, though there is a twice-weekly bus from Budva to Tirana and some unofficial minivans linking Shkodra and Ulcinj.

The most interesting form of arrival is by ferry. Several operators make overnight sailings to Durrës from Bari in Italy, including Ventouris Ferries (from €40; ventouris.gr); there are hourly bus connections between Durrës and the capital. It's also possible to get to Saranda by ferry from Corfu (from €19; finikas-lines.com), with at least two ferries per day making the forty-minute hop.

GETTING AROUND

Getting from A to B can be a little tricky in Albania – it's best to be flexible, exercise patience, and to treat travel information as a guideline rather than gospel.

Most travel is conducted by bus; the vehicles are usually Italian dinosaurs but fares are cheap, and the roads are being improved. However, the authorities have so far steadfastly refused to build any official bus stations – fine in smaller towns, but a nightmare in a city as large as Tirana where matters are utterly confusing. Buses are sometimes supplemented by minibuses known as furgons, which are technically illegal, especially in the big cities, though still run undeterred; they tend not to depart until full and will often roam around town until they have enough passengers.

There are no international train connections to Albania, but the country has a small rail network. As part of ongoing construction projects in the north of the city, Tirana's main train station has been demolished and relocated to the small town of Kashar near the airport. From here a limited service runs to a few destinations across the country.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation is surprisingly plentiful for a country with such low tourist numbers, and while state-owned monstrosities were once the norm, there's now a decent selection of clean, good-value hotels. You should be able to find a double room for under €35 (prices are almost always quoted in euros), and breakfast is usually included. There don't tend to be any set rates for single rooms, but you can expect a small discount. During summer, it's advised to book ahead for private rooms on the coast. There are now hostels in Tirana, Saranda, Berat and Gjirokastra, charging €10–14 for dorm beds; all have free wi-fi. There are very few dedicated campsites, though the secluded beaches of the Ionian coast are great for those who can manage without facilities. Wild camping is fine in theory, but leaves you at the mercy of the (occasionally corrupt) local police.

ALBANIAN ADDRESSES

Postal addresses are a relatively new invention in Albania – outside Tirana, few streets have official names. This can make it tricky to track down a particular hotel or restaurant, but locals are always willing to help. Use landmarks for a point of reference when asking for directions.

FOOD AND DRINK

Albania's largely meat-based cuisine brings together elements of Slavic, Turkish and Italian cuisines. Spit-roasted lamb is the traditional dish of choice, though today it's qebab (kebabs) and qoftë (grilled lamb rissoles) that dominate menus, often served with a bowl of kos (yogurt). Another interesting dish is fërgesë, a mix of cheese, egg, onions and tomatoes (and meat in some regions) cooked in a clay pot.

Vegetarians will find that filling, generous salads are ubiquitous, and seafood is also plentiful around the coast. But for all this choice the modern Albanian youth – and many a tourist – subsists almost entirely on snack food, particularly burek (a pastry filled with cheese, meat or spinach) and sufllaqë (sliced kebab meat and French fries stuffed in a roll of flatbread). There are some excellent desserts on offer, including spongy shendetlije, cream-saturated trilece, and the usual Turkish pastries.

DRINK

Coffee is king in Albania. Consumed throughout the day, espresso now trumps the old traditional Turkish style, with grounds at the bottom (kafë turke). There are cafés on every corner, and it's worth noting that cafés and bars generally melt into the same grey area – what's one by day will usually morph into the other by night.

The alcoholic drink of choice is rakia – like coffee, this spirit is something of a way of life in Albania, and usually consumed with meals. The country also produces some wine, mostly red, though most locals will admit to a preference for Macedonian varieties; Rilindja is a good, widely sold local label. Beer is easy to find, and it's also worth sampling Skënderbeg cognac, which is cheap, available in shops everywhere and not too bad at all.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Albanians tend to go out of their way to welcome foreign guests – partly because of the low number of visitors – and generally do a fine job of eroding popular misconceptions.

Religious practice was largely stamped out following the 1967 Cultural Revolution, meaning that although seventy percent of the population is Muslim, the majority are non-practising; the same can be said of the Christian remainder.

One cultural nicety is that the body language used to imply “yes” and “no” is the diametric opposite of what you may be used to – a shake of the head (actually more of a wobble) means “yes”, and a nod (actually more of a tilt) means “no”. Younger folk and those used to foreigners may well follow international norms, which adds to the confusion.

Tippling at restaurants is generally an exercise in rounding up to the nearest lekë note, but with bigger bills ten percent is the norm. Smoking has been officially prohibited in public places since 2007, though the police are too busy smoking to fine anybody, and you'll still see ashtrays on every restaurant table.

SPORTS AND ACTIVITIES

In a mountainous country with a long coastline, the main attractions are pretty obvious – there are some delightful places to swim along the Ionian coast, while the most accessible hiking is in the national park area of Mount Dajti. More adventurous activities are thin on the ground, with a monopoly of sorts held by Outdoor Albania (☎04 222 7121, @outdooralbania.com), an adventurous young team that can organize treks and ski-shoeing trips, or more high-octane fun such as rafting and paragliding.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices are generally open Monday to Friday from 9am to 5pm. While their quality of distribution is improving – from a pretty low base – it's still prudent to hang onto any valuable parcels until you're out of the country. Public phones

ALBANIAN

Note that the dual nature of Albanian nouns – all have definite and indefinite forms – can cause some confusion with place names. Tirana is alternately referred to as Tiranë, Durrës as Durrësi, Berat as Berati, Saranda as Sarandë and Gjirokastra as Gjirokastrer.

	ALBANIAN	PRONUNCIATION
Yes	Po	Paw
No	Jo	Yaw
Please	Ju lutem	Yoo lootem
Thank you	Faleminderit	Falemin-derit
Hello/Good day	Tungjatjeta	Toongya-tyeta
Goodbye	Mirupafshim	Meeropafshim
Excuse me	Më falni	Muh falni
Where?	Ku?	Koo?
Good	Mirë	Mir
Bad	Keq	Kek
Near	Afër	Afur
Far	Larg	Larg
Cheap	I lirë	Ee lir
Expensive	I shtrenjtë	Ee shtrenyt
Open	I hapur	Ee hapoor
Closed	Mbyllur	Mbeeloor
Today	Sot	Sawt
Yesterday	Dje	Dye
Tomorrow	Nesër	Nesur
How much is...?	Sa kushton...?	Sa kushton...?
What time is it?	Sa është ora?	Sa ushtu awra?
I don't understand	Unë nuk kuptoj	Oonuh nook koop-toy
Do you speak English?	A flisni anglisht?	Ah fleesnee anglisht?
One	Një	Nyuh
Two	Dy	Deeh
Three	Tre	Treh
Four	Katër	Katur
Five	Pesë	Pes
Six	Gjashtë	Gyasht
Seven	Shtatë	Shtat
Eight	Tetë	Tet
Nine	Nëntë	Nuhnt
Ten	Dhjetë	Dyet

are hard to track down, and almost all use cards; you may be offered these on the street but it's safer – and cheaper – to buy from a post office. Alternatively, a SIM card with unlimited data, messaging and up to an hour of international calls can cost as little as €10 for a month. Wi-fi is widespread, with most hostels, hotels, bars and cafés offering it for free.

EMERGENCIES

Despite its bad rap, the crime rate in Albania is actually very low by European standards, and you're extremely unlikely to find yourself stumbling into one of the famed blood feuds, some of which still bubble away up north. It is, however, worth being aware of a high road accident rate made vividly clear by the alarming number of memorial stones by the roadside.

Albania's hospitals are in very poor shape – most locals go abroad for

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police ☎ 129; Ambulance ☎ 127; Fire ☎ 128.

ALBANIA ONLINE

🌐 albania.al Official site of the tourist board.

🌐 albania-hotel.com Good for booking rooms online.

🌐 albanianhistory.net Collection of historical articles.

🌐 journeytovalbona.com Comprehensive information on reaching the northern mountains.

treatment if they can afford it, and you should do likewise if possible. There are very few ambulances, so should you or a friend come across an accident it's usually best to hunt down a cab. Pharmacies exist in all urban areas, and are usually open 9am to 7pm.

INFORMATION

There are a few tourist information offices dotted around, though hours can be irregular to say the least – they can supply maps and book accommodation, but you're better off asking for information at your hotel or hostel.

MONEY AND BANKS

Albania uses the lekë (L), which is also often used in its singular form, lek. Coins of 5, 10, 20, 50 and 100 lekë are in circulation, as are notes of 200, 500, 1000, 2000 and 5000 lekë. Exchange rates are currently around €1 = 138L, £1 = 175L, and US$ = 122L.

Accommodation prices are quoted in euros at all but the cheapest places, and some of the more upmarket restaurants do likewise; in these you can pay with either currency, although it often works out more expensive to pay in lekë.

Exchanges are the best places to change money, and can be found in most cities.

ATMs are everywhere in Tirana and all towns, while credit cards are increasingly accepted in hotels.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Few shops and restaurants in Albania have set working hours, though you can expect restaurants to be open from breakfast to supper, and shops daily from 9am to 5pm. Museums are usually closed on Mondays.

Most shops and all banks and post offices are closed on public holidays: January 1 and 2, January 6, March 14, March 22, May 1, October 19, November 28 and 29, and December 25, as well as at Easter, both Catholic and Orthodox.

Tirana

Its buildings are painted in lurid colours, a gigantic, useless pyramid rises smack in the centre, the main square is a mess, the roads are potholed, and still there's no official bus station for this city of almost one million people, and yet for all these idiosyncrasies TIRANA is undeniably a charmer. The clash of architectural styles (from Italian to Communist to post-modern) is most evident in the central Blloku area, which was off-limits to all but Party members during Communist times. A generation or so down the line, espresso-sipping, fun-loving locals and trendy bar openings are vivid proof that the city is well on its way to becoming a "regular" European capital.

Tirana's Ottoman legacy was largely eroded by former dictator Enver Hoxha's failed regime, an era still evidenced by enormous boulevards and Brutalist architecture. In 2000, the Edi Rama period began with the city's charismatic mayor attempting to paint Tirana into the modern day; the resulting streetscape kaleidoscope performs a continuous palette shift from lemon to lime, saffron to cinnamon and burgundy to baby blue. Some locals grumble that their city looks to have fallen victim to a made-for-TV makeover.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Tirana is better for strolling than sightseeing, but there's plenty to keep you occupied in the southbound stretch from Skanderbeg Square to the Grand Park, which narrowly bypasses the trendy Blloku district on the way.

ALBANIA'S BUNKERS

Cross into Albania by land or sea, and you'll soon notice clutches of grey, dome-like structures dotting the countryside. Under Hoxha's rule, these bunkers were scattered around the country in tremendous numbers – estimates run as high as 750,000. These were no family shelters, but strategic positions to which every able-bodied man was expected to head, weapon in hand, at the onset of war. Though Western spies did indeed make attempts to infiltrate the country, the bunkers were never really put to the test. Huge underground government bunkers can also be found, most notably in Tirana where one 106-room shelter known as Bunk'Art (Tues–Sun: summer 9am–5pm; winter 9am–3.30pm; 300L, audioguide 600L; 📍bunkart.al) has been converted into an historical museum and art space, located near the Mount Dajti cable car station (see p.56).

Christ Orthodox Cathedral, which is particularly striking at night. South of here, the pleasant green verges of the Lana are a good place to get a handle on some of Tirana's famed colourful buildings. South of the river, any road to the west will take you to the Blloku district, while on the opposite side is the distinctive Pyramid. Apparently designed by Hoxha's daughter (a disputed assertion), it first functioned as a museum dedicated to the leader, and then as a conference centre; it's now dilapidated and defunct, though locals are fond of scaling its walls with a beer in hand. Continuing south, opposite the imposing former Communist Party HQ (now the Prime Minister's residence), the 2013 PostBlloku monument provides an overdue memorial to the years of Cold War brutality: a restored concrete bunker (see box above) stands alongside a segment of the Berlin Wall and supports from a mine at Albania's notorious Spaç forced labour camp. Walking south again, grandiose buildings rise up on either side of you until you emerge in Mother Teresa Square, home to a passable Archeological Museum (Mon–Fri 10.30am–2.30pm; 100L).

Grand Park

South of the Archeological Museum, though you'll need to curl west around the hill for access, is the Grand Park, whose main feature is an artificial lake to which the Tiranese come for a spot of relaxation. Its population of tiny fish will munch the dead skin from your feet – a treatment you'd pay good money for elsewhere – but avoid swimming, since villages on the far side of the lake empty their sewage into the waters. Note, too, that although the surrounding forest is full of beautiful fireflies come dusk, it also has snakes.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Mother Teresa International Airport (also known as Rinas Airport) is located 20km northwest of Tirana. Taxis usually charge around 2000L for the 30min trip into town – haggle in euros and you'll likely pay more – though it's far cheaper to take the hourly Rinas Express bus (6am–6pm; 45min; 250L), which drops off near the north end of Skanderbeg Square.

By train Tirana no longer has its own train station so those arriving from the north or the coast will alight at Kashar and take the shuttle bus for the remaining 15km into the city (shuttles go to and from Boulevard Zogu I).

Destinations Durrës (3 daily; 40min).

By bus Travelling to or from Tirana by bus is gradually getting easier, though the city does not yet have a central bus station, so you may be dropped at any one of a few places depending upon your point of embarkation, and whether you're travelling by bus or furgon – the tourist office can advise. The vast majority of buses depart from near the Doganës roundabout northwest of the centre on Dritan Hoxha.

Destinations Athens (8 daily; 15hr); Berat (hourly; 3hr); Gjirokastra (6 hourly; 4hr); Koman (3 daily; 4hr); Saranda (5 daily; 6hr); Skopje (4 daily; 6–7hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist office There's an office behind the National History Museum on Ded Gjo Luli (📞04 222 3313), but better advice can be found at most hostels. The irregular Tirana In Your Pocket guide (📍inyourpocket.com) is also a good source of information; you'll find print versions for free in hostels and some hotels.

City tours An excellent introduction to Tirana is the free walking tour (📍tiranafreetour.com) that meets on the steps of the National History Museum daily at 10am. Lasting around two hours, it takes in all the main sights and offers the chance to talk to a local who remembers the tail end of Communist rule. Tips are gladly received.

Activities Outdoor Albania (🌐 outdooralbania.com) and Balkan Secrets (🌐 balkansecrets.com) both organize fascinating out-of-Tirana excursions, such as mountain snowshoeing in the winter, kayaking in the summer, and jeep safaris.

GETTING AROUND

By bus Buses run every 5–10min (6am–10pm) on a few main routes and cost 30L for a one-way ticket.

By taxi Taxis should cost 400–500L for a trip within the city centre, though central Tirana is just about small enough to cover on foot. Speed Taxi and City Taxi have the best rates; not all have meters.

ACCOMMODATION

HOSTELS

Propaganda Hostel 75 Pjeter Bogdani 📞 068 203 5261, 🌐 propagandahostel.com. This place is in a prime location for stumbling into bed after a night out in Blloku's best bars. There's a rooftop space where you can bring your own beers for a sundowner, and a variety of mixed and single-sex dorms. Dorms €9, doubles €27

Tirana Backpackers 3 Bogdanëve 📞 068 468 2353, 🌐 tiranahostel.com. This centrally located hostel, with its retro and sometimes downright bizarre decor – see the preserved fish in jars from the old science museum – has good basic rooms and breakfast is included. The outdoor bar is beautiful on a summer afternoon. Dorms €10, doubles €30

★ Trip'n'Hostel 1 Musa Maci 📞 068 304 8905, 🌐 triphnhostel.com. A welcoming hostel with stylish communal areas, and dorm beds each with a curtain for privacy, a power socket and a handmade lamp. The breakfast is cooked fresh to order and the bar brews its own beer. Dorms €10, doubles €30

HOTELS

★ B&B Tirana Smile Bogdanëve 📞 04 224 3460, 🌐 bbtiranasmile.com. Spotless and charming, this place has huge, colourful rooms and a very friendly welcome. There's a comfortable communal room and breakfast is a mighty feast. Doubles €40

Freddy's Hotel 75 Bardhok Biba 📞 068 203 5261, 🌐 freddyshostel.com. Formerly Freddy's Hostel, this family-run hotel has recently been renovated. Rooms are fresh and modern, and Freddy himself will often go out of his way to make you comfortable. Doubles €40

Hotel Millennium 25 Murat Toptani 📞 04 225 1935. This colourful hotel is in a prime location, just 300m from the main square and on a quiet, leafy pedestrianized

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Green House 6 Jul Varibova 📞 04 225 1015, 🌐 greenhouse.al. Artistically designed boutique hotel whose rooms are perhaps the trendiest in the city. With doubles from €80, staying here is a bit of a splurge, but do come for the superb on-site restaurant: at 1400L, the veal fillet with truffle sauce is a delectable bargain.

street. Rooms are spacious and some have balconies. Doubles €40

EATING

Cen Artizani Mihal Duri. An incredibly cheap Italian restaurant where nine different types of pasta are freshly made in the adjoining glass-fronted kitchen. A huge plate with ham, calamari or shrimp costs just 300L. Daily 11am–11pm.

Embelaza Franceze 1 Dëshmorët e 4 Shkurtit. Come to enjoy cake and coffee served up in a lavish interior. Savoury dishes are available but most are overpriced (sandwiches from 350L, mains 1000L and up). Daily 7am–10pm.

Era 33 Ismail Qemali. A hugely popular restaurant with locals and visitors alike. There's Albanian grill and pasta, but the main event is the thin and crispy pizza (from 360L). They have a sister restaurant on Papa Gjon Pali II. Meal with wine under 1000L. Daily 11am–midnight.

Fatosi Luigj Gurakuqi. This is one of a handful of qoftë snack-shacks bunched together near the roundabout. All are extremely popular with locals and well priced. A decent-sized meal will set you back just 300L. Daily 8am–midnight.

★ Oda Luigj Gurakuqi. Small place offering Ottoman-style meals on Ottoman-style sofas. The roasted peppers with cottage cheese (360L) are fresh and tangy, and the offal dishes (460L) far nicer than they sound; all is best washed down – if you're brave – with a shot of flavoured rakia. Daily 11am–11pm.

★ Zgara Tironës Kavajës. An always-bustling restaurant split over two floors, this grill serves enormous meat platters and a variety of fresh, tasty salads. Meal with wine from 700L. Daily 8am–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Tirana's nightlife scene gets better with each passing year. Almost everything of note is concentrated in the fashionable Blloku area, where most venues function as cafés by day and as bars come evening.

Bar Iliria Rruga Brigada VIII. A Tirana institution, this big but simple bar is run by just one man. Service can be slow but beers are cheap from 150L. Daily though hours vary; usually busy 8pm–midnight.

Duff Rruga Brigada VIII. A trendy bar/restaurant with comfy sofas outside and bar stools inside. There's a good selection of beer on tap and locals say the burgers are the best in the city. Daily 7am–late.

Nouvelle Vague Pjetër Bogdani. A retro, music-themed bar with cosy indoor and outdoor seating. Cocktails cost around 300L and there's a selection of Albanian and Italian beers from 200L. Daily 10am–late.

Sky Club 5 Dëshmorët e 4 Shkurtit. This surprisingly cheap top-floor revolving bar is somewhat outdated but has superb city views. Cocktails go for just 400L and shots of Skenderbeg cognac for 150L. It can get busy around sunset, so come a little earlier to ensure you get the best seats. Daily 8am–midnight.

ENTERTAINMENT

Academy of Film and Multimedia 78 Aleksandër Moisiu ☎ 04 236 5188, afmm.edu.al. Occasional free screenings of foreign movies, all subtitled in English.

Millennium Cinema Murat Toptani. New Hollywood releases shown in a wonderful old theatre whose outdoor café is a delight on sunny days. Tickets from 400L.

SHOPPING

Tirana has a fascinating daily market (6am–10pm), which sprawls north of the Sheshi Avni Rustemi roundabout. Shops are generally open daily 9am–6pm.

Adrian Skanderbeg Square. Has English-language books, newspapers and magazines.

Albania by Nature Luigj Gurakuqi. The place to buy artisanal products, from olive-wood chopping boards to fruit juice, all handmade in Albania.

Koralia Abdyl Frashëri. Jewellery shop selling semi-precious stones and silver jewellery at reasonable prices. Sister shop on Myslym Shyri.

DIRECTORY

Embassies and consulates UK, Skanderbeg ☎ 04 223 4973; US, Elbasanit ☎ 04 224 7285.

Exchange Tirana is full of ATMs, and there's an exchange on almost every road in the centre, which tend to give better rates than the banks.

Hospital Civilian Hospital, Dibrës, northeast of the city centre.

Post office The office on Çameria is open Mon–Fri 8am–4pm.

Day-trips from Tirana

Local landmarks from which you can peer down on Tirana include the slopes of Mount Dajti and the hilltop town of Kruja, both of which can be visited on a day-trip from the capital.

MOUNT DAJTI

The dark, looming shape of Mount Dajti is easily visible from Tirana, a temptation that can prove too much for city dwellers, who head to the forested slopes in droves on sunny weekends. The mountain's network of paths feels surprisingly remote even though you're only 25km from the capital. There's no public transport to the mountain, but by taxi it should be no more than 700L to the base of the cable-car system (Mon & Wed–Sun: summer 10am–10pm; winter 10am–7pm; 800L return; [dajti ekspres.com](http://dajti ekspres.com)) that whisks passengers to within a slog of the summit. There are a number of restaurants in the area, useful if you fancy refuelling before heading back down. It's worth combining this with an afternoon visit to Bunk'Art (see box, p.54), which is located near the cable-car station in Tirana.

KRUJA

Lofty KRUJA, 35km from Tirana, was the focal point of national hero Skanderbeg's resistance to the Ottoman invasions of the fifteenth century, and you'll see his likeness all over town. Most people make a beeline for the castle, which houses a number of restaurants and an excellent History Museum (Tues–Sun 9am–2pm & 4–7pm; 200L), whose diverting collection of weaponry, icons and the like is augmented by an impressive modern interior. Also within the castle walls is the Ethnographic Museum (Tues–Sun 9am–4pm; 300L), housed in a gorgeous building with a serene outdoor courtyard. Souvenir sellers have taken over the town, and the best place to buy your Albania-flag T-shirt, Skanderbeg statuette or Mother Teresa lighter is the restored Ottoman bazaar, just below the castle access road. Furgons from Tirana (1hr; 200L) leave regularly from the Zogu i Zi roundabout northwest of the city centre.

The northern mountains

These remote mountains make up the southernmost part of the Dinaric Alps that stretch from Albania, through Serbia and as far north as Slovenia. The range is best explored by trekking around the valley of Valbona; it's a long but enjoyable journey from the capital, taking in a ferry crossing on the emerald waters of Lake Koman, but entirely worth it for this magnificent mountain scenery.

VALBONA

The picture-perfect valley of VALBONA, which follows a river of the same name, is nestled among a collection of towering karst limestone peaks that reach heights of up to 2690m. Home to some of the country's most picturesque homesteads, it offers a true taste of Albanian country living. There are well-marked trails to suit all abilities – maps are available from Rilindja restaurant, which doubles as an unofficial information and trekking hub.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus The best way to reach Valbona is on the 5am bus to Koman from Tirana (1000L), which arrives in time for the 9am departure across Lake Koman (3hr; 800–1000L/person). On the other side of the lake, the ferry will be met by a bus connecting the arrival point (Fierze) and Valbona (700L). Ask the ferry staff to help you with connections to Valbona when you board. More detailed information at www.journeytovalbona.com.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

There are a number of good budget options along the valley's main road offering dorms from €10, all of which can organize guides and picnics for day hikes and have adjoining restaurants.

Rilindja ☎ 067 301 4637. Run by Alfred and his American wife, Catherine, this guesthouse has five basic but comfortable rooms, and is the best place to get information and maps on the local area. It also has the valley's finest restaurant serving ultra-fresh trout from the river (600L) and huge salads (350L). Doubles €35

Stani I Arif Kadris ☎ 067 301 4643. One of the highlights of a visit to Valbona is a traditional lunch in a shepherd's stone house. This one can be reached by foot or 4WD from the main road near the Çeremi trailhead (maps available from Rilindja).

Southern Albania

With its jumble of rugged mountains fringed by pristine curls of beach, Albania's south is the most appealing part of the country. The interior route boasts the rewarding towns of Berat and Gjirokastra, each home to whole swathes of Ottoman buildings. Heading on down the Ionian Coast instead, you'll find one of Europe's few unspoiled sections of Mediterranean shore, a near-permanently sunny spot where the twin blues of sea and sky are ripped asunder by a ribbon of grey mountains – on a clear day you'll be able to see Italy from the 1027m-high Llogaraja Pass. Both routes converge at the beach town of Saranda, while further south are the fantastic ruins of Butrint.

BERAT

There are few better places to be in Albania than standing on the footbridge in the charming, easy-going town of BERAT. From this vantage point, you'll be surrounded by huddles of Ottoman houses, their dark, rectangular windows staring from whitewashed walls like a thousand eyes. On the south bank is the sleepy Gorica district, kept in shadow for much of the day by a muscular backdrop of rock; to the north is the relatively sun-drenched Mangalemi district, from which steep, cobblestoned paths lead up to the hill-top Kalasa, an old citadel whose wonderful interior is up there with the best old towns in the Balkans.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

You'll have great views of Berat from the fourteenth-century Kalasa, a splendidly restored citadel (daily: April–Sept 8am–8pm; Oct–March 8am–5pm; 100L or free out of hours) towering above town, which is accessed via a steep, cobbled road. This is still a functioning part of town and home to hundreds, yet almost nothing dilutes its centuries-old vibe; visit at night and you're in for a wonderfully eerie treat. There were once over thirty churches here, but just a handful remain; oldest and most beautiful is the thirteenth-century Church of the Holy Trinity, sitting on the slope below the inner fortifications. Churches remain locked for most of the year, but the key-keepers are usually hanging around nearby. Also within the grounds is the Onufri Museum (Tues–Sun 9am–4pm; 200L), dedicated to the country's foremost icon painter, famed for his use of a particularly vivid red. Heading back down the access road, you'll come across the diverting Ethnographic Museum (daily: May–Sept 9am–1pm & 4–7pm, Sun 9am–2pm; Oct–April 9am–4pm, Sun 9am–2pm; 200L) and the first of the centre's three main mosques.

ARRIVAL AND ACTIVITIES

By bus The bus terminal is around 3km north of the town on Rruga Antipatrea. From there, it's a 30L bus ride on a local service to the centre of town.

Destinations Gjirokastra (2 daily; 4hr); Saranda (2 daily; 6hr); Tirana (every 30min; 3hr).

Tours Rafting excursions (around €50/person) and trips around nearby Mount Tomorri can be organized through Outdoor Albania (@outdooralbania.com). Berat Backpackers also lay on occasional tours.

ACCOMMODATION

Berat Backpackers ☎069 306 4429, @beratbackpackers.com. Located over the river in Gorica and run by Scotty, an affable Geordie, this hostel remains the number one budget choice – the building is a bona fide Ottoman antique, the dorms are cosy, and the garden patio is a delightful place for evening drinks. Dorms €12, doubles €30

Klea ☎032 234 970. Family-run guesthouse located just inside the citadel entrance. The tough climb to the top means it's not for all, but to stroll around the eerily quiet old town by night is an utterly bewitching experience. Doubles €30

★Mangalemi ☎068 232 3238, @mangalemihotel.com. Near the centre of town, on the road to the citadel, this traditional guesthouse has splendidly decorated rooms that offer excellent value; all are en suite with comfy beds and powerful showers. There's a superb on-site restaurant, and the friendly staff are excellent sources of local information. Doubles €40

EATING AND DRINKING

Ajka On the Gorica side of the footbridge, this smart place is one of the few local bars that receives female customers. It's also good for coffee; head on up to the roof terrace to enjoy the evening sun with a drink. Daily 9am–11pm.

Mangalemi Inside the guesthouse of the same name. Professional service, large portions and reasonable prices – 500L can get you nicely full – and the salads are great. Head up to the terrace if the weather's nice. Reservations advised. Daily 10am–10pm.

Onufri Simple place inside the citadel walls, serving strong coffee and Albanian staples such as pilaf and stuffed peppers. Usually open 8am–6pm.

Spëtimi 2 ☎032 238 707. Studenty snack-style joint on the river road, selling good pizzas (300L) and mouthwatering crêpes (150L). Daily 7am–11pm.

White House ☎032 234 570. Riverside restaurant serving the best pizzas in town (from 300L; delivery service available), as well as seafood dishes and traditional Albanian grub. Daily 9am–11pm.

GJIROKASTRA

Sitting proudly above the sparsely inhabited Drinos valley, GJIROKASTRA is one of Albania's most attractive towns, and home to some of its friendliest people. It was once an important Ottoman trading hub and today a sprinkling of nineteenth-century Ottoman-style houses lines the maze of steep, cobbled streets. Gjiro is also etched into the nation's conscience as the birthplace of former dictator Enver Hoxha, and more recently the world-renowned author Ismail Kadare.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The Old Town's centrepiece is its imposing citadel (daily 9am–7pm; 200L), which is clearly visible from any point in town. Built in the sixth century and enlarged in 1811 by Ali Pasha Tepelna, it was used as a prison by King Zog, the Nazis and Hoxha's cadres; the interior remains suitably spooky. There are tanks and weaponry to peruse, but most curious is the shell of an American jet that was (apparently) forced down in 1957 after being suspected of espionage by the Communist regime. Other than the castle, Gjirò's most appealing sight is its collection of Ottoman-style houses; a prime example is the eighteenth-century Skenduli House (daily 9am–7pm; 200L), where the owner's daughter gives English-language tours of its wonderfully preserved rooms throughout the day.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Buses and furgons stop on the highway intersection below the New Town. From here there's a local bus (30L) to take you up the steep climb to the Old Town main square; alternatively, it's a half-hour walk or a 300L taxi ride.

Destinations Berat (2 daily; 4hr); Korça (1 daily; 5hr); Saranda (hourly; 1hr 30min); Tirana (hourly; 4hr 30min).

ACCOMMODATION

None of these establishments has an address, but they're easy to find.

Gjiròkastra Above the mosque on the road running under the castle wall ☎084 265 982. Modern guesthouse with an excellent location and pleasant patio for beers in the sun. Rooms are light and beautifully furnished. The traditional breakfast is superb. Doubles €30

Kotoni Signed from the road under the castle ☎084 263 526, ✉eda.goldemi@gmail.com. Cosy nineteenth-century building decorated in true Albanian style. Home-from-home touches include excellent breakfasts and handmade trimmings in the bedrooms. The adjoining restaurant is a welcoming family affair. Doubles €25

★ Stone City Hostel Rruga Alqi Kondi (ask locals for directions to "Walter's hotel") ☎069 348 4271, ✉stonecityhostel.com. Dutch-owned, modern hostel with original exposed brick walls and stylish communal area. Organizes fun day-trips in the surrounding hills. Dorms €12, doubles €30

EATING AND DRINKING

Kujtimi Qafa e Pazarit. Fantastic Albanian meals dished out under the dappled shade of a maple tree. A salad and small main will set you back 500L. The house speciality is juicy fried frogs' legs. Daily 9am–midnight.

Kuka Astrit Karagjozi. Run by two brothers, this modern restaurant serves excellent traditional Albanian and contemporary dishes. The leafy garden is huge and the inside very sophisticated. Traditional dishes from 200L; pasta 300L. Mon–Sat 8am–10pm.

SARANDA

Staring straight at Corfu, and even within day-trip territory of the Greek island, sunny SARANDA is perhaps Albania's most appealing entry point. A recent building boom has eroded some of the town's original genteel atmosphere, but it's still a great place to kick back, stroll along the promenade and watch the sun set over cocktails. There are beaches in town, but better are those in nearby Ksamil, some 20km to the south.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus There's no station as such, but buses pick up and drop off just north of the centre on Vangjel Pandi, with the harbour a 5min walk away downhill.

Destinations Athens (1 daily; 10hr); Berat (2 daily; 6hr); Gjiròkastra (hourly; 1hr 20min); Tirana (5 daily; 6hr).

By boat The small terminal on the west side of town has services to Corfu which run at least twice daily year-round, increasing to three per day June–Aug. Tickets (from €19) can be bought from the Finikas Lines (✉finikas-lines.com) office on the access road.

ACCOMMODATION

As elsewhere around the Med, prices are at their highest in July and August and many hotels get fully booked far in advance. Discounts are negotiable at other times – even the hostels cut their dorm prices by €2 outside the summer months.

HOSTELS

★ Hairy Lemon Koder 8f ☎069 355 9317, ✉hairy lemonhostel.com. Irish-owned hostel a 10min walk west of the centre, past the ferries. Clean and friendly, with very comfy beds and a great chill-out area for meeting new travel buddies. Dorms €12

Saranda (SR) Backpackers Mitat Hoxha 10 ☎069 434 5426, ✉backpackerssr.hostel.com. This simple hostel is

THE BLUE EYE

On the way between Gjiròkastra and Saranda is the wonderful Blue Eye, an underwater spring forming a pool of deepest blue (50L). Its setting in a cool, remote grove is quite spectacular, but the water is bracing to say the least. Hop on any bus or minivan plying the Saranda–Gjiròkastra route, and ask to be let off at the Syri i Kaltër; the pool is 20min from the road on a clear path. There's a decent restaurant and hotel on site, with doubles from €30.

inconspicuously located in an apartment building next to an internet café near the ferry ticket office. Its dorms boast sea views and owner Tomi is always eager to help. Dorms €12

HOTELS

Hotel Real Off Ismail Tatzati ☎ 085 226 361. This is a simple place with spotless rooms – most of which have balconies. It's just a short walk from the seafont, the bus and ferry terminals, and dozens of bars and restaurants. Doubles €50

Kaonia Jonianet 2 ☎ 085 222 600. The best value of the hotels around the harbour, perhaps because of the unfinished building it's attached to. All rooms have balconies, but not all offer sea views so look before you pay. Doubles €50

Titania Jonianet 15 ☎ 085 222 869. Another excellent-value hotel considering its location right in the centre of the promenade. Sparklingly clean sea-view rooms with good low-season discounts. Doubles €60

EATING AND DRINKING

The town centre is filled with cheap joints selling sufflage, burek and the like, while there's also the well-stocked Alfa supermarket near the Saranda (SR) Backpackers hostel.

Bequa Telat Noga. Off the east side of Friendship Park. A small joint serving hearty Albanian food. Meat dishes from 200L; real penny-pinchers will appreciate the 70L pilaf. Daily 9am–11pm.

★ Limani Jonianet. Jutting out into the harbour, this sprawling restaurant is by far the most popular in town. Staff are attentive, pizzas are cooked in a proper fired oven and the seafood (from 500L) is excellent: the raw marinated prawns are worth the 1500L splurge. Daily 7am–midnight.

Plazhi i Ri Jonianet. A low-key affair behind a row of palms on the promenade, which serves quality traditional dishes at pleasing prices. The seafood soup (500L) is a favourite. Pasta from 300L. Daily 7am–midnight.

NIGHTLIFE

Delight Bar Mitat Hoxha. Big, contemporary bar near the ferry terminal serving milkshakes (250L) by day and cocktails (500L) by night. Plays loud, cheesy chart music; open all day but is most fun 8pm–midnight.

Orange Bar Butrinti. Perhaps the most stylish bar in all of Saranda, this outdoor establishment is open 24 hours a day in summer. Come for cocktails in the evening and nurse your headache with a coffee the morning after.

Paparazzi Bar Mitat Hoxha. Near the top of the hill past the ferry terminal, this fun bar has a great atmosphere in the evenings. There are brilliant views of sparkling Saranda from the balcony. Daily 7am–late.

AROUND SARANDA

The main activity around Saranda is a visit to Butrint and the fantastic beaches of Ksamil, which can both be visited in a single day-trip from the town.

Ksamil beaches

The small coastal village of KSAMIL within Butrint National Park has a smattering of lovely public beaches lapped by spectacularly clear waters. Each cove is overlooked by a restaurant serving reasonably priced seafood (Guvat is the best of the bunch). The beaches are beautiful but busy in summer, and there are a few small islands close enough to swim to if you want a little extra space.

Butrint

Splendidly sited on an exposed nub of land, the isolated ruins of BUTRINT (daily 7am–7pm; 700L) offer a peek into over 2500 years of history, and are a delight to explore on its eucalyptus-lined trails. The area was first developed by the Greeks in the fourth century BC, and the expansive theatre and nearby public baths were built soon after. Butrint then reached its zenith during Roman times – Julius Caesar stopped by in 44 BC – though most of the statues unearthed from this period are now in the museums of Tirana. You can see most of Butrint's sights on a looped footpath, though do head up to the Acropolis for wonderful views and an excellent museum full of unearthed artefacts.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

You can pick up furgons to Butrint and Ksamil (hourly, on the same route; 30min; 100L) opposite the synagogue on Skënderbeu in Saranda (the road above the prom), but if you're a group you could opt for a taxi (around €30 including a few hours' waiting time at one or the other).

ACCOMMODATION

Livia ☎ 067 3477 077, 🌐 hotel-livia.com. Just 100m from the entrance to Butrint, this isolated hotel is fantastic value, with immaculate rooms and an excellent on-site restaurant. Doubles €55

HALLSTATT

Austria

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Viennese art Feast your eyes on stunning paintings by Gustav Klimt and Egon Schiele. See p.65
- ❷ Coffee and cake, Vienna Indulge in mouthwatering treats in one of Vienna's ornate coffeehouses. See p.71
- ❸ Salzburg A fine Baroque city, home to Mozart and, of course, the sound of music. See p.77
- ❹ Hallstatt Visit this picture-postcard village in the lovely Salzkammergut region. See p.82
- ❺ Adventure sports, Innsbruck Hiking, mountain-biking and skiing in the stunning Austrian Alps. See p.86

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.63

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €60, occasional treat €80

Drink Beer (0.5l) €4, wine or coffee €3

Food Schnitzel €10

Hostel/budget hotel €22/€65

Travel Train: Graz–Vienna €37.30; Vienna–Salzburg €25.50

FACT FILE

Population 8.7 million

Language German

Currency Euro (€)

Capital Vienna

International phone code 0043

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

2

Glorious Alpine scenery, monumental Habsburg architecture and the world's favourite musical – Austria's tourist industry certainly plays up to the clichés. However, it's not all bewigged Mozart ensembles and schnitzel; modern Austria boasts some of Europe's most varied museums and contemporary architecture, not to mention attractive and sophisticated cities whose bars, cafés and clubs combine contemporary cool with elegant tradition.

Long the powerhouse of the Habsburg Empire, Austria underwent decades of change and uncertainty in the early twentieth century. Shorn of her empire and racked by economic difficulties, the state fell prey to the promises of Nazi Germany. Only with the end of the Cold War did Austria return to the heart of Europe, joining the EU in 1995.

Politics aside, Austria is primarily known for two contrasting attractions – the fading imperial glories of the capital, and the stunning beauty of its Alpine hinterland. Vienna is the gateway to much of central Europe and a good place to soak up the culture of Mitteuropa. Less renowned provincial capitals such as Graz and Linz are surprising pockets of culture, innovation and vitality. Salzburg, between Innsbruck and Vienna, represents urban Austria at its most picturesque, an intoxicating Baroque city within easy striking distance of the mountains and lakes of the Salzkammergut, while the most dramatic of Austria's Alpine scenery is west of here, in and around Tyrol, whose capital, Innsbruck, provides the best base for exploration.

CHRONOLOGY

1st century BC Romans take over Celtic settlements in present-day Austria.

788 AD Charlemagne conquers Austrian land.

1156 The "Privilegium Minus" gives Austria the status of Duchy.

1278 The Habsburgs seize control of much of modern Austria (except Salzburg), and retain it until World War I.

1683 The Siege of Vienna – the Habsburgs under Leopold I defeat the Ottoman Turks outside Vienna.

1773 Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart becomes Court Musician in Salzburg.

1797 Napoleon defeats Austrian forces, taking Austrian land.

1814 An Austrian coalition force defeats Napoleon. In the Congress of Vienna the Salzburg lands are given to Austria, ending centuries of independence under prince-archbishops.

1866 Austrian territory is lost as a result of the Austro-Prussian war.

1899 Sigmund Freud publishes The Interpretation of Dreams, introducing the concept of the ego.

1914 The assassination of the Austrian Archduke, Franz Ferdinand, begins the events that lead to World War I.

1920 A new constitution creates the Republic of Austria.

1938 Hitler incorporates Austria into Germany through "Anschluss".

1945 Austria is occupied by Allied forces as World War II ends.

1965 The Sound of Music draws attention to Austria on the big screen.

1980s Protests at election of President Kurt Waldheim, due to rumours implicating him in Nazi war crimes.

1995 Austria joins the EU.

2008 The world is shocked by the case of Josef Fritzl – who imprisoned his daughter in a cellar for 24 years, fathering seven children with her.

2016 In a photo-finish presidential election, left/liberal candidate Alexander van der Bellen triumphs over the far-right Norbert Hofer, though the results are later disputed, leading to a re-run of the election.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

Austria lies at the heart of Europe, bordered by seven countries. Excellent transport connections make it an easy stop-off on either a north-south or east-west route through Europe. Vienna has a major international airport, and you can also fly to Salzburg, Innsbruck, Graz and Linz or to the Slovak capital Bratislava, only a 75-minute bus journey from Vienna. Vienna is also one of central Europe's major rail hubs, with connections including Budapest, Bratislava and Prague. Trains from Croatia and Slovenia stop in Graz, before also terminating here. Arriving in Vienna from northern Italy, it's likely you'll route via Venice and Klagenfurt. Innsbruck has good rail connections with both Italy and Munich, as does Salzburg.

2

GETTING AROUND

Austria's public transport is fast, efficient and comprehensive. ÖBB (oebb.at) runs a punctual train network, which includes most towns of any size. All stations in cities and larger towns have left-luggage lockers. An Austria one-country pass with Eurail starts at €130 (3 days' validity in 1 month; under-25s), though individual train prices may be cheaper. From Vienna to Linz or Salzburg, it can be cheaper to travel on the privately operated Westbahn (westbahn.at) out of the Westbahnhof rather than on ÖBB trains from the Hauptbahnhof.

Even cheaper connections between major cities are offered by German budget bus company Flixbus (flixbus.at), with Vienna–Graz from €9 and Vienna–Munich from €19.90. Remoter areas including the Alpine valleys are served by the ÖBB-owned Postbus (postbus.at). Daily and weekly regional travelcards (Netzkarte), covering both trains and buses, are available in many regions.

Austria is bike-friendly, with cycle lanes in all major towns, and sometimes between towns. Many train stations rent bikes for around €12 per day; Vienna and Innsbruck also have public bike rental networks.

ACCOMMODATION

Outside popular tourist spots such as Vienna and Salzburg, accommodation need not be too expensive. Good-value B&B is usually available in the many small family-run hotels known as Gasthöfe and Gasthäuser, with prices from €60 per double. In the larger towns and cities a pension or Frühstückspension will offer similar prices. Most places also have a stock of private rooms or Privatzimmer, although in well-travelled rural areas, roadside signs offering Zimmer Frei (vacancies) are common (double rooms from around €50). Local tourist offices have lists of these and will often ring around and book for you.

There are around a hundred HI hostels (Jugendherberge or Jugendgästehaus), run by or affiliated to ÖJHV (ojhv.at) or ÖJHW (oejhw.or.at). Rates are €20–27, normally including breakfast; non-members pay around €3.50 a night extra. There are also some excellent independent hostels in Salzburg and Vienna, plus affiliated youth hotel chains.

AUSTRIA ONLINE

🌐 austria.info Austrian Tourist Board website.

🌐 tiscover.com Detailed information on all regions of the country.

🌐 thelocal.at Austrian news, jobs and community pages in English.

Austria's numerous campsites often have laundry facilities, shops and snack bars. Most open April to September, although some open year-round.

FOOD AND DRINK

Austrian food is hearty and traditional; often of good quality, it makes use of local and seasonal ingredients. For ready-made snacks, try a bakery (Bäckerei), confectioner's (Konditorei) or local market. Fast food centres on the Würstelstand, which sells hot dogs, Bratwurst (grilled sausage), Käsekrainer (spicy sausage with cheese), Bosna (spicy, thin Balkan sausage) and Currywurst. In Kaffeehäuser or cafés and bars you can get light meals and snacks starting at about €7; daily specials (under €10) and lunchtime set menus (Tages- or Mittagsmenü) are usually good value. Pizza and burgers are cheaper than main dishes (Hauptspeisen; €10–18) such as schnitzel (tenderized veal or pork): Wienerschnitzel is fried in breadcrumbs, Jägerschnitzel is served with a sauce (usually mushroom or tomato). There is usually something available for vegetarians – often Käsespätzle, similar to macaroni cheese. Two seasonal ingredients worth trying in spring and early summer are Bärlauch (wild garlic), delicious in soups and pasta sauces, and Spargel (asparagus), typically the white variety and served with hollandaise.

DRINK

For Austrians, daytime drinking traditionally centres on the Kaffeehaus, a relaxed place serving alcoholic and soft drinks, snacks and cakes, plus a wide range of coffees: a Schwarzer is small and black; a Brauner comes with a little milk; a Melange is half coffee, half milk; a Verlängerter is an espresso diluted with hot water; an Einspänner is a glass of black coffee topped with whipped cream (schlag). Coffee is pricey in a kaffeehaus (€3–5 a cup), though for this you can linger for hours. Most cafés also offer a tempting array of cakes and pastries, as do Café-Konditorei (café-pâtisseries), where the cakes take centre stage.

Night-time drinking centres on bars and cafés, although traditional Bierstuben and Weinstuben are still thick on the ground. Austrian beers are good quality: most places serve the local brew on tap, either by the Krügerl (half-litre, €3.50–5), Seidel (third-litre, €2–4) or Pfiff (fifth-litre, €1–3). The local wine, drunk by the Viertel (25cl mug) or the Achterl (12.5cl glass), is often excellent. The Weinkeller is the place to go for this, or, in the wine-producing areas, a Heuriger or Buschenschank – a traditional tavern, usually serving cold food as well.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Austrian etiquette is much like the rest of Western Europe, with the leisurely café culture a central fixture. In restaurants, bars and cafés modest tipping – around ten percent or rounding up to the nearest euro – is expected (pay the waiter or waitress directly).

SPORTS AND ACTIVITIES

With stunning mountain scenery and beautiful lakes, Austria is an ideal destination for all sorts of outdoor sports. Skiing and snowboarding are major national pastimes (see box, p.86), and hiking and biking trails are clearly marked and graded. Tourist offices usually have a surfeit of details on local routes and activities.

STUDENT DISCOUNTS

It's worth carrying an ISIC card (🌐 isic.org) in Austria. Entry to museums and art galleries is costly, particularly in Vienna, and showing your student card will reap savings of 25 percent or more.

LANGUAGE

A high proportion of Austrians speak English, though any attempt at German (see box, p.357) will be appreciated. Austrian accents and dialects can be tricky, however – the standard greeting throughout Austria is Grüss Gott.

COMMUNICATIONS

Most post offices are open Monday to Friday 8am to noon and 2 to 6pm; in larger cities they stay open through lunch and also open Saturday morning. Stamps can also be bought at tobacconists (Tabak-Trafik). Telekom Austria (A1) is the main mobile phone network and also operates call boxes; other mobile networks are T-Mobile and 3. You can search the phone book free online (@herold.at). Most hostels and hotels have wi-fi, and some cities, including Vienna, Salzburg and Linz, have free public wi-fi hotspots.

EMERGENCIES

Austria is law-abiding and reasonably safe. Dial ☎059133 for the nearest police station (Polizei). Pharmacies (Apotheke) follow shopping hours; a rota covers night-time and weekend opening, with details posted in pharmacy windows.

INFORMATION

Tourist offices (usually Information, Tourismusverband, Verkehrsamt or Fremdenverkehrsverein) are plentiful, often hand out free maps and almost always book accommodation.

MONEY AND BANKS

Austria's currency is the euro (€). Banking hours tend to be Monday to Friday 8am to 12.30pm and 1.30 to 3pm; Thursday until 5.30pm. Banks charge less commission than exchange bureaux.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police ☎133; Ambulance ☎144; Fire ☎122.

OPENING HOURS AND PUBLIC HOLIDAYS

Most shops are open all day Monday to Saturday, though in the provinces they can close at lunch and on Saturday afternoons. Many cafés, restaurants and bars also have a weekly Ruhetag (closing day). Shops and banks close, and most museums have reduced hours, on public holidays: January 1, January 6, Easter Monday, May 1, Ascension Day, Whit Monday, Corpus Christi, August 15, October 26, November 1, December 8, December 24–26.

Vienna

Most people visit VIENNA (Wien) with a vivid image in their minds: a romantic place, full of imperial nostalgia, opera houses and exquisite cakes. Even so, the city can overwhelm with its eclectic feast of architectural styles, from High Baroque through the monumental imperial projects of the late nineteenth century, to the decorative Jugendstil (Art Nouveau) style of the early twentieth, used to great effect on several of the city's splendid U-Bahn stations.

Vienna became an important centre in the tenth century, then in 1278 the city fell to Rudolf of Habsburg, but didn't become the imperial residence until 1683. The great aristocratic families flooded in to build palaces in a frenzy of construction that gave Vienna its Baroque character. By the end of the Habsburg era the city had become a breeding ground for the ideological passions of the age, and the ghosts of Freud, Klimt and Schiele are now some of the city's biggest tourist draws.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Central Vienna is surprisingly compact, with the historical centre, or Innere Stadt, just 1km wide. The most important sights are concentrated here and along the Ringstrasse – the series of traffic- and tram-clogged boulevards that form a ring road around the centre. Efficient public transport allows you to cross the city in less than thirty minutes, making even peripheral sights, such as the monumental imperial palace at Schönbrunn, easily accessible. However, for all the grand palaces and museums, a trip to Vienna would not be complete without spending a leisurely afternoon over a creamy coffee and a piece of cake in one of the grand, shabby-glamorous coffeehouses for which the city is famous.

Stephansdom

The obvious place to begin exploration is Stephansplatz, the pedestrianized central square dominated by the hoary Gothic Stephansdom (Mon–Sat 6am–10pm, Sun 7am–10pm, except during services; free, but entry fees to most sections, combined ticket €17.90). It's worth paying to explore the interior more fully, with the highlights of the main section (English tours Mon–Sat 10.30am; €5.50) the Wiener Neustädter Altar, a late Gothic masterpiece, and the tomb of the Holy Roman Emperor Friedrich III. The catacombs (tours every 15–30min, Mon–Sat 10–11.30am & 1.30–4.30pm, Sun 1.30–4.30pm; €5.50) contain the entrails of illustrious Habsburgs housed in bronze caskets. Stellar views reward those climbing the 137m-high (343 steps) south spire (daily 9am–5.30pm; €4.50). Lower, but with a lift, is the north tower (same hours; €5.50). The warren of alleyways north and east of Stephansdom preserves something of the medieval character of the city, although the architecture reflects centuries of continuous rebuilding.

Judenplatz

Though one of Vienna's prettiest little squares, Judenplatz, northwest of Stephansdom, is dominated by a deliberately bleak concrete Holocaust Memorial by British sculptor Rachel Whiteread. The square marks the site of the medieval Jewish ghetto and you can view the foundations of a fourteenth-century synagogue at the excellent Museum Judenplatz at no. 8 (Mon–Thurs & Sun 10am–6pm, Fri 10am–5pm; €10), which brings something of medieval Jewish Vienna to life. The ticket includes entrance to the intriguing Jüdisches Museum of Jewish tradition and culture, at Dorotheergasse 11 to the south of Stephansplatz (Mon–Fri & Sun 10am–6pm; ☎jmw.at).

Kärntnerstrasse and Graben

From Stephansplatz, pedestrianized Kärntnerstrasse runs south past street entertainers and shops to the illustrious Staatsoper (☎wiener-staatsoper.at), opened in 1869 during the first phase of the Ringstrasse's development. A more unusual tribute to the city's musical genius is the state-of-the-art Haus der Musik, Seilerstätte 30 (daily 10am–10pm; €13; ☎hausdermusik.com), a hugely enjoyable museum of sound.

Running west of Stephansplatz is the more upscale Graben, featuring an extremely ornate plague column (Pestsäule), built to commemorate the 1679 plague.

VIENNA'S HEURIGEN

To sample Austrian wines on a scenic excursion, visit one of the wine-producing villages on Vienna's outskirts. To the north of the Danube, Stammersdorf (tram #31 from Schottenring; 36min) is surrounded by vineyards and filled with traditional, family-run Heurigen (wine taverns).

Wienhof Wienerer 21 Stammersdorferstr. 78 ☎heuriger-wienerer.at. A great place to start, with a pleasant garden, good-value meals (from around €8) and an excellent selection of whites available by the glass (from €1.55). Mid-March to April Fri 3pm–midnight, Sat & Sun noon–midnight, May to mid-Dec Thurs & Fri 3pm–midnight, Sat & Sun noon–midnight.

The Hofburg

A block southeast of Graben is the immense, highly ornate Hofburg palace (☎hofburg-wien.at), housing many of Vienna's key imperial sights. Skip the rather dull Kaiserappartements in favour of the more impressive Schatzkammer (Mon & Wed–Sun 9am–5.30pm; €12), where you'll see some of the finest medieval craftsmanship and jewellery in Europe, including relics of the Holy Roman Empire and the Habsburg crown jewels. The Hofburg is also home to two of Vienna's most enduring tourist images: singing boys and prancing horses. Steps beside the Schatzkammer lead up to the Hofmusik Kapelle (Mon & Tues 10am–2pm, Fri 11am–1pm; free), where the Vienna Boys' Choir sings Mass (mid-Sept to June Sun 9.15am; ☎01 533 99 27, ☎hofmusikkapelle.gv.at): you can obtain free, standing tickets from 8.30am (otherwise €10–36; book in advance).

On the north side of the Hofburg, the imperial stables are home to the white horses of the Spanish Riding School, known for their extraordinary, intricate performances. There are three main ways to see them: book a performance well in advance (mid-Feb to mid-June & mid-Aug to Dec, usually Sat & Sun at 11am, occasionally Fri & eves; standing from €25, seats from €50; ☎srs.at); attend a morning exercise session (10am–noon: April–June, Sept & Oct Tues–Fri; Nov–March & Aug Tues–Sat; tickets for exercise session and tours from Michaelerplatz visitor centre Tues–Sun 9am–4pm; €15); or join a guided tour of the school and stables (March to mid-June & Aug to mid-Dec daily, otherwise 5–6 days per week; tours 2pm, 3pm & 4pm; tour €18; combined tour and training session €31). Alternatively, if you just want to take a peek at the horses, look into the stables (Stallburg) from the glass windows on Reitschulgasse.

Finally, at the Hofburg's southeastern tip, the Albertina (daily 10am–6pm, Wed till 9pm; €12.90; albertina.at) houses one of the world's largest graphic art collections, with works by Raphael, Rembrandt, Dürer and Michelangelo.

The Ring and Rathausplatz

The Ring, the large boulevard that encircles the Innere Stadt, along with its attendant monumental civic buildings, was created to replace the town's fortifications, demolished in 1857; many of these buildings now house museums. On the western section is the showpiece Rathausplatz, a square framed by four monumental public buildings: the Rathaus (City Hall), the Burgtheater, Parliament and the Universität – all completed in the 1880s.

The Kunsthistorisches Museum

Of all Vienna's museums, the Kunsthistorisches Museum on Burgring still outshines them all (June–Aug daily 10am–6pm, Thurs till 9pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs till 9pm; €15; wkhm.at). It's one of the world's greatest collections of Old Masters – comparable with the Hermitage or Louvre. Highlight is an unrivalled collection of sixteenth-century paintings by Brueghel the Elder, while the Peter Paul Rubens collection is also very strong and works by Vermeer and Caravaggio are worth seeking out. A number of Greek and Roman antiquities add breadth and variety. Set aside several hours at least: there is also an excellent café.

The MuseumsQuartier

Southwest of the Ring is Vienna's MuseumsQuartier (MQ; mqw.at), a collection of museums and galleries in the old imperial stables, where the original buildings are enhanced by a couple of striking contemporary additions. Stylish outdoor seating, plenty of good cafés and an interesting calendar of events make the area a focus for Vienna's cultural life. The best museum here is the Leopold Museum (Mon, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–9pm; €13), with fine work by Klimt and the largest collection in the world of works by Egon Schiele.

The Secession

The eccentric, eye-catching building crowned with a “golden cabbage” by Karlsplatz is the Secession building (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €9.50; secession.at), built in 1898 as the headquarters of the Secessionist movement, whose aim was to break with the Viennese establishment and champion new ideas of art and aesthetics. Designed by Joseph Maria Olbrecht, the gallery was decorated by several luminaries of the group, including their first president Gustav Klimt. It still puts on contemporary exhibits today, with Klimt's Beethoven Frieze downstairs the only permanent artwork.

MAK

On the Ring's eastern section, beyond Stubenring, is the enjoyable MAK (Tues 10am–10pm, Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €9.90, free Tues 6–10pm; mak.at), an applied arts museum whose eclectic collection spans the Romanesque period to the twentieth century and includes an unrivalled Wiener Werkstätte collection.

The Belvedere

South of the Ringstrasse, the Belvedere (daily 10am–6pm; Oberes €14, combined ticket €20; belvedere.at; tram #D from the opera house) is one of Vienna's finest palace complexes. Two magnificent Baroque mansions face each other across a sloping formal garden. The loftier of the two, the Oberes Belvedere, has the best concentration of paintings by Klimt in the city, including The Kiss, while the Unteres Belvedere and Orangerie show temporary exhibitions.

Schönbrunn

The biggest attraction in the city suburbs is the imperial summer palace of Schönbrunn (📍schoenbrunn.at; ④ to Schönbrunn), designed by Fischer von Erlach on the model of residences like Versailles. To visit the palace rooms or Prunkräume (daily: April–June, Sept & Oct 8.30am–5pm; July & Aug 8.30am–6pm; Nov–March 8.30am–4.30pm) there's a choice of two tours: the “Imperial Tour” (€13.30), which takes in 22 state rooms, and the “Grand Tour” (€16.40 with audioguide, €19.40 with tour guide), which includes forty rooms. The shorter tour misses out the best rooms – such as the Millions Room, a rosewood-panelled chamber covered from floor to ceiling with wildly irregular Rococo cartouches, each holding a Persian miniature watercolour. The palace gets unbearably overcrowded at the height of summer, with lengthy queues, so buy tickets in advance online. The splendid Schlosspark (daily 6.30am–dusk; free) is dotted with attractions, including the Gloriette – a hilltop colonnaded monument, now a café and terrace with splendid views (terrace daily: mid-March to June, Sept & Oct 9am–6pm; July & Aug 9am–7pm; late Oct to early Nov 9am–4pm; €3.60), fountains, a maze and labyrinth (same hours as Gloriette; €5.20) and Vienna's excellent Tiergarten or zoo (daily: Jan, Nov & Dec 9am–4.30pm; Feb 9am–5pm; March & Oct 9am–5.30pm; April–Sept 9am–6.30pm; €18.50; 📍zoovienna.at).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Vienna Airport (📍viennaairport.com) is around 16km southeast of the city. The cheapest way to Wien-Mitte station in the centre is to take S-Bahn line ⑤ 7 (every 30min; 25min; €3.90 one-way), though the City Airport Train (CAT; every 30min; 16min; €11 one-way) is faster. Buses (every 30min; €8 one-way) run to 📍Schwedenplatz (20min) in the centre and Westbahnhof (45min).

By train South of the centre, Vienna's ultra-modern Hauptbahnhof is Austria's most important international rail hub; all ÖBB's principal long-distance routes stop here, including trains from Prague, Budapest, Bratislava, Graz, Innsbruck and Munich, as well as those from Italy, Poland and Slovenia. Trains from Salzburg and Linz terminate either at the Hauptbahnhof or at the Westbahnhof (③ 3, five stops from the centre). Many long-distance services also stop at Vienna-Meidling station (⑥ 6, four stops south of Westbahnhof).

Destinations Bratislava (every 30min; 1hr); Budapest (every 1–2hr; 2hr 40min); Graz (hourly; 2hr 35min); Innsbruck (hourly; 4hr 25min); Linz (up to 5 hourly; 1hr 15min–1hr 35min); Melk (hourly; 1hr); Prague (every 2hr; 4hr); Salzburg (3 hourly; 2hr 20min–2hr 50min).

By bus Vienna international bus terminal is at Erdbergstr. (⑩ Erdberg, southeast of the centre, six stops from Stephansplatz on line ⑩ 3).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The main tourist office is on Albertinaplatz, behind the opera house (daily 9am–7pm; 📍01 245 55, 📍wien.info).

GETTING AROUND

So many attractions are in or around the Innere Stadt and can be visited on foot.

By public transport The network (📍wienerlinien.at) consists of trams (Strassenbahn or Bim), buses, the U-Bahn (metro) and the S-Bahn (fast commuter trains). U-Bahns run from around 5am to 12.30am or so, with a reduced frequency of roughly four per hour between midnight & 5am on Fridays and Saturdays; trams run till around midnight. A network of nightbuses centres on Schottentor and Kärntner Ring/Oper.

Tickets Buy your ticket from booths or machines at stations, tobacconists or on board trams and buses (more expensive), then validate it at the start of your journey. One-way tickets are €2.20 (€2.30 on board buses and trams) and allow unlimited changes in one direction; day passes are better value (24hr/48hr/72hr for €7.60/€13.30/€16.50). The Vienna Card (48hr/72hr for €21.90/€24.90) provides unlimited travel plus discounts at attractions, though if you have an ISIC card, a simple travel pass will probably work out cheaper.

By boat DDSG (📍www.ddsg-blue-danube.at) sightseeing boats dock at the Handelskai on the Danube northeast of the centre (📍Vorgartenstrasse, four stops from Stephansplatz); Twin City Liners catamarans (📍twincityliner.com) from Bratislava (April–Oct: up to 5 daily; 1hr 15min) dock at Schwedenplatz.

By bike Vienna has a very cheap city-wide bike scheme, CityBikes (📍citybikewien.at), with 120 stations all over the city, including behind Stephansdom on Stephansplatz. The first hour is free, second is €1, third is €2. Bikes can be rented with a credit card or with a Citybike “tourist card”

VIENNESE ADDRESSES

Vienna is divided into numbered districts (Bezirke). District 1 is the Innere Stadt; districts 2–9 are arranged clockwise around it; districts 10–23 are a fair way out.

Addresses begin with the number of the district, followed by the street name, then the house number and apartment number.

(€2 from the Radstation at the Hauptbahnhof; Mon–Fri 5.30am–8.30pm, Sat & Sun 6am–8pm).

ACCOMMODATION

For cheaper accommodation booking ahead is essential in summer. Several hostels are near the Westbahnhof, which is an easy few steps into the centre.

HOSTELS

★ Hostel Ruthensteiner 15, Robert Hamerlinggasse 24 ①01 893 42 02, ②hostelruthensteiner.com; ③Westbahnhof. Excellent, friendly and relaxed hostel an easy walk from the Westbahnhof. There's a spacious leafy courtyard, plus bar, musical instruments, kitchen, iPads, barbecue, laundry and free wi-fi. Dorms €20, doubles €66
Mojo Vie 7, Kaiserstr. 77/8 ①0676 551 11 55, ②mymojovie.at; ③Burggasse-Stadthalle or tram #5 to Burggasse from Westbahnhof. Charming, stylish alternative to the standard hostel, with a network of local apartments housing dorms and private rooms. Excellent communal areas and personal, welcoming vibe. Reception 8am–1pm. Minimum two nights. Dorms €24, doubles €60

Palace Hostel 16, Savoyenstrasse 2 ①01 481 00 30, ②hostel.at/en/palace-hostel-vienna; ③Ottakring then bus #46a or #46b. Located amid leafy grounds up in the Vienna hills, with a view of the city. All rooms come with showers and some have direct access to the garden with its volleyball net and minigolf. Free sheets, parking and wi-fi. Dorms have a maximum of 4 beds. Dorms €22, doubles €60

Wombat's Naschmarkt 4, Rechte Wienzeile 35 ①01 897 23 36, ②wombats-hostels.com; ③Kettenbrückengasse. It's all about location at this branch of Wombat's, right by the Naschmarkt and within walking distance of the Innere Stadt. It's slick and well equipped, with en-suite dorms, a good bar, laundry and free wi-fi. Dorms €20, doubles €78
Wombat's "The Lounge" 15, Mariahilferstr. 137 ①01 897 23 36, ②wombats-hostels.com. Smaller of Vienna's two party-oriented Wombat's hostels, close to the Westbahnhof. With kitchen, laundry, 24hr reception and free wi-fi. Dorms €21, doubles €68

HOTELS AND PENSIONS

Pension Hargita 7, Andreagasse 1/8 ①01 526 19 28, ②hargita.at; ③Zieglergasse. Homely, Hungarian-owned pension in a great location just off Mariahilferstr. The interior is decorated with blue country pottery, while the cabin-like common areas are lined with wood. All rooms contain washbasins, though en-suite costs extra. Breakfast €5. Doubles €54

Pension Wild 8, Lange Gasse 10 ①01 406 51 74, ②pension-wild.com; ③Volkstheater. Friendly, laidback pension, a short walk from the Ring in a student district behind the university. En-suite costs extra. Especially popular with gay travellers; booking essential. Doubles €59

CAMPSITE

Wien West 14, Hüttelbergstr. 80 ①01 914 23 14, ②wiencamping.at; bus #52 A or B from ③Hütteldorf. In the plush far-western suburbs of Vienna, with two- and four-bed bungalows to rent. Closed Feb. Camping/person €7.50, plus per tent €7.50/8.50, bungalows/person €40

EATING

CAFÉS, CHEAP EATS AND SNACKS

With stalls selling giant savoury borek pastries from €2.50 or falafel sandwiches from €3.80, the Naschmarkt is the best place for cheap street food.

Central 1, Herrengasse 14; ③Herrengasse. Traditional meeting place of Vienna's intelligentsia, and Trotsky's favourite Kaffeehaus – of all Vienna's cafés, perhaps the most ornate. Breakfast (from €6.30) served until 11.30am weekdays, 1pm at weekends; main courses from €14.50 and a tempting cake display. Mon–Sat 7.30am–10pm, Sun 10am–10pm.

Europa 7, Zollergasse 8; ③Neubaugasse. Lively, modern café hosting a young, trendy crowd. The short menu includes breakfast from €5.90 and soups or salads from €3.20. Food is served into the small hours, but it's more bar than café by night; cocktails €7.80. Daily 9am–5am.

Kantine 7, Museumsplatz 1; ③MuseumsQuartier. One of the MuseumsQuartier's nicer cafés, serving breakfast until 3pm (€2.90), veggie-friendly stuffed pittas (from €6.90) and organic Schladminger beer. The vibe is relaxed and there's free wi-fi. Daily 9am–2am.

Landtmann 1, Universitätsring 4; ③Schottentor. One of Freud's haunts, this elegant Art Deco favourite feels fit for royals and has always attracted big-name celebrities and politicians, though also welcomes people from all walks of life. Breakfasts from €8.50, two-course Mittagsmenü €12.50. Daily 7.30am–midnight.

★ Neni 6, Naschmarkt 510; ③Karlsplatz. Trendy Israeli café in the thick of the Naschmarkt's foodie scene, with delicious Mediterranean breakfasts served until noon (from €6.50), inexpensive mezze (from €3.50) and a two-course lunch menu for €11.50. Mon–Sat 8am–11pm.

★ Prückel 1 Stubenring 24; ③Stubentor. You could lose hours of your life to coffee, cake and the newspapers in this, one of the best and most relaxed of the classic

Viennese coffeehouses, with stylish 1950s decor and hot food from around €7. Live piano music Mon, Wed & Fri 7–10pm. Daily 8.30am–10pm.

★ Sperl 6, Gumpendorferstr. 11; ① Museumsquartier. With a slightly faded, fin-de-siècle interior this is among the finest of the city's coffeehouses, with reasonably priced daily specials (€9.80) and schnitzel (€11.40). Mon–Sat 7am–11pm, Sun 11am–8pm, July & Aug closed Sun.

Trzesniewski 1, Dorotheergasse 1. Just off Graben, this is a great place for a pit stop – grab a couple of small open sandwiches, with pâté toppings such as herring, egg or spicy pepper for €1.20 each, washed down with a pfiff (0.2l; €1.20) of beer. Mon–Fri 8.30am–7.30pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm.

RESTAURANTS

Aromat 4, Margaretenstr. 52 ① 01 913 24 53; ① Kettenbrückengasse. Tiny 1950s canteen-style place, with a short, daily changing evening menu of Mediterranean-influenced dishes (antipasti or Lebanese platters €7.90), plus sweet and savoury crêpes (from €5.90). Daily 5–10pm.

Salm Bräu 3, Rennweg 8; tram #71. With long outdoor tables in summer, this brew pub dishes up Viennese staples and huge salads (lunch menu €6.90, daily specials €15) as well as a fine selection of brewed-on-the-premises beers and spirits. Daily 11am–midnight.

Schnitzelwirt 7, Neubaugasse 52; tram #49. A convivial local favourite set in a wood-panelled space, perfect for getting cosy on cold nights. Great place for wienerschnitzel – a bargain at €7. Mon–Sat 11am–9.30pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

For a bar crawl or live music the string of clubs under the railway arches around ① Thaliastr, Josefstädterstr. and Alserstr. are a good bet, while in summer beach bars line the Donaukanal.

BARS

Café Leopold 7, Museumsplatz 1 ① cafe-leopold.at; ① MuseumsQuartier. Coolest of the MuseumsQuartier's cafés, in a stylish glass-walled space attached to the museum, with a roof terrace. Chic café during the day; DJs and cocktails (€8.80) at night. Mon–Wed & Sun 10am–midnight, Thurs 10am–4am, Fri & Sat 10am–6am.

★ Espresso 7, Burggasse 57; ① Volkstheater. Stylish, friendly café/bar with street terrace and 1950s furniture; wines by the glass from €2.80. Mon–Fri 7.30pm–1am, Sat & Sun 10am–1am.

Rote Bar 7, Neustiftgasse 1; ① Volkstheater. Inside the Volkstheater, this sumptuous spot is decked out in red velvet and feels a bit like going back in time. Welcomes all ages, but be sure to wear your best threads. Admission price varies for DJ and tango nights. Mon–Fri 10pm–2am, Sat 10pm–4am, Sun 10pm–1am.

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Loos American Bar 1, Kärntnerdurchgang 10; ① Stephansplatz. Designed in the proto-modernist style of architect Adolf Loos, and with an old-school feel, this classy joint attracts people of all ages who appreciate an expertly made cocktail (from €9.50). Come early if you want a seat. Daily noon–4am.

Wirr 7, Burggasse 70 ① wirr.at; ① Volkstheater. Hip, arty day-into-evening café-bar and basement club, with a terrace in summer and an eclectic weekend breakfast menu until 4pm (from €4.80). Mon–Wed & Sun 8am–2am, Fri & Sat 8am–4am.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

B72 8, Hernalser Gürtel 72, under the arches ① b72.at; ① Alserstr. or Josefstädterstr. Dark designer club featuring a mixture of DJs and often good live indie bands. Sun–Thurs 8pm–4am, Fri & Sat 8pm–6am.

Flex 1, Am Donaukanal ① flex.at; ① Schottenring. A stalwart in Vienna's club scene, this serious dance-music club by the canal attracts some of the city's best DJs. Entry price varies, but expect to pay around €8. Live gigs 7pm; club Thurs–Sat 11pm–6am.

Fluc/Fluc Wanne 2, Praterstern 5 ① fluc.at; ① Praterstern. This upstairs bar (Fluc) and underground club (Fluc Wanne) inside a former pedestrian tunnel could be mistaken for industrial containers. Come evening they transform into one of the best venues in the city, with interesting electro, house and hip-hop club nights. Entry €5–10. Mon–Sat 8pm–3am or later.

Passage 1, Babenberger Passage, Burggring 3 ① club-passage.at; ① MuseumsQuartier/Volkstheater. Dressy, futuristic club in a converted pedestrian underpass, attracting a mixed crowd. Entry price varies depending on night. Tues–Thurs 10pm–5am, Fri & Sat 11pm–6am.

SHOPPING

Mariahilferstr. is best for high-street clothes shops and the big chains, though Neubaugasse, nearby, is more eclectic.

Brunnenmarkt Brunnegasse; ① Josefstädter Strasse. With a distinctively local feel, Brunnenmarkt sells everything from homewares to Turkish breads and pastries. At Yppenplatz, its northern end, there's a farmers' market on Sat mornings, where you can pick up local produce or stop for brunch at one of the many cafés. Mon–Fri 6am–7.30pm, Sat 6am–5pm.

Naschmarkt ① Karlsplatz. Large famous market with Turkish deli stalls, hip cafés and a plethora of stalls and snack joints, serving everything from falafel to sushi. On Sat mornings a flea market extends south from here near ① Kettenbrückengasse. Mon–Fri 6am–7pm, Sat 6am–6pm.

Shakespeare & Co 1, Sternegasse 2 ☎ shakespeare.co.at;

① Schwedenplatz. Friendly English-language bookshop; also sells translations of Austrian authors. Mon–Sat 9am–9pm.

ENTERTAINMENT

The local listings magazine Falter (☎ falter.at) has comprehensive details of the week's cultural programme. The tourist office also publishes the free monthly Programm.

Konzerthaus 3, Lothringerstr. 20 ☎ 01 24 20 02, ☎ konzerthaus.at. A major classical venue which also hosts occasional jazz and world music performances.

Musikverein 1, Musikvereinsplatz 1 ☎ 01 505 81 90, ☎ musikverein.at. Ornate concert hall, bastion of classical music, acclaimed for its acoustics and home to the Vienna Philharmonic.

Staatsoper 1, Opernring 2 ☎ 01 513 15 13, ☎ wiener-staatsoper.at. One of Europe's most prestigious opera houses. The season runs Sept–June and tickets range from €6 to well over €250. They often sell out, but the office also sells hundreds of standing-place tickets (Stehplätze) each night 1hr 20min before a performance (from €2–4).

DIRECTORY

Embassies Australia, 4, Mattiellistr. 2 ☎ 01 50 67 40; Canada, 1, Laurenzerberg 2 ☎ 01 531 38 30 00; Ireland, 1, Rotenturmstr. 16–18 ☎ 01 715 42 46; UK, 3, Jaureggasse 12 ☎ 01 71 61 30; US, 9, Boltzmanngasse 16 ☎ 01 31 33 90.

Hospital Allgemeines Krankenhaus, 9, Währinger Gürtel 18–20; ☎ Michelbeuern-AKH.

Post office Westbahnhof (Mon–Fri 8am–7pm, Sat 9am–6pm), Hauptbahnhof (Mon–Fri 8am–7pm, Sat 9am–3pm).

Central Austria

West of Vienna, the Danube snakes through the Wachau, one of its most scenic stretches, where castles and vineyards cling to steep slopes above quaint villages. The western end of this 40km stretch is marked by a stunning Baroque monastery in Melk. Further west the river steadily loses charm, though it's still a focus for several towns and cities, including LinZ, whose high-tech Ars Electronica museum is particularly enjoyable. South of the Danube region, the land slowly climbs and rolls into the hills of Styria, with its attractive and bustling capital Graz. Northwest of here, the land rises again up to the Salzkammergut, a region of fine Alpine scenery and pretty lakes within easy reach of Salzburg. Southwest of the Salzkammergut the peaks really start to soar, and resorts like Zell am See take full advantage of the landscape to offer great skiing and first-rate outdoor activities.

MELK

For real High Baroque excess, head for the early eighteenth-century Benedictine monastery at MELK – a pilgrimage centre associated with the Irish missionary St Koloman. The monumental coffee-cake monastery, perched on a bluff over the river, dominates the town. Highlights of the interior (daily: April–Oct 9am–5pm; tours in English 10.55am & 2.55pm; Nov–March guided tours only 11am & 2pm; €11, €13 with guided tour; ☎ stiftmelk.at) are the exquisite library, with a cherub-flecked ceiling by Troger, and the rather lavish monastery church, with similarly impressive work by Rottmayr.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is at the head of Bahnhofstrasse, which leads directly into the old quarter.

Tourist information Kremser Strasse 5 (March Mon, Wed, Fri 9.30am–3.30pm; April & Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 10am–2pm; May–Sept Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm, Sun 9.30am–4pm; ☎ 02 75 25 11 60, ☎ melk.gv.at). Has a stock of private rooms; not all are central, but since Melk is small it's not a major issue.

ACCOMMODATION

Junges Hotel Melk Abt Karl-Str. 42 ☎ 02 75 25 26 81, ☎ melk.noehjw.at. HI hostel a 10min walk from the station, with wi-fi, bike parking and table tennis; reception 4–9pm. Breakfast included. Dorms €22.50, doubles €57

LINZ

Away from its industrial suburbs, LINZ is a pleasant Baroque city straddling the Danube, and steadily reinventing itself as a city of technology and innovation, most evident in a couple of show-stopping new museums.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Linz's two most striking contemporary attractions, Lentos Museum and Ars Electronica Center, face each other on either side of the Danube River – both are illuminated at night, their neon facades glowing dramatically opposite each other. To the south of the river is the city's compact Old Town, the hub of which is Hauptplatz, with its pastel-coloured facades and central Trinity Column, crowned by a gilded sunburst. Many of the city's liveliest bars are clustered just west of here, around the triangle formed by Hoffgasse, Altstadt and Hahnengasse. Heading south from the Hauptplatz, the busy shopping street Landstrasse leads south towards the train station.

Lentos

A modern addition to the city's cultural scene nestles beside the Danube: the shimmering, hangar-like steel-and-glass Lentos (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs till 9pm; €8; lentos.at), which houses contemporary and modern art, including Klimt and Schiele.

Ars Electronica Center

An unusual, tardis-like temple to science and technology, Ars Electronica Center, Ars Electronica Strasse 1 (Tues, Wed & Fri 9am–5pm, Thurs 9am–7pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €9.50; aec.at) makes a trip to Linz worthwhile alone. Inside the glowing box of an exterior is an impressive series of interactive high-tech exhibits. One highlight is the Deep Space virtual-reality room with 3D projections on the walls and floor. Basement areas explore future developments in biology, materials, the brain and robots – set aside several hours and get stuck into the hands-on experiments.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train 2km south of the centre, at the end of Landstr; all trams (lines #1, #2, #3 and #4) from the underground platform at the station (direction "Zentrum") run up Landstr. to Hauptplatz.

Destinations Salzburg (every 30min; 1hr 5min–1hr 15min); Vienna (3 hourly; 1hr 15min–1hr 35min).

Tourist information Altes Rathaus, Hauptplatz 1 (May–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–7pm; Oct–April Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 07 32 70 70 20 09, linz.at); sells the Linz Card (1-day €18, students €15; 3-day €30, students €25), which includes entry to museums and travel.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Useful network of trams and buses: "mini" 4-stop ticket €1.10; single journey ("midi", transferable) €2.20; 24hr "maxi" ticket €4.40, under-21s €2.20. The Pöstlingbergbahn from Hauptplatz is a tourist tram (every 30min; 20min one-way; €6.10 return), up to the Pöstlingberg on the north side, a hill with good views over the city and a beer garden.

ACCOMMODATION

Campingplatz Linz-Pichlingersee Wienerstr. 937 ☎ 07 32 30 53 14, camping-linz.at. Well-equipped campsite on a lake on the outskirts of Linz, with a restaurant, bar and laundry facilities. Tram #2 to Bahnhof Ebelsberg, then bus #11 or #19, direction Pichlinger See. Open mid-March to mid-Oct. Per person €5.50, plus per tent €6.

Jugendherberge Stanglhofweg 3 ☎ 07 32 66 44 34, jugendherbergsverband.at; bus #17, #19, #27 to "Ziegeleistr". Friendly youth hostel 2km from Hauptbahnhof. All bedrooms are en suite and breakfast is included. Reception Mon–Fri 7.30am–8.30pm, Sat & Sun 4–8.30pm. Dorms €24.50, doubles €55.

Wilder Mann Goethestr. 14 ☎ 07 32 65 60 78, wildermann.cc; tram one stop from the station to Goethestr. Simple, friendly and convenient hotel, between the train station and the centre; rooms with shared facilities or with en-suite showers. Doubles €62.

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Alte Welt Hauptplatz 4. Unpretentious bar and wine cellar with tables on a cosy courtyard just off the Hauptplatz and on the main square itself. Hearty, Austrian/Italian-influenced mains €8–15. Occasional live music and cabaret. Mon–Fri 11.30am–2.30pm & 6–11pm, Sat noon–2.30pm & 6–11pm, Sun 6–10pm.

p'aa Altstadt 28. Contemporary vegetarian restaurant, with an imaginative, global menu including curries, Greek, Turkish and Italian-inspired dishes, salads and tasty juices. Lunch mains €9.50–15.50; evening €12.50–18.50. Opening hours vary, but usually Mon & Tues 11.30am–2.30pm, Wed–Fri 11.30am–2.30pm & 6–10pm.

★ Traxlmayr Promenade 16. The traditional coffeehouse in Linz serves excellent coffees and hot main courses (from €8) – treat yourself to a slice of Linzer Torte, the town's ubiquitous almond-and-jam cake (€3.80). Mon–Sat 7.30am–10pm, Sun 9am–7pm.

GRAZ

Austria's second-largest city, GRAZ, owes its importance to the defence of central Europe against the Turks. From the fifteenth century, it was constantly under arms, rendering it more secure than Vienna and leading to a modest seventeenth-century flowering of the arts. Today Graz celebrates its reputation as a city of design, thanks to a clutch of modern architectural adventures and a large student population, and it's a fun place to spend a few days without the tourists of Innsbruck or Salzburg.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Graz is compact and easy to explore, with most sights within easy walking distance of its central Hauptplatz, with its fantastically decorated Baroque facades.

The Altstadt

From Hauptplatz, it's a few steps to the River Mur and two examples of Graz's architectural renaissance: the Murinsel is an ultramodern floating bridge-cum-meeting-place with a café linking the two banks, inspired by an open mussel, while the giant bulbous Kunsthau Graz (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €9, or Joanneum

2

GRAZ

■ ACCOMMODATION

A&O Graz Hauptbahnhof	1
Hotel Strasser	2
Jufa Graz	3

● EATING

Brot und Spiele	2
Café Promenade	3
Glöckl Bräu	5

La Enoteca dei Cicliopi	4
Mangolds	6
Propeller	1

■ DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

MI	2
Parkhouse	1
Postgarage	3

LANDESMUSEUM JOANNEUM TICKET

A combined ticket giving entrance to all Landesmuseum Joanneum museums comes in two versions: €13 for 24hr, €19 for 48hr.

2

ticket; ☎ kunsthausgraz.at) is a museum of contemporary art, video installation and photography. Pick of the rest of the Joanneum museums is the Landeszeughaus city armoury on Herrengasse (Tues–Sun: April–Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–March guided tours only at 11am & 2pm in German; English tour at 1pm; €9, or Joanneum ticket), which bristles with sixteenth-century weapons used to keep the Turks at bay.

Schlossberg

For views over the city, head up the wooded hill that overlooks the town: either walk up the zigzagging stone stairs from Schlossbergplatz or take the lift (daily 8am–12.30am; €1.30 single) or funicular from Sackstrasse (April–Sept Mon–Thurs 9am–midnight, Fri & Sat 9am–2am, Sun 9am–11pm; Oct–March Mon–Thurs 10am–midnight, Fri & Sat 10am–2am, Sun 10am–10pm; €2.20). The Schloss, or fortress, was destroyed by Napoleon in 1809; only a few prominent features survive – noticeably the huge sixteenth-century Uhrturm (clock tower), and more distant Glockenturm (bell tower).

Schloss Eggenberg

Some 4km west of the city centre (tram #1 from the train station), the Baroque Schloss Eggenberg was designed in imitation of the Escorial for Hans Ulrich von Eggenberg (1568–1634), chief minister to Ferdinand II. It houses on one floor the Alte Galerie (April–Oct Wed–Sun 10am–5pm; Nov to early Jan by guided tour only; €9, or Joanneum ticket), whose intelligently curated collection includes thirteenth-century devotional works, and a macabre Triumph of Death by Jan Brueghel. The palace rooms, Prunkräume (hourly guided tours Tues–Sun 10am–4pm, except 1pm; €11.50, or Joanneum ticket), were designed as an allegory of the universe (24 rooms, 365 windows on the outside, four towers and so on); the highlight is the “Room of the Planets”, a great hall with an elaborate ceiling and wall paintings depicting the zodiac, and also the three Asian rooms, in particular the one decorated with rare Japanese panels from Osaka.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Graz's train station is on the western edge of town, a 15min walk or short tram ride (#1, #3, #6 or #7) from Hauptplatz.

Destinations Innsbruck (3 daily; 5hr 50min–6hr 25min); Hallstatt via Stainach-Irdning (5 daily; 2hr 45min); Salzburg (5 daily; 4hr); Vienna (hourly; 2hr 35min).

Tourist information Herrengasse 16 (daily: Jan–March & Nov 10am–5pm; April–Oct & Dec 10am–6pm; ☎ 0316 807 50, ☎ graztourismus.at).

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Graz has a good bus and tram network; the 24hr Tageskarte (€5) is valid on all city transport; 1hr ticket €2.20, available from bus drivers, machines on trams and at the main station, Jakominiplatz and Hauptplatz.

ACCOMMODATION

A&O Graz Hauptbahnhof Eggenbergerstr. 7 ☎ 03 16 57 01 62 37 00, ☎ aohostels.com; Modern, functional hostel in a convenient location, around the corner from the train station. Accommodation is in singles, doubles and 4–8-bed dorms; there are also women-only dorms, rooftop bar and wi-fi. Dorms €15, doubles €57

Hotel Strasser Eggenburger Gürtel 11 ☎ 03 16 71 39 77, ☎ hotelstrasser.at. Good-value three-star hotel close to the station, with comfortable, if plain, singles, doubles and triple rooms with TV and massage showers. Doubles €63

Jufa Graz Idlhofgasse 74 ☎ 05 708 32 10, ☎ jufa.eu; bus #50 from Hauptbahnhof. Friendly, modern youth and family-oriented hotel a 15min walk from the train station and centre. Accommodation is in singles, doubles and 3/4 bed en-suite family rooms, all with free wi-fi. Breakfast included. Doubles €76

EATING

Brot und Spiele Mariahilferstr 17. Central, unpretentious bar and restaurant attached to a pool hall, which serves food until midnight. Good burgers (from €6.30) and a good selection of international beers. Mon–Fri 10am–2am, Sat & Sun 1pm–2am.

GRAZ FARMERS' MARKET

Known for its wine-growing and farming, the region of Styria (Steiermark) produces local specialties, in particular Kürbiskernöl (pumpkin seed oil), which has a delicious, nutty flavour and is used in salad dressings and other dishes on many Graz menus. The excellent Graz's farmers' market, Kaiser-Josef-Platz (Mon–Sat 6am–1pm), is a good place to buy bottles of Kürbiskernöl, local cheeses, breads, meat and other produce. There are also snack stands, coffee joints and fresh juice bars.

★ Café Promenade Erzherzog-Johann-Allee 1. Attractive, Neoclassical pavilion, with stylish modern decor and a terrace beneath chestnut trees on the edge of the Stadtpark. Serves snacks (from €3), tapas (from €2.40), tortillas, sandwiches plus more substantial fare (€7–15). Mon–Thurs 9am–1am, Fri & Sat 9am–2am, Sun 9am–midnight.

Glöckl Bräu Glockenspielplatz 2–3. Traditional place, with busy beer terrace serving hearty Austrian dishes like schnitzel or backhendl for under €11; lunch specials €7. Daily 10.30am–midnight.

La enoteca dei Cidopi Sackstr. 14 (in courtyard). This delightful Sicilian wine shop and restaurant, with a small cosy interior and a few courtyard tables, serves a short menu of delicious pasta dishes and antipasti. Lunchtime soup and pasta menu €6. Mon 5–10pm, Tues–Fri noon–11pm, Sat 11am–11pm.

Mangolds Griesgasse 11. Popular self-service place and excellent veggie option, with fresh juices and a large salad bar (pay by weight: €1.43/100g). Mon–Fri 11am–7pm, Sat 11am–4pm.

Propeller Zinzendorfsgasse 17. Convivial student pub with a beer garden and a good menu that ranges from hearty Austrian classics to burgers. The generous portions cost €8.50–10 and there's also an all-you-can-eat student lunch buffet (Mon–Fri 11am–2pm; €7.90). Mon–Fri 10am–1am, Sat & Sun noon–1am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

MI Färberplatz 1. Stylish, split-level third-floor café-bar (take the glass lift up), with a designer interior and an attractive roof terrace. Cocktails around €6.50. Mon–Fri 4pm–2am, Sat 9am–2am, Sun 4–11pm.

Parkhouse Stadtpark 2. Buzzy bar in a pavilion, tucked away in the park, with regular DJ nights and a young crowd spilling out onto the grass. Beers from €3.60; free entry. March–Oct daily 10am–late; Nov–Feb Fri & Sat from 9pm.

Postgarage Dreihackengasse 42 📞 postgarage.at. An interesting and varied programme of gigs and club nights in the four spaces here – free gigs, gay nights, techno and more. Generally open Wed–Sat: club nights 11pm–late, gigs start 7–8pm.

SALZBURG

For many visitors, SALZBURG represents the quintessential Austria, offering ornate architecture, mountain air and the musical heritage of the city's most famous son, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. The city and surrounding area were for centuries ruled by a series of independent prince-archbishops, and it is the pomp and wealth of their court that is evident everywhere in the fine Baroque Altstadt.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Salzburg's compact centre straddles the River Salzach, squeezed between two dramatic mountains – Mönchsberg on the west and Kapuzinerberg on the east. The west bank forms a tight-knit network of alleys and squares – Alter Markt, Residenzplatz, Mozartplatz (with obligatory statue of the composer) and Domplatz – overlooked by the medieval Hohensalzburg fortress high above.

Residenzplatz

The complex of Baroque buildings at the centre of Salzburg exudes the ecclesiastical and temporal power of Salzburg's archbishops, whose erstwhile living quarters, the Residenz (Mon & Wed–Sun 10am–4pm; €12, including access to the cathedral museums and organ gallery), dominates the west side of Residenzplatz. Take a self-guided audio-tour of the lavish state rooms, then head one floor up to the Residenzgalerie, whose collection includes a few interesting paintings, most notably Rembrandt's small, almost sketch-like Old Woman Praying.

On the east side of Residenzplatz, accessed from Mozartplatz, is the Neue Residenz, built by Archbishop Wolf Dietrich von Raitenau, and topped by the Glockenspiel, a seventeenth-century musical clock which chimes at 7am, 11am and 6pm. It now houses the excellent Salzburg Museum (Tue–Sun 9am–5pm; €8.50; salzburgmuseum.at), which, as well as showing some of the archbishop's lavish rooms, explores Salzburg's history, its rediscovery by Romantic painters and the city's tourist industry.

Domplatz and Franziskanerkirche

The pale marble facade of the Dom dominates Domplatz, while inside, the impressively cavernous Renaissance structure dazzles with its ceiling frescoes. Across Domplatz, an archway leads through to the Gothic Franziskanerkirche, which houses a fine Baroque altar around an earlier Madonna and Child. The altar is enclosed by an arc of nine chapels and a frenzy of stucco. Look out for the twelfth-century marble lion that guards the stairway to the pulpit.

Mozarts Geburtshaus and Mozarts Wohnhaus

Getreidegasse, the main street in Salzburg's Old Town, is lined with opulent boutiques, painted facades and wrought-iron shop signs. At no. 9 is the canary-yellow Mozarts Geburtshaus (daily: July & Aug 8.30am–6.30pm; Sept–June 9am–5pm; €10, joint ticket with Wohnhaus €17; mozarteum.at), where the musical prodigy was born in 1756 and lived until the age of 17. Between the waves of tour parties it can be an evocative place, housing some fascinating period instruments, including one of his baby-sized violins. Over the Salzach River on Makartplatz, Mozarts Wohnhaus was the family home from 1773 till 1787 (same hours; €10), and now contains an engrossing multimedia history of the composer.

Hohensalzburg

Overlooking the city from the rocky mountain, the fortified Hohensalzburg (daily: May–Sept 9am–6.30pm; Oct–April 9.30am–4.30pm; €12, or €15.20 including funicular; salzburg-burgen.at) is Salzburg's key landmark. You can get up here on Austria's oldest funicular (daily every 10min: April–June, Sept, Oct & Dec 9am–8pm; July & Aug 9am–10pm; Nov & Jan–March 9am–5pm; €8.40 return) from Festungsgasse behind the Dom, although the walk up isn't as hard as it looks. Begun around 1070, the fortress gradually became a more salubrious courtly seat. Included in the price is an audioguide tour of the observation tower – with spectacular views – and battlements, access to the impressive state rooms and various exhibitions.

Mönchsberg

For some of the best views across to the Hohensalzburg, take the Mönchsberg lift up to the Mönchsberg from Anton-Neumayr-Platz (July & Aug daily 8am–11pm; Sept–June Mon 8am–7pm, Tues–Sun 8am–9pm; €2.30 single, €3.60 return). At the summit, the sleekly concrete-and-glass Museum der Moderne (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, Wed till 8pm; €8) is a stylish contrast to all the Baroque that puts on big-name art exhibitions.

Schloss Mirabell

Across the river from the Altstadt, Schloss Mirabell on Mirabellplatz stands on the site of a palace built by Archbishop Wolf Dietrich for his mistress Salome, with whom the energetic prelate was rumoured to have sired a dozen children. Familiar from The Sound of Music, the palace's ornate gardens offer a popular view back across the city.

Schloss Hellbrunn and the Untersberg

The Italianate palace Schloss Hellbrunn (daily: April & Oct 9am–4.30pm; May, June & Sept 9am–5.30pm; July & Aug 9am–9pm, Wasserspiele only after 6pm; €12.50; schlosshellbrunn.at) on Salzburg's southern fringe – 5km from the city centre – was built in the early seventeenth century by Salzburg's decadent archbishop Marcus Sitticus as a place for entertaining. The main attraction is the gardens' impressive array of fountains and watery gimmicks, or wasserspiele; guided tours take forty minutes, with the tour guide showing off all the tricks and hidden fountains, including an elaborate, water-powered mechanical theatre (prepare to be

THE SOUND OF MUSIC

Salzburg wastes no time cashing in on its connection with the legendary singing Von Trapp family, immortalized in the movie The Sound of Music. From its kiosk on Mirabellplatz, Panorama Tours (☎06 628 83 21 10, panoramatours.com) runs The Original Sound of Music Tour (daily 9.15am & 2pm; 4hr; €42) to the key film locations, such as Hellsbrunn Palace and Mondsee Cathedral – they play the soundtrack and you're encouraged to sing along.

splashed). The palace itself features paintings of Sitticus's unusual animal collection, and a lavishly frescoed festival hall and music room.

To get to Schloss Hellbrunn take bus #25 from the train station or Mirabellplatz (every 20–30min). This bus continues to the village of St Leonhard, 7km further south, where a cable car (March–June & Oct–Nov 8.30am–4.30pm; July–Sept 8.30am–5pm; Dec–Feb 9am–3.30pm; return €23) climbs the 1853m Untersberg for impressive views of Salzburg to the north and the Alps to the south.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The station is 2km north of Mozartplatz; numerous buses run to Mirabellplatz and Altstadt.

Destinations Graz (5 daily; 4hr); Hallstatt via Attnang-Puchheim (hourly 2hr 10min–2hr 35min); Innsbruck (hourly; 1hr 50min); Linz (up to 4 hourly; 1hr 15min); Munich (1–2 hourly; 1hr 30min); Werfen (1–2 hourly; 40–55min); Zell am See (every 2hr; 1hr 35min).

By bus If you're travelling on to Germany, note that Berchtesgaden, in Bavaria, is most easily accessed by bus from Salzburg.

Destinations Berchtesgaden, Bavaria (hourly; 45min); Strobl (for St Wolfgang; hourly; 1hr 10min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Mozartplatz 5 (April–June & mid-Sept to mid-Oct daily 9am–6pm; July & first half Sept daily 9am–6.30pm, Aug daily 9am–7pm; mid-Oct to March Mon–Sat 9am–6pm; ☎ 06 62 88 98 73 30, salzburg.info); also at the train station (daily: May & Sept 9am–7pm; June 8.30am–7pm; July & Aug 8.30am–7.30pm; Oct–April 9am–6pm).

Salzburg Card Both tourist offices sell this card (Nov–April €24/24hr, €32/48hr, €37/72hr; May–Oct €27/24hr, €36/48hr, €42/72hr), which includes public transport and admission to all the city's sights – if you go on the Unterbergs cable car it almost pays for itself.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport The bus network centres on the train station and Mirabellplatz. Single tickets available in blocks of five from tobacconists and transport offices at €1.80 per ticket (€2.60 on board).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Nord-Sam Samstr. 22a ☎ 06 62 66 04 94, camping-nord-sam.com; bus #23 from the train station to stop Mauermannstr. The most central campsite, well equipped with a heated outdoor pool. Per person €12, plus per tent €6.50

Jufa Salzburg Josef Preis Allee 18 ☎ 05 708 36 13, jufa.eu; bus #25 from the train station. Large, very central, well-equipped hostel with accommodation in singles, doubles, 3-, 4- and 5-bed family rooms and 6–8-bed dorms. Breakfast included. Dorms €27.55, doubles €97

Meininger Fürbergstr. 18–20 ☎ 07 20 88 34 14, meininger-hotels.com; Obus #2 from Hauptbahnhof to Sterneckstr. Large modern, well-equipped hostel/hotel located on a busy junction out of the centre. Some rooms and the fifth-floor terrace have views over Kapuzinerberg. Dorms €16, doubles €64

Schwarzes Rössl Priesterhausgasse 6 ☎ 06 62 87 44 26, academihotels.at. Wonderful, creaky old place – in term time a hall of residence – that's central and great value. Rooms have shared or private facilities. Open July–Sept. Doubles €88

Yoho Paracelsusstr. 9 ☎ 06 62 87 96 49, www.yoho.at. Very popular and often fully booked hostel near the train station, with sociable bar, internet café, free wi-fi and laundry facilities. Dorms €22, doubles €132

EATING

★ Bazar Schwarzstr. 3. Elegant coffeehouse with a pleasant river-view terrace, a fantastic place to unwind and nibble with a view. Snacks and soups from around €5, mains €14–16. Mon–Sat 7.30am–7.30pm, Sun 9am–6pm.

Fingerlos Franz-Josef-Str. 9. Stylish and relaxed Café-Konditorei, serving cakes as fine as you'll find in Salzburg, and excellent breakfasts. Breakfasts from €4.70, cakes from €2.60. Tues–Sun 7.30am–7.30pm.

Fischkrieg Hanuschplatz 4. Unpretentious riverside place serving fish and seafood in every form. Try the fishburgers (€2.50), paella (€8.70) or calamari (€7.70). Mon–Fri 8.30am–6.30pm, Sat 8.30am–1pm.

★ Pommes Boutique Rudolfsplatz 1a. Some of the best burgers in Salzburg – including a decent veggie option – served from a tiny pavilion near the river. Portions are generous. From €4. Mon–Fri 11am–8pm, Sun noon–8pm.

Resch & Lieblich Toscaninihof 1a. Tucked away near the Festspielhaus, offering good-value Austrian cuisine in dining rooms carved out of the Hohensalzburg cliffs. Daily specials from €8.20. Mon–Sat noon–11pm; kitchen closes earlier.

Stieglkeller Festungsgasse 10. Enormous brewery-owned restaurant and beer garden with excellent views over the old town. Solid traditional food from €12. Daily 11am–10pm, closed Feb plus Mon in Jan & March.

DRINKING, NIGHTLIFE AND ENTERTAINMENT

The city hosts dozens of concerts of all musical persuasions year-round; check with Salzburg Ticket Service (salzburg.ticket.com), in the tourist office on Mozartplatz. The Salzburg Festival (late July to late Aug; ☎ 06 628 04 50, salzburgerfestspiele.at) is one of Europe's premier festivals of classical music, opera and theatre, with some outdoor concerts.

★ Augustiner Bräu Lindhofstr.7 (pedestrian entrance in Augustinergasse). A 15min stroll from the Old Town, this vast beer hall has a beautiful tree-shaded garden and own-brew beer, served in earthenware steins – €6.20 for 1l, €3.10 for 0.5l. It's good for inexpensive snacks and meals too. Mon–Fri 3–11pm, Sat & Sun 2.30–11pm.

Die Weisse 10 Rupertgasse. Lively microbrewery, well off the tourist track, with pleasant beer garden and great pub food. Goulash and dumplings €12. Mon–Sat 10am–midnight.

Rockhouse Schallmooser Hauptstr 46. Vibrant blend of bar, live rock venue and club, set in historic vaults in the flanks of the Kapuzinerberg. Gigs generally start at 8pm. Mon–Thurs 6pm–1am, Fri & Sat 6pm–2am.

DIRECTORY

Consulate UK, Alter Markt 4 ☎ 06 62 84 81 33.

Post office Residenzplatz 9, Mon–Fri 8am–6pm.

WERFEN

With its impressive fortification and spectacular ice caves, WERFEN, 40km south of Salzburg, offers a great day of sightseeing, but arrive early to comfortably see both. The moody castle Festung Hohenwerfen (April Tues–Sun 9.30am–4pm; May–Sept daily 9am–5pm; mid-July to mid-Aug daily 9am–6pm; Oct daily 9.30am–4pm; €12, €15.50 with lift), on an outcrop above town, lies a thirty-minute signed walk from Werfen's train station. Though much modified over the years, it has eleventh-century origins, with all the usual components – ornate chapel and torture chamber included – neatly gathered around a courtyard. There are daily falconry displays (April to mid-July & mid-Aug to Oct 11.15am & 3.15pm, mid-July to mid-Aug 11.15am, 2.15pm & 4.30pm) too.

Up the road from Werfen's castle, you can explore the first kilometre of a 40km underground network at the Eisriesenwelt ice caves. The caves are more than two hours' walk from the entrance building, so most visitors take a cable car. Tours run every 30min (daily: May–June, Sept & Oct 8am–3.45pm; July & Aug 8am–4.45pm; ticket office closes 45min before last tour; €12, €24 with cable car) and last around 75 minutes. It's cold, so take a jumper.

Trains from Salzburg frequently arrive at Werfen's station, from where buses (€7 return) to the caves depart daily at 8.18am, 10.18am, 12.18pm & 2.18pm; more buses leave (around every 20min) from the official Gries car park departure point across the river – it's signposted from the station and not far.

THE SALZKAMMERGUT

The Salzkammergut, Austria's lake district, features a spectacular series of lakes and mountains. You can get a feel for the area on a day-trip from Salzburg to St Wolfgang, or on a "Sound of Music tour", but if you want to hike, mountain bike or just chill out, head to a lakeside campsite or B&B for a few days' relaxation – picture-perfect Hallstatt is a good choice.

St Wolfgang

The pretty little village of ST WOLFGANG, on the north shore of Wolfgangsee, is undeniably picturesque, though it can get crowded in summer, and provides a good taster of the region, particularly if you take the vintage train to the top of the Schafberg peak (May–Oct 9.20am–3.30pm; last descent 5.05pm; €34 return; to avoid queuing, reserve a seat on ☎ 06 13 82 23 20,

GETTING AROUND THE SALZKAMMERGUT

A single train line runs north–south from Attnang-Puchheim via Bad Ischl (one of the region's main towns) and Hallstatt to Stainach Irdning (every two hours; 2hr 5min), with connections from Salzburg and Linz at Attnang-Puchheim and from Graz at Stainach Irdning. But buses are generally quicker, with Bad Ischl a useful hub for connections. Hourly bus #150 between Salzburg and Bad Ischl (1hr 35min) runs east along the southern shore of the Wolfgangsee; for St Wolfgang change at Strobl for connecting bus #546 (approx hourly; 15min).

Ⓜschafbergbahn.at) from a station on the western edge of town.

In town, the Pfarrkirche, above the lakeshore, houses a high altar, an extravagantly pinnacled structure 12m in height, completed between 1471 and 1481. It features brightly gilded scenes of the Coronation of the Virgin flanked by scenes from the life of St Wolfgang.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses from Strobl (see box, p.81) drop off at both ends of town, before and after the road tunnel that bypasses the centre.

By boat From April to October, Wolfgangsee Schifffahrt lake steamers run from St Gilgen (bus #150 from Salzburg) to the Schafberg station's jetty in St Wolfgang (April to mid-June, Sept & Oct 10.20am–6pm; mid-June to Aug 9am–6.50pm; €7.40; 40min; Ⓜschafbergbahn.at).

Tourist office The tourist office (mid-May to June & first half Sept Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–3pm, Sun 9am–noon/1pm; July & Aug Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm; mid-Sept to mid-May Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–noon; ☎06 138 80 03, Ⓜwolgangsee.at) is at the eastern entrance to the road tunnel.

Hallstatt

The jewel of the Salzkammergut is HALLSTATT, which clings to the base of precipitous cliffs on the shores of the Hallstättersee, 20km south of Bad Ischl. With towering peaks and a pristine lake, this is a stunning setting in which to hike, swim or rent a boat. Arriving by train is an atmospheric and evocative experience; the station is on the opposite side of the lake from the village, and the ferry, which meets all incoming trains, gives truly dramatic views.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Hallstatt gave its name to a distinct period of Iron Age culture after Celtic remains were discovered in the salt mines above the town. Many of the finds date back to the ninth century BC, and can be seen in the Museum Hallstatt (April & Oct daily 10am–4pm; May–Sept daily 10am–6pm; Nov–March Wed–Sun 11am–3pm; €8; Ⓜmuseum-hallstatt.at).

The Pfarrkirche has a south portal adorned with sixteenth-century Calvary scenes. In the graveyard outside is a small stone structure known as the Beinhaus

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES IN HALLSTATT

Boats can be rented on the lakeshore between the tourist office and the village centre (1hr; €15). The tourist office can advise on hiking routes and sells local hiking guides. At the southern end of town in the suburb of Lahn is a "Badinsel", an artificial island for sunbathing and swimming (changing facilities nearby).

(May–Oct daily 10am–6pm, €1.50), traditionally the repository for the skulls of villagers. The skulls, some quite recent, are inscribed with the names of the deceased and dates of their death, and are often decorated.

Steep paths zigzag up from the village centre and behind the graveyard to the Salzachtal (at least 1hr of hard hiking), the highland valley where salt mines (guided tours daily: April–Sept 9.30am–4.30pm; Oct 9.30am–3pm; Nov 9.30am–2.30pm; €22) once ensured the area's prosperity. Alternatively, take the funicular (daily: April to late Sept 9am–6pm; Oct 9am–4.30pm; Nov 9am–4pm; €16 return, combined ticket with tour €30) up from the suburb of Lahn.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is across the lake; ferries (€2.50) are timed to coincide with trains. Return ferry times are posted up at the ferry station and around town; the last train to Hallstatt arrives around 6.50pm.

By bus Buses stop in the suburb of Lahn, a 10min lakeside walk south of the centre.

Tourist information Tourist office at Seestr. 99 (Jan–April Mon–Fri 8.30am–5pm, Sat 9am–1pm; May–June Mon–Fri 8.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9am–2.30pm; July–Oct Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9am–4pm; Nov & Dec Mon–Fri 8.30am–5pm; ☎06 134 82 08, Ⓜhallstatt.net).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Camping Klausner-Höll Lahn 201 ☎06 134 83 22, Ⓜcamping.hallstatt.net. A short way south from the tourist office at Lahn, on the outskirts of the village. Quiet and cyclist-friendly, with shop, bar, laundry service and wi-fi. Open mid-April to mid-Oct. Per person €9.50, plus per tent €5.70

Gasthaus zur Mühle Kirchenweg 36 ☎06 134 83 18, Ⓜhallstatturlaub.at. Small, welcoming bar, restaurant and hostel uphill from the landing stage, with a good line in pizzas (from €7.10). Upstairs are some basic dorm rooms. Dorms first night €27, subsequent nights €23

★ Gasthof Simony Wolfengasse 105 ☎ 06 13 42 06 37, gasthof-simony.at. On the lakefront just off the main square, this relaxed guesthouse has a good range of rooms, some en-suite, with traditional wooden furniture and some with balconies overlooking the lake. The garden restaurant serves fresh lake fish from around €15. Good breakfast included. Doubles €80

ZELL AM SEE-KAPRUN

Some 80km south of Salzburg, ZELL AM SEE is a pretty old town wedged between a perfect alpine lake and an impressive mountainous hinterland. The quintessential Austrian resort, it's busy with skiers in winter and hikers in summer. Zell's twin village of Kaprun lures visitors for all-year glacier skiing on the 3203m Kitzsteinhorn.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The narrow streets of Zell's Old Town have charm, but they're mainly of interest for their bars, cafés and restaurants. The real attraction here is the scenery, whether enjoyed for its own sake or as a backdrop for summer hiking and cycling or winter sport. Zell's closest skiing fans out across the slopes of the 2000m Schmittenhöhe (schmitten.at), with plenty of pistes for every standard. The most convenient ascent is via the CityXpress cable car (daily: summer 9am–5pm; winter 8.30am–4.30pm; ascent €19.50, descent €17; Schmittenhöhe day-passes include the CityXpress, €45) from the centre of Zell. In summer, the cable cars serve a web of hiking trails, stretching as far as the 2074m Maurerkogel, with a 360-degree panorama of 3000m-high peaks.

Towering above nearby Kaprun, the mighty Kitzsteinhorn is capped with snow and ice year-round. Just below the summit, the 3029m-high Gipfelwelt is the highest viewing platform in the region; in July and August there's a snow beach and ice bar on the glacier just below it. Making the ascent involves four cable cars from the base of the mountain near Kaprun (daily 8.15am–4.30pm; summer €40; winter ski pass €50; kitzsteinhorn.at); bus #660 runs from Zell to the base of the cable car.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Zell am See's station is on the lakeside, a few minutes' walk from the tourist office.

Tourist information Brucker Bundesstr. 1a (Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 9am–1pm; ☎ 06 54 27 70, zellamsee-kaprun.com). Has a list of private rooms in Zell and Kaprun (from €22 per person).

Zell am See Kaprun Summer Card Free from your hotel or hostel, it offers free entry or discounts on some transport, services and many attractions. Valid mid-May to mid-Oct.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Junges Hotel Zell am See Seespitzstrasse Seespitzstr. 13 ☎ 06 54 25 71 85, seespitz.hotel-zellamsee.at. HI-affiliated hostel on the lakeside 1200m south of Zell's centre, with bathing and sports facilities and accommodation in singles, doubles and 4–6-bed dorms. All rooms en-suite; breakfast included. Dorms €27, doubles €64

★ Pinzgauer Diele Anton Wallner Str. 6. Lively bar in Zell's Old Town with a fun, après-ski atmosphere and a wide choice of filling international fare from pizza (€7.50) and pasta (€8.90) to chilli and tortillas. Daily 4pm–4am.

Seecamp Thumersbacherstr. 33–34 ☎ 06 54 27 21 15, seecamp.at. Modest-sized campsite on the lakeside 1.6km north of Zell's old town, with restaurant, wi-fi, laundry and shop. Open year-round. Bus #70 from Zell. Per person €9.70, plus per tent €6.20

Western Austria

West towards the mountain province of Tyrol, Austria's grandiose Alpine scenery begins to emerge. Most trains from Salzburg travel through a corner of Bavaria in Germany before joining the Inn valley and climbing back into Austria towards Innsbruck, Tyrol's main town. A less direct but more scenic route (more likely if you're coming from Graz or Zell) cuts by the majestic Hoher Tauern – site of Austria's highest peak, the Grossglockner.

INNSBRUCK

Nestled in the Alps and encircled by ski resorts, INNSBRUCK is a compact city cradled by towering mountains. It has a rich history: Maximilian I based his imperial court here in the 1490s, placing

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Kranebitter Hof
HI Jugendherberge Innsbruck
Innsbrücke

4 Nepomuk's
5 Pension Paula
2

EATING

Café Central
Café-Konditorei
Munding

4 Chez Nico
Himal
3 Noi

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

5 Eiferhaus
2 Moustache
1 Stiftskeller

the city at the heart of European politics for a century and a half. This combination of historical pedigree and proximity to the mountains has put Innsbruck firmly on the tourist trail.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Most attractions are confined to the central Altstadt, bounded by the river and the Graben (Marktgraben and Burggraben), a road that follows the course of the medieval town's moat.

Maria-Theresien-Strasse

Innsbruck's main artery is Maria-Theresien-Strasse, famed for the view north towards the great Nordkette, the mountain range that dominates the city. At its southern end the triumphal arch, Triumphpforte, was built for the marriage of Maria Theresa's son Leopold in 1756. Halfway along, the Annasäule, a column supporting a statue of the Virgin, commemorates the retreat of the Bavarians, who had been menacing Tyrol in 1703. Herzog-Friedrich-Strasse leads on into the centre, opening out into a plaza lined with arcaded medieval buildings. At the plaza's southern end is the Goldenes Dachl, or "Golden Roof" (though the tiles are really copper), built in the 1490s to cover an oriel window from which the court of Emperor Maximilian could observe the square below. The Goldenes Dachl Museum (May–Sept daily 10am–5pm; Oct & Dec–April Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €4.80) has engrossing displays on the city's history, though it offers only a brief glimpse of the balcony.

Domplatz and the Hofburg

Standing on Domplatz, the ostentatious Domkirche St Jakob (Mon–Sat 10.15am–6.30/7.30pm, Sun 12.30–6.30/7.30pm) is home to a valuable Madonna and Child by German master

Lucas Cranach the Elder, although it's buried in the fussy Baroque detail of the altar.

The adjacent Hofburg, entered around the corner, has late medieval roots but was remodelled in the eighteenth century. Its Rococo state apartments are crammed with opulent furniture (daily 9am–5pm; €9).

The Hofkirche and Volkskunstmuseum

At the head of Rennweg is the Hofkirche (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 12.30–5pm; €7), which contains the imposing (but empty) mausoleum of Emperor Maximilian. This extraordinary project was originally envisaged as a series of 40 larger-than-life statues, 100 statuettes and 32 busts of Roman emperors, but in the end only 28 of the statues were completed.

Housed in the same complex, the Tiroler Volkskunstmuseum (daily 9am–5pm; €11 including entry to Hofkirche and Landesmuseum), features a huge collection of folk art and objects including re-creations of traditional wood-panelled Tyrolean interiors.

Landesmuseum Ferdinandeum

A short walk south, the Landesmuseum Ferdinandeum, Museumstr. 15 (Tues–Sun 9am–5pm; €11, including Hofkirche and Volkskunstmuseum), contains one of the best collections of Gothic paintings in Austria; most originate from the churches of the South Tyrol (now in Italy).

Schloss Ambras

Set in attractive grounds 2km southeast of the centre, Schloss Ambras (daily 10am–5pm, closed Nov; €10; tram #6 or bus #C from the train station) was the home of Archduke Ferdinand of Tyrol. It features the impressive Spanish Hall, built from 1569–71, and exhibitions of armour and curios amassed from around the globe. Don't miss the inner courtyard covered in sixteenth-century frescoes, including depictions of the triumph of Bacchus.

Hungerburg plateau

A good starting point for hikes is the Nordpark, on the slopes of the Nordkette range, accessible from the swish Hungerburgbahn cable railway. Looking like a funky spaceship, the Zaha Hadid-designed Congress station is opposite the Hofgarten; take it to Hungerburg, then continue on a two-stage sequence of cable cars to just below the summit (daily 8.30am–5pm, Fri also 6–11.30pm; €27.20 return; nordkette.com). The rewards are stupendous views of the high Alps and access to all sorts of hikes.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Innsbruck station is on Südtirolerplatz, east of the Old Town, an easy walk from the centre.

Destinations Munich (every 2hr; 1hr 50min); Salzburg (18 daily; 1hr 45min–2hr); Venice (1 daily; 4hr 45min); Vienna (approx hourly; 4hr 15min); Zürich (9 daily; 3hr 40min).

By bus The bus station is immediately south of the train station; local buses stop in front of the train station.

Tourist information The tourist office at Burggraben 3 (daily 9am–6pm; ☎ 0512 598 50, innsbruck.info) sells the Innsbruck Card (24hr/48hr/72hr for €39/€48/€55), which includes public transport, cable cars (some only in summer) and admission to all the sights.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Buses and trams; single tickets €2.30 (€2.70 if bought on board), 24hr ticket €5.10. There's also a public bike rental scheme, Stadtrad (stadtrad.ivb.at; first 30min €2, second 30min €2, each extra hour €3; register with credit card).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Kranebitter Hof Kranebittner Allee 216 ☎ 0512 28 19 58, kranebitterhof.at; bus #LK from Boznerplatz, a block west of the station, to Klammstr. Well-equipped campsite in the west of the city, close to the airport. Open year-round. Cash only, no cards. Per tent €36

HI Jugendherberge Innsbruck Reichenauerstr. 147 ☎ 05 12 34 61 79, jugendherberge-innsbruck.at; bus #0 from Landesmuseum. Large, functional HI hostel on the outskirts of the city. Dorms €21, doubles €58

Innbrücke Innstr. 1 ☎ 05 12 28 19 34, gasthof-innbruecke.at. Plain but comfortable Gasthof on the west bank of the Inn, just over the bridge from the Altstadt. More expensive rooms have en-suite facilities, although most are without. Doubles €74

Nepomuk's Kiebachgasse 16 ☎ 05 12 58 41 18, nepomuks.at. Slightly ramshackle one-dorm hostel above Café Munding, whose owners also run the hostel and serve its good breakfasts. Also has a couple of doubles, though one is windowless and noisy. Dorm €24, doubles €58

SKIING AND OTHER ACTIVITIES

Innsbruck is great for outdoor activities; the tourist office has a wide range of brochures. Of Innsbruck's ski areas the closest to the city is Nordpark (see p.85), accessible via the Hungerburgbahn, with its fabulous panoramas, snow park for skiers and snowboarders and taxing expert-level runs. The other ski areas – including the Patscherkofel, Axamer Lizum, Glungezer, Muttereralp, Schlick 2000, Kühtai and Rangger Köpfl. – are all on the opposite, southern, side of the valley and offer mellower terrain ideal for relaxed, wide-turn skiing. At Stubai Gletscher (📞 stubai-gletscher.com) glacier skiing is possible from October to June.

In winter, lift passes cover all these ski regions: the Stubaier Gletscher, for example, has day-passes for €46 (less for part of the day), while the Olympia SkiWorld pass covers the whole Innsbruck area, including ski buses from the town centre, and costs €132 for three days. Passes are available from all lift stations or the Innsbruck tourist office.

Many cycling and mountain-bike routes are accessible from central Innsbruck, though some of the trails are for experts only: for bike rental try Die Börse, Leopoldstr 4 (Mon–Sat 9am–6/6.30pm; 📞 dieboerse.at). Innsbruck's tourist office runs an extensive programme of free guided walks – including sunrise and night-time hikes – from late May to late October.

Pension Paula Weiherburggasse 15 📞 0512 29 22 62, 📞 pensionpaula.at; bus #W from the Marktplatz. Friendly, good-value pension in a chalet on a hillside north of the river – some rooms have balconies and mountain views. Doubles €62

EATING AND DRINKING

★ Café Central Gilmstr. 5. Venerable coffeehouse serving up excellent cakes and decent breakfasts (from €4). Good spot to linger over a coffee and slice of cake (from €2.80). Daily 6.30am–9pm.

★ Café-Konditorei Munding Kiebachgasse 16. Superb cakes (€3.80) and pastries, in a bustling traditional café in a quiet corner of the Altstadt, with a terrace primed for people-watching. Good breakfasts (from €3.90) too. Daily 8am–8pm.

Chez Nico Maria Theresienstr 49. While this vegetarian and vegan spot is fancier than some other recommendations, the portions are substantial and the modern-European creative twist is superb. Dinner is pricey (€34 for 4 courses), so go for the fabulous €14.50 two-course lunch special. Mon & Sat 6.30–10pm, Tues–Fri noon–2pm & 6.30–10pm.

Himal Universitätsstr. 13. Stylish Nepalese place serving fresh tasty curries; meat dishes from €11.50, with good veggie options plus lunch menus from €7.10. Mon–Sat 11.30am–2.30pm & 6–10.30pm, Sun 6–10pm.

Noi Kaserjägerstr. 1. Excellent, cheap Thai restaurant around the corner from the Hofkirche with tasty lunch menus from €7.90; main courses from €9.60. Mon–Fri 11.30am–2.30pm & 6–11pm, Sat 6–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Elferhaus Herzog-Friedrich-Str. 11. Popular Old Town beer bar, with a lively atmosphere and a big selection of bottled and draught beers. Also serves good basic Austrian food. Hot mains from €8.40. Daily 10am–2am.

Moustache Herzog-Otto-Str. 8. A relaxed, studenty bar playing a good soundtrack of mainly British and American alternative tunes. Bottled beers €3.10, shots €2.50. On Sundays there's an all-you-can-eat brunch buffet from 11am (€12). Tues–Sun 11am–2am.

★ Stiftskeller Stiftsgasse 1–7. Cavernous traditional beer hall and restaurant close to the Hofkirche, and Hofburg, with Augustiner beers (from €2.70), Tyrolean snacks from around €5, baked potatoes from €6.30 and hearty meaty mains from around €10. Daily 10am–midnight.

DIRECTORY

Consulate UK, Kaiserjägerstr. 1/Top B9 📞 05 12 58 83 20.

Hospital Universitätsklinik, Anichstr. 35 (📞 05 050 40).

Laundry Bubble Point, Andreas-Hoferstr. 37 & Brixnerstr. 1 (Mon–Fri 8am–10/9pm, Sat & Sun 8am–8pm).

Post office Südtiroler Platz 10–12 (Mon–Fri 8am–6pm).

MARKT SQUARE, BRUGES

Belgium & Luxembourg

HIGHLIGHTS

- ① Brussels See the gold-fringed Grand-Place, Europe's prettiest square. See p.96
- ② Antwerp Discover the up-and-coming docks of Belgium's hip northern port. See p.100
- ③ Ghent Sip local beers in lively bars and join the Gentse Feesten carnival. See p.103
- ④ Bruges Explore this perfectly preserved medieval town's cobbled streets. See p.106
- ⑤ The Ardennes Cycle, kayak or hike through gently rolling woods. See p.109
- ⑥ Luxembourg City Discover the UNESCO-listed old town of this cliff-top capital. See p.110

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.89

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €45, occasional treat €65

Drink Jupiler beer €1.60

Food Mussels with chips €15–20

Hostel/budget hotel €20/€60–90

Travel Train: Brussels–Antwerp €7.40

FACT FILE

Population Belgium: 11.4 million; Lux: 570,252

Language Flemish (Belgium), Letzebuergesch (Lux), French, German

Currency Euro (€)

Capital Brussels; Luxembourg City

International phone code Belgium: ① 32; Lux: ① 352

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

A federal country with three official languages and an ongoing rivalry between its two main groups – Dutch-speaking Flemish and French-speaking Walloons – Belgium's dull reputation is definitely misleading. Lively, cultured cities in the predominantly urban north give way to beautiful forests and rugged hills in the south, while regular, affordable trains and an impressive range of good-value accommodation mean the country is a pleasure to explore. Factor in the Belgians' enthusiasm for beer and fine cuisine, and all the ingredients for a truly memorable trip are in place. With Europe's finest cliff-top city, little Luxembourg certainly does its bit too.

Roughly in the middle of Belgium lies the capital, Brussels, the heart of the EU and a genuinely vibrant and multicultural city. North of here stretch the flat landscapes of Flemish Belgium, whose main city, Antwerp, is a bustling old port with doses of fine art, cutting-edge fashion, and twice as many bars as Amsterdam. Further west, also in the Flemish zone, are the charismatic cities of Bruges and Ghent, each with a stunning concentration of medieval architecture. To the south of Brussels, Belgium's most scenic region, the Ardennes in Wallonia, has deep, wooded valleys, high elevations and dark caverns, with the town of Namur the obvious gateway.

The Ardennes reach across the border into the northern part of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, a dramatic landscape of rushing rivers and high hills topped with crumbling castles. The best base for rural expeditions is Luxembourg City, an exceptionally picturesque place straddling a steep valley.

CHRONOLOGY

BELGIUM

54 BC Julius Caesar defeats the Belgae tribes.

496 AD The King of the Franks, Clovis, founds a kingdom which includes Belgium.

1400–1500 The Belgian cities of Bruges, Brussels and Antwerp become the European centres of commerce and industry.

1477 Following the marriage of Austrian King Maximilian I and Mary of Burgundy, Belgium becomes part of Austria.

1713 Treaty of Utrecht transfers Belgian territory from French to Austrian rule.

1790 The Belgians form an independent state from Austria, though it does not last long. They are subsequently invaded by Austria, France and the Netherlands in quick succession.

1830 Belgium gains independence from the Netherlands.

1885 King Leopold II establishes a personal colony in the African Congo.

1908 The Belgian government takes over the Congo Free State after reports of Leopold's brutal regime are circulated.

1914–18 Belgium is invaded by Germany and sees heavy fighting before it is liberated.

1940–44 Nazi invasion, and ultimately liberation by Allied forces.

1957 Belgium is a founder member of the European Economic Community (EEC).

1960 Independence granted to the Congo.

1992 Belgium ratifies the Maastricht Treaty on the European Union.

2007 Following the resignation of Prime Minister Guy Verhofstadt, Belgium is without a government.

2011 In December, French-speaking Socialist leader Elio di Rupo is appointed prime minister of a six-party coalition, ending 541 days without a government. This is the longest period a country has ever been without an official government, exceeding Iraq's record of 289 days.

2012 Belgium holds municipal elections. Results show widespread gains for the New Flemish Alliance party seeking autonomy for Dutch-speaking Flanders.

2013 Crown Prince Philippe crowned new Belgian king after the abdication of his father Albert II.

2016 On March 22 Zaventem Airport and Maelbeek metro station suffer the worst terrorist attack in Belgian history – an IS atrocity that leaves 32 dead and 300 casualties.

LUXEMBOURG

963 AD Count Siegfried of Ardenne founds the capital of Luxembourg.

1354 Luxembourg's status is raised from fief to duchy by Emperor Charles IV.

1477 The Habsburgs take control of Luxembourg.

1715 Luxembourg is integrated into the Austrian Netherlands.

1867 Second Treaty of London ensures Luxembourg's independence and neutrality.

1890 Luxembourg announces its own ruling monarchy, relinquishing its ties to the Netherlands.

1914–1918 German occupation.

1920 Joins the League of Nations.

1939–1945 German occupation.

1957 Luxembourg is a founder member of the EEC.

2000 Grand Duke Jean abdicates, handing responsibility over to his son Henri.

2008 Constitutional crisis is provoked by Grand Duke Henri threatening to block a bill legalizing euthanasia. As a result, Parliament approves a reform which restricts the monarch to a purely ceremonial role.

2009 Luxembourg is commended for improving the transparency of its banking systems after being added to a "grey list" of countries with questionable banking arrangements by the G20.

2012 Crown Prince Guillaume weds Belgian Countess Stéphanie de Lannoy at the Notre-Dame Cathedral.

2014 Luxembourg's parliament votes to legalize same-sex marriage.

2015 A referendum proposal to allow foreigners to vote in national elections is rejected by a large margin.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

BY PLANE

The majority of airborne travel is into Brussels, which has two airports: the most conveniently located is Zaventem (also known as Brussels National), while Charleroi (which serves most budget airlines including Ryanair) lies about 55km from the centre.

BY TRAIN

There are frequent rail connections from London, Paris, Amsterdam and Luxembourg, with almost all international trains arriving at Bruxelles-Midi (Brussel-Zuid), and frequently also stopping in Ghent or Antwerp. Eurostar "Any Belgian Station" tickets are valid to all onward Belgian stations.

BY BUS

Eurolines buses from Paris, Amsterdam, London and other destinations stop at Brussels-Nord, as well as Antwerp, Ghent and Bruges.

BY FERRY

Numerous ferry services ply between the UK and Belgian ports. Belgium's main international ferry port is Zeebrugge, just outside Bruges, with ferries from Hull (15hr) and Rosyth (20hr). Ferry companies provide bus connections from the port to the train station. Transeuropa ferries run from Ramsgate to the resort town of Ostend (4hr), from where trains to Bruges take fifteen minutes.

GETTING AROUND

Travelling around Flanders is easy. Distances are short, and an efficient train network links all the major and many minor towns and villages. The Ardennes and Luxembourg, on the other hand, can be more problematic: the train network is not extensive and bus timetables can demand careful study for longer journeys.

BY TRAIN

Belgium's railway system (@belgianrail.be) – SNCB in French, NMBS in Flemish – is comprehensive and efficient, and fares are comparatively low. If you are under 26, don't have an InterRail or Eurail pass, and are spending some time in Belgium, ask for the Go-Pass 10, which buys you ten journeys between any Belgian stations for €51. (If you are planning on travelling from Belgium to Luxembourg and have a Go-Pass 10, use the pass to get to the Belgian border town of Arlon and buy an extension from there.) SNCB/NMBS also publishes information on offers and services in their comprehensive timetable book, which has an English-language section and is available at major train stations.

Luxembourg's railways (@www.cfl.lu) comprise one main north–south route down the middle of the country, with a handful of branch lines fanning out from the capital. There are a number of passes available, giving unlimited train (and bus) travel.

BY BUS

In Belgium buses are only really used for travelling short distances, or in parts of the Ardennes where rail lines fizzle out. They're used more in Luxembourg, due to the limited rail network. RGTR (@mobiliteit.lu) has routes across the country. Fares are comparable to those in Belgium.

BY BIKE

The modest distances and flat terrain make cycling in Belgium an attractive proposition, though only in the countryside is there a decent network of signposted cycle routes. You can take your own bike on a train for a small fee, or rent one from any of around thirty train stations during the summer at about €10 per day. In Luxembourg you can rent bikes for around €10 a day, and take your own bike on trains (not buses) for a minimal fee per journey. The Luxembourg Tourist Office has leaflets showing cycle routes and also sells cycling guides.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation is one of the major expenses on a trip to Belgium or Luxembourg but there are some budget alternatives, principally no-frills hotels, private rooms (effectively B&Bs) and plenty of good hostels. Whichever accommodation you choose, it's best to book ahead, especially in peak season.

In both countries, prices begin at around €60 for a double room in the cheapest one-star hotel; breakfast is normally included. Reservations can be made online or (for free) through most tourist offices on the day itself; the deposit they require is subtracted from your final hotel bill. Private rooms can be booked through local tourist offices too. Expect to pay €60–90 a night for a double, but note that they're often inconveniently situated on the outskirts of cities and towns. An exception is in Bruges, where private rooms – many of them in the centre – can be booked direct.

Belgium has around thirty HI hostels, run by two separate organizations: Vlaamse Jeugdherbergcentrale in Flanders (☎032 32 72 18, 🌐jeugdherbergen.be), and Jeunesse de Wallonie in Wallonia (☎022 19 56 76, 🌐lesaubergesdejeunesse.be). Most charge a flat rate per person of €19–25 for a bed in a dormitory or €60 for a double room, most with breakfast included. Some also offer lunch and dinner for €7–12. If you buy a yearly HI e-membership card (€11.52) you get a ten percent discount on your accommodation. Some of the more touristy cities such as Bruges, Antwerp and Brussels also have privately run hostels, which normally charge about €22 for a dorm bed. There are ten HI hostels in Luxembourg, all of which are members of the Centrale des Auberges de Jeunesse Luxembourgeoises (☎026 27 66 200, 🌐youthhostels.lu). Dorm bed rates for HI members are around €20, with non-members paying an extra €3. Breakfast is always included; lunch or dinner is €6–10.

In Belgium, there are hundreds of campsites, anything from a field with a few tent pitches through to extensive complexes. The vast majority are simpler one- and two-star establishments, for which two adults with a tent can expect to pay €20–30 per night; surprisingly, most four-star sites don't cost much more – add about €5. All Luxembourg's campsites are detailed in the Duchy's free tourist office booklet. Prices vary considerably, but are usually €5–7 per person, plus €5–7 for a pitch. In both countries, campsite phone numbers are listed in free camping booklets, and in Luxembourg the national tourist board (☎042 82 82 10, 🌐visitluxembourg.com) will make a reservation on your behalf.

STUDENT AND YOUTH DISCOUNTS

Most museums and galleries offer substantial discounts to those under 26, even if you don't have an ISIC card. Train travel is also cheaper for travellers aged under 26 if you buy a Go-Pass 10 (see opposite).

FOOD AND DRINK

One of the great pleasures of a trip to Belgium is the cuisine, and if you stay away from tourist spots, it's hard to go wrong. Southern Belgian (or Wallonian) cuisine is similar to traditional French, with a fondness for rich sauces and ingredients. The Ardennes region is renowned for its smoked ham and pâté. Luxembourg's food is less varied and more Germanic, but you can still eat out extremely well.

In Flanders the food is more akin to that of the Netherlands, with steak and French fries the most common dish. Throughout Belgium, pork, beef, game, fish and seafood (mussels) are staple items, often cooked with butter, cream and herbs, or sometimes in beer; hearty soups are also common. Hesproletjes (chicory and ham baked in a cheese sauce) and stoemp (puréed meat and vegetables) are two traditional dishes worth seeking out. Traditional Flemish dishes such as waterzooi, or “watery mess” (fish or chicken stew), and carbonnade (beef casserole) are also widely available. There are plenty of good vegetarian options too, such as quiche and salad, and you can find vegetarian restaurants in all of the larger cities.

In both countries, bars and cafés are a good source of inexpensive meals, especially at lunchtime when simple dishes – omelettes, steak, mussels – are offered as a dish of the day (plat du jour/ dagschotel) for around €12. Restaurants are usually pricier, but the food is generally excellent. Frituurs (stands serving chips) are ubiquitous, cheap, and usually offer a variety of hot sauces, such as stoofvlees (beer-soaked beef).

Belgium is also renowned for its chocolate. The big chocolatiers, Godiva and Leonidas, have shops in all the main towns and cities, but high-quality chocolate is also available in supermarkets at a much lower price – try the Jacques or Côte d'Or brands.

Beer in Belgium is a real treat. Beyond the common lager brands – Stella Artois, Jupiler and Maes – there are about seven hundred speciality beers, from dark stouts to fruit beers, wheat beers and brown ales. The most famous are the strong ales brewed by the country's six Trappist

LANGUAGE

There are three official languages in Belgium: Dutch, French and German. Speaking French in the Flemish north is not appreciated, and vice versa. Most Belgians speak English. Natives of Luxembourg speak Letzebuergesch, a dialect of German, but most people also speak French and German and many speak English too. See p.280, p.357 and p.778 for some basic French, German and Dutch language tips.

monasteries; Chimay is the most widely available. Luxembourg doesn't really compete, but its three most popular brews – Diekirch, Mousel and Bofferding – complement the food wonderfully.

French wines are universally sold, but Luxembourg's wines, especially the crémant (sparkling wine), produced along the north bank of the Moselle, are light and refreshing. You'll also find Dutch-style jenever (similar to gin) in most bars in the north of Belgium, and in Luxembourg home-produced eau-de-vie, distilled from various fruits.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

It's nearly impossible to make a faux pas among the Belgians – they're a relaxed bunch who take life at a leisurely pace (so don't be offended if a barman finishes polishing the glasses before serving you). Leave a ten percent tip in restaurants, and greet acquaintances with three kisses, not two.

SPORTS AND ACTIVITIES

The Ardennes is ideal for hiking, kayaking, cycling and horseriding (see p.110 for operators); cross-country skiing is also an option. La Roche-en-Ardenne and Bouillon make excellent bases in Belgium, while in Luxembourg the towns of Vianden and Echternach – each about an hour from Luxembourg City – are popular destinations for hikers and cyclists.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices are usually open Monday to Friday 9am–noon and 2–5pm. Some urban post offices also open on Saturday mornings. Many public phones take only phonecards, which are available from newsagents and post offices. Internet access is widespread, with more and more hostels, hotels and cafés offering free wi-fi.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Belgium Police ☎ 101; fire and ambulance ☎ 100.

Luxembourg Police ☎ 113; fire and ambulance ☎ 112.

EMERGENCIES

Both countries are safe. However, if you're unlucky enough to have something stolen, report it immediately to the nearest police station and get a report number – or better still a copy of the statement itself – for your insurance claim when you get home. With regard to medical emergencies, if you're reliant on free treatment within the EU health scheme, try to remember to make this clear to the ambulance staff and any medics you subsequently encounter. Outside working hours, all pharmacies should display a list of open alternatives in their window. Weekend rotas are also listed in local newspapers.

INFORMATION

In both Belgium and Luxembourg, there are tourist offices even in the smallest of villages. They usually provide free local maps, and the larger towns offer a free accommodation booking service too.

BELGIUM AND LUXEMBOURG ONLINE

☎ visitflanders.co.uk Information on Brussels and the Flanders region.

☎ belgiumthelaceto.be Information on Brussels and southern Belgium.

☎ visitluxembourg.com The Luxembourg tourist board's official site.

☎ use-it.be Excellent online guide for young travellers on Brussels and the Flanders region.

MONEY AND BANKS

Belgium and Luxembourg both use the euro (€). Banks are the best places to change money and are generally open Monday to Friday 9am–4/4.30pm in both countries, though some have a one-hour lunch break between noon and 2pm, and some close after lunch on Friday. ATMs are commonplace.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

In both countries, most shops close on Sunday (except in tourist towns), with some only reopening on Monday afternoon, even in major cities. Nonetheless, normal shopping hours are Monday to Saturday 9 or 10am to 6 or 7pm, with many urban supermarkets staying open until 8 or 9pm on Fridays. In the big cities, a smattering of convenience stores (magasins de nuit/ nachtwinkels) stay open either all night or until around 1 or 2am daily, and some souvenir shops open late and on Sundays too. Most museums are closed on Mondays, though look out for occasional late-night openings, especially in Brussels. Restaurants also often close on Mondays. Many bars have relaxed closing times, claiming to stay open until the last customer leaves. Less usefully, many restaurants and bars close for at least a couple of weeks in July or August.

Shops, banks and many museums are closed on the following public holidays: New Year's Day, Easter Sunday, Easter Monday, May 1, Ascension Day (forty days after Easter), Whit Sunday, Whit Monday, June 23 (Luxembourg only), July 21 (Belgium only), Assumption (mid-Aug), November 1, November 11 (Belgium only), Christmas Day.

Brussels

Belgium's capital BRUSSELS (Bruxelles, Brussel) boasts an exciting mish-mash of modern museums, a well-preserved medieval centre and an energetic nightlife. Since World War II, the city's appointment as headquarters of both

BRUSSELS

ACCOMMODATION
2Go4
Brxxl 5
Grand Place Hostel
Hello Hostel
Jacques Brel
Meininger
Train Hostel
Theater Hotel

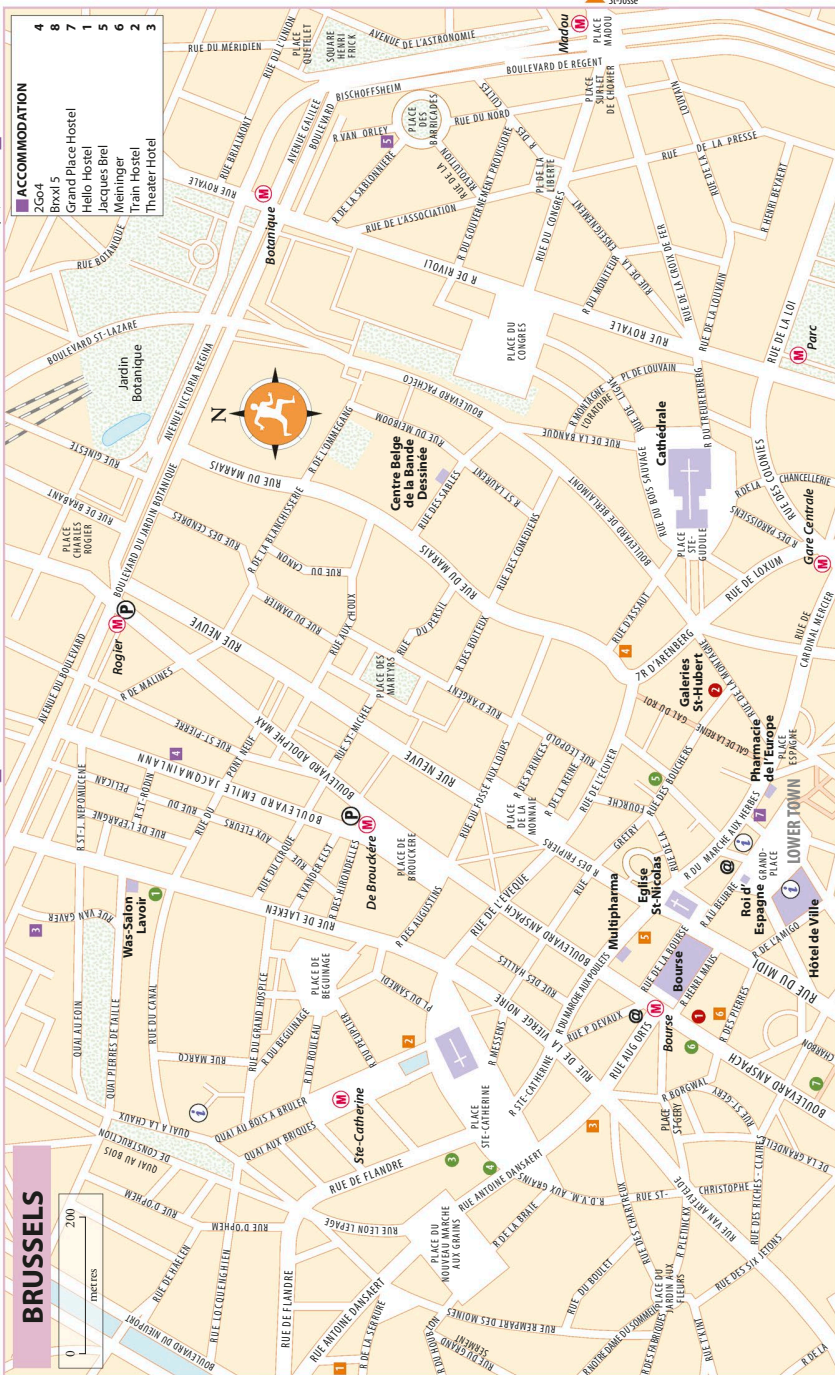

Zaventem Airport, Train World &  2

Bruxelles-Mond

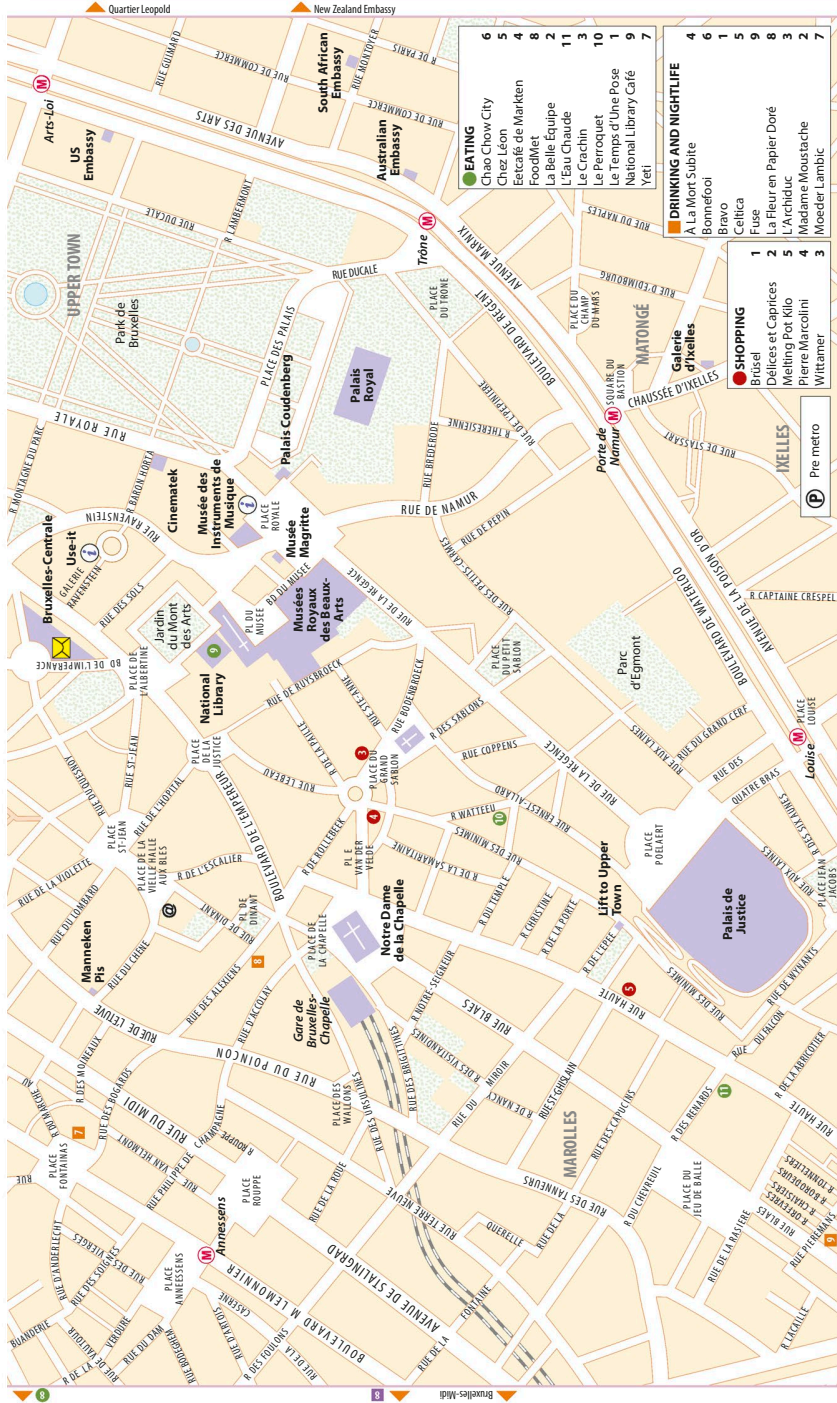

1

2

Mima Museum &amp;

NATO and the EU has made it very much an international city – though one that has little interest in being “branché” (trendy). The city’s appeal certainly isn’t as immediate as that of its neighbours Ghent and Bruges – and yet a day or two of wandering around reveals rooftop gardens, summer beach parties and vintage markets that make it so much more than the “poor man’s Paris”.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Central Brussels is enclosed within a pentagon of boulevards – the petit ring – which follows the course of the medieval city walls. The centre is also divided between the Upper Town and Lower Town, the former being the traditional home of the city’s upper classes who kept a beady eye on the workers down below.

The Grand-Place

The obvious point to begin any tour of the Lower Town is the Grand-Place, the commercial hub of the city since the Middle Ages. With its stupendous spired tower, the Hôtel de Ville dominates the square; inside you can view various official rooms (tours in English: Wed 2pm, Sun 11am, 3pm & 4pm; €5). But the real glory of the Grand-Place lies in its guildhouses, mostly built in the early eighteenth century, their slender facades swirling with exuberant carving and sculpture.

The Manneken Pis

Rue de l’Etuve leads south from the Grand-Place down to the Manneken Pis, a statue of a little boy pissing that’s supposed to embody the city’s irreverent spirit, and is today one of Brussels’ biggest tourist draws. The original statue was cast in the 1600s, but was stolen several times – the current one is a copy.

Notre Dame de la Chapelle and the Quartier Marolles

Across boulevard de l’Empereur, a busy carriageway that scars this part of the centre, you’ll spy the crumbling brickwork of La Tour Anneessens, a remnant of the medieval city wall, while to the south gleams the immaculately restored Notre Dame de la Chapelle (Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6.30pm; free), a sprawling Romanesque-Gothic structure founded in 1134 and the city’s oldest church. Running south from the church, rue Haute and parallel rue Blaes form the spine of the now gentrified Quartier Marolles, traditionally a working-class neighbourhood overlooked by the enormous, scaffold-clad Palais de Justice. Place du Jeu de Balle, the heart of Marolles, has retained its earthy character and is the site of the city’s best flea market (daily 7am–2pm; busiest on Sun). Return to the Upper Town using the free glass-walled lift at the junction of rue des Minimes and rue de l’Epee, which drops you off in place Poelaert and offers a panorama of the city.

The Cathédrale

The Cathédrale (Mon–Fri 7.30am–6pm, Sat 7.30am–3.30pm, Sun 2–6pm; €1) lies a couple of minutes’ walk to the east of the Grand-Place, at the east end of rue d’Arenberg. It’s a splendid Brabantine-Gothic building begun in 1220. Look out also for the gorgeous sixteenth-century stained-glass windows in the transepts and above the main doors.

Place Royale

Climb the Mont des Arts – a wide stairway ascending towards place Royale – and on the left is the Old England Building, one of the finest examples of Art Nouveau in the city. Once a department store, it now holds the Musée des Instruments de Musique, at rue Montagne de la Cour 2 (MIM; Tues–Fri 9.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; €8, 19–25s €6; mim.be), which contains an impressive collection of musical instruments and a rooftop café with great views of the city. Back on place Royale, at rue de la Régence 3, the Musées Royaux des Beaux-Arts (Tues–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 11am–6pm; €13, free first Wed of month from 1pm; fine-arts-museum.be) comprises three interconnecting museums: the Musée d’Art Ancien displays art from the Renaissance to the early nineteenth century, including works by Brueghel and Rubens; the Musée Fin-de-Siècle covers art from the mid-nineteenth to the early twentieth century; while the Musée Magritte is devoted solely to the work of the Belgian Surrealist.

Northeast of the place Royale, on place des Palais, the haunting remains of the twelfth-century Palais Coudenberg (July & Aug Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; Sept–June Tues–Fri 9.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun & 10am–6pm; €6; coudenberg.com), once home to Emperor Charles V, can be found beneath the BELvue museum.

Outside the petit ring

Brussels by no means ends with the petit ring. To the east of the ring road are the glass high-rises of the EU, notably the winged Berlaymont building beside métro Schuman and, nearby, on rue Wiertz 60, the lavish European Union Parliament building, which houses the Parlamentarium (Mon 1–6pm, Tues–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; free), an interactive multimedia visitors' centre explaining the complex workings of parliament.

Just south of the petit ring is the fashionable Ixelles district, filled with excellent examples of Art Nouveau and Art Deco architecture, as well as chic bars and restaurants. Its northern boundary is home to a large African community known as Matongé, named after a district of Kinshasa in the Congo. Here you can explore the shops of Galerie d'Ixelles and sample fried plantain from one of the cafés on rue Longue Vie. To the southwest is the Saint-Gilles suburb where, at 25 rue Américaine, the Musée Victor Horta (Tues–Sun 2–5.30pm; €10, students €5; hortamuseum.be) occupies the innovative Art Nouveau architect's former home.

In the northern municipality of Schaerbeek, the new Train World museum, at place Princesse Elisabeth 5 (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €10, student €7.50; trainworld.be) is a must for train geeks: it's far from dull, however, with unique film footage, props galore and a chance to sleep in a train (see p.98).

To the west of the city centre, at 39–41 Quai du Hainaut, is the new Mima (Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €9.50 mimamuseum.eu), Brussels' version of the Tate Modern, showcasing thought-provoking contemporary art inside a former brewery.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The main airport is in Zaventem (brusselsairport.be), 13km northeast of the centre. Trains to the city centre depart every 15min from Level -1 (20min; €8.50). No-frills airlines – principally Ryanair – fly into Charleroi (charleroi-airport.com), 55km south of Brussels; shuttle buses leave every 30min for Bruxelles-Midi (1hr; €14 one-way).

By train Brussels has three main train stations – Bruxelles-Nord, Bruxelles-Central and Bruxelles-Midi, each a few minutes apart. Most international trains, including expresses from London, Amsterdam, Paris and Cologne, stop only at Bruxelles-Midi (Brussel-Zuid), roughly 2km southwest of the city centre. Bruxelles-Central is a 5min walk from Grand-Place; Bruxelles-Nord lies in the business area just north of the main ring-road. To transfer from one of the three main stations to another, simply jump on the next available main-line train. Travellers with Eurostar "Any Belgian Station" tickets can do so for free, otherwise you'll have to buy a new ticket.

Destinations Amsterdam CS (hourly; 2hr 30min); Antwerp (every 20–30min; 40min); Bruges (every 30min; 1hr); Ghent (every 30min; 30min); London (every 2hr; 1hr 50min); Luxembourg City (hourly; 3hr); Namur (hourly; 1hr); Ostend (every 30min; 1hr 10min); Paris (hourly; 1hr 30min).

By bus Eurolines (eurolines.co.uk) buses from London-Victoria arrive and depart at the Bruxelles-Nord station complex.

COMICS IN BRUSSELS

Brussels is a city made for comic book fans. The Centre Belge de la Bande Dessinée at 20 rue des Sables (Comic Strip Museum; daily 10am–6pm; €10, ISIC and IYHF card holders €7; cbbd.be) focuses on Belgian comics such as Tintin, Smurfs and so on. For shopping, head to boulevard Lemonnier which boasts ten comic book shops, or Multi BD at boulevard Anspach 122 (Mon–Sat 10.30am–7pm, Sun 12.30–6.30pm). Various walls around the city have been decorated with building-sized scenes from comic strips, and tourist information can supply you with a trail following the major ones.

BRUSSELS ONLINE*📍spottedbylocals.com/brussels

Recommendations for places to eat and visit from local residents.

📍bruxelleslabelle.com Brussels local shares her favourite haunts from clothes shops to the best burger bars.

📍mysecretbrussels.com Insider's guide to the city by longtime Brussels resident and journalist Derek Blyth.

INFORMATION

Tourist office Visit Brussels provides information and runs a free same-night hotel booking service. It has offices at rue Royale 2 (daily 9am–6pm; 📞 02 513 89 40, 🌐 visit.brussels), in the Hôtel de Ville on the Grand-Place (daily 9am–6pm) and in the European Parliament (Mon 2–6pm, Tues–Thurs 9am–2pm), with smaller offices on the main concourse of the Bruxelles-Midi train station (daily 10am–6pm) and in the arrivals hall at Zaventem airport (daily 6am–9pm). There's also a Visit Flanders information centre near the Grand-Place at rue du Marché aux Herbes 61 (daily: April–Sept 10am–6pm; Oct–March 10am–5pm; Sat & Sun closes 1–2pm). Pick up an Art Nouveau or comic strip trail map for free at any of these offices. Use-It has an info desk at Galerie Ravenstein 25 (Mon–Sat 10am–6.30pm; 🌐 brussels.use-it.travel) with free wi-fi and maps tailored for younger travellers (best bars, etc).

Discount cards All the tourist offices and some museums sell the Brussels Card, which grants free entry to over 30 museums, free use of public transport, and discounts in selected bars and shops. It costs €22/30/38 for 1/2/3 days.

Listings Bruzz, published weekly in English and stocked in tourist offices, has concert, film and exhibition listings. Agenda is a useful English-language listings magazine, available free in many hostels, hotels and shops. Use-It annotated maps, free in hostels and tourist information offices, are also extremely helpful.

GETTING AROUND

Central Brussels is easily walkable, but to reach some of the outlying attractions you'll need public transport. The system, called STIB (🌐 stib-mivb.be), includes bus, tram, métro and prémétro (underground trams) lines. Services run from 6am until midnight, after which night buses take over. A single flat-rate ticket costs €2.10 if bought before you travel from kiosks or ticket machines, or €2.50 from the driver (bus, prémétro or tram only). Alternatively, buy a MOBIB card (€5), and add a JUMP ticket to it, available for 24/48/72hr and costing €7.50/14/18.

By taxi Hire a taxi from ranks around the city – notably outside the train stations, on Bourse and place de Brouckère; to book, phone Taxis Verts (📞 02 349 49 49). After 10pm, you pay an initial €4.40 and then €1.66/km.

By bike Villo! the city bike rental scheme, allows you to pick up a bike at 180 locations around the city centre and drop it off elsewhere at a very cheap rate. Full details are on 🌐 villo.be and in the Train & Vélo leaflet (available at stations).

ACCOMMODATION*HOTELS

2Go4 bd Emile Jacmainlaan 99 📞 02 219 30 19, 🌐 2go4.be; 📍 Rogier/De Brouckère. Excellent hostel with helpful staff. TV snug and kitchen are bright and trendily decorated with vintage finds, though the communal rooms and reception are closed 1–4pm. Breakfast not included, but you can help yourself to free hot drinks. Large groups (of over six) not admitted. Dorms €18

Brxxl 5 Woeringenstraat 5 📞 025 02 37 100, 🌐 brxxl5.com. New hotel/hostel ten minutes' walk from Midi-Zuid station. All en-suite rooms have a/c, free wi-fi and flatscreen TVs. No breakfast, vending machines. Dorms €18, doubles €55

★ Grand Place Hostel Haringstraat 6–8 📞 02 219 30 19, 🌐 2go4.be; 📍 Bourse/Gare Centrale. Situated on a side street just off the Grand-Place, this is the best-located hostel in the city. Dorms are finished to a high standard and the en-suite bathrooms are positively luxurious. Kitchen available. Bedding is included, but no breakfast. Dorms €18

Hello Hostel rue de l'Armistice 1 📞 0471 93 59 27, 🌐 hello-hostel.eu; 📍 Simonis. Snug, homely option in the northwest of town, just outside the petit ring. Breakfast area doubles as a common room and there are games, books and a huge DVD collection. No laundry and doesn't accept groups of more than six, but bedding and breakfast are included. Dorms €21, doubles €55

Jacques Brel rue de la Sablonnière 30 📞 02 218 01 87, 🌐 lesaubergesdejeunesse.be; 📍 Botanique. Comfortable HI hostel with a mix of en-suite dorm rooms. The free organic breakfast is served in a fresh, bright communal area. Laundry, games and Babel Bar (daily 7am–1am) serving snacks and good beers. Bedding included. Rates cheaper for under-26s. Dorms €24, doubles €56

★ Meininger quai du Hainaut 33 📞 025 88 14 74, 🌐 meininger-hotels.com. Brilliant new hotel/hostel inside a former red-brick brewery. Carbon neutral and with loft-style rooms, there's lots of art, exposed brick walls and a trendy bar. Family rooms too. Pets allowed. Dorms €16, doubles €134

Train Hostel ave Georges Rodenbach 6 📞 02 808 61 76, 🌐 trainhostel.be; tram #92 to Gare de Schaerbeek. A hostel inside a train! Attached to the new Train World museum (see p.97) at Schaerbeek, 30min north of the centre, this quirky hostel has dorms kitted out with authentic railway fittings including old dial-up telephones.

It's worth upgrading to a cabin or suite to sleep in an authentic railway carriage. Dorms €25, doubles €99

HOTELS

Theater Hotel rue van Gaver 23 ☎ 02 350 90 00, theaterhotelbrussels.com; ☎ Yser. It might be in the red-light district, but the excellent rooms at this hip boutique hotel mean you soon forget the seedy setting. Doubles €60

EATING

Brussels has an international reputation for its food, and even at the dowdiest snack bar you'll find well-prepared Bruxellois dishes featuring fusions of Walloon and Flemish cuisine. FoodMet at rue Ropsy Chaudron 24, to the left of Anderlecht Abbatoir (Fri–Sun 7am–2pm; ☎ foodmet.brussels), is a new food market, ideal for picnic supplies.

CAFÉS

Eetcafé de Markten place du Vieux Marché aux Grains 5; ☎ Ste-Catherine. Vibrant café offering good-quality hearty salads, sandwiches and soups at very reasonable prices. Mon–Sat 8.30am–midnight, Sun 10am–6pm.

L'Eau Chaude rue de Renards 25 ☎ leauchaude.be. Fill up at this cooperative vegetarian canteen where a plat du jour costs €9 during the week and €11 on Sundays. Breakfast available too. Thurs–Sun 10am–6pm.

National Library Café bdvd de l'Empereur 2 ☎ 02 51 95 311. A secret spot that's calm not chic. The food is simple and cheap, but the views of the Hotel de Ville and an organic rooftop garden selling its produce (Mon, Wed & Fri 1–2pm) make it a real gem. Mon–Fri 9am–4pm.

Yeti rue de Bon Secours 4–6 ☎ iloveyeti.be; ☎ Bourse. Eco-conscious café which uses only organic, local and/or Fairtrade products. Good breakfasts, sandwiches (€6), teas and popular for Sunday brunch. Thurs–Sat 9am–10pm, Sun 10am–5pm.

RESTAURANTS

Chao Chow City bd Anspach 89; ☎ Bourse. Chinese food never came so cheap! Offers two dishes for either €4 at lunchtime or €6 in the evening. Options are typed up and posted on a piece of paper in the window. Daily noon–midnight.

Chez Léon rue des Bouchers 18 ☎ nl.chezleon.be; ☎ Bruxelles-Central. Touristy, but worth a visit for their reliably tasty mussels. Ask for the Formule Leon which includes 500g of mussels, chips and a beer for a bargain €16. Daily 11.30am–11pm.

La Belle Équipe rue Antoine Dansaert 202 ☎ 02 502 11 02; ☎ Porte de Flandre. Authentic pizzeria which specializes in gourmet toppings (pizzas around €12). Everyone dines on one long bar top. Delivery service available. Daily 9am–10pm.

★ Le Crachin rue de Flandre 12 ☎ lecrachin.net; ☎ Ste-Catherine. Breton crêperie serving home-made sweet and savoury buckwheat pancakes and mugs of cider. Mains €12. Mon–Fri noon–2.30pm & 6.30–10.30pm, Sat & Sun noon–10.30pm.

Le Perroquet rue Watteuu 31; ☎ Louise. Come to this lively Art Nouveau café where they serve up good-value pittas and salads (€7–14). Tues–Sat noon–11.30pm, Mon & Sun noon–10.30pm.

Le Temps d'Une Pose rue de Laeken 116 ☎ letempsdunepose.be. Cracking local restaurant run by Sandrine who dishes up Belgian classics such as stoemp for €9, or the dish of the day for €8. Mon–Fri 7am–6pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Brussels' bars are a joy. St-Géry, just to the west of Bourse, is the place to drink, especially during summer when bars spill out into the square. Rue du Marché au Charbon is the hub of gay nightlife.

BARS

★ À La Mort Subite rue Montagne aux Herbes Potagères 7 ☎ alamortsubite.com; ☎ Gare Centrale. Atmospheric 1920s bar, famous for its Gueuze and Kriek beers. Mon–Sat 11am–1am, Sun noon–midnight.

Bonnefooi rue des Pierres 8 ☎ bonnefooi.be; Prémétro Bourse. Live music every night at this hip bar and a great atmosphere in summer when the crowds mingle on the street. Mon–Thurs & Sun 4pm–4am, Fri & Sat 4pm–8am.

★ Bravo rue d'Alost 7 ☎ bravobxl.com. Industrial-style café that hides a banging basement jazz club where concerts are held almost daily: it also serves tapas (€4–9). Mon–Fri 9am–late, Sat & Sun 10.30am–late.

Celtica rue du Marché aux Poulets 55 ☎ celticpubs.com; Prémétro Bourse. Football on big screens, DJs playing nightly from 11pm and the cheapest happy-hour prices in town – Trappist monastery beers just €3, beer on tap €1 1pm–midnight. Daily 1pm–late.

★ La Fleur en Papier Doré rue des Alexiens 55 ☎ lafleurpapierdore.be; ☎ Gare Centrale. Traditional Belgian “brown” bar that was a favourite haunt of Hergé and Magritte. Serves Lambic beer the traditional way, in ceramic mugs. Tues–Sat 11am–midnight, Sun 11am–7pm.

L'Archiduc rue Antoine Dansaert 6 ☎ archiduc.net; Prémétro Bourse. A pioneer of jazz in Belgium, this legendary Art Deco bar really gets going around midnight, earlier at weekends (5–7pm) – ring the doorbell to get in. Check out the beautiful purple Cointreau Teese cocktail created by burlesque artist Dita Von Teese. Daily 4pm–5am.

Moeder Lambic place Fontainas 8 ☎ moederlambic.com; Prémétro Anneessens. Excellent place to try Belgium's many brews, with 46 beers on tap, including Brussels-brewed Cantillon – all served to you in snug wooden booths. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–1am, Fri & Sat 11am–2am.

CLUBS

Fuse rue Blaes 208 ☎ fuse.be; ☎ Gare du Midi. Get out your glow sticks at Belgium's finest techno club, which hosts some of the world's top DJs. Entry €58 before midnight, €12 after. Sat 11pm–7am.

Madame Moustache quai aux Brulers 5–7, ☎ madamemoustache.be. Hosts live bands from indie to garage and is very fond of a themed dance evening. Entry €5, €7 after midnight. Tues–Sat 8pm–4am.

SHOPPING

Aside from the Marolles flea market (see p.96), rue Blaes and rue Haute are lined with a mix of affordable and expensive antiques shops. High-street labels can be found on and around rue Neuve.

Brüsel blvd Anspach 100 ☎ brusel.com. Comic shop that stocks more than 8,000 new comic issues and specializes in French underground editions. Mon–Sat 10.30am–6.30pm, Sun noon–6.30pm.

Délices et Caprices rue des Bouchers 68, ☎ the-belgian-beer-tasting-shop.be. Central shop selling speciality beers. The owner, Pierre, can help you navigate through the hundreds of different brews on offer. Thurs–Mon 2–8pm.

Melting Pot Kilo rue Haute 154. Ladies roll up your sleeves – here you can rummage through piles of vintage clothes and pay just €15 per kilo. Daily 10am–6pm.

Pierre Marcolini rue des Minimes 1 (pl du Grand Sablon). Multi award-winning chocolatier renowned for his very posh, pretty and pricey “haute” creations and inventive flavour combinations. Mon–Thurs & Sun 10am–7pm, Fri & Sat 10am–8pm.

Wittamer pl du Grand Sablon 12. Esteemed pâtissier and chocolatier that's been around since 1910 and boasts the royal stamp of approval. Mon 9am–6pm, Tues–Sat 7am–7pm, Sun 7am–6.30pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies Australia, av des Arts 56 ☎ 02 286 05 00 ☎ Trone; Canada, av de Tervuren 2 ☎ 02 741 06 11 ☎ Merode; Ireland, chaussée d'Etterbeek 180 ☎ 02 282 34 00 ☎ Schuman; New Zealand, 7th Floor, av des Nerviens 9–31 ☎ 02 512 10 40 ☎ Schuman; South Africa, rue Montoyer 17–19 ☎ 02 285 44 00 ☎ Trone; UK, av d'Auderghem 10 ☎ 02 287 62 11 ☎ Schuman; USA, bd du Régent 27 ☎ 02 811 40 00 ☎ Arts-Loi/Kunst-Wet.

Left luggage Self-service lockers at all three main train stations.

Pharmacy Multipharma, rue du Marché aux Poulets 37 (☎ 02 511 35 90; Mon–Fri 9.30am–6.30pm, Sat 10am–6pm).

Post office Gare du Midi, exit rue Fonsy (Mon–Fri 8am–7.30pm, Sat 10.30am–4.30pm).

Northern Belgium

Almost entirely Flemish-speaking, the region to the north of Brussels has a distinctive and vibrant cultural identity, its pancake-flat landscapes punctuated by a string of fine historic cities. These begin with Antwerp, a large old port that flourished during the sixteenth century and is now Flanders' most forward-thinking city, followed by Ghent and Bruges, which became prosperous during the Middle Ages on the back of the cloth trade. All three cities have great restaurants and a lively bar scene.

ANTWERP

ANTWERP, Belgium's second city, and the de facto capital of Flemish Belgium, fans out from the east bank of the Scheldt River about 50km north of Brussels. Many people prefer it to the capital; it is an immediately attractive place, famous for Rubens, fashion, diamonds and the best nightlife in Belgium.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

At the centre of Antwerp is the spacious Grote Markt, where the conspicuous Brabo fountain features a bronze of Silvius Brabo, the city's first hero, depicted flinging the hand of the giant Antigonus – who terrorized passing ships – into the Scheldt. The north side of Grote Markt is lined with daintily restored sixteenth-century guildhouses, while the west is hogged by the handsome Stadhuis (Town Hall).

Onze Lieve Vrouwe Kathedraal

Southeast of Grote Markt, the Onze Lieve Vrouwe Kathedraal (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat 10am–3pm, Sun 1–4pm; €6; ☎ dekedraal.be) is one of the finest Gothic churches in Europe, dating from the middle of the fifteenth century. Four paintings by Rubens, including his masterpieces Elevation of the Cross and Descent from the Cross, are displayed here.

Plantin-Moretus Museum

The newly refurbished UNESCO-listed Plantin-Moretus Museum at Vrijdagmarkt 22–23 (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €8; museumplantinmoretus.be) occupies the grand old mansion of Rubens' father-in-law, the printer Christopher Plantin. It provides a beautiful, richly decorated setting for two of the oldest printing presses in the world.

MoMu and Museum voor Schone Kunsten

In the heart of the city's fashion quarter along Nationalestraat, MoMu (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €8; momu.be) showcases some of the avant-garde fashion for which the city is famous, with displays ranging from sixteenth-century lace dresses to pieces by Dries van Noten.

About fifteen minutes' walk further south at Leopold de Waelplaats, the Koninklijk Museum voor Schone Kunsten (Royal Museum of Fine Arts; kmska.be) has one of the country's best fine-art collections: it's currently closed for renovation (check website for the latest reopening date).

North of the Grote Markt

The impressively gabled Vleeshuis (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €5) is a short walk north of the Grote Markt. Built for the guild of butchers in 1503 and distinguished by its striped brickwork, it now holds a permanent exhibition covering 600 years of music and dance. Just north of here, along Vleeshouwersstraat, the elegant nave at the sixteenth-century St Pauluskerk (April–Oct Mon–Sat 2–5pm, Nov–Mar Sat–Sun 2–5pm; free) is decorated by a series of paintings depicting the Fifteen Mysteries of the Rosary, including Rubens' exquisite Scourging at the Pillar of 1617.

Rubenshuis and St Jacobskerk

Ten minutes' walk east of the Grote Markt is the Rubenshuis, at Wapper 9 (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €8; rubenshuis.be); the former home and studio of Rubens, it's now restored as a very popular museum. On his death in 1640, Rubens was buried in the chapel behind the high altar at St Jacobskerk, just to the north at Lange Nieuwstraat 73

(April–Oct daily 2–5pm; €3). The church features one of his last works, Our Lady Surrounded by Saints, featuring himself as St George, his two wives as Martha and Mary, and his father as St Jerome.

Het Eilandje

The docks north of the city centre are home to MAS (Museum aan de Stroom; Tues–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm, last entry 1hr before closing time; permanent collection €5, temporary exhibitions €10, free entry last Wed of every month; mas.be), which brings together the collections of the former Ethnographic, National Shipping and Folklore museums in a dynamic display spread over floors four to eight. The top floor offers superb panoramic views of the city. Nearby at Montevideostraat 3, the Red Star Line Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €8; redstarline.org) explores the lives and journeys taken by families sailing on the Red Star Line ocean liners which departed from Antwerp's docks for the USA between 1873 and 1934.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Antwerp has two main-line train stations: Berchem and Centraal. The latter, located about 2km east of the Grote Markt, is the one you want for the city centre.

Destinations Bruges (hourly; 1hr 30min); Brussels (every 20min; 45min); Ghent (every 30min; 1hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Grote Markt 13 (Mon–Sat 9am–5.45pm, Sun 9am–4.45pm; 03 232 01 03, visitantwerpen.be). Centraal Station also has a kiosk.

Discount cards Tourist offices sell the Antwerp City Card: it costs €27/35/40 for 24/48/72hr, and grants free access to all city museums and churches, free public transport use and discounts on attractions and bike rental.

GETTING AROUND

A flat-rate one-way ticket on any part of the city's transport system costs €3; a 24hr pass (dagpas) is €6 (€8 on board).

By tram/metro Antwerp is easily traversed on foot, but there are very good metro and tram services covering the city. Trams #9 and #15 (direction Linkeroever) run from the tram station beside Centraal Station to the centre; get off at Groenplaats.

ACCOMMODATION

Many mid-priced and budget establishments are around Centraal Station, where you should exercise caution at night.

★ Abhostel Kattenberg 110 03 0473 57 01 66, abhostel.com. Chic, family-run hostel a 15min walk from the centre. Each room has cool artwork on the walls. Rooftop terrace, kitchen and lounge with DVDs. Breakfast (with eggs) included. Dorms €20, doubles €50

Alias Provinciestraat 256 03 230 05 22, aliasyouthhostel.com. Modernized hostel 2km from the centre. There's a homely TV room with adjoining breakfast room. Breakfast and bedding are included. Cash only. Dorms €21.50, doubles €50

Pulcinella Bogaardeplein 1 03 234 03 14, jeugdherbergen.be. Sleek black-and-white minimalist hostel. Four- and six-bed en-suite dorms have individual reading lights and lockers. Stylish bar downstairs but no kitchen. Breakfast and sheets included; towels €6. Dorms €28, doubles €61

Zero Star Pension Minkelersstraat 078 05 40 50, hostelworld.com. Only open mid-June to Aug, this converted gas factory, 3km from the centre, offers the cheapest beds in town and includes an organic breakfast too: sheets €4 extra. Dorms €20

EATING

Antwerp is full of informal café-restaurants. Several of the best are clustered on Suikerrui and Grote Pieter Potstraat near the Grote Markt, and there's another concentration around Hendrik Conscienceplein. For fast food, try the kebab and falafel places on Oude Koornmarkt, or, of course, any of the frituurs.

CAFÉS AND SNACK BARS

★ Caravan Damplein 17. The new owners here have spruced up the decor and revamped the menu to offer home-made breakfasts and lunch plus dinners with ingredients from New York to Japan. Mains €5–12. Wed–Fri 11am–11pm, Sat & Sun 10am–11pm.

Comme Soupe Hendrik Conscienceplein 11. Recommended by locals, this cute-as-a-button rustic bar serves sandwiches plus 3 different soups daily (€5), all cooked by the patron, Charlotte. Mon–Fri 11.30am–5pm, Sat 11.30am–6pm.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Wake-Up Sandwich Hoogstraat 68

03 225 16 06, wakeupsandwich.be. Bright, well-located hotel, with breakfast in the lovely café downstairs included.

The rooms sleeping four are a good deal.

Book in advance in summer. Singles €53, doubles €87, quads €120

Fabiola Sint-Antoniusstraat 4. A rustic café with a fantastic range of croque monsieurs (€4–7). Sweet and savoury, traditional and gourmet – they're all here. Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat 10am–7.30pm.

Fritkot Max Groenplaats 12. It doesn't look like much but this place might just serve the best chips in town (cornets cost €3) – ideal for a quick refuel between sightseeing. Daily noon–midnight.

RESTAURANTS

De Taloorkes Lange Koepoortstraat 61. Five minutes' walk from Grote Markt but a world away from its touristy offerings, this locals' restaurant serves mouth-watering stews and mussels for €15. Sun–Wed 11am–10pm, Thurs–Sat 11am–11pm.

Kapitein Zeppos Vleminkveld 78. Named after a famous 1960s cartoon hero, this restaurant has exposed brick walls, chunky wooden tables and excellent food – the €12 dagschotel is great value for money. Cash only. Mon–Fri 10am–10pm, Sat–Sun 11am–11pm.

★ Native Munstraat 8. Fancy a treat? Currently the place to go, this rustic café/restaurant serves inventive organic, seasonal food for around €16 a main. Great ambience. Tues & Wed 11am–6pm, Thurs–Sat 11am–9pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

BARS

De Duifkens Graanmarkt 5. A great place to try local beer Bolleke Koninck. Rumour has it the former owner's ashes are stored in the urn that sits on top of the fireplace! Daily 11am–midnight.

Hopper Leopold de Waelstraat 2 @cafehopper.be. Best jazz bar in town, with live sessions on Mon at 9pm, Sun at 4pm and Oct–April Tues 9pm. Mon–Wed & Sun 10am–2am, Thurs–Sat 10am–3am.

Kathedraalcafé Torfbrug 10. Hard by the cathedral, this old bar is touristy but still worth visiting for the kitsch, nineteenth-century statues of the Virgin Mary that cram the interior. Daily 10am–late.

Quinten Matsijs Moriaanstraat 17. Established in 1545, this is Antwerp's oldest bar. The regal dark-wood interior is ideal for a quiet, relaxed drink of the local brew Triple d'Anvers, while the hapjes (appetizers) are hearty and delicious too. Wed–Sun noon–11pm.

CLUBS

Ampere Simonsstraat 21 @ampere-antwerp.com. Creative space beneath the railway tracks, just south of Centraal Station, that transforms into a club at weekends. They aim to mimic Berlin's underground music scene – and even have a piece of the wall to prove it. Good international DJs. Fri–Sat 11pm–7am.

Café d'Anvers Verversrui 15 @www.cafe-d-anvers.com. Club housed in a sixteenth-century church in the red-light district. Mainly house music. Tickets can be bought online and range from €7–15. Thurs 11pm–6am, Fri & Sat 11pm–7.30am.

Jazzcafé De Muze Melmarkt 15 @jazzcafede muze.be. Renowned jazz bar that puts on free live performances. Mon–Sat at 10pm and Sun at 3pm. Mon–Fri 11am–1am, Sat & Sun 11am–3am.

SHOPPING

Antwerp offers superb fashion shopping. High-street labels can be found along Meir and Huidevettersstraat, while Kammenstraat is good for vintage clothes shops. The haute-couture boutiques congregate around Nationaalstraat, Kammenstraat and Steenhouwersves. Pricey antiques and cavernous junk shops can be found along Kloosterstraat.

DIRECTORY

Left luggage Self-service lockers in the Centraal train station under the stairs.

Post office Groenplaats 43 (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–3pm).

GHENT

The largest town in Western Europe during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, GHENT (Gent) was once at the heart of the medieval Flemish cloth trade. It's now the third-largest city in Belgium, and rivals Bruges thanks to its beautiful canals and well-preserved medieval architecture – without the stifling tourism.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

A captivating university town with a spirited nightlife and its own castle, Ghent's main appeal lies in wandering the cobbled streets which line the canalside and sampling the city's bars.

Sint-Baafsplein

Ghent is famous for its three towers in a row. The first of these – and the best place to start exploring – is the mainly Gothic Sint-Baafskathedraal, squeezed into the corner of St Baafsplein (April–Oct Mon–Sat 8.30am–6pm, Sun 1–6pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 8.30am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm; @sintbaafskathedraal.be). Inside, a small chapel holds Ghent's greatest treasure, the altarpiece of the Adoration of the Mystic Lamb (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 10.30am–4pm, Sun 1–4pm; €4 includes audioguide), a wonderful, early fifteenth-century painting by brothers Hubert and Jan van Eyck. It's undergoing a five-year restoration, so a panel may be missing.

On the west side of St Baafsplein lurks the medieval Lakenhalle (Cloth Hall), a gloomy hunk of a building. One of its entrances leads to the adjoining Belfort (Belfry; daily 10am–6pm; €8; belfortgent.be), a much-amended edifice dating from the fourteenth century. A lift climbs up to the roof for excellent views over the city centre. St Nikolaaskerk, at the western end of Emile Braunplein, completes the trio.

The Graslei and Patershol

The Graslei forms the eastern side of the old city harbour and is home to a splendid series of medieval guildhouses. On warm days it's packed with students sunning themselves, and is the departure point for fifty-minute boat tours (€7 in cash) along the canals. Nearby just to the north are the narrow cobbled lanes and alleys of the Patershol, a pocket-sized district that was formerly home to the city's weavers, but is now Ghent's main restaurant quarter. To the west, on Sint-Veerleplein, stands Het Gravensteen (Castle of the Counts; April–Oct daily 10am–6pm; Nov–March 9am–5pm; €10 includes movieguide), a spectacular twelfth-century castle, now a chilling torture museum.

SMAK and STAM

Strolling south from the centre along Ghent's main shopping street, Veldstraat, it takes about twenty minutes to reach the former casino, now home to SMAK, Jan Hoetplein 1 (Mon–Fri 9.30am–5.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €8; smak.be), a contemporary art museum known for its adventurous exhibitions.

Just north, across the canal at Godshuizenlaan 2, STAM (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €8; stamgent.be) details the city's history via an array of artefacts, weapons, costumes and coins.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Of Ghent's two train stations, Gent-Sint-Pieters, about 2km south of the city centre, is the handiest for town. Destinations Antwerp (every 30min; 50min); Bruges (every 20min; 20min); Brussels (every 30min; 40min); Ostend (every 30min; 40min).

By bus The Flibco (flibco.com) shuttle bus from Charleroi airport takes 1hr 20min; tickets €5–15.

INFORMATION

Tourist information Oude Vismijn, Sint-Veerleplein 5 (daily: mid-March to mid-Oct 9.30am–6.30pm; mid-Oct to mid-March 9.30am–4.30pm; ☎ 09 266 56 60, visitgent.be).

Discount cards The CityCard Gent grants free entry to all of the city's main museums and monuments, free use of public transport and a complimentary canal cruise. It costs €30 for 48 hours, or €35 for 72 hours, and can be bought from the tourist office, hotels, participating museums and offices of the public transport company De Lijn.

GETTING AROUND

By tram Trams depart from outside the train station. Tram #1 (direction Evergem or Wondelgem) runs up to the Korenmarkt, in the centre of town, every few minutes. The single journey flat-rate fare is €3; validate the ticket at the machine once you get on.

ACCOMMODATION

The tourist office publishes a comprehensive brochure detailing local accommodation, and operates a free hotel booking service. You can also ask them about camping options out to the west of town.

★ 13 O'Clock Hostel Universiteitsstraat 13 ① 047 13 313 13, ② 13oclock.be. Converted university building that offers slick rooms with kitchenettes (no breakfast) right in the centre of town. Towel and linen included. Dorms €29, doubles €60

De Draeck St Widostraat 11 ① 09 233 70 50, ② jeugdherbergen.be. Bang in the historic centre, this newly renovated hostel sports lots of beachy wood panelling, a bar and lounge. There's no kitchen, but bedding (not towels) and breakfast included. Three-course dinner €12. Dorms €26, doubles €60

Hostel 47 Blekerijstraat 47 ① 0478 71 28 27, ② hostel47.com. Trendy hostel in the north of town. Dorm rooms are finished to a high standard, and their communal showers and sinks are very swanky. No laundry, but breakfast and sheets are included. Cash only. Dorms €30, doubles €69

Hostel Uppelink Sint-Michielsplein 21 ① 09 279 44 77, ② hosteluppelink.com. Excellent eleven-room hostel overlooking the central Korenlei canal. Some dorms (sleeping 2–4) have exposed brick, and one is for women only. Homely lounge and bar too. Fairtrade breakfast and sheets included. Dorms €22

KaBa Hostel Filips van Arteveld 35 ① 09 233 53 33, ② kabahostel.be; bus #70/72 from train station to Gent Zuid then walk 400m. Fresh, bright and homely nine-room hostel run by couple Bart and Katrijn. Sunny garden and shared kitchen, with work by local artists adorning every wall. Towels €1. Dorms €24, doubles €70

EATING

Fancier restaurants are concentrated in Patershol, while less expensive options cluster around the Korenmarkt. Check out the new Holy Food Market, at Ottogracht 2 (② holyfoodmarket.be), a permanent food market inside a sixteenth-century abbey. Thursday is vegetarian day citywide.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Snooz Inn Ham 89 ① 0496 24 14 26, ② snoozinn.be. Ultra-modern boutique B&B inside a converted printing house on the edge of the historic centre. Its three stylish rooms have posh showers or steam baths, projection TVs and polished concrete or parquet floors. Breakfast €12.20 extra. Doubles €118

DreamCATCHers Schepenhuisstraat 17 ② wearedreamcatchers.be. The Japanese craze for felines and food has reached Ghent. Run by young cat lovers Lana and Evelynne, this café offers coffee with a slice of cake and a cat to cuddle. Check website for opening times.

★ Le Petit Botanique Kammerstraat 19 ① 09 391 92 09. Part of an urban farming project that grows all its own organic vegetables. There is just one dish of the day, but it's wholesome, delicious and only €11. Reservations recommended. Mon–Fri 11am–9pm, Sat 10am–6pm.

Parnassus Oude Houtlei 122. Unique chance to dine inside a former Franciscan church and rub shoulders with locals at this lunchtime buffet frequented by students, professors and travellers on a budget. Fill up for around €8. Mon–Fri noon–2pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Ghent boasts an energetic drinking scene thanks to its student population.

BARS

Café het Spijker Pensmarkt 3. Cosy candelit bar housed in a former thirteenth-century leprosy shelter. The terrace at the back has lovely views of the canal. Daily 10am–late.

Folklore Lange Steenstraat. One of Ghent's last true brown cafés. Hard-boiled eggs are served free with the drinks, chamber pots hang from the ceiling, and the clock is turned back one minute every year, so at "last call" at 1am it's actually only 12.30am! Thurs 8am–8pm, Fri 8am–1am, Sat 11am–1am, Sun 10.30am–8pm.

† Dreupelkot Groentenmarkt 12. Cigar-smoking owner Pol has been in charge for more than 40 years at the city's last traditional jenever bar. It stocks over 215 flavours, including home-made vanilla, all kept at icy temperatures. Mon–Sat 4pm–late.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

★ Millie Vanillie Sint-Niklaasstraat 2 ② millievanillie.be. Oh-so-hip basement bar/club the owners wanted to

GHENT FESTIVAL

For ten days during the second half of July, Ghent transforms into a 24-hour party city as it pulsates with the Gentse Feesten (② gentsefeesten.stad.gent). Stages are set up in all the main squares and blast out every kind of music. Accommodation gets booked up months before the festival, so reserve in advance, and try to avoid visiting immediately afterwards – everything is shut for the next week or so as the city recovers.

name “Matt Damon”, but their lawyers wouldn’t let them. Dress up and get down to pop and dance music. Fri & Sat 10pm–5am.

Missy Sippy Klein Turkije 📞missy-sippy.be. New bar that’s quickly gained a huge fan base thanks to its blues jams, poetry evenings and boogie nights. Tickets for some events €12. Tues–Sun 5pm–5am.

DIRECTORY

Pharmacy Apotheek Kouter, Kortedagsteeg 1 (📞09 225 18 49; Mon–Fri 8.30am–7pm, Sat 9.30am–6.30pm).

Post office Lange Kruisstraat 55 (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–3pm).

3

BRUGES

The reputation of BRUGES (Brugge) as one of the most perfectly preserved medieval cities in Europe has made it Belgium’s tourist honeypot. Inevitably, the crowds tend to overwhelm the city’s charms, but you would be mad to come to Belgium and skip it. Bruges boomed throughout the Middle Ages, its weavers turning English wool into clothing that was exported worldwide. By the end of the fifteenth century, however, the city fell into decline and its unique beauty went unnoticed until it was rediscovered some 400 years later, thanks to the popularity of Georges Rodenbach’s novel Bruges-la-Morte.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The older sections of Bruges fan out from two central squares, Markt and Burg.

Markt

Markt, edged on three sides by nineteenth-century gabled buildings, is the larger of the two squares, an impressive open space flanked to the south by the mighty Belfort (Belfry; daily 9.30am–6pm; €10), built in the thirteenth century when the town was at its richest. Its tapering staircase leads up to the roof from where there are spectacular views over the city. Also on the square is the Historium (daily 10am–6pm, last tickets 5pm; €13.50, combination ticket with Groeningemuseum €17.50; 📞historium.be), which shows what life was like in Bruges during the fifteenth century through its seven interactive rooms and a new “smart-glasses” tour.

The Burg and the Heilig Bloedbasiliek

From the Markt, Breidelstraat leads through to the Burg, whose finest building is the Heilig Bloedbasiliek (Basilica of the Holy Blood; April to mid-Nov daily 9.30am–noon & 2–5pm; mid-Nov to Dec Mon, Tues & Thurs–Sun 9.30am–noon & 2–5pm, Wed 9.30am–noon, Sun 9.30–11am & 2–5pm; €2.50; 📞holyblood.com). Its Upper Chapel holds a phial of the blood of Christ brought back from Jerusalem by the Crusaders. Stored in a grandiose silver tabernacle, the Holy Blood is still venerated on Ascension Day, when it is carried through the town in a colourful but solemn procession.

The Stadhuis

The Stadhuis has a beautiful, turreted sandstone facade, behind which is a magnificent Gothic Hall (daily 9.30am–5pm; €4). Nearby, at Burg 11, the former Court of Justice houses an impressive Renaissance ceremonial meeting room ’t Brugse Vrije (daily 9.30am–12.30pm & 1.30–5pm; €4). Dating from the sixteenth century, it features an enormous oak chimneypiece carved in honour of the ruling Habsburgs.

The Groeningemuseum

The Groeningemuseum, at Dijver 12 (Tues–Sun 9.30am–5pm; €8, combination ticket with Historium €17.50), houses a superb collection of Flemish paintings, including several canvases by Jan van Eyck. From 2017, some rooms may be closed, so reduced entrance fees are on offer.

Onze Lieve Vrouwekerk

The Onze Lieve Vrouwekerk (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 1.30–5pm; €6), on Mariastraat, features a delicate marble statue of Madonna and Child by Michelangelo and, in the chancel, the exquisite Renaissance mausoleums of Charles the Bold and his daughter Mary of Burgundy.

Sint-Janshospitaal and Begijnhof

Sint-Janshospitaal (Tues–Sun 9.30am–5pm; €8) has been turned into a lavish museum celebrating the city's history in general and the hospital in particular. In addition, the old chapel displays a small but distinguished collection of paintings by Hans Memling.

From Sint-Janshospitaal, it's a quick stroll down to the Begijnhof (Mon–Sat 10am–6.30pm, Sun 2.30–6.30pm; free), a circle of whitewashed houses around a tidy green that was established in the thirteenth century for pious women who had been widowed by the Crusades. Inside is the Begijnhuisje (€2), a small museum detailing daily seventeenth-century life. Nearby is the romantic Minnewater, often known as the "Lake of Love".

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Bruges's train station is situated 2km southwest of the centre.

Destinations Antwerp (hourly; 1hr 20min); Brussels (every 30min; 1hr); Ghent (every 20min; 20min); Ostend (every 30min; 15min); Zeebrugge (hourly; 15min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The main office is in the city concert hall at 't Zand 34 (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 10am–2pm; ☎ 05 044 86 86, bezoekers.brugge.be), with smaller branches (both daily 10am–5pm) inside the Historium and inside the train station.

Discount card The Brugge City Card (bruggecitycard.be) grants free access to the main museums and attractions, includes a free canal boat ride and 25 percent discount on bicycle rental and public transport. It costs €47/53 for 48/72hr, and is cheaper for under-26s.

GETTING AROUND

By bus Local buses leave from outside the train station for the main square, the Markt; tickets cost €2 from the driver.

ACCOMMODATION

★ Lybeer Korte Vuldersstraat 31 ☎ 050 33 43 55, hostellybeer.com. Modern, recently renovated hostel a 10min walk from the train station. Rooms are clean, and the common room cosy. Offers free walking tours themed on the film In Bruges, beer tastings and quiz nights. Dorms €30, doubles €110

Passage Dweersstraat 26 ☎ 05 034 02 32, passagebruges.com. This hostel has very comfortable, tasteful rooms sleeping two, three or four people. Breakfast is served in its excellent Art Deco restaurant. Dorms €32, doubles €64

Snuffel Ezelstraat 42 ☎ 050 33 31 33, www.snuffel.be. Life at this hostel revolves around its laidback, late-opening bar. Perks include free walking tours, beer tastings every Wed at 7pm, and free concerts in summer. Bedding and breakfast included. Dorms €23, doubles €60

St Christopher's Bauhaus Langestraat 133–137; reception located at no. 145 ☎05 034 10 93, 📍st-christophers.co.uk/bruges-hostels. Cheerful hostel with its own nightclub and excellent bar-restaurant. Ask for a “pod” bunk with curtains around it for privacy, power points and locker drawers. Free walking tours. Bedding and breakfast included. Dorms €20, doubles €68

EATING

★FOOD Oude Burg 30 📍hashtagfood.be. Everything about this place is hip: from the hashtag in the name to the insect burger (€19.50) and healthy juices it serves up. Reservations recommended. Mon, Thurs–Sat noon–3pm & 5–8pm.

Friterie 1900 Markt 35. This simple shop-front counter has been serving up cornets of traditional Belgian frites for just €2 to the après-dancing crowd for donkey's years. Daily 10.30am–midnight.

Oyya Noordzandstraat 1. Need a sugar fix? This place serves the best ice cream, waffles (€2) and frozen yogurt with toppings galore. The salted caramel is a must. Daily 10am–11pm.

Pas Partout Jeruzalemstraat 1 📍sobo.be. A cash- and lunchtime-only place, 350m from the centre, that serves the cheapest steak frites (€10) in town. Dishes are prepared by once-unemployed individuals who are now learning a new trade. Mon–Sat 11.45am–2pm.

Vino Vino Grauwerkersstraat 15. Tattooed owner Achim serves delicious wines accompanied by superb tapas, such as patatas bravas and squid cooked in wine (€6–9). Great blues music in the background. Mon–Tues & Thurs–Sun 6pm–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Café Vlissinghe Blekersstraat 2 📍cavevlissinghe.be. Open since 1515, this peaceful, tucked-away café is packed with historic relics. Has board games and a large terrace out the back. Cash only. Wed–Sat 11am–10pm, Sun 11am–7pm.

De Coulissen Jakob Van Oostraat 4. Bruges' largest nightclub (it's still small) has guest DJs on Thursdays, party tunes on Fridays and dance and R&B on Saturdays. Thurs–Sat 10pm–6am.

Groot Vlaenderen Vlamingsstraat 94. Drag out your smartest pair of travelling trousers/dress for a gin cocktail at this “pre- & after-dinner” bar, which serves more than 70 different type of cocktails. Wed–Sat 5pm–2am, Sun 5pm–midnight.

Le Trappiste Kuipersstraat 33 📍letrappistebrugge.be. Choose from more than 100 specialist beers beneath the vaulted exposed-brick arches of this thirteenth-century cellar. It also hosts tasting evenings: check website for upcoming dates. Tues–Sun 5pm–midnight.

SHOPPING

Lace and chocolate are the best gifts to buy in Bruges.

't Apostolientje Balstraat 11. A trusted source for antique lace. Tues 1–5pm, Wed–Sat 9.30am–12.25pm & 1.15–5pm, Sun 9.30am–1pm.

The Chocolate Line Simon Stevinplein 19. Unusual option selling tobacco- and wasabi-flavoured chocolate. Tues–Sat 9.30am–6.30pm, Sun–Mon 10.30am–6.30pm.

Think Twice Sint Jakobsstraat 21. Quaint secondhand vintage shop that has a good turnover of stock. Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 1–5pm.

DIRECTORY

Internet The city has free wi-fi zones (“ZapFi”) in the t'Zand, Markt and Burg squares.

Left luggage Self-service lockers located just inside the train station's main entrance.

Post office Markt 5 (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–3pm).

Southern Belgium

South of Brussels lies Wallonia, French-speaking Belgium, where a belt of heavy industry interrupts the rolling farmland that precedes the high wooded hills of the Ardennes. The latter spreads over three provinces – Namur in the west, Luxembourg in the south and Liège in the east – and is a great place for hiking and canoeing.

NAMUR

Capital of Namur province, the city of NAMUR is a charming place, with an antique centre that boasts a number of first-rate restaurants and bars full of university students. It is also the ideal base from which to explore the Ardennes forest.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Straddling the confluence of the rivers Sambre and Meuse, Namur's important strategic location is evidenced by the massive, rambling citadel that overlooks the town. One of the largest in Europe, explore it on foot or take the La Citad'n tourist train (April–June & mid-Sept to mid-Nov Sat & Sun; July to mid-Sept daily; €2), which departs every twenty minutes from place de l'Ange and rue du Grognon.

At rue de Fer 24 is the Musée Provincial des Art Anciens, also known as Trem.A (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €3, free first Sun of month), which now houses the Trésor du Prieuré d'Oignies, a spellbinding collection of reliquaries.

In the heart of the old town, at rue Fumal 12, is the Musée Provincial Félicien Rops (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, open Mon July & Aug only; €3, audioguide €2; www.museerops.be). Sexually liberated for his generation, Rops pushed the boundaries in his sketches and paintings – look for his saucy Les Sataniques series on the second floor.

A general market is held every Saturday on rue de Fer and a flea market every Sunday on quai de la Meuse (both 7am–1pm).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Namur's train station is 500m north of the centre on place de la Station.

Destinations Brussels (every 30min; 1hr); Luxembourg City (hourly; 1hr 40min); Marloie for La Roche-en-Ardenne (hourly; 35min); Melreux for La Roche-en-Ardenne (hourly; 1hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Place de la Station (daily 9.30am–6pm; ☎081 24 64 49, namurtourisme.be). There's also an info centre inside the Citadelle (daily: April–Sept 10am–6pm; Oct–March 10am–5pm) and inside the Halle Al'Chair at rue du Pont 21 (Jan–March & Oct–Dec Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; April–Sept daily 9.30am–6pm).

GETTING AROUND

By bike Li Bia Velo (www.libiavelo.be) has blue bike rental areas around the city. A one-day ticket costs €1; the first 30min is free.

By boat Les Namourettes (July & Aug daily; June & Sept Sat & Sun; €1 one-way; ☎081 24 65 96) are river taxis that ferry passengers across the Meuse and Sambre rivers and to the town of Jambes.

ACCOMMODATION

Auberge de Jeunesse av Félicien Rops 8 ☎081 22 36 88, lesaubergedejunesse.be. On the southern edge of town, this hostel has doubles and dorms (sleeping 3–5), a bar with a terrace overlooking the river, a communal kitchen, TV room and laundry; it also serves breakfast and evening meals (mains €5). It's 3km from the train station: walk along the river or take bus #3 or #4 from the centre (€1.75). Sheets and breakfast included. Dorms €25, doubles €62

Gîtes du Vieux Namur rue du Président 32 ☎475 45 76 00, lesgitesduvieuxnamur.be. Stylish self-catering apartments for stays of two nights or more, located in the centre of old Namur. €85 per night

EATING AND DRINKING

Local specialities include caramels called biétrumé, Wépion strawberries, and a sausage roll-like snack called avisanse.

★ A Table! rue des Brasseurs 21. Lively café serving organic light bites and veggie options (mains around €13). Tables at the back have views of the Sambre and the citadel. Tues–Wed 11.30am–2.30pm, Thurs–Sat 11.30am–2.30pm & 6.30–9pm.

La Mère Gourmandin rue du Président 13. Try the savoury crêpes (from €12) accompanied by tumbler of home-made cider at this romantic candelit restaurant. Mon–Sat noon–5pm, Sun noon–4pm.

Piano Bar place Marché-aux-Légumes 10. One of Namur's most popular bars, with live jazz on Fri and Sat from 10pm. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–2am, Fri & Sat noon–4am.

Ursule & Pétula rue de Bruxelles 50. Reassuringly popular with locals, this café specializes in gourmet filled baguettes (€6), tasty soups such as carrot and coconut, and salads. Mon–Fri 11am–2pm.

LA ROCHE-EN-ARDENNE

If you've had enough of Belgian cities or flat landscape, head to the Ardennes for a change of scene. While its principal town, La Roche-en-Ardenne, is packed in the summer (mostly with young families), it remains one of the area's best bases for outdoor activities, and it's easy to escape into the gorgeous surrounding woods. The only downside is that, aside from the town's fairly impressive castle ruins (July & Aug daily 10am–6pm; April–June, Sept & Oct daily 11am–5pm; Nov–March Mon–Thurs 1–4pm; €5.50), there's not a whole lot to distract you if the weather's bad.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The nearest stations to La Roche are Marloie and Melreux, both around 30min away by bus.

By bus Catch bus #13 from Melreux or #15 from Marloie (both: every 2hr; 35min). Passengers are dropped off in the centre of town.

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist information place du Marché 15 (daily 9.30am–5pm, until 6pm July & Aug; ☎ 084 36 77 36, la-roche-tourisme.com).

Ardenne Aventures rue de l'Eglise 35 ☎ 084 41 19 00, ardenne-aventures.be. Long (€21; 5hr) and short (€16; 1hr 30min) kayak trips year-round, leaving hourly in high season; mountain biking (€25; 4hr); horseriding (€45; 2hr); rafting (Nov–April; €19; 1hr 30min). You can get good rates if you combine two activities on one day.

Brandsport Auberge La Laiterie, Mierchamps 15 ☎ 084 41 10 84, brandsport.be. Orienteering (€12.50/half-day); kayaking (€20/half-day); caving (€55/half-day); archery (€25/half-day). Horseriding, abseiling and rock climbing can also be organized.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Camping Le Vieux Moulin Petite Strument 62, about 800m to the south of the town centre along the Val du Bronze ☎ 084 41 13 80, strument.com. Huge campsite with a picturesque setting beside a stream. Open March–Oct 31. Per person €3.50, plus per tent €10

La Stradella place du Marché 2. Garish decor, but the wood-fired Italian pizza is worth it. Very central. Daily 11.30am–2.15pm & 5.45–9.45pm.

Villa Le Monde rue du Nulay 9 ☎ 0496 67 62 19, www.villalemonde.com. This family-run B&B in a villa is a short walk from the village centre, with four en-suite rooms, a homely lounge and leafy terrace. Doubles €88

Luxembourg

Famous as a tax haven, financial centre and headquarters for various European institutions, the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, one of Europe's smallest sovereign states, unsurprisingly gets written off by many travellers. However, this is a mistake: Luxembourg City is incredibly charming and well worth visiting for a night or two.

LUXEMBOURG CITY

LUXEMBOURG CITY is one of the most spectacularly situated capitals in Europe. The valleys of the rivers Alzette and Pétrusse, which meet here, cut a green swathe through the city, their deep canyons formerly key to the city's defences.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Luxembourg City divides into four distinct sections: the old town (northern side of the Pétrusse valley), which holds most of the city's sights and is the most appealing quarter; the modern city, where the train station is located; the atmospheric valleys of the Grund area (east); and the Kirchberg section (northeast), home to sleek European Union buildings.

The old town

The UNESCO-listed old town focuses on two squares: the place d'Armes, fringed with cafés and restaurants, and the larger place Guillaume II, the venue for Luxembourg's main general market (Wed & Sat from 7am). Nearby, on rue du St-Esprit, the Musée d'Histoire de la Ville de Luxembourg (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €5; mnhv.lu) houses a permanent exhibition explaining Luxembourg's history. Further history is on offer at the Musée National d'Histoire et d'Art (MNHA), on Marché-aux-Poissons (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €7; mnh.lu), which displays a mish-mash of archeological finds, paintings and sculptures.

A few minutes' walk east of the museum on the montée de Clausen lies the entrance to 17km of underground tunnels known as the Casemates du Bock (daily: March & Oct to early Nov 10am–5.30pm; April–Sept 10am–8.30pm; €4), the earliest of which were excavated in 1644 under Spanish control.

The Grund

The dramatic chemin de la Corniche runs along the top of the cliff with great views of the slate-roofed houses of the quaint and leafy Grund down below. It leads to the gigantic Citadelle du St-Esprit, whose top has been levelled off and partly turned into a verdant park. The Grund is especially worth visiting on Wednesday (when students have a half-day) and Friday nights when its bars kick into action.

Kirchberg

Spread over a large area, the east of the city is largely dominated by European Union buildings; among them, at Park Dräi Eechelen 3, is the Musée d'Art Moderne Grand-Duc Jean (MUDAM; Wed–Fri 11am–8pm, Sat–Mon 11am–6pm; €7; mudam.lu). Down the hill from Mudam, at Park Dräi Eechelen 5, is the Musée Dräi Eechelen (Mon & Thurs–Sun 10am–6pm, Wed 10am–8pm; €5; m3e.public.lu), a restored fort detailing the Duchy's history.

A good way to see the city is to take the hour-long tours offered by the hop-on, hop-off sightseeing bus which leaves from place de la Constitution (April–Oct daily 9.40am–5.20pm; every 20min; €14, valid for 24hr).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The train station, a 15min walk south of the old town, is the hub of all the city's bus lines. Buses departing from the depot on rue Aldringen will take you back to the train station.

Destinations Brussels (hourly; 3hr); Cologne (hourly; 5hr); Namur (hourly; 2hr); Nancy (hourly; 2hr); Strasbourg (hourly; 2hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist office place Guillaume II 30 (April–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–6pm; ☎ 022 28 09, lcto.lu).

Discount card The Luxembourg Card grants free entry to 70 museums and tourist attractions nationwide and includes free cross-country travel. It is available for 1/2/3 days and costs €13/20/28.

GETTING AROUND

By bike Vél'oh! veloh.lu. City rental scheme with 72 stations dotted across town. There's a long-term card or a 7-day ticket. Book the latter and you only pay for what you use. Payment with bank card. First 30min free, then €5/24hr.

ACCOMMODATION

There are plenty of cheap hotels around the train station; you'll pay a little more to stay in the appealing Old Town – see the tourist information website for listings.

Campsite Kockelscheuer route de Bettembourg 22 ☎ 047 18 15, cccl.lu; bus #5. A well-equipped campsite 4km/20min bus ride from the city centre, with wi-fi, tennis courts, bowling, golf and two restaurants. Open March–Oct. Two nights minimum. Per person €4.50, plus per tent €6

Ibis Styles Centre Gare rue Joseph Junck 30 ☎ 04 92 496, ibis.com. It may be a chain, but you can't fault its good access to the city centre, and fresh modern interior. Doubles €80

Luxembourg City-Hostel rue du Fort Olisy 2 ☎ 026 27 66 650, youthhostels.lu; bus #9, stop "Plateau Altmunster". Beneath imposing viaduct arches in the Pfaffenthal district, this big, bright HI hostel has four- and six-bed dorms (half en suite), a bar-restaurant with

EATING

A La Soupe Centre	4
Banana's Bar	3
Bodega	2
Chigigier	1
D'Artagnan	5

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Ikki	2
Les Rives de Clausen	1
Scott's Pub	5
The Tube	4
Urban Bar	3

terrace, plus a pool table, book exchange and laundry. Dorms €25, doubles €60

EATING

French cuisine is popular here, but traditional Luxembourgish dishes, such as neck of pork with broad beans (judd mat gaardebounen), are found on many menus too.

A La Soupe Centre rue Chimay 9. Trendy soup bar just off place Guillaume II. A bowl of tasty soup plus bread costs €5–8. Mon–Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–6pm.

Banana's Bar av Monterey 9. Lively American bar-restaurant whose walls are plastered with old advertising posters. Serves burgers, pastas and salads, all for around €12, and a plat du jour for €10.50. No credit cards. Mon 9am–11pm, Tues–Sat 9am–1am, Sun noon–7pm.

Chiggeri rue du Nord 15. Head upstairs to this bohemian bar-restaurant with funky decor that is famous for its tartiflette (€19) and 2200-strong wine list that features in the Guinness Book of World Records. Mon–Fri noon–3pm & 7pm–1am, Sat & Sun noon–3am.

D'Artagnan bd du Général Patton 92. Simple restaurant with one winning card: it serves the best horse steak in town (€20.50). Mon 6.30pm–midnight, Tues–Fri 11.30am–3pm & 6.30pm–midnight, Sat 6.30pm–midnight: kitchen closes at 2pm & 10pm.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Bodega rue du Curé 5a. Adored by locals, this homely Iberian restaurant has personable service and excellent tapas and steaks. The huge helpings of paella are particularly good, as are the fish and lamb chops. Mains around €9.50–22. Mon–Sat 11.30am–2.30pm & 6.30–10.30pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

There's a lively bar scene in the old town and Grund, as well as Les Rives de Clausen, rue Emile Mousel 2 (10min walk from the HI hostel), a cluster of pubs and clubs that gets especially busy on Fri evenings.

Ikki Les Rives de Clausen @ ikki.lu. Locals love this sleek and lively bar in the basement below a smart sushi restaurant. Mon–Thurs 5pm–1am, Fri & Sat 5pm–3am, Sun 3.30pm–1am.

★ Scott's Pub rue Bisserweg 4. Located in the Grund, this Irish bar is the most backpacker-friendly hangout in Luxembourg, with a lovely terrace that attracts a young, expat crowd. Mon–Sat 11am–1am, Sun 11am–midnight.

The Tube rue Sigfroi 8, Old Town. Youthful bar/club named after the London Underground. Most nights live DJs play everything from soul to techno. Mon–Fri 5pm–1am, Sat & Sun 5pm–3am.

Urban Bar rue de la Boucherie 2. One of the coolest bars in town, albeit in an understated way. There are good burgers and a filling dish of the day, and DJs play Wed–Sat. Mon–Thurs 11am–1am, Fri & Sat 11am–2am, Sun 11am–midnight.

DIRECTORY

Embassies UK, bd Joseph II 5 ☎ 02 298 64; US, bd Emmanuel Servais 22 ☎ 04 601 23.

Internet The entire city has a free wi-fi network called "CityLuxFree".

Luggage storage Located on platform 3CD of the train station.

Pharmacies Goedert, place d'Armes 5 (Mon–Sat 9am–5.30pm).

Post office rue Aldringen 25 (Mon–Fri 7am–7pm, Sat 7am–5pm).

MOSTAR AND THE NERETVA RIVER

Bosnia-Herzegovina

HIGHLIGHTS

- ① Sarajevo One of the friendliest capitals in Europe. See p.118
- ② Jajce Adorable Bosnian town with a resident waterfall. See p.122
- ③ Bihać Rafting centre focused on the River Una. See p.123
- ④ Mostar Much more than just a bridge. See p.123
- ⑤ Trebinje Herzegovina's most appealing town, and another superb bridge. See p.126

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.115

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €25, occasional treat €40

Drink Bosnian coffee €0.50–1

Food Čevapčići (meat rissoles) €2–4

Hostel/budget hotel €12/€25

Travel Bus: Sarajevo–Bihać €25; train: Sarajevo–Mostar €5

FACT FILE

Population 3.9 million

Languages Bosnian, Croatian, Serbian

Currency Convertible Mark (BAM or KM)

Capital Sarajevo

International phone code ☎ 387

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

A land where turquoise rivers run swift and sheep huddle on steep hillsides, Bosnia-Herzegovina is one of Europe's most visually stunning corners. With muezzins calling the faithful to prayer under a backdrop of church bells, it also provides a delightful fusion of East and West in the heart of the Balkans. Appropriately, the country is now marketing itself as the "heart-shaped land", unintentionally revealing more perhaps than just the shape of its borders: this remains a country cleaved into two distinct entities, the result of a bloody war in the mid-1990s. However, while Bosnia-Herzegovina was not too long ago making headlines for all the wrong reasons, it's now busily, and deservedly, re-etching itself on the world travel map as a bona fide backpacker magnet of some repute.

Most travellers spend their time in the country's two major draws: Sarajevo and Mostar. Sarajevo has shrugged off its years under siege to become one of Europe's most likeable capitals, while the delightful city of Mostar is focused on an Old Bridge that, meticulously rebuilt after destruction during the war, must be the most photographed object in the Balkans. There are also some beguiling smaller towns to choose from, such as Bosnia's Jajce, or Herzegovina's Blagaj, while outdoor enthusiasts will be in their element in Bihać, one of Europe's foremost rafting destinations. Trebinje is easily the pick of the towns in the Republika Srpska.

CHRONOLOGY

- 9 AD Annexed by Rome.
- 395 Division of Roman Empire; the area that comprises today's Bosnia-Herzegovina stays under the rule of Rome.
- 553 Emperor Justinian I conquers the area for the Byzantine Empire.
- 1463 Bosnia falls to the Ottoman Empire.
- 1482 Herzegovina falls to the Ottoman Empire.
- 1878 Russian defeat of Turkey sees Bosnia-Herzegovina transferred to Austria-Hungary.
- 1914 Franz Ferdinand shot in Sarajevo by a Bosnian Serb, eventually leading to World War I.
- 1918 Bosnia-Herzegovina becomes part of the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes.
- 1961 Ivo Andrić, born near Travnik, wins the Nobel Prize for Literature.
- 1984 Sarajevo hosts the Winter Olympics.

1985 Emir Kusturica's film, When Father Was Away on Business, set in Bosnia, wins the Palme d'Or at Cannes.

1991 Following the fall of Yugoslavia, Croat-Muslim alliance declares independence and makes Sarajevo its capital; Serbs set up their own government just to the east.

1992 Led by Radovan Karadžić, Bosnian Serbs start campaign of "ethnic cleansing".

1993 Fighting breaks out between Croats and Muslims.

1995 NATO shelling ends siege of Sarajevo; peace terms set out by Dayton Agreement.

2001 No Man's Land becomes the first Bosnian movie to win an Academy Award.

2008 Radovan Karadžić arrested on charges of war crimes.

2011 Bosnia's Croat, Serb and Muslim political leaders agree to form new central government.

2011 Ratko Mladić arrested and transferred to the War Crimes Tribunal in The Hague.

2016 Radovan Karadžić found guilty of genocide and war crimes in The Hague.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

As close to landlocked as it's possible to get, Bosnia-Herzegovina is fairly easy to enter from all sides. There is one daily train service from Zagreb, in Croatia to Sarajevo. There are currently no trains from Belgrade or Budapest into Bosnia. Bus connections are more numerous and points of origin include Belgrade and Novi Sad in Serbia, and Split, Dubrovnik and Zagreb in Croatia. There are currently no direct flights from the UK to Bosnia, but a number of budget carriers fly to Zagreb (see p.159), Zadar

(see p.167) and Dubrovnik (see p.178), from where you can get an onward bus.

GETTING AROUND

Bosnia-Herzegovina isn't the easiest country to get around, since much of its transport infrastructure – particularly the rail network – was damaged during the war. Things are improving, however, and decent bus services will almost always be able to get you where you want; it'll just take a little longer than you might expect. Connections between the Federation and the Republika Srpska aren't regular.

There are also a few railway lines across the country, though severe underfunding means that most trains are too slow or irregular to be worth considering; the one exception is the twice-daily route linking Sarajevo and Mostar, which is fabulously scenic.

ACCOMMODATION

There are plenty of hostels in Sarajevo and Mostar (dorm beds cost around €12), as well as private rooms in these cities, though they're pretty rare elsewhere. Otherwise, hotel accommodation is pretty cheap – you should always be able to find a room in the €25–35 range. Guesthouses (pansioni) are available in some towns, though are nowhere near as numerous as in neighbouring countries. Free wi-fi is now almost standard in accommodation. There are a few campsites dotted around, most with reasonable facilities (⑩en .camping.info/bosnia-herzegovina /campsites). The possible presence of

A TALE OF TWO ENTITIES

Travellers should be aware that, in many ways, Bosnia-Herzegovina functions as two separate countries. These are not Bosnia and Herzegovina, as one might infer from the name, since these are geographical regions (Bosnia makes up around 80 percent of the country, with Herzegovina a small triangle south of Sarajevo). Rather, the country is split along ethnic lines. To the west, and including Sarajevo, is the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, a Muslim-Croat alliance; while to the east and north is the Republika Srpska, an ethnic-Serb territory of almost equal size, centred on its capital Banja Luka. To add to the confusion, there are three official languages – all essentially the same – and three presidents. “Most countries just have one idiot in charge,” says a local, “but we’ve got three.”

unexploded mines from the war means that wild camping is not a good idea.

FOOD AND DRINK

Centuries of Ottoman rule have left Turkish fingerprints on the nation's cuisine. You'll find čevapčići joints everywhere, selling grilled meat rissoles that are usually served up with somun (spongy bread) and chopped onion. Similarly hard to avoid are stands selling burek, greasy pastries filled with meat, spinach, cheese and sometimes pumpkin or potato; Sarajevo is often rated as the best burek city in the Balkans. Soups (čorba) and vegetables pop up all over the place on the country's menus, though more often than not the latter are stuffed with mincemeat; vegetarians will often have to satisfy themselves with salads, or something from the ubiquitous pizzerias. Sweets also have a Turkish ring to them, with syrupy baklava pastries available everywhere; added to this is an artery-clogging range of creamy desserts, most notable of which is tufahije, a marinated apple topped with walnut and cream.

DRINK

The consumption of coffee (kafa) has been elevated to something approaching an art form (see box below). For alcohol, there are a few good domestic beers (pivo), and Herzegovina produces a lot of wine – try Blatina, a local variety of red. There's also rakia, a potent spirit as popular by night as coffee is by day. Locals are also fond of telling guests that Bosnian tap water is safe to drink – evidently a major source of pride.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

It's imperative to note that there are three distinct ethnicities in Bosnia-Herzegovina – Bosnian Serb, mostly Orthodox; Bosnian Croat, mostly Catholic; and Muslims known as Bosniaks. Of course, all were constituent parts of the bloody war of the mid-1990s, and reverberations can still be felt today – it's never too far away from people's minds. Some locals are more than willing to talk about their experiences, particularly in Sarajevo, but of course it's best to let them make the first move.

Also worth noting is the geographical split evident in the country's name –

BOSNIAN COFFEE

Don't dare use the dreaded T-word – although Bosnian coffee is served Turkish-style, with hot water poured over unfiltered grounds, locals insist that their variety is unique. It's markedly weaker than Turkish coffee, mainly because of its function as a social lubricant – it's consumed fervidly throughout the day, with different coffee sittings ascribed different terms: razgalica in the morning, razgovoruša a little later on, and sikteruša following a meal. Coffee is served on a metal tray from a džezva, a cute metal pot, and poured into little tumblers (fildžan). Also on the tray will be a šećerluk, containing a few cubes of sugar – it's traditional to dip the corner of a sugar cube into your coffee for a flash, nibble it, then let the coffee wash it down. And, most importantly, do as the locals do and take your time.

you'll find yourself using "Bosnian" as an adjective most of the time, and this is accepted, though in Herzegovina it's a tiny bit of a faux pas to tell locals how much you're "enjoying Bosnia".

As for the more regular facets of travel etiquette, you should dress conservatively around religious buildings, leave small change or a little more as tips in a restaurant, and be aware that for all the ethnic rivalry, smoking is perhaps the country's dominant religion. Note, too, that some hostels will require you to remove your shoes before entering.

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Bosnia-Herzegovina is pretty good for outdoor pursuits. Beefy mountains mean that hiking is popular, though the continued presence of landmines means that you should seek local confirmation that an area is safe before setting off. During winter, a few ski slopes around Sarajevo come to life, while there's year-round rafting on several of the country's rivers – the best is the Una, near Bihać.

COMMUNICATIONS

Most post offices (pošta) are open weekdays from 9am to 5pm, and often on Saturday mornings too. Public phones use cards, which can be bought at post offices and kiosks. Better still, buy a SIM card from one of the main Bosnian mobile operators, which are BH Telecom, m:tel and Eronet; these typically cost around 5KM, including some starting credit. Wi-fi is common in Sarajevo and Mostar; where you do find an internet café, expect to pay 1–2KM/hr.

BOSNIA-HERZEGOVINA ONLINE

- bhtourism.ba Official tourist board site.
- www.bhmac.org Contains some useful information about landmine dangers.
- sonar.ba Excellent site on all things to see and do in Sarajevo.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police 📞 122; Ambulance 📞 124; Fire 📞 123.

EMERGENCIES

With the war still fresh in many minds, travellers often arrive expecting Bosnia-Herzegovina to be a dangerous place; it will quickly become clear that this is not the case, and that the crime rate is very low by European standards. The country's two police forces are usually easy to deal with, but keep your passport or a copy handy in case of a spot check. One very important danger to note is the presence of landmines. Strewn liberally during the war, the vast majority have now been cleared, and there's no danger in any urban area. In the countryside, however, it's advisable to stick to clear paths.

Pharmacies usually follow shop hours, though in larger cities you'll find that some stay open until late, and are sometimes open 24 hours.

INFORMATION

Larger cities have tourist information offices with plenty of good English materials; some can make accommodation bookings. Free city maps are handed out at most hotels and all tourist offices.

MONEY AND BANKS

The currency of Bosnia-Herzegovina is the convertible mark, usually abbreviated to KM, though internationally it is BAM. Notes of 5, 10, 20, 50, 100 and 200KM are in circulation, as are coins of 10, 20 and 50 feninga (100 feninga = 1KM), and 1, 2 and 5KM. Exchange rates are currently around €1=1.95KM, £1=2.50KM and US€1=1.75KM. Accommodation prices are sometimes quoted in euros, as are meals at some upmarket restaurants. In urban areas you won't have to look too far for an ATM, and exchange offices (menjačnica) are plentiful in places used to tourists. Banks are usually open weekdays from 9am to 4pm, and often on Saturday mornings too. Credit/debit cards are accepted in most hotels, restaurants and shops.

BOSNIAN

The Bosnian language is essentially the same as Serbian, which in turn is essentially the same as Croatian (see p.158), and all three are listed as official languages in Bosnia-Herzegovina. Note that the Republika Srpska uses the Cyrillic alphabet, which may cause some problems with street signs, menus and timetables.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Times are less rigid here than in most countries – shops usually open when they want to open, which in most cases is from 10am to 7pm, and in larger cities there's little difference at weekends. All banks and post offices will be closed on public holidays: January 1, March 1, May 1 and November 25 – though these dates are far from the end of the story as the Catholic and Orthodox churches celebrate Easter and Christmas at different times, and Muslims celebrate a biannual holiday known as Bajram.

Sarajevo

With their imaginations and travel memories fired by spiky minarets, grilled kebabs and the all-pervasive aroma of ground coffee, many travellers see in SARAJEVO a Slavic mini-Istanbul. The Ottoman notes are most prominent in Baščaršija, the city's delightful Old Town, which is home to umpteen mosques, bazaars, kebab restaurants and cafés. Further afield, burnt-out buildings evoke the catastrophic war of the mid-1990s, though the fun-loving, easy-going Sarajevans do a great job of painting over the scars of those tumultuous years – it's hard to walk around without being offered coffee, and it's hard to be invited for coffee without making friends.

Sarajevo gained importance during Roman times, and after a short slumber was reinvigorated as a trading hub during the Ottoman period, but sadly its recent history is far more pertinent. The international spotlight fell on the city as the host of the 1984 Winter Olympics, but less than a decade later the world's eyes were retrained on it during a siege that lasted for almost four years – by some estimates, the longest in military history. Bosnian Serb forces made a near-unbroken ring around the city, shelling major buildings and shooting civilians dead on their way to work, while years of litter lay rotting in the streets. By the time the ceasefire was announced in 1996, around ten thousand people had been killed; on the ground you may notice some of the many Sarajevo Roses – flower-like scars of mortar shell explosions, poignantly filled in with red resin, though now badly fading.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The central district of Baščaršija is Sarajevo's prettiest and contains most of its sights. Heading west from here, the city's history unravels like a tapestry – Ottoman-era mosques slowly give way to the churches and elaborate buildings of the Austro-Hungarian period, before communist behemoths herald your arrival into "Sniper Alley" and its shells of war.

Baščaršija

The powerful waft of grilled čevapi is a sure sign that you're about to enter Baščaršija, whose pedestrianized streets are a delight to wander around. It's most logical to approach here from the east, where you'll find the stunning National Library. In 1992, a single day's shelling destroyed over three million books, but reconstruction of this pink-and-yellow cream cake of faded beauty is now complete. A little way along is the central square, home to Sebilj, a small kiosk-like fountain, and Baščaršija Mosque. Far more beautiful is the Gazi Husrev Beg Mosque just down the way, which is worth a peep inside. Further west, you'll come across the Bezistan, an Ottoman-era bazaar now sadly filled with all manner of fake goods unsuited to such an elegant structure.

Baščaršija is also home to the six buildings that make up the Museum of Sarajevo – the largest is located inside the old Brusa Bezistan bazaar (Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–3pm; 3KM; @muzejsarajevo.ba), just off the main square, which features a whole host of historical relics, all beautifully presented.

The Latin Bridge and 1878–1918 Museum

Modest in appearance, the Latin Bridge has some weighty history – this was the scene of the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand and, by extension, the start of World War I; a plaque on the wall indicates the exact spot where Ferdinand met his fate. Off its northern end, the small, one-room 1878–1918 Museum (Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–3pm; 3KM) commemorates the incident, its most significant exhibits being the pistol used by the assassin, Gavrilo Princip, and the subsequent indictment against the perpetrators. Across the Miljacka River you'll see the fascinating Papagajka, a decaying yellow-and-green residential block apparently designed with hovercars in mind – this is how the Jetsons may have lived under Communism.

Ferhadija and around

Along and just off Ferhadija, the main pedestrianized thoroughfare, are several points of interest. Dominating the skyline just west of the Bezistan bazaar is the twin-turreted Catholic cathedral dating from the 1880s, while, just behind here, along Mula Mustafa Baseskije, stands the central market place. It was here, on February 5, 1994, that 68 people were killed following a mortar attack in what became the war's single most infamous incident; a blood red wall is inscribed with the names of all those who died. Adjacent to the cathedral, the superb Galerija 11/7/95 (daily 10am–6pm; 10KM) is dedicated to the memory of the victims of the 1995 Srebrenica massacre.

"Sniper Alley" museums

Well worth the fifteen-minute walk west of Baščaršija is the History Museum of Bosnia and Herzegovina (Mon–Fri 9am–4pm, Sat & Sun 10am–2pm; 5KM). Don't be put off by the somewhat brutal exterior and shabby entrance, as the permanent exhibition detailing how Sarajevo functioned during the siege is sobering and superbly presented. The exhibits and photos are frequently harrowing, though the most striking aspect is the remarkable resourcefulness Sarajevans displayed, manifest in some ingeniously improvised implements for cooking, lighting, heating and the like.

On the other side of the main road stands the Holiday Inn, a distinctive yellow building that was the city's only functioning hotel during the siege, and as home to foreign journalists it was also one of its safest places.

Of even greater importance was the tunnel under the airport, part of which is now open as the Tunnel Museum (daily 9am–5pm; 10KM). During the siege, Sarajevo's UN-held airport was the only break in the city's surrounding ring of Serb forces – an 800m-long tunnel dug underneath the runways provided, for most locals, the only way into or out of the city. At the museum, you'll be played a home-movie-style DVD that describes the tunnel's creation before being led through a small section of the now-collapsed route.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Sarajevo's Butmir International Airport (✈ 033 289100, sarajevo-airport.ba) is 12km from the city centre, a trip that will cost around 20KM by taxi, or take tram #3 to the final stop, then hire a cab.

By train The station is some 1.5km west of Baščaršija. It's a 30min walk into the centre, a short trip on tram #1, or a 7KM cab ride.

Destinations Mostar (2 daily; 2hr 45min); Zagreb (2 daily; 9hr).

By bus The main bus station is adjacent to the train station. Note that most buses to and from Belgrade (and to other towns in Republika Srpska) use Istočno bus station in the suburb of Dobrinja, in the Serbian part of the city; from here, exit right and walk for some 200m where you catch trolleybus #107 into the centre.

Destinations Belgrade (7 daily; 7hr); Bihać (3 daily; 7hr); Dubrovnik (2 daily; 6hr); Jajce (5 daily; 3hr 30min); Mostar (every 1hr–1hr 30min; 2hr 30min); Novi Sad (3 daily; 8hr); Split (5 daily; 7hr); Travnik (5 daily; 2hr); Trebinje (3 daily; 3hr); Zagreb (4 daily; 8hr).

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist information Sarači 58 (July & Aug daily 9am–8pm; Sept–June Mon–Sat 9am–5pm; ✈ 033 580999, sarajevo-tourism.com). You may stumble across a copy of Sarajevo In Your Pocket, but failing that, pick up Sarajevo Navigator, a useful monthly listings booklet.

Tours Insider Tours (✈ 033 534353, sarajevoinsider.com) offers half a dozen excellent themed tours within the city, including the popular "Tunnel Tour" (see above) for €15, plus excursions further afield.

GETTING AROUND

Public transport An efficient system of buses, trams and trolleybuses operates throughout the city from 5am to 1am. Tickets can be bought from a kiosk for 1.60KM, or for 1.80KM from the driver; validate your ticket on board – fines are steep and ticket inspectors strict.

Taxis Journeys start at 1.5KM, and thereafter it's around 1KM/km; a ride in the centre should cost no more than 5KM.

ACCOMMODATION

The city has stacks of hostels, though many are unofficial, so best stick to the ones listed. If you get stuck, dozens of agencies around Baščaršija will be able to set you up with a private room.

HOSTELS

Balkan Han Dalmatinska 6 ✈ 061 538331, balkanhan.com. Cracking and fairly central hostel with a mixture of boldly coloured dorms and doubles, as well as a common room-cum-bar (with Macs for use), and a lush garden featuring a very cool hammock. Dorms €14

Haris Youth Hostel Vratnik Mejdan 29 ✈ 061 518825, hyh.ba. Super-relaxed hostel a 15min walk uphill from the centre. Check in at their office (Mon–Sat 8am–4pm), near the Baščaršija tram stop, and they'll give you a free ride up. Evenings can see anything from barbecues to impromptu guitar sessions. Dorms €14

Hostel City Center Sarajevo Muvekiti 2/3 ✈ 062 280858, hcc-sarajevo.com. Extremely clean hostel in a very central location, with four- to eight-bed dorms plus doubles, a cool lounge with PlayStation and musical instruments. Breakfast included. Dorms €13, doubles €30

★ Hostel Franz Ferdinand Jelića 4 ✈ 033 834625, franzferdinandhostel.com. In honour of the assassinated archduke, and with rooms named and themed accordingly, this superbly conceived hostel also has a movie room and games lounge, bike rental and laundry. Breakfast included. Dorms €12, doubles €40

Residence Hostel Muvekiti 1 ✈ 061 275188, residencerooms.com.ba. This large, rambling hostel is more restful than City Center across the street, with spacious, high-ceilinged dorms, plus doubles with private bathrooms. Two kitchens for guest use. Breakfast included. Dorms €15, doubles €40

Traveller's Home Cumurija 4 ✈ 070 242400, myhostel.ba. A warm welcome awaits at this perky hostel near the river, with a good mix of dorms and private rooms, plus kitchen and laundry facilities. Breakfast included. Dorms €15, doubles €40

EATING

You can't walk more than 10m in Baščaršija without coming across a ćevabdžinica – note that many do not serve alcohol. Burek is similarly easy to hunt down, and many travellers rate it the best in the Balkans.

CAFÉS

Caffe Tito Bihacka 19. Military-themed café-bar tucked under a wing of the Historical Museum. With socialist realist pictures on the inside and a gunship sitting outside, it's an interesting place to drink and chat. Daily 8am–midnight.

Čajdžinica Džirlo Kovaci 6. If the strong Bosnian coffee all gets a bit much, make tracks for this delightful Ottoman-styled teahouse – all low tables and stools, and thick patterned rugs – where you can partake in any number of flavours from around the globe. Daily 8am–10pm.

Carigrad Sarači 111. Mouthwatering selection of rich cakes, syrupy baklava and other sweet sins from just 1.50KM. Note that said desserts actually look bigger on your plate than they do behind the counter. Daily 9am–10pm.

Male Daire Luleđina bb. Peace-out café just behind the Baščaršija Mosque, where you can throw down good Bosnian coffee for 1.50KM, and suck on a nargileh for just 5KM. Daily 8am–11pm.

RESTAURANTS

Buregdžinica Bosna Bravadžiluk 9. With something as simple as burek, there should be very little to choose between purveyors, but the ones on offer here are simply a cut above the rest. Try the pumpkin (tykva) variety, with lashings of sour yoghurt (8KM). Daily 8am–11pm.

Cakum Pakum Kaptol 10. Sweet and savoury pancakes – as well as pasta – are the order of the day in this boxy but cosy little restaurant decked out in antique travel paraphernalia. Mon–Fri 10am–midnight, Sat noon–midnight.

★ Čevabdžinica Petica Bravadžiluk 21. If you must plump for just one čevabdžinica, make it this one: unlike some places, meats (7KM) are grilled to order, while the accompanying kajmak and somun (spongy pitta bread) are similarly superb; snappy service too. Daily 8am–11pm.

Čevabdžinica Željo Kundurdžiluk 12. Other Baščaršija kebab joints may be a little more polished, but this pair – there's another outlet a few paces away – are always packed with locals, who know that they provide the most bang for their buck. 7KM for ten kebabči and somun. Daily 9am–11pm.

Dveri Prote Bakovića 12. Nicely secreted away, this traditional Bosnian restaurant has a beautifully decorated interior, and the food is heavenly – try the house goulash, comprising hunks of beef with home-made gnocchi, porcini mushrooms and dried plums (18KM). Daily 8am–11pm.

Karuzo Ōzenetića Ćikma bb. Here, in this rather delightful, maritime-themed restaurant, head chef Saša brings together meat-free dishes (quite a feat in Sarajevo) whose variety defies explanation, as well as sushi (20KM) – somehow, it all seems to work. Mon–Fri noon–3pm & 6–11pm, Sat 6–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Sarajevo has a fair few quirky underground bars, which come and go with alarming regularity, so ask around. Locals go out late – most bars only start filling up after midnight, and all these places kick out until 1 or 2am at least.

Baghdad Bazerđani 6. The white drapes, soft red lighting and mosaic lanterns ensure that, if nothing else, this is probably the best-looking bar in Sarajevo: a relaxing spot for a beer or cocktail, plus DJ sets at weekends.

Barhana Đugalina 8. Set in a tucked-away courtyard, this groovy little bar is the place to come, above all, for a decent rakija. Try to bag one of the candlelit outdoor tables.

Pivnica HS (Sarajevo Brewery) Franjevačka 15. If you like Sarajevsko Pivo, why not head straight for the source? Their city-centre factory has a large, ornate bar out back, where it costs 5KM for a large glass of the good stuff. It's also more or less the only place in which you can try their delicious dark and unfiltered varieties.

Zlatna Ribica Kaptol 5. Currently the hottest spot in town, this place oozes character, from the eccentric decor and neatly attired staff to the great selection of drinks and groovy tunes. Even if you don't need to go, check out the loos.

ENTERTAINMENT

Bosnian Cultural Centre Branilaca Sarajeva 24 @bkc.ba. Large concert venue.

Chamber Theatre 55 Maršala Tita 56 @kamerniteatar55.ba. Cosy place used for experimental theatre productions, though rarely in English.

Kinoteka BiH Alipašina 19 @kinotekabih.ba. Interesting mix of subtitled movies shown weekdays at 7pm, and for just 3KM.

National Theatre Obala Kulina bana 9 @nps.ba. The largest theatre in the country, and home to Sarajevo's principal opera, drama and ballet companies.

FESTIVALS IN SARAJEVO

Baščaršija Nights @bascarsijskenoci.ba. Ballet, theatre, music and art exhibitions throughout July.

Jazz Fest @jazzfest.ba. Excellent jazz festival, with some stellar names, usually held at the beginning of November.

MESS @mess.ba. International, English-centred festival of theatre in October.

Sarajevo Film Festival @sff.ba. In mid-August, this is one of the most prestigious film festivals in Europe, and largely focused on the region's output.

Sarajevo Winter @sarajevskazima.ba. Artistic festival (music, film, visual and performing arts) throughout February and March.

Sarajevo War Theatre Gabelina 16 @sartr.ba. Established in 1992 in response to the closure of the city's theatres, this superb venue hosts a fascinating clutch of performances from home and abroad.

SHOPPING

Most useful to travellers is a small area around Mula Mustafa Bašeskije, where you'll find a couple of appealing markets – indoor and outdoor – and a few secondhand clothing stores.

Butik Badem Abadžiluk 12. Doles out superb Turkish sweets, dried mulberries, and a lot more besides. Daily 8am–11pm.

Sprečo Kovači 15. One recommended souvenir purchase is a Bosnian coffee set: while whole teams of Bašaršija stands sell cheap ones, here you can get beautiful hand-made copper-and-tin sets for €30. Mon–Sat 9am–6pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies and consulates; UK, Hamdije Čemerlića 39a @ 033 282200; US, Robert C. Frasure 1 @ 033 704000.

Hospital Kranjčevićeva 12 @ 033 208100.

Pharmacy 24hr pharmacy at Obala Kulina bana 40 (@ 033 272300).

Post office Zmaja od Bosne 88 (Mon–Sat 7am–8pm).

Bosnia

Occupying roughly four-fifths of the country, mountainous Bosnia contains some of the country's most appealing towns, and helpfully all can be visited on a fairly straight route linking Sarajevo and Zagreb. First up, get a sense of medieval history in Travnik, Bosnia's former capital, then head to Jajce, a tiny town with a waterfall crashing through its centre. Lastly there's laidback Bihać, one of Europe's best rafting spots.

TRAVNIK

Just a couple of hours out of Sarajevo, TRAVNIK is a good day-trip target, though its position on a main transport route detracts slightly from a delightful setting. This was the Bosnian capital during the latter part of Ottoman rule, and the residence of high-ranking officials known as viziers – you'll see their tombs (turbe) dotted around town. Travnik also gained fame as the birthplace of Ivo Andrić, a Nobel Prize-winning novelist whose Bosnian Chronicle was set in his hometown.

The best place to soak up Travnik's history is at its majestic fifteenth-century castle (daily 10am–6pm; 2KM), built to hold off Ottoman forces but completed a few years too late. It's now great for a clamber around, and provides spectacular views of the surrounding mountains. Just under the castle is Plavna Voda, a quiet huddle of streamside restaurants where you can eat trout caught further upstream.

JAJCE

Whereas Travnik has grown a little too busy for its size, little JAJCE is simply adorable – even its name is cute, a diminutive form of the word “egg”, and therefore translating as something like “egglet”. The name is said to derive from the shape of a hill jutting up in the Old Town, ringed with walls and topped with an impressive citadel. In the Middle Ages, Bosnian kings were crowned just down the hill in the Church of St Mary (open to the public); the last coronation, of Stjepan Tomašević, took place here in 1461, but two years later the king had his head lopped off during the Ottoman invasion. Opposite the church are the catacombs (no set opening hours; 2KM), essentially an underground church, complete with a narthex, nave, presbytery and baptistry; if you're lucky, you'll find the keyholder in the restaurant opposite. Further downhill, the 21m-high waterfalls are a splendid sight, despite the pounding they took during the Bosnian conflict.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Stari Grad Svetog Luke 3 @ 030 654006, @jajcetours.com. One of very few places to stay in Jajce, this lovely hotel, slap-bang in the Old Town, offers tastefully furnished singles, doubles and suites (three of each), all with a/c. Breakfast included. Doubles €45

Vodopad Old Town. There are very few places to eat and drink, but this fun place just inside the gates doles out colossal double-scoop ice creams for just 1.5KM; if the weather's hot don't expect to get through the whole thing before it melts.

RAFTING AND KAYAKING IN NORTHWEST BOSNIA

Rafting in the Bihać area is possible year-round – the continuous flow of tourist traffic means that you'll usually be able to join a group (6–10 per boat) in any month, though the main season runs from March to October. Six kilometres from town, Una Kiro (☎037 361110, 🌐una-kiro-rafting.com) is the best established company for foreigners, and has a camping ground next to their base (€5 per tent plus €5 per adult). If you fancy something a little gentler, they also do a kayaking trip, which follows a 9km course over 2hrs (€50). There are three main rafting routes to choose from; listed per-person prices include equipment and transport, but not meals.

Kostela-Bosanska Krupa An easy 24km, 5hr stretch that's best for novices; €37.

Kostela-Grmuša Short, but packs in some meaty rapids on a 13km, 4hr course; €27.

Štrbački Buk-Lohovo An absolutely terrifying 15km, 4hr route featuring a 25m rapid ride; €43.

BIHAĆ

Herzegovina has no shortage of great rafting locales, but Bosnia's BIHAĆ beats them all. The crystal-clear River Una rushes through town, though it's a little further upstream that you'll find the best rafting; the river is highest in the spring and autumn. Adventure sports aside, Bihać is a pleasant, compact town with a cheerful pedestrianized zone in the centre. Here you'll find the Church of Zvonik and Fathija Mosque, both visitable, but most interesting is the Captain's Tower, once a prison, now a museum (Mon–Fri 9am–4pm, Sat 9am–2pm; 1KM).

ACCOMMODATION

Villa Una ☎037 311393, 🌐villa-una.com. Great location down by the river, and owned by the same outfit who run local rafting tours, this super value place has a combination of standard and superior rooms, though all are spotlessly clean. Breakfast included. Doubles €44

Herzegovina

Wedged into the far south of the country, little Herzegovina is less known than its big brother, Bosnia, but this land of muscular peaks and rushing rivers arguably has more to see. Pride of place goes to Mostar and its famed Old Bridge, but it's worth venturing outside the city to see little Blagaj, or to absorb the religious curiosities of Međugorije. Those on their way to Dubrovnik or Montenegro should also call in at Trebinje, by far the most pleasant town in the Republika Srpska.

MOSTAR

On arrival at the train or bus station, you may be forgiven for thinking that the beauty of MOSTAR has been somewhat exaggerated. There then begins a slow descent to the Old Town, during which it becomes more and more apparent that it really is a very special place indeed. Attentive ears will pick out rushing streams, salesmen crying their wares, as well as church bells and muezzins competing for attention, while steep, cobblestoned streets slowly wind their way down to the fast-flowing, turquoise-blue Neretva River and its Old Bridge, incredibly photogenic even when the Speedo-clad mostari – the brave gents who dive from the apex – aren't tumbling into the waters below. The city is hugely popular with tourists, though the dearth of high-end accommodation means that most visit on a day-trip – bad news for anyone on the Old Bridge around lunchtime, though great news for anyone staying the night; the best time to come is first thing in the morning or early evening.

Mostar's history is irrevocably entwined with that of its bridge. Like hundreds of locals, this was to fall victim in 1993 when the Croats and Muslims of the town, previously united against the Serbs, turned on each other: the conflict rumbled on for two long years, each side sniping at the other from opposing hills. Locals claim that, prior to the war, more than half of the city's marriages were mixed, but the figure has since dwindled to nothing; while relations are now much improved, the truce remains uneasy.

THE OLD BRIDGE

Transit point, dungeon, tourist attraction, war victim and macho launchpad, Mostar's small, hump-backed Stari Most has led an interesting life. With tradesmen terrified by the rickety nature of its wooden predecessor and the fast-flowing Neretva below, it was built in the 1560s at the instigation of Suleyman the Magnificent. Those employed to guard the bridge were called the mostari, a term later borrowed when naming the city, and then used to describe the men who dive from the apex, 21m down into the Neretva. After 427 years in service, the bridge was strategically destroyed by Croat forces in November 1993, symbolizing the ethnic division of the city. There then began the arduous process of rebuilding it piece by piece, using new materials but following the same techniques used in its initial construction, before it reopened in 2004. The mostari are still there, day after day; they'll try to work the crowd into shelling out an acceptable fee – typically around €25 – before taking the plunge. Join them if you dare, especially in July, when the annual diving festival marks the highlight of Mostar's year.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The Old Town, spanning both sides of the Neretva, contains most things of interest in Mostar, and in its centre is the Old Bridge, focal point of the city and the obvious place to kick off your sightseeing. On the eastern bank is the more interesting Muslim part of town, while the west is mainly home to Catholic Croats.

The east bank

Lined with trinket stores, cobblestoned Kujundžiluk climbs uphill, soon leading to the Koski Mehmed Paša Mosque (sunrise–sunset). For all its beauty, the panoply of souvenir sellers shows that tourism, rather than religious endeavour, is the current priority; eschew the 8KM it costs to climb the minaret and instead head down to the terrace where you can get superb head-on views of the bridge. Passing another mosque, the road segues quickly into modern Mostar, though pay attention to signs pointing out the Turkish House (irregular hours; 2KM) on your left, a fascinating peek into the Ottoman traditions of yesteryear. Above Kujundžiluk you'll see the Cejvan Cehaj Mosque, Mostar's oldest, on the way to the Museum of Herzegovina (Mon–Fri 9am–2pm, Sat 10am–noon; 2KM). Between the two lies a Muslim graveyard, and it's hard not to be moved when you notice that almost everybody laid to rest here died the same year, 1993.

Old Bridge Museum

Off the eastern end of the bridge is Helebija, a tower that now accommodates the enlightening Old Bridge Museum (April–Oct daily 10am–6pm; 5KM), spread over four levels, and topped with a viewing point. Of most interest is the archeological section, where you can see some of the few remaining chunks of the bridge that weren't swept away, alongside footage of its painstaking rebirth. There's sobering archive footage of the bridge's downfall in the neighbouring Old Bridge Gallery, which also stocks a superb range of books on the war and the history of Bosnia in English.

The west bank

Tara, the bridge's western tower, was once a dungeon into which prisoners were thrown to die, either from injury, starvation or – in rainy season – drowning. It's now the base of the diving club, and the War Photo Exhibition (daily: April, May, Oct & Nov 11am–6pm; June–Sept 9am–10pm; 6KM), an array of startling shots taken during the troubles by Kiwi photographer Wade Goddard. Just 22 at the time, Goddard spent this period with a family inside the Old Town, wandering the streets to document the hardships.

A little zigzagging will bring you to the Crooked Bridge – apparently built as a warm-up for the big boy, and almost as pleasing; although it (just about) remained standing during the war, it did finally collapse in 1999 due to flooding. Further along is the Tabhana, a former bathhouse now filled with bars and restaurants. Continue to the end of the street and you'll eventually reach Bulevar, the main road that, during the war, served as the front line – still today, the road is lined with a succession of battered buildings.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The station is in an ugly area to the east of town, a 20min walk from the Old Bridge.

Destinations Sarajevo (2 daily; 2hr 45min).

By bus The station is next to the train station.

Destinations Dubrovnik (2 daily; 4hr); Sarajevo (hourly; 2hr 30min); Trebinje (2 daily; 3hr 30min).

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist office Rade Bitange 5, behind the Tabhana, just west of the Old Bridge (daily: June–Aug 9am–9pm; May & Sept 9am–5pm; ☎033 580833, 📧turizam.mostar.ba). Limited information available but they can help organize private accommodation.

Tours You'll find that most hostel owners offer tours (both of the city and further afield, typically costing €25–35), though the best ones are currently run by Bata, from Hostel Majdas, and Zika at Hostel Nina (see below).

ACCOMMODATION

The tourist office can help to organize private rooms, which cost €10–25/person depending upon the season, room size and proximity to the Old Town. All hostels listed offer a free pick-up from the train and bus stations.

Guesthouse Taso Maršala Tita 187 ☎061 523149. Some 400m south of the bridge, on the east bank, this sparkling little hostel offers fabulously clean and neat four- and six-bed dorms plus twins; a real home away from home. Dorms €12, twins €25

★ Hostel Majdas Pere Lazetića 9 ☎061 382940. Friendly, cosy and within easy reach of the stations and the Old Town, this is Mostar's best hostel. There are four fresh and colourful rooms, a comfortable lounge and pretty courtyard where guests gather to chat and drink. Moreover, their day-long tours (see above) are the best in town. Breakfast included. Dorms €12, doubles €25

Hostel Nina Celebića 18 ☎061 382743, 📧hostelnina.ba. Around 400m from the bridge, on the east bank, this modern, almost apartment-like building has spotless a/c dorms and double rooms. The genial host, Zika, also offers a couple of terrific tours. Dorms €10, doubles €20

Pansion Oscar Oneščukova 33 ☎036 580237. Nicely positioned on the edge of the Old Town (west bank), the double, triple and quad rooms (all a/c) at this sweet little guesthouse are perfectly adequate for the price; some with bathroom, some without. Breakfast included. Doubles €40

EATING AND DRINKING

Try to avoid eating noon–2pm, which is when the tour groups are led to their pre-booked tables.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Muslibegović House Osman Dikića 41 ☎036 551379, 📧muslibegovichouse.com. A rare and surprisingly affordable chance to stay in a national monument – this home has been in the hands of the noble Muslibegović family for over 300 years. Twelve rooms renovated with tasteful, individual designs, though a strong Ottoman theme prevails throughout; doubles €90, suites €100

Ali Baba East bank. The word “cavernous” is often misused, but this quirky place – café, bar and club all at once – is housed, literally, in a cave. It's the liveliest place in town of an evening, and summer months see DJs come in to spin some vinyl. The “Ali Baba” sign is on the little-used road entrance (the tunnel leading to it is worth a peek); the one at the lower entrance says “Open Sesame!”.

Čevabdžinica Tima-Irma Oneščukova bb. You can't come to Mostar and not feast on the likes of čevapčići and pljeskavica (large hamburger), which this convivial establishment does better than anywhere else in town. Fun, hospitable, and dead cheap. Daily 9am–11pm.

★ Hindin Han Jusovina bb. Just off Oneščukova and set picturesquely high above the water with a flower-bedecked terrace, the fine menu here comprises traditional Balkan grilled meats alongside trout, stuffed squid (13KM) and the like. Daily 11am–11pm.

Palma Burek Alekse Santića 13. The best burek in town, no question, with meat, cheese or spinach fillings and a dollop of yoghurt (3KM); the café to the rear doles out coffee, big slices of cake and ice cream. Mon–Sat 7am–11pm, Sun 5–11pm.

Šadrvan Jusovina 11. It's all a bit hammed up for the tourist hordes, but you can't fault the setting – overlooking the bridge – or the menu, which offers a whole slew of meaty treats, such as dolma (grape leaves stuffed with minced meat, onion and rice, and slathered in sour cream), all at very affordable prices. Daily 10am–11pm.

EXCURSIONS FROM MOSTAR

Using Mostar as a base, you have a whole slew of destinations to choose from. Unfortunately, the paucity of public transport means that it's tough to see more than one in a day, and some places aren't accessible at all: often your best option is to visit on a tour from Mostar (see above).

Blagaj

Closest to Mostar is the village of BLAGAJ, just 12km to the east and accessible by local buses #10, #11 and #12 (7 services a day; 40min; 5KM return). Once you disembark, carry straight ahead through the town to the Tekija (daily 10am–6pm). Huddled into a niche in the cliff face, this wonky wooden building was once the residence of dervishes, and the interior – prayer rooms, washroom and kitchen – are all suitably spartan. The hammam, meanwhile, remains as it was. Right next to it, a never-ending torrent of water gushes out of the cliff, apparently reaching levels of 43,000 litres per second; some of this is skimmed off to make tea and coffee, which you can order at the adjacent terrace for just 1.5KM, including a chunk of lokum (Turkish delight).

Međugorije

Twenty-six kilometres south of Mostar is the curious village of MEĐUGORIJE, a mere non-entity until June 1981, when a group of teenagers claimed to have been spoken to by the Virgin Mary here. Unlike Lourdes and Fatima, this has not been officially recognized by the Vatican, but that doesn't stop pilgrims arriving in such numbers that there are now thousands of rooms available to accommodate them. The main sights here are the Church of St James and the nearby "Weeping Knee" statue, so named as it apparently flouts the laws of thermodynamics by dribbling out a constant flow of fluid. You can reach here on local bus #48 from Mostar, though – get this – they don't run on Sundays.

Počitelj and the Kravice Waterfalls

A few kilometres south of Međugorije is the hillside village of POČITELJ, one of the most traditional in Herzegovina. The place is quite stunning, and dotted with remnants from the fifteenth century, most notably a citadel and a terrific mosque. Unfortunately there are no direct buses here, so it's best to join a tour. Groups will likely swing through to see the nearby Kravice Waterfalls, which are not accessible on public transport. High, wide and handsome, the pool below is a great place for a dip.

TREBINJE

The Republika Srpska's most appealing town by a country mile, TREBINJE is tucked into Herzegovina's southern extremity, and its proximity to Dubrovnik and the Montenegrin border makes it the ideal start or finish line to a race through the country. It's most famed for the sixteenth-century Arslanagić Bridge – a longer version of the one in Mostar – which sits a ten-minute walk from the town centre; in what must have been quite a feat, it was moved here, stone by stone, from the village of Arslanagić some 5km away, in 1972.

Back in the centre is the Old Town, a pretty warren of streets now largely filled with cafés; better yet for coffee-slurping is elegant Jovan Dučić Trg, home to a daily market and almost totally cloaked with maple leaves (platani).

There are also a couple of still-functioning hilltop monasteries, notably fourteenth-century Tvrdoš 6km west of Trebinje, which are a delight to roam around and well worth the climb.

INFORMATION

Tourist office Jovan Dučić bb (June–Sept Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat & Sun 9am–3pm & 6–8pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 8am–4pm, Sat 9am–3pm; ☎ 059 273410, trebinjeturizam.com).

ACCOMMODATION, EATING AND DRINKING

Azzaro Stari Grad 14. Cosy, convivial bar that's pretty much the most popular meeting place in town; occasional blues- and jazz-orientated evenings to boot. Daily 8am–11pm.

Hotel Polako Svetozara Ćorovica 8 ☎ 066 380722, hostelpolakotrebinje.com. With a super position on the Old Town margins, this sparky little hostel has two brightly decorated six-bed dorms and two doubles, plus a common area and self-catering kitchen – and there's a terrific pancake breakfast to set you on your way. Dorms €12, doubles €30

RILA MONASTERY

Bulgaria

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Aleksandar Nevski Cathedral, Sofia The capital's most striking building. See p.135
- ❷ Rila Monastery Fabulous frescoes deep in the mountains. See p.140
- ❸ Bansko Skiing and snowboarding on the cheap, plus cosy traditional pubs. See p.140
- ❹ Plovdiv's Old Quarter Ornate Ottoman houses and Roman remains. See p.142
- ❺ The Black Sea Coast White sand, watersports and beach bars. See p.148

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.129

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €25, occasional treat €40

Drink Beer (0.5l) €1

Food Shopska salad €3

Hostel/budget hotel €10/€20

Travel Train: Sofia–Plovdiv €4; bus: €7

FACT FILE

Population 7.2 million

Language Bulgarian

Currency Lev (Lv)

Capital Sofia

International phone code +359

Time zone GMT +2hr

Introduction

With dramatic mountain ranges, superb beaches, numerous historic towns and a web of working villages with traditions straight out of the nineteenth century, Bulgaria has a wealth of attractions crammed into a relatively compact country. More than anything else, this is a land of adventures: once you step off the beaten track, road signs and bus timetables often disappear (or are only in Cyrillic), and few people speak a foreign language, but almost everyone you meet will be determined to help you on your way.

Bulgaria's image has altered dramatically in recent years, thanks largely to the modernization of the country's tourist infrastructure coupled with soaring foreign interest in inexpensive rural and coastal properties. Independent travel is common: costs are relatively low, and for the committed there is much to take in. Romantic National Revival-era architecture, featuring timber frames and floral motifs, is a particular draw, with Koprivshitsa, Bansko and Plovdiv foremost among examples of the genre. The monasteries are stunning, too – the finest, Rila, should be on every itinerary – while for city life aim for Sofia, Plovdiv, and the cosmopolitan coastal resorts of Varna and Burgas.

CHRONOLOGY

4000s BC Thracian tribes settle in the area of present-day Bulgaria.

600s BC Greeks settle in the area of present-day Bulgaria.

100s AD Romans invade the Balkan Peninsula.

200 A popular Roman amphitheatre draws people to Serdica (Sofia).

681 The First Bulgarian Kingdom is formed.

864 Bulgaria accepts the Orthodox Church.

1018 The country falls under Byzantine control.

1185 The Byzantines are repelled and the Second Bulgarian Kingdom is proclaimed.

1396 The Ottomans conquer Bulgaria, ushering in almost five hundred years of Turkish rule.

1876 Revolutionaries based at Koprivshitsa carry out the ill-fated April Rising, which provokes savage Ottoman reprisals.

1877 War of Liberation sees Russia declare war on Turkey to win freedom for Bulgaria.

1886 The Treaty of Bucharest ends the Serbo-Bulgarian war begun the previous year, and Bulgaria gains territory.

1908 Bulgaria declares itself an independent kingdom.

1912 First Balkan War; Bulgaria sustains heavy losses in victory over the Ottomans.

1913 Second Balkan War; previous allies Serbia and Greece defeat Bulgaria.

1914–18 Bulgaria sides with the Central Powers during World War I.

1945 Soviet army invades German-occupied areas of Bulgaria.

1954 Todor Zhivkov becomes head of the Bulgarian Communist Party in power.

1989 Zhivkov ousted among calls for democratization.

1991 New constitution proclaims Bulgaria a Parliamentary Republic.

2001 Former king Simeon II is elected Prime Minister.

2004 Bulgaria joins NATO.

2007 Bulgaria joins the EU.

2009 Zhivkov's former bodyguard, Boiko Borisov, is elected Prime Minister.

2013 Borisov resigns following nationwide protests against poor living standards, rising energy costs, and corruption.

2014 Borisov is re-elected Prime Minister.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

Most tourists arrive at either of Sofia's two airport terminals, although in summer many fly directly to the coastal cities of Varna and Burgas on charter flights. Frequent low-cost flights from London and other European cities to Sofia are provided by easyJet and Wizz Air, which also has summer services to Varna and Burgas. The national carrier Bulgaria Air (air.bg) serves most of Europe, but there are no direct flights to or from North America or Australasia.

Bulgaria has land borders with five countries and reliable international rail links. Popular routes include from Bucharest to Veliko Tarnovo (5–6hr) or to Sofia (11hr), and from Thessaloniki to Sofia (10hr), while trains from Istanbul traverse the country, stopping at Plovdiv (11hr) and Sofia (14hr) before continuing to Belgrade. Eurolines (@eurolines.bg) runs frequent bus services to Sofia from many major European cities and has booking offices in Sofia, Plovdiv, Varna and Burgas.

GETTING AROUND

Public transport in Bulgaria is inexpensive but often slow and not always clean or comfortable. Travelling by bus (avtobus) is usually the quickest way of getting between major towns and cities. Generally, you can buy tickets (bileti) at the bus station (avtogara) at least an hour in advance when travelling between towns, but on some routes they're only sold when the bus arrives. On rural routes, tickets are often sold by the driver.

Bulgarian State Railways (BDZh; @bdz.bg) can get you to most towns; trains are punctual and fares low. Express services (ekspresen) are restricted to main routes, but on all except the humblest branch lines you'll find so-called Rapid (burz vlak) trains. Where possible, use these rather than the snail-like patnicheski services. Long-distance or overnight trains have reasonably priced couchettes (kushet) and/or sleepers (spalen vagon). For these, on all expresses and many rapids, you need seat reservations (zapazeni mesta) as well as tickets (bileti). To ensure a seat in a non-smoking carriage (myasto za nepushachi), you will have to specify this when booking. International tickets must be bought in advance from the BDZh-Rila office located within stations. Most stations have left luggage offices (garderob). InterRail and Balkan Flexipass are valid, although it often works out cheaper to buy rail tickets as you go.

Cycling in Bulgaria's cities is becoming increasingly popular as cycle lane networks expand, while the country's quiet minor roads linking towns and villages are a delight. Of the few bike rental outfits in Bulgaria, Zig-Zag Holidays in Sofia (@zigzagbg.com) is one of the most reliable and also runs organized tours.

ACCOMMODATION

Decent hostels charging around 20Lv for a dorm bed and 40–60Lv for double rooms can be found in Sofia, Plovdiv, Veliko Turnovo, Burgas and Varna. Budget hotels rent doubles from around 40Lv, a little more in Sofia and Plovdiv, while cosier family-run hotels with similar prices are common on the coast and in touristy towns such as Koprivshtitsa and Bansko.

The best campsites (camping; summer only) are dotted along the coast. Campers are charged individually (around 9Lv per person) and two-person chalets (30–40Lv per night) are usually available. Camping rough is technically illegal and punishable with a fine, though authorities usually turn a blind eye. A number of hostels also offer camping space.

FOOD AND DRINK

Sit-down meals are eaten in either a restaurant (restaurant) or a mehana (tavern). There's little difference between the two, save that a mehana is likely to offer folksy decor and a wider range of traditional Bulgarian dishes. Wherever you go, you're unlikely to spend more than 25Lv for a main course, salad and drink. The best-known traditional dish is gyuvech (which literally means "earthenware dish"), a rich stew comprising peppers, aubergines and beans, to which is added either meat or meat stock. Kavarma, a spicy meat stew (either pork or chicken), is prepared in a similar fashion. Vegetarian meals (yastia bez meso) are hard to obtain, although there is always a plentiful range of salads. Gyuveche (a variety of gyuvech featuring baked vegetables), kachkaval pane (cheese fried in breadcrumbs) and chushki byurek (baked peppers stuffed with egg and rice) are worth trying.

Foremost among snacks are kebabcheta (grilled sausages), or variations such as shishche (shish kebab) or kyofiteta (meatballs). Another favourite is the banitsa, a flaky-pastry envelope with a filling – usually cheese – sold by bakeries and street vendors in the morning and evening. Elsewhere, sandwichi (sandwiches) and pitsi (pizzas) dominate the fast-food repertoire. Bulgarians consider their yogurt (kiselo mlyako) the world's finest, and hardly miss a day without consuming it.

DRINK

The quality of Bulgarian wines is constantly improving. Among the best reds are the heavy, mellow Melnik, and rich, dark Mavrud, while Dimyat is a good dry white. If you prefer the sweeter variety, try Karlovski Misket (Muscatel) or Traminer. Cheap native spirits are highly potent: mastika (like Greek ouzo) is drunk diluted with water; rakiya – brandy made from either plums (slivova) or grapes (grozdova) – is generally sipped, accompanied by salad. Bulgarian beer is as good as any, but local brands such as Kamenitza, Zagorka and Shumensko must now compete with the likes of Staropramen, Stella Artois and Heineken, which are brewed locally under licence.

Coffee (kafe) usually comes espresso style. Tea (chai) is nearly always herbal – ask for cheren chai (literally "black tea") if you want the real stuff, normally served with lemon.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Bulgarians are predominantly Orthodox Christian; Muslims of Turkish descent make up around nine percent of the population. Social etiquette in Bulgaria is still rather formal: shaking someone's hand is the most common form of greeting and you should address someone with their title and surname unless you know them well. It is appropriate to wait for the Bulgarian person to decide when to become less formal with you. When invited to someone's home it is polite to bring a small gift, and something from your own country will be particularly appreciated.

BODY LANGUAGE

Bulgarians shake their heads when they mean “yes” and nod when they mean “no” – and sometimes reverse these gestures if they know they’re speaking to foreigners, thereby complicating the issue further. Emphatic use of the words da (yes) and ne (no) should help to avoid misunderstandings.

As for tipping, leaving a ten percent tip will definitely be well received, although it is not obligatory.

SPORTS AND ACTIVITIES

Bulgaria’s mountainous terrain offers plenty of adventurous options. The ski season lasts from December to March, and the country has several well-known resorts. Bansko (@banskoski.com), in the spectacular Pirin mountain range in the southwest, is the best known, with alpine peaks and challenging runs perfect for experienced skiers and snowboarders. Other large resorts include Pamporovo (@pamporovo.me) in the Rhodope Mountains, which is the best for beginners, and Borovets (@borovets-bg.com) in the Rila range; there are also ski facilities on Vitosha Mountain (@vitoshaski.com), just twenty minutes from the centre of Sofia. For more information see @bulgariaski.com.

Of all Bulgaria’s ranges, the Rila Mountains (@rilanationalpark.bg) provide some of the country’s most attractive hiking destinations, including the highest peak – Mount Musala (2925m) – from where a two- to three-day trail leads to Rila Monastery. For the best maps, advice and organized hikes visit Zig-Zag Holidays (@zigzagbg.com) in Sofia. Horseriding is growing in popularity, and a small number of travel agencies can arrange trips of varying length (see box, p.141).

Despite the popularity of team sports such as basketball, handball and volleyball, none generates as much passion as football. Teams in the premier division (“A” Grupa) play on Saturday or Sunday afternoons. Tickets are generally cheap (around 5–10Lv) and sold at booths outside the grounds on the day of the match.

COMMUNICATIONS

You’ll find that hotels, cafés, bars and restaurants generally offer free wi-fi. Post offices (poshta) are usually open Monday to Saturday 8.30am to 5.30pm, longer in big towns. Phonecards (fonokarta) for both Bulfon’s orange phones and Betcom’s blue phones are available from post offices and many street kiosks and shops. Cheap SIM cards from Bulgaria’s three main network providers (Mtel, Globul and Vivacom) are widely available. The operator number for domestic calls is ☎121, for international calls ☎123.

EMERGENCIES

Petty theft is a danger on the coast, and the Bulgarian police can be slow in filling out insurance reports unless you’re insistent. Foreign tourists are no longer a novelty in much of the country, but women travelling alone can expect to encounter stares, comments and sometimes harassment, while clubs on the coast are pretty much seen as meat markets. A firm rebuff should be enough to cope with most situations. Note that everyone is required to carry some form of ID at all times.

If you need a doctor (doktor) or dentist (zabolekar), go to the nearest hospital (bolnitsa), whose staff might speak English or German. Emergency treatment is free of charge, although you must pay for medicines. Larger towns will have at least one 24-hour pharmacy.

INFORMATION

Bulgaria’s National Tourist Information Centre, located in Sofia at ploshtad Sveta

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

For any emergency dial ☎112

BULGARIAN

Hotel and travel agency staff in Sofia and the larger towns and coastal resorts generally speak some English, but knowledge of foreign languages elsewhere in the country is patchy; younger people are more likely to know a few words of English. Most street signs, menus and so on are written in the Cyrillic alphabet, but an increasing number have English transliterations.

	BULGARIAN	PRONUNCIATION
Yes	Да	Da
No	Не	Ne
Please	Моля	Molya
Thank you	Благодаря	Blagodarya
Hello/Good day	Добър ден	Dobur den
Goodbye	Довиждане	Dovizhdane
Excuse me	Извинявайте	Izvinyavite
Where?	Къде?	Kude?
Good	Добро	Dobro
Bad	Лошо	Losh
Near	Близ	Bliz
Far	Далече	Daleche
Cheap	Евтино	Eftino
Expensive	Скъпо	Skupo
Open	Отворено	Otvoreno
Closed	Затворено	Zatvoreno
Today	Днес	Dnes
Yesterday	Вчера	Vchera
Tomorrow	Утре	Utre
How much is...?	Колко струва...?	Kolko stroova...?
What time is it?	Колко е часът?	Kolko ai chasut?
I don't understand	Не разбирам	Ne razbiram
Do you speak English?	Говорите ли английски?	Govorite li Angleeski?
Do you have any vegetarian dishes?	Имате ли вегетерианска храна?	Imate li vegetarianska hrana?
Cheers	Наздраве	Nazdrave
The bill, please	Може ли сметката	Mozhe li smetkata
Is this the bus for...?	Това ли е автобусът за...?	Tova li avtobusat za...?
Is this the train to...?	Това ли е влакът за...?	Tova li e vlakut za...?
Have you got a single/double?	Имате ли единична/двойна стая?	Imate li edinichna/dvoyna staya?
How much for the night?	Колко струва нощувката?	Kolko struva noshtuvkata?
One	Един/Една	Edin/edna
Two	Две	Dve
Three	Три	Tree
Four	Четири	Chetiri
Five	Пет	Pyet
Six	Шест	Shest
Seven	Седем	Sedem
Eight	Осем	Osem
Nine	Девет	Devet
Ten	Десет	Deset

Nedelya 1 (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎02 987 9778, bulgariatravel.org), is a smart, modern affair offering free maps and travel advice. Most major towns and cities have local tourist information centres where staff speak several languages and can provide maps, brochures and leaflets, although they aren't usually authorized to make hotel reservations. The best general maps of Bulgaria and Sofia are published by Kartografiya and Domino; both are available in Latin alphabet versions and are sold at street stalls, petrol stations and bookshops.

MONEY AND BANKS

Until Bulgaria joins the Eurozone (estimated date: Jan 1, 2018) the currency remains the lev (Lv), which is divided into 100 stotinki (st). There are notes of 2Lv, 5Lv, 10Lv, 20Lv, 50Lv and 100Lv and coins of 1st, 2st, 5st, 10st, 20st and 50st, and 1Lv. Pegged to the euro, the lev is stable, and although hotels and travel agencies frequently quote prices in euros, you will be expected to pay in the local currency. At the time of writing, €1 = 1.95Lv, $1 = 1.75Lv, and £1 = 2.55Lv. Producing a student ID card at museums and galleries will often get you a discount of between a third and a half.

Banks are open Monday to Friday 9am to 4pm, and there are ATMs in every town. Private exchange bureaus, offering variable rates, are widespread – but beware of hidden commission charges. Also watch out for black market moneychangers who approach unwary foreigners with offers of better rates; if they sound too good to be true, they are. Credit and debit cards are acceptable at most shops, hotels and restaurants.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Big-city shops and supermarkets are generally open Monday to Friday 8.30am to 6pm or later; on Saturday they close at 2pm. The massive malls that have sprung up in recent years are usually open daily from 10am to 10pm. In rural areas and small towns, an unofficial siesta may prevail between noon and 3pm. Many shops, offices, banks and museums are closed on the following public holidays: January 1, March 3, Easter Sunday and Monday, May 1, May 24, September 6, September 22, December 25 and December 31. Additional public holidays may occasionally be called by the government.

BULGARIA ONLINE

- bulgariatravel.org Comprehensive travel information.
- discover-bulgaria.com Travel information and hotel booking.
- novinite.com English-language news and features.
- questbg.com News and features for foreigners living in Bulgaria.
- programata.bg Up-to-date English-language cultural listings.

Sofia

With its drab suburbs and distinct lack of charming old buildings SOFIA (София) can seem an uninspiring place to first-time visitors. Yet once you've settled in and begun to explore, you'll find it a surprisingly vibrant city, especially on fine days, when its lush public gardens and pavement cafés buzz with life. Just 8km to the south looms verdant Mount Vitosha, promising fantastic hiking, biking and skiing.

Sofia was founded by a Thracian tribe some three thousand years ago, and various Roman ruins attest to its zenith as Serdika, a regional imperial capital in the fourth century AD. The Bulgars didn't arrive on the scene until the ninth century and, with the notable exception of the thirteenth-century Boyana Church, their cultural monuments largely disappeared during Ottoman rule (1396–1878). The architectural legacy of the Ottomans was mostly eradicated following liberation in 1878 and is now visible solely in a couple of stately mosques. The finest architecture postdates Bulgaria's liberation: handsome Neoclassical buildings, imposing Soviet-era government offices, vast parks, and the magnificent Aleksandar Nevski Cathedral.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Most of Sofia's sights are centrally located and within easy walking distance of each other. The pedestrianized Bulevard Vitosha forms the heart of the shopping district and leads north to the Church of Sveta Nedelya, from where Bulevard Tsar Osvoboditel passes the major public buildings, culminating with the grand Aleksandar Nevski Cathedral.

Sveta Nedelya Church

At the heart of Sofia is ploshtad Sveta Nedelya, a pedestrianized square dominated by the distinctive Sveta Nedelya Church (daily 7am–7pm). Dating from 1863, its broad dome dominates the vast interior chamber, and colourful modern frescoes adorn every square centimetre of its walls.

The Largo

Laid out in the 1950s to demonstrate the power of Communist rule, the Largo is an elongated plaza flanked on three sides by severe monumental edifices built in Soviet Classicist style. They include the towering monolith of the former Party House, originally the home of the Communist hierarchy, and now serving as government offices. The plaza extends westwards to the Sofia Monument, the city's symbol, which represents the eponymous Goddess of Wisdom. On the northern side of the Largo is the Council of Ministers, Bulgaria's cabinet offices.

The Banya Bashi Mosque and the Sofia History Museum

The Banya Bashi Mosque was built in 1576 by Mimar Sinan, who also designed the great mosque at Edirne in Turkey. The mosque is not officially open to tourists, but modestly dressed visitors may visit outside of prayer times. Behind stands the Sofia History Museum (Tues–Sun 11am–7pm; 6Lv; ☎sofiahistorymuseum.bg), housed in a splendid yellow-and-red-striped fin-de-siècle building once home to the city's mineral baths. Highlights of its absorbing collection include a gleaming 1905 Mercedes owned by Prince Ferdinand I and an ornamental clock he received as a gift from Queen Victoria in the late nineteenth century. Locals gather daily to bottle the hot, sulphurous water that gushes from public taps into stone troughs outside the museum, opposite ulitsa Exzarh Iosif.

The Rotunda of St George and the Presidency

Sofia's oldest church, the Rotunda of St George, bul. Dondukov 2, dates back to the fourth century and contains frescoes from the eighth century onwards. It was built upon the Roman foundations of Serdika, which are open to the public and can also be seen in front of the nearby TSUM department store. Surrounding the church is the Presidency, guarded by soldiers in colourful nineteenth-century garb (Changing of the Guard hourly).

The Archeological Museum

A fifteenth-century mosque now holds the Archeological Museum, ul. Saborna 2 (May–Oct daily 10am–6pm; Nov–April Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; 10Lv; ☎naim.bg), whose prize exhibit is the magnificent Valchitran Treasure, a Thracian gold cauldron plus cups. Also on show is a collection of Thracian armour, medieval church wall paintings and numerous Roman tombstones.

The City Art Gallery

The City Art Gallery (Tues–Sat 10am–7pm, Sun 11am–6pm; free; ☎sghg.bg) in the City Garden, immediately to the south of ploshtad Aleksandar Batenberg, stages regular exhibitions of contemporary Bulgarian art. Displays feature the country's best-known artists, including bold expressive pieces by Vladimir Dimitrov (known as “The Master”), and striking abstract works by Georgi Bozhilov-Slona.

The Russian Church and Aleksandar Nevski Cathedral

Built on the site of a mosque in the early twentieth century, the Russian Church (daily 8am–7pm) is a stunning golden-domed building with an emerald spire and an exuberant mosaic-tiled exterior, which conceals a dark, candle-scented interior. The nearby Aleksandar Nevski Cathedral (daily 7am–7pm, liturgy on Sun at 1pm; free) is one of the finest pieces of architecture in the Balkans. Financed by public subscription and built between 1882 and 1924 to honour the 200,000 Russian casualties of the 1877–78 War of Liberation, it's a magnificent structure, bulging with domes and semi-domes and glittering with gold leaf. Within the gloomy interior, a beardless Christ sits enthroned above the altar, and numerous scenes from his life, painted in a humanistic style, adorn the walls. The crypt, entered from outside (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 6Lv), contains a superb collection of icons from all over the country.

The National Gallery for Foreign Art

An imposing nineteenth-century building houses the National Gallery for Foreign Art (Mon & Wed–Sun 11am–6.30pm; 6Lv), which devotes a lot of space to Indian woodcarvings and second-division French and Russian artists, though there are a few minor works by the likes of Rodin, Chagall and Kandinsky. If you head back west past Aleksandar Nevski Cathedral, you'll pass two recumbent lions flanking the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, set beside the wall of the plain, brown-brick Church of Sveta Sofia which gave the city its name in the fourteenth century.

Borisova Gradina

Southeast along boulevard Tsar Osvoboditel, past Sofia University, is Borisova Gradina, named after Bulgaria's interwar monarch, Boris III. The park – the largest in Sofia – has a rich variety of flowers and trees, outdoor bars, a couple of football stadiums and two huge Communist monuments.

Mount Vitosha

A wooded granite mass 20km long and 16km wide, Mount Vitosha, 8km south of the city, is where Sofians go for picnics, hiking, biking and skiing. The ascent of its highest peak, the 2290m Cherni Vrah, has become a traditional test of stamina. Getting here on public transport is straightforward, although there are fewer buses on weekdays than at weekends. Take tram #5 from behind the Law Courts to Ovcha Kupel bus station, then change to bus #61, which climbs through the forests towards Zlatni Mostove, a beauty spot on the western shoulder of Mount Vitosha beside the so-called Stone River. Beneath the large boulders running down the mountainside is a rivulet which once attracted gold-panners. Trails lead up beside the stream towards the mountain's upper reaches: Cherni Vrah is about two to three hours' walk from here. Alternatively, use the Simeonovo cable car (daily in winter 8am–4pm; rest of the year Sat & Sun only 9am–5pm; 8/10Lv one-way/return) to reach the handful of ski pistes at Aleko (@skivitosha.com). From here it's a two-hour hike up to the Cherni Vrah summit. To reach the Simeonovo cable car station take tram #10 from the centre to Hladilnik and change to bus #122.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Sofia airport (@sofia-airport.bg) has two terminals: budget carriers arrive at Terminal 1; Bulgaria Air and other major airlines are handled by the newer and smarter Terminal 2. The terminals are connected by a free shuttle bus (every 30min) and the best way to get into the city centre is to catch the metro from Terminal 2 (5.30am–midnight). Bus #84 to the centre picks up from both terminals; tickets (1.60Lv) can be bought from the airport newspaper kiosk – you'll need additional tickets for any oversized bags. There's also marshrutka (private minibus) #30, which runs until around 10pm (every 15–30min; 1.50Lv). Taxis waiting outside Terminal 2 with fake OK Taxi signage will charge you an exorbitant 40Lv or more, so it's essential to book an official OK Taxi (@oktaxi.net) at the booth in the arrivals hall (14–18Lv).

By train Trains arrive and depart from Central Station (Tsentralna Gara), a concrete hangar 2km from the centre harbouring a number of exchange bureaus and snack bars, but little else to welcome the visitor. The metro station (5am–midnight) just outside is the quickest and easiest way to reach the centre.

Destinations Bansko (4 daily; 7hr via Septemvri); Belgrade (2 daily; 7hr 30min); Blagoevgrad (6 daily; 2hr 30min); Bucharest (1 daily; 9hr 30min); Burgas (5 daily; 8hr); Istanbul (1 daily; 11hr); Koprivshitsa (8 daily; 2hr); Plovdiv (14 daily; 3hr); Septemvri (15 daily; 2hr); Thessaloniki (1 daily; 7hr); Varna (11 daily; 8hr); Veliko Turnovo (8 daily; 5hr via Gorna Oryahovitsa).

By bus Most buses arrive at the terminal, next to the train station, although some Bansko services and Blagoevgrad buses (for connections to Rila Monastery) use the Ovcha Kupel terminal, 5km southwest of the centre along bul. Tsar Boris III. Buses #11 and #60 head to the centre from here.

Destinations Bansko (6 daily; 3hr); Burgas (11 daily; 6hr); Koprivshitsa (3 daily; 2hr); Plovdiv (hourly; 2hr); Varna (hourly; 7hr); Veliko Tarnovo (every 30min; 3hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist office Both the National Tourist Information Centre at pl. Sveta Nedelya 1 (see p.131) and the Sofia Tourist Information Centre (July–Sept Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; Oct–June Mon–Fri 9.30am–6pm; @02 491 8344, @info-sofia.bg), in the underpass at the Kliment Ochridski metro station, provide city maps and local travel advice. An excellent alternative is the friendly travel agency Zig-Zag Holidays at bul. Stamboliiski 20 (entrance on ul. Lavele; Mon–Fri 9.30am–6.30pm, daily in summer; @02 980 5102, @zigzagbg.com), which charges a 5Lv consultation fee, although not for accommodation booking.

GETTING AROUND

Public transport There's a flat fare of 1.60Lv on all urban routes, whether by bus (avtobus), trolleybus (troleibus), the two-line metro system, or tram (tramvai). Tickets (bileti) are sold from street kiosks and can be bought from machines on board trams or from the driver on buses and must be punched once you have entered the vehicle (inspections are frequent and there are 40Lv spot fines for fare dodgers). Kiosks at the main tram stops sell one-day tickets (karta za edin den; 6Lv) and a strip (talon) of ten tickets (12Lv) – the tickets can only be used by the purchaser and must be used in sequence. Metro tickets can only be bought from metro stations.

Taxis and minibuses The most reliable taxi company is OK Taxis (@02 973 2121, @oktaxi.net), charging 79st/km until nightfall, 90st afterwards, and 70st initial fare; make sure the driver has his meter running. Additionally, there's a fleet of private minibuses (marshrutka), acting like shared taxis and covering around forty different routes across the city for a flat fare of 1.50Lv. Destinations and routes are displayed on the front of the vehicles – in the Cyrillic alphabet – and passengers flag them down like normal taxis, calling out when they want them to stop.

ACCOMMODATION

Sofia has a number of good hostels, and some small, reasonably priced hotels in central locations. All hostels have free wi-fi and breakfast unless otherwise stated.

HOSTELS

Art Hostel ul. Angel Kanchev 21a ☎02 987 0545, ☎art-hostel.com. Sofia's trendiest hostel, hosting art exhibitions, live music, resident DJs and occasional drama performances. Guests have access to a kitchen and popular tea room-cum-bar with lovely garden, and free computer access. Dorms 20Lv, doubles 60Lv

Elegance Hostel ul. Bratya Miladinovi 33 ☎0888 450 107. Modern hostel located a 10min walk from the centre. Choice of spacious single-sex dorms or smartly furnished doubles. Shared kitchen and free tea and coffee. Dorms 16Lv, doubles 40Lv

★ Hostel Mostel bul. Makedoniya 2A ☎0889 223 296, ☎hostelmotel.com. Superb hostel located in a historic building a short walk from the centre. Besides the free all-you-can-eat breakfast, they offer a bowl of pasta and a bottle of beer for every night of your stay. The ground floor has a cavernous, comfortable lounge space with flat-screen TV, DVDs and travel library. Just up the road is the hostel's lively bar. Dorms 20Lv, doubles 60Lv

Internet Hostel ul. Alabin 50a ☎0889 138 298, ☎internethostels Sofia. Friendly hostel with kitchen offering spacious but dated doubles, triples and quads, as well as studio apartments. Located on the second floor of a shopping arcade, above the Dream House restaurant. Dorms 18Lv, doubles 48Lv, studio apartment for two 70Lv

Ivory Tower Hostel ul. Tsar Samuil 60 ☎0876 668 467. Welcoming hostel in a characterful part of downtown Sofia that's 5min from the centre. Neat single-sex dorms, a double/triple room with shared kitchen and living area. Dorms 24Lv, doubles 65Lv

Orient Express Hostel ul. Hristo Belchev 8A ☎0888 384 828, ☎orientexpresshostel.com. Small and cosy hostel, with high ceilings, modern fittings combined with antique and salvaged furniture, and TVs in every room. Its fifth-floor position makes for great views from the rooms, but some arduous stair climbing as there's no lift. Friendly and helpful staff. Dorms 22Lv, doubles 48Lv, apartment 70Lv

HOTELS

Canape Connection ul. Gladston 12a ☎02 441 6373, ☎canapeconnection.com. Cosy, central guesthouse with rustic furniture and comfortable, extra-wide beds. Helpful staff are on hand to provide local information, and the breakfast is excellent. Doubles 62Lv easyHotel Sofia ul. Aldomirovska 108 ☎02 920 1654, ☎easyhotel.com. Despite being inconveniently located several blocks west of the centre, this is a great deal for anyone in search of a spotless, cheap en-suite room. Prices vary according to availability. Doubles 40Lv

★ Hello Sofia Guesthouse bul. Stefan Stambolov 12 ☎0889 138 298, ☎hellosofia.hostel.com. Situated just a short distance from Sofia's thriving Women's Market (Zhenski Bazaar), this delightful guesthouse has been thoughtfully designed and features imaginative styling and home comforts that include widescreen TVs, spacious en-suite bathrooms, and a smart shared kitchen and lounge area. Doubles 50Lv

Hotel Cheap ul. Knyaz Boris 203 ☎02 831 2123, ☎hotel-cheap.bg. Bland but decent place with spotless rooms. Conveniently located close to Lvov Most metro station and within walking distance of the bus and train stations. Doubles 60Lv

Red Bed and Breakfast ul. Lyuben Karavelov 15 ☎0889 226 822, ☎redbandb.com. Occupying a charming historic building, this appealing guesthouse has huge rooms with high ceilings and parquet floors. Guests have the use of a washing machine and well-equipped kitchen. Doubles 40Lv

EATING

The cheapest places to grab snacks, a beer or a coffee are the many cafés and kiosks on bul. Vitosha and pl. Slaveikov or in the city's public gardens. In recent years soup-focused places such as Farmer's (see p.138) have proliferated, serving up generous portions of wholesome, inexpensive fare that's proven immensely popular.

CAFÉS

Art Club Museum Café Corner of ul. Saborna and ul. Lege ☎artclubmuseum.bg. Chic café with a pleasant patio, set amid Thracian tombstones next to the Archeological Museum. Live DJs in the basement Thursday to Saturday nights. Serves a variety of light meals, desserts and inventive drinks, such as cappuccino with coconut and banana (3.80Lv). Open 24hr.

Memento Café bul. Vitosha 32. One of the countless cafés that have mushroomed along the city's main commercial strip in recent years, this tiny yet popular spot has a Mediterranean feel and serves top-notch coffee, cakes and sandwiches. Daily 8am–2am.

★ Tea House (Chai vuv fabrikata) ul. Georgi Benkovski 11 ☎teahousesofia.com. Atmospheric traditional tea house with a formidable array of teas including Kashmiri chai and rose, priced from 2.50Lv. Check their Facebook page for upcoming live music performances. Daily 10am–11pm.

Vegan Kitsch ul. Parchevich 48 ☎vegankitsch.com. Tiny vegan café with just a couple of chairs that serves a fabulous selection of sweet and savoury dishes to eat in or takeaway. Daily 9am–7pm.

Vila Rosiche ul. Neofit Rilski 26 vilarosiche.com. Enormously popular café within an elegant historic building. Treat yourself to sublime home-made cakes (6.90Lv), croissants and juices served inside or on the summer terrace. Daily 8.30am–10pm.

RESTAURANTS

Annette ul. Angel Kunchev 27 annette.bg. An excellent Moroccan restaurant with tree-shaded outdoor seating and a mouth-watering range of exotic dishes that include chicken baked with pear in wine sauce (13.90Lv). Daily 10am–10pm.

Before & After ul. Hristo Belchev 12 ba.club-cabaret.net. Elegant and popular restaurant near the Orient Express Hostel, with a range of Bulgarian, Turkish and international dishes including some fantastic traditional desserts. Also great for vegetarian options, including grilled vegetables in yoghurt and dill (6Lv). Hosts tango dances on Sundays. Daily 8.30am–10pm.

Divaka ul. Gladston 54, with other branches at ul. Hristo Belchev 16 & ul. 6th Septemvri 41a. Small chain of bright and busy restaurants serving excellent, meat-heavy Bulgarian dishes. Chicken steak 6Lv, grilled vegetables 5.30Lv. Daily 10am–1am.

Dream House ul. Alabin 50a 02.980.8163, dreamhouse-bg.com. Intimate, friendly and well-established vegetarian restaurant above a shopping arcade. Has a good choice of meals and snacks using seasonal produce, including aubergine couscous (6.80Lv) and Asian bamboo soup (2.90Lv). They also deliver within the city centre area. Daily 11am–10pm.

Farmer's ul. Shishman 24, with another branch at pl. Garibaldi. Smart places serving a great range of soups (3Lv) as well as salads, chunky burgers and aubergine sandwiches. Eat-in or takeaway. Daily 9am–10pm.

Made in Home ul. Angel Kunchev 30A. Hugely popular place featuring distressed furniture, bare brick walls and retro ornaments. Serves a broad choice of well-prepared Bulgarian and international dishes. Daily 11am–11pm.

Pri Yafata bul. Dondukov 29. Brash but fun take on a traditional mehana, complete with live music, costumed staff and a great Bulgarian menu that includes tripe soup (shkembe churba; 3.90Lv) and a wide range of grilled meat dishes. Daily 11am–midnight.

★ Slunce Luna ul. Gladston 18b & ul. 6th Septemvri 39 sunmoon.bg. Popular vegetarian restaurants with rustic furniture and a bakery that supplies great wholemeal bread. Daily 9am–11pm.

Ugo bul. Vitosha 45, ul. Neofit Rilski 68 & ul. Han Krum 2 ugo.bg. One of the better pizza and pasta restaurant chains in the centre, Ugo offers a broad range of dishes 24 hours a day.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

For evening entertainment, there's an ever-growing number of clubs, most playing a mix of pop, retro, rock or the ubiquitous local "folk pop" (chalga). Jazz and Latino music are also popular. Information on the city's small but thriving gay scene can be found at gay.bg.

BARS

Bilkovata ul. Tsar Shishman 22. A buzzing, smoky cellar with decent music and a young crowd, Bilkovata is something of a local legend: fondly remembered by successive generations of students, arty types and young professionals, it's still going strong. Packed beer garden in summer. Daily 10am–2am.

Dada ul. Benkovski 10 dadaculturalbar.eu. Dada's regular cultural evenings – including film screenings and poetry readings – attract a mixed crowd of Bulgarians and expats. Daily noon–2am.

Hambara ul. 6-ti Septemvri 22. Hidden behind an unmarked doorway just off the street, this dark, candlelit, stone-floored bar is one of the most atmospheric places in the centre for a long night of drink-fuelled conversation. Live jazz several nights a week. Daily 7pm–2am.

J.J. Murphy's ul. Karnigradska 6 jjmurphys.bg. Sofia's top Irish bar, offering filling pub grub, big-screen sports and live music at the weekends. Daily noon–1am.

Jules Verne ul. Rakovski 127 (first floor). Simply furnished bar frequented by a lively crowd of arty young professionals. Daily 2pm–6am.

Kanaal bul. Madrid 2 kanaal.bg. Renowned for its vast choice of international beers, this stylish bar attracts a hip crowd. Ten minutes by taxi from the centre. Daily 5.30pm–2am.

Raketa Rakia Bar bul. Yanko Sakazov 15–17. One of the best places in the city to sample Bulgarian rakia, it's also gained a reputation for excellent local dishes. Daily 11am–midnight.

CLUBS

Entrance fees range from nothing to 20Lv depending on the venue; expect to pay more if a major DJ is manning the decks. A valid ID is compulsory.

4KM Party Center bul. Tsarigradsko shose 111 4-km.com. Cavernous hall with giant sound system that holds regular concerts and all-night DJ parties – check their Facebook page for the latest events. Located 4km from the centre, it's best reached by taxi.

Blaze pl. Bulgaria 1. Lively bar and club beside NDK, with a good sound system pumping out mainstream pop for the trendy clientele. Daily 9pm–3am.

Chervilo bul. Tsar Osvoboditel 9. Stylish city-centre club offering the latest in house, techno and Latin over two floors. The action spreads out onto the terrace in summer, when it's more like an elite, pay-to-enter pavement café than a club. Café daily 10am–10pm; club Thurs–Sat 10pm–7am.

ID Club ul. Karnigradska 19B @idclub.bg. A popular gay club with plenty of dancing space that plays retro, chalga and pop until the early hours. So-called “face control” (only letting in those who look the part) is strict on busy nights. Daily 9pm–3am.

My Mojito ul. Ivan Vazov 12. This well-established club is one of Sofia's trendiest, with a laidback crowd and DJs playing a mix of mainstream dance and pop. Daily 9pm–5am.

LIVE MUSIC

Mixtape 5 NDK underpass beneath Lover's Bridge. Big club with central stage hosting hip local and international bands and DJs. Daily 9pm–late.

Sofia Live Club National Palace of Culture (NDK) @sofialiveclub.com. Lying deep beneath NDK, a monolithic Communist-era building that dominates central Sofia, this plush club has hosted an impressive number of international world music and jazz groups. Daily 8pm–2am.

Swingin' Hall ul. Dragan Tsankov 8 @swinginshall.bg. Cheerful, crowded bar that's been around for years and has live music (usually pop, rock or jazz) on two stages. Tues–Sat 9pm–4am.

ENTERTAINMENT

CINEMAS

Cinema City bul. Stamboliski 101 @02 929 2929, @cinemacity.bg. Multi-screen cinema in the Mall of Sofia with lots of snack stands in the vicinity.

Odeon bul. Patriarh Evtimiy 1 @02 969 2469. Shows oldies and prize-winning art films past and present. Check @programata.bg for listings. Small bar in the lobby.

SHOPPING

Until recently, the city's pedestrianized central street, bul. Vitosha, was the place where you were most likely to come across familiar high-street shops and brands; some remain but many were replaced by outdoor cafés when the retailers moved into the characterless yet immensely popular malls located south of the centre. Ul. Graf Ignatiev and ul. Tsar Ivan Shishman are now Sofia's busiest central shopping streets, home to a wide range of small independents selling everything from books to clothes, souvenirs and vegetables.

Aleksandar Nevski Located at the apex of the three central churches on pl. Aleksandar Nevski, this cluster of stalls offers an odd mix of religious paintings, Turkish-influenced silver jewellery, traditional Bulgarian peasant textiles, plus antique and replica Communist items. Be warned that there's Nazi memorabilia on sale too.

Elephant Bookstore ul. Tsar Ivan Shishman 31 @elephantbookstore.com. A delightfully cosy shop crammed with new and used English books and a mesmerizing array of quirky gifts. Daily 10am–10pm.

Halite bul. Knyaginya Mariya Luiza, opposite the Banya Bashi Mosque. This elegant building houses Sofia's central food hall with two floors of shops and food stalls. Daily 7am–midnight.

Tzum Located just outside Serdika metro, this was once the preserve of the party elite and, although it's now been eclipsed by the much larger suburban malls, it remains the centre's premier shopping mall stocked with upmarket and luxury goods. Daily 10am–8pm.

Zhenski bazaar bul. Stefan Stambolov. One of the city's best outdoor markets, where trinkets, fresh fruit, vegetables and other foodstuffs are on sale. Daily 6am–5pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies and consulates Canada, Pozitano 7 @02 969 9717; Ireland, Bacho Kiro 26–30 @02 985 3425; South Africa, Shipka 7 @02 983 3505; UK, Moskovska 9 @02 933 9222; US, Kozyak 16 @02 937 5100.

Hospital Pirogov hospital (bul. General Tottleben 21 @02 915 4411, @pirogov.eu).

Pharmacy Aronia 2001 at bul. Pencho Slaveikov 6, opposite Pirogov hospital, is open 24hr.

Post office ul. General Gurko 6 (daily 7am–8.30pm).

Southern Bulgaria

The route south from Sofia skirts the Rila and Pirin mountain ranges, swathed in forests and dotted with alpine lakes, and home to Bulgaria's highest peaks. Even those on a tight schedule should find time for a visit to the most revered of Bulgarian monasteries, Rila, around 30km east of the main southbound route. Bansko, meanwhile, on the eastern side of the Pirin range, boasts a wealth of traditional architecture, as well as being a major ski resort and a good base for hiking. Another much-travelled route heads southeast from Sofia towards Istanbul. The main road and rail lines now linking Istanbul and Sofia essentially follow the course of the Roman Serdica–Constantinople road, running past towns ruled by the Ottomans for so long that foreigners used to call this part of Bulgaria “European Turkey”. Of these, the most important is Plovdiv, Bulgaria’s second city, whose old quarter is a wonderful mixture of National Revival mansions and classical remains. Some 30km south of Plovdiv is Bachkovo Monastery, containing Bulgaria’s most vivid frescoes.

RILA MONASTERY

As the most celebrated of Bulgaria’s religious sites, famed for its fine architecture and mountainous setting – and declared a World Heritage site by UNESCO – Rila Monastery receives a steady stream of visitors, many of them day-trippers from Sofia.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Ringed by mighty walls, the monastery (daily dawn–dusk; free; ☎ rilamonastery.pmg-blq.com) has the outward appearance of a fortress, but this impression is immediately dispelled when you see the beauty of the interior, which even the crowds can’t mar. Graceful arches above the flagstoned courtyard support tiers of monastic cells, and stairways ascend to wooden balconies. Bold red stripes and black-and-white check patterns enliven the facade, contrasting with the sombre mountains behind and creating a harmony between the cloisters and the church. Richly coloured frescoes shelter beneath the church porch and cover much of its interior. The iconostasis is splendid, almost 10m wide and covered by a mass of intricate carvings and gold leaf. Beside the church is Hrelyo’s Tower, the sole remaining building from the fourteenth century. Cauldrons, which were once used to prepare food for pilgrims, occupy the soot-encrusted kitchen on the ground floor of the north wing, while on the floors above you can inspect the spartan refectory and panelled guest rooms. Beneath the east wing is the treasury (daily 8.30am–5pm; 8Lv), where, among other things, you can view a wooden cross carved with more than 1500 miniature human figures, dating from the 1790s.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

Joining a day tour from the capital, booked through the Sofia Tourist Information Centre (see p.136), is by far the most sensible way of getting here, with group trips costing around 50Lv per person.

ACCOMMODATION

Pchelina ☎ 0888 393058, 🌐 pchelina.com. Delightful hotel ensconced within the forest 3km away from the monastery. Pleasant en-suite rooms and a great restaurant that serves trout from the local river. Doubles 55Lv

Rila monastery ☎ 0705 42208. It’s possible to stay on site in reasonably comfortable rooms. Gates close at 11pm. Doubles 65Lv

Zodiac 4km beyond the monastery ☎ 0887 362 186, 🌐 campingzodiacbg.com. Pleasant campsite occupying an attractive riverside spot, with smart double bungalows and a good restaurant. Camping/person 8Lv, double bungalows/person 15Lv

EATING

For cheap snacks, delicious bread and doughnuts, head for the bakery opposite the East Gate.

Drushliavitsa Built over a stream on the hillside just beyond the East Gate, this traditional-style Bulgarian restaurant offers polite service and shaded outdoor seating. The menu features Bulgarian standards and fresh local trout (7Lv). Daily 10am–10pm.

Rila Situated behind the bakery. Identical in style to the Drushliavitsa with a similar menu and prices. Daily 10am–10pm.

BANSKO

Lying some 40km east of the main Struma Valley route, BANSKO (Банско) is the primary centre for walking and skiing on the eastern slopes of the Pirin mountains. Originally an agricultural centre, ski tourism has prompted massive investment in recent years, resulting in the unappealing sight of apartment blocks and hotels squeezed into the backyards of stone-built nineteenth-century farmhouses. Despite this overdevelopment, the central old town, with its numerous traditional pubs hidden away down labyrinthine cobbled streets, is as attractive as ever and the perfect place to wind down after a hard day on the slopes.

Though connected to Sofia and other towns by bus, Bansko can also be reached by a narrow-gauge railway, which leaves the main Sofia–Plovdiv line at Septemvri and forges its way across the highlands. It's one of the most scenic trips in the Balkans, but also one of the slowest, taking five hours to cover just over 100km.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Bansko centres on the modern pedestrianized ploshtad Nikola Vaptsarov, where the Nikola Vaptsarov Museum (daily 8am–noon & 2–5.30pm; 3Lv) relates the life of the local-born poet and Socialist martyr. Immediately north of here, ploshtad Vazrazhdane is watched over by the solid stone tower of the Church of Sveta Troitsa, whose interior contains exquisite nineteenth-century frescoes and icons. On the opposite side of the square, the Rilski Convent houses an icon museum (Mon–Fri 9am–noon & 2–5.30pm; 3Lv) devoted to the achievements of Bansko's nineteenth-century icon painters.

From the main square, ulitsa Pirin leads north towards the cable car (Dec–April daily 8.30am–5pm; 28Lv), where there is a buzzing collection of ski-rental shops, bars and restaurants. Ski passes cost 58Lv per day (38Lv for children), and ski and snowboard equipment can be rented for around 30Lv per day. The cable car doesn't operate outside the ski season so the only option for reaching the summit in the summer months is to head west – on foot or by taxi – via a steep 14km uphill climb to the Vihren hut, where cheap dorm accommodation (12Lv per person) is available. This is the main trailhead for hikes towards the 2914m summit of Mount Vihren, Bulgaria's second-highest peak, or gentler rambles around the meadows and lakes nearby.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The train station is on the northern edge of town, a 10min walk from pl. Vaptsarov.

Destinations Septemvri (4 daily; 5hr); Sofia (change at Septemvri, for the slow narrow-gauge railway; 4 daily; 7hr).

By bus The bus station is close to the train station.

Destinations Blagoevgrad (hourly; 1hr); Plovdiv (7 daily; 4hr); Sofia (hourly; 2hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office is on pl. Nikola Vaptsarov 4 (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; ☎ 0749 88580, 🌐 bansko.bg).

ACCOMMODATION

Basecamp 5 Hostel ul. Ortze Popyordanov 1 ☎ 0888 110320. Excellent budget option with pristine four-bed dorms and shared kitchen and living area, 1km from the lift station. Dorms 20Lv

Bisser Family Hotel ul. El Tepe 16 ☎ 0749 88078, 🌐 bisser-bansko.com. Pleasant hotel situated on a quiet street near the centre of town. En-suite rooms, wi-fi and breakfast included. Free daily bus to the lift station. Doubles 58Lv

Dedo Pene ul. Aleksandar Buynov 1 ☎ 0749 88348, 🌐 dedopene.com. Located just south of pl. Vazrazhdane, there's an array of wonderfully atmospheric rooms in this restored nineteenth-century building. Doubles 60Lv

Zlatev Guest House ul. Nikola Popfilipov 1 ☎ 0899 969370. Family-run place in the heart of the old town, offering smart en-suite rooms and a secluded courtyard garden. Doubles 60Lv

EATING AND DRINKING

★ Dedo Pene ul. Aleksandar Buynov 1 🌐 dedopene.com. Atmospheric restaurant serving reasonably priced traditional Bulgarian food and Bansko specialties such as kapama, a delicious stew of chicken, pork and cabbage. Sit inside among folksy decorations or opt for the vine-shaded courtyard in summer. Daily 11am–1am.

Irish Harp ul. Banderitsa 51 🌐 irishharpbansko.com. Popular pub in the town centre with good food and Guinness on tap. Daily 4pm–late.

Molerite ul. Glazne 41 🌐 molerite.com. Two floors of wooden benches and ethnic textiles just north of pl. Nikola

HORSERIDING IN THE RILA MOUNTAINS

A unique way to experience the spectacular terrain of the Rila Mountains is on horseback. Some of the trails pass through virtually untouched forest areas and alongside staggering glacial lakes; there are also some seriously rocky options for experienced or adventurous riders. The Sofia-based tour operator Horseriding Bulgaria (ul. Orfey 9 ☎ 02 403 0107, 🌐 horseridingbulgaria.com) offers a number of tours setting out from their Iskar Ranch at the foot of the Rila Mountains, and costing from €600–900 for eight days.

Vaptsarov – try the superb local specialities such as roast lamb (18Lv) and sword-grilled shish kebabs (15Lv). Turns into a folk-pop disco after about 11pm. Daily 11am–2am.

PLOVDIV

Slated to be European Capital of Culture in 2019 and Bulgaria's second-largest city, PLOVDIV (Пловдив) has more obvious charms than Sofia, which the locals here tend to look down on. The old town embodies Plovdiv's long history – Thracian fortifications subsumed by Macedonian masonry, overlaid with Roman and Byzantine walls. Great timber-framed mansions, erected during the Bulgarian renaissance, loom over the derelict Ottoman mosques and artisans' dwellings of the lower town. But this isn't just another museum town: the city's arts festivals and trade fairs are the biggest in the country, and its restaurants and bars are equal to those of the capital.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Plovdiv centres on the large ploshtad Tsentralen, dominated by the monolithic Hotel Trimontium Princess.

Ploshtad Dzhumaya

Thronged with promenading Plovdivians and lined with shops, cafés and bars, the pedestrianized ulitsa Knyaz Aleksandar I leads onto the attractive ploshtad Dzhumaya where the substantial ruins of a Roman stadium that could hold thirty thousand spectators are on display beneath the square. Among the variously styled buildings here, the renovated Dzhumaya Mosque, with its diamond-patterned minaret and lead-sheathed domes, steals the show; it's believed that the mosque dates back to the reign of Sultan Murad II (1359–85).

The Old Quarter

Covering one of Plovdiv's three hills with its cobbled streets and colourful mansions, the Old Quarter is a painter's dream and a cartographer's nightmare. As good a route as any is to start from ploshtad Dzhumaya and head east up ulitsa Saborna. Blackened fortress walls dating from Byzantine times can be seen around Saborna and other streets, sometimes incorporated into the dozens of timber-framed National Revival houses that are Plovdiv's speciality. Outside and within, the walls are frequently decorated with niches, floral motifs or false columns, painted in a style known as alafanga. Turn right, up the steps beside the Church of Sveta Bogoroditsa, and continue, along twisting cobbled lanes, to the Roman Theatre (daily 9am–6pm; 6Lv), the best preserved in the country, and still an impressive venue for regular concerts and plays (advertised around the town and in the local press).

The City Gallery of Fine Arts and around

The City Gallery of Fine Arts on ulitsa Saborna (daily 9.30am–6pm; 3Lv; @galleryplovdiv.com) holds an extensive collection of nineteenth- and twentieth-century Bulgarian paintings, including some fine portraits by renowned National Revival realist painter Stanislav Dospevski. A short distance northeast, the Church of SS Constantine and Elena contains a fine gilt iconostasis, decorated by the prolific nineteenth-century artist Zahari Zograf, whose work also appears in the adjacent Museum of Icons (daily 9.30am–6pm; 3Lv). A little further uphill is the richly decorated Kuyumdzhioğlu House, now home to the Ethnographic Museum (Tues–Sun 9am–6pm; 5Lv). Folk costumes and crafts are on display

THE NIGHT TRAIN TO ISTANBUL

There's a nightly train to Istanbul, which leaves Plovdiv at 10.12pm and arrives at 8am; tickets cost 54Lv and must be bought in advance from the BDZh-Rila office in Plovdiv's Central Station (Tsentralna Gara; daily 8am–noon & 1–4.45pm; ☎032 643120). Australian, US, UK and most EU citizens require Turkish visas (see p.1141) that can only be bought online at @evisa.gov.tr.

on the ground floor; upstairs, the elegantly furnished rooms reflect the former owner's taste for Viennese and French Baroque.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Plovdiv's train station is on bul. Hristo Botev, a 10min bus ride (#20 or #26) south of the centre.

Destinations Burgas (7 daily; 5hr); Istanbul (1 daily; 9hr); Koprivshitsa (4 daily; 3hr 30min via Karlovo); Sofia (15 daily; 3hr); Varna (8 daily; 6hr).

By bus Two of Plovdiv's three bus stations are near the train station: Rodopi, serving the mountain resorts to the south, is just on the other side of the tracks; Yug, serving Sofia and the rest of the country, is one block east. The third, Sever, is north of the river (bus #3 or #99; 20min) and serves destinations such as Koprivshitsa and Veliko Tarnovo. Several agencies at Yug station sell tickets for international buses. Hebros Bus (daily 8am–7pm; ☎ 032 657811, hebrosbus.com), a Eurolines agent, can book seats on buses to Greece, Turkey and Western Europe.

Destinations Avtogara Rodopi: Smolyan (hourly; 2hr 30min via Bachkovo monastery). Avtogara Sever: Koprivshitsa (1 daily; 2hr 30min); Veliko Tarnovo (2 daily; 4hr). Avtogara Yug: Burgas (5 daily; 4hr); Sofia (hourly; 2hr); Varna (2 daily; 7hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information In the old town at ul. Dr Stoyan Chomakov 1 (Mon–Fri 9am–5.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 032 620453), and in the new town behind the post office at pl. Tsentralen 1 (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 032 656794, visitplovdiv.com). Both offices provide maps and can reserve hotel rooms and arrange excursions.

ACCOMMODATION

Plovdiv's hotel prices are relatively high, but there are several excellent hostels and a few decent-value hotel options.

HOSTELS

Hiker's Hostel ul. Saborna 53 ☎ 0896 764 854, 🌐 hikers-hostel.org. Small but comfortable and friendly hostel in the middle of the old town, with fantastic views and a traditional open fire during winter. Breakfast, wi-fi and computer access are included. Also organizes day-trips in Plovdiv and the surrounding area, and guests can even pitch tents in the backyard. Dorms 14Lv, doubles 50Lv, camping/pitch 10Lv

★ Old Plovdiv Guesthouse ul. Chetvarti Yanuari 3 ☎ 032 260 925, 🌐 hosteloldplovdiv.com. Fabulous place in a historic old-town building, replete with period furniture, creaking wooden floors and bags of atmosphere. Staff provide a warm welcome and are enormously helpful. Shared kitchen, free breakfast and double, triple or quadruple rooms. Dorms 26Lv, doubles 75Lv

Plovdiv Guest ul. Saborna 20 ☎ 032 622432, 🌐 plovdivguest.com. Modern hostel in the old town with six-bed dorms that each have a bathroom. Private en-suite rooms are also available, while breakfast and wi-fi are offered at no extra charge. Dorms 22Lv, doubles 66Lv

Raisky Kat ul. Slaveikov 6 ☎ 032 268849, 🌐 raiskykat.hostel.com. Dated but welcoming family-run hostel offering doubles and triples with shared bathroom in the old town. Doubles 48Lv

HOTELS

My Guest Rooms ul. Ivan Vazov 29 ☎ 0896 567475. Central spot with immaculate rooms in smartly restored building. Guests have the use of a shared kitchen. Excellent value. Doubles 40Lv

Star Hotel ul. Patriarch Evtiimi 13 ☎ 032 633599, 🌐 starhotel.bg. What was once Plovdiv's top Socialist-era hotel is now offering the same faded but comfortable rooms (with a/c and wi-fi) at a fraction of their original price. Central location, but breakfast not included. Doubles 40Lv

EATING

The most atmospheric restaurants are in the old town, many occupying elegant old houses and serving good, traditional Bulgarian food. In the new town, ul. Knyaz Aleksandar I is awash with cheaper fast-food outlets, though better quality can be found away from the main drag.

Alafrangite ul. Kiril Nektariev 17 🌐 alafrangite.eu. Lovely National Revival-style restaurant housed in an old town mansion serving traditional Bulgarian cuisine. Mid-range prices, plus nightly live music in the fig-tree-shaded courtyard. Daily noon–11pm.

Amsterdamer ul. Konstantin Stoilov 10 🌐 plovdiv.amsterdambg.com. Stylish reproduction of a Dutch restaurant serving Bulgarian and international cuisine such as duck breast with fig sauce (11Lv). Daily 11am–midnight.

Dreams ul. Knyaz Aleksandar I 42 🌐 dreams-plovdiv.com. A popular central spot for coffee, cocktails and cakes. Daily 8am–midnight.

★TREAT YOURSELF

For some of the best wine and food that southern Bulgaria has to offer, head to the restaurant of the Hebros hotel at ul. Konstantin Stoilov 51 (☎ 032 260180, 🌐 hebros-hotel.com). The international menu changes from day to day – look out for their delicious home-made meatballs served with tomato and aubergine purée – and there are always vegetarian options and an array of delicious desserts. Main courses are around 27Lv and appetizers, such as stewed snails with wild rice, around 14Lv. Tempting as the food is, it is the wine that really earns Hebros its stellar reputation, with recommendations matched to every dish and a tremendous selection from all over Bulgaria and the world; prices range from 15–250Lv a bottle.

King's Stables ul. Saborna 9a. One of the old town's most reasonably priced restaurants. Serves large portions of traditional Bulgarian food, including some excellent grilled meat dishes (4–10Lv). The yogurt with home-made blueberry jam is definitely worth trying. There's also a bar that offers equally generous measures of spirits and weekly live music performances. Summer only. Daily 9am–2am.

Philippopolis ul. Saborna 29, 🌐 philippopolis.com. An excellent old town restaurant beneath an art gallery serving well-presented international food in a quiet garden with lovely views. Daily 10am–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

The best places to drink are the pavement cafés of ul. Knyaz Aleksandar I. The Kapana area just north of the Dzhumaya mosque is the place to head for late-night tipples and dancing.

Absinthe House ul. Petko R. Slaveikov 8. Laidback bar with an astounding and potentially mindbending choice of absinthes. Daily 4pm–1am.

Apartment 101 ul. Gladston 8. Just off pl. Tsentralen, this tiny, incredibly popular café-bar is crammed into the first floor of a rickety old building. Daily 8am–midnight, Fri & Sat until 2am.

Artnewscafe ul. Otets Paisii 38 🌐 artnewscafe.com. Tiny café-bar with quirky interior that's frequented by hip, arty Plovdivians. Daily 8am–11pm.

No Sense ul. Evlogi Georgiev 5. Popular place over two floors that's been pumping out retro and rock every night for years. Daily 10am–4am.

Nylona ul. Benkovski 8. With no sign outside, this dimly lit rock bar in the Kapana area attracts an alternative crowd and hosts irregular live music performances. Daily noon–4am.

Petnoto na Rorschach ul. Yoakim Gruev 36. Popular with the local alternative crowd, this vibrant club has regular live bands and even hosts the occasional literary event. Daily 9am–2am.

DIRECTORY

Hospital For 24hr emergency treatment try Medicus Alpha at ul. Veliko Tarnovo 21 (☎ 032 634463, 🌐 medicusalpha.com), alongside the park next to pl. Tsentralen.

Pharmacy Kamea, ul. Hristo Danov 4, close to pl. Dzhumaya, is open 24hr.

Post office pl. Tsentralen 1 (Mon–Sat 7am–7pm, Sun 7am–11am).

BACHKOVO MONASTERY

Just 30km away and an easy day-trip from the city, the most attractive destination around Plovdiv is Bachkovo Monastery (daily 6.30am–9pm; free). Founded in 1038 by two Georgians in the service of the Byzantine Empire, this is Bulgaria's second-largest monastery. Through a great iron-studded door visitors reach the cobbled courtyard, surrounded by wooden galleries and adorned with colourful frescoes. Beneath the vaulted porch of Bachkovo's principal church, Sveta Bogoroditsa, are frescoes depicting the horrors in store for sinners; the entrance itself, overseen by the Holy Trinity, is rather more uplifting.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

Take one of the hourly buses from Rodopi station towards Smolyan; the stop for Bachkovo is 45min from Plovdiv.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

It's possible to stay in refurbished rooms in the monastery (☎ 03327 2277; 40Lv/person with hot water and en suite), and there are three restaurants just outside; Vodopada, with its mini-waterfall, is the best.

Central Bulgaria

For over a thousand years, Stara Planina – known to foreigners as the Balkan range – has been the cradle of the Bulgarian nation. It was here that the Khans established the First Kingdom, and here, too, after a period of Byzantine control, that the Boyars proclaimed the Second Kingdom and created a magnificent capital at Veliko Tarnovo. The nearby Sredna Gora (Central Mountains) were inhabited as early as the fifth millennium BC, but for Bulgarians this forested region is best known as the Land of the April Rising, the nineteenth-century rebellion for which the picturesque town of Koprivshitsa will always be remembered.

Although they lie a little way off the main rail lines from Sofia, neither Veliko Tarnovo nor Koprivshitsa is difficult to reach. The former lies just south of Gorna Oryahovitsa, a major rail junction midway between Varna and Sofia, from where you can pick up a local bus; the latter is served by the Koprivshitsa stop, where nine daily trains from Sofia are met by local buses to ferry you the 12km to the village itself.

KOPRIVSHITSITS

Seen from a distance, KOPRIVSHITSITS (Копривщица) looks almost too lovely to be real, its half-timbered houses lying in a valley amid wooded hills. It would be an oasis of rural calm if not for the tourists drawn by the superb architecture and Bulgarians paying homage to a landmark in their nation's history.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

All of the town's museums are open 9.30am–5.30pm, with half of them closing on Mondays, and the other half on Tuesdays. You can buy a combined ticket for five of the six museums for 5Lv at the tourist office and at any of the museums; otherwise they are priced at 3Lv each; tickets for Oslekov House can only be purchased on site (2Lv). It's also possible to hire an English-speaking guide for a two-hour tour (10Lv).

A street running off to the west of the main square leads to the Oslekov House (closed Mon). Its summer guest room is particularly impressive, with a vast wooden ceiling carved with geometric motifs. Cross the Freedom Bridge opposite the information centre to reach Karavelov House (closed Tues), the childhood home of Lyuben Karavelov, a fervent advocate of Bulgaria's liberation who spent much of his adult life in exile where he edited revolutionary publications. Near the Surlya Bridge is the birthplace of the poet Dimcho Debelyanov (closed Mon), who is buried in the grounds of the hilltop Church of the Holy Virgin. A gate at the rear of the churchyard leads to the home of Todor Kableshev (closed Mon), leader of the local rebels. Kableshev's house now displays weapons used in the Rising and features a wonderful circular vestibule. Continuing south, cross the Bridge of the First Shot, which spans the Byala Reka stream, head up ulitsa Nikola Belodezhov, and you'll come to the Lyutov House (closed Tues), once home to a wealthy yogurt merchant and today housing some of Koprivshitsa's most sumptuous interiors. On the opposite side of the River Topolnitsa, steps lead up to the birthplace of another major figure in the Rising, Georgi Benkovski (closed Tues). A tailor by profession, he made the famous silk banner embroidered with the Bulgarian lion and "Liberty or Death!"

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Buses to Koprivshitsa usually meet trains arriving at the station 12km south of town.

Destinations Burgas (1 daily; 5hr 30min); Plovdiv (6 daily; 5hr); Sofia (9 daily; 2hr); Veliko Tarnovo (3 daily; 5–9hr).

By bus The small bus station is 200m south of the main square.

Destinations Plovdiv (1 daily; 2hr 30min); Sofia (5 daily; 2hr).

Tourist office The tourist office on the main square, pl. 20th April 6 (daily 9.30am–5pm; ☎07184 2191, koprivshitsa.com), sells tickets for five of Koprivshitsa's six house museums.

ACCOMMODATION

The tourist office can book private rooms (around 40Lv) in charming village houses. Advance reservations are recommended in summer.

Bolyarka ul. Petar Zhilkov 7 ☎07184 2043. Four-room B&B just uphill from the centre, offering bright, pine-furnished rooms and a lovely garden. Doubles 46Lv

Panorama ul. Georgi Benkovski 40 ☎07184 2035, panoramata.com. A well-run complex south of the centre with smart modern rooms on the ground floor and traditional-style rooms above; most have sweeping views of the town. Doubles 70Lv

Trayanova Kashta ul. Gerenilo 5 ☎07184 3057. Just up the street from the Oslekov House, with delightful rooms in the National Revival style. Doubles 50Lv

EATING AND DRINKING

Dyado Liben Inn This fine nineteenth-century mansion opposite the main square serves traditional dishes such as gyuvech (meat stew) for around 6–15Lv. Daily 11am–midnight.

Lomeva Kashta A folk-style restaurant just north of the square, serving grills and salads from 6Lv. Daily 10am–midnight.

VELIKO TARNOVO

With its dramatic medieval fortifications and huddles of antique houses teetering over the lovely River Yantra, VELIKO TARNOVO (Велико Търново) holds a uniquely important place in the minds of Bulgarians. When the National Assembly met here to draft Bulgaria's first constitution in 1879, it did so in the former capital of the Second Kingdom (1185–1396), whose civilization was snuffed out by the Turks. It was here, too, that the Communists chose to proclaim the People's Republic in 1944.

KOPRIVSHITSIA AND THE APRIL RISING

From the "Bridge of the First Shot" to the "Place of the Scimitar Charge", there's hardly a part of Koprivshitsa that isn't named after an episode or participant in the April Rising of 1876, a meticulously planned grassroots revolution against Ottoman control that failed within days because the organizers had vastly overestimated their support. Neighbouring towns were burned by the Bashibazouks – the irregular troops recruited by the Turks to put the rebels in their place – and refugees flooded into Koprivshitsa, spreading panic. The rebels eventually took to the hills while local traders bribed the Bashibazouks to spare the village – and so Koprivshitsa survived unscathed, to be admired by subsequent generations as a symbol of heroism. Although the home-grown Bulgarian revolution failed, the barbarity of the Turkish reprisals outraged the international community and led to the 1877–78 War of Liberation which won freedom for Bulgaria from over five hundred years of Ottoman rule.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Modern Veliko Tarnovo centres on ploshad Mayka Balgariya: from here boulevard Nezavisimost (which becomes ulitsa Stefan Stambolov after a few hundred metres) heads northeast into a network of narrow streets that curve above the River Yantra and mark out the old town and its photogenic houses. From ulitsa Stambolov, the narrow cobbled ulitsa Rakovski slopes up into the Varosh Quarter, a pretty ensemble of nineteenth-century buildings once home to bustling artisans' workshops and now occupied by clothing and souvenir shops.

Sarafkina House

Clinging to the steep hillside at ulitsa General Gurko 88 is the Sarafkina House (Mon–Fri 9am–5.30pm; 6Lv), whose elegant restored interior is notable for its splendid octagonal vestibule and a panelled rosette ceiling.

Museum of the Bulgarian Renaissance and Constituent Assembly

Designed by the legendary local architect Kolyo Ficheto (1800–81), the blue-and-white building where the first Bulgarian parliament assembled in 1879 is now home to the Museum of the Bulgarian Renaissance and Constituent Assembly (summer daily 9am–6pm; winter Mon & Wed–Sun 9am–5.30pm; 6Lv), where you can see a reconstruction of the original assembly hall, and a collection of icons.

Tsarevets

Ulitsa Ivan Vazov leads directly from the museum to the medieval fortress, Tsarevets (daily: April–Oct 8am–7pm; Nov–March 9am–5pm; 6Lv). A successful rebellion against Byzantium was mounted from this citadel in 1185, and Tsarevets remained the centre of Bulgarian power until 1393, when, after a three-month siege, it fell to the Turks. The partially restored fortress is entered via the Asenova Gate halfway along the western ramparts. To the right, paths lead round to Baldwin's Tower, where Baldwin of Flanders, the so-called Latin Emperor of Byzantium, was incarcerated by Tsar Kaloyan. Visitors can climb up to the parapet of the fully renovated tower for sweeping views of the town.

Don't miss the dramatic twenty-minute Tsarevets Sound and Light show held most evenings during the summer – it's free on public holidays, but on other days you'll have to wait for a large group to fork out for it, otherwise it doesn't go ahead. Call ☎062 636952 for show times.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train All trains to Veliko Tarnovo actually stop at Gorna Oryahovitsa station from where bus #10 covers the 13km to the centre (30min). International trains must be booked in advance through the Rila-BDZh office beside the Yantra Hotel at ul. Stefan Stambolov 19 (Mon–Fri 8am–noon & 1–4.30pm; ☎062 622042).

Destinations Bucharest (2 daily; 6hr); Burgas (4 daily; 7hr); Istanbul (1 daily; 14hr); Sofia (8 daily; 5hr); Varna (5 daily; 4hr).

By bus Buses to and from Sofia and Varna use the small central bus terminal (tsentralna avtogara) just behind the Tourist Information Centre outside Hotel Etar. Buses to Plovdiv, Burgas and Ruse use the western terminal (avtogara zapad), 4km southwest of town accessed by bus #10 from the centre. From Ruse there are six daily buses to Bucharest (1hr 30min). Buses to Athens and Istanbul use the southern bus terminal (avtogara yug) which is a 10min walk south of the centre along bul. Hristo Botev.

Destinations Athens (1 daily; 16hr); Burgas (2 daily; 4hr); Istanbul (1 daily; 10hr); Plovdiv (2 daily; 4hr); Ruse (4 daily; 2hr 30min); Sofia (hourly; 3hr); Varna (hourly; 3hr 30min).

Tourist office bul. Hristo Botev 5 (summer Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9am–5pm; winter Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎062 622148, ✉velikotarnovo.info).

ACCOMMODATION

Comfort ul. Paneyot Tipografov 5 ☎062 628 728, ✉hotelcomfortbg.com. A spotless, family-run place, with wi-fi, a/c and splendid views of the Tsarevets fortress. Located just above the Varosh Quarter's bazaar. Doubles 60Lv

Hikers Hostel ul. Rezervoarska 91 ☎062 604 019 or ☎0889 691 661, ✉hikers-hostel.org. A friendly hostel with quirky wooden furniture tucked away in a narrow street high above the Varosh Quarter, looking out over Tsarevets. There's excellent dorm accommodation, tent space, kitchen and free wi-fi, computer access and pick-up service. Dorms 20Lv, doubles 52Lv, camping/person 10Lv

★ Hostel Mostel ul. Iordan Indjeto 10 ☎0897 859 359, ✉hostelmotel.com. Located in a beautifully restored nineteenth-century Ottoman building south of the road leading to Tsarevets, with comfortable dorms and private en-suite rooms. Included in the price are a pick-up service, wi-fi, computer access, an all-you-can-eat breakfast, evening meal and a beer for every night of your stay. There's also a barbecue and tent space in the garden. Dorms 20Lv, doubles 60Lv, camping/person 18Lv

Stambolov ul. Stefan Stambolov 25 ☎ 0878 835 048, 📍 hotel-stambolov.com. Smart central option with single, double and triple rooms. Rooms at the back come with stunning views. Doubles 50Lv

EATING AND DRINKING

Clun na Architecta ul. Velcho Dzhamdzhizata 14. Tucked away down a quiet alley and partially hewn into a rock face, this pleasant restaurant serves authentic Bulgarian cuisine and has a garden with lovely views. Daily 11am–midnight.

Melodie Bar pl. Slaveykov 1 📍 barmelodie.eu. Small, dimly lit jazz bar frequented by locals and expats. Daily 11.30am–2am.

Shastlivetsa ul. Stambolov 79. Perennially popular restaurant with fantastic views that offers local dishes, as well as a large range of pizzas and pastas. Main courses 6–30Lv. Daily 9am–midnight.

Stratilat ul. Rakovski 11. Located at the beginning of the Varosh Quarter, this relaxed café and cake shop occupies a restored old building with plenty of outdoor seating. Daily 10am–10pm.

The Black Sea coast

Bulgaria's Black Sea resorts have been popular holiday haunts for more than a century, though it wasn't until the 1960s that the coastline was developed for mass tourism, with Communist party officials from across the former Eastern Bloc descending on the beaches each year for a spot of socialist fun in the sun. Since then, the resorts have mushroomed and grown increasingly sophisticated, with the prototype mega-complexes followed by holiday villages. Fine weather is practically guaranteed, and the selling of the coast has been successful in economic terms, but with the exception of ancient Sozopol and touristy Nesebar, there's little to please the eye. The coast's two main cities – Varna and Burgas – can both be used as a base for getting to less developed spots, such as the cliffs of Kamen Bryag and Sinemorets' superb beaches.

VARNA

VARNA (Варна) is a cosmopolitan place, and nice to stroll through: Baroque, nineteenth-century and contemporary architecture are pleasantly blended with shady promenades and a handsome seaside park. As a settlement it dates back almost five millennia, but it wasn't until seafaring Greeks founded a colony here in 585 BC that the town became a port. The modern city is used by both commercial freighters and the navy, as well as being a popular tourist resort in its own right.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Social life revolves around ploshtad Nezavisimost, where the opera house and theatre provide a backdrop for restaurants and cafés. The square is the starting point of Varna's evening promenade, which flows eastward from here along boulevard Knyaz Boris I and towards boulevard Slivnitsa and the seaside gardens. Beyond the opera house, Varna's main lateral boulevard cuts through ploshtad Mitropolit Simeon to the domed Cathedral of the Assumption. Constructed in 1886, it contains a splendid iconostasis and bishop's throne. The Archeology Museum on the corner of Mariya Luiza and Slivnitsa (daily 10am–5pm; 10Lv; 📍 archaeo.museum.varna.com) houses one of Bulgaria's finest collections of antiquities. Most impressive are the skeletons adorned with Thracian gold jewellery that were unearthed in Varna in 1972 and date back almost six thousand years.

South of the centre on ulitsa Han Krum are the extensive remains of the third-century Roman baths (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; 4Lv). It's still possible to discern the various bathing areas and the once huge exercise hall. At the southern edge of the Sea Gardens, the Navy Museum (summer Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; winter Tues–Sat 9.30am–5.30pm; 5Lv; 📍 museummaritime-bg.com) is worth a trip to see the boat responsible for the Bulgarian Navy's only victory; it sank the Turkish cruiser Hamidie off Cape Kaliakra in 1912.

Beaches

Varna's municipal beach offers a perfunctory stretch of sand but little tranquillity as it's dominated by open-air bars and clubs. The beaches at the busy resorts of Golden Sands and Albena to the north are hardly any quieter, but are certainly wider and much more attractive. Beyond Albena the coastline turns rocky until the villages at Krapets and Durankulak, just short of the Romanian border, which boast some wonderful undeveloped sandy beaches.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Varna's international airport (☎varna-airport.bg) lies 10km northwest of the city. Bus #409 (every 15min 6am–11pm; 1–3Lv) takes 20min to reach the centre where it stops opposite the Tourist Information Centre. Official OK Taxis (☎oktaxivarna.com) can be booked in the terminal (15–20Lv).

By train The train station is a 10min walk south of the centre along ul. Tsar Simeon.

Destinations Plovdiv (10 daily; 6–10hr); Sofia (11 daily; 7hr 30min–10hr).

By bus The bus terminal is a 10min journey (bus #1, #22 or #41) northwest of the centre on bul. Vladislav Varnenchik. Destinations Albena (5 daily; 30min); Burgas (hourly; 2hr 30min); Durankulak (1 daily; 2hr 45min); Golden Sands (every 30min; 20min); Kamen Bryag (3 daily; 2hr 30min); Krapets (1 daily; 2hr 20min); Sofia (every 30min; 6–8hr); Sunny Beach (hourly; 2hr 10min); Veliko Tarnovo (hourly; 3hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist office pl. Sv. Kiril i Metodi opposite the Cathedral of the Assumption (summer daily 9am–7pm; winter Mon–Fri 8.30am–5.30pm; ☎052 820690, ☎varnainfo.bg). The staff sell city maps, reserve hotel rooms and organize excursions.

ACCOMMODATION

Avocado Hostel bul. Maria Luisa 31 ☎0889 130 691. Superb new hostel with spacious air-conditioned dorms that each come with separate bathrooms. Excellent central location and lovely garden. Dorms 14Lv

Hostel Casablanca City ul. Krastio Mirski 1 ☎0887 821 901. Decent central option with reasonably comfortable mixed dorms and doubles. Dorms 14Lv, doubles 50Lv

Interhotel Cherno More bul. Slivnitsa 33 ☎052 612 235, ☎chernomorebg.com. Once the city's flagship Socialist-era hotel, this central, sixteen-floor concrete monolith now offers its modernized rooms at reasonable prices. Fabulous views and a top-floor cocktail bar and restaurant. Doubles 80Lv

X Hostel ul. 16–19, Evksinograd ☎0885 049 084, ☎xhostel.com. While it's a fair distance from the city (8km outside Varna on the road to Golden Sands) this sociable hostel is renowned for its wild parties – definitely not an option for those in search of a peaceful night's sleep. Dorms 18Lv

★Yo Ho Hostel ul. Ruse 23 ☎0887 933 340, ☎yohohostel.com. Centrally located just off pl. Nezavisimost, this fun hostel sprawls over several colourful floors and hosts regular live bands and art exhibitions. Breakfast, wi-fi, computer access and pick-up service are all thrown in. Helpful staff can arrange day-trips and bike rental. Dorms 20Lv, doubles 48Lv

EATING AND DRINKING

There are plenty of bars to choose from along bul. Knyaz Boris I, while in summer the beach, reached by steps from the Sea Gardens, is lined with open-air bars, fish restaurants and a seemingly unending strip of nightclubs. Outside high season, though, it's pretty dismal.

Dom na Arkitekta ul. Musala 10. A traditionally furnished wooden townhouse west of the centre serving authentic Bulgarian dishes and plenty of grilled meat (from 7Lv), with a pleasant courtyard garden. Daily 11am–11pm.

Happy Bar and Grill pl. Nezavisimost. Reliable American-style restaurant with a picture menu offering a mixture of Bulgarian and international food. The kashkaval pane (battered cheese) is particularly good (5Lv). Daily 11am–11pm.

Interhotel Cherno More bul. Slivnitsa 33. Head to the sixteenth-floor cocktail bar for unrivalled views of the city; cocktails will set you back 8–15Lv. Daily 11am–1am.

★Morske Vulk ul. Odrin. Just south of pl. Exarch Yosef, this is one of the friendliest and cheapest restaurants in town, with a vibrant, alternative crowd and brilliant Bulgarian dishes, including vegetarian options such as pizza for around 8Lv. Daily 11am–2am.

Pench's Bar ul. Dragoman 25 ☎penchis.com. This stylish central bar has a mindboggling choice of cocktails (2014 and counting) that earned it the Guinness World Record for the number available in a single bar. Exemplary service and sophisticated atmosphere. Daily noon–2am.

Three Lions Pub pl. Slaveikov 1. Thriving English-themed pub located 100m east of the train station with regular live rock bands, big-screen TVs and good food. Daily 11am–1am.

BURGAS

The south coast's prime urban centre and transport hub, BURGAS (Byprac) provides easy access to the picture-postcard town of Nesebar to the north and Sozopol to the south. Often overlooked by tourists, Burgas' pedestrianized city centre, lined with smart boutiques, bars and cafés, is well worth a visit, though its best features are the delightful Sea Gardens overlooking the beach, and the pier at the eastern end of town.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Burgas International Airport (✈️ bourgas-airport.com) is 15km north of the centre. Take bus #15 from the central bus station (every 30min, 6am–10pm); official Eko Taxis can be booked from within the airport (15–25Lv; 📞 ekotaxiburgas.com).

By train The train station is at the southern edge of town, near the port.

Destinations Plovdiv (7 daily; 5hr); Sofia (6 daily; 8hr).

By bus The bus station is next to the train station.

Destinations Istanbul (3 daily; 7hr); Nesebar (every 30min; 50min); Plovdiv (6 daily; 4hr); Sinemorets (1 daily; 1hr 30min); Sofia (hourly; 6hr); Sozopol (every 30min; 50min); Varna (hourly; 2hr).

Tourist office Beneath bul. Hristo Botev in the underpass opposite the opera house (Mon–Fri 9.30am–5.30pm; 📞 056 841542, 🌐 gotoburgas.com). Provides maps and can make hotel reservations.

ACCOMMODATION

Burgas has a reasonable choice of mid-range hotels but has long suffered from a shortage of budget accommodation.

Chi Hostel ul. Dr Nider 6A 14 📞 0899 908 422. One of only two decent budget options in town, this family-run hostel has a good central location and offers mixed dorms, shared kitchen and small garden. Dorms 16Lv

Fors ul. K. Fotinov 17 📞 056 828 852, 🌐 hotelfors-bg.com. Smart central hotel with good service, and spotless en-suite rooms with wi-fi and a/c. Doubles 80Lv

Fotinov ul. K. Fotinov 22 📞 056 993 031, 🌐 hotel fotinov.com. Pleasant family-run hotel near the Fors. Facilities include fitness equipment, wi-fi, sauna and a/c. Doubles 75Lv

Old House Hostel ul. Sofroniy 2 📞 0879 841 559. Cheap and cheerful place with choice of doubles or four-bed dorms within walking distance of the centre, the beach and the sea gardens. Doubles 40Lv, dorms 16Lv

EATING AND DRINKING

Burgas' pedestrianized central boulevards are crammed with bars, cafés and restaurants that spill out onto the streets in summer. There are several pleasant places to eat in the Sea Gardens and plenty more bars along the beach.

★ Neptun Tsentalni plazh 🌐 neptunburgas.com. Fantastic bar and restaurant right on the beach with plush interior and shaded outdoor seating. Smart waiters provide a good level of service and the menu has a broad choice of local and international dishes – the Black Sea mussels in white wine (7.50Lv) are excellent. To reach it, follow ul. Tsar Simeon to the Sea Gardens then continue straight on to the beach. Daily 9am–midnight.

Rosé ul. Bogoridi 19. Stylish central restaurant serving excellent Mediterranean cuisine that includes chicken fillet with quinoa salad (14Lv). Daily 10am–midnight.

Zheleznyat Svetilnik ul. K. Fotinov 28. Great traditional-style restaurant with shaded outdoor seating serving typical Bulgarian dishes such as moussaka (5Lv) with an emphasis on grilled meat. Excellent wine list. Daily 11am–11.30pm.

NESEBAR

Famed for its delightful medieval churches, nineteenth-century wooden architecture and labyrinthine cobbled streets, NESEBAR's (Несебър) old town, 35km northeast of Burgas, lies on a narrow, man-made isthmus connected by road to the mainland. It was founded by Greek colonists and grew into a thriving port during the Byzantine era; ownership alternated between Bulgaria and Byzantium until the Ottomans captured it in 1453. The town remained an important centre of Greek culture and the seat of a bishop under Turkish rule, which left Nesebar's Byzantine churches reasonably intact. Nowadays the town depends on them for its tourist appeal, which means there's often an overwhelming stream of summer visitors. Outside the hectic summer season, the place seems eerily deserted, with little open other than a few sleepy cafés.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Standing just inside the city gates, the Archeological Museum (summer daily 9am–7pm; winter Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; 6Lv; 🌐 ancient-nessebar.com) has an array of Greek tombstones and medieval icons on display. Immediately beyond the museum is Christ Pantokrator, the first of Nesebar's churches, currently in use as an upmarket art gallery (summer only Mon–Fri 9am–8pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–7pm; 3Lv). It features an unusual frieze of swastikas – an ancient symbol of fertility and continual change. Downhill on ulitsa Mitropolitska is the eleventh-century church of St John the Baptist (now also an art gallery; same hours; 3Lv), only one of whose frescoes still survives. Overhung by half-timbered houses, ulitsa Aheloi branches off from ulitsa Mitropolitska towards the Church of Sveti Spas (summer only daily 10.30am–7pm; 3Lv), outwardly unremarkable but filled with seventeenth-century frescoes.

A few steps to the east lies the ruined Old Metropolitan Church, dominating a plaza filled with pavement cafés and street traders. The church itself dates back to the sixth century, and it was here that bishops officiated during the city's heyday. Standing in splendid isolation beside the shore, the ruined Church of St John Aliturgetos represents the zenith of Byzantine architecture in Bulgaria. Its exterior employs limestone, red bricks, crosses, mussel shells and ceramic plaques for decoration.

Beaches

Visitors can either head for Nesebar's handful of small beaches or hop on a shuttle bus to the unattractive neighbouring resort of Sunny Beach where a great expanse of golden sand studded with thousands of umbrellas stretches for several kilometres along the overdeveloped coastline.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses arrive at either the harbour at the western end of town, or further up Han Krum before turning around to head for the nearby Sunny Beach resort. Bus #1 connects the new and old towns.

Destinations Burgas (every 30min; 50min); Sofia (3 daily; 7hr); Varna (10 daily; 1hr 30min).

Tourist office Located in the centre of the old town at ul. Messemvria 10 (summer daily 10am–6pm; ☎0554 42611, @visitnessebar.org).

ACCOMMODATION

Ianis Paradise ul. Emona 20 ☎0554 45041. Old-town guesthouse offering simply furnished en-suite rooms with glorious sea views. Doubles 90Lv

Lebed ul. Avrora 8a ☎0899 841 872. Located on quiet backstreets at the eastern end of the old town, this popular place offers clean, simple rooms with modern furnishings. Doubles 100Lv

Preslav ul. Preslav 3 ☎0898 420 720. Simple family-run guesthouse in the new town with spotless en-suite rooms at bargain prices. Doubles 40Lv

Sandor ul. Georgi Rakovski 18 ☎0554 43309. Modern concrete hotel in the new town with pleasant rooms and good service. Doubles 65Lv

EATING AND DRINKING

There are plenty of places to eat, although most restaurants are aimed at the passing tourist crowd, serving predictably mediocre food. Snacks are available from summertime kiosks along the waterfront.

Kapitanska Sreshta ul. Mena 22. Atmospheric fish restaurant housed in a nineteenth-century building with a lovely shaded terrace overlooking the old town's harbour. Daily 10am–midnight.

Neptun 1. Neptun 1. Pleasant outdoor spot on the southeastern tip of the old town with great sea views. Serves a reasonably priced selection of Bulgarian standards. Daily 10am–midnight.

Plakamoto ul. Ivan Aleksander 8. Old-town favourite with outdoor seating beneath fig trees and sublime sea views. Daily 10am–midnight.

SOZOPOL

SOZOPOL (Сонопол) is a busy fishing port and holiday resort, especially popular with Eastern European tourists. Its charm owes much to the architecture of the old town, where wooden houses jostle for space on a narrow peninsula, their upper storeys almost meeting across cobbled streets. The oldest settlement in Bulgaria, Sozopol was founded in the seventh century BC by Greek colonists.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The Archeological Museum (summer daily 9am–7pm; winter Mon–Fri 9am–5.30pm; 4Lv) behind the library holds a worthwhile collection of ancient ceramics, as well as a number of artefacts uncovered in the local area. Further into the town, follow the signs to the Southern Fortress Wall and Tower Complex (summer 9am–9pm; open by appointment only in winter; 4Lv; @sozopol-foundation.com), which gives access to a beautifully restored tower and exhibits dating from the fourth century BC.

Sozopol's two small beaches are predictably overcrowded in high season, so it's worth making the short trip north to the emptier beaches around the Zlatna Ribka campsite (see below).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses from Burgas arrive at pl. Han Krum on the southern edge of the old town. Those from other Bulgarian cities usually arrive at and depart from pl. Cherno More in the new town.

Destinations Burgas (every 30min; 50min); Plovdiv (6 daily; 5hr); Sofia (6 daily; 7hr).

Tourist information In the absence of a municipal tourist office, the best source of information is the Aiatour travel agency, located high in the new town at ul. Musala 7 (summer daily 9am–9pm; irregular office hours out of season; ☎ 0550 23925, 🌐 aiatour.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation in Sozopol can be even harder to find during summer than in Nesebar, and most places shut down for the rest of the year. The Aiatour travel agency (see above) can arrange private rooms of varying standards (20–35Lv per person).

Art ul. Kiril I Metodii 72 ☎ 0550 24081, 🌐 arthotel-sbh.com. Smart modern hotel and restaurant perched on a rocky cliff at the northern end of the peninsula. Doubles 80Lv

Rusalka ul. Milet 36 ☎ 0550 23047. On the south of the peninsula, this is the best-value old town hotel with comfortable a/c rooms overlooking the sea. Breakfast not included. Doubles 80Lv

★ Tulen ul. Tulen 7 ☎ 0888 808772. Fabulous old-town guesthouse with immaculate spacious rooms, cheerful decor and hospitable hosts. Excellent value. Doubles 70Lv

Zlatna Ribka 3km north of town on the Burgas bus route ☎ 0550 22534, 🌐 zlatna-ribka.com. Popular seaside campsite with great beach: the closer you are to the shore, the pricier the pitch. Camping/tent 35Lv, camper van 50Lv

EATING AND DRINKING

Art ul. Kiril I Metodii 72. Great old-town restaurant with outdoor tables on the cliff's edge at the northeastern end of the old town. Serves a mid-priced range of Bulgarian and international meals. Daily 10am–midnight.

Art Club Mishel ul. Apollonia 39. Central bar and café in a lovely old town building with plenty of comfy outdoor seating. Live jazz most nights. Daily 11am–1am.

Chuchura ul. Ribarska 10. Situated on the western side of the old town, this is a popular traditional-style restaurant with a particularly good selection of fish dishes (20–30Lv). Daily 11am–midnight.

Vyatarna Melnitsa ul. Morski Skali 27. Similar in style and price to the Chuchura, the “Windmill” has excellent service and perches on the northern tip of the peninsula. Daily 10am–midnight.

VIS ISLAND

Croatia

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Amphitheatre, Pula Visit the sixth-largest amphitheatre in the world. See p.165
- ❷ Zadar Visit this buzzing town and discover its unique Sea Organ. See p.167
- ❸ Diocletian's Palace, Split Be amazed by this extraordinary 1700-year-old palace. See p.169
- ❹ Vis Island Relax on the Dalmatian Coast's most laidback island. See p.175
- ❺ Dubrovnik The ancient walled city is hardly undiscovered but can still work its unique magic. See p.178

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.155

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €55, occasional treat €75

Drink Litre of local wine €6

Food pohane lignje (breaded squid) €5.50

Private room/hostel €42/€25

Travel Ferry: within Dalmatian islands €5–12; bus: Zagreb–Split €25

FACT FILE

Population 4.3 million

Language Croatian (Hrvatski)

Currency Kuna (kn)

Capital Zagreb

International phone code ☎ 385

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

6

The serpentine coastline and sheer natural beauty of Croatia (Hrvatska) make it an irresistible European destination. Its tourist industry is now fully fledged, but the accompanying development has been fairly unobtrusive and there are still plenty of secluded rocky beaches and pristine old towns to explore. As well as a rich cultural heritage, the country offers a wealth of outdoor activities and a rapidly expanding festival scene. Already a hit destination among those in the know, Croatia looks set to grow even further in popularity.

The capital, Zagreb, is a lively central European metropolis, combining elegant nineteenth-century architecture with a vibrant bar and club scene. The peninsula of Istria contains many of the country's most developed resorts, with old Venetian towns like Rovinj rubbing shoulders with the raffish port of Pula. Further south lies Dalmatia, a dramatic, mountain-fringed stretch of coastline studded with islands. Dalmatia's main towns are Italianate Zadar and vibrant Split, an ancient Roman settlement and modern port that provides a jumping-off point to offshore destinations like high-society Hvar, untamed Vis and enchanting Korčula.

South of Split lies the medieval walled city of Dubrovnik, stuffed full of tourists but still a magical place to be.

CHRONOLOGY

- 600s Croatian Slavs settle in the region.
- 925 Tomislav is crowned the first King of Croatia.
- 1102 Inland Croatia accepts the authority of Hungarian kings.
- 1400s Coastal Croatia (independent city-state Dubrovnik excepted) falls under Venetian rule.
- 1526 Habsburg dynasty takes control of inland Croatia after the fall of Hungary to the Ottomans.
- 1918 After the defeat of the Habsburgs in World War I, Croatia joins the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes.
- 1929 The kingdom becomes known as Yugoslavia.
- 1941 Croatian-Slovene communist Josip Broz Tito leads resistance to the Nazis and local quislings.
- 1945 Croatia becomes part of the communist Yugoslav federation.
- 1980 Tito dies without a clear successor, and political paralysis grips the country.

1990 Multi-party elections in Croatia produce a pro-independence majority.

1991 Croatia declares its independence. The Yugoslav army, backed by Serb irregulars, responds with force.

1995 Croatian forces retake areas occupied by Serbs, bringing the war to an end.

1999 Conservative president Franjo Tuđman dies, ushering in a more liberal era in Croatian politics.

2009 Croatia joins the NATO alliance.

2012 Croatian General Ante Gotovina is cleared of all charges on appeal at the International War Crimes Tribunal in the Hague.

2013 Croatia joins the EU on July 1.

2015 Conservative Kolinda Grabar-Kitarović becomes Croatia's first female president.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

The principal international airports are Dubrovnik, Pula, Rijeka, Split, Zadar and Zagreb. Ryanair runs services to Pula, Rijeka and Zadar, while easyJet flies to Pula, Split and Dubrovnik. Wizz Air flies to Split; Jet2 flies to Pula, Split and Dubrovnik; and BA flies to Dubrovnik, Split and Zagreb. The national carrier, Croatia Airlines (@croatiaairlines.com), operates routes throughout Europe, while European Coastal Airlines (@ec-air.eu) runs 20-seater flying boats from Ancona in Italy to Mali Lošinj, Zadar and Split.

Ferry routes to Croatia run frequently from Italy, with services to Split, Hvar and Zadar from Ancona, and Dubrovnik from Bari; passenger-only catamarans serve Poreč, Pula and Rovinj from Venice: see @jadrolinija.hr, @venezialines.com and @snv.it.

Croatia is served by many international buses, including services from Vienna, Belgrade and Sarajevo, most of them run by Eurolines (eurolines.com), who are partnered with AutoTrans (autotrans.hr). Several German cities are connected with Croatia too; see eurolines.de. For services from Trieste check autostazionetrieste.it.

Croatia is also linked with the rest of Europe by rail; see bahn.de for timetables.

GETTING AROUND

Croatia's train service is pretty limited; you're much more likely to use the excellent bus network.

BY BUS

Croatia has an array of local bus companies. Leading ones include

AutoTrans (autotrans.hr); services are well integrated and punctual, and bus stations tend to be well organized. If you're at a big city bus station, tickets (karta) must be bought from ticket windows before boarding. Elsewhere, buy them from the driver. You'll be charged around 7kn for items of baggage to be stored in the hold.

BY TRAIN

Croatian Railways (Hrvatske željeznice; hzpp.hr) runs a smooth and efficient service, but it isn't very extensive. The most useful route is the Zagreb–Split line, which is served by high-speed, tilting trains. Trains (vlak, plural vlakovi) are divided into putnički (slow ones, which stop at every station) and IC (intercity trains that are faster and more expensive). Timetables (vozni red) are usually displayed on boards in stations – odlazak means departure, dolazak arrival. InterRail passes are valid, and you must pay a small reservation fee for longer journeys.

BY FERRY

Jadrolinija (@jadrolinija.hr) operates numerous ferry services linking the main ports (Rijeka, Zadar, Split and Dubrovnik) to nearby islands. Split is the busiest, with both ferries and faster catamarans running to Brač, Hvar, Vis, Korčula and Dubrovnik. Fares are reasonable for short trips: Split to Hvar costs 47kn. Booking in advance is only possible on certain catamaran routes, and note that ferry timetables change around the end of May and end of September.

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms (privatne sobe) and apartments (apartmani) have long been the mainstay of Croatian tourism. Many of these are advertised on international travel sites such as booking.com and airbnb.com. Otherwise bookings can be made through local travel agencies (usually open daily 8am–8/9pm in summer). High-season prices are around €40/310kn for a simple double sharing a toilet and bathroom and €60/450kn upwards for an en-suite double or a studio apartment; rates do not include breakfast unless otherwise stated. Places fill up quickly in July and August and stays of fewer than three nights are usually subject to a surcharge: arrive early or book ahead. Single travellers will find it difficult to get a private room unless they're prepared to pay the price of a double – although outside peak season you can negotiate.

It's likely you'll be offered a place to stay by elderly ladies waiting outside train, bus and ferry stations, particularly in southern Dalmatia. Don't be afraid to take a room offered in this manner, but be sure to establish the location and agree a price before setting off: expect to pay around twenty percent less than you would with an agency. However you find a room, you can examine it before committing to paying for it. Official establishments with rooms should have a blue plaque saying "sobe" or "apartmani" outside – if they don't, they're not legal.

Independent hostels are cropping up more and more in Croatia – especially in the larger towns. The average price for a dorm bed is €24–29/180–220kn, and many also offer doubles and triples as well as dorms. Few of them are HI-affiliated; the Croatian Youth Hostel website (@hfh.hr) has details of those that are. Campsites usually open just for the summer season; see @camping.hr for a list.

FOOD AND DRINK

Croatia has a varied and distinctive range of cuisine, largely because it straddles two culinary cultures: the fish- and seafood-dominated cuisine of the Mediterranean and the hearty meat-oriented fare of Central Europe.

For breakfasts and fast food, look out for bakeries or snack-food outlets selling burek (about 15kn), a flaky pastry filled with cheese; or grilled meats such as čevapčići (rissoles of minced beef, pork or lamb sold in a bun with relish; 37kn for a dozen from street stalls). Bread (kruh) is bought from a pekarna (bakery) or a supermarket.

A restaurant menu (jelovnik) will usually include starters such as pršut (home-cured ham) and paški sir (piquant hard cheese). Typical mains include some kind of odrezak (fillet of meat, often pan-fried), usually either svinjski (pork) or teleški (veal); and fresh fish, invariably grilled in one piece with head and bones intact. Other coastal staples are breaded or grilled squid (lignje), black squid risotto (crni rižot), and mixed fish stew (brudet). Real delicacies to be tried at least once are škampi (unpeeled prawns eaten with your fingers), ostrige (oysters), and jastog (lobster). No town is without at least one pizzeria, serving good stone-baked pizzas (around 40kn). A konoba is a no-frills, often family-run restaurant, usually serving local dishes at low prices.

Typical desserts include palačinke (pancakes) and sladoled (ice cream).

DRINK

Croatia is laden with relaxing cafés (kavana) for daytime drinking. Coffee (kava) is usually served black unless specified otherwise – ask for mlijeko (milk) or slag (cream). Tea (čaj) is less available and drunk without milk.

Mainstream Croatian beer (pivo) is of the light lager variety; the superbly crafted pale ales and porters produced by Medvedgrad, Zmajška pivovara, San Servolo, Garden Brewery and Lab Pivo are definitely preferable if you can find them. The local wine (vino) is consistently good and reasonably cheap: in Dalmatia there are some pleasant, crisp whites such as Pošip and Bogdanjuša, as well as reds derived from the ubiquitous local Plavac grape. Ruling the roost in Istria are Malvazija, a palatable white, and Teran, a light fresh red. Local spirits (rakija) include medica, a honey-based, slow-burning nectar; travarica, a grape brandy infused with herbs; and Pelinkovac, a bitter spirit similar to Jägermeister.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

With an almost ninety percent Roman Catholic population, religious holidays in Croatia are celebrated with gusto. A fun-loving people generally, especially among the younger generation, Croatians are welcoming and will happily engage you in conversations about food, wine and politics over a beer or two.

A service charge is not usually added to restaurant bills and it is the norm to leave a tip at your discretion (ten percent is quite acceptable).

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

The Dalmatian coast is great for watersports, including sea kayaking, windsurfing, kite-surfing, wake-boarding and some less hardcore pursuits, such as banana-boating and renting a motorboat.

CROATIA ONLINE

- 🌐 croatia.hr Official tourist board site.
- 🌐 istra.hr One of the better official regional sites.
- 🌐 timeout.com/Croatia. Good for events and festival information.
- 🌐 straysatellite.com, 🌐 travelhonestly.com, 🌐 chasingthedonkey.com and 🌐 zablogreb.blogspot.com are the most engaging of the blogs.

Brač, Hvar and Vis have plenty of well-marked cycling and hiking trails.

Football remains the nation's favourite diversion. Croatia's national team has consistently proved to be one of the most successful in the whole of Central-Eastern Europe, regularly qualifying for major tournaments – an awesome achievement given Croatia's population of 4.3 million.

COMMUNICATIONS

Discernible by their bright yellow signs, post offices (pošta or HPT) are open Monday to Friday 7am to 7pm, Saturday 8am to 2pm. In big towns and resorts, some open daily and until 10pm. Stamps (marke) can also be bought at newsstands, and letterboxes are painted the same yellow as post office signs.

EU citizens can use their own mobile phones in Croatia free of any roaming costs as of June 2017. Most towns have internet cafés (expect to pay around 25kn/hr), and most apartments, hostels and cafés offer free wi-fi now too.

CRIME AND SAFETY

The crime rate is low by European standards and police (policija) are generally helpful when dealing with tourists. They often make routine checks on identity cards and other documents, so always carry your passport. In an emergency, call 📞 112.

HEALTH

EU citizens in possession of a European Health Insurance Card (EHIC) are

CROATIAN

Yes
No
Please
Thank you
Hello/Good day
Goodbye
Excuse me
Sorry
Today
Good
Bad
How much is...?
What time is it?
I don't understand
Do you speak English?
Where is...?
Where are...?
Entrance
Exit
Tourist office
Toilet
Private rooms
I'd like to book...
Cheap
Expensive
Open
Closed
One
Two Three Four Five
Six
Seven
Eight
Nine
Ten

CROATIAN

Da
Ne
Molim
Hvala
Bog/Dobar dan
Bog/Doviđenja
Izvinite
Oprostite
Danas
Dobro
Loše
Koliko stoji...?
Koliko je sati?
Ne razumijem
Govorite li engleski?
Gdje je...?
Gdje su...?
Ulaz
Izlaz
Turistički Ured
Zahod
Sobe
Ja bih rezervirala...
Jeftino
Skupo
Otvoreno
Zatvoreno
Jedan
Dva
Tri Četiri
Pet
Šest
Sedam
Osam
Devet
Deset

PRONUNCIATION

Dah
Neh
Mo-leem
Hvahlah
Dobahr dan
Doh veedehnyah
Izvineet
Auprausteete
Danass
Dobroh
Losheh
Koleekoh sto-yee...?
Koleekoh yeh satee?
Neh rahzoomeeyehm
Govoreeteh lee ehngleskee?
Gdyeh ye...?
Gdyeh soo...?
Oolaz
Eezlaz
Tooristichkee oored
Zah-haud
Saubey
Ya bee reserveerahla...
Yeftinoh
Skoopoh
Otvoreenoh
Zatvorenoh
Yehdan
Dvah
Tree
Cheteeree
Pet
Shest
Sedam
Osam
Devet
Deset

entitled to free emergency care in Croatia but are still required to pay a fee to cover the cost of materials and medicines. Travel insurance is therefore highly recommended. Pharmacies (lijekarna) tend to follow normal shopping hours (see opposite) and a rota system covers nights and weekends; details are posted in the window of each pharmacy.

INFORMATION

Most towns of any size have a tourist office (turistička informacija), which will give out brochures and local maps. Few offices book private rooms, but they will direct you to an agency that does.

MONEY AND BANKS

The local currency is the kuna (kn), which is divided into 100 lipa. There are coins of 1, 2, 5, 10, 20 and 50 lipa, and 1kn, 2kn and 5kn; and notes of 5kn, 10kn, 20kn, 50kn, 100kn, 200kn, 500kn and 1000kn. Accommodation and ferry prices are often quoted in euros, but you still pay in kuna. Banks (banka) are open Monday to Friday 9am to 5pm (sometimes longer in summer), Saturday 8am to 1pm. Money can also be changed in post offices, travel agencies and exchange bureaux (mjenjačnica). Credit cards are accepted in a large number of hotels and restaurants. At the time of writing £1 = 9.5kn, €1 = 7.5kn and US$1 = 6.6kn. It's relatively hard to get rid of kuna once you've left Croatia (though exchange offices in neighbouring countries often accept it); spend up or exchange before leaving.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Most shops open Monday to Friday 8am to 8pm and Saturday 8am to 3pm, although many supermarkets, outdoor markets and the like are open daily 7am to 7pm. Many newsgagents, supermarkets and shopping malls open on Sundays. Most museums and galleries are closed on Mondays. Shops, banks and museums are closed on the following public holidays: January 1, January 6, Easter Monday, May 1, Corpus Christi, June 22, June 25, August 5, August 15, October 8, November 1 and December 25 & 26.

Zagreb

Croatian capital ZAGREB is very much Central Europe's surprise package, a city that challenges preconceptions and combines the gritty urban culture of northern Europe with the laidback vibe of the Mediterranean south. It has long been a quirky and creative place with a thriving alternative music scene, edgy fashions, creative clubbing and addictively eccentric bars, though Adriatic-bound travellers paid it little attention until recently. Zagreb is currently enjoying something of a moment, with a rapid increase in the number of goods that make a city really purr – more good places to eat, more good places to drink, and a festival-driven sense that things are happening in the arts.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Central Zagreb falls neatly into three parts. Donji Grad, or Lower Town, which extends north from the train station to the main square, Trg bana Jelačića, is the bustling centre of the modern city. Uphill from here, to the northeast and the northwest, are the older quarters of Kaptol (the Cathedral Quarter) and Gradec (the Upper Town), both peaceful districts of ancient mansions and quiet squares.

Trg bana Jelačića and Ilica

Flanked by cafés, hotels and department stores, Trg bana Jelačića is Zagreb's main square, hectic with trams and hurrying pedestrians; the statue in the centre is of the nineteenth-century governor of Croatia, Josip Jelačić.

Running west from the square, below Gradec hill, is Ilica, the city's main shopping street. A little way along it and off to the right, you can take a funicular (daily every 10min, 6.30am–10pm; 4kn one-way) up to the Kula Lotrščak (see p.161).

Zagreb 360°

Take the lift to the top floor of this 1950s-era skyscraper, on the southwestern corner of Trg bana Jelačića, to reach Zagreb 360° (also known as Zagreb Eye; daily 10am–11.45pm; 20kn; ☎zagreb360.hr), a combined café and viewing deck that provides sweeping views of the city. It's from here that Zagreb reveals itself as a pretty, red-roofed Central-European city – something you don't always appreciate when mooching along at pavement level.

Preradovićev Trg and Trg maršala Tita

Head south of Ilica via Preradovićev Trg, a small, café-filled square where there's a flower market, and you will reach Trg maršala Tita. This grandiose open space is centred on the late nineteenth-century National Theatre, in front of which stands The Well of Life, a fountain by Croatia's greatest twentieth-century sculptor, Ivan Meštrović.

The Museum of Arts and Crafts

The beautiful Museum of Arts and Crafts, just west of the National Theatre

(Tues–Sat 11am–8pm, Sun 10am–2pm; 30kn), holds an impressive collection of furniture and textiles dating from the Renaissance to the present day.

Mimara Museum

The Mimara Museum at Rooseveltov Trg 5 (Tues–Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 10am–2pm; 40kn) houses one of Zagreb's most prized art collections, a treasure-trove belonging to Zagreb-born Ante Topić Mimara. Highlights include Chinese art from the Shang through to the Song dynasty, as well as a fine collection of European paintings, although some of the attributions (can Zagreb really boast a Rembrandt or a Rubens?) have been questioned by experts.

The Art Pavilion and Archeological Museum

Tomislavov Trg, opposite the train station, is the first in a series of three shaded, green squares that form the backbone of the lower town. Its main attraction is the Art Pavilion (Tues–Thurs, Sat & Sun 11am–8pm, Fri 11am–9pm; 40kn), built in 1898 and now hosting art exhibitions in its gilded stucco and mock-marble interior. On the western edge of the most northerly square – tree-lined Trg Nikole Zrinskog (or Zrinjevac) – stands the Archeological Museum (Tues, Wed, Fri & Sat 10am–5pm, Thurs 10am–8pm, Sun 10am–1pm; 20kn), which houses a compelling collection of artefacts from prehistoric times to the Middle Ages.

Kaptol and the cathedral

The filigree spires of Zagreb's cathedral (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm) tower over the small district known as Kaptol, ringed by the ivy-cloaked turrets of the eighteenth-century Archbishop's Palace. Destroyed by an earthquake in 1880, the cathedral was rebuilt in neo-Gothic style, with a high, bare interior. Behind the altar lies a shrine to Archbishop Stepinac, head of the Croat church in the 1940s, imprisoned by the Communists after World War II, and beatified by the pope in 1998.

Tkalčićeva

On the western side of the Dolac market (see p.164), Tkalčićeva spears north along the path of the dried-up river that used to divide Kaptol and Gradec. Nowadays this is the city's prime people-watching spot – grab a seat at one of the many alfresco bars and cafés for the evening korzo (promenade) when well-heeled locals and their pooches strut their stuff.

Tortureum

Narrow alleys lead from Tkalčićeva to cobbled Radićeva, where the Tortureum or Museum of Torture at no. 14 (daily noon–8pm; 40kn; @tortureum.com) presents replicas of medieval torture instruments in an atmospherically lit, almost claustrophobically dark space that is more art installation than museum.

Gradec

The most ancient and atmospheric part of Zagreb, Gradec is a leafy, tranquil quarter of tiny streets, small squares and Baroque palaces. Gradec's main focus is Markov Trg, site of the Croatian Sabor or parliament. At its centre is the squat Church of St Mark, whose striking tiled roof displays the colourful coats of arms of the constituent parts of Croatia.

Gradec is entered from the upper end of Radićeva, via Kamenita Vrata, a tunnel-like gate with a small shrine holding a much-revered statue of Virgin and Child. Close by, the Kula Lotrščak (Burglars' Tower; Mon–Sat 9am–9pm, Sun 10am–9pm; 20kn) marks the top station of the funicular (see p.159) and provides fantastic views over the rest of the city and the plains beyond; a small cannon has been fired from the tower every day at noon since 1877.

Museum of Illusions

West of the lower station of the Gradec funicular at Ilica 72, the Museum of Illusions (daily 9am–10pm; 40kn; @muzejiluzija.com) fills two floors of a former residential building with visual tricks and mind games. Escheresque pictures, sloping floors and wonky walls ensure that this is good fun for adults and kids alike.

Museum of Contemporary Art

Arguably Zagreb's most stylish attraction, the Museum of Contemporary Art at Avenija Dubrovnik 17 (Tues–Fri & Sun 11am–6pm, Sat 11am–8pm; 30kn; @www.msu.hr; tram #14 to Siget stop) occupies a swish modern building in high-rise suburbs south of the river. The museum showcases both Croatian and international art: works by local iconoclasts Goran Trbuljak, Sanja Iveković and Mladen Stilinović reinforce Croatia's reputation for art that's witty, ironic and understated. You can also take a ride on Carsten Holler's toboggan tubes.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Zagreb airport is 10km southeast of the city; buses run to the main bus station (every 30min–1hr, 7am–8pm; 30kn).

By train Zagreb's central train station (glavni kolodori) is on Tomislavov Trg, on the southern edge of the city centre, a 10min walk from Trg bana Jelačića.

HEARTBREAK HOUSE: ZAGREB'S MUSEUM OF BROKEN RELATIONSHIPS

For a voyage into the more tumescent recesses of the human psyche there are few better starting points than Zagreb's Museum of Broken Relationships at Ćirilometodska 2 (daily 9am–9pm; 25kn; @brokenrelationships.com), which began life as a travelling art installation. Based on mementoes donated by the public, it's a compelling and unique museum of wistful memory and raw emotion, with exhibits ranging from garden gnomes to prosthetic limbs. Each is accompanied by a text explaining its significance to the donor – some are touching, others quite kinky; and quite a few belong to the obsessive world of a David Lynch movie.

PLITVICE LAKES

Midway between Zagreb and the Dalmatian coast, the Plitvice Lakes National Park (daily: April, May, Sept & Oct 8am–6pm; June–Aug 7am–8pm; Nov–March 9am–4pm; July & Aug 180kn, April–June, Sept & Oct 110kn, rest of year 55kn; 📞np-plitvicka-jezera.hr) is the country's biggest single natural attraction. The 8km string of sixteen lakes, hemmed in by densely forested hills, presents some of the most eye-catching scenery in mainland Croatia, with water rushing from lake to lake via a sequence of falls and rapids. Wooden walkways traverse the foaming waters, allowing a close-up view of the scenery. Most backpacker hostels in Zagreb, Zadar and Split offer day-trips to the lakes (around 200kn, not including entrance to the park itself), or try Wanderer Travel, Trpimirova 25 (📞091 222 2299, 🌐wanderertravel.eu), a reputable agent. Independent travellers can get to the lakes by public bus – at least three daily Zagreb–Zadar and three Zagreb–Split services pass the park entrance.

Destinations Belgrade (2 daily; 6hr 40min); Budapest (2 daily; 6hr 30min); Ljubljana (6 daily; 2hr 20min); Munich (2 daily; 8hr 45min); Salzburg (2 daily; 7hr); Sarajevo (1 daily; 9hr); Split (2 daily, one of which is overnight; 5hr 30min–8hr); Vienna (1 daily; 6hr 30min).

By bus The main bus station (autobusni kolodvor) is a 10min walk east of the train station, at the junction of Branimirova and Držićeva – trams #2 and #6 run between the two stations, with #6 continuing to the main square.

Destinations Belgrade (5 daily; 6hr); Dubrovnik (8 daily; 9–11hr); Ljubljana (6 daily; 3hr); Munich (2 daily; 9hr 30min–11hr); Pula (hourly; 4hr–6hr 30min); Rijeka (hourly; 2hr 30min–3hr); Rovinj (6 daily; 4hr 30min–6hr); Sarajevo (4 daily; 7–8hr); Split (every 30min; 4hr 45min–8hr 30min); Trieste (5 daily; 4hr); Vienna (2 daily; 6hr); Zadar (hourly; 3–5hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Trg bana Jelačića 11 (June–Sept Mon–Fri 8.30am–9pm, Sat & Sun 9am–6pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 8.30am–8pm, Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 10am–2pm; 📞01 48 14 051, 🌐zagreb-touristinfo.hr). Also at the main railway station (Mon–Fri 9am–9pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm); main bus station (Mon–Fri 9am–9pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm); and airport (Mon–Fri 9am–9pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm).

Discount cards The tourist office sells the Zagreb Card (72hr/90kn), which offers unlimited city transport and good discounts in museums and restaurants – perfect if you plan to do lots.

GETTING AROUND

By tram The easiest way to get about, with sixteen routes. Lines #2 and #6 run between the bus and train stations, #6 taking you into Jelačića, the main crossing point in the city. There's also a four-line network of night services.

By bus The bus network serves the capital's peripheries, setting off from the suburban side of the train station.

Tickets Tram and bus tickets (karte), valid for 1hr 30min if travelling in one direction, are sold at kiosks (10kn) or from the driver (12kn); day-tickets (dnevne karte) cost 30kn. Validate your ticket by punching it in the machines on board.

By taxi There are ranks at the station and the northeast corner of Trg bana Jelačića. The standard rate is 19kn plus 7kn/km, which goes up by twenty percent early in the morning and late at night, on Sun and holidays. Luggage costs 5kn/item. To book, call Cammeo (📞060 7100) or Ekotaxi (📞1414).

ACCOMMODATION

★ 4City Windows Palmotićeva 13 📞01 889 7999, 🌐4citywindows.com. A cute B&B in a beautifully converted downtown flat with small and imaginatively themed rooms. There's a bright, mood-enhancing kitchen packed with Pop Art, and breakfast is included. Doubles 580kn

★ Hobo Bear Hostel Medulićeva 4 📞01 48 46 636, 🌐hobobearhostel.com; tram #6 from the bus or train station to Frankopanska. Stylish hostel in a great location near Ilica. There's a funky wine-cellar-like common room and a well-appointed kitchen. Dorms 112kn, doubles 350kn

Shappy Hostel Varšavska 8 📞01 48 30 483, 🌐shappy.com. Bright, homely dorms and en-suite doubles, tucked in beside the Cvijetni shopping centre and with a lively downstairs café. An ideal base from which to explore the city. Dorms 130kn, doubles 360kn

Studio Kairos Vlaška 92 📞01 46 40 680, 🌐studio-kairos.com; trams #4, #7, #11 and #12 to the Petrova stop. Located a 15min walk east of the main square, this cute and welcoming B&B consists of four small but neat rooms with smart en-suite bathrooms, flat-screen TVs and a/c. Most of the rooms are officially twins, but the slide-out, expandable beds will sleep three at a pinch. Doubles 530kn

★ Swanky Mint Ilica 50 📞01 400 4248, 🌐swanky-hostel.com. Beautifully restored textile factory right behind Zagreb's main shopping street, offering quirky post-industrial decor, a large kitchen and a good social buzz. Breakfast can be bought at the hostel café, which boasts a retro interior and a wonderful back-yard terrace.

Dorms 120kn, doubles 490kn

Taban Tkalčićeva 82 ☎01 55 33 527, 📧buzzbackpackers.com. At the top of the Tkalčićeva café-bar strip and with a well-stocked ground-floor bar of its own, Taban offers smartly furnished dorms with cubicle-like bunk beds, plus neat private doubles with TV. Dorms 150kn, doubles 500kn

ZigZag Petrinjska 9 ☎01 889 5433, 📧zigzag.hr. ZigZag have a selection of apartments around the city centre with the main reception area at the Petrinjska address. Apartments are all neat affairs with kitchenettes and cable TV. As something of a ZigZag trademark, each apartment features a blackboard with the staff's latest going-out tips written on it. Two-person apartments 850kn

EATING

Zagreb has plenty of cafés and bars with outdoor seating in the pedestrian area around Gajeva and Bogovičeva, and along trendy Tkalčićeva. For picnic food, head to Dolac market (see p.164).

CAFÉS

★Cookie Factory Tkalčićeva 21. "Life is uncertain: eat dessert first" is the motto of the Cookie Factory café, purveyor of some of the most addictive chocolate brownies in Central Europe. You can also fill up on cakes, ice cream and, of course, the eponymous cookies. Mon–Thurs & Sun 9am–10pm, Fri & Sat 9am–11pm.

Kava Tava Tkalčićeva 12. Filled with old radios and an odd jumble of furniture, Kava Tava is one of Zagreb's prime breakfasting spots, thanks to its fried-egg feasts, pancakes, good coffee and fresh juices. Daily 7am–midnight.

RESTAURANTS

Bistroteka Teslina 14. One of the leading lights of Zagreb's burgeoning bistro scene, Bistroteka chalks up a daily menu of sandwiches, pasta dishes, salads and main meals based on what seasonal products are currently stirring the chef's creative juices. Mains 65–120kn. Daily 8.30am–midnight.

Burgeraj Preradovićeva 13. "Burger Heaven" is a rough translation of the play-on-words title of this retro-styled diner celebrating the cult of the minced beef patty. The menu is limited to about 4 or 5 burgers (35–49kn) but they are all well thought-out, with Burgeraj's own-recipe sauces and relishes proving the key ingredient. Daily 11am–11pm.

★Lari & Penati Petrinjska 42a. A small but perfectly formed deli-cum-restaurant with amazingly cheap and classy Mediterranean-meets-oriental dishes in the 40–60kn bracket. All served to a soundtrack of smooth jazz. Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat 11am–5pm.

Ništa Masarykova 11. Vegetarian and vegan restaurant with an inventive, regularly changing menu which proves that meat-free cuisine can still spring a few surprises. Good-value soup of the day and a salad bar ensure that there are plenty of options here for light lunchers. Mains 60–70kn. Tues–Sun noon–11pm.

Nokturno Skalinska 4. On a cobbled street off Tkalčićeva, Nokturno has pleasant outdoor seating and tasty pizzas (50kn), meat and fish dishes (40–75n), and salads (25kn). Daily 9am–midnight.

Ribice i tri točice Preradovićeva 7/1. A great place to sample Adriatic cuisine without having your wallet emptied afterwards, with traditional Dalmatian dishes (grilled squid, fried anchovies, fillets of hake) served at village-tavern prices (50–60kn for a main). Daily 9am–midnight.

Zrno Bio Bistro Meduličeva 20. Hidden away in a residential courtyard, Zrno is one of the key addresses in town for quality vegetarian and vegan food, with a broad-based menu of pasta and wok dishes and a popular daily set macrobiotic lunch. Mains 60–70kn. Mon–Sat noon–9.30pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Pick up the free monthly Events and Performances pamphlet from the tourist office.

BARs

Craft Room Opatovina 35. Something of a temple to Croatia's emerging craft beer scene, this arty but cosy café-pub serves pretty much every decent ale in the country, with gourmet burgers providing the belly-lining accompaniment. Daily 10am–2am.

Kino Europa Varšavska 3. A lovely old interwar cinema that screens art movies, the Europa's café serves as a key meeting point for the city's art-and-culture tribes. There's a good choice of rakijas (12kn), and retro discos in the foyer at weekends. Mon–Thurs 8am–11pm, Fri & Sat 8am–2am, Sun noon–10pm.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Takenoko Masarykova 22 ☎01 646 3385, 📧takenoko.hr. For quality Asian food in design-conscious interiors, moodily minimalist Takenoko does the trick. Most people come for the excellent sushi, although the menu also sweeps in steaks, teriyaki chicken, a broad range of wok-fried dishes and – fusion fans take note – wasabi-garnished lamb chops and Adriatic fish dressed with Asian spices. Mains around 150kn. Mon–Sat noon–11.30pm, Sun noon–5pm.

ZAGREB FESTIVALS

Zagreb has an impressive array of annual festivals and events including INmusic (late June; inmusicfestival.com), a three-day rock-and-pop festival on the shores of Lake Jarun. The 2016 line-up included Florence & the Machine, PJ Harvey and Wilco. Check with tourist information for details of other events.

Klub Kino Gric Jurišićeva 6. Boasts both a private arthouse cinema and a small chilled-out bar with stripy walls. Enjoy a White Russian (30kn) in one of its stylish red director's chairs. Daily 7.30am–11.30pm.

Krivi put Savska 25. Near the Zagreb university students' union, this unassuming hut sucks in a huge cross section of young, boisterous and edgily alternative types, with a smoke-saturated inner sanctuary and a vast wooden-bench yard with space for hundreds. Bottled Velebitsko beer (15kn) is the standard order. Daily 8am–1am.

La Bodega Wine & Tapas Bar Bogovičeva 5. One of the busiest outdoor terraces on the pedestrianized Bogovičeva strip belongs to La Bodega, a buzzing little place that serves good-quality but not too pricey wine and cocktails to draw in a predominantly young and stylish crowd. Wed–Sat 8am–2am, Sun–Tues 8am–midnight.

★ Mali Medo Tkalčičeva 36 pivnica-medvedgrad.hr. Down a pint or two of the ruby-red lager Griška Vještica ("Witch of Grič") at this pub-restaurant run by the local Medvedgrad brewery. The pub itself is pretty small but the wooden-bench outdoor terrace spreads over a significant stretch of the Tkalčičeva drinking strip. Mon–Wed 10am–midnight, Thurs–Sat 10am–1am, Sun noon–midnight.

Velvet Dežmanova 9 velvet.hr. Subdued lighting, antique furnishings, plush armchairs and sofas contribute a palpable sense of theatre at this one-off café-bar on the increasingly hip Dežmanova street. With good coffee, hot chocolate and decent pots of tea, this makes an ideal

SUMMER IN THE CITY

A lot of Zagreb's clubs and live music venues close down for the summer, when most of the city's hip young things relocate to the Adriatic coast. Keeping life ticking over is the Strossmarte (Ljetona Strosu) season of open-air concerts and events in Zagreb's Upper Town, with nightly happenings all summer long. It runs from May to early Sept: full schedule on ljetonastrosu.com.

place for a lengthy break. Mon–Sat 8am–10pm, Sun 9am–2pm.

CLUBS

Aquarius Aleja Mira bb aquarius.hr; tram #17 from Trg bana Jelačića to Horvati. At the eastern end of Lake Jarun, 6km southwest of the centre, this club specializes in techno and drum'n'bass. International headline acts play here too (tickets from 190kn). Cover charge for club nights 30–40kn. Thurs–Sun 10pm–6am.

Katran Radnička 27. This post-industrial factory space is home to several ad-hoc clubs. Shock Show Industry (facebook.com/ShockShowIndustry) and Super Super are two club nights currently occupying the former factory halls at weekends, but you should check with a local before setting out. Fri & Sat 11pm–6am.

Pepermint Klub Ilica 24. Look for the long queue of fashionistas on Ilica to find this fresh and trendy club, which plays a mix of music from funk to soul. Daily 10am–4am.

SHOPPING AND MARKETS

The principal area for shopping is along Ilica, off Trg bana Jelačića, which has several independent stores as well as familiar high-street names, punctuated by handsome coffee shops and a few tempting bakeries.

Britanski Trg market Britanski Trg. This bric-a-brac market is a magpie's dream – jewellery, traditional Croatian embroidery, farming implements, binoculars – you name it, it's there. Sun till 2pm.

Dolac market Dolac. Occupying a large terrace overlooking Trg bana Jelačića, Dolac is the city's principal market selling a feast of fruit and vegetables. It's at its liveliest on Thursdays and Fridays, when fresh Adriatic fish brings extra colour to the seafood pavilion. Daily 6.30am–3pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies Australia, Nova Ves 11 01 48 91 200; Canada, Prilaz Gjüre Deželića 4 01 48 81 200; UK, Ivana Lučića 4 01 60 09 100; US, Thomasa Jeffersona 2 01 66 12 200.

Exchange In the post office on Branimirova or at any bank. Privredna bank at Ilica 5 changes travellers' cheques.

Hospital For emergencies visit KBC Rebro, Kišpatičeva 6 01 238 8888.

Internet Wi-fi is widespread. Best of the central internet cafés is Sublink, Teslina 12 (Mon–Sat 9am–10pm, Sun 3–10pm, 20kn/hr; 01 48 19 993, sublink.hr).

Left luggage At the train (24hr; 15kn/hr) and bus stations (daily 6am–10pm; 5kn/hr).

Pharmacies 24hr pharmacy at Radičeva 3.

Post offices Branimirova 4 (24hr); Jurišićeva 13 (Mon–Fri 7am–9pm, Sat 7.30am–2pm).

Istria

A large peninsula jutting into the northern Adriatic, Istria is Croatian tourism at its most developed. Many of the towns here were resorts in the nineteenth century and still attract an annual influx of sun-seekers. Yet the growth of tourism has done little to detract from the essential charm and beauty of the region. Istria's largest centre is the port city of Pula, which, with its Roman amphitheatre and other relics of Roman occupation, is a rewarding place to spend a couple of days. On the western side of the peninsula, the town of Rovinj, with its cobbled piazzas and shuttered houses, is the very image of Mediterranean chic.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus and train The port city of Rijeka is the main travel hub for Istria, with regular buses to Zagreb, Pula, Rovinj, Zadar, Split and Dubrovnik. Rijeka's train station is 500m west of the centre at Krešimirova 5. The bus station is on the western fringe of the centre on Trg Žabica.

PULA

Once the chief port of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, PULA is an engaging combination of working port, naval base and vibrant riviera town. The Romans put the city squarely on the map when they arrived in 177 BC, transforming it into an important commercial centre.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The chief reminder of Pula's Roman heritage is its impressive amphitheatre; south of here, the town centre circles a pyramidal hill, scaled by secluded streets, dotted with Roman relics and topped with a star-shaped Venetian fortress.

The amphitheatre

The first-century BC Roman amphitheatre (daily: April 8am–8pm; May, June & Sept 8am–9pm; July & Aug 8am–midnight; Oct–March 9am–5pm; 40kn) is the sixth largest in the world, and once had space for over 23,000 spectators. The outer shell is fairly complete, as is one of the towers, up which a slightly hair-raising climb gives a good sense of the enormity of the structure and a view of Pula's industrious harbour. The amphitheatre hosts the annual Pula Film Festival (pulafilmfestival.hr) at the end of July, as well as concerts throughout the summer.

The Archeological Museum

A short way south of the amphitheatre is Pula's Archeological Museum (Jan–April & Oct–Dec Mon–Fri 9am–2pm; May–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–8pm, Sun 10am–3pm; 20kn), where pillars and toga-clad statues mingle with ceramics, jewellery and trinkets from all over Istria, some of them prehistoric.

Zerostrasse

With its entrance beside the Archeological Museum, Zerostrasse, or "Zero Street", (mid-June to mid-Sept daily 10am–10pm; 15kn) was one of several pre-World War I tunnels built by the Austrian military to enable safe transport of men and armaments in the event of enemy bombardment. Featuring a central subterranean hall that could accommodate 6000 men, Zerostrasse is an atmospheric place that anyone with an interest in history – or indeed tunnels – will enjoy.

The Triumphal Arch and the Temple of Augustus

Central Pula's main street, Giardini, runs south to the first-century BC Triumphal Arch of the Sergians, through which the pedestrianized Via Sergia leads to the town's ancient Roman Forum, now the square at the centre of Pula's old quarter. On the far side of here, the slim but impressive Temple of Augustus was built between 2 BC and 14 AD to celebrate the cult of the emperor; its imposing Corinthian columns, still intact, make it one of the best examples of a Roman temple outside Italy.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Pula's airport is 6km northeast of the city. The bus ride to the centre costs 35kn; taxis are around 180kn.

By bus The bus station is 10min northeast of the centre, along Istarska Divizije.

Destinations Dubrovnik (1 daily; 15hr); Rijeka (roughly hourly; 1hr 30min–2hr 30min); Rovinj (roughly hourly; 45min); Split (2 daily; 12hr); Trieste (2 daily; 2hr 45min–3hr 45min); Venice (Mon–Sat 1 daily; 5hr); Zadar (3 daily; 7hr); Zagreb (hourly; 3hr 30min–5hr).

By ferry Pula's small passenger port is just east of the amphitheatre. Tickets can be booked through Libertas at Riva 14 (☎ 052 211 631).

Destinations Zadar (mid-July to Aug 4 weekly; 4hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information In the Forum (June–Sept daily 8am–10pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–4pm; ☎ 052 212 987, ☉ pulainfo.hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Book through Brioni Tours in the bus station (Mon–Fri 8am–4pm, Sat 8am–1pm; ☎ 052 544 219, ☉ brioni.hr). Doubles from 250kn

Hostel Pipištrelo Flaciuseva 6 ☎ 052 393 568. An imaginatively designed hostel decked out in bold greens, yellows and salmon-pinks, with Pop Art adorning the walls of several rooms. There's a small kitchen on the ground floor and a social area next to the reception. Dorms 135kn, doubles 420kn

Pula Art Hostel Marulićeva 41 ☎ 098 874 078, ☉ pulaarthostel.com; bus #2a or #3 to Verudela from the bus station. Sociable hostel near central Pula (look out for the distinctive green building) with lots of creative touches, including a mosaic staircase. Free wi-fi and internet. Dorms 150kn

Stoja 3km southeast of town ☎ 052 387 144, ☉ arenacamps.com; bus #1 from Giardini. Simple campsites on a wooded peninsula with beautiful rocky beaches. Minimum two nights in summer. Per person 55kn, plus per tent 60kn

EATING AND DRINKING

Bistro Dva Ferala Kandlerova 32. Dva Ferala attracts a lively local crowd to its street-side seating for cheap Croatian cuisine, including čevapčići, and pork and chips (both 45kn). Mon–Sat 8am–11pm.

Jupiter Castropola 42. Perched on a hill near the fortress, this is a popular pizzeria with pretty Art Deco glass panels and a terrace. Sizeable pizzas from 40kn. Mon–Fri 10am–midnight, Sat noon–midnight, Sun 1pm–midnight.

Market Narodni Trg. Offers plenty of fresh fruit and veg and has a wealth of local deli products in the cast-iron Art Nouveau pavilion at its centre. Daily 7am–2pm.

Pietas Julia Riva 20. Grab a sofa and an apple martini (36kn) at this fun lounge bar in a pavilion west of the amphitheatre. Free wi-fi. Daily 10am–4am.

Rock Cafe Scalierova 8 ☉ myspace.com/rockcafeepula. A spacious place with a stage for live music, alcoves decorated with rock-star murals and a lot of fancy wood carving adorning the main bar and the wall panelling. Daily 8am–2am.

Uljanik Dobrilina 2. Counter-cultural club of many years' standing with a huge beer garden, DJ nights at weekends and live music in the summer. Cover charge varies – often free entry during the summer. Thurs–Sat 9pm–late.

ROVINJ

Once an island, charming ROVINJ lies 40km north of Pula. Refreshingly free of traffic, its hotchpotch of cobbled streets, terracotta roofs and shuttered windows teeters over the clear sea, and the harbour is an attractive mix of fishing boats and swanky yachts.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

From the main square, Trg maršala Tita, the Baroque Vrata svetog Križa leads up to Grisia Ulica, lined with galleries selling local art. It climbs steeply through the heart of the Old Town to St Euphemia's Church (daily: April–June 10am–1pm; July–Sept 10am–6pm), dominating Rovinj from the top of its peninsula. This eighteenth-century Baroque church has the sixth-century sarcophagus of the saint inside, and you can climb its 58m-high tower (same hours; 10kn). Paths on the south side of Rovinj's busy harbour lead south towards Zlatnrt, a densely forested

PULA: EUROPEAN BASS-CULTURE CAPITAL

For those into reggae, dub, jungle, dubstep or any bass-heavy offshoots, Pula is one of the best places in the Mediterranean to spend the summer. Punta Christo, an abandoned seaside fortress just north of town, is the perfect venue for three highly recommended festivals – Seasplash, which concentrates on traditional reggae and dub (late July; ☉ seasplash-festival.com); Outlook, which focuses on reggae, dubstep and everything beyond (late Aug/early Sept; ☉ outlookfestival.com); and the more eclectic Dimensions, which ventures towards the outer frontiers of dance culture (late Aug; ☉ dimensionsfestival.com).

cape, crisscrossed by tracks. The best of the beaches – all rocky – are here, but you can also try the two islands just offshore: Sveta Katarina, the nearer of the two, and Crveni otok, just outside Rovinj's bay (linked by boats from the harbour; every hour; 30kn return).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Rovinj's bus station is a 5min walk southeast of its centre, just off Trg na lokvi, at the junction of Carrera and Carducci.

Destinations Dubrovnik (1 daily; 16hr); Pula (roughly hourly; 45min); Rijeka (6 daily; 3hr); Split (1 daily; 11hr); Trieste (1 daily; 2–3hr); Venice (1 daily; 5hr 15min); Zadar (1 daily; 8hr); Zagreb (7 daily; 4–7hr).

By ferry Rovinj's small passenger port lies just north of the peninsula.

Destinations Trieste (mid-June to mid-Sept 1 daily; 1hr 30min–2hr 15min); Venice (summer only, Mon–Sat 1 daily; 5hr).

Tourist information On the waterfront promenade at Obala Pina Budicina 12 (June–Sept daily 8am–9pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 8am–3pm; ☎052 811 566, 🌐tzgrovinj.hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Try Natale, opposite the bus station at Via Carducci 4 (Mon–Sat 7.30am–9.30pm, Sun 8am–5pm; ☎052 813 365, 🌐rovinj.com). Rooms from 145kn

Porton Biondi Aleja Porton Biondi 1 ☎052 813 557, 🌐portonbiondi.hr. A pine-shaded campsite with its own beach, 700m north of town. Mid-March to Nov. Per person 55kn, plus per tent 85kn

EATING AND DRINKING

Trg Valdivora is home to a small produce market.

Art Public Bar Carera 88. Head through the passageway and into the back yard to locate this dark and welcoming drinking den, catering for a mixed bag of locals and tourists. There's a small outdoor terrace, and live music on Thurs. Daily 11am–midnight.

Da Sergio Grisia 11. Great pizzas – baby and normal-sized – from 50kn. Much better value than the places on the harbourfront. Daily 11am–11pm.

Maestral Obala V. Nazora. Located on the seafront towards Zlatni rt, with plenty of pine-shaded outdoor seating, and fresh seafood (from 50kn) grilled alfresco. Daily 8am–11pm.

Monte Carlo Svetoga Križa 23. This bar has a gorgeous terrace where you can intersperse drinks with refreshing dips in the sea. Bottled beer 20kn. Daily 8am–1am.

The Dalmatian Coast

Stretching from Zadar in the north to the Montenegrin border in the south, the Dalmatian Coast is one of Europe's most dramatic shorelines. All along, well-preserved medieval towns sit beneath a grizzled karst landscape that drops precipitously into some of the cleanest water in the Mediterranean. For centuries, the region was ruled by Venice, spawning architecture that wouldn't look out of place on the other side of the water. The busy northern port city of Zadar provides a vivacious introduction to the region. Otherwise, the main attractions are in the south: the lively provincial capital Split, built around a Roman palace and jumping-off point for the islands of Brač, Hvar, Vis and Korčula; and the walled city of Dubrovnik.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

Split is the main transport hub of the Dalmatian Coast, with trains from Zagreb and onward bus connections to Dubrovnik. Ferry and catamaran services to the islands of Brač, Hvar, Vis and Korčula also run from Split.

ZADAR

A bustling town of nearly 100,000 people, ZADAR is one of the success stories of the Croatian Adriatic, combining ancient and medieval heritage with a vibrant bar scene and the kind of go-ahead architectural projects (such as the Sea Organ and the Greeting to the Sun) that give the seafront the appearance of an art installation.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Zadar displays a pleasant muddle of architectural styles, with Romanesque churches competing for space with modern cafés. The main sights are concentrated in the Old Town, which is hemmed in by the sea; the central Roman Forum is the best place to begin exploring.

THE SEA ORGAN AND GREETING TO THE SUN

Zadar's quirkiest feature, the Sea Organ, consists of wide marble steps leading into the sea, with a set of tubes and cavities carved underneath, which enable the sea and wind to orchestrate a constant harmony. Emitting a strange sound, a bit like panpipes crossed with whale song, the Organ is surprisingly melodic and relaxing. Next to it is another public artwork, Greeting to the Sun: a huge disc that accumulates solar power during the day and radiates a multicoloured hypnotic glow by night.

The Forum

Zadar's main square – or Forum – is dominated by the ninth-century St Donat's Church (daily: April, May & Oct 9am–5pm; June–Sept 9am–10pm; 10kn), a hulking cylinder of stone with a vast bare interior, built – according to tradition – by St Donat himself, an Irishman who was bishop here for a time. Opposite, the Archeological Museum (June–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–9pm; Oct–Nov Mon–Fri 9am–2pm, Sat 9am–1pm; 15kn) has an absorbing collection of Roman and medieval artefacts.

Behind St Donat's, the twelfth- and thirteenth-century Cathedral of St Anastasia has an arcaded west front reminiscent of Tuscan churches. Around the door frame stretches a frieze of twisting acanthus leaves, from which various beasts emerge – look out for the rodent and bird fighting over a bunch of grapes. You can climb the 56m campanile for great views over the city (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; 10kn).

South of the Forum

Southeast of the Forum lies Narodni Trg, an attractive Renaissance square. A little further southeast, on Trg Petra Zoranića, the Baroque St Simeon's Church houses the exuberantly decorated reliquary of St Simeon, commissioned by Queen Elizabeth of Hungary in 1377 and fashioned from 250kg of silver by local artisans.

Overlooking the harbour at Poljana Zemaljskog odbora 1 is the state-of-the-art Museum of Ancient Glass (June–Sept daily 9am–9pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 9am–4pm; 30kn), which contains a fine collection of Roman glassware and affords wonderful views of the harbour.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Zadar's airport is 12km east of town. Buses (7–9 daily depending on flight schedule; 25kn) run into town.

By train and bus The train and bus stations are about 1km east of the town centre, a 20min walk or a hop on bus #5 – tickets cost 10kn from the driver or 16kn (valid for two journeys) from kiosks.

Destinations (train) Split (2 daily; 5hr; change at Knin).

Destinations (bus) Dubrovnik (7 daily; 8hr 30min); Pula (3 daily; 6hr 30min); Rijeka (9 daily; 4hr 30min); Rovinj (1 daily; 8hr); Split (approx every 30min; 3hr–3hr 30min); Zagreb (hourly; 3–5hr).

By ferry Ferries arrive on Liburnska obala, just outside the walls of the Old Town.

Destinations Ancona (3–6 weekly; 6–9hr); Pula (mid-July to Aug 4 weekly; 4hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Narodni Trg (June & Sept daily 8am–8pm; July & Aug daily 8am–midnight; Oct–May Mon–Fri 8am–3pm; ☎023 316 166, 🌐zadar.hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Jaderatours on Elizabete Kotromanić in the Old Town (☎023 250 350, 🌐jaderatours.hr) has rooms from 150kn

Borik Majstora Radovana 7 ☎023 206 559, 🌐campingborik.com; bus #5 or #8 from the bus and train stations. Well-equipped campsite in a large tourist complex with its own beach. Summer only. Per person 55kn, plus per tent 75kn

Boutique Hostel Forum Široka 20 ☎023 250 705, 🌐hostelforumzadar.com. Designer hostel decked out by the team responsible for Goli & Bosi in Split (see p.171), offering a mixture of dorm rooms and hotel-standard private doubles (with breakfast included). Free wi-fi and a fully equipped kitchen are yours to use. Dorms 180kn, doubles 800kn

Drunken Monkey Hostel Skenderbega 21 ☎023 314 406, 🌐drunkenmonkeyhostel.com. Out in the suburb of Arbanasi but still very handy for bus station and town centre, the Monkey offers clean dorms, a garden with a small pool, cosy communal areas and on-site bar. Free wi-fi and internet access. Dorms 165kn, doubles 440kn

EATING

For snacks and picnics, the daily market just inside the Old Town walls off Jurja Barakovića is the place to get fruit, vegetables, local cheeses and home-cured hams.

Konoba Na Po Ure Spire Brusine 8. Popular with locals and visitors alike, this homely restaurant is best known for its fish dishes, including heaps of juicy mussels (50kn) and fresh anchovies (30kn). Daily 10am–11pm.

★ Konoba Skoblar Trg Petra Zoranića. Serving up the broad gamut of Dalmatian food at prices that won't lead to tears, Skoblar continues to draw in locals eager for marende (eleveneses) or a more expansive mid-afternoon lunch. Daily specials (50kn) are chalked up on a board outside the door. Daily 9am–midnight.

★ Pašta & Svašta Poljana Šime Budinića 1. Pasta is the name of the game at this rustic-but-chic street-corner restaurant, with several freshly made varieties and an imaginative choice of sauces to go with them. Mains 65–110Kn. Daily 9am–11pm.

★ Pet Bunara Trg pet Bunara ☎ 023 224 010. Turning out refined Adriatic-Mediterranean cuisine, the “Five Wells” treats traditional ingredients with flair and imagination. The menu is seasonal, but local seafood predominates, and there is always something for vegetarians. Mains 80–120Kn. Daily 8am–1am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Hitch Kolovare. With a partially covered terrace jutting out into the Adriatic with views across the straits to the island of Ugljan, this is one of Zadar's best bets for sunset cocktail-sipping and after-sundown clubbing. Daily 8am–5am.

Kult Stomorica 6. One of a number of café-bars tucked down winding Stomorica, this fashionable spot has a large wooden terrace area on which to enjoy the pumping music. Daily 8am–1am.

★ The Garden Bedemi zadarskih pobuna ☎ watchthegardengrow.eu. This lounge-bar sits high up in the city walls: there are big beds to relax on, cocktail in hand, as well as a dancefloor that regularly boasts big-name DJs (cover charge for popular events). April–Oct daily 11am–2am.

SPLIT

The largest city in the region, and its major transit hub, SPLIT is a hectic place, but one of the most enticing spots on the Dalmatian Coast. At its heart lies a crumbling Old Town built within the walls of Diocletian's Palace, and including some of the most outstanding classical remains in Europe.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Diocletian's Palace is still the epicentre of the city – lived in almost continuously since Roman times, it has gradually become a warren of houses, tenements and churches. Almost everything worth seeing is concentrated here, behind the waterfront Riva, while to its west is the lush Marjan peninsula.

Diocletian's Palace

Built as a retirement home by Dalmatian-born Roman Emperor Diocletian in 305 AD, Diocletian's Palace is a jumble of original features and subsequent additions. The best place to start a tour is on its seaward side through the Bronze Gate, which once gave direct access to the

TISNO FESTIVALS

Tisno, a sprawling seaside village midway between Zadar and Split, shot into the limelight in 2012 when it became the new summer home of the Garden organization, the Zadar-based crew responsible for launching the legendary Garden Festival in 2007. Although the last Garden Festival was held in 2015, the team behind it hosts a growing roster of other festivals and events throughout the summer – July and August is just one huge party if you have the stamina to stick around. Getting there from Zadar or Split is easy – catch an inter-city bus to Šibenik and then change to a local bus to Murter, which calls at Tisno on the way. There's plenty of accommodation too, with apartments and camping on the site itself, or private rooms in Tisno village. Tickets for Tisno events and festivals cost around £120, not including transport and accommodation, and must be bought in advance.

Love International Early July; ☎ loveinternationalfestival.com.

Electric Elephant Mid-July; ☎ electricelephant.co.uk.

Soundwave Festival Late July; ☎ soundwavecroatia.com.

SuncéBeat Late July to early Aug; ☎ suncebeat.com.

Stop making Sense Early Aug; ☎ stopmakingsense.eu.

water. Through the gate, you find yourself in a shady vaulted hall full of souvenir stalls. To your left is the atmospheric palace basement (daily: May–Sept 8am–8pm; Oct–April 8am–noon & 4–7pm; 10kn) that once sat beneath Diocletian's apartments, and where you can get some idea of the size and layout of his erstwhile home.

Carry on through the vaulted hallways and up the steps to the Peristyle, which these days serves as the main town square. At the southern end, more steps lead up to the vestibule, an impressive cone-shaped building that's the only part of the imperial apartments to be left anything like intact, despite losing its dome.

The cathedral

On the eastern side of the Peristyle stands one of two black granite Egyptian sphinxes, dating from around 15 BC, which originally flanked the entrance to Diocletian's mausoleum; the octagonal building, surrounded by an arcade of Corinthian columns, has since been converted into Split's cathedral (Mon–Sat 7am–noon & 5–7pm; 10kn; 5kn extra to visit the crypt). The cathedral's striking walnut and oak doorway was carved in 1214 and shows scenes from the life of Christ. Inside, the dome is ringed by two series of decorative Corinthian columns and a frieze that contains portraits of Diocletian and his wife. The church's finest feature is a cruelly realistic Flagellation of Christ depicted on the Altar of St Anastasius, completed by local artist Juraj Dalmatinac in 1448. To the right of the entrance is the campanile (same hours; 5kn), a restored Romanesque structure – from the top, the views across the city are magnificent.

Follow the alleyway directly opposite the cathedral to reach the intriguing baptistry, or Temple of Jupiter (Mon–Sat 7am–noon & 5–7pm; 10kn), originally built by a cult in Diocletian's time and later adapted by Christians.

The Golden Gate and Archeological Museum

North of the cathedral, along Dioklecijanova, is the grandest and best preserved of the palace entrances: the Golden Gate. Just outside there's a piece by Meštrović, a gigantic statue of the fourth-century Bishop Grgur Ninski – rubbing its big toe is said to bring good luck. Fifteen minutes' walk northwest of here, the Archeological Museum, at Zrinsko Frankopanska 25 (June–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–2pm & 4–8pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 9am–2pm & 4–8pm, Sat 9am–2pm; 30kn), contains displays of Illyrian, Greek, medieval and Roman artefacts. Outside, the arcaded courtyard is crammed with gravestones, sarcophagi and decorative sculpture.

The Marjan peninsula

For peace and quiet, plus stunning views over the city, head for the woods of the Marjan peninsula west of the Old Town. It's accessible via Sperun and then Senjska, which cut up through the slopes of the Varoš district. There are tiny rocky beaches all round the peninsula.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Split airport is 16km west of town; Croatia Airlines buses connect with scheduled flights and run to the waterfront Riva (30kn); their office at Riva 9 has timetables. Alternatively, the #37 Split–Trogir bus runs from the main road outside the airport to the suburban bus station on Domovinskog rata, just north of the Old Town (every 20min; 20kn). A taxi costs 200kn.

By train and bus Split's main bus and train stations are next to each other on Obala Kneza Domagoja, a 5min walk round the harbour from the centre.

Destinations (train) Zadar (change at Knin; 2 daily; 5hr); Zagreb (2 daily, one of which is overnight; 6hr 20min–8hr 30min).

Destinations (bus) Belgrade (1 daily, overnight; 11hr 30min); Dubrovnik (make sure you take your passport, as you pass through a short stretch of Bosnia-Herzegovina on the way; 17 daily; 4hr–4hr 30min); Pula (3 daily; 13hr); Rijeka (6 daily; 8hr); Sarajevo (4 daily; 6hr 30min–8hr); Trieste (1 daily; 10hr 30min); Zadar (hourly; 3hr–3hr 30min); Zagreb (every 30min; 5hr–8hr 30min).

By boat The ferry terminal and Jadrolinija booking office (jadrolinija.hr) are both at the harbour, with the latter also selling Krilo Jet and SNAV tickets. Note that services are reduced outside the summer months.

Destinations Ancona (3 ferries daily; 10hr); Brač (Bol: 1 catamaran daily; 55min; Supetar: 1 ferry hourly; 50min); Dubrovnik (2 Krilo Jet catamarans daily; 3–4hr); Hvar (Hvar Town: 2 catamarans daily; 55min; Stari Grad:

7 ferries daily; 2hr); Korčula (Vela Luka: 2 ferries daily; 2hr 45min; 1 catamaran daily; 1hr 45min; Korčula Town: 2 catamarans daily; 2hr 25min); Vis (2–3 ferries daily; 2hr 20min; 1 catamaran daily; 1hr 15min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information There are offices at Riva 9 and in the Chapel of St Rock on the Peristyle (both June–Sept Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat 8am–7pm, Sun 9am–1pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎021 360 066, 🌐visitsplit.com).

Discount card The Splitcard, available from the tourist office (70kn/72hr; free on weekends between March and October), gets you free or discounted entrance to several of the sights, plus reductions on hotels and restaurants.

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Book through Turist Biro, Obala narodnog preporoda 12, on the waterfront (☎021 347 100, 🌐turistbiro-split.hr). Rooms from 345kn

★Goli & Bosi Mompurgova Poljana 2 ☎021 510 999, 🌐gollybossy.com. Sleek hostel decked out in eye-popping black and yellow, with tongue-in-cheek captions along the floors. Also includes the De Belly Café, a stylish restaurant and bar in the pretty courtyard outside (mains from 25kn). The smart dorms are the most affordable option, with each bunk built into its own cubbyhole. Dorms 240kn, doubles 750kn

Hostel Apinelo Petrova 42 ☎091 393 1287, 🌐apinelo.com. A restored stone house just outside the Old Town offering neat new dorms and a collection of 2-person apartments, plus a small communal kitchen. Dorms 130kn, apartments 600kn

Silver Central Kralja Tomislava 1 ☎021 490 805, 🌐silvercentralhostel.com. A modern, central hostel with a buzzy common area, bright and breezy dorms and doubles at various locations around the centre. Dorms 180kn, doubles 575kn

Split hostel booze & snooze Narodni trg 8 ☎021 342 787, 🌐splithostel.com. In the middle of the old city, this hostel is run by friendly Croatian-Australians who like partying with their guests. Also has a nearby sister hostel – Split Hostel Fiesta Siesta – with on-site bar at Kruževićeva 5. Dorms 200kn

Villa Varoš Miljenka Smoje 1 ☎021 483 469, 🌐villavaros.hr. Charming and cosy guesthouse in a lovingly restored house in the atmospheric Varoš quarter. Rooms are kitted out with homely, semi-rustic furnishings together with a/c and TV. Doubles 600kn

EATING

The daily market at the eastern edge of the Old Town is the place to shop for fruit, veg and local cheeses.

Buffet Fife Trumbićeva obala 11. Near the seafront this is a no-frills local favourite, serving dishes such as stuffed sweet peppers (35kn) and pašticada (beef stew with prunes; 45kn) in huge portions. Daily 6am–midnight.

★Konoba Trattoria Bajamont Bajamontićeva 3. Grab a seat at an old sewing machine table and watch the chef cook tasty Dalmatian dishes such as asparagus risotto (55kn) and calamari (50kn). Daily 8am–11pm.

Makrovega Leština 2. Hidden away in alleys just west of the Old Town, this chic café is a wonderful source of quality vegetarian food, with tofu and soya put to imaginative uses in a wide-ranging menu. The daily specials (soup, main and salad) are superb value at 60–70kn. Mon–Fri 9am–8pm, Sat 9am–4pm.

Villa Spiza Kružićeva 3. Only a handful of years old and already a Split institution, Villa Spiza (“spiza” is Split dialect for good nosh) serves traditional home cooking in a tiny Old Town space – the kitchen takes up most of the room, with small tables squeezed into what’s left. Pan-fried fish dishes and old-school seafood stews rarely top the 70kn mark. Daily 11am–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

The beach at Bačvice, a few minutes’ walk south past the train station, is a popular party place in summer.

Academia Club Ghetto Dosud. Despite periodic closures and reopenings this has remained a Split legend – a bar-come-art gallery with an extravagantly decorated interior and a lovely courtyard squeezed between ancient stone tenements. Frequent live DJ events, and a bohemian-friendly, gay-friendly, anything-friendly reputation. Daily 9am–1am.

Fabrique Trg Franje Tuđmana 3. Spacious pub just west of the Old Town with a lot of bare stone and brickwork adding character to the interior. Serves up a vast array of beer on draught and in bottles, including excellent local craft brews. Daily 8am–1am.

Figa Buvinina 1. This legendary Split bar (formerly known as Puls) offers a flashy-looking menu of sandwiches and light bites, a great list of cocktails and shots, and a to-die-for location on one of the Old Town’s most atmospheric stepped alleys. Daily 8am–1pm.

DIRECTORY

Exchange At the bus station or any bank.

Hospital Firule, Spinčićeva 1 (☎021 556 111).

Launderette Modruji, Šperun (daily: April–Oct 8am–8pm; Nov–March 9am–5pm).

Left luggage At the bus station (daily 7am–9pm; 5kn for first hour, then 1.5kn/hr) and train station (daily 6.30am–10pm; 15kn/hr).

Pharmacy Ljekarna Lučac, Pupačićeva 4, just east of the Old Town, is open 24hr.

Post office Kralja Tomislava 9 and Obala kneza Domagoja 2 (both Mon–Fri 7.30am–7pm, Sat 7.30am–2.30pm).

BRAČ

BRAČ is a bewitchingly bare, scrub-covered island fringed by fishing ports, coves and beaches. The easiest way to reach Brač is by ferry from Split to Supetar, an engaging, laidback fishing port on the north side of the island, from where it's an hour's bus journey to Bol, a major windsurfing centre on the island's south coast and site of one of the Adriatic's most beautiful beaches, Zlatni Rat (Golden Horn).

Supetar

Though the largest town on the island, SUPETAR is a rather sleepy village onto which package tourism has been painlessly grafted. There's a pretty old quarter set beside a parish church and a long curve of beach west of the harbour. Behind the beach is the Petrinović Mausoleum, a neo-Byzantine construction 1km west of town, built by sculptor Toma Rosandić to honour a local-born shipping magnate.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By ferry There are regular ferries between Supetar and Split (9–14 daily; 50min).

Tourist information Beside the ferry dock at Porat 1 (June–Sept daily 8–11am, 11.30am–6pm & 6.30–10pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 8am–3pm; ☎021 630 900, 🌐supetar.hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Available from Atlas, on the harbourfront at Porat 10 (☎021 631 105, 🌐atlas-supetar.com), and

BRAČ ACTIVITIES

Scuba diving Fun Dive Club in the Supetrus hotel complex at Put Vele Luke 4 (closed Oct–April; ☎098 130 7384, 🌐fundiveclub.com) rents snorkelling and scuba gear and arranges crash courses (from 225kn).

Mountain biking Rent a Roberts on Put Vele Luke (☎091 534 7575, 🌐rentaroberts.com) rents out mountain bikes for 90kn/day.

Brač Travel, Put Vele Luke 9, opposite the ferry dock (☎021 630 236, 🌐travel-brac.com). Rooms from 300kn
Hostel D&D Put Vele Luke ☎098 344 790, 🌐hostelbrac.com. Named after brother-and-sister management team Duje and Dora, D&D occupies a neatly decorated house near the beach. Space is limited, with accommodation consisting of two doubles, two triples and a quad. Doubles 350kn

EATING AND DRINKING

Benny's Bar Put Vele Luke bb. West of town towards the Supetrus hotel complex, Benny's Bar has a large outdoor terrace with a pool where you can take in the sea air and enjoy live DJs and cocktails. June–Sept daily 8am–2am.

Bistro Palute Porat 4. The best of the places to eat on the harbourfront: serves good grilled fish from an open wood fire and meat dishes such as mixed skewers with fries (52kn) and goulash (55kn). Daily 8am–midnight.

Konoba Lukin Porat 32. Harbourside seating, a cosy, family atmosphere and well-prepared local dishes make this the best option for a meal. Cuttlefish salad (60kn) and pizzas (30–40kn). Daily noon–midnight.

Bol

Stranded on the far side of the Vidova Gora Mountains, the town of BOL has a beautiful setting and charming old stone houses. Its main attraction is Zlatni Rat beach, a long pebbly spit some 1.5km west of the centre, that gets very crowded during summer.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus From Supetar, 14 daily buses make the hour-long trip to Bol's harbour. Some buses take a slower route – check before you leave.

By ferry Catamarans dock at the western end of the town harbour.

Destinations Hvar (Jelsa: 1 daily; 20min); Split (1 daily; 55min).

Tourist information In the harbour (June & Sept daily 8.30am–3pm & 5–9pm; July & Aug daily 8.30am–10pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 8.30am–3pm; ☎021 635 638, 🌐bol.hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Boltours, at Vladimira Nazora 18 (☎021 635 693, 🌐boltours.com), can arrange private rooms and 2-person apartments. Alternatively, try More at Vladimira Nazora 28 (☎021 642 050, 🌐more-bol.com). Rooms from 330kn, apartments from 430kn

Kito Camping Bračke ceste bb ☎021 635 551, 🌐camping-brac.com. Large, friendly campsite close to the centre of Bol, with kitchens and a nearby supermarket. Per person 75kn, plus per tent 25kn

BOL ACTIVITIES

Hiking The 778m peak of Vidova Gora is within easy reach of Bol: a trail (2hr each way) heads uphill just beyond Kito Camping (see opposite). Check with the tourist office for details of the route.

Mountain biking The tourist office has free cycling maps. Next door, Big Blue Café rents bicycles (90kn/day).

Watersports Big Blue's watersports outlet, on the path leading to Zlatni Rat (April–Nov; ☎091 449 7087, bigblue.sport.com), rents windsurfing boards (490kn/half-day) and sea kayaks (190kn/day).

EATING AND DRINKING

Arguola Vladimira Nazora 6. A sandwich bar that's a cut above the average, baking its own bread buns and stuffing them with local ingredients. The anchovy sandwich with capers is a tangy bargain at 22kn. Daily 10am–2am.

Konoba Mlin Ante Starčevića 11. A lovely restaurant in a pretty old stone mill, with live music and an outdoor wood-fired grill where freshly caught fish are cooked. Mains from 90kn. June–Oct daily 5pm–midnight.

Pizzeria Topolino Frane Radića 1. Located just metres from the sea, Topolino offers gorgeous views and a wide range of breakfast dishes, wood-oven-cooked pizzas (60–70kn), fresh salads (from 50kn) and home-made lemonade (18kn). May–Oct daily 8am–11pm.

Varadero Frane Radića. A prime position in the main square with DJs, a twelve-page cocktail menu (from 40kn) and a beach cabin feel – this is the place to be after dark. May–Oct daily 9am–2am.

HVAR

One of the most hyped of all the Croatian islands, HVAR is undeniably beautiful – a slim, green slice of land punctuated by jagged inlets and cloaked with hills of lavender. Despite Hvar's growing reputation as a high-society party island, tourist development hasn't been too overbearing. The island's Venetian-flavoured centre, Hvar Town, offers charm and affordability alongside plentiful opportunities for a cocktail-driven splash-out.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Hvar's central main square is flanked by the arcaded bulk of the Venetian arsenal, the upper storey of which was added in 1612 to house a theatre (summer 9am–1pm & 5–11pm; winter 11am–noon; 20kn), the oldest in Croatia. At the eastern end of the square is the cathedral (open mornings before services), a sixteenth-century construction with an eighteenth-century facade – a characteristic mixture of Gothic and Renaissance styles. Inside, the Bishop's Treasury (daily: June–Aug 9am–noon & 5–7pm; Sept–May 10am–noon; 20kn) holds a small but fine selection of chalices and reliquaries. The rest of the Old Town stretches back from the piazza in an elegant confusion of twisting lanes and alleys.

Up above, the fortress (daily: April & May 9am–4pm; June–Sept 8am–11pm; 25kn) was built by the Venetians in the 1550s and offers gorgeous sweeping views. From here, you can pick out the attractive fifteenth-century Franciscan Monastery (May–Oct Tues–Sat 9am–3pm & 5–7pm; 25kn) to the left of the harbour, and the pleasingly simple monastic church next door.

Beaches and islands

The beaches nearest to town are rocky and crowded, so it's best to make your way towards the Pakleni otoci. Easily reached by water taxi from the harbour (50–70kn return), the Pakleni are a chain of eleven wooded islands, three of which cater for tourists with simple bars and restaurants: Jerolim, a naturist island, is the nearest; next is Marinkovac; then Sv Klement, the largest of the islands.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By boat Two daily Krilo Jet catamarans from Split arrive at Hvar Town itself; seven other ferries head for Stari Grad, 20km east. There's also one daily catamaran from Bol on Brač to Jelsa in the centre of the island. Tickets for Krilo Jet catamarans are available from Pelegrini Tours, by the ferry dock at Riva bb (☎021 742 743, pelegrini-hvar.hr), although be warned that these services can sell out days in advance.

Destinations from Hvar Town Korčula Town (2 Krilo Jet catamarans daily; 1hr 15min); Split (2 Krilo Jet catamarans daily; 55min); Vela Luka (1 catamaran daily; 45min); Vis (1 catamaran weekly; 1hr 30min).

Destinations from Stari Grad Ancona (June–Aug 2–5 weekly; 8–13hr; overnight), Split (7 ferries daily; 2hr).

Destinations from Bol Jelsa (1 catamaran daily; 30min).

By bus Buses run from Stari Grad to Hvar Town (6–10 daily; 30min) and from Jelsa to both Hvar Town (3–4 daily; 45min) and Stari Grad (5–11 daily; 15min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Branches at the bus station and on the main square at Trg sv. Stjepana bb (both June & Sept Mon–Sat 8am–1pm & 4–9pm, Sun 10am–noon & 6–8pm; July & Aug Mon–Sat 8am–2pm & 3–9pm, Sun 8am–1pm & 4–8pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 8am–1pm; ☎ 021 741 059, 🌐 tzhar.hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Contact Pelegrini Tours (see p.173). Rooms from 375kn

Camping Mala Milna Milna ☎ 021 745 013. Terraced site right by the sea, 3km east of Hvar in the village of Milna. With a bit of luck, small-tent travellers might find a pitch beside the shore. Open May–Sept. Per person 50kn, plus per tent 50kn

★ Green Lizard Hostel Domovinskog rata 13 ☎ 021 742 560, 🌐 greenlizard.hr. A clean and comfy hostel uphill from the ferry port, with great sea views, fun cocktail evenings and hammocks to chill out in. Shared kitchen, free wi-fi. Open Easter–Oct. Dorms 150kn, doubles 350kn

Marinero Put svetog Marka 9 ☎ 091 410 2751, 🌐 facebook.com/MarineroHostelHvar. Neat and tidy bunk-bed accommodation in historic stone house just steps away from the main square. It lacks kitchen and common room facilities but there's a solid restaurant downstairs. Breakfast 50kn extra. Dorms 150kn

Orange Hostel Vandeke Boztkovića 16 (near Green Lizard) ☎ 091 515 7330, 🌐 orange.hostel.com. More a

HVAR ACTIVITIES

Island tours Secret Hvar, Dolac bb (☎ 021 717 615, 🌐 secrethvar.com) runs 4WD trips on the rough roads of inland Hvar, exploring abandoned villages and lavender plantations. Also does kayaking (350kn) and hiking trips (300kn).

Watersports Hvar Adventure, Obala bb, in the alleyway behind the Arsenal (☎ 021 717 813 or ☎ 091 154 3072, 🌐 hvar-adventure.com), organizes a host of activities and day-trips, including wine tasting (420kn), sea kayaking around the Pakleni islands (350kn), guided hiking (300kn), sailing (420kn) and rock climbing (400kn).

★TREAT YOURSELF

Carpe Diem On the main seafront 🌐 carpe-diem-hvar.com. Said to be Croatia's best cocktail bar, glamorous Carpe Diem is the epitome of jet-set. DJs spin crowd-pleasing tunes on the colonnaded terrace overlooking the harbour till the early hours, while skilled bartenders mix a long list of decadent cocktails (from 50kn). There is no cover charge but they do operate a "face control" admissions policy when busy, so it's worth dressing up. Taxi boats outside Carpe Diem transport revellers to its sister venue, Carpe Diem Beach, on the island of Marinkovac, which hosts DJ parties every night in peak season (cover charge for major events 100kn; check website for listings). Carpe Diem mid-June to late Aug daily 9am–2am; Carpe Diem Beach mid-June to late Aug daily 10am–5am.

peaceful private house than a hostel – there's no common room – with a leafy terrace and a mixture of rooms within its tangerine exterior. Doubles 400kn

EATING

Bistro For Brace Bibića 17. The last of a dying breed, perhaps, For (local dialect for "Hvar") serves up the kind of authentic Dalmatian cooking that makes locals and tourists happy, and keeps its prices down too. The daily three-course lunch specials are a steal at 60kn, plus risottos and pastas for under 60kn, or steaks for under 100kn. Daily noon–3pm & 6–11pm.

Macondo Groda ☎ 021 742 850. This place has got style and quality, yet remains informal, and for a slap-up seafood feast there are few better places. The škampi buzara (unpeeled prawns in wine sauce; 120kn) is excellent. You'll need to book in summer. April–Oct Mon–Sat noon–2pm & 6.30pm–midnight, Sun 6.30pm–midnight.

Pizza Kogo Trg sv. Stjepana 34. A popular spot with pew-like seating inside and plenty of tables on the main square too. Reasonably priced mains include salads (45–55kn) and pizzas (70–80kn). Daily: June–Sept 10am–4am; Oct–May 10am–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Hula Hula Majerovica. Hvar's premier après-beach bar, located on the shoreline path just beyond the Amfora hotel. Cold beers and cocktails served up on a big seaside terrace scattered with stools and beds, although it's standing room only on summer nights. May–Sept 9am–midnight.

Kiva Fabrika. Raucously enjoyable black hole of a place in an alleyway just off the portside path. Can be a tight squeeze on summer weekends. Daily 9pm–2am.

Pink Champagne Ive Miličića 4. Indoor clubbing venue that comes into its own when the last-orders bells have sounded elsewhere. Top DJ entertainment, theatrically clad staff and burlesque shows combine to provide an appealing mix of edgy decadence and mainstream fun. Midnight–6am: May–Sept daily; Oct–April Thurs–Sat only.

Red Baron Riva bb. Occupying a harbourside terrace with a pine tree growing out of the middle, this is an ideal vantage point from which to view the people looking at yachts. Classy list of cocktails (including the rum, strawberry and champagne Red Baron daiquiri, 65kn). May–Sept daily 8am–2am.

VIS

Wild and hilly, VIS is situated further offshore than any of Croatia's inhabited Adriatic islands. Closed to foreigners for military reasons until 1989, the island boasts two good-looking towns, Vis Town and Komiža, and great beaches and bars. Depending much more heavily on independent travellers and yachters than on the package crowd, it has a laidback atmosphere unique in the Adriatic.

Vis Town

VIS TOWN is a sedate arc of grey-brown houses on a deeply indented bay, above which loom the remains of abandoned agricultural terraces. A five-minute walk east from the harbour is the town's history museum (May–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–1pm & 5–9pm, Sat 9am–1pm; 20kn), and not far on from here is the suburb of Kut, an atmospheric, largely sixteenth-century tangle of narrow cobbled streets. Heading west around the bay soon brings you to the ruins of an ancient Greek cemetery and a Roman bath complex complete with preserved mosaics.

ARRIVAL, INFORMATION AND TOURS

By boat Ferries and catamarans arrive in the centre of Vis Town's harbour from where buses (5 daily; 15min) depart for Komiža on the western side of the island.

Destinations Hvar (1 catamaran weekly; 45min); Split (2–3 ferries daily; 2hr 20min; 1 catamaran daily; 1hr 30min).

Tourist information Just to the right as you leave the ferry dock (May–Sept Mon–Sat 8am–2pm & 5–8pm; Oct–April Mon–Fri 9am–1pm; ☎021 717 017, 🌐tz-vis.hr).

Tours Navigator (☎021 717 786, 🌐navigator.hr), directly in front of the ferry dock, offers island tours, trips to the Blue Cave (see p.176; 250kn) and scooter rental (200kn/day).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Enquire at Navigator (see above), or Ionios agency, 1km south of the ferry dock in Kut (☎021 711 532, 📧ionios@st.t-com.hr), which offers a range of rooms and apartments from 330kn

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

There is a small supermarket near the harbour. Note that eating out on Vis is reasonably expensive and the island is extremely seasonal.

Bejbi Šetalište stare Isse. Pronounced “baby”, this is a laid-back daytime coffee-drinking spot that bursts into life at night, with a funkily decorated café indoors, and bamboo-shaded bar in the yard. Daily: summer 6am–2am; winter 6am–midnight.

Fort George King George III Fortress 🌐fortgeorgecroatia.com. In the incomparable setting of a nineteenth-century fortress built by British occupiers just outside Vis Town, this open-air restaurant and bar runs club nights throughout the week, and live gigs by Croatian rock and jazz acts. June to mid-Sept daily 10am–4am (Wed & Sun may be closed for private parties).

Karijola Šetalište viškog boja 4. Perched on a terrace midway between the town centre and Kut, this is the best place for a quality thin-crust pizza (75–85kn). Settle your stomach with Karijola's range of irresistible rakijas – the rakija od mirte (grappa flavoured with mistletoe) has proven aphrodisiac qualities. May–Sept 11am–midnight.

Konoba Vatric Kralja Krešimira 15. Friendly, family-run restaurant in Kut, specializing in fresh fish cooked over a wood fire. More affordable options are the black squid risotto and macaroni in lobster sauce (both 60kn). May–Sept daily 9am–midnight; Oct–April Fri & Sat 5–11pm.

Paradajz Lost Pod Kulom 5. Just off the Riva behind a squat medieval tower, Paradajz Lost (a play on words based on the fact that paradajz is dialect for “tomato”) serves an extensive range of excellent local wines in a courtyard strewn with a jumble of junk-shop furniture. June–Sept daily 6pm–2am.

Komiža

KOMIŽA, 10km from Vis Town, is the island's main fishing port – a picturesque town surrounded by lofty mountains. Dominating the southern end of the harbour is the Kaštel, a stubby sixteenth-century fortress, which now houses the charming Fishing Museum (June–Sept Mon–Sat 10am–noon & 8–11pm; 15kn). Komiža's nicest beaches are ten minutes south of here, where you'll find a series of pebbly coves. Small boats leave the harbour for the Blue Cave on the nearby island of Biševo, a grotto filled with eerie shimmering light; expect to pay 150kn–250kn for a half-day trip, depending on the size and speed of the boat (see p.173).

ARRIVAL, INFORMATION AND TOURS

By bus Buses from Vis Town terminate about 100m behind the harbour.

Tourist information On the Riva just beyond the Kaštel (June–Aug Mon–Fri 8am–1pm & 6.30–8pm, Sat & Sun 6.30–8pm; Sept–May Mon–Sat 8am–1pm; ☎021 713 455, 📧tz-komiza.hr).

Tours Alternatura, Hrvatskih mučenika 2 (☎021 717 239, 📧alternatura.hr), organizes guided tours of the island's former military facilities (250kn), as well as scuba diving, free climbing, sailing in a traditional falkuša fishing boat and hang-gliding.

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Book through Alternatura (see above), or Srebrna, Ribarska 4 (daily 8am–1pm & 6–10pm; ☎021 713 668, 📧srebrnatours.hr). Rooms from 320kn

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Fabrika Riva svetog Mikule 12. Fabrika mixes thrift-store furnishing and post-industrial warehouse chic to create an arty-but-comfy lounge-bistro vibe. A snacking menu of burgers and wok-fried dishes in the 60–80kn range is backed up by a cracking choice of local wines and rakijas. May–Sept daily 9am–2am.

Kolderaj Trg kralja Tomislava 1. This local bakery serves up fresh anchovy pasties (komiška pogača; 15kn), as well as other sweet and savoury pastries. Daily 6.30am–2am.

Konoba Bako Gundulićeva 1. Romantic beachside tavern complete with an indoor lobster pond. The fresh fish by the kilo is pricey, but there are also shrimp skewers (60kn) and frutti di mare (86kn) on offer. Daily: June–Aug 4pm–2am; Sept–May 5–11pm.

KORČULA

Like so many islands along this coast, KORČULA was first settled by the Greeks, who gave it the name Korkyra Melaina or “Black Corfu” for its dark and densely

MOREŠKA

Performances of Korčula's famous folk dance, the Moreška, take place outside the main gate to the Old Town every Monday and Thursday evening throughout the summer: tickets (100kn) are available from several agencies including Kaleta, Katun Tours and Atlas, all on Plokata 19, Travnja. This archaic, repetitive, sword-based dance is the story of a conflict between the Christians (in red) and the Moors (in black): the heroine, Bula, is kidnapped by the evil foreign king and his army, and her betrothed tries to win her back in a ritualized sword fight which takes place within a shifting circle of dancers.

wooded appearance. Even now, it's one of the greenest of the Adriatic islands, and one of the most popular. Medieval Korčula Town is the island's main settlement.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

KORČULA TOWN sits on a beetle-shaped hump of land, a beautiful walled city ribbed with narrow alleys. The Venetians first arrived here in the eleventh century, and stayed, on and off, for nearly eight centuries, and their influence is particularly evident in the Old Town.

The Cathedral and Bishop's Treasury

The Old Town huddles around the Cathedral of St Mark (Mon–Sat: May & June 9am–2pm; July–Sept 9am–2pm & 5–7pm; Oct–April enquire at the tourist office to visit; 5kn), with a facade decorated with a gorgeous fluted rose window and a bizarre cornice frilled with gargoyles. The interior is one of the loveliest in the region – a curious mixture of styles, ranging from the Gothic forms of the nave to the Renaissance northern aisle, tacked on in the sixteenth century.

The best of the cathedral's treasures have been moved to the Bishop's Treasury (same hours as cathedral; 20kn, includes entrance to the cathedral), a couple of doors down. This small collection of fine and sacral art is one of the best in the country; look out for the Leonardo da Vinci sketch of a soldier wearing a costume bearing a striking resemblance to that of the Moreška dancers (see box opposite).

The Town Museum and the House of Marco Polo

On the main square, a former Venetian palace holds the Town Museum (daily: April–June 10am–2pm; July–Sept 9am–9pm; Oct–March 10am–1pm; 15kn), which displays everything from Greek amphorae to nineteenth-century furnishings. It is possible that Marco Polo was born in Korčula, though the seventeenth-century House of Marco Polo (daily: April–June, Sept & Oct 9am–3pm; July & Aug 9am–9pm; 20kn) has no link whatsoever with the explorer – there are, however, good views of town from its upper storeys.

Beaches

Your best bet for beaches is to head off by water taxi from the old harbour to one of the Skoji islands just offshore. The largest and nearest of these is Badija (40kn return), where there are some secluded rocky beaches, a couple of snack bars and a naturist section. There's also a sandy beach just beyond the village of Lumbarda, 8km south of Korčula (hourly buses in summer; 15min).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Korčula's bus station is 400m southeast of the Old Town. The bus service from Dubrovnik crosses the narrow stretch of water dividing the island from the mainland, by ferry from Orebić. Korkyra Info (✉korkyra.info) also runs a door-to-door minibus service to Dubrovnik airport (May–Oct daily with frequency depending on demand; 2hr 45min; 250kn).

Destinations Dubrovnik (2 daily; 3hr 30min); Zagreb (1 daily, overnight; 11hr 30min).

By boat Ferry and catamaran services from Dubrovnik, Hvar and Split dock in Korčula Town harbour. In addition, there are also ferry and catamaran services from Hvar and Split to Vela Luka at the western end of the island, from where there's a connecting bus service to Korčula Town (3–6 daily; 1hr 10min). The Jadrolinija ticket office in Korčula Town is at Plokata 19 Travnja. Note that ferry departures may switch between the west and east harbours in bad weather, so check before you leave. G&V Line catamaran tickets are available from Korkyra Info (see above). Krilo Jet catamaran tickets from the kiosk at the west harbour.

Destinations from Korčula Town Dubrovnik (July & Aug 4 G&V Line catamarans weekly; 2hr 35min); Hvar (1 Krilo Jet catamaran daily; 1hr 15min); Split (1 Krilo Jet catamaran daily; 2hr 25min).

Destinations from Vela Luka Hvar (1 catamaran daily; 45min); Split (2 ferries daily; 2hr 45min; 1 catamaran daily; 2hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information By the western harbour at Obala dr. Franje Tuđmana 4 (June–Sept Mon–Sat 8am–8pm, Sun 8am–3pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 8am–noon & 5–8pm, Sun 8am–noon; ☎020 715 701, 🌐visitkorcula.eu).

ACCOMMODATION

Private rooms Kaleta (☎020 711 282, 🌐kaleta.hr) and Kantun Tours (also left luggage and bike rental; ☎020 715 622, 🌐ikorcula.net), both at Plokata 19 Travnja, offer rooms from 300kn

Apartments Depolo ul. Hrvatske bratske zajednice 62 ☎020 721 172 or ☎098 357 582. Modern apartments on the top two floors of a historic stone house midway between the bus station and the Old Town. They can be rented out as four- to six-person apartments or as smaller two-person units. Two-person apartments 600kn

Campsite Kalac ☎020 726 693, 🌐korcula-hotels.com. Korčula's largest campsite, just 3km from town and with 600 pleasant pine-shaded pitches and a small sandy beach. Per person 60kn, plus per tent 60kn

Villa Depolo ul. Svetog Nikole bb ☎020 711 621, 🌐terezadepolo@du.t-com.hr. Four enormous, tastefully decorated rooms on the seafloor, 150m west of the Old Town; some have brilliant sea views. 300kn

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

There's a daily fruit and veg market beside the entrance to the Old Town.

Adio Mare Svetog Roka 2. A long-standing tourist favourite, offering top-quality local food in a high-ceilinged room and on an upstairs terrace. It's an atmospheric place to eat in spring and autumn, but staff and kitchen are frequently rushed off their feet in high summer. April–Nov Mon–Sat noon–11pm, Sun 6–11pm.

Boogie Jungle Put Lokve 🌐boogie-jungle.com. Located 3km out on the Žrnovo road, on a hill overlooking the town, this alfresco disco grouped around a series of curtain-draped pavilions is the place to enjoy wine and cocktails until sunrise. Cover charge 30–70kn. June–Sept daily 10pm–5am.

Dos Locos Šetalšte Frana Kršinića. Live DJs and an alfresco bamboo bar draw the crowds to this spot behind the bus station. Cocktails for only 40kn during happy hour (8–10pm). Daily 9am–late.

DUBROVNIK

First settled by Roman refugees in the early seventh century and given the name Ragusa, the town soon exploited its favourable position on the Adriatic with maritime and commercial genius. By the mid-fourteenth century it had become a successful and self-contained city-state, its merchants trading far and wide. Dubrovnik continued to prosper until 1667, when an earthquake devastated the city. Though the city-state survived, it fell into decline, and in 1808 its political independence was ended by Napoleon.

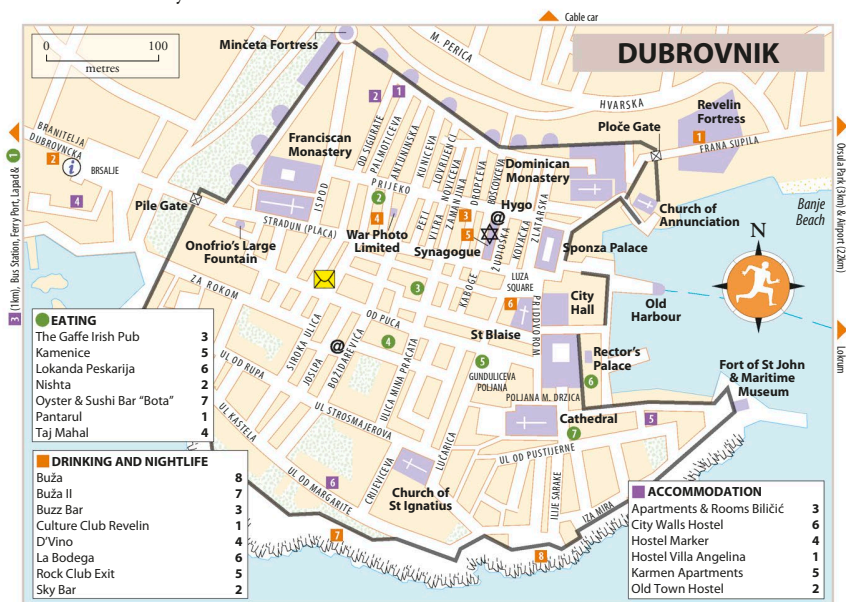

An eight-month siege by Yugoslav forces in the early 1990s caused much destruction, but the city swiftly recovered. More recently, the city was used as a location for both Game of Thrones and Star Wars, earning it the attention of a whole new public.

Within its fabulous city walls, Dubrovnik is a sea of terracotta roofs punctured now and then by a sculpted dome or tower. The best way to get your bearings is by making a tour of the walls (daily: June–Aug 8am–7.30pm; May & Sept 8am–6.30pm; April & Oct 8am–5.30pm; Nov–March 9am–4pm; 100kn), which are 25m high with all five towers still intact. From here, you get spectacular views of the Old Town, bisected by the main street, Stradun. The main attractions, all within the walls, can easily be covered in a day and a half.

The Pile Gate

The Pile Gate, main entrance to the Old Town, is a fifteenth-century construction complete with a statue of St Blaise, the city's protector, set in a niche above the arch. Just through the gate sits Onofrio's Large Fountain, built in 1444, a domed affair at which visitors to this hygiene-conscious city used to have to wash themselves before they were allowed any further.

The Franciscan monastery and Stradun

Opposite Onofrio's Large Fountain, the museum of the peaceful fourteenth-century Franciscan monastery complex (daily: April–Oct 9am–6pm; Nov–March 9am–5pm; 30kn) holds some fine Gothic reliquaries and manuscripts tracing the development of musical scoring, together with objects from the apothecary's shop, dating from 1317; there is still a working on-site pharmacy. From here, Stradun (also known as Placa), the city's main street, runs dead straight across the Old Town, its limestone surface polished to a shine by thousands of feet. War Photo Limited, at Antuninska 6 (May–Oct daily 10am–10pm; 40kn), is a three-storey photo gallery housing changing exhibitions from some of the world's leading photographers – conflict, and its frequently innocent victims, is the main focus.

The far end of Stradun broadens into airy Luža Square, the centre of the medieval town and still a hub of activity. On the left, the Sponza Palace was once the customs house and mint, with a facade showing off an elegant weld of florid Venetian Gothic and more sedate Renaissance forms. Nowadays it houses free contemporary art exhibitions and a memorial to those who lost their lives during the Dubrovnik siege (daily: May–Oct 10am–10pm; Nov–April 10am–3pm; free).

The Dominican monastery

North behind the Sponza Palace lies the Dominican monastery, its arcaded courtyard filled with palms and orange trees. It also houses a small museum (daily: May–Oct 9am–6pm; Nov–April 9am–5pm; 30kn), with outstanding examples of local sixteenth-century religious art.

The Church of St Blaise and Rector's Palace

On the south side of Luža Square lies the Baroque-style Church of St Blaise. Built in 1714, it serves as a graceful counterpoint to the palace. Outside the church stands the carved figure of an armoured knight – known as Orlando's Column, it was once the focal point of the city-state. Adjacent sits the fifteenth-century Rector's Palace, the seat of the Ragusan government, in which the incumbent Rector sat out his month's term of office. Today it's given over to the rather uninspiring City Museum (daily: April–Oct 9am–6pm; Nov–March 9am–4pm; combined ticket with Maritime Museum and a couple of other sights not covered here – the Ethnographic Museum and Revelin Fortress – 100kn).

The cathedral

The seventeenth-century cathedral, south from the Rector's Palace, is a rather plain building, although there's an impressive Titian polyptych of The Assumption inside. The Treasury (mid-April to Oct Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun noon–5pm; Nov to mid-April Mon–Sat 10am–noon & 3–5pm, Sun 3–5pm; 15kn) boasts a twelfth-century reliquary containing the skull of St Blaise; shaped like a Byzantine crown, it is covered with portraits of saints and frosted with delicate gold and enamel filigree work.

The Fort of St John and Church of St Ignatius

The city's small harbour is dominated by the monolithic hulk of the Fort of St John; upstairs it houses a maritime museum (daily: April–Oct 9am–6pm; Nov–March 9am–4pm; combined ticket with City Museum 100kn), which traces the history of Ragusan sea power through a display of naval artefacts and model boats. Skirting round the city's southern walls, you enter one of its oldest quarters, Pustijerna, much of which predates the seventeenth-century earthquake. Uphill sits the Church of St Ignatius, Dubrovnik's largest, a Jesuit confection modelled on Rome's enormous Gesù church. Steps sweep down from here to Gundulićeva Poljana, the square behind the cathedral, which is the site of the city's morning produce market.

The Dubrovnik Cable Car and Mount Srđ

For the best views in town take a ride on the Dubrovnik Cable Car, Petra Krešimira (daily: Feb, March & Oct 9am–5pm; April, May & Sept 9am–8pm; June–Aug 9am–midnight; Dec & Jan 9am–4pm; one-way 60kn, return 110kn), whose orange pods soar up to the top of Mount Srđ, offering a fantastic panorama of the city. You can also walk up or down the mountain via the winding footpath known as the Serpentina (90min up; 35min down). Note that the Serpentina is stony and unshaded – strong footwear and water are essential. The fort at Srđ's summit houses the Museum of the Homeland War (daily 8am–8pm; 20kn), featuring guns, shell cartridges and a rousing collection of photos.

Beaches

The noisy and crowded main city beach is a short walk east of the Old Town; less crowded and somewhat cleaner is the beach on the Lapad peninsula, 5km to the west (bus #6 from the Pile Gate). Or you can catch a boat from the old city jetty (April–Oct daily 8am–6pm; every 30min; 10min; 50kn return) to the wooded island of Lokrum. Covered in pine trees, Lokrum is home to an eleventh-century Benedictine monastery (which currently houses a Game of Thrones museum room detailing all the local shooting locations) and has extensive rocky beaches running along the eastern end of the island – with a naturist section (known as FKK) at the far eastern tip.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Atlas buses (30min; 35kn) run to the bus terminal at Gruž (enquire at the tourist office for times), dropping off at Pile Gate just outside the Old Town. Note that buses to the airport commence at the bus station and pick up passengers at the cable-car station on Zagrebačka; they do not call at Pile Gate.

By bus The bus terminal is located in the port suburb of Gruž, 4km west of town. If travelling to Split, take your passport, as you pass through Bosnia-Herzegovina en route.

Destinations Korčula (2 daily; 3hr 30min); Montenegro (various towns; 2–4 daily); Pula (1 daily; 15hr); Rijeka (4 daily; 11hr 30min–13hr); Rovinj (1 daily; 16hr);

Sarajevo (5 daily; 5–6hr); Split (17 daily; 4hr–4hr 30min); Trieste (1 daily; 15hr); Zadar (6–7 daily; 7hr–8hr 30min); Zagreb (8 daily; 11hr).

By boat The ferry terminal is located in the port suburb of Gruž, 4km west of town.

Destinations Bari, Italy (4–6 ferries weekly; 9hr); Korčula (July & Aug 4 G&V Line catamarans weekly; 2hr 35min); Split (2 Krilo Jet catamarans daily; 3–4hr).

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist information The main branch is on the plaza outside the Pile Gate at Brsalje 5 (daily: July & Aug 8am–8pm; May, June & Sept 9am–8pm; Oct–April 9am–5pm; ☎ 020 321 011, 🌐 tzdubrovnik.hr). There's also one opposite the ferry terminal in Gruž (same hours). The Dubrovnik Card (24hr/72hr/week for 150kn/200kn/250kn; 🌐 dubrovnikcard.com) offers free entry to eight city attractions plus free public transport, and is available from the tourist office.

Tours Adriatic Kayak Tours, Zrnsko Frankopanska 6 (☎ 020 312 770, 🌐 adriatickayaktours.com), and Adventure Dalmatia, Svetog Križa 3 (☎ 091 566 5942, 🌐 adventuredalmatia.com), organize kayaking tours from 300kn for a half-day to Lokrum island.

GETTING AROUND

By bus City buses #1a or #1b (tickets 15kn from driver or 12kn from kiosk) run from the bus terminal to the main western entrance to the Old Town, the Pile Gate.

ACCOMMODATION

Dubrovnik is full in summer so always book accommodation well in advance.

Private rooms Locals offering private rooms meet bus and ferry arrivals. Alternatively, try Partner Travel/Direct Booker at Ante Starčevića 20 (☎ 020 638 194, 🌐 direct-booker.com). Central rooms from 450kn, rooms in Gruž and Lapad from 400kn.

Apartments & Rooms Biličić Privežna 2 ☎ 020 417 152 & ☎ 098 802 111, 🌐 dubrovnik-online.com/apartments\_bilicic. Well-equipped rooms and four-person

THE DUBROVNIK SUMMER FESTIVAL

Dubrovnik's prestigious Summer Festival (☎ 020 326 100, 🌐 dubrovnik-festival.hr) from July 10 to August 25 is an enjoyable time to visit, with high-quality classical concerts and contemporary theatre performances in many of the city's courtyards, squares and bastions. Book well in advance or you may end up without a proper seat.

apartments a 10min walk uphill from town. There's a gorgeous garden – complete with tortoises – and genial owner Marija offers free picks-ups, internet access and laundry service. Doubles 450kn, apartments 900kn

City Walls Hostel Sv Šimuna 15 ☎091 799 2086, [citywalls hostel.com](http://citywalls hostel.com). A fun, stylish hostel in a great Old Town location with superb views, free wi-fi and internet, and a communal kitchen. Breakfast included. Dorms 200kn, doubles 550kn

Hostel Marker Svetog Đurđa 6 ☎091 739 7545, hostelmarkerdubrovnik.hostel.com. A range of comfortable rooms and four-bed apartments spread between five old houses beneath the Lovrjenac Fort. Doubles 440kn, apartments 1500kn

Hostel Villa Angelina Old Town Plovani Skalini 17a ☎091 893 9089, hostelangelinaoldtowndubrovnik.com. Views of Dubrovnik's famous red-roofed skyline don't come much better than from the top floors of this tall house in the Old Town's northwest corner. Neat dorm rooms on site and some private doubles at a separate address just down the steps. Socializing areas are small, but staff are really helpful. Dorms 460kn, doubles 920kn

Karmen Apartments Bandureva 1 ☎020 323 433, karmendu.com. Make like a real Ragusan and splash out on a stay at the exquisitely and artfully decorated Karmen Apartments. These four homely apartments (sleeping 2–3) are full of personal touches and offer amazing views of the harbour and city walls. Marc, the owner, is a wealth of local information. Apartments 650kn

Old Town Hostel Od Sigurate 7 ☎099 444 4111, facebook.com/DubrovnikOldTownHostel. Functional twins and triples squeezed into a lovely Old Town house with plenty of exposed stonework. The communal kitchen/common room is snug and sociable and the staff are full of local knowledge. Breakfast included. Doubles 700kn

EATING

There's a morning market (Mon–Sat) at Gundulićeva Poljana in the Old Town, and a supermarket in the same square.

The Gaffe Irish Pub Miha Pracata 4. Ignore the sports pub exterior – The Gaffe offers excellent hearty home cooking at reasonable prices. Low-season lunch specials such as beef stew and dumplings are only 30kn. Food served at lunchtime only. Daily 9am–1am.

Kamenice Gundulićeva Poljana 8. A simple fish restaurant where waitresses in white clogs serve cheap portions of whitebait (56kn) and locals sometimes break into song over the delicious kamenice (oysters; 10kn each). Daily: summer 8am–midnight; winter 8am–9pm.

Lokanda Peskarija Na Ponti. Right on the old harbour with a huge terrace and great views, this seafood-only restaurant serves up a small but fantastic menu including mussels (60kn) and a fish platter (180kn for two people). Daily 8am–1am.

★ Nishta Prijeko bb. A meal at this stylish vegetarian café makes a welcome change from Croatia's meat and fish staples. A healthy portion of vegetable curry will set you back 85kn, and there's a fresh salad bar too (30–59kn). March–Dec Mon–Sat noon–11pm.

Oyster & Sushi Bar "Bota" Od Pustijerne bb. Worth splashing out on, "Bota" offers fresh-as-you-like sushi and sashimi for 7kn/piece, and tempura oysters (12kn/piece) straight from the restaurant's renowned oyster farm in Mali Ston. April–Oct daily 10am–1am.

Pantarul Kralja Tomislava 1 30 ☎020 333 486. A leading force in the trend for modern Adriatic cooking, Pantarul (or "fork" in local dialect) takes inspiration from both old-school recipes and modern fusion. Signature dishes like gnocchi with octopus (95kn) or monkfish brodet (110kn) use local ingredients; there are also some superbly crafted desserts and a serious list of wines and cocktails. Book ahead in summer. Daily noon–4pm & 6pm–midnight.

Taj Mahal Nikole Gučetića 2. Don't be fooled by the name – Taj Mahal, tucked away off the Stradun, offers traditional Bosnian dishes such as stuffed aubergines (40kn), veal in pastry (80kn) and baklava (25kn) in an exotic interior. Daily 10am–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

★ Buža Accessed from Ilije Sarake. Reached via a hole in the city walls, this is a stunning spot for a dip in the sea and a drink, with a cluster of tables perched on rocky terraces. Its more expensive (34kn/beer) sister bar, Buža II, is at Crijevičeva 9. Both daily 10am–late, depending on the weather.

Buzz Bar Prijeko 21. Convivial café-bar where a healthy mix of young locals and foreign interlopers makes up the crowd. A good choice of wines by the glass, the odd craft beer, inexpensive cocktails and milkshakes. Cover bands sometimes squeeze into the corner. Mon–Sat 7am–2am, Sun 9am–midnight.

Culture Club Revelin Sv. Dominika 3 clubrevelin.com. The stocky Revelin Fort makes an amazing venue for club nights and gigs, attracting international DJs – check their website and posters for listings and cover charge. Wed–Sat 10pm–late.

★ D'Vino Palmotićeva 4a. There are quite a few wine bars lurking in the Old Town's alleys, but D'Vino is one of the oldest and best. The alley invariably fills with enthusiastic drinkers on warm summer evenings. Daily noon–2am.

La Bodega Stradun bb. A wine bar on three floors that soon fills up despite its relatively large size. The recipe is simple: a serious but not over-expensive wine list; platters of Croatian pršut, cheese and olives to keep the stomach rumbles at bay; and a crowd-pleasing pop-disco soundtrack. Daily 8am–2am.

Rock Club Exit Boškovićeve 2. A year-round favourite with locals, although it loses out in the summer months due to its first-floor location. Setting the tone are album covers and rock-star photos on the walls, and more or less permanently hard-riffing background music. Daily 6pm–2am.

Sky Bar Brsalje 11, Pile. Formerly known as Latino Club Fuego, this popular disco just outside Pile Gate has been something of a nightlife landmark for successive generations of locals and tourists. Featuring mainstream dance music and the odd themed party night, it's an enjoyable after-midnight option. Daily 11pm–6am.

DIRECTORY

Hospital Roka Mišetića 2 ☎ 020 431 777.

Left luggage Bus station (daily 4.30am–10.30pm; first hour 5kn, thereafter 1.5kn/hr).

Pharmacy Kod Zvonika, Stradun (Mon–Sat 7am–8pm).

Post office Široka (Mon–Fri 7.30am–9pm, Sat 10am–5pm).

TÝN CHURCH AT DUSK, PRAGUE

Czech Republic

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Prague Row through the golden city at dusk. See p.188
- ❷ Sedlec ossuary See human bones in the subterranean ossuary at Sedlec. See p.197
- ❸ Český Krumlov Forget the Renaissance ever ended at this fairytale town. See p.199
- ❹ Plzeň Visit the home of Pilsner Urquell, the original lager. See p.200
- ❺ Karlovy Vary Indulge in some spa treatments at this lovely town in the mountains. See p.201
- ❻ Olomouc Discover the capital of an ancient empire. See p.205

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.185

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €40, occasional treat €50

Drink Pilsner Urquell €1.50

Food Pork and dumplings €5

Hostel/budget hotel €15/€40

Travel Train: Prague–Karlovy Vary €12; bus: €6

FACT FILE

Population 10.5 million

Language Czech

Currency Czech koruna (Kč)

Capital Prague

International phone code +420

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

“Prague never lets you go,” said Franz Kafka, “this dear little mother has claws”. Prague gets her golden claws into tourists too, and few ever make it outside the capital. But those who tear themselves away won’t be sorry; the colonnade- and park-filled spa towns, Bohemia’s Renaissance breweries and hilltop ruins, and the tumbling vineyards and rolling hills of Moravia are worth a week of anyone’s time.

7

Sitting in the middle of Europe, with Germany to the west, Poland to the north, Slovakia to the east and Austria to the south, the Czech Republic is firmly entrenched in Central Europe. Although the country is relatively small, the variety in landscape and architecture is enormous, encompassing the forests and rolling countryside of Bohemia, peaceful spa towns like Karlovy Vary, Moravia’s spectacular karst region and historic towns like Olomouc and Český Krumlov.

CHRONOLOGY

Fourth century BC The Celtic “Boii” tribe inhabit the area now known as Bohemia.

500s AD Slavic tribes arrive.

830 AD The Great Moravian Empire is established on the Morava River.

907 Hungarians conquer the Great Moravian Empire.

1355 Charles IV, “the father of the Czech nation”, is crowned Holy Roman Emperor.

1415 Protestant reformer Jan Hus is burned at the stake, sparking decades of religious conflict.

1458 George of Poděbrady is crowned.

1526 King Ferdinand I, a Habsburg, takes the Czech throne, and begins a project of re-Catholicization.

1620 The Protestant nobility is defeated by Catholic forces at the Battle of White Mountain.

1800s Rapid growth in nationalism and industrialization.

1918 The independent republic of Czechoslovakia is founded at the end of World War I.

1938 German troops annexe the Sudetenlands along Bohemia’s borders.

1945 German occupation ends as the Allies move in.

1948 The Communist Party seizes control of Czechoslovakia.

1968 The “Prague Spring” sees a brief period of political liberalization; the USSR responds by invading.

1989 The Velvet Revolution. Czechoslovakia becomes a democracy with playwright Václav Havel as president.

1993 The Czech Republic and Slovakia peacefully separate into two states.

2004 The Czech Republic joins the EU.

2007 The Czech Republic joins the EU’s Schengen Treaty free movement zone.

2013 First direct presidential election is held, and Miloš Zeman becomes the new president.

2016 The government approves the use of Czechia as a catchier version of the country’s name, though this fails to catch on with the public.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

There are direct flights from more than a dozen UK airports to Václav Havel Airport (✈ 220 111 888, prg.aero), 10km northwest of Prague. Several international airlines (including Ryanair from London Stansted, and Wizz Air from London Luton) serve Brno (brno-airport.cz). Prague is served by direct train services from numerous major European cities, including Bratislava, Berlin, Vienna and Budapest.

Student Agency (see opposite) is the principal coach operator between the UK and the Czech Republic: it also runs services between Prague and other Czech cities. Alternatively, Eurolines (eurolines.com) also runs international bus services to the Czech Republic.

GETTING AROUND

Czech public transport is affordable and reliable. For train and bus times go to idos.cz.

BY TRAIN

The Czech Republic has one of the most comprehensive rail networks in Europe.

Czech Railways (České dráhy (ČD); cd.cz) runs several types of train: rychlík (R) or spěšný (Sp) trains are faster, only stopping at major towns, while osobní trains stop at every small station, averaging 30km per hour. Fast trains are further divided into SuperCity (SC), which require reservations, EuroCity (EC) or InterCity (IC), which charge a supplement, and Expres (Ex), which don't. Tickets (jízdenky) for domestic journeys can be bought at the station (nádraží) before or on the day of departure. ČD runs reasonably priced sleepers to a number of neighbouring countries, which you should book in advance. InterRail and Eurail passes are valid in the Czech Republic.

BY BUS

Regional and national buses are mostly run by small private operators. Bus stations are often alongside train stations; some have ticket offices but you can usually buy tickets from the driver. For long-distance journeys, book your ticket at least a day in advance to guarantee a seat.

Student Agency (☎841 101 101, studentagency.cz) runs an excellent, reasonably priced bus service, with direct routes between popular destinations.

BY BICYCLE

Cycling is popular in the Czech Republic, and the varied countryside provides good terrain whatever your level. Regional cycling maps (shocart.cz) are sold in bookshops. There's bike rental in all major cities and some smaller towns. See cyklistevitani.cz for more information.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation will be the largest chunk of your daily expenditure. The Czech Youth Hostel Association is affiliated with Hostelling International (czechhostels.com) and offers accommodation across the country. In addition to official hostels there are now independent backpacker digs, especially in hotspots such as Prague and Karlovy Vary. Making reservations through popular booking websites can get you some real bargains, especially in the capital which is always more expensive than the rest of the country.

Private rooms are available in all the towns on the tourist trail, and are often the cheapest option. Look out for signs with the Czech word Pokoje (rooms) or the German Zimmer Frei (free rooms), or book through a local tourist office. Prices start at around 300Kč per person.

Campsites (kemp) are plentiful but facilities are often more basic than you might be used to. Pitch prices are about 50–100Kč. Most sites have simple chalets (chaty or bungalovy) for around 200Kč per person. The Shocart map Kempy a chatové osady ČR lists Czech campsites and is sold in many bookshops. See the Czech Camping Association website (@camp.cz) for more.

7

FOOD AND DRINK

Czech menus specialize in hearty, filling fare, traditionally a combination of meat, dumplings and sauerkraut. Staples such as roast duck (pečená kachna), sirloin in cream sauce (svíčková na smetaně) or roast pork (vepřová pečeně) are omnipresent, and can be delicious or boring, depending on the chef. Desserts include strudel (závin), fruit dumplings (ovocné knedlíky) and pancakes (paláčky).

Prague and bigger towns offer a fairly wide choice of non-Czech restaurants, and even small towns have a pizzeria and a Vietnamese/Chinese restaurant. Vegetarian food is easier to come by in cities, but in rural areas the choice is usually between fried cheese (smažený sýr) and fried cauliflower (smažený květák).

A jídlna or bufet is a self-service canteen selling cheap meals, sandwiches and snacks. A bageterie is a sandwich shop, and a pekařství is a bakery, which often sells open sandwiches as well as bread, rolls, buns and cakes – not to be confused with a cukrárna, or cake shop. A pivnice is a pub without food, while a hospoda or hostinec is a pub that serves meals. A čajovna is a teahouse, which might serve snacks, while kavárna means both coffeehouse and café, and will serve cakes and sometimes meals. A vinárna is a wine bar and a restaurace is a restaurant.

Restaurants and pubs usually open at about 11am and close between 11pm and 2am, but rarely serve food in the last few hours of the day. Lunchtime is early – 11.30am–1.30pm; if you arrive late, popular dishes will be gone. Waiters sometimes bring pretzels or a basket of bread to the table, which may seem free but will appear on the bill if eaten. Most restaurants and pubs do not charge service and tipping is not common – instead, round up the bill to the nearest 10Kč or 50Kč. In pubs it's customary to sit with strangers when seats are scarce: just ask if the space is free (Máte tedy volno?), and wish fellow diners a good meal (Dobrou chut).

DRINK

The Czechs drink more beer (pivo) per capita than anyone else in the world – hardly surprising given the high quality and low price of Czech beer. The most famous brands are Pilsner Urquell, from Plzeň, and Budvar, from České Budějovice. Even small canteens and cafés have beer on tap. Southern Moravia is a wine-growing region, and produces some good whites. Other specialities include Moravian slivovice, devilishly strong plum brandy, and Becherovka, a herb liquor from Karlovy Vary.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

It can be easy to mistake the Czechs' shyness for surliness, and people who speak good English may well tell you that they don't speak it at all – it's often from lack of confidence rather than unfriendliness, and if you can get past some initial resistance, people are usually helpful and kind. Obviously, it helps if you learn some basic words – Dobrý den (hello), Na shledanou (goodbye), Prosím (please) and Děkuji (thank you) will take you far.

SPORTS AND ACTIVITIES

Football is the country's national sport. In Prague, you can see two of the top teams, Sparta (@sparta.cz) and Slavia (@slavia.cz). Matches are usually on Saturdays from August to November and March to May.

Almost as popular as football is ice hockey: bars in most towns show matches on the TV, or you can watch games in stadiums during the season: check ☞ hokej.cz for details of fixtures and tickets. There are plenty of outdoor activities such as cycling, hiking and rock climbing to be enjoyed in Bohemia, as well as caving in the Moravian karst.

COMMUNICATIONS

Most post offices (pošta) are open Monday to Friday 9am to 5pm, Saturday 9am to noon. Signs over the counters show where to queue: známky (stamps), dopisy (letters) or balíky (parcels). Stamps are also sold at newsagents and kiosks. Some public phones take phonecards (telefonní karty), available from post offices, kiosks and some shops, though others still accept coins. Local SIM cards are cheap (200Kč) and call charges low, so non-EU citizens may want to buy a local SIM card. There are no roaming charges for EU citizens.

EMERGENCIES

Like any major city Prague has a pickpocket problem. Danger-spots are

CZECH

Yes
No
Please/You're welcome
Thank you
Good day/Hello
Goodbye
Excuse me
Sorry
Where?
Good Bad Near Far
Cheap
Expensive
Open
Closed
Today
Yesterday
Tomorrow
How much is it?
What time is it?
I don't understand
Do you speak English?
I don't understand Czech
Toilet
Square Station Platform
One
Two Three Four Five
Six
Seven
Eight
Nine
Ten

CZECH

Ano
Ne
Prosím
Děkuji
Dobrý den
Na shledanou
Promiňte
Pardon
Kde?
Dobrý
Špatný
Blízko
Daleko
Levný
Drahý
Otevřeno
Zavřeno
Dnes
Včera
Zítřka
Kolik to stojí?
Kolik je hodin?
Nerozumím
Mluvíte Anglicky?
Nerozumím Český
Toaleta
Náměstí
Nádraží
Nástupišť
Jeden
Dva
Tři
Čtyři
Pět
Šest
Sedm
Osm
Devět
Deset

PRONUNCIATION

Ah-no
Neh
Pro-seem Dye-koo-yi
Dob-ree den
Nash-leh-dan-oh
Prom-in-teh
Pardon
Kde?
Dobree
Shpatnee
Bleez-ko
Dah-lek-o
Levnee
Dranee
Ot-evsh-en-o
Zavsh-en-o
Dnes
Vch-er-a
Zeet-ra
Kol-ik toh sto-yee?
Kol-ik ye hod-in?
Ne-rozoo-meem
Mluv-ee-te ang-lit-skee?
Ne-rozoo-meem Chess-kee
Toh-aleta
Nam-yest-yee
Nah-dra-shee
Nah-stoopish-tyeh
Yed-en
Dva
Trshi
Shtiri
Pyet
Shest
Sed-um
Oss-um
Dev-yet
Dess-et

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police ☎ 158; Fire ☎ 150; Ambulance ☎ 155; General emergency number, EU-wide ☎ 112.

Old Town Square, Charles Bridge, Wenceslas Square, the #22 tram and in the metro. The area around Hlavní nádraží (main station) and the park at Karlovo náměstí (Charles Square) are used by drug addicts and prostitutes at night. By law you should carry your passport with you.

Pharmacies (lékárna) are easy to find but not always English-speaking. If you need a repeat prescription take the empty bottle or remaining pills.

INFORMATION

Most towns have a tourist office (informační centrum) with English-speaking staff. You can find maps (mapa) in tourist offices, bookshops and petrol stations.

MONEY AND BANKS

The local currency is the Czech crown, or koruna česká (Kč), though some tourist-oriented services list prices in euros. At the time of writing £1 = 35Kč, €1 = 27Kč and $1 = 24Kč. Banks are usually open Monday to Friday 9am to 5pm and there are plenty of ATMs.

CZECH REPUBLIC ONLINE

🌐 czech.cz Basic information on the Czech Republic.

🌐 czechtourism.com Official tourist board website.

🌐 expats.cz Website for Prague's expat community with useful practical information and events listings.

🌐 radio.cz/english News and cultural events.

🌐 ticketpro.cz, 🌐 ticketstream.cz Two good sites for finding out what's on around the country and booking tickets online.

🌐 slovník.cz Online dictionary.

STUDENT DISCOUNTS

Students with an ISIC card get discounts of up to fifty percent, even on some national bus services.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Most shops are open Monday to Friday 9am to 5 or 6pm, though in larger towns some shops open at weekends: corner shops (večerka) tend to stay open daily till 10 or 11pm. Museums and galleries generally close on Mondays but churches usually open daily; synagogues are closed on Saturdays and Jewish holidays.

Public holidays include January 1, Easter Monday, May 1, May 8, July 5 and 6, September 28, October 28, November 17, December 24–26.

Prague

Historical, whimsical, hedonistic and cynical, PRAGUE bewilders, bedazzles and befuddles its visitors in equal measure. Since the fall of the Iron Curtain in 1989, tourism and investment have poured in, turning the previously soot-streaked Communist capital into a buzzing metropolis.

Prince Bořivoj, an early Christian, founded the first Czech dynasty in 870, and his grandson, Prince Václav (the Good King Wenceslas of the Christmas carol), became the Czech patron saint after being murdered by his younger brother Boleslav I. Prague experienced a golden age under the urbane emperor, Charles IV, a polylingual patron of the arts whose court was the heart of fourteenth-century Europe. Charles founded the university as well as an entire new quarter, Nové Město, and built Charles Bridge, St Vitus' Cathedral and many other churches. A long period of Austro-Hungarian rule gave Prague its Italianate Baroque facades and high-minded coffeehouses, while the National Revival reasserted the Slavic identity of the city and added buildings such as the National Theatre and the Rudolfinum. The short-lived First Republic, modelled on American democracy, crashed when Nazi troops marched into Czechoslovakia, and President Beneš's decision to accept German "protection" was a dark moment in the nation's history, but probably saved the city from decimation. In 1948 Communism arrived in a wave of stained concrete, bringing a few architectural pearls along with the swine. The period since 1989 has seen rapid construction, but with a few exceptions, such as Jean Nouvel's Golden Angel in Smíchov and Karlín's Danube building, it's been unremarkable in character. Not so the restaurants, hotels, bars and clubs, which have, to some extent, re-awoken Prague's slumbering decadence.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Flowing from the east towards Germany, the Vltava divides Prague down the middle. Hradčany and Malá Strana, once home to the Austro-Hungarian elite, sit primarily on the left bank, faced by the busier commercial quarters, Staré Město, Josefov and Nové Město.

Hradčany, home to the castle and St Vitus' Cathedral, tumbles into Malá Strana (Little Quarter), a maze of cobbles, distinctive house signs and red roofs, where you'll find the Czech senate's Baroque gardens Valdštejnská zahrada (Mon–Fri 7.30am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm), which back onto Malostranská metro.

Over the river is Staré Město (Old Town), a delicate web of alleys and crooked streets that generally meet up at Staroměstské náměstí, the Old Town Square. Within Staré Město is the old Jewish quarter, Josefov, some of which is now a luxury shopping area.

Nové Město (New Town), the most central part of the modern city, spans the largest area of old Prague, with blocks stretching south and east of the old town in long strides.

Prague Castle

Once the heart of the Holy Roman Empire, Prague Castle (daily: buildings 9am–5pm; grounds 6am–10pm; www.hrad.cz) is home to the Czech president and crown jewels. Wandering the grounds is free, but to enter the buildings, including St Vitus Cathedral, the Old Royal Palace and the Basilica of St George, you need to buy a ticket from the Castle Information Centre, opposite the cathedral entrance (long-visit or short-visit options 250–350Kč; valid for two days).

St Vitus' Cathedral

Medieval St Vitus' Cathedral, which broods over the Prague skyline, is scarcely visible close up; the Third Courtyard surrounds it too tightly. The Chapel of sv Václav, by the south door, was built in the fourteenth century to commemorate the Czech prince Saint Wenceslas (Václav), murdered by his brother Boleslav I. A door in the south wall leads to the coronation chamber, which houses the crown jewels.

Old Royal Palace

The Old Royal Palace (Starý královský palác), across the courtyard from the south door of the cathedral, was home to Bohemian royalty from the eleventh to the seventeenth centuries. The massive Gothic Vladislav Hall (Vladislavský sál), where the early Bohemian kings were elected, is still used as the venue for the presidential swearing-in ceremony.

Basilica of St George

The Basilica of St George (Bazilika sv Jiří), with its beautifully austere Romanesque interior, was originally built in 1173. Classical music concerts are often held here.

Golden Lane

Golden Lane (Zlatá ulička), round the corner from the basilica, is a street of toy-sized tradesmen's cottages, as bright and compact as a watercolour box. Franz Kafka briefly lived at no. 22, his sister's house, during World War I.

The Royal Gardens

North of the castle walls, cross the Powder Bridge (Prašný most) to reach the Royal Gardens (Královská zahrada; April–Oct daily 10am–6pm; free), and enjoy the view over Little Quarter surrounded by fountains, sloping lawns and almond trees.

Hradčanské náměstí

Aristocratic palaces lie across Hradčanské náměstí like a pod of beached whales. A passage down the side of the Archbishop's Palace leads to Šternberg Palace (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 150Kč; www.ngprague.cz), home to the National Gallery's European art collection that contains pieces by Rubens, Cranch and El Greco. At Jiřská 3 is Lobkowicz Palace (daily 10am–6pm; 275Kč; lobkowicz.cz), full of aristocratic bric-a-brac. A passage at Pohorelec 8 leads to Strahov Monastery (Strahovský klášter) with its exquisite Baroque library (daily 9am–noon & 1–5pm; 100Kč; strahovskyclaster.cz), which displays peculiar and sublime artefacts from illuminated manuscripts to dried whale penises.

April–Sept 10am–10pm; Nov–Feb 10am–6pm; 120Kč).

Charles Bridge

Linking Malá Strana to Staré Město is Prague's most celebrated landmark, Charles Bridge (Karlův most), begun in 1357. Among the many statues that line the bridge is Czech patron saint John of Nepomuk, thrown off the bridge by Wenceslas IV for refusing to divulge the queen's confessions. It's best seen at dawn, or late at night, when the crowds have dispersed.

7 Old Town Square

Old Town Square (Staroměstské náměstí) was the city's main marketplace from the eleventh century until the nineteenth century. On the west side is the medieval astronomical clock (Pražský orloj), which gives a mechanical show featuring saints, deadly sins and Jesus (9am–9pm hourly on the hour). Across the square are the dour Gothic steeples of Týn Church; if you look closely, one steeple is slightly bigger – they represent Adam and Eve. In the centre of the square is the Jan Hus Monument, built in 1915 to mark the 500th anniversary of the Protestant reformer's execution.

Josefov

Northwest of Old Town Square is Josefov, a mixture of narrow cobbled streets – the remains of the old Jewish ghetto, and wide Art Nouveau boulevards – the legacy of 1890s slum clearance.

The Old Jewish Cemetery is a poignant reminder of the ghetto, its inhabitants overcrowded even in death. To the south is the Pinkas Synagogue, inscribed with the names of 80,000 Czechoslovak Jews killed by the Nazis. The Old-New Synagogue, Europe's oldest, is the heart of Prague's Jewish community. Opposite is the Jewish Town Hall (Židovská radnice), with its distinctive anticlockwise clock. East of Pařížská is the gorgeous neo-Byzantine Spanish Synagogue (Španělská synagoga), which hosts classical concerts.

The Jewish Quarter sights can be accessed with one ticket, available from the office at ul Maiselova 38 (daily except Sat & Jewish holidays winter 9am–4.30pm, summer 9am–6pm; 480Kč, 320Kč for students under 26; www.jewishmuseum.cz).

Museum of Decorative Arts

In a neo-Renaissance palace opposite the Rudolfinum, the Museum of Decorative Arts, 17 Listopadu 2 (Tues 10am–7pm, Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; 120Kč; www.upm.cz) has a splendid collection of glass, clothes, pottery, clocks and dresses spanning a thousand years: it's currently closed for renovation.

Mucha Museum

A turning halfway along Na příkopě leads to the Mucha Museum at Panská 7 (daily 10am–6pm; 240Kč; www.mucha.cz), dedicated to the Czech Art Nouveau designer and painter Alfons Mucha.

Municipal House

The most impressive façade on náměstí Republiky is the Municipal House (Obecní dům), a delightful example of Czech Art Nouveau containing a concert hall, restaurants, café, and frescoes by Mucha. You can get in by taking the

FRANZ KAFKA

Franz Kafka was born in 1883 to middle-class Czech Jewish parents who ran a haberdashery in Old Town. His ambivalent relationship with Prague is reflected in his trademark tone of anxious claustrophobia – “A cage went in search of a bird”, he once wrote. You can see the building where he worked as a clerk at na poříčí 7, and his homes on Golden Lane (no. 22) and Old Town Square (Oppelt building). Kafka went to fortnightly meetings at Café Louvre (see p.194) and also frequented Café Savoy in Malá Strana, where he first met the actor Isaac Lowy, who re-awakened his interest in Jewish culture. The Kafka Museum at Cihelna 2b (daily 10am–6pm; 200Kč; www.kafkamuseum.cz) displays first editions and manuscripts, personal letters, diaries and drawings – and gives an insight into one of the most intriguing minds of the twentieth century.

overpriced guided tour (two or three daily; 290Kč), or drink tea in the gilded café and enjoy a decent Czech meal in the basement restaurant for rather less.

Museum of Communism

Situated, with delicious irony, above McDonald's, the privately run Museum of Communism on Na Příkopě 10 (daily 9am–9pm; 190Kč; ☎ muzeumkomunismu.cz) draws a sensational picture of life behind the Iron Curtain in all its grim monotony, from propaganda and labour camps to shopping and TV.

Wenceslas Square

The well-oiled axle of modern Prague is Wenceslas Square (Václavské náměstí), a mass of glitzy high-street shops, greasy sausage stands and the odd sleazy establishment dating back to the 1990s. It was here that protesters gathered to topple Communism in the Velvet Revolution. At the top end is a statue of St Wenceslas on his horse. Below is a small memorial to 21-year-old student Jan Palach, who burnt himself to death in protest against the Russian invasion of 1968, becoming a symbol of Czech resistance.

Museum of Modern Art

Take tram #12, #17 or #24 to the Museum of Modern Art (Veletržní palác; Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 220Kč), in the Trade Fair Palace. This stately piece of 1920s functionalism houses works by Klimt, Picasso and the French Impressionists as well as Mucha's cycle of huge paintings called The Slav Epic.

DOX Centre for Contemporary Art

DOX (Wed & Fri 11am–7pm; Thurs 11am–9pm; Sat–Mon 10am–6pm; 180Kč, students 90Kč; ☎ dox.cz) showcases modern painting, sculpture, architecture, design and photography. One of the most intriguing venues in town, it's hosted the likes of Andy Warhol and Damien Hirst, as well as Czech artists such as sculptor David Černý and émigré architect Jan Kaplický.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Prague's Václav Havel airport (letišťe) is 10km from the city centre (☎ prg.aero). To get into town, catch a bus then a metro: bus #119 (4am–midnight; every 7–15min; 20min) goes to ☎ Dejvická on line A, and bus #100 to ☎ Žličin on line B. "Fixed-price" taxis are expensive, about 400Kč to the centre.

By train Coming by train, you'll arrive at one of Prague's four stations: Praha hlavní nádraží (Prague Main Station), where most international trains arrive/depart; Praha Holešovice station; Praha Masarykovo; or Praha Smíchov. All four are adjacent to metro stations.

Destinations Berlin (every 2hr; 4hr 30min); Bratislava (5 daily; 4hr); České Budějovice (up to 10 daily; 2hr 20min); Dresden (5 daily; 2hr 15min); Karlovy Vary (4 daily; 3hr 15min); Olomouc (1–2 hourly; 2–3hr); Plzeň (hourly; 1hr 40min); Vienna (3 daily; 4hr).

By bus The main bus station is Praha-Florenc on the eastern edge of Staré Město, right next to ☎ Florenc (line B). At night this can be shady, so don't loiter. Most buses depart from Praha-Florenc. For Student Agency buses, book ahead (see p.185) at their main office in the Florenc bus station.

Destinations Berlin (hourly; 4hr 45min–5hr 30min); Bratislava (up to 10 daily; 5hr); Brno (every 30min–1hr; 2hr 20min–3hr); České Budějovice (up to 10 daily; 2hr 30min–3hr 30min); Český Krumlov (hourly; 3hr; typically leaves from Na Knížecí bus station near metro Anděl); Karlovy Vary (hourly; 2hr 10min–2hr 40min); Kutná Hora (Mon–Fri hourly; 1hr 40min; leaves from Háje metro station); Plzeň (hourly; 1hr); Vienna (hourly; 4–5hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Prague City Tourism can provide maps and brochures, and help with accommodation and tickets. There are several branches around town (Mon–Fri 9am–6/7pm, Sat 9am–3/5pm; April–Oct also Sun 9am–5pm; ☎ praguewelcome.com), including the main office in the Old Town Hall at Staroměstské náměstí 5, and branches at Rytiřská 31 at the bottom of Wenceslas Square (near ☎ Můstek) and at Prague Airport.

GETTING AROUND

By metro The metro (daily 5am–midnight) is fast, reliable and – with only three lines (for the time being) – easy to navigate.

By tram Running every 3–20min, Prague's trams cross the city's hills and cobbles with great dexterity. Tram #22, which runs through Vinohrady and Hradčany, is a good option for sightseeing. Night trams (numbers #51–#59; midnight–4.30am; every 30min) all pass through Lazarská in Nové Město.

By taxi Prague cabbies are notoriously wily, so it is best to call a taxi – AAA has English-speaking operators (☎ 14 0 14), as does Profi Taxi (☎ 14 0 15). If you have to hail a cab,

RIVER CRUISE

Prague is most beautiful from the water. Boat trips down the Vltava last between an hour and a day; there are lunch and dinner cruises and jazz and club boats with live music. Buy tickets on the riverbank at Čechův Bridge or Embankment nábreží, or pre-book with Prague Boats (☎ 724 202 505, 🌐 prague-boats.cz; prices start at 300Kč) or Jazzboat (☎ 731 183 180, 🌐 jazzboat.cz; 690Kč with option for dinner).

7

look for the Fair Place taxi sign, get a quote beforehand, and ask for a receipt (účtenka).

Travel passes If you're planning to use public transport regularly, buy a travel pass (110Kč/24hr, 310Kč/72hr); remember to validate it on your first journey. Alternatively, the Praguecard (🌐 praguecard.com) gives you four days' unlimited transport and entry to fifty attractions (1780Kč, students 1300Kč): two-day (1300Kč) and three-day (1570Kč) versions are also available.

Tickets Buy tickets at tobacconists, kiosks or the ticket machines inside metro stations and by some tram stops, then validate them in the yellow machines on trams or at the metro entrance. There are two main tickets: the 32Kč ticket is valid for 90min; the 24Kč is valid for 30min. Plain-clothes inspectors check tickets and there is a fine of 800Kč on the spot (1500Kč to pay later) if you don't have a valid ticket.

Bike rental Praha Bike (Dlouhá 24; daily 9am–8pm; 🌐 prahabike.cz) rents bikes and organizes tours around Prague for 490Kč for a tour (2hr 30min) or 500Kč for an 8hr rental. City Bike (Královská 5; daily 9am–7pm, 🌐 citybike-prague.com) offers bike rental with an optional MP3 audio tour (750Kč for 24hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Prague's most central hotels are in Staré Město, Nové Město and Malá strana, or you can pay less further out. Vinohrady is picturesque, with great wine bars and restaurants, Žižkov is down at heel but lively at night, Vyšehrad is pretty and sedate. You can find apartments and rooms on 🌐 prague-city-apartments.cz and 🌐 praguecentralapartments.com. The city's Charles University rents out student rooms over the summer; booking office at Vršbická 1, Nové Město (Mon–Fri only; ☎ 224 930 010; beds July to mid-Sept; from 350Kč).

★ Czech Inn Francouzská 76, Vinohrady ☎ 267 267 612, 🌐 czech-inn.com. With oak floors, brushed aluminium and discarded backpacks, Czech Inn has a part youth hostel, part luxury hotel vibe. In Vinohrady, it has a café-bar with live music, great staff and a 24-hour reception, plus dorms, private rooms (en-suite and shared bath) and apartments.

Metro to Náměstí Míru, then tram #4 or #22 to Krymská. Dorms 300Kč, doubles 1520Kč

Dlouhá Pension and Hostel (Travellers' Hostel) Dlouhá 33, Staré Město ☎ 224 826 662, 🌐 travellers.cz; 🌐 namesti-republiky.cz. Large party hostel a 5min walk from Old Town Square and next door to Roxy music club. There's a kitchen and a 24hr reception. Breakfast included. Dorms 405Kč, doubles 850Kč

Hostel Downtown Národní 19, Nové Město ☎ 224 240 570, 🌐 hosteldowntown.cz. Clean, garishly decorated HI-affiliated hostel that offers dorms as well as private rooms with either shared or private baths. Dorms 720Kč, doubles 2100Kč

Hostel Prague Týn Týnská 19, Staré Město ☎ 224 808 301, 🌐 hostelprague.tyn.cz; 🌐 namesti-republiky.cz. Just 200m from Old Town Square, this funkily designed hostel is clean and colourful, if a bit small: price includes breakfast. Dorms 375Kč

Hostel Santini Nerudova 14, Malá Strana ☎ 257 316 191, 🌐 hostelsantini-prague.com. In a prime position on the tourist trip up to the castle, this well-run hostel in a typical Malá Strana townhouse has antique touches and its own café bar. Dorms 630Kč

Hostel Sokol Nosticova 2, Malá Strana ☎ 257 007 397, 🌐 hostelsokol.cz. Overlooking the river, this hostel has immaculate, spartan dorms (originally used by Communist athletes) full of brass and white linen. Dorms 350Kč

Little Town Hotel Malostranské náměstí 11/260, Malá strana ☎ 242 406 965, 🌐 littletownhotel.cz; 🌐 malostranska.cz. In the shadow of St Nicholas Cathedral, this hotel/hostel is fresh, if a little barren. Choose from dorms or private rooms with en suite or shared bath. Dorms 400Kč, doubles 1620Kč

Sir Toby's Dělnická 24 ☎ 246 032 611, 🌐 sirtobys.com; 🌐 nadrizi-holesovice.cz or tram stop Dělnická. Upmarket suburban hostel with a garden, cellar bar, lounge, large kitchen and dorms that look like pricey hotel rooms stretched. Dorms 530Kč, doubles 1900Kč

EATING

Prague food is not just meat and dumplings – now you can find anything from French and Korean to Mexican and Vietnamese. Restaurants are affordable, especially at lunchtime (11.30am–1.30pm) when pubs and bistros run cheap daily offers. Prague has a thriving café culture, and watching the streetlife from an old-fashioned coffeehouse, with a slice of strudel or honey cake, is one of the city's great pleasures.

CAFÉS

★ Café Louvre Národní 22, Nové Město 🌐 cafelouvre.cz; 🌐 narodni-trida.cz. Lovely Art Nouveau coffeehouse as rich and delectable as the classic sacher torte. There's a billiard hall, good-value lunch menu and a shady terrace. Mon–Fri 8am–11.30pm, Sat & Sun 9am–11.30pm.

Ebel Coffeehouse Řetězová 9, Staré Město; ☎ Staroměstská. Excellent place to escape the crowded streets and indulge in a good cup of coffee, breakfast or light snack. Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat & Sun 8.30am–8pm.

Friends Coffee House Palackého 7, Nové Město ☎ milujikavu.cz; ☎ Můstek. Try their freshly roasted coffee and home-made sandwiches or sip a glass of wine. Hosts music performances, readings and photograph exhibitions. Mon–Fri 9am–9pm, Sat & Sun noon–8pm.

Svatováclavská cukrárna Václavská pasáž, Karlovo náměstí 6, Nové Město; ☎ Karlovo náměstí. Join the local pensioners for a glass of cheap Turkish coffee and a slice of strudel at this busy cukrárna within the glass-roofed Václavská pasáž. Mon–Fri 8am–7pm, Sat & Sun 8am–9am.

Velryba Opatovická 24, Nové Město ☎ kavarnavelryba.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Long-established, grungy but authentic hippy-student hangout opposite the Church of sv Michala serving Žatec beer, cheap pasta and lots of meat. Mon–Fri 11am–midnight, Sat 5pm–midnight.

Zlatý kříž Jungmannovo nám. 19, Nové Město ☎ lahudkyzlatykriz-praha.cz; ☎ Můstek. A meaty slice of Czech culture, this popular stand-up lunch-bar serves Prague's best chlebičky (ornate open sandwiches) for only 16Kč, plus cold cuts, rolls and beer on tap. Mon–Fri 6.30am–7pm, Sat 9am–3pm.

RESTAURANTS

Barácknická rychta Tržiště 23, Malá Strana ☎ baracknickarychta.cz; ☎ Malostranská. Popular local stashed in a back alley in the tourist district. Good food, outdoor seating in the quiet courtyard, and Svijany, a superb beer, on tap. Mains 150–295Kč. Mon–Sat 11am–11pm, Sun 11am–9pm.

Country Life Melantrichova 15, Staré Město ☎ countrylife.cz; ☎ Můstek. Around the corner from Old Town Square, this packed vegetarian lunch spot serves hot and cold cafeteria-style food by weight (a plateful for 100–120Kč). Mon–Thurs 10.30am–7.30pm, Fri 10.30am–5pm, Sun noon–6pm.

Havelská Koruna Havelská 21, Staré Město ☎ havelska-koruna.cz; ☎ Můstek. Just a 2min walk from Old Town Square, this is not for the health-conscious, with all grandma's favourite dishes plopped on a plate by grumpy dinner ladies. Mains 42–89Kč. Daily 10am–8pm.

Kabul Krocínova 5, Staré Město ☎ kabulrestaurant.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Prague's only Afghan restaurant offers a cheap and tasty lunch menu, hookah pipes and occasional evenings of traditional music. Mains 80–290Kč. Daily 11am–11pm.

Lehká hlava Boršov 2, Staré Město ☎ lehka hlava.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Cure for Czech pub fatigue – bright, chic, non-smoking and vegetarian. Daily lunch menu for 125Kč. Mains 150–200Kč. Mon–Fri 11.30am–11.30pm, Sat & Sun noon–11.30pm.

Lokál Dlouhá 33, Staré Město ☎ ambi.cz; ☎ Náměstí Republiky. A restaurant chain that re-creates the casual atmosphere of a Czech pub but cleaned up. It's very popular and the best bet for some authentically tasty Czech food. Mains 99–195Kč. Mon–Sat 11am–1am, Sun 11am–midnight.

Mrázek Bělehradská 82, Nové Město; ☎ Náměstí Míru. Join impoverished locals for a meat-sauce-dumpling combo at this traditional jídlna (stand-up self-service canteen). No English. Mains 20–85Kč. Mon–Fri 7am–6pm, Sat 7–11am.

U Fleků Křemencova 11, Nové Město ☎ ufleky.cz; ☎ Národní třída. The look is there, and the beer is worth the trip, but this place can be a bit touristy. Food is pure Czech. Mains 199–349Kč. Daily 10am–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Pubs close between 11pm and 2am – for late-night drinking head to the city centre's bars and clubs. Pub crawls are a good way to cover a lot of ground: one popular company is Prague Pub Crawl (☎ pubcrawl.cz; 500Kč), or for something perhaps more sedate, join the Sandemans beer tour (☎ newpraguetours.com; 350Kč), which meets daily at 6pm on Old Town Square.

BARS AND PUBS

Hospoda Lucerna Vodičkova 36, Nové Město ☎ hospodalucerna.cz; ☎ Můstek. Long, loud bar popular with everyone. Decent meals and a bit of history – the pub dates back to 1908. Mon–Thurs 11am–2am, Fri 11am–3am, Sat noon–3am, Sun noon–1am.

Kláštérní pivovar Strahovské nádvoří 301, Hradčany ☎ klasterni-pivovar.cz; ☎ Malostranská. Reward yourself for the steep walk up Petřín with a delicious beer – dark and light – brewed by the monks at Strahov Monastery. Daily 10am–10pm.

Kozička Koží 1, Staré Město ☎ kozicka.cz; ☎ Staroměstská. Popular place to start and round off an evening; the underground place stays open later than most and also serves proper meals. Mon–Thurs 4pm–4am, Fri 5pm–5.30am, Sat 6pm–5.30am, Sun 7pm–3am.

Novoměstský pivovar Vodičkova 20 ☎ npivovar.cz; ☎ Můstek. Outstanding microbrewery serving its own well-tapped misty eleven percent home brew, plus monster portions of Czech sustenance, in a series of twelve sprawling beer halls and rooms, some Gothic affairs deep underground. Mon–Fri 10am–11.30pm, Sat 11.30am–11.30pm, Sun noon–10pm.

★ Prague Beer Museum Dlouhá 46, Staré Město ☎ praguebeermuseum.com; ☎ Náměstí Republiky. This smoky, no-nonsense temple to the lager gods serves up oddities rarely seen in the capital Bakalář from Rakovník, Konrad from Vratislavice and Prácheňská Perla from Protivín provide some intriguing variety. Daily 11.30am–3am.

Riegrovy Sady Beer Garden Riegrovy Sady, Vinohrady; ☎ Jiřího z Poděbrad. Pints are sold from one hut, sausages from another. There's a big screen for sport, table-football and table-hockey. Daily noon–2am (dependent on weather).

U Černého vola Loretánské náměstí 1, Hradčany; ☎ Malostranská. Great traditional Prague pub doing a brisk business providing the popular light beer Velkopopovický kožel in huge quantities to thirsty local workers, plus a few basic pub snacks. Daily 10am–10pm.

U Zlatého tygra Husova 17, Staré Město ☎ uzlatehotygra.cz; ☎ Staroměstská. If you like authenticity, this tobacco-fugged local full of noisy old men is the place for you. Pilsner on tap and no food. Daily 3–11pm.

7

CLUBS

Friends Náprstkova 1, Staré Město ☎ friendsclub.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Low-key gay bar that transforms into a raucous club on Fri and Sat nights. Daily 7pm–6am.

Karlovy Lázně Novotného lávka 1, Staré Město ☎ karlovy lazne.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Hyper-kitsch super-club on five floors, next to the Charles Bridge; techno on the top floor, progressively more retro as you descend towards the lobby. Daily 9pm–5am.

Palác Akropolis Kubelíkova 27, Žižkov ☎ palacakropolis.cz; ☎ Jiřího z Poděbrad. Art Deco mammoth Akropolis is a maze of live music, theatre, dancing and eating, with rock, house, pop, hip-hop, reggae and the rest. Mon–Thurs 11am–12.30am, Fri–Sun 11am–1.30am.

Radost FX Club Bělehradská 120, Vinohrady ☎ radostfx.cz; ☎ I. P. Pavlova. Popular central club decorated like a faux-oriental brothel and famous for its nightly parties. Visit during the day for a decent vegetarian meal. Daily 10pm–5am.

SaSaZu Bubenské nábreží 306, Holešovice ☎ sasazu.com; ☎ Vltavská. Shiny goliath of Prague nightlife modelled on the slick clubs of New York's meatpacking district, with an oriental fusion restaurant. Fri & Sat 10pm–5am.

Újezd Újezd 18, Malá Strana ☎ klubujezd.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Three-floor club popular with the young, hedonist set. Mix of live music and DJs; the bottom floor is a pub and the corridors serve as an art gallery. Daily 2pm–4am.

ENTERTAINMENT

You can find entertainment listings on the sometimes difficult to navigate Prague Events Calendar (☎ pragueeventscalendar.cz), expat websites Expats.cz (☎ expats.cz) and Prague.tv (☎ prague.tv)

LIVE MUSIC

Agharta Jazz Centrum Železná 16, Staré Město ☎ agharta.cz; ☎ Staroměstská. Prague's best jazz club, with a good mix of top international names and local acts. Daily from 9pm.

U Malého Glena Karmelitská 23, Malá Strana ☎ malyglen.cz; ☎ Malostranská. Tiny, popular jazz venue in a Little Quarter cellar with a restaurant upstairs. Daily from 9pm.

Vagon Národní třída 25, Nové Město ☎ www.vagon.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Smoky music club playing a mix of rock and reggae, bursting at the seams with long-haired students and ageing rockers. Daily from 9pm.

CLASSICAL MUSIC, OPERA AND BALLET

Národní Divadlo (National Theatre) Národní 2, Nové Město ☎ narodni-divadlo.cz; ☎ Národní třída. Grand monument to nineteenth-century nationalism, built with a brick from every village in the country. Ballet and opera performed by national and touring companies. You can also get information on ballet and opera being shown at both the State Opera (Wilsonova 4, Nové Město) and Stavovské divadlo (Ovocný trh 1, Staré Město).

Obecní dům Nám. Republiky 5, Staré Město ☎ obecni dum.cz; ☎ Náměstí Republiky. Grand Art Nouveau building hosting a range of classical concerts and festivals.

Rudolfínium Alšovo nábreží 12, Staré Město ☎ ceskafilharmonie.cz; ☎ Staroměstská. This neo-Renaissance concert hall next to the river houses the Czech Philharmonic Orchestra, creators of a thousand film soundtracks.

THEATRE

Lanterna Magika Národní 4, Nové Město ☎ narodni-divadlo.cz; ☎ Národní třída. A blend of circus, puppetry and dance. Czech theatre minus the language barrier.

National Marionette Theatre Žatecká 1, Staré Město ☎ mozart.cz; ☎ Staroměstská. Giant marionettes miming to a CD of Mozart's Don Giovanni. Silly but good fun.

Švandovo divadlo Štefánikova 57, Malá Strana ☎ svandovodivadlo.cz; ☎ Anděl. Czech theatre with English subtitles. Sit in the balcony for the best view.

CINEMA

Kino Lucerna Štěpánská 61, Nové Město ☎ kinolucerna.cz; ☎ Můstek. Nestling inside a 1930s shopping arcade off Wenceslas Square, Lucerna is a flamboyant, pint-sized Art Nouveau cinema. Czech, international, old and new films, and a quiet vintage bar.

Kino Světozor Vodičkova 41, Nové Město ☎ kinosvetozor.cz; ☎ Můstek. New releases, classics, art-house and documentaries.

ACTIVITIES

Boating Žofín or Štřelecký island; ☎ Národní třída. Pedalo and rowing boat rental from little firms on the river islands opposite the National Theatre. April–Oct; passport kept as deposit, approx 100Kč/hr.

HC Slavia 02 Arena, Libeň, hc-slavia.cz; ceskomoravska.cz. Little can top an ice hockey match, beer in one hand and sausage in the other, surrounded by a thousand bellowing Czechs.

Podolí Swimming Complex Podolska 74, Kavčí hory pspodoli.cz; prazskeho-povstani.cz. Olympic-sized indoor and outdoor pools, waterslides, saunas and lawn for sunbathing. Take tram #3 or #17 to Kublov.

SHOPPING

Bontonland Václavské náměstí 1; musek.cz. Music and film emporium buried bunker-like under the lower end of Wenceslas Square.

Manufaktura Melantrichova 17, Staré Město manufaktura.cz; musek.cz. Czech folk-inspired shop with a fantastic array of wooden toys, painted Easter eggs, straw decorations, honeycomb candles and sundry kitchen utensils. Daily 10am–8pm.

Palladium Náměstí Republiky 1, Nové Město palladiumpraha.cz; namesti-republiky.cz. Central mall with major European brands, supermarkets and a food court.

Pařížská Staré Město; staromestska.cz. This street named “Paris” resembles the broad leafy boulevards of France’s capital, and is home to Cartier, Hermes, Louis Vuitton et al. There’s more shopping on nearby Celetná and Karlova.

DIRECTORY

Embassies and consulates Australia (honorary), Klimentská 10, Nové Město 296 578 350; Canada, Ve Struhách 2, Bubeneč 272 101 800; New Zealand, Václavské náměstí 11, Nové Město 234 784 777; Ireland, Tržiště 13, Malá Strana 257 530 061; UK, Thunovská 14, Malá Strana 257 402 111; US, Tržiště 15, Malá Strana 257 022 000.

Hospital Na Františku Hospital, Na Františku 8, Staré Město 222 801 211 (24hr number, English spoken), nnfp.cz.

Internet Most hostels and hotels have wi-fi (free, or for a small fee). There’s unlimited free wi-fi at Prague Airport.

Left luggage There are lockers or left-luggage offices at all train stations.

Pharmacies Palackého 5, Nové Město (24hr; 224 946 982); Belgická 37, Vinohrady (24hr; 222 513 396).

Post office Jindřišská 14, Nové Město (daily 2am–midnight, but service is slow outside office hours).

is a picturesque spa town in the moody wooded mountains that mark the border with Germany. Southeast of here, the town of Plzeň brims with industrial vigour and Pilsner Urquell beer. Travelling east towards Slovakia you’ll reach Kutná Hora, with its sinister bone church. South of Prague, close to the Austrian border, is another beer-brewing giant, České Budějovice, home of the original Budweiser, and Český Krumlov, with its rose-coloured churches and frescoed palaces.

KUTNÁ HORA

A short bus ride from Prague, KUTNÁ HORA has a handful of tourist attractions and a sleepy, provincial atmosphere. Beneath the town are kilometres of exhausted silver and gold mines. From 1308, Bohemia’s royal mint at Kutná Hora converted its silver into coins that were used all over Central Europe, but when the mines ran dry the town dwindled.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Kutná Hora’s old town is so small it can be explored in a couple of hours. Most of its sights sit between main square Palackého náměstí and the Cathedral of sv Barbora ten minutes to the southeast.

Sedlec ossuary

The town’s most popular attraction is the ghoulish ossuary (kostnice), which houses 40,000 human skeletons (daily: April–Sept 8am–6pm; Oct & March 9am–5pm; Nov–Feb 9am–4pm; 90Kč, students 60Kč; ossuary.eu) arranged in intricate patterns by local oddball František Rint, a carpenter, in 1870. Take bus #1 or #4 from Kutná Hora to Sedlec.

Cathedral of sv Barbora

A Gothic masterpiece dedicated to the patron saint of miners, the Cathedral of sv Barbora (Tues–Sun: Nov–March 10am–4pm; April–Oct 9am–6pm; 60Kč, students 40Kč) is approached by a street lined with Baroque saints and angels. To the right is the former Jesuit College, now the Kutná Hora Arts Centre.

Bohemia

Prague is encircled by the region of Bohemia, which covers the western two-thirds of the Czech Republic. To the west of Prague, Karlovy Vary

Italian Court

From Palackého náměstí head down 28 října to the Italian Court (Vlašský dvůr) where coins were once minted. Exhibits re-create working conditions, and there's an exhaustive collection of Kutná Hora coins. Entrance is by guided tour only (daily: April–Sept 9am–6pm; March & Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–Feb 10am–4pm; 105Kč).

Czech Silver Museum

In a medieval fort at the junction of Barborská and Ruthardská is the Czech Silver Museum (Tues–Sun: April & Oct 9am–5pm; May, June & Sept 9am–6pm; July & Aug 10am–6pm; cms-kh.cz, 160Kč), where tourists can stroll the ancient mines in white coats and goggles.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Trains leave from Prague Main Station (10 daily; 50min). Kutná Hora's station is out of town, near Sedlec (useful for visiting the ossuary). Take bus #1 or #4 into the town centre.

By bus Buses leave from Prague's Háj metro station (hourly; 1hr).

Tourist office Palackého náměstí 377 (April–Sept daily 9am–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; 327 512 378, kutnahora.cz). Can book private rooms and has internet access.

EATING AND DRINKING

Barborská Barborská 35. This miniature cocktail bar has a friendly vibe and really gets going at the weekends, when it's one of the last bars in town to close. Mon–Thurs 4pm–1am, Fri & Sat 4pm–3am.

Dačický Rakova 8. For hearty Czech meat-and-dumpling comfort food and local dark beer, head to this arched, dimly lit beerhall for the best Kutná Hora has to offer. Mains 149–790Kč. Daily 11am–11pm.

Kavárna na Kozím Plácku Dačického náměstí 10 koziplacek.cz. This busy café near the Church of St James has a comfy interior, and is very popular with lovers of serious coffee. Daily 10am–10pm.

ČESKÉ BUDĚJOVICE

ČESKÉ BUDĚJOVICE is a sweet kernel of medieval town inside a tough shell of industrial sprawl. Settled in 1265, it has been associated with the brewing industry since the beginning, when citizens brewed lager for the Holy Roman Emperor. In the seventeenth century war and fire devastated the town, but it was lavishly rebuilt by the Habsburgs. Today its elegant arcades and winding backstreets are the perfect place to enjoy a Budvar beer (the original Budweiser) – which is, after all, the reason most people come here.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The compact medieval town centre forms a grid around magnificent Přemysla Otakara II Square, one of Europe's largest marketplaces. Just off the square is Black Tower (Černá věž; July & Aug daily 10am–6pm; Sept–June Tues–Sat 10am–6pm; 30Kč, students 20Kč), which you can climb for good views.

Budvar brewery

The Budvar brewery is 2.5km up the road to Prague, on Karolíny Světlé (bus #2). You'll need to book ahead for a one-hour English tour (March–Dec daily 9am–5pm; Jan & Feb Tues–Sat 9am–5pm; 120Kč; 387 705 347, visitbudvar.cz).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The train station is a 10min walk from the old town: head west along Lannova třída. It's possible to visit from Prague on a day-trip, but if you want to tour the brewery consider staying overnight: there's left-luggage storage at the station.

Destinations Brno (4 daily; 4hr 24min); Český Krumlov (10 daily; 45min); Plzeň (every 2hr; 1hr 52min); Prague (up to 10 daily; 2hr 20min).

By bus The bus station is by the train station, and has left-luggage facilities.

Destinations Brno (7 daily; 3hr 30min); Český Krumlov (approx every 30min; 35–45min); Prague (up to 10 daily; 2hr 30min–3hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist office Náměstí Přemysla Otakara II. 1 (June–Sept Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat 8.30am–5pm, Sun 10am–4pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 9am–4pm, Sat 9am–1pm; 386 801 413, c-budejovice.cz).

ACCOMMODATION

Café Hostel Panská 13 608 909 220, cafehostel.cz. This basic but well-maintained hostel lurks above a funky café in Kutná Hora's historical centre. There are only ten beds, so booking ahead is advisable. Dorms 380Kč

Penzion Centrum Biskupská 3 ☎ 387 311 801, penzioncentrum.cz. Centrally located in a typical, renovated Kutná Hora townhouse, this guesthouse has bright, comfortably furnished rooms with en-suite facilities. The price includes a buffet breakfast. Doubles 1400Kč

Ubytovna u nádraží Dvořákova 14 ☎ 734 200 826, ubytovna.vors.cz. České Budějovice isn't the cheapest city to stay in, so this is a decent choice, located in a four housing block a 10min walk from the centre. The rooms are private but have shared facilities. Doubles 720Kč

EATING AND DRINKING

Hladový vokno Hroznová 34 ☎ hladovyyvokno.cz. When your budget's tight and your belt's loose, head to Hladový vokno (Hungry Window) for a hefty kebab or burger (45–99Kč). Mon–Thurs 10.30am–11pm, Fri 10.30am–12.30am, Sat 6pm–12.30am.

Indická Restaurace Chelčického 10 ☎ indickarestaurace.cz. Climb a poky private staircase to find this well-loved, award-winning Indian restaurant, known for warm service and lovingly cooked food. Lunch specials 75–125Kč, mains 120–190Kč. Mon–Sat 11am–11pm.

Masné Krámy Krajinská 13 ☎ masne-kramy.cz. Locals call it “the beer church” – an arched lofty Renaissance meat-market devoted to local beer. Don't miss the excellent unfiltered yeast beer (kroužkovaný ležák). Mains 149–369Kč. Mon–Thurs 10.30am–11pm, Fri & Sat 10.30am–midnight, Sun 10.30am–9pm.

Minipivovar Krajinská 27 Krajinská 27. Award-winning microbrewery producing five lagers that can give Budvar a good run for its money. Mains 120–190Kč. Mon–Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–11.45pm.

Pavlač Hroznova 9. Popular place just off the main square with a wide-ranging menu including vegetarian options. Mains 120–270Kč. Mon–Thurs 10am–10pm, Fri & Sat 10am–midnight, Sun 11am–10pm.

ČESKÝ KRUMLOV

Quaint, picturesque, red-roofed ČESKÝ KRUMLOV nestles amid the meanders of the sluggish River Vltava, just setting out on its journey to Prague. A UNESCO World Heritage Site since 1992, the town is deservedly popular, with tour buses unloading crowds of visitors at the city gates at noon for a five-hour stampede through the narrow streets – for a more enjoyable experience, stay overnight and avoid the crowds.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The twisting River Vltava divides the town into two: circular Staré Město on the right bank and the Latrán quarter on the left.

Krumlov Chateau

Krumlov Chateau (guided tours Tues–Sun: April, May, Sept & Oct 9am–4pm; June–Aug 9am–5pm; 130–240Kč; zamek-ceskykrumlov.eu) rises above the Latrán quarter. You can stroll through the castle's grounds and main courtyards for free day or night, or take a guided tour of the chateau itself. Climb the tower for beautiful views and explore the chateau's geometrical gardens and two theatres, the exquisite Rococo Chateau Theatre, and the cunning Communist Revolving Theatre, which spins on a mechanical axis.

The Eggenberg Brewery

A world away from the stainless-steel and fizz of the breweries at Plzeň and České Budějovice is the Eggenberg, which opened in 1630. Tours cost from 100Kč (daily at 11am; ☎ 380 711 225, eggenberg.cz). The restaurant serves good traditional food.

Egon Schiele Art Centrum

Just off the main square, on Široká, is the superb Egon Schiele Art Centrum (daily 10am–6pm; 160Kč; ☎ 380 704 011; schieleartcentrum.cz), devoted to the eponymous Austrian painter, who moved here in 1911 and caused outrage by painting nude teenagers and putting his feet on café tables. There are also temporary exhibitions of contemporary art and design.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The train station is 1km south of the centre. Destinations České Budějovice (10 daily; 45min); Prague (9 daily, 3hr 20min–4hr; change at České Budějovice).

By bus The bus station is a 5min walk northeast of the inner town.

Destinations České Budějovice (approx every 30min; 35–45min); Prague (hourly; 3hr).

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist office Náměstí Svornosti 2 (April, May, Sept & Oct Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9am–6pm, closed noon–1pm; June–Aug Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat & Sun 9am–7pm, closed 1–2pm; Nov–March Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9am–5pm, closed noon–1pm; 380 704 622, www.ckrumlov.info).

Tours and rental Expedicion (Soukenická 33) expedicion.cz offers fishing (790Kč/5hr), horseriding (300Kč/hr), rafting/kayaking (from 550Kč/person) bike riding and climbing expeditions. Vltava Sport Service (Hradební 60) ckvltava.cz rents bikes, scooters, canoes and rafts. Bikes 320Kč/day, boat rental from 450Kč/4hr trip.

ACCOMMODATION

Hostel 99 Věžní 99 775 276 253, hostel99.cz. A kitchen, table tennis, movies, informative staff, a bar and (overpriced) restaurant. Come summer the dorms resemble high-school pyjama parties. The rafting pub crawl is famous. Dorms 300Kč, doubles 800Kč

Hostel Merlin Kájovská 59 606 256 145, hostelmerlin.com. Clean, cheap rooms overlooking the river with shared bathrooms and a kitchen. Dorms 250Kč, doubles 500Kč

★ Krumlov House Hostel Rooseveltova 68 380 711 935, krumlovhostel.com. A renovated Renaissance bakery as warm and cheering as fresh bread. There are private rooms and dorms, a common room, large kitchen and films. Dorms 385Kč, doubles 935Kč

U Čerta a Káči Dlouhá 100 777 615 903, certakaca.cz. This central pension looks like a dolls' house, with low wooden beams, heart-print curtains and a tiny kitchen. Doubles 1300Kč

Vodácký kemp Nové Spolí 777 640 946, kempkrumlov.cz. Basic campsite in a picturesque spot by the river, 2km from the town, reachable by the #3 bus from the train or bus station. May–Sept. Per person 55Kč, plus per tent 50Kč

EATING AND DRINKING

Antre Horní 2 www.klubantre.cz. This dapper 1930s café and music club in České's municipal theatre serves everything from breakfast, mid-morning snacks and cakes through to cocktails, wine and beer accompanied by live jazz. Daily 10am–midnight.

Cikánská Jizba Dlouh 31 cikanskajizba.cz. Tightly packed into a medieval vaulted space, the Cikánská Jizba (Gypsy Cottage) is a standard Czech pub every night except on Fridays, when talented local Roma musicians play. Daily 1pm–midnight.

Depo Pub Latrán 74. One of the new breed of clean-cut Czech pubs serving Plzeň beer and a higher class of Czech food in an industrial setting. Mains 70–280Kč. Daily 11am–11pm.

Egon Schiele Café Široká 71. A snug sitting room of a gallery café which locals say serves the best coffee in Krumlov. There's chess, board games, books and wi-fi. Tues–Sun 10am–6pm.

Na Louži Kájovská 66. This long-established hotel restaurant serves up the best Czech cooking in town. Local carp, roast duck and fruit dumplings (ovocné knedlíky), served with melted butter and sprinkled with hard sweet cheese, are the dishes to go for. Mains 114–239Kč. Daily 10am–11pm.

U dvou Maryí Parkán 104. Ye olde Bohemian food as it never was, but who's complaining? Gruel, rabbit, mead and millet all served up on a riverside terrace. Mains 70–185Kč. Daily 11am–11pm.

PLZEŇ

Rough and ready, industrial PLZEŇ (Pilsen) was built on beer and bombs. Bohemia's second city was founded in 1292 then swelled in the nineteenth century when the Industrial Revolution brought an ironworks and an armaments factory, and diversified to cars and trams under Communism. Most tourists come to pay their respects to Plzeň's greatest gift to the beverage world, Pilsner Urquell. The town's diverse architecture and unpretentious vigour come a distant second. Somewhat surprisingly, Plzeň was European Capital of Culture in 2015, though the event has left little legacy in this gritty, working city.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The main square, náměstí Republiky, is dominated by the Gothic Cathedral of sv Bartoloměj, with the tallest spire in the country (103m). Opposite is the Italianate town hall, built in the Renaissance but sgraffitoed last century. Nearby, at Sady Pětaticánků 11, the Velká synagoga (April–Oct Sun–Fri, except Jewish holidays 10am–6pm; 70Kč adults, 40Kč students), the third largest in the world, was once the heart of the town's large Jewish community, but was decimated by the Holocaust. It now houses Jewish-themed exhibitions.

ČESKÝ KRUMLOV FESTIVALS

Five Petalled Rose Festival June at the summer solstice; www.slavnostipetilisteruze.eu. Medieval fair with jousting, fencing and theatre in the park.

International Music Festival July–Aug; www.festivalkrumlov.cz. Large multi-genre music festival which usually attracts a few big names.

Pilsner Urquell and Brewery Museums

Plzeň's star attraction is the Plzeňský Prazdroj Brewery, better known by its German name, Pilsner Urquell, U Prazdroje 7 (English guided tours Mon–Fri 1pm plus 2.45pm or 4.15pm, Sat & Sun 10.45am, 1pm, 2.45pm & 4.30pm; 200Kč; ☎377 062 888, ☞prazdrojvisit.cz/en). In the original brewery, at Veleslavínova 6, the Pivovarské Brewery Museum provides some history and a film on brewing (daily: April–Sept 10am–6pm; Oct–March 10am–5pm; adult 90Kč).

Plzeň's Historical Underground

Tours leave from the Brewery Museum (see above) to explore Plzeň's Historical Underground (Plzeňské historické podzemí; daily: April–Nov 10am–6pm; Dec–March 10am–5pm; English tour daily at 2.20pm plus Sat & Sun 11.20am; 120Kč, students 90Kč; ☎377 235 574, ☞plzenskepodzemi.cz), 500m of tunnels under the town. The tunnels were once part of an underground network of passages that rivalled the streets above.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus You can get to Plzeň from Prague in around 1hr by bus from Zličín with Student Agency. The bus terminal (Plzeň CAN on timetables) is on the west side of town, a 10min walk from the centre.

Destinations Karlovy Vary (7 daily; 1hr 40min); Prague (at least hourly; 1hr–1hr 30min).

By train The main train station (Hlavní nádraží) is just east of the city centre, a 10min walk away.

Destinations České Budějovice (every 2hr; 1hr 52min); Prague (hourly; 1hr 30min).

Tourist office Náměstí Republiky 41 (daily: April–Sept 9am–7pm; Oct–March 9am–6pm; ☎378 035 330, ☞pilsen.eu).

ACCOMMODATION

Euro Hostel Na Roudné 13 ☎377 259 926, ☞eurohostel.cz. This hostel offers basic, no-frills dorms and doubles just a 10min walk from the centre. Opt out of breakfast, which is overpriced. Dorms 400Kč, doubles 1000Kč.

Pension City Sady 5 května 52 ☎377 326 069, ☞pensioncityplzen.cz. The rooms at this conveniently located guesthouse by the river are acceptable if slightly dated. A buffet breakfast is included in the price. Doubles 1490Kč.

Pension Stará Plzeň Na Roudné 12 ☎377 259 901, ☞pension-sp.cz. The owners of this guesthouse have converted an old rustic house and stables into a handsome old-fashioned pension. Breakfast is an extra 130Kč. Doubles 900Kč.

Pension V Solní Solní 8 ☎377 236 652, ☞volny.cz/pensolni. Just off the main square, this cosy pension has just three rooms so should definitely be booked in advance. Breakfast is a very reasonable 85Kč extra. Doubles 1020Kč.

EATING AND DRINKING

Anděl Bistro Bezručova 7 ☞andelcafe.cz. A city-centre restaurant serving extraordinarily fresh and healthy lunch specials (75–120Kč) to a hungry office-worker clientele. Mon–Thurs 7.30am–midnight, Fri 7.30am–1am, Sat 9am–1am, Sun 11am–10pm.

Francis Náměstí Republiky 3. 1950s rock-playing student bar-café with a wood-burning stove for winter, a courtyard for summer, sausages for the hungry and books for the antisocial. Mon–Fri 2–10pm, Sat & Sun 4–10pm.

Městanská Beseda Kávárna Kopeckého sady 13. Opulent Art Nouveau interior, beer on tap, old men playing chess and delectable honey chocolates (medový koule) make this the place for a rainy afternoon. Mon–Fri 9am–11pm, Sat 11am–11pm, Sun 11am–9pm.

Na Parkánu Veleslavínova 4 ☞naparkanu.com. It may be the Brewery Museum pub, but lusty portions, unfiltered beer and decent prices make it popular with locals. Cheap lunch menu 110Kč (Mon–Fri 11am–2pm); mains 75–300Kč. Mon–Wed 11am–11pm, Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri–Sat 11am–1am, Sun 11am–10pm.

Rango Pražská 10 ☞rango.cz. Near the main square, this is one of Plzeň's best non-Czech restaurants serving up well-crafted Mediterranean fare in an atmospherically lit stone cellar. The wine list features some Czech vintages. Mains 150–400Kč. Daily noon–11pm.

KARLOVY VARY

You might be forgiven for thinking you took a wrong turn and left the Czech Republic when you reach the heart of Karlovy Vary. This over-renovated spa town, awash with fur hats and poodles in D&G handbags, feels decidedly un-Czech, largely due to its (now slightly waning) popularity with Russia's wealthy and partly because tourists outnumber locals. Peter the Great, Goethe and Beethoven all visited the town, and the old-style pleasures of central European spa life – hiking in the forest, bathing in hot spring water, and eating sweet nut wafers (oplatky) to chase away the taste of the water – are still the best.

The town is orientated to Russian tourists, and finding English-speakers is harder than elsewhere – so bring your phrasebook. Euros are readily accepted.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Walking into town with the Communist eyesore Thermal Hotel on your right, you'll pass a series of colonnades built over the hot springs. The grandest is the Mill Colonnade (Mlýnská kolonáda), containing five springs. Further up Lázeňská street are Market Colonnade (Tržní kolonáda), a delicate timber construction, and the Communist-era Hot Spring Colonnade (Vřídelní kolonáda), a spring so hot and powerful (actually a geyser) that spa guests breathe the vapours instead of drinking the water.

Spa treatments

Sampling the bitter spring waters is free, though you'll need to buy a drinking cup from a kiosk, or bring a plastic bottle. For swimming, the cheapest option is the Thermal Hotel's springwater hilltop pool (daily 10am–8pm, last entrance 7pm; 200Kč for 120min, 140Kč with ISIC; thermal.cz): follow the signs for "Bazén" (pool).

Hiking

The cool pine forests surrounding Karlovy Vary are perfect for hiking, and there are dozens of well-marked trails. One popular route climbs from Grand Hotel Pupp to a viewing tower and hilltop restaurant Diana, 1.5km away. Alternatively, you can take a funicular up to the viewing tower (daily: Feb–March & Nov–Dec 9am–5pm; April, May & Oct 9am–6pm; June–Sept 9am–7pm; 80Kč return).

Moser glassworks and museum

Luxury glass manufacturer Moser lies in the town's suburbs, at Kpt Jaroše 46. You can tour the glassworks and glass museum (tours every 30min; daily 9am–2.30pm; 180Kč, students 100Kč; 353 416 132, moser-glass.com). Take bus #22 or #1 from Tržnice to the Moser stop.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Trains from Prague arrive at the newly renovated Horní station, to the north of town. Trains from Mariánské Lázně arrive at Dolní station, close to the main bus station and town centre.

Destinations Plzeň (7 daily; 3hr, with a change in Mariánské Lázně; 1 daily; 2hr 48min, direct); Prague (4 daily; 3hr 15min).

By bus Buses run to the spa from both train stations. From Prague, alight one stop early at Tržnice, right in the centre. The Student Agency bus from Prague Florenc is your best option (at least hourly; 800 100 300, studentagency.cz).

Destinations Plzeň (7 daily; 1hr 40min); Prague (at least hourly; 2hr 15min).

Tourist office T.G. Masaryka 53 (Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–1pm & 1.30–5pm; 353 321 171, karlovyvary.cz). There's also tourist information at the Hot Spring Colonnade (see above).

ACCOMMODATION

Avoid the hotels that cluster around the spas: they're designed and priced for Russian oligarchs. Guesthouses and B&Bs are located around the bus and train stations. Private rooms are good value and can be booked through the tourist office. Karlovy Vary is generally not budget orientated – be prepared to stay outside the city for something affordable.

Březový Háj Campsite 777 944 252. Located on a riverbank, this small campsite 3km from the centre has tennis courts, a pool and bungalows. Catch the Březová bus from Tržiště bus station. April–Oct. Bungalows 400Kč

Chebýský Dvůr/Egerlander Hof Tržiště 39 353 229 332, egerlanderhof.eu. Clean, basic rooms above a pub in the heart of the spa district. Doubles 1250Kč

Kavalerie T.G. Masaryka 43 353 229 613, kavalerie.cz. On the main street connecting the bus station and the centre, Kavalerie is a B&B over a café with homely rooms of three types: tourist, economy and standard (the difference is mostly in size), plus apartments. Price includes breakfast. Tourist doubles 920Kč, economy doubles 1170Kč

INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

The Karlovy Vary Film Festival

(karlovyvary.cz) comes to town every July, bringing a smattering of A-listers and a carnival atmosphere. Anyone can buy tickets (80Kč) or day passes (250Kč/day) to the films, which range from Hollywood blockbusters to low-budget European indies. The town gets crowded so book accommodation and travel in advance.

Pension Fan U Trati 5 ☎ 353 997 085, 🌐 penzionfan.cz. On the north side of the River Ohře, near the main railway station, this much-lauded place has spick-and-span rooms and a tiny gym. Breakfast is a cheeky 190Kč extra. Doubles 1240Kč

EATING AND DRINKING

Kavárna Čas T.G. Masaryka 3. Quiet little cinema coffee shop filled with the scent of popcorn and sweets, free of tour groups and serving excellent Italian espresso. Daily 10am–8pm.

KusKus Bělehradská 8 🌐 kus-kus.cz. If you need a break from the usual Czech meat-and-dumpling combos, try this charming, simple café, which serves organic, vegetarian and vegan sandwiches, salads, cakes and snacks, eat-in or takeaway. Mon–Fri 7.30am–3pm.

Rad's Baguettes Zeyerova 2 🌐 radsbaguettes.cz. The only inexpensive sandwich shop in the town centre serves up filling sandwiches, panini and baguettes – all for under 45Kč. Mon–Fri 7am–6pm, Sat 8am–noon.

Tandoor I.P. Pavlova 25. It's hard to find, hidden down a private driveway, but this rare Indian restaurant is worth searching out for the pleasant service and high price-to-portion-size ratio. Mains around 130Kč. Mon–Sat noon–9pm.

U Švejka Stará Louka 10 🌐 svejk-kv.cz. The least overpriced of the central restaurants. High prices are balanced by the large portions of hearty Czech fare. Mains 139–360Kč. Daily 11am–11pm.

Moravia

The eastern third of the country, Moravia (Morava), moves at a slower pace than Bohemia, but is warmer, more welcoming and a touch more relaxed. It shares borders with Poland to the north, and Slovakia and Austria to the south. In the southeast of Moravia is bustling, industrial Brno, with red-brick houses and wide boulevards, while in the north is the ancient city of Olomouc, bursting with youthful energy.

BRNO

BRNO evolved into today's handsome, central European city during the nineteenth century, when it was a major textile producer and known as "rakouský Manchester" (Austrian Manchester). The Czech Republic's

BURČÁK

From September, there are boisterous vinobraní festivals all over the country, marking the grape harvest – with the best in wine country, Moravia. Revellers dance, drink and feast in an event that dates back to the Middle Ages, and the star of the show is burčák, wine fresh from the press. Sweet and bubbly, it's only part fermented so it tastes as innocent as peach juice, but it's up to 8 percent alcohol. It's only available from late August to late November at festivals, wine bars and markets. For more information, check 🌐 wineofczechrepublic.cz.

7

second city and the capital of Moravia, Brno's energy has produced eleven universities, a powerful economy and a number of famous Czechs, including inventor of genetics Gregor Mendel, composer Leoš Janáček and novelist Milan Kundera.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Triangular Svobody Square (náměstí Svobody) sits funnel-like on the high street, Masarykova. To the right of the high street is Zelný trh, the old medieval Vegetable Market, still bustling with traders hawking onions and daffodils. Špilberk Castle, which houses historical exhibitions, dominates the skyline to the west, in a standoff with the hilltop Cathedral of St Peter and St Paul to the south.

Capuchin crypt

Below Zelný trh is the Capuchin monastery, with its popular crypt (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 11am–5pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–4.30pm), which houses a charming collection of mummified monks.

The Old Town Hall

On Stará Radnice is the Old Town Hall, packed with strange artefacts clothed in fantastical legends. Its tower (April–Sept daily 8.30am–6pm; 60Kč) offers panoramic views of Brno.

Brno Underground

It's possible to explore Brno Underground, some renovated cellars beneath the Zelný trh, including a labyrinth with an ossuary filled with 50,000 skeletons (Tues–Sun 9am–6pm; 160Kč).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Brno's Tuřany airport (brno-airport.cz) is 8km from the centre. From the airport, take bus #76 to the main bus station. Both Ryanair and Wizz Air fly to Brno.

By train Brno's main train station is on the southern edge of the historical city centre. This is a large station with a full range of services.

Destinations Bratislava (every 2hr; 1hr 26min); České Budějovice (every 2hr; 4hr 30min); Olomouc (hourly; 1hr 33min–2hr 15min); Prague (at least hourly; 2hr 30min–3hr 30min).

By bus The old-fashioned Zvonářka bus station is a short walk from the train station. Some buses leave from a stop outside the Grand Hotel on Benešova třída.

Destinations Olomouc (at least hourly; 1hr–1hr 50min); Prague (3 hourly; 2hr 30min).

Tourist office Old Town Hall at Radnická 8 (Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9am–6pm; ☎ 542 427 150, ticbrno.cz).

ACCOMMODATION

Brno hosts trade fairs from August to October, February and April, as well as a Moto GP in August, so book in advance during those months.

Hostel Fléda Štefánikova 24 ☎ 731 651 005, hostelfleda.com. Bare-bones, 48-bed hostel above a nightclub, Club Fléda. It's a bit of a party hostel so not for those in search of sleep at weekends. Catch tram #1 or #6 to Hrnčířská. Doubles have shared baths. Dorms 200Kč, doubles 800Kč.

Hostel Jacob Brno Jakubské náměstí 7 ☎ 542 210 466, hosteljacob.cz. Clean and bright, the 37-bed Jacob is centrally located and has a well-equipped kitchen. Dorms 380Kč, doubles 1040Kč.

Obora Campsite Rakovecká 72 ☎ 723 666 443, autocampobora.cz. Lakeside campsite 15min from the train station (tram #1 to the zoo, then bus #103). May–Sept. Camping/person 100Kč, plus per tent 80Kč, bungalows 500Kč.

Penzion Na Starém Brně Mendlovo náměstí 1a ☎ 543 247 872, pension-brno.com. Genteel B&B in a former monastery. Go through Vankovka shopping centre from the train and bus stations and take tram #1 to Mendlovo náměstí. Breakfast 80Kč extra. Doubles 1200Kč.

EATING AND DRINKING

As Brno gets classier, so do its restaurants and prices. It's still a university town though, so join the queues at one of the food stands on either Koblížná or Benešova for a cheap and filling gyro or pizza.

Pivnice Pegas Jakubská 4. Gregarious microbrewery rambling through numerous oak-panelled rooms. Dumplings with everything, wheat beer and a table shortage. Mains 80–370Kč. Mon–Sat 9am–midnight, Sun 11am–11pm.

Savoy Coffee Jakubské náměstí 1 ☎ savoy-brno.cz. Regal coffeehouse returned to its functionalist glory after decades as a Communist button shop. Mon–Fri 9am–midnight, Sat & Sun 11am–midnight.

Špalíček Želný trh 12. Meat-and-potatoes Moravian cuisine, Starobrna beer, outdoor seating above the vegetable market and a 149Kč 3-course lunch menu. Mains 89–300Kč. Daily 11am–11pm.

U všech čertů Dvořákova 6/8 ☎ ucerty.cz. Popular pub with a good beer list and huge portions of food. Lunch specials 100Kč, mains 98–219Kč. Mon–Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri 11am–late, Sat noon–late, Sun noon–midnight.

OLOMOUC

One of the Czech Republic's most attractive towns, Olomouc is often overlooked and remains one of the country's (virtually) undiscovered gems. In the Middle Ages the city was the capital of the Great Moravian Empire, and its wealth crystallized into magnificent palaces and churches before trickling away to Brno carrying a wave of industrial sprawl. The unspoilt city centre is home to 25,000 students, who ensure a rich supply of lively bars, cafés and clubs.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The old town clusters around two adjacent squares, Horní (upper) and Dolní (lower). The town hall on Horní has an astronomical clock, an object of exuberant Communist kitsch covered with gesticulating blonde peasants. Nearby is the polygonal Holy Trinity Column, protected by UNESCO, the largest plague column in the country.

Cathedral of sv Václav and the Archdiocesan Museum

Dwarfing tiny Václavské Square is the Cathedral of sv Václav, originally a Romanesque basilica, which contains a

FESTIVAL FRENZY

With its reputation as a cultural and artistic centre, Olomouc is a natural home for festivals. April brings Academia Film (afo.cz), screening international science documentaries, and flower festival Flora Olomouc (flora-ol.cz). In May, the Dvořák Festival (mfo.cz) celebrates all the major Czech composers. The Olomouc City Festival (olomoucek.eu) is held at the beginning of June, while the Summer of Culture in Olomouc (olomouckekulturniprazdny.cz) runs through July and August with theatre, music and exhibitions throughout the city. In September, there's the Organ Music Festival and Fall Festival of Sacred Music, culminating, at the end of the month, in Beerfest (beerfest.cz), an enjoyable combination of beer, rock music and gastronomy.

crypt (May–Oct Mon–Wed 10am–5pm, Thurs 9am–4pm, Fri & Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 11am–5pm) packed with reliquaries. Next door is the Archdiocesan Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 70Kč), showcasing more than a thousand years of local history and a mind-blowing collection of church bling. The highlight is a gold-plated carriage covered with romping cherubs.

Olomouc Museum of Art

With interesting permanent exhibitions and great temporary ones, the Olomouc Museum of Art on Denisova (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 70Kč; www.olmuart.cz) provides an enjoyable stroll through twentieth-century Czech art.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is 1.5km east of the centre; catch tram #2, #4 or #6 to get into town.

Destinations Brno (hourly; 1hr 33min–2hr 15min); Prague (at least hourly; approx 2hr 20min).

By bus The bus station is 3km east of the city centre; catch tram #4.

Destinations Brno (at least hourly; 1hr–1hr 50min).

Tourist office Town Hall, Horní náměstí (daily 9am–7pm; ☎ 585 513 385, www.tourism.olomouc.eu).

ACCOMMODATION

Cosy Corner Hostel Sokolská 1 ☎ 777 570 730, cosycornerhostel.com. This Czech/Aussie-owned hostel occupies two brightly painted 1930s flats. The place has a now rare, old-school backpacker vibe, and there's a kitchen for self-caterers. Dorms 420Kč

Pension Moravia Dvořákova 37 ☎ 603 784 188, pension-moravia.com. Just a 10min walk from the city centre, this large suburban house has been converted into a welcoming B&B. Its owners are well clued up about what to see and do in the city. Doubles 900Kč

Pension U Jakuba 8. května 9 ☎ 585 209 995, pensionujakuba.cz. If you are looking for an affordable, central guesthouse with well-maintained, comfortable rooms, this is the place to head. Advance booking is recommended. Doubles 1190Kč, 4-bed apartments 2460Kč

EATING, DRINKING AND ENTERTAINMENT

CAFÉS AND RESTAURANTS

Café 87 Denisova 47. A great café near the museum that is celebrated for its fresh sandwiches, good coffee, excellent street-gazing opportunities and famous chocolate pie. It's naturally popular with students. Mon–Fri 7am–9pm, Sat & Sun 8am–9pm.

Caffè Dolce Vita Tř. 1. máje 38. This smart non-smoking café serves up well-priced Czech and international dishes and delicious coffee, accompanied by polite, competent service. Mon–Fri 8am–7pm, Sat 9am–7pm.

Green Bar Ztracená 3 greenbar.cz. A self-service vegetarian canteen, where you pay by the weight – 21Kč per 100g – for fresh hot and cold meat-free dishes, salads and desserts. In summer there's a street-side alfresco seating area. Mon–Fri 10am–5pm.

Kathmandu Dolní náměstí 25 nepalirestaurant.cz. The 110Kč lunch menu is a great deal at this Nepalese restaurant – or go for the vegetarian version for 100Kč. Tandoori meals and other curries can be around 120Kč a dish. Mon–Sat 11am–10pm.

★ Moritz Nešverova 2 hostinec-moritz.cz. Olomouc's finest microbrewery serves light, delicate lager and hearty Moravian cuisine. Try the open sandwiches with bitter tvarůžky cheese marinated in beer, or roast duck with cabbage and dumplings. There's a beer garden in summer with live music. Mains 95–290Kč. Sun–Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–midnight.

BARS AND CLUBS

15Minut Komenského 31. A few steps away from the university dorms and filled with wildly enthusiastic students every weekend. Their riotous two-day Erasmus Party in September is infamous. Daily 6pm–4am.

The Black Stuff Irish Pub 1. máje 19 blackstuff.cz. Railway tunnel meets hobbit drinking hole, popular with students. Lots of ethanol-based beverages on offer. Mon–Thurs 4pm–2am, Fri 4pm–3am, Sat 5pm–3am, Sun 5–11pm.

Koktejl & sny Uhelná 8 koktejljasny.cz. "Cocktails and Dreams" is a 1950s throwback, with retro kitsch decor and excellent cocktails. Mon–Wed 8am–midnight, Thurs–Fri 8am–1am, Sat 10.30am–1am, Sun 10.30am–9pm.

Vertigo Klub Univerzitní 6 klubvertigo.cz. Named after Hitchcock's masterpiece, this atmospheric underground student bar is filled with loquacious philosophy students and a smell that isn't quite tobacco. Mon–Thurs 1pm–2am, Fri & Sat 4pm–2am.

OLD SKAGEN, JUTLAND

Denmark

HIGHLIGHTS

- ➊ Copenhagen by bike Explore one of the world's best cycle networks. See p.210
- ➋ Kødbyen Dance all night in the capital's hipster hotbed. See p.222
- ➌ Viking Ship Museum, Roskilde Gawk at the art of Viking shipbuilding at one of Denmark's best museums. See p.226
- ➍ H.C. Andersens Hus Legendary author's fairytale museum. See p.227
- ➎ Aalborg Parade the city's stunning new waterfront, then head out to Scandinavia's largest Viking burial site. See p.233
- ➏ Skagen Breathtaking, heather-topped, sand-dune beaches. See p.235

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.209

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €55, occasional treat €85

Drink Carlsberg (pint) €5

Food Pølser (Danish hot dog) €3.50

Hostel/budget hotel €25/€65

Travel Train: Copenhagen–Århus, €55; bus: €42

FACT FILE

Population 5.6 million

Language Danish

Currency Danish krone (kr)

Capital Copenhagen

International phone code +45

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

From being a little-known, little-understood country wedged between mainland Europe and the rest of Scandinavia, Denmark has morphed into an international cultural powerhouse with multiple Michelin-starred restaurants and raved-about hit TV shows. But this international renown doesn't make the country any less thrilling to navigate on the ground and on a budget. Food-wise, you'd be hard pressed to find better butter, bacon and beer anywhere around, with some mean cheeses and pastries to boot. But don't expect this health-conscious people to sit around feasting all day: a bunch will have jogged past your table before you can say smørrebrød, and cycling is ubiquitous. With agriculture its primary industry, technological innovation and a focus on green energy is a big part of the economy of daily life. Culturally, too, it hits the high notes. Expect impeccable design and great musical offerings (especially jazz) at every turn. What's more, an ultra-efficient transport infrastructure makes Denmark one of Europe's most enjoyable countries to explore.

8

The nation has preserved its own distinct identity, exemplified by the universally cherished royal family and the reluctance to fully integrate with the EU (the Danish rejection of the euro was more about sovereignty than economics). There's also a sense of a small country that has long punched above its weight: it once controlled much of northern Europe and still maintains close ties with Greenland, its former colony.

Geographically, three main landmasses make up the country – the islands of Zealand and Funen and the peninsula of Jutland, which extends northwards from Germany. Most visitors make for Zealand (Sjælland), and, more specifically, Copenhagen, an exciting city with a beautiful old centre, an amazing array of museums and a boisterous nightlife. Funen (Fyn) has only one real urban draw, Odense, once home to Hans Christian Andersen; otherwise, it's renowned for cute villages and sandy beaches. Jutland (Jylland) has two of the sprightliest Danish cities in Århus and Aalborg, as well as scenery alternating between lonely beaches, gentle hills and heathland.

CHRONOLOGY

400 BC "Tollund Man" lives; his preserved body is discovered in a bog in 1950, and provides evidence of habitation during the Iron Age.

500 AD First mention of the "Dani" tribe is made by foreign sources.

695 First Christian mission to Denmark.

825 First Danish coinage introduced.

1397 The Union of Kalmar unites Denmark, Sweden and Norway (as well as Iceland, the Faroe Islands and the UK's Orkney and Shetland Islands) under a single Danish monarch.

1536 Reformation leads to the establishment of the Danish Lutheran Church.

1629 Sweden heavily defeats Charles IV's Denmark in the Thirty Years' War, resulting in Danish territorial losses.

1814 Denmark cedes Norway to Sweden.

1836 Hans Christian Andersen writes "The Little Mermaid".

1849 Constitutional monarchy established.

1864 Defeat by Prussia results in the loss of much territory.

1914 Neutrality is adopted during World War I.

1918 The vote is granted to all adult Danes.

1934 Children's playtime is transformed by the invention of Lego by Ole Kirk Christiansen.

1940 Nazi invasion meets minimal resistance.

1945 Denmark is liberated by Allied forces.

1979 Greenland is given greater autonomy by the Danish.

1989 First European country to legalize same-sex marriages.

1991 Danish police fire on protestors demonstrating against the country's acceptance of the Maastricht Treaty.

- 1992 Denmark wins European Football Championships.
- 2004 Crown Prince Frederick marries Tasmanian Mary Donaldson in a lavish ceremony.
- 2006 Cartoon depictions of the Prophet Mohammed in Danish newspapers spark mass protests in the Muslim world.
- 2009 UN climate change summit takes place in Denmark; the hoped-for global treaty does not materialize.
- 2011 Denmark criticized for reimposing border controls to stop flow of illegal immigration.
- 2014 Copenhagen restaurant Noma voted world's best restaurant by Restaurant magazine for third time.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

Visitors usually arrive in Copenhagen, either flying in to gleaming Kastrup Airport or pulling in to the city's Central Station, connected with the European rail network via Germany and, across the spectacular Øresund bridge, to Sweden.

Most international buses also arrive at Central Station. In addition, the regional airports at Aalborg, Århus and Billund handle a growing number of budget flights, mostly operated by Ryanair. There are regular ferry services to Sweden/Norway (via Frederikshavn or Hirtshals) and a rather lengthier connection to the Faroe Islands/Iceland (via Hirtshals).

GETTING AROUND

Denmark has a swift, easy-to-use public transport system. Danish State Railways (Danske Statsbaner or DSB; dsb.dk) runs an exhaustive, reliable rail network supplemented by a few privately owned rail lines. Services range from the large inter-city expresses (lyntog) to smaller local trains (regionaltog). InterRail/Eurail passes are valid on all DSB trains, with reduced rates on most privately owned lines. Ticket prices are calculated according to a countrywide zonal system, and travel by local transport within the zone of departure and arrival is included in the price.

The bus network is also extensive, and often supplements the train timetable, although prices don't work out much cheaper than trains. Some are operated privately and some by DSB itself; InterRail and Eurail passes are not valid. DSB timetables or køreplan detail train, bus and ferry services, including the S-train and metro systems in Copenhagen. The only buses not included are those of the few private companies; details of these can be found at train and bus stations.

Ferries or bridges link all of Denmark's principal islands. Where applicable, train and bus fares include the cost of crossings (although with ferries you can also pay at the terminal and walk on). Routes and prices are covered on the very useful HI map.

Cycling is the best way to appreciate Denmark's flat landscape (maps and information at cyklistforbundet.dk). Cycle paths proliferate, country roads have sparse traffic and all large towns have cycle tracks. Bikes can be rented at hostels, tourist offices and some train stations, as well as from bike rental shops (about 100kr/day, 400kr/week; 200–500kr deposit). All trains and most long-distance buses accept bikes, but you'll have to pay according to the zonal system used to calculate passenger tickets (12–60kr); 48kr to take your bike from Copenhagen to Århus by train. Reservations (30kr extra) are recommended (and obligatory on many trains May–Aug). In stations pick up a copy of Bikes and Trains, available in English, which goes into further detail.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation is a major expense, although there is a wide network of good-quality hostels. Most have a choice of private rooms, often with en-suite toilets/showers, as well as dorm accommodation; nearly all have cooking facilities. Rates are around 150kr per person for a dorm bed; non-HI members pay an extra 25kr a night (160kr for one-year HI membership, which can be bought at any affiliated hostel); travellers without bed linen will also need to pay to rent this. Danhostel Danmarks Vandrerhjem (danhostel.dk) produces a free hostel guide. For a similar price, sleep-ins (smaller hostels aimed at backpackers) can be found chiefly in major towns, though some are open only in summer. There can be an age restriction (typically 35 or under). Local tourist offices have details.

Rooms at hotels can compare pricewise with private rooms in hostels. Expect to pay at least 550kr for a double room (and 450kr for a single), though note that this nearly always includes an all-you-can-eat breakfast. It's a good idea to book in advance, especially during peak season (this can also give you big discounts). Tourist offices can also supply details of private rooms, which usually cost 350–450kr for a double, plus a 50–70k booking fee. Farmstays (Bondegårdsferie; bondegardsferie.dk) have become increasingly popular in recent years – digs can be either in rooms or camping (bring your own tent).

CAMPING

If you plan to camp, you'll need an international camping carnet, or a Camping Key Scandinavia (110kr), which is available at official campsites. A Transit Card (35kr) can be used for a single overnight stay. Most campsites are open from April to September, while a few stay open all year. There's a rigid grading system: one-star sites have toilets and showers; two-stars also have basic cooking facilities and a food shop within 2km; three-stars include a laundry and a TV room; four-stars also have a shop, while five-stars include a cafeteria. Prices are 75–100kr per person. Many campsites also have cabins to rent, usually with cooking facilities, for 2500kr–6000kr per week for a six-berth place, although they are often fully booked in summer months in advance (though occasionally you'll be able to rent a cabin for just a few days for around 300kr per night). Tourist offices offer a free leaflet listing all sites. Camping rough without permission is illegal, and an on-the-spot fine may be imposed. Good English-language information is available at @dk-camp.dk; Danish Campsites (@danishcampsites.com) is a useful planning resource.

FOOD AND DRINK

Traditional Danish food is often characterized by rather stodgy meat or fish and veg combos, although the quality of ingredients is invariably excellent, especially with many chefs espousing the farm-to-plate or organic cooking ethos. Specialities worth seeking out include stegt flæsk med persille sovs (thinly sliced fried pork with boiled potatoes and parsley sauce) and the classic røget sild (smoked herring). Breakfast (morgenmad) is a treat, with almost all hotels and hostels offering a spread of cereals, freshly made bread, cheese, ham, fruit juice, milk, coffee and tea, for around 60kr (if not included in room prices). Brunch, served in most cafés from 11am until mid-afternoon, is a popular, filling option for late starters and costs 80–100kr. The traditional lunch (frokost) is smørrebrød – slices of rye bread heaped with meat, fish or cheese, and assorted trimmings – sold for 40–80kr a piece and very filling. An excellent-value set lunch can usually be found at restaurants and bodegas (bars selling no-frills food). Tilbud is the “special”, dagens ret the “dish of the day”; expect to pay around 80kr for one of these, or 120–180kr for a three-course set lunch. The latest craze is smushi, the Danish take on sushi (about 50kr per piece).

For daytime snacks, there are hot-dog stands (pølsevogn) on all main streets and at train stations, serving hot dogs (pølser), toasted ham-and-cheese sandwiches (parisertoast) and chips (pommes frites) for around 25kr. Bakeries and cafés sell Danish pastries (wienerbrød), tastier and much less sweet than the imitations sold abroad, and rundstykker (literally “round pieces”), a type of crispy bread roll. Restaurants are pretty expensive for dinner (reckon on 130–200kr), but you can usually find a Middle Eastern or Thai place offering buffets for around 80–100kr. Kebab shops are also very common and often serve pizza slices from around 30kr. If you plan on self-catering, head for the good-value Netto or Fakta supermarkets.

DRINK

The most sociable places to drink are pubs (variously known as a vertshus, bar or bodega) and cafés, where the emphasis is on beer. The cheapest is bottled lager – the so-called gold beer (Guldøl or Elefantøl; 25–35kr/bottle) is strongest. Draught lager (Fadøl) is more expensive and a touch weaker, but tastes fresher. The most common brands are Carlsberg and Tuborg, although microbreweries are now thankfully much more common, with many pubs making their own beer on the premises. Most international wines (from 40kr) and spirits (20–40kr) are widely available. There are many varieties of schnapps, including the potent Aalborg-made Aquavit.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Denmark is a liberal, tolerant country. The defining aspect of culture here is hygge: spending quality time with friends or loved ones over good food and drink. Remember that the Danish language

DENMARK ONLINE

- visitdenmark.com The excellent website of the Danish Tourist Board.
- cphpost.dk News and reviews from the Copenhagen Post, the capital's English-language weekly.
- aok.dk Listings for most of Zealand; some pages in English.
- rejseplanen.dk Public transport journey planner (with English-language option).
- international.kk.dk Practical information on studying, working and living in Denmark.

doesn't have a specific word for "please", so don't be upset if Danes leave it out when talking to you in English (which most Danes speak amazingly well). When wandering about, don't stray into the cycle lanes alongside most roads, and be aware that locals will always wait for the green "walk" light at pedestrian crossings – even when there isn't a car in sight.

Tipping is not expected, as service charges are included in hotel, restaurant and bar bills; however, if you think you've had particularly good service it's not unheard of to leave a few kroner.

Smoking is banned in most restaurants, cafés and bars.

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Football (soccer) is by far the most popular sport in Denmark. The biggest team is FC Copenhagen who play in the twelve-team Superliga (Ⓜdbu.dk). As for outdoor activities, there's a series of cycle routes and hiking paths (Ⓜdvl.dk). Watersports are also popular. Over 200 beaches have Blue Flag status, and the extensive fjords of Zealand and Jutland provide further variety for the recreationally minded; ask at tourist offices where the best swimming is. Klitmøller on Jutland is the surfing capital.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices are open Monday to Friday from 9.30/10am to 5/6pm and Saturday from 9.30/10am to noon/2pm, with reduced hours in smaller communities. You can buy stamps from most newsagents. If you're in Denmark long-term, consider buying a Danish SIM for your mobile – prepaid cards from operators such as Telmore and CBB are available from petrol stations and post offices from 99kr. Internet access is free at libraries and some tourist offices; omnipresent coffee chain Baresso offers free wi-fi, as do many cafés and restaurants. Many towns and cities also have free wi-fi zones.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

All emergencies ☎ 112.

EMERGENCIES

Danish police are generally courteous and most speak English. For prescriptions, doctors' consultations and dental work – but not hospital visits – you have to pay on the spot.

INFORMATION

Most places have a tourist office that can help with accommodation. They're open daily in the most popular spots, but have reduced hours from October to March. All airports and many train stations also offer a hotel booking service.

MONEY AND BANKS

Currency is the kroner (plural kroner), made up of 100 øre. It comes in notes of 50kr, 100kr, 200kr, 500kr and 1000kr, and coins of 50øre, 1kr, 2kr, 5kr, 10kr and 20kr. Banking hours are Monday to Friday from 9.30/10am to 4pm, Thursday until 5.30/6pm. Banks are plentiful and are the easiest place to exchange cash, although they usually charge around 50kr per transaction: the rate charged by a bank for withdrawing from an ATM is just as competitive. Most airports and ferry terminals have late-opening exchange facilities, and ATMs are widespread. At the time of writing, €1 = 7.5kr, US$1 = 6.6kr and £1 = 9.4kr.

STUDENT AND YOUTH DISCOUNTS

Your ISIC card will get you thirty to fifty percent off most museum and gallery admission prices, although free entry is often available on Wednesdays and Sundays. If you're staying long-term a DSB Wildcard (185kr), which offers fifty percent off train fares for a year (Ⓜdsb.dk), can be worthwhile.

DANISH

DANISH	PRONUNCIATION
Yes	Ja
No	Nje
Please	Vær så venlig
Thank you	Tak
Hello/Good day	Goddag
Goodbye	Farvel
Excuse me	Undskyld
Good	God
Bad	Dårlig
Near	Nær
Far	Fjern
Cheap	Billig
Expensive	Dyr
Open	Åben
Closed	Lukket
Ticket	Billet
Today	Idag
Yesterday	Igår
Tomorrow	Imorgen
How much is...?	Hvad koster...?
I'd like...	Jeg vil gerne ha...
What time is it?	Hvad er klokken?
Where is...?	Hvor er...?
A table for...	Et bord till...
I don't understand	Jeg forstår ikke
Do you speak English?	Taler de engelsk?
One	En
Two	To
Three	Tre
Four	Fire
Five	Fem
Six	Sex
Seven	Syv
Eight	Otte
Nine	Ni
Ten	Ti

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Standard shop hours are Monday to Thursday from 9/10am to 5.30/6pm, Friday from 9/10am to 7/8pm, Saturday from 9am to 1/2pm (though in larger cities, several will stay open until 5pm on Saturday). Many larger shops and department stores are also open on Sundays for limited hours. All shops and banks are closed, and public transport and many museums run to Sunday schedules on public holidays: January 1; Maundy Thursday to Easter Monday; Prayer Day (4th Fri after Easter); Ascension (fortieth day after Easter);

Whit Sunday and Monday; Constitution Day (June 5); December 24 (pm only); December 25 and 26. On International Workers' Day, May 1, many offices and shops close at noon.

Copenhagen

Split by lakes and surrounded by sea, an energetic and hip waterside vibe permeates COPENHAGEN (København), one of Europe's most user-friendly (and trendy) capitals. It's a welcoming, compact city with a centre largely given over to pedestrians (and cyclists). There's an emphasis on café culture and top-notch museums by day, and a thumping live music, bar and club scene by night. Festivals like Distortion (June) and the Jazz Festival (July) show the city off at its coolest and most inventive.

Until the twelfth century, when Bishop Absalon built a castle on Christiansborg's present site, there was little more than a tiny fishing settlement to be found here. Trade and prosperity flourished with the introduction of the Sound Toll on vessels in the Øresund, and the city became the Baltic's principal harbour, earning the name København ("merchants' harbour"). By 1443, it had become the Danish capital. A century later, Christian IV created Rosenborg Castle, Rundetårn and the districts of Nyboder and Christianshavn, and in 1669 Frederik III graced the city with its first royal palace, Amalienborg. Since then, various kings and merchants have built up the city to be the amalgam of architectural styles and landscapes that you see today.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The historic core of the city is Slotsholmen, originally the site of the twelfth-century castle and now home to the huge Christiansborg complex. Just across the Slotsholmen Kanal to the north is the medieval maze of Indre By ("inner city"), while to the south the island of Christianshavn is adorned with cutting-edge architecture in addition to the alternative enclave of Christiania. Northeast of Indre By are the royal quarters of Kongens Have and Frederiksstaden, while to the west the expansive Rådhuspladsen leads via Tivoli Gardens to Central Station and the hotspots of Vesterbro and Nørrebro.

Tivoli

Just off hectic Vesterbrogade outside the station is Copenhagen's most famous attraction, Tivoli (mid-April to mid-Sept Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–10/11pm, Fri 11am–12.30am, Sat 11am–midnight; mid-Nov to end Dec closes one hour earlier; Mon–Thurs 100kr, Fri–Sun 110kr; tivoli.dk), an entertaining mixture of landscaped gardens, outdoor concerts (every Fri) and fairground rides. You'll probably hear it before you see it, thanks to its high perimeter walls and the constant screams from the roller coasters (multi-ride tickets 220kr). On a summer evening when the park is illuminated by thousands of lights and lamps reflected in the lake, it's one of Scandinavia's most magical experiences.

Ny Carlsberg Glyptotek

Founded by Carlsberg tycoon Carl Jacobsen, the Ny Carlsberg Glyptotek (Tues–Wed & Fri–Sun 11am–6pm, Thurs 11am–10pm; 95kr, Tues free; glyptoteket.com) is Copenhagen's finest classical and modern art gallery. There's a knockout selection of Greek and Roman sculpture on the first floor as well as some excellent examples of modern European art, including Degas casts, Monet's The Lemon Grove and works by Gauguin, Van Gogh and Danish Golden Age artists like Eckersberg, upstairs. Conclude your visit with a slice of delicious cake in the café beside the delightfully domed winter garden.

Thorvaldsens and the National museums

On the north side of Slotsholmen, the Thorvaldsens Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; 50kr, Wed free; thorvaldsensmuseum.dk) is home to an enormous collection of work of Denmark's most famous sculptor, Bertel Thorvaldsen. A short walk away over the Slotsholmen Kanal is the Nationalmuseet (National Museum; same hours, with guided tours Sun at 2pm; free; natmus.dk), which has excellent displays on Denmark's history from the Ice Age to the present day. The prehistory section in particular is fascinating, and includes amber animals, gold Viking horns, numerous corpses preserved in bogs and Denmark's oldest coin, struck around 995 AD.

Indre By and the Rundetaarn

West of Kongens Nytorv, the city's largest square and home to some of the best hotdog stalls in town, pedestrianized Strøget leads into the heart of Indre By. This is Denmark's premier shopping area. The quirky 35m-high Rundetaarn (Round Tower; mid-March to mid-May daily 10am–6pm; mid-May to mid-Sept daily 10am–8pm; mid-Sept to mid-Oct daily 10am–6pm; mid-Oct to mid-March Thurs–Mon 10am–6pm, Tues & Wed 10am–9pm; 25kr; rundetaarn.dk) dominates the skyline north of Strøget. Built as an observatory and finished in 1642, the main attraction is the view from the top, reached via a spiral walkway. A glass floor 25m up allows you to look down into the core of the tower. It's a still-functioning observatory, and you can view the night sky through its astronomical telescope (May–Sept 10am–8pm; Sept–May 10am–6pm).

Nyhavn and Frederiksstaden

Running east from Kongens Nytorv, a slender canal divides the two sides of Nyhavn ("new harbour"), picturesquely lined with colourful eighteenth-century

COPENHAGEN ON A BUDGET

Europe's fifth most expensive city, Copenhagen can be a tricky place to get by on a budget, but with a bit of planning you can make the most of your wallet. Museums with free admission include the Nationalmuseet (National Museum) and the Statens Museum for Kunst (National Gallery), see below, while many others offer free entry one day per week. Another great free activity in summer is swimming in Copenhagen harbour's outdoor pool on Islands Brygge, southwest across the canal from Indre By. You should also consider buying a CPHCARD (see p.219). As for getting around, you can walk to most places, use the free city bikes or take the harbour bus-boats. The city has plenty of free music on offer, including concerts at Tivoli almost weekly during summer. As for accommodation, having your own bed linen and HI card can save you upwards of 100kr nightly.

houses – now bars and cafés – and thronged with tourists year-round. Just north of Nyhavn, the royal district of Frederiksstaden centres on cobbled Amalienborg Slotsplads, home to the four Amalienborg royal palaces. Two remain as royal residences, and there's a changing of the guard at noon if the monarch is home. In the opposite direction is the great marble dome of Frederikskirken, also known as Marmorkirken or marble church (Mon–Thurs 10am–5pm, Fri–Sun noon–5pm; admission to dome Sat & Sun 1pm & 3pm, plus Mon–Fri June–Aug; free), modelled on St Peter's in Rome.

Kongens Have and Rosenborg Slot

West of Frederikskirken, Kongens Have is the city's oldest public park and a popular spot for picnics. Within the park is the fairytale Rosenborg Slot (daily: Jan–April & Nov to mid-Dec 10am–2pm; May, Sept & Oct 10am–4pm; June–Aug 9am–5pm; 80kr; kongernessamling.dk), the castle that served as the principal residence of Christian IV. The highlight is the downstairs treasury, where a gilded throne and the crown jewels and rich accessories worn by Christian IV are on display.

The Botanisk Have and art galleries

The Botanisk Have (Botanical Garden; May–Sept daily 8.30am–6pm, Oct–April Tues–Sun 8.30am–4pm; free; botanik.snm.ku.dk), on the west side of Kongens Have, is dotted with greenhouses and rare plants. The neighbouring Statens Museum for Kunst (National Gallery; Tues–Sun 10am–5pm, Wed till 8pm; free, entry fee for some special exhibitions; smk.dk) has bright and spacious galleries holding a vast collection of art, from minor Picassos to major works by Matisse and Titian. Across the park on Stockholmsgade, Den Hirschsprungske Samling (The Hirschsprung Collection; Tues–Sun 11am–4pm; 75kr, free on Wed; hirschsprung.dk) holds a collection of twentieth-century Danish art, including work by the Skagen artists (see box, p.235), renowned for their use of light.

Little Mermaid

Just north of the Kastellet, a star-shaped fortress with five bastions on a corner overlooking the harbour, sits the diminutive (and, in all honesty, anticlimactic) Little Mermaid, a magnet for tourists since her unveiling in 1913. A bronze statue of the Hans Christian Andersen character, it was sculpted by Edvard Eriksen and paid for by the founder of the Carlsberg brewery. Over the years she's been the victim of several attacks, having her head and arms chopped off and even being blown up by a bomb in 2003 – and also spent much of 2010 at Shanghai's Expo – but she remains the most enduring symbol of the city.

Christianshavn

From Christiansborg, a bridge crosses to Christianshavn, built by Christian IV in the early sixteenth century and nicknamed "Little Amsterdam" thanks to its small canals, cute bridges and Dutch-style houses. Reaching skywards on the far side of Torvegade is one of the city's most recognizable features, the copper and golden spire of Vor Frelsers Kirke (daily 11am–3.30pm; tower May–Sept Mon–Sat 9.30am–7pm, Sun 10.30am–7pm; free, tower 35kr; www.vorfrelerskirke.dk/english). Also worth a look is the canalside Dansk Arkitektur Center (daily 10am–5pm, Wed till 9pm; 40kr, students 25kr or free for architecture students; dac.dk), at Strandgade 27B, with regular exhibitions on design and architecture plus an excellent café and bookshop.

Christiania

Christiania is a former barracks area colonized by hippies after declaring itself a “free city” in 1971. It has evolved into a self-governing entity based on collective ownership, with quirky buildings housing alternative small businesses such as a bicycle workshop and women’s smithy, as well as art galleries, cafés, restaurants, Copenhagen’s best falafel stand, music venues and Pusherstreet, once an open hash market. There are guided tours of the area (late June to Aug daily 3pm; rest of the year Sat & Sun only; 40kr; rundvisergruppen.dk), starting at the main gate by Prinsessegade, but it’s just as fun to wander around on your own. No photos are allowed, unless by special permission. The neighbourhood has been racked by controversy since the off, sitting as it does on prime real estate while its population remain exempt from the taxes most Danes pay. Although the area’s future is threatened by moves from the Danish conservative government, as its residents may tell you, the place earns its keep: it’s one of Copenhagen’s most visited attractions, and justifiably so.

Vesterbro

Directly behind the train station begins Vesterbro, home to Copenhagen’s red-light district and one of the most cosmopolitan areas in the city. It has a great selection of shops, bars and restaurants. While the area is perfectly safe to walk around, male travellers may want to give Istedgade (one of the main thoroughfares) a wide berth at night to avoid being propositioned.

Carlsberg Visitors Centre

“Probably the best beer in the world” claims the advert. Well, you can decide for yourself at the Carlsberg Visitors Centre (Tues–Sun 10am–8pm; 95kr; visitcarlsberg.com) along Gamle Carlsberg Vej (buses #18 and #26). As well as learning how to create the perfect pint at the Jacobsen Brewhouse, you also get to sample two beers from a choice of Carlsberg, Tuborg and Jacobsen brews.

Nørrebro

Nørrebro, an edgy area northwest across the canal from Indre By (accessible from the centre via buses #3A, #4A or #5A or a 25min walk), is crammed with some of Copenhagen’s best cafés, bars and clubs, centred on Sankt Hans Torv. Caution is advised, particularly at night: but it’s home to most of Denmark’s most happening hangouts and the resplendent Assistens Kirkegård, a tranquil cemetery which locals use as a park in summer, and that has Hans Christian Andersen among its permanent residents.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Kastrup airport is 11km southeast of the centre, and is served by a main-line train to Central Station (5am–midnight every 10min; midnight–5am hourly; 12min; 36kr).

By train Trains pull into Central Station (Københavns Hovedbanegård or Københavns H on tickets) near Vesterbrogade.

Destinations Aalborg (every 30min; 4hr 45min–5hr); Århus (every 30min; 34hr); Hamburg (hourly; 4hr–6hr); Helsingør (every 20min; 50min); Malmö (several hourly; 35min); Odense (3 hourly; 1hr 15min–1hr 30min); Roskilde (every 20min; 30min).

By bus Long-distance buses from elsewhere in Denmark stop at or near the Central Station.

Destinations Aalborg (3–5 daily; 4hr 45min); Århus (6–7 daily; 3hr); Malmö (hourly; 55min).

By boat Ferries dock an S-train ride away north of the centre at Nordhavn (two stops from Nørreport station).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Vesterbrogade 4a, across from Central Station (May, June & Sept Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 9am–4pm; July & Aug daily 9am–7pm; Oct–April Mon–Fri 9am–4pm, Sat 9am–2pm; ☎ 70 22 24 42, visitcopenhagen.com). Accommodation (including private rooms) can be booked for free via their website. Note that pickpockets operate in the tourist office and thefts are common: be vigilant with your possessions (the same applies in the train station).

Discount cards If you're sightseeing on a tight schedule, the CPHCARD (379/629kr for 24/72hr; copenhagencard.com) is valid for the entire public transport network (including all Zealand) and gives entry to most attractions in the area. It's available at tourist offices, hotels, travel agents and the train station.

GETTING AROUND

By metro, S-tog and bus An integrated network of buses, electric S-trains (S-tog) and an expanding metro covers the city (5am–1am); night buses (natbus) take over after 1am, along with metro services on Thursday to Saturday nights, though the latter are less frequent. Night fares are double daytime fares, and if you're taking your bike, you'll need to buy a special ticket. Free route maps are available from stations.

Tickets The best deal is the 24hr, all-zone pass (130kr; valid on all trains/metro/buses) Other options include the CPHCARD (see above) and the city pass (for the four main city transport zones; 80/200kr for 24/72hr). There is also a range of tickets, from the single billet – a two-zone ticket valid for an hour (24kr) up to seven-day flexicards (250–675kr). Single billets can be bought on buses; all other tickets should be bought at train stations/newsagents. Make sure you validate your ticket before boarding at the yellow ticket-punching machines on the platform. Plain-clothes ticket inspectors operate on almost all train routes: there are instant 750kr fines for travelling without a ticket; don't even bother trying to play ignorant – your defence won't be bought, as all transport signs are printed in Danish and English.

By bike The city's Gobike scheme (gobike.com) allows you to borrow any of 1260 hi-tech bikes from racks across the city. Integrated with onboard GPS and a tablet computer, the bikes feature navigation with route planning and map display, as well as real-time information on available bikes and docking stations all over the city. Payment is made by credit card (25kr/hr or 70kr/month if you subscribe on their website). Lower-tech cycle rental is available from CPH Bike Rental, Turesensgade 10 (daily 10am–6pm; from 50kr/6hr; profits go to helping cycling in Africa; cpb-bike-rental.dk), and Københavns Cykelbørs, Gothersgade 157 (Mon–Fri 9am–5.30pm, Sat 10am–1.30pm; plus June–Aug Sun 10am–1.30pm; from 50kr/day; cykelborsen.dk); the latter also rents out hi-tech bicycles with GPS computers that have built-in guides of the city.

ACCOMMODATION

Copenhagen has a very good selection of hostels, mainly concentrated in the city centre and Nørrebro. Booking ahead is recommended on weekends and during summer months; otherwise turn up as early as possible during the day to ensure a bed. Hotel prices can verge on the

COPENHAGEN TOURS

When the weather's good, it's well worth forking out on a city tour to familiarize yourself with Copenhagen. There are hop-on/hop-off open-top bus tours around the key city sights (195kr; stromma.dk) and also Netto Boats (daily late March–Oct 9.40am–8pm; 40kr; havnerundfart.dk) operating hour-long canal and harbour boat tours past the old stock exchange (not open to the public), the island of Holmen and the Little Mermaid, leaving regularly from Nyhavn.

For bike enthusiasts, the best option is Bike Mike (daily 10.30am, plus April–Oct Wed & Sat 2.30pm; 299kr for 3hr including bike rental; 26 39 56 88, copenhagewithmike.dk), with themed cycle tours departing from Sankt Peders Stræde 47 in the Latin Quarter.

astronomical, but there are often online deals available and a few cheaper options in the centre. Private rooms (around 400kr) booked through the tourist office are usually an S-train ride away from the centre. Breakfast is not included, unless otherwise stated.

HOSTELS

Annex Hostel Helgolandsgade 15 1 33 24 22 11, annexcopenhagen.dk. Brightly coloured, recently refurbished hostel/hotel (with only private rooms). Rooms get LED TVs and wi-fi; the cheapest have wash basins but no private bathrooms. Singles 450kr, doubles 495kr

Danhostel Copenhagen City H.C. Andersens Boulevard 50 1 33 11 85 85, danhostelcopenhagencity.dk. Priding itself as Europe's largest "designer" youth hostel, this thousand-bed monster is friendly, efficient and centrally located in a multistorey building overlooking the harbour. There's a guest kitchen, a convivial café-bar and free wi-fi. Bikes for 100kr/day. All rooms en suite. Dorms 240kr, doubles 275kr

Danhostel Copenhagen Downtown Vandkunsten 5 1 70 23 21 10, copenhagendowntown.com. Affordable hostel with mostly small four-person dorms and thirty private rooms, along with a cool café-bar, free wi-fi, pool table, chill-out cushions and a bang-in-the-centre location. Dorms 245kr, doubles 410kr

Hotel Jørgensen Rømersgade 11 1 33 13 81 86, hoteljoergensen.dk. Hostel offering six- to ten-bed dorms and basic rooms (with cable TV; some have their own bathroom), with a buffet breakfast included. Common room with TV, pool and table football. A stone's throw from Nørreport station on Israels Plads. Dorms 150kr, doubles 575kr

Sleep-in Heaven Struenseegade 7, Nørrebro ☎ 35 35 46 48, sleepinheaven.com. Welcoming, irreverent hostel in a quiet spot next to Assistens Kirkegård. Six- or twelve-bed mixed dorms, plus double rooms (shared bathroom). Age limit 35; breakfast 40kr. Open 24hr; pool table; bar; free internet. Bus #12/#69, nightbus #92N from the centre (10min). Dorms 175kr, doubles 375kr

HOTELS

Cabinn City Mitchellsgade 14 ☎ 33 46 16 16, cabinn.com. Clean cabin-style rooms close to Tivoli and the station. All are en suite and have TV; breakfast is 70kr extra. Two other branches in Frederiksberg. Singles 495kr, doubles 625kr

Hotel Løven Vesterbrogade 30 ☎ 33 79 67 20, lovenhotel.dk. A real bargain for such a central location, in a historic nineteenth-century building (ring the bell marked "1st floor Løven" for admittance), with 46 airy and spacious rooms spread over five floors; most have a fridge, and some have a/c and bathroom. No breakfast, but has kitchen for self-catering. Occasional deals for longer stays. Reservations essential in summer. Doubles 699kr

Hotel Sct Thomas Frederiksborg Allé 7 ☎ 33 21 64 64, hotelsctthomas.dk. This gem of a three-star spot offers boutique-ish rooms close to hip Værnedamsvej and a short walk from glorious Frederiksberg Gardens. It's a bit of a trek from the city centre, but the friendly owners and very reasonable rates more than compensate. (Prices vary greatly; the best deals are online, quoted here). Singles 595kr, doubles 850kr

CAMPSITE

Charlottenlund Strandpark Strandvejen 144, Charlottenlund ☎ 44 22 00 65, campingcopenhagen.dk. Beautifully situated 6km from Copenhagen at Charlottenlund Beach and with good, clean facilities. Very busy in summer. S-train line A, B or C to Svanemøllen then bus #14. Closed mid-Oct to early March. Per person 100kr, plus per tent 35kr

EATING

Mixing Michelin stars with budget bars, Copenhagen delights with its tremendously varied eating scene – which has helped to plant it on the map as Scandinavia's most sophisticated city. Head out of the centre as locals do towards Nørrebro and Vesterbro for the best deals. For self-caterers, bakeries are a good option, while for takeaway smørrebrød try the outlets at Centrum Smørrebrød, Vesterbrogade 6C; or Klemmen at Central Station. There are Netto supermarkets at Nørre Voldgade 94, Nørrebrogade 43 and Landemærket 11. If you fancy really getting to know the locals while filling up on home-made Danish food, you could always book a Dine With the Danes

★TREAT YOURSELF

Truth be told, Copenhagen's main pedestrian street, Strøget, can seem bleak compared to the rest of the city, but it's worth exploring for the tucked-away gem that is the Royal Smushi Café (Amager Torv 6; Mon–Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 11am–5pm; royalsmushicafe.dk). In a peaceful courtyard off the main drag, this state-of-the-art café is the place to come for smushi: a mix of Danish smørrebrød and Japanese fusion cuisine. You'll need 145kr to sample three smushi (the herring is best); other lunch items are 85–155kr.

evening, a long-running initiative which gets travellers into contact with locals who cook, serve and share a meal with you (from 480kr; meetthedanes.com).

CAFÉS

Bang og Jensen Istedgade 130 ☎ bangogjensen.dk. With high stucco ceilings, a mahogany counter left over from its former incarnation as a pharmacy, and plenty of swagger, this hip Vesterbro café-bar will never go out of fashion. Their casual bistro menu includes nachos with jerk chicken (80kr) and croque chèvre sandwiches (73kr). Tends to pack out before concerts in nearby Vega. Mon–Fri 7.30am–2am, Sat 10am–2am, Sun 10am–midnight.

Café Gavlen Ryesgade 1 ☎ cafegavlen.dk. With breakfasts (from 40kr), delicious cakes (40kr) baked daily on the premises and good smørrebrød (44kr), this café is chic enough to grace Montparnasse: at night, speciality beers and cocktails replace coffee as the drink of choice. Mon–Thurs 8am–midnight, Fri & Sat 9am–2am, Sun 9am–11pm.

★The Coffee Collective Jaegersborggade 10 ☎ coffeecollective.dk. The best café in town, bar none. The joint is run by a former world champion barista. Ethically sourced coffee (espresso 20kr; long white 30kr), ultra-knowledgeable staff and coffee roasted right in front of you during the day. They have another branch at Godthåbsvej 34B. Mon–Fri 7am–7pm, Sat 8am–6pm, Sun 8am–7pm.

Dyrehaven Sønder Blvd 72 ☎ dyrehavenkbh.dk. Cool café-bar-restaurant popular with in-the-know locals and expats. It serves real down-home Danish dishes such as kartoffelmed black bread with potatoes and grilled mackerel with lemon and dill. Breakfasts and lunches 18–88kr. Mon–Thurs & Sun 9am–9pm, Fri 9am–10pm, Sat 10am–10pm.

Granola Værnedamsvej 5 ☎ www.granola.dk. Feel-good retro coffee bar serving delicious ice cream on one of the city's trendiest streets. Breakfasts/lunches 30–160kr. Mon–Fri 7am–10pm, Sat 9am–10pm, Sun 9am–3.30pm.

La Galette Larsbjørnsstræde 9 📍 lagalette.dk. Authentic Breton pancakes made with organic buckwheat and an array of fillings – from ham and eggs to smoked salmon and caviar. Pancakes 30–60kr. Mon–Sat noon–4pm & 5.30–10pm, Sun 1–10pm.

Laundromat Café Elmegade 15 📍 thelaundromatcafe.com. You can tell a good-value, popular café by the crowds, right? They certainly flock to this place, where breakfast goodies start at 45kr and big brunches at 88kr. Great cakes and coffees. Other branches in Frederiksberg (Gammel Kongevej 96) and Østerbro (Århusgade 38). Mon–Fri 8am–10pm, Sat & Sun 9am–midnight.

Luna's Diner Sankte Anne Gade 5 📍 lunasdiner.dk. Bright little café in Christianshavn with street-front seating, the best milkshakes in town, burgers (from 134kr) and a massive weekend veggie brunch until 3pm (209kr). Mon–Thurs 9.30am–midnight, Fri & Sat 9.30am–1am, Sun 9.30am–11pm.

Mad & Kaffe Sønder Bvd 68 📍 madogkaffe.dk. This is a recent winner of Copenhagen's best café amid mighty stiff competition. Famous for its breakfasts where you tick off exactly what you want. Nice lunches too (65–135kr). Daily 8.30am–8pm.

RESTAURANTS

Aamanns Øster Farimagsgade 10–12 📍 aamanns.dk. Good place for cheap smørrebrød and other Danish dishes (from 60kr). Eat in or take away. Take away Mon–Sat 11.30am–5.30pm, Sun noon–4.30pm; restaurant Mon–Wed noon–4pm, Thurs & Fri noon–4pm & 6–11pm, Sat 11.30am–4pm & 6–11pm, Sun 11.30am–4pm.

Atlas Bar Larsbjørnsstræde 18 📍 atlasbar.dk. Busy basement bar-restaurant with an imaginative range of world food from ostrich and Japanese beef to Mexican vegetarian burritos. Mains 135–165kr. Mon–Sat noon–10pm.

Bombay Lavendelstræde 13 📍 eatatbombay.dk. The city's best Indian, with curries to eat in or take away for 120kr. Tues–Sun 4–11pm.

Café N Blågårdsgade 17 📍 cafe-n-2200.dk. Bargain veggie burgers (49kr) and a "special" dish of the week (from 89kr) make this fabulous veggie/vegan café-restaurant a handy pit stop for budget-conscious travellers. Home-made bread, great coffee and pavement seating. Mon–Fri 8am–9pm, Sat & Sun 8am–10pm.

★ Kung Fu II Izakaya Bar Ravnsborggade 16B 📍 kungfubar.dk. Is it a bar? Is it a restaurant? The answer: both. An Izakaya bar is a Japanese informal bar where you drop in for a beer and a bite to eat. Exceptional value with cheap bites from 30kr and a tasting platter with a little bit of everything on the menu for 195kr. Food is served until 10pm. Mon–Fri 5.30pm–2am, Sat & Sun noon–2am.

L'Education National Larsbjørnsstræde 12 📍 leducation.dk. Cute brasserie with friendly staff: the tasty French food is cheap (mains from 95–225kr), but the service and intimate atmosphere (candles and checked tablecloths) make the experience memorable. 11.30am–midnight.

Madklubben Store Kongensgade 66 📍 madklubben.dk. Down-at-heel affordable chain restaurant that does simple Danish dishes (as little as 200kr for four courses). Efficient staff. Multiple branches, including at Vesterbro (Vesterbrogade 62). 5.30pm–midnight.

Neighbourhood Istedgade 27. All-organic Vesterbro pizza and cocktail joint. Pizzas are 145kr, the delicious salads 115kr. Mon–Wed 5–11pm, Thurs 5pm–1am, Fri 5pm–2am, Sat 10am–2am, Sun 10am–11pm.

COPENHAGEN'S BEST BAKERIES

The Danes take their bakeries seriously and you'll see them all around Copenhagen. The range of loaves and pastries on offer is almost intimidating, but staff will happily advise. As well as rundstykker and flaky pastries, most bakeries offer affordable sandwiches. The following five are among the city's best:

Emmerys Frederiksholms Kanal 1, Nørrebrogade 8, and Østerbrogade 51, among others 📍 emmerys.dk. Trendy bakery chain with organic bread and filling sandwiches (from 49kr). Mon–Fri 7am–6pm, Sat & Sun 7am–4/5pm.

La Glace Skoubougade 3 📍 laglace.dk. Set just east of Gammel Torv, Copenhagen's oldest confectioner (dating to 1870) is an essential stop for cakes and freshly made hot chocolate. Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–6pm.

Lagkagehuset Torvegade 45 📍 lagkagehuset.dk. Opposite the Christianshavn metro station, this justifiably popular bakery offers a bewildering range of bread baked in stone ovens, as well as great pastries (from 15kr) and fruit-covered cakes. Mon–Thurs 6am–7pm, Fri 6am–7.30pm, Sat & Sun 6am–7pm.

Meyers Bageri Jaegersborggade 9 📍 clausmeyer.dk. The focus is on bread here: it comes out of the oven the moment before the store opens, and the variety of loaves is incredible. Also at Store Kongensgade 46. Mon–Fri 7am–6pm, Sat & Sun 7am–4pm.

Trianon Hyskenstræde 8, east of Nytorv 📍 trianon.dk. Purveyors to the queen – so the standard of breads and pastries here is top-notch. Mon–Fri 7.30am–5.30pm, Sat 8.30am–5pm.

RizRaz Kompagnistræde 20 @rizraz.dk. Stylish, time-tested Mediterranean chain with excellent breakfast/evening buffets (lasagne/pizza/salad and the like) for 89/99kr. Daily 11.30am–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Nørrebro vies for the place to be with hip Kødbyen, the city's still-functioning meatpacking district just southeast of Tivoli, where arty bars and clubs have taken over old warehouses. Bars across the city are generally open until midnight or 1am Mon–Wed & Sun, and until at least 2am Thurs–Sat.

BARs

1105 Kristen Bernikows Gade 4 @1105.dk. It ain't cheap, but then the bartender here is inventor of the "Copenhagen", the city's signature cocktail. Phenomenal drinks and plenty of beautiful people. Wed, Thurs & Sat 8pm–2am, Fri 4pm–2am.

Bo-Bi Bar Klareboderne 4 @33 12 55 43. Simple, red hole-in-the-wall home to Copenhagen's oldest bar counter (from 1917), great cheap bottles of Danish and Czech beers, and a refreshingly diverse clientele of students, artists and writers. Daily noon–2am.

Brew Pub Vestergade 29 @brewpub.dk. Popular microbrewery bang in the centre of town, with a range of ales (40/58kr for small/large) and a great beer garden. Mon–Thurs noon–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–2am.

Café Blågård's Apotek Blågård's Plads 20 @kroteket.dk. Unpretentious bar with a mixed crowd: students like the cheap beer, and an older crowd come for regular live blues/jazz. Two dozen of the beers on offer are home brews, which change regularly. Give the Vesterweisse, the summer wheat ale, a try. Mon–Sat noon–2am, Sun noon–midnight.

Ingolfs Café Ingolfs Alle 3 @ingolfskaffebare.dk. South of the centre in Amager via bus #5a, this is a mellow, Bohemian café-bar serving daytime organic brunches and often erupting into a live music venue at sundown. Come here for recuperation the morning after, then get the party started all over again. Mon & Tues 10am–10pm, Wed–Sat 10am–midnight, Sun 10am–9pm.

Kassen Nørrebrogade 18 @kassen.dk. Known as one of Copenhagen's best-value cocktail bars. Friday two-for-one happy hour until 10pm. Thurs & Sat 8pm–4am, Fri 4pm–4am.

Nemoland Fabriksområde 52, Christiania @nemoland.dk. Famous bar run by Christiania residents, and one of the city's most popular open-air hangouts, with picnic tables and decent café food. In winter, the crowd moves indoors to the pool tables and backgammon boards. Mon–Thurs 10am–1am, Fri–Sat 10am–3am, Sun 10am–1am.

Oscar Rådhuspladsen 77 @oscarbarcafe.dk. Bright and lively café-bar popular with a gay clientele. DJs spin till late at weekends. Happy hour is 5pm to 9pm daily and there are good sandwiches and burgers (from 79kr). Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–2am.

Sebastopol Sankt Hans Torv 2 @sebastopol.dk. Trendy café-bar with a retro feel on the Sankt Hans Torv square. Small/large beer 34/50kr. Good brunches too (from 80kr). Mon–Thurs 8am–midnight, Fri 8am–1am, Sat 9am–1am, Sun 9am–10pm.

Studenterhuset Købmagergade 52 @studenterhuset.com. Friendly student hangout by the Rundetaarn, with table football and pinball machines. Live music (Thurs–Sat) and an international party every Wednesday for Erasmus students. Cakes from 15kr; large beer 25kr (a student card gets you a third off all prices). Happy hour (daily 7–10pm, plus Fri noon–10pm) gets you two draught beers for 35kr. Mon–Fri 8am–midnight, Sat & Sun 10am–midnight (sometimes later).

★Tchili Pop Rantzausgade 28 @tjili.dk. Tchili Pop's oh-so-cool clientele keep coming back here for the laidback vibe and great live music sessions from up-and-coming Danish bands. It's one of Nørrebro's best bars. Mon & Tues 10am–midnight, Wed 10am–1am, Thurs 10am–2am, Fri & Sat 10am–3am, Sun 10am–midnight.

Viking House Vimmelskafet 49 @thevikinghouse.dk. Touristy but boisterous joint pumping out rock/heavy metal classics and with live music at weekends. In something of a drinkers' wasteland, and always lively. Mon–Thurs & Sun 3pm–3am, Fri & Sat 10am–7am.

CLUBS

Culture Box Kronprinsessegade 54A @culture-box.dk. Stylish basement club and easily the best electronica venue in town. Cover charge 50–120kr. Fri & Sat 11pm–late.

Isola Rockmusicclub Linnésgade 16A @isolabar.dk. Intimate club/bar playing mostly soul, rock and r'n'b. Free entry. Thurs–Sat 8pm–5am.

KB18 Kødbyen 18 @kb18.net. Club/live music venue in the heart of Kødbyen hosting everything from electronica to blues/rock, and a renowned Saturday club night. Cover charge 60kr. Thurs 9pm–3am, Fri & Sat 9pm–7/8am.

Rust Guldbærgsgade 8 @rust.dk. Popular, long-running club and concert venue playing indie, rock and hip-hop. Cover charge 40–60kr. Wed–Sat 8.30pm–5am.

ENTERTAINMENT

LIVE MUSIC

Also check out the programmes at Vega at Enghavevej 40 in Vesterbro, and Rust (see above).

Copenhagen Jazz House Niels Hemmingsensgade 10 @jazzhouse.dk. The city's premier jazz venue. Daily 7pm–late.

Mojo Løngangstræde 21C @mojo.dk. Atmospheric, divey blues venue with live acts every night. Entrance free or 70–120kr. Happy hour 8–10pm. Daily 8pm–5am.

LGBT COPENHAGEN

The Danish capital has a small but lively gay scene and hosts regular festivals and events including an annual Gay Pride march and one of the world's oldest LGBT film festivals, MIX, held each October (📞mixcopenhagen.dk). There are several gay clubs and numerous bars across the city; the big sauna is Amigo Sauna (Studiestrade 21a; 📞amigo-sauna.dk). Check out 📞visitcopenhagen.com/gay and 📞rainbowbusinesssdenmark.dk for more information.

Pumpehuset Studiestræde 52 📞pumpehuset.dk. Two concert venues in one, set into a former salt warehouse, with a total capacity of 1000. Hosts Danish bands and also attracts international names such as Kaiser Chiefs and Röyksopp. Entrance 50–250kr.

CINEMA

Grand Mikkel Bryggersgade 8 📞33 15 16 11, 📞grandteatret.dk. Stylish arthouse cinema with a great café and lively events programme (films around 90kr).

Imperial Ved Vesterport 4 📞70 13 12 11, 📞imperialbio.dk. Copenhagen's largest cinema, with only one theatre, which can fit over 1100 people. Seats from 75–105kr.

OPERA AND THEATRE

If you're under 25 (or if you're buying after 4pm on performance day) then you may be able to get tickets at half price for the venues below: ask at the Royal Theatre box office for details.

Operaen Christianshavns Torv 📞kgl-teater.dk. The city's spectacular opera house is as much an architectural as a musical attraction. Cheap tickets on the day of the performance can cost as little as 100kr. Guided tours July to late Aug (advance booking essential, 100kr).

Royal Theatre Kongens Nytorv 📞kgl-teater.dk. Denmark's oldest and grandest theatre hosts ballet, opera, drama and concerts.

Skuespilhuset Sankt Annæ Plads 36 📞kgl-teater.dk. Strikingly modern waterside building with three stages, one of which can be opened for alfresco performances; plays are in Danish. The café has a great harbourside view. Guided tours early July to early Aug (100kr; daily 4pm).

SHOPPING

BOOKS

Tranquebar Borgegade 14. Huge bookshop-café specializing in travel literature (and great coffee). Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–4pm.

CLOTHES

Istedgade and the parallel Vesterbrogade have the best selection of boutiques including vintage and little-known designer wear.

Donn Ya Doll Istedgade 55 📞donnyadoll.dk. Has a great range of gadgets and Scandinavian designer labels. Mon–Fri 11am–6pm, Sat 10am–4pm.

DANISH DESIGN

Bang & Olufsen Østergade 18 📞bang-olufsen.dk. This flagship store sells audiophile stereo gear, top-end TVs and mobile-related sound products. Mon–Thurs 10am–6pm, Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–4pm.

Bodum Østergade 10 📞bodum.com/dk. Offer a range of imaginative kitchenware including their classic cafetière. Mon–Thurs 10am–6pm, Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–4pm.

Design Museum Bredgade 68 📞designmuseum.dk. It's worth checking the exhibition (100kr) and then the shop here for some fascinating examples of Danish design. Tues & Thurs–Sun 11am–5pm, Wed 11am–7pm.

Hay Østergade 61 📞hay.dk. Sells colourful, funky and affordable household accessories and objets d'art. Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–5pm.

ILLUM Østergade 52 📞illum.dk. Hard to miss, halfway down Stroget, this is Copenhagen's premier department store: worth visiting just to marvel at the interior. Mon–Sat 10am–8pm, Sun 11am–6pm.

MARKETS

Gammel Strand flea market Gammel Strand 26. The most central market, celebrated but pricey, focusing on antiques. Fri & Sat 8am–5pm.

Nørrebro Flea Market Just outside Assistens Cemetery along Nørrebrogade. Head out here for cheaper deals on everything from porcelain to clothes. May to mid-Oct Sat 7am–2pm.

Torvehallerne Israels Plads 📞torvehallernekbh.dk. Copenhagen's food market, near Nørreport station, is an evocative covered market with stalls selling fairly upscale foodstuffs. Mon–Thurs 10am–7pm, Fri 10am–8pm, Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 11am–5pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies Australia, Dampfærgevej 26 📞70 26 36 76; Canada, Kristen Bernikowskjade 1 📞33 48 32 00; Ireland, Østbanegade 21 📞35 47 32 00; UK, Kastelsvej 36–40 📞35 44 52 00; US, Dag Hammarskjølds Allé 24 📞33 41 71 00.

Exchange Den Danske Bank at the airport (daily 6am–8.30pm); Forex and X-Change at Central Station (daily 8am–9pm).

Hospital Rigshospitalet, Blegdamsvej 9 ☎ 35 45 35 45; rigshospitalet.dk.

Left luggage Lockers (Mon–Sat 5.30am–1am, Sun 6am–1am) are at Central Station by the entrance on Reventlowsgade, from 50kr for 24hr.

Pharmacies Steno Apotek, Vesterbrogade 6C; Sønderbro Apotek, Amagerbrogade 158. Both 24hr.

Police In Central Station and at Slotsherrensvej 113, near Islev train station.

Post office Købmagergade 33 and at Central Station.

DAY-TRIPS FROM COPENHAGEN

When the weather's good, you can top up your tan at the Amager Strandpark beach, just 5km from the centre (bus #12 or take the metro to Øresund, Amager Strand or Femøren then a 5min walk). If Tivoli hasn't exhausted your appetite, then make for the world's oldest amusement park at Bakken (mid-March till Sept daily noon/2pm–10pm/11pm/midnight; April, rides closed some weekdays; multi-ride ticket 219kr/249kr; bakken.dk), close to the Klampenborg stop at the end of lines C and F+ on the S-train about 10km north of downtown. Besides slightly sinister clowns and vintage roller coasters it offers pleasant woods and nearby beaches to wander around.

There are two more excellent attractions on Zealand's northeastern coast. In the affluent town of HILLERØD at the end of S-train line C is the spectacular multi-turreted Frederiksborg Slot (daily April–Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–March 11am–4pm; 75kr; frederiksborgslot.dk), a seventeenth-century castle built by Christian IV, surrounded by an ornamental lake and housing Denmark's national portrait gallery. Further north in HUMLEBÆK, and a short walk from its train station, is Louisiana, an outstanding modern art gallery, at Gammel Strandvej 13 (Tues–Fri 11am–10pm, Sat & Sun 11am–6pm; 115kr; louisiana.dk). The gallery's setting is worth the journey alone – a harmonious blend of art, architecture and the natural landscape.

The rest of Zealand

As home to Copenhagen, Zealand is Denmark's most visited region, and, with a swift metropolitan transport network covering almost half of the island, you can always make it back to the capital in time for an evening drink. North of Copenhagen, Helsingør (Elsinore) is the departure point for ferries to Sweden and the site of legendary Kronborg Castle. To the west, and on the main train route to Funen, is Roskilde, with an extravagant cathedral that served as the resting place for Danish monarchs, and a superb location on the Roskilde fjord, from where five Viking boats were salvaged and are now displayed in a spectacular, specially built museum.

The northern coast of Zealand is scattered with quaint little fishing villages: consider a trip to Gilleleje, where you can buy fresh fish directly from the fishermen (connected by train to Helsingør).

HELSINGØR

Despite its status as a busy ferry port, HELSINGØR is a likeable town with some major historical attractions. Its position on the narrow strip of water linking the North Sea and the Baltic brought the town prosperity when, in 1429, the Sound Toll was imposed on passing vessels. Today it remains an important waterway, with ferries to and from Helsingborg in Sweden accounting for most of Helsingør's through-traffic and innumerable cheap booze shops.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Kronborg Castle

The town's single great tourist draw is Kronborg Castle (daily: June–Aug 10am–5.30pm; Sept–May 11am–4pm; Nov–March closed Mon; 90kr winter, 140kr summer; kronborg.dk), principally because of its literary associations as Elsinore Castle, the setting for Shakespeare's Hamlet. There's no evidence Shakespeare ever visited Helsingør, and the tenth-century character Amleth on whom his hero was based long predates the castle. Nevertheless, the cottage industry of Hamlet souvenirs thrives here. The present castle dates from the sixteenth century when it jutted into the sound as a formidable warning to passing ships not to consider dodging the toll, and it remains a grand affair, enhanced immeasurably by its setting; the interior, particularly the royal chapel, is memorably ornate. Beneath the castle are the casemates, gloomy cavernous rooms that served as soldiers' quarters during times of war.

The historic shipyards

The big attraction just south of the castle is the revamped former shipyard area where the Maritime Museum of Denmark (Ny Kronborgvej 1; July & Aug daily 10am–5pm; Sept–June daily 11am–4pm; 110kr; mfs.dk) is one of the country's premiere places to learn about Denmark's seafaring past and present. Set underground in the old dry docks next to the Castle, the building comprises a continuous ramp that loops around the dock walls, allowing for unobstructed views from the Castle. Inside, the technologically advanced, well-curated collections span Viking, medieval and modern seafaring, exploration and merchant shipping. There are other unique finds, including a colossal Maersk freight container, relics from Denmark's conquests in Greenland, India, the West Indies and West Africa and – yes, really – the world's oldest surviving ship's biscuit (1852). The area is also the site of the Culture Yard (Mon–Fri 10am–9pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; free; kulturvaerftet.dk), a theatre, concert venue, library and café-restaurant housed in an innovatively designed glass-steel structure created from old wharf buildings.

The medieval quarter

Helsingør's well-preserved medieval quarter is dominated by Stengade, the

FERRIES TO SWEDEN

The main ferry operator between Helsingør and Helsingborg in Sweden is Scandlines (scandlines.dk), making the twenty-minute crossing every fifteen to thirty minutes (78–108kr). All services leave from the main terminal by the train station. Eurail is valid on Scandlines, while InterRail and the Copenhagen Card give a 25 percent discount.

main shopping street, which is linked by a number of narrow alleyways to Axeltorv, the town's small market square – a nice place to enjoy a beer. Near the corner of Stengade and Skt Annagade is Helsingør's cathedral, Skt Olai Kirke (Mon–Sat: May–Aug 10am–4pm; Sept–April 10am–2pm; free; helsingor-domkirke.dk), while beyond is Skt Mariæ Kirke (mid-May to mid-Sept Tues–Sun 10am–3pm, mid-Sept to mid-May Tues–Sun 10am–2pm, free; guided tours at 2pm Mon–Fri; 20kr), whose Karmeliterkloster, built circa 1400, is now the best-preserved medieval monastery in Scandinavia (guided tours only; arrange via the church office). Its former hospital now contains the Town Museum (Tues–Sun noon–4pm, Sat till 2pm; 20kr), which displays surgical tools used in early brain operations.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is on Jernbanevej, a 2min walk south of the centre.

Destinations Copenhagen (every 20min; 45min); Gilleleje (every 30min; 45min); Hillerød (hourly; 30min).

Tourist office Havnepladsen 3, just opposite the train station (Jan–June & Sept–Dec Mon–Fri 10am–4pm; July & Aug Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–2pm; Aug closed Sun; 49 21 13 33, visitnorthsealand.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Danhostel Helsingør Nordre Strandvej 24 49 28 49 49, helsingorhostel.dk. Beautifully located hostel in a restored villa bang on the beach (suitable for swimming) 2km north of town; bus #340 from the station (8min; get off at Højstrup Trinbræt stop). Rents bikes for 75kr/day. The cheapest rooms share baths off the corridor. Dorms 225kr, doubles 550kr

Helsingør Camping Strandalleen 2 49 28 49 50, helsingorcamping.dk. Near Danhostel on the same bus route, this magnificent site has great coastal views across to Kronborg Slot. Camping/person 75kr, plus per tent 50kr, cabins 420kr

EATING AND DRINKING

Café Andre Kampergade 7 ☎ cafeandre.dk. Tremendous-value stalwart of the town eating scene, which is popular with students. Sandwiches and salads from 59kr. Tues–Sat 10am–5pm.

Café Brostraede Brostraede 1. Unpretentious café with limited seating but the best sandwiches around (44kr), plus ice cream, frozen yoghurt and organic beers; down a tiny alley linking the port with the old town. Mon–Fri 10.30am–5.30pm, Sat 10.30am–3pm.

ROSKILDE

Once the capital of Denmark, ROSKILDE is worth a visit even if you can't make it to its famous annual rock festival (see box below). Its Viking Ship Museum is a world-class attraction, while the cathedral and old centre are lovely to wander around.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The fabulous Roskilde Domkirke (April–Sept Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 1–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 1–4pm; 60kr; ☎ visit .roskildedomkirke.dk) was founded by Bishop Absalon in 1170 and largely completed by the fourteenth century. It's stuffed full of dead Danish monarchs, including twenty kings and seventeen queens. The most impressive chapel is that of Christian IV, full of bronze statues, frescoes and vast paintings of scenes from his reign. The current queen, the charismatic Margrethe II, has also expressed a desire to be buried here.

Next door is Roskilde Palace, housing the diverting Museum of Contemporary Art (Tues, Thurs & Fri noon–5pm, Wed noon–8pm, Sat & Sun 11am–4pm; 50kr, Wed free; ☎ samtidskunst.dk).

Viking Ship Museum

Fifteen minutes' walk north of the centre on the banks of the fjord is the modern Viking Ship Museum (late June to Aug daily 10am–5pm; Sept to mid-June daily 10am–4pm; 115kr May–Sept, otherwise 80kr; ☎ vikingshipmuseum.dk). Inside, five superb specimens of Viking shipbuilding are displayed: a deep-sea trader, a merchant ship, a warship, a fishing vessel and a longship preserved incredibly from 1042, each retrieved from the fjord where they were sunk to block invading forces. You can board two life-size models of ships next door, and try on traditional Viking clothes. Outside, boat-building and sail-making demonstrations use only tools and materials available during the Viking era; when the weather allows, you can also experience a replica ship's seaworthiness on the fjord – you'll be handed an oar when you board and be expected to pull your weight as a crew member (50min; 80kr on top of the museum ticket; minimum twelve people). It's a humbling experience when you consider that similar ships made it all the way to Greenland.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is at the southern edge of town. Destinations Copenhagen (every 20min; 30min); Odense (hourly; 1hr 20min).

By bus The bus station is within the same complex as the train station.

Destinations Copenhagen (several hourly; 40min).

Tourist office On the main square, Stændertorvet 1 (Mon–Fri 10am–4/5pm, Sat 10am–1pm; ☎ 46 31 65 65, ☎ visitroskilde.com).

Cycle rental Jupiter Cykler Roskilde at Gullandsstræde 3 offer cycle rental (75kr/day; 500kr deposit; Mon–Thurs 9am–5.30pm, Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–2pm).

ACCOMMODATION

Roskilde Camping Baunehøjvej 7 ☎ 46 75 79 96, ☎ roskildecamping.dk. 4km north of town via Frederiksborgvej on bus route #603, the campsite here has a gorgeous grassy, woody setting on the edge of the fjord.

ROSKILDE FESTIVAL

Book well in advance if you wish to stay during the Roskilde Festival (☎ roskilde-festival.dk), one of the largest open-air music festivals in Europe, attracting almost 100,000 people annually. Tickets go on sale in December and tend to sell out quickly. The festival usually takes place in early July, and there's a special free campsite beside the festival site, to which shuttle buses run from the train station every few minutes.

It's quite windy round here. Camping/person 80kr, plus tent 40kr, cabins 550kr

Roskilde Vandrerhjem Vindeboder 7 ☎ 46 35 21 84, danhostel.dk/roskilde. Beautifully situated modern hostel of 40 rooms in the harbour area near the Viking Museum. Dorms 225kr, doubles 550kr

EATING AND DRINKING

★ Gimle Helligkørvej 2 ☎ gimle.dk. Set just 10min east of the tourist office, this café/live music venue serves burgers (99kr) and sandwiches (459kr); also turns into a club Friday and Saturday nights. Tues & Wed noon–midnight, Thurs noon–2am, Fri & Sat noon–5am, Sun 10am–5pm.

Konditor Bager Algade 6 ☎ konditor-bager.dk. This is Roskilde's best bakery; breads and cakes 8–15kr. Mon–Thurs 7.30am–4pm, Fri 7am–4pm, Sat 7.30am–3pm.

Primo Piano Køgevej 1 ☎ primo-piano.dk. Ridiculously good-value Italian with a wonderful range of pizzas, pastas and salads from 79kr. Wed–Sat 4–10pm.

birthplace of writer Hans Christian Andersen and composer Carl Nielsen.

ODENSE

Named after Odin, chief of the pagan gods, ODENSE (pronounced Own-suh) is well over a thousand years old. An attractive little place, with a lush location on the River Odense Å, it has an engaging cultural scene and a surprisingly energetic nightlife with a focus on live music: it's one of Denmark's most enchanting places to spend a few days.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Odense's inner core is a network of cobbled streets flanked by photogenic medieval houses.

H.C. Andersens Hus and H.C. Andersens Barndomshjem

The city's (perhaps the country's) best attraction is the H.C. Andersens Hus at Bangs Boder 29 (June–Aug daily 10am–5pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 10am–4pm; 95kr; ☎ museum.odense.dk), where the writer was born in 1805. The museum includes a library of Andersen's

Funen

Funen is the smaller of the two main Danish islands. Its pastoral outlook and laidback fishing villages along the coast draw many visitors, but the key attraction is Odense, Denmark's third city and the works and audio recordings of some of his best-known fairytales read by the likes of Sir Laurence Olivier. There's also intriguing paraphernalia including school reports, manuscripts, paper cuttings and drawings from his travels. The most striking feature, aside from the diminutive house itself, is the series of murals by Niels Larsen Stevns (1930) depicting different stages of Andersen's life. Check out the telling quotes on Andersen's unconventional looks and talent: "He is the most hideous man you could find but has a poetic childish mind", commented one contemporary.

8

Down the road, at Munkemøllestræde 3–5, is the tiny H. C. Andersens Barndomshjem (Childhood Home; June–Aug daily 10am–5pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 11am–4pm; 30kr; ☎museum.odense.dk), where the writer lived between the ages of 2 and 14.

8

The city centre

On Skt Knuds Plads just southwest of the Rådhus (town hall) is the crypt of Gothic Odense Cathedral (daily: April–Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; free; ☎odense-domkirke.dk). Also known as Skt Knuds Kirke, this travertine church holds the remains of King Knud II and his brother Benedikt, both murdered in 1086 at the altar of nearby Skt Albani Kirke. Don't miss the splendiferous gold-leaf-coated altarpiece inside by Lübeck master Claus Berg.

Over at Odense Concert Hall the city's other famous son, Carl Nielsen (one of Europe's leading nineteenth-century composers), also has a riveting museum devoted to his life, Carl Nielsen Museet (mid-April to Aug Wed–Sun 11am–3pm, Sept to mid-April Thurs & Fri 3–7pm, Sat & Sun 11am–3pm; free; ☎museum.odense.dk).

Just off Vestergade, west of the centre, is the Brandts Arts Complex. Once a large textile mill, the area has been spectacularly converted into an art school, cinema, music library and three museums (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–5pm, Thurs noon–9pm; 80kr combined ticket; ☎brandts.dk). In the large hall that once housed the huge machinery is the Kunsthallen, which displays works by the cream of new talent in art and design, and the Museet for Fotokunst, featuring changing photography exhibitions. On the third floor the Danmarks Mediemuseum chronicles the development of printing, bookbinding and illustrating from the Middle Ages to the present day. There is another branch of Brandts at Jernbanegade 13 (Brandts 13; same opening hours) focusing on late nineteenth-century Danish art including stirring works by Vilhelm Hammershøi and Skagen artist P.S. Krøyer.

Den Fynske Landsby and Odense Zoo

South of the centre at Sejerskovvej 20 is Den Fynske Landsby (Funen Village; March–June & mid-Aug to late Oct Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; July to mid-Aug daily 10am–6pm; 60kr, June–Aug 85kr; ☎museum.odense.dk), a living, breathing nineteenth-century village made up of buildings brought here from all over Funen, including a windmill and a school. In summer, free shows are staged at the open-air theatre. Buses #110 and #111 run to the village from the bus station.

It's infinitely better, however, to walk to the museum by following the river south about 4km via the ornamental park of Munke Mose. Boats also run there hourly (80kr return) via Odense Zoo (daily from 9am, closing time between 4 and 7pm, depending on day and season; Dec closes 2pm; March–Oct open till 10pm some Sat; 150–190kr; ☎odensezoo.dk), which has Northern Europe's largest exclusively African safari park.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Odense train station is part of a large shopping mall 5min walk north of the centre. There's left luggage here, behind the ticket office (50kr/24hr; daily 5am–1.15am).

Destinations Århus (every 30min; 1hr 30min–2hr); Copenhagen (3 hourly; 1hr 30min–2hr); Esbjerg (hourly; 1hr 30min).

By bus Long-distance buses terminate at the train station.

Destinations Århus (every 2hr; 1hr 50min); Copenhagen (hourly; 2hr).

Tourist office At Vestergade 2 near the Rådhus (July & Aug 9.30am–6pm, Sat 10am–3pm, Sun 11am–2pm; Sept–June Mon–Fri 9.30am–4.30pm, Sat 10am–1pm; ☎ 63 75 75 20, visitodense.com).

Bike rental CSV Cykeludlejning, at Nedergade 36 (100kr/day, plus 500kr deposit).

ACCOMMODATION

Cabinn Odense Østre Stationsvej 7–9 ☎ 63 14 57 00, cabinn.com. Budget chain hotel close to the train station. All rooms are short on space but are en suite and have TV. Free internet access; buffet breakfast 70kr. Doubles 625kr

Danhotel Odense City Østre Stationsvej 31 ☎ 63 11 04 25, cityhostel.dk. Conveniently located in a former hotel next to the train station, this five-star hostel has clean rooms (doubles are still bunks, though) and 24hr automated check-in. Doubles 570kr

DCU Camping Odensevej 102 ☎ 66 11 47 02, [odenseuk.dcu.dk/](http:// odenseuk.dcu.dk/). Located near Den Fynske Landsby on the outskirts of Odense, this campsite has mini-golf and a heated pool. Take bus #22 from the train station towards Højby. Camping/person 78kr, plus per tent 25kr, cabins 550kr

Ydes Hotel Hans Tausens Gade 11 ☎ 66 12 11 31, ydes.dk. One of the city's oldest hotels, but with a modern refurbishment and surprisingly competitive prices. Doubles 550kr

EATING

★ Café Biografen Brandts Passage 39–41 ☎ cafebio.dk. Trendy bar attached to an artsy cinema, adorned with classic film posters. The bar gets going with thirtysomethings later on. Club sandwich 79kr; coffee 22kr. Brunch buffet (Fri–Sat till 2pm) 109kr. Mon–Thurs 10am–11pm, Fri & Sat 10am–midnight, Sun 10am–10.30pm.

Den Gamle Kro Overgade 23 ☎ dengamlekro.eu. Set within a seventeenth-century courtyard, this traditional restaurant offers one of the best gastronomic experiences in Denmark. There's a basement wine cellar and a host of delicious smørrebrød (mostly 80–140kr) so you can have the experience for down-to-earth prices. Mon–Sat 11am–10pm, Sun 11am–9pm.

Froggy's Café Vestergade 68 ☎ froggyscafe.dk. Bang-in-the-centre café-bar serving delicious salads (from 109kr) and the legendary Froggy's burger (124kr). Brunches from 109kr and divine fresh salmon (150kr) among the evening specials. DJs at weekends. Mon–Wed 9am–midnight, Thurs 9am–2am, Fri & Sat 9.30am–5am, Sun 9.30am–midnight.

Snik Snak Jernbanegade 14. Classy tapas place with knowledgeable staff who readily explain the only-in-Danish menu. Tapas 40–70kr – or the delicious charcuterie board for 79kr. Mon–Wed 10am–11pm, Thurs 10am–1am, Fri & Sat 10am–2am.

Wendorff Asylgade 16 ☎ wendorff.dk. Wonderful bakery with two counters teeming with bread and cakes (9–15kr). Mon–Fri 7am–6pm, Sat & Sun 7am–4pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

★ Carlsens Kvarter Hunderupvej 19 ☎ carlsens.dk. Cosy bar in the style of a country pub, with a relaxed atmosphere and Odense's best selection of beers (around 30kr for bottles), including all the Belgian Trappist ales. Mon–Sat noon–1am, Sun 1–7pm.

Dexter Vindegade 65 ☎ dexter.dk. Jazz, blues and folk venue with live music a few times a week (entry 80–180kr, depending on the group playing) and a free jam night on Monday evenings. Good range of international beers too.

★ Kansas City Munkebjergvej 140 ☎ kansascity.dk. This old clothes factory is now an experimental music venue epitomizing everything that's great about the local music scene: watch this space for tomorrow's big Danish names. It's 2km south of the centre via bus #29 or #63. Fri & Sat 7pm–late.

Jutland

Long ago, the Jutes, the people of Jutland, were a separate tribe from the more warlike Danes who occupied the eastern islands. By the Viking era, however, the battling Danes had spread west, absorbing the Jutes, and real power gradually shifted towards Zealand, where it has largely stayed ever since. Now, Århus, Denmark's second city halfway up the eastern coast, and Aalborg, capital of northern Jutland, are vibrant, cosmopolitan urban centres that draw those who dare to venture on from the other, more frequently visited, centres. To the west, the landscape becomes ever-more dramatic, with heather-clad moors and forests inland and both fjord and sea coastlines to explore – and the foreign tourists dry out completely. North of Aalborg the landscape becomes increasingly wind-battered and stark until it reaches Skagen, on the peninsula's tip.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train You can reach the Jutland ferry terminals by train from other parts of the country. The train station in Esbjerg is at the end of Skolegade, with trains to and from Copenhagen (3hr 10min). All buses and most trains in Frederikshavn terminate at the central train station, a short walk from the town centre; some trains continue to the ferry terminal itself.

WEST COAST WONDERS

Heading out to Denmark's west coast makes a tranquil diversion from the big urban centres further east. West from Århus you hit Esbjerg, from where ferries (hourly; 45kr; faergen.com) run to the artsy, folksy sandy island of Fanø (visitfanoe.dk). Just south of Esbjerg by train (hourly, 30min) is the oldest town in Denmark, Ribe (visitribe.com), with a beguiling medieval centre and several riveting museums.

By boat Jutland's main international ferry port is Frederikshavn, in the far north of the region (2hr 45min by train from Århus). It has express ferries to Göteborg in Sweden and Oslo, Norway (stenaline.nl). Its ferry terminal is near Havnepladsen, not far from the centre.

Tourist offices The tourist office in Esbjerg is at 33 Skolegade (self service; Mon–Wed & Sun 10am–8pm, Thurs–Sat 10am–6pm; ☎ 75 12 55 99, visitesbjerg.dk). In Frederikshavn, the tourist office is close to the ferry terminal at Skandiatov 1 (mid-Aug to late June Mon–Fri 9.30am–4pm, Sat 10am–1pm; late June to mid-Aug Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm, Sun 10am–1pm; ☎ 98 42 32 66, visitfrederikshavn.dk).

ÅRHUS

Denmark's second-largest city, ÅRHUS, is an attractive assortment of intimate cobbled streets, sleek modern architecture, brightly painted houses and student hangouts. It's small enough to get to grips with in a few hours, but lively enough to make you linger for days – an excellent music scene (especially for jazzophiles), interesting art, pavement cafés and energetic nightlife all earn it the unofficial title of Denmark's capital of culture. And Århus keeps ratcheting up its reputation – as European Capital of Culture in 2017 (aarhus2017.dk) it has been adding new events and attractions.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Århus's main street, pedestrianized Ryesgade/Søndergade, leads down from the train station, across the river and into the main town square, Bispetorvet. Running parallel one block west of Rysegade is Park Alle with the functionalist 1941 Rådhus (city hall), designed by Arne Jacobsen and Eric Møller; guided tours including the bell tower can be arranged through the tourist office (see p.232). Bispetorvet is dominated by the fifteenth-century Domkirke (May–Sept Mon & Wed–Sat 9.30am–4pm, Tues 10.30am–4pm; Oct–April Mon & Wed–Sat 10am–3pm, Tues 10.30am–3pm; aarhus-domkirke.dk), a massive Gothic church with exquisite frescoes as well as a miniature Danish warship hanging from the ceiling. The area to the north, known as the Latin Quarter, is crammed with shops, galleries and modern cafés.

ARoS

ARoS (Tues & Thurs–Sun 10am–5pm, Wed 10am–10pm; 120kr; aros.dk) is one of Europe's most beautiful contemporary buildings and a fantastic modern art museum. It contains seven floors of works from the late eighteenth century to the present day, accessed from a centrepiece spiral walkway reminiscent of New York's Guggenheim. The Skagen artists head the fine collection of home-grown art, though the likes of Warhol are also represented along with the eerie 5m-high Boy, by Australian sculptor Ron Mueck. Its standout permanent exhibit is artist Olafur Eliasson's fantastical addition to the roof, known as Your Rainbow Panorama. Suspended between city and sky, and loosely inspired by Dante's Divine Comedy, this 150m circular pathway spans the colour spectrum and gives panoramic views over the city.

Den Gamle By

A short walk northwest of the centre is one of the city's best-known attractions, Den Gamle By, on Viborgvej (The Old Town; daily: Jan 11am–3pm; early Feb to late March 10am–4pm; late March to June & mid-Aug to Dec 10am–5pm; July to mid-Aug 10am–6pm; 135kr; dengamleby.dk), an open-air museum of traditional Danish life, with half-timbered townhouses and actors in contemporary dress. Many buildings date from the 1800s, but a new town expansion features shops and homes from the 1920s and 1970s. You can enter places such as a pastry shop, a haberdashery and a gynaecologist clinic, and there are also pony rides, a bookshop and a working central telephone switchboard. Close by are the pleasant botanical gardens (Mon–Sat 1–3pm, Sun 11am–3pm; free).

Marselisborg Palace and Moesgård Museum

Marselisborg Skov, 3km south of the centre, is the city's largest park, and home to the summer residence of the Danish royals: its landscaped grounds can be visited when the monarch isn't staying (usually at all times outside Easter, Christmas and late June to early Aug; bus #19).

Ten kilometres south of Århus, the striking, just-refurbished Moesgård Museum (Tues & Fri–Sun 10am–5pm, Wed & Thurs 10am–9pm; 130kr; moesmus.dk; bus #6) details Danish civilizations from the Stone Age onwards. Its most notable exhibit is the “Grauballe Man”, a startlingly well-preserved sacrificial victim dating from around 100 BC discovered in a peat bog west of town in 1952. Also remarkable is the Illerup

Ådal collection of Iron Age weapons and the scenic “prehistoric trail” which runs 3km to the sea.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Århus airport is 44km northeast of the centre, connected via bus #925x to the train station (50min; 115kr). Billund airport is also accessible from Århus by bus #912X (1hr 30min; 140kr).

By train The train station is just south of the centre and part of the Bruuns Gallery shopping mall.

Destinations Aalborg (every 30min; 1hr 15min–1hr 30min); Copenhagen (every 30min; 3hr 20min–3hr 50min); Odense (every 30min; 1hr 30min–1hr 50min).

By bus Buses pull in at the terminus across the road from the train station.

Destinations Aalborg (hourly; 2hr 30min); Copenhagen (6–7 daily; 3hr); Odense (2–3 daily, 1hr 50min); Roskilde (5 daily; 2hr 55min).

By boat Ferries from Zealand dock around 500m east of the centre at the end of Nørreport.

Tourist office VisitAarhus (phones answered Mon–Fri 10am–3pm; ☎ 87 31 50 10, ✉ visitaarhus.com). The office books rooms (70kr fee) and offers the Århus Card (129/179kr for 24/48hr), which covers unlimited bus travel and entrance to most sights. There are 30 self-service information points around the city; for a staffed one head to Dokk1 (Hack Kampmanns Plads 2).

Internet The impressive new Aarhus Library on Møllegade, Mølleparken (just down from ARoS), has free internet access (plus a nice café to enjoy it with).

GETTING AROUND

By bus A basic ticket costs 20kr from machines in the back of the bus and is valid for any number of journeys for 2hr from the time stamped on it.

By bike You can borrow one of the 450 free city bikes (April–Oct; ✉ aarhus.dk) dotted around the city centre (20kr coin deposit). Otherwise, bikes4rent at Skanderborgvej 107 (✉ bikes4rent.dk) rents out bikes from 95kr/day, with a 300kr deposit.

ACCOMMODATION

Århus City Sleep-In Havnegade 20 ☎ 86 19 20 55, ✉ citysleep-in.dk. The most central hostel, with facilities including a guest kitchen, pool and TV rooms and a courtyard for summer barbecues. Organic breakfast is 70kr; also has free internet access. Dorms 190kr, doubles with shared bathroom 460kr, with private bathroom 520kr

Blommehaven Ørneredevej 35 ☎ 86 27 02 07, ✉ camping-blommehaven.dk; bus #6 or #19. Overlooking a bay 5km south of the city centre, this campsite has access to a beautiful beach. Closed mid-Oct to mid-March. Camping/person 78kr, plus per tent 20kr, cabins 350kr

Cabinn Århus Kannikegade 14 ☎ 86 75 70 00, ✉ cabinn.com. Right by the city theatre, this small, functional hotel has great-value rooms modelled after the Murphy bed concept: pretty much everything folds up and packs away. All rooms are en suite, with TV and telephone. Doubles 625kr

Danhostel Århus Marienlundsvej 10 ☎ 86 21 21 20, ✉ aarhus-danhostel.dk; buses #1, #6, #8, #9, #16, #56 or #58. Peaceful hostel set in woods 3km northeast of the centre and close to the popular Den Permanente beach. Dorms 250kr, doubles 500kr

EATING

Trendy restaurants cluster along the river on Åboulevarden: even if you can't afford the somewhat inflated prices, it's still a lovely picnicking spot. For self-catering, the train station has a late-opening supermarket (8am–midnight).

CAFÉS

Gemmestedet Gammel Munkegade 1. Chilled, vibrant café putting a Turkish twist on Danish café culture. The salads (89kr) are some of the city's best and there's a novel tapas selection (large plate 105kr). Mon–Wed 10am–11pm, Thurs 10am–midnight, Fri & Sat 10am–2am, Sun 10am–9pm.

Globen Flakket Åboulevarden 18 ✉ globen-flakket.dk. Locals flock for the brunches at this large riverside café with outdoor seating. For supper, try the baked trout with ratatouille and grilled lemon alongside one of their microbrewery beers. The weekend brunch buffets are a big hit (129kr). Mon–Thurs 8.30am–10.30pm, Fri 8.30am–2am, Sat 9am–2am, Sun 9am–10.30pm.

★Street Coffee Brammersgade 15 ✉ streetcoffee.dk. Atmospheric, intimate coffee shop: a local hangout with quirky cartoons on the walls and a sublime array of caffeine fixes. Mon–Thurs 7.30am–6pm, Fri 8.30am–5pm, Sat 9.30am–5pm.

RESTAURANTS

Det Grønne Hjørne Frederiksgade 60 ✉ dgh-aarhus.dk. Great choice for a big feed on the cheap with an all-you-can-eat buffet (noon–4pm, 79kr; 4.30–10pm, 119kr). Mon–Sat noon–11pm.

Gyngen Mejlgade 53 ✉ gyngen.dk. Impressive veggie burgers (120kr) and a mean chilli con carne with crème fraîche (78kr). Live music Tues–Sat (entrance 100–150kr). Tues 11am–4pm & 7pm–2am, Wed–Fri 11am–2am, Sat 6pm–2am.

★Mackie's Pizza Sankt Clemens Torv 9 ✉ mackiespizza.dk. Zany pizza joint with diner-style interior full of sports and music memorabilia. Delectable pizzas (from 65kr), with the rule that you have to eat them cutlery-free. Steaks, burgers and the like too. Mon–Sat 11.30am–10.30pm, Sun noon–10pm.

Mefisto Volden 28 ✉ mefisto.dk. Less pricey than the beautiful building and mellow atmosphere might suggest.

In one of the city's prettiest townhouses, you can get good smørrebrød and light lunches (90–130kr) and even some dinnertime bargains (great fish dishes for 150kr). Mon–Fri 11.30am–10pm, Sat & Sun 10am–10pm.

Pinden Skolegade 29 pinden.dk. The best place in town for traditional Danish food, particularly for typical fish dishes (69–119kr). Mon–Wed noon–11pm, Thurs–Sat noon–1am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Escobar Skolegade 32. Popular student hangout with cheap beer (draught 40kr), loud music (frequently metal) and friendly bar staff. Mon–Thurs & Sun 7pm–3am, Fri 2pm–5am, Sat 7pm–5am.

Ris Ras Mejlgade 24 caferisras.dk. Chilled student hangout with a vast range of beers. No food served, but you're welcome to bring your own. Mon–Thurs noon–2am, Fri–Sat noon–3am, Sun 2–7pm.

St Paul's Apothek Jægergårdsgade 76 stpaulsapothek.dk. It's all about the cocktails, this place, and the trendy former apothecary shop certainly knows how to mix. Tues–Thurs 5.30pm–midnight, Fri & Sat 5.30pm–2am.

Train Toldbodgade 6 train.dk. Århus's most popular nightclub is also a concert venue pulling in big-name DJs and international acts. Entry fees for club nights 20–100kr, or up to 225kr for concerts.

NORTHWEST OF ÅRHUS

Mainland Denmark's loveliest scenery lies northwest of Århus, with the big draw being the country's first national park, Thy (nationalparker.naturstyrelsen.dk), created in 2008. It's a lonely tract of wild beach and inland heath containing the Danish surfing centre of Klitmøller, and backing onto vast fjords such as Limfjorden, producing some of the world's finest oysters.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train and bus Trains run from Århus to Struer (hourly; 2hr 10min) where you change trains to continue by train into the park. Stenbjerg Landing is on bus route #313 from Thisted train station. Bus #322 runs from Thisted to Klitmøller.

Tourist information There's an information centre (and museum/café) at Stenbjerg Landing (April–Oct 1–5pm).

AALBORG

North Jutland's main city, AALBORG has undergone a renaissance in recent years. Long renowned for its raucous nightlife and nearby Viking burial ground, this city with nigh-on 200,000 within its metropolitan area has redeveloped its waterfront with hugely impressive results to showcase its industrial heritage, while not detracting from its substantial medieval core. It's also the main transport terminus for the region, and makes an exciting stopover on the way north to Skagen.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Huge investment on the stretch of Aalborg facing Limfjorden has transformed the once industrial waterfront district into a centre for design and entertainment, while there's plenty of historical charm in the sights and cobbled streets of the old town.

Kunsten Museum of Modern Art and Aalborg Tower

The stunning modern gallery that is Kunsten Museum of Modern Art (Tues–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; 95kr, free in Dec; kunsten.dk) is close to a sculpture park (take bus #15 or walk ten minutes west of the train station). Just west of here, up a staircase through woods, is the Aalborg Tower (late March to Oct 10/11am–5pm; 40kr), with spectacular city views and a restaurant.

The old town

Aalborg's well-preserved old town centres on the Gothic cathedral, the Budolfi Kirke (June–Aug Mon–Fri 9am–4pm, Sat 9am–2pm; Sept–May Mon–Fri 9am–3pm, Sat 9am–noon; aalborgdomkirke.dk). On the other side of Østerågade, sixteenth-century Aalborghus Castle is notable for its dungeon (May–Oct Mon–Fri 8am–3pm; free) and underground passages (open till 9pm).

Leading down to the waterfront is bar-lined Jomfru Ane Gade, Aalborg's booziest street.

Waterfront

The waterfront is undergoing substantial development, and has recently added a cruise-ship terminal and landscaped park, with more restaurants, bars and shops on the cards. The showpiece attraction is

Nordkraft (Kjellerups torv 5; ☎ nordkraft.dk), housed in a former power station five minutes' walk east of the centre, near the big new shopping centre Friis, and containing a cinema, theatre/concert venue, several restaurants and the tourist office. Just north, towards the water, stands the House of Music (☎ musik.kenshus.dk), a cultural and performance space, and home to the Royal Academy of Music. A short walk west is the Utzon Center (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; 60kr; ☎ utzoncenter.dk), designed by the man who gave the world the Sydney Opera House, Jørn Utzon. Utzon was born in Aalborg and left the city this fitting architectural masterpiece, inspired by the old shipyards hereabouts, shortly before his death. It's a showcase for contemporary design and has a wonderful café. A ten-minute walk further west is the distinctive V&S Distillery at Olesens Gade 1, home of the potent Scandinavian spirit Aquavit, though unfortunately they only offer tours for large groups.

Lindholm Høje

A few kilometres north of Aalborg via bus #2 (15min), atmospheric Lindholm Høje (Lindholm Hills; free; ☎ nordmus.dk/lindholm-gb) is Scandinavia's largest Viking burial site with more than seven hundred graves. Visit early or late in the day and you'll see the slanting sunlight glint off the burial stones, many of which are set in the outline of a Viking ship. It's worth stopping by the site's impressive museum (April–Oct daily 10am–5pm; Nov–March Tues–Sun 10am–4pm; 60kr).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Aalborg airport (served by budget airline Norwegian from London Gatwick 3–4 times weekly) is 7km northwest of the centre and connected by buses #2H, #2J, #70 and #71 (20min; 22kr).

By train The train station is on J.F. Kennedys Plads, 10min walk southwest of the centre. Left-luggage lockers are available (50kr/24hr).

Destinations Århus (every 30min; 1hr 15min–1hr 30min); Copenhagen (every 30min; 4hr 45min–5hr); Frederikshavn (every 30min; 1hr 15min); Odense (about hourly; 3hr).

By bus The bus terminal is on J.F. Kennedys Plads, next to the train station.

Destinations Århus (hourly; 2hr 30min); Copenhagen (every 2hr; 5hr 30min).

Tourist office In the Nordkraft building, Kjellerups torv 5 (Mon–Fri 10am–5.30pm, Sat 10am–2pm; ☎ 99 31 75 00, ☎ visitaalborg.com). Helpful service and touch-screen information; they sell the Aalborg Card here (225kr/48hr), which gives you free public transport, free admission to many attractions and discounts in cafés/shops.

ACCOMMODATION

BBBB ☎ 98 11 60 44, ☎ hostel-aalborg.com. Large, well-equipped hostel with 35 rooms and some cabins 3km west of the town on the Limfjord bank beside the marina – take bus #13 to the Egholm ferry junction and continue on foot for 5min following the signs. Singles 460kr, doubles 575kr

Cabinn Aalborg Fjordgade 20 ☎ 96 20 30 00, ☎ cabinn.com. Modern hotel with small, clean, en-suite rooms next to the Riis shopping centre. Free wi-fi. Breakfast 70kr. Doubles 625kr

Strandparken Skydebanevej 20 ☎ 98 12 76 29, ☎ strandparken.dk. Pleasant campsite 2km west of the centre with access to an open-air swimming pool and beach. Closed mid-Sept to late March. Per person 85kr, plus per tent 30kr

EATING AND DRINKING

Jomfru Ane Gade is packed with late-opening bars, clubs and restaurants offering bargain food/drink deals. Consider buying the Aalborg Beerwalk card (☎ visitaalborg.com), which gives you free drinks at loads of the bars here.

Flammen Østerågade 27 ☎ restaurant-flammen.dk. Hugely popular buffet restaurant with a dozen odd meats and salads (all-you-can-eat buffet 199kr). It's a chain, but a small, family-owned one. Mon–Wed & Sun 11am–8pm, Thurs & Fri 11am–9pm, Sat 10am–9pm.

Irish House Østerågade 25 ☎ theiririshhouse.dk. Popular pub serving traditional Irish food (until 9pm) and ales, with regular drinks deals. Live music Thurs–Sat, jam sessions on Mondays and sport on TV most evenings. Mon–Wed 1pm–1am, Thurs 1pm–2am, Fri & Sat noon–4am, Sun 2pm–midnight.

Penny Lane Boulevarden 1 ☎ pennylanecafe.dk. Buzzing café serving filling sandwiches (85kr), lunches (from 95kr) and brunches from 105kr. Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat 8am–5pm, Sun 9am–4pm.

★ Søgaards Bryghus CW Obels Plads 1A ☎ soegaardsbryghus.dk. One of Denmark's best brewpubs, with any of some 85 beers concocted here. The food is first-rate too (they do a serious steak). Sunday all-you-can-eat brunch buffet 198kr, dinner mains 188–258kr. Mon–Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–late, Sun 10.30am–9pm.

Studenterhuset Gammeltorv 11, opposite Budolfi Domkirke ☎ studenterhuset.dk. Student-run music venue/café: the place to catch local Danish bands. International student night on Wednesdays. Also has a book exchange library and free internet. Coffee 14kr; large beer 29kr. Mon, Tues & Thurs 11.30am–midnight, Wed 11.30am–1am, Fri 11.30am–2am, Sat 3pm–2am.

SKAGEN

About 100km north of Aalborg, SKAGEN lies at the very top of Denmark amid breathtaking heather-topped sand dunes. A popular resort, it attracts thousands of visitors annually thanks to its artistic links to the past and spectacular seafood restaurants.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Much of Skagen's appeal lies in aimlessly wandering its marina or cycling out to its fabulous beaches. There is one star sight, however – the Skagen Museum (signposted from train station; May–Aug Mon, Tues & Thurs–Sun 10am–5pm, Wed 10am–9pm; Sept & Oct Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; 90kr; skagenskunstmuseer.dk), displaying much of the work of the influential Skagen artists (see box above). Nearby, at Markvej 2–4, is the former home of two of the group's leading lights: the Michael and Anna Anchers Hus (April & Oct Tues–Sun 11am–3pm; May–Aug daily 10am–5pm; 80kr; skagenskunstmuseer.dk). Around 2.5km southwest of the station is the Buried Church, which was engulfed by sand drift in 1795 and subsequently abandoned. Today the white spire is all that remains amid the dunes. Old Skagen, 4km west of the centre, is where Denmark's jet set have their villas: head to the Solnedgangspladsen here to watch the spectacular sunsets.

Grenen

Denmark's northernmost tip is at Grenen, 3km from Skagen along Strandvej and the beach, where two seas – the Kattegat and Skagerrak – meet, often with a powerful clashing of waves. You can get here by tractor-drawn bus (April to mid-Oct; 30kr return) – although it's an enjoyable walk through beautiful seaside scenery. At the tip you'll find some fascinating World War II heritage, an ambient restaurant and kilometres of blissful quiescence.

THE SKAGEN ARTISTS

Skagen has long been popular with artists, thanks to the warm, golden sunlight that illuminates its coastal scenery. During the 1870s, a group of painters inspired by naturalism settled here and began to paint the local fishermen working on the beaches, as well as each other. The Skagen artists, among them Michael and Anna Ancher and P.S. Krøyer, stayed until the turn of the century and achieved international recognition for their work, now on display at the Skagen Museum.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Skagen train station is on Sct Laurentii Vej, the town's main thoroughfare. It's served by privately operated trains from Frederikshavn (50 percent discount with Eurail/InterRail; 35min) roughly once an hour.

Tourist office Vestre Strandvej 10, close to the marina (Jan to mid-late June & mid-Aug to late Dec Mon–Fri 9.30am–4pm & Sat 10am–1/2pm; late June to mid-Aug Mon–Sat 9am–4pm & Sun 10am–2pm; ☎ 98 44 13 77, skagen-tourist.dk). Can arrange private rooms (around 400kr for 75kr fee).

Bike rental Skagen Cykeludlegning, by the train station (80kr/day, plus 200kr deposit; cykeludlejning-skagen.dk).

ACCOMMODATION

Danhostel Skagen Rolighedsvej 2 ☎ 98 44 22 00, danhostelskagen.dk. A little way out of the centre, but the rooms are clean and good value. Breakfast 50kr. The nearest train station is actually Frederikshavnsvej. Reservations essential in summer. Closed Dec to mid-Feb. Dorms 190kr, doubles 635kr

Grenen Camping Fyrvej ☎ 63 60 63 61, campone.dk. By the beach 1.5km along the road to Grenen. Closed mid-Sept to late March. Per person 76kr, plus per tent 55kr

EATING AND DRINKING

Skagen has fantastic “fresh-off-the-boat” seafood: treat yourself to a blowout meal at a marina restaurant like Pakhuset at Rødspættevej 6.

★ Brøndums Hotel Anchersvej 3 ☎ broendums-hotel.dk. Near the Skagen Museum and historically more important, as it was here that the Skagen Artists ate and socialized. You can do the same in the wonderfully atmospheric hotel restaurant; smørrebrød is a somewhat affordable 100–130kr, although otherwise it's pricey. Daily 11.30am–5pm & 6–10pm.

Buddy Holly Havnevej 16 ☎ facebook.com/BuddyHollySkagen. Skagen's liveliest club, with plenty of drinks deals. Courtyard out the back. Daily 10pm–5am.

Jacobs Café & Bar Havnevej 4 📞 jakobscafe.dk. Lively café-bar with outside seating and free wi-fi. Sandwiches 90–125kr. Café daily 9am–9.30pm; bar Mon–Thurs & Sun 9am–1am, Fri & Sat 9am–3am.

THE FAROE ISLANDS

Accessible only via plane or ferry, the remote and otherworldly Faroe Islands comprise an archipelago of eighteen wild, green and steeply pitching isles buffeted by North Atlantic winds, making for days of unforgettable adventure and some fascinating insight into Denmark's former colonial territories (though islanders prefer the term “autonomous region”). The islands are characterized by Denmark's most dramatic scenery and an abundance of sheep – which, incidentally, outnumber humans and have fuelled the trade in Faroese woollen products since being worn by the cast in the iconic Danish TV series The Killing. Krone is the currency, and Danish and English are understood.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The world's smallest capital city, Torshavn, a tranquil port of colourful turf-roofed houses, is the obvious starting point for explorations. The historic Tingenes area by the harbour is where most of the interest lies in town, along with the islands' now-famous woollen handicrafts showcased at Gudrun & Gudrun (Niels Finsensgøta 12; Mon–Fri 10am–5.30pm, Sat 10am–2pm; 📞 gudrungudrun.com). Northwest, on the island of Eysturoy, and connected by bus #400 from Torshavn, is Leirvík, a fishing village with an engaging Boat Museum (harbourfront; May–Sept Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; contact Torshavn tourist office before visiting). Further northwest from Torshavn is Viðoy, a wild island boasting some of Europe's highest sea cliffs and a haven for birdlife. To reach the cliffs at Cape Enniberg, head to the village of Viðareiði (bus #400 from Torshavn to Klaksvík then bus #500; eight daily; 140kr) from where it's a tough, mountainous walk. The remotest of the Faroe Islands is spectacular Mykines, to the extreme west of the archipelago. Truly lost in time, it has some of the Faroes' best hiking. Get to Mykines via helicopter from Vágar Airport (Wed, Fri & Sun; 145kr; 📞 atlantic.fo) or boat from nearby Sørvgur (summer only; 60kr; 📞 ssl.fo).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Vágar Airport, 45km west of Torshavn, has recently been refurbished and is connected to the capital by bus (10 daily; 1hr; 90kr). Atlantic Airways (📞 atlantic.fo) is the sole carrier operating flights to the Faroe Islands. Destinations Copenhagen (2 daily; 1hr 20min).

By boat Ferries dock in central Torshavn; passages are operated by Smyril Lines (📞 smyrylline.com).

Destinations Hirtshalls (1–2 weekly; 28–31hr).

Tourist office Gongin 9. Can advise on accommodation, activities and transport on all the islands (📞 298 66 65 55; 📞 visitfaroeislands.com). Due to extreme conditions, a guide for any hike on the Faroes is strongly recommended.

ACCOMMODATION, EATING AND DRINKING

★ Áarstova Gongin 1 📞 aarstova.fo. Brilliant, snug restaurant in one of Torshavn's oldest houses, specializing in Faroese cuisine. Get your salted fish and wind-dried lamb here. 3/5-course dinners 500/700kr. Daily 6pm–midnight.

Barbora Fish House Gongin 4–6. Reasonably affordable and atmospheric locale specializing in local seafood. Daily 5.30–10pm.

Café Natur Aarvegur 7. The liveliest joint in town. Renovated harbourside café-bar sporting the Faroes' best beer selection, with live music at weekends. Mon–Thurs 11.30am–11.45pm, Fri 11.30am–3.45am, Sat 12.30pm–3.45am, Sun 1.30–11.45pm.

Kerjalon Hostel Oyggjarvegur 45 📞 298 31 75 00, 📞 hotelforoyar.com. The best budget accommodation in Torshavn, located next to the Hotel Føroyar. Dorms 250kr

OLD TOWN, TALLINN

Estonia

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Tallinn's Old Town Wander this beautifully preserved corner of the city. See p.242
- ❷ Lahemaa National Park Pristine wilderness on Estonia's north coast. See p.249
- ❸ Saaremaa A perfect island getaway with a beautiful castle and relaxing spa hotels. See p.250
- ❹ Pärnu Beach Enjoy a bracing dip in the Baltic or a mud bath in a local spa. See p.251
- ❺ Tartu Party the night away with the student population of Tartu. See p.252

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.239

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €50, occasional treat €70

Drink Le Coq beer €2.50

Food Blood sausage and sauerkraut €5

Hostel/budget hotel €22/€45

Travel Bus: Tallinn–Saaremaa €15; Tartu–Tallinn €11

FACT FILE

Population 1.3 million

Language Estonian

Currency Euro (€)

Capital Tallinn

International phone code 372

Time zone GMT +2hr

Introduction

Visitors to Estonia encounter a mix of urbanity and wilderness, of the medieval and the contemporary, with crumbling castles and colourful design permeating urban landscapes. An efficient transport system makes it easy to get around, and the tech-savvy, dynamic residents welcome visitors with open arms. Friction between older generations of Russians and Estonians is a throwback to the Soviet era, while younger people mix freely, and those who get past the Estonians' natural reserve find them to be gregarious, uninhibited hosts.

Estonia's capital, Tallinn, has a magnificent medieval centre and lively nightlife, rivalled only by that of Tartu, an exuberant university town. Pärnu, a popular seaside resort, boasts fantastic sandy beaches. For inexpensive spa treatments, a fine castle and unspoilt countryside head for the island of Saaremaa, while Lahemaa National Park, outside Tallinn, offers a taste of pristine wilderness.

CHRONOLOGY

100s AD Tacitus refers to the Aestii people – the forebears of the Estonians.

1154 Estonia depicted on a map of the world for the first time.

1219 Danish conquer North Estonia, ushering in over a century of Danish rule.

1227 German crusaders invade the rest of Estonia.

1346 Danish territories in Estonia sold to the German Livonian Order.

1525 First book printed in the Estonian language.

1561 Livonian Order surrender their Estonian territory to Sweden.

1625 Sweden takes control over all Estonia.

1632 Estonia's first university opens in Tartu.

1721 Russia defeats Sweden in the Northern War and takes over Estonia.

1816 Serfdom is abolished in Estonia.

Late 1800s The spread of the Estonian language in schools is instrumental in increasing Estonian nationalism.

1918 Estonia states its claim to independence but is invaded by the Red Army.

1920 The Bolsheviks are defeated, giving Estonia full independence.

1934 Authoritarian rule is established by Prime Minister Konstantin Päts.

1940 Soviets invade Estonia, ushering in Communist rule.

1944 After four years of Nazi German occupation, the Soviet occupation returns.

1988 The "Singing Revolution" begins with huge crowds gathering to sing patriotic songs.

1991 Estonian independence is restored following the collapse of the Soviet Union.

2004 Estonia joins NATO and the EU.

2007 Estonia is the first country to introduce internet voting for national elections.

2009 Estonia rides the global economic crisis better than her Baltic neighbours.

2011 The euro becomes Estonia's official currency.

2015 Russian aggression against Ukraine leads to renewed edginess in Estonian-Russian relations.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

The compact and ultramodern Tallinn Airport (@tallinn-airport.ee) is served by several European cities, including London, Dublin, Frankfurt, Barcelona and Stockholm. Ryanair, easyJet and airBaltic are among the main airlines. The national carrier Nordica (@nordica.ee) currently has a limited fleet of aircraft and flies under the flag of Slovenian carrier Adria (@adria.si). International bus lines, such as Ecolines (@ecolines.net) and Lux Express (@luxexpress.eu), connect Tallinn via Tartu or Pärnu to Russia (Moscow, St Petersburg), Latvia (Riga), Lithuania (Vilnius, Kaunas) and Germany (Berlin), among others. The only international rail services from Estonia are the daily train from Tallinn to St Petersburg and Moscow – book seats in advance on @gorail.ee. Tallinn can also be reached by ferry from Helsinki, Finland, and from Stockholm, Sweden.

GETTING AROUND

Bus tickets can be bought either from the bus station ticket office or directly from the driver. Online schedules are available at tpilet.ee; buy tickets in advance if you're travelling in the height of summer or at weekends.

Although the rail network is limited, trains are as fast as buses and slightly cheaper (check edel.ee for times and prices); purchase your ticket from the conductor.

The bigger cities have efficient public transport systems, and the whole country is very bicycle-friendly. Due to the scarcity of public transport on the islands, many locals hitchhike; the usual precautions apply.

ACCOMMODATION

Though cheaper than in Western Europe, accommodation in Estonia will still take a large chunk out of most budgets. Tallinn has a vibrant hostel scene,

ESTONIA ONLINE

• visitestonia.com Extensive tourist board site covering all things Estonian.

• baltictimes.com English-language weekly newspaper.

• inyourpocket.com Excellent guide covering Tallinn, Tartu and Pärnu.

• upnorth.eu Culture and comment from Estonia and the Nordic region.

though outside the capital, some hostels are just student dorms converted for the summer. Beds cost €15–20 per person. Youth hostels aside, booking a private room is often the cheapest option (€18–25 per person). This can be arranged through tourist offices or private agencies. There are also plain guesthouse or pension rooms for €30–40 per person including breakfast, though the cheapest of these are not always centrally located.

FOOD AND DRINK

Mainstays of Estonian cuisine include soup (supp), dark bread (leib) and herring (heeringas), culinary legacies of the country's largely peasant past. Typical national dishes are verevorst (blood sausage) and karbonaad (pork chop), both traditionally served with mulgikapsad (sauerkraut). Various kinds of smoked fish, particularly eel (angerjas), perch (ahven) and pike (haug), are popular too, as are Russian dishes such as pelmeenid (ravioli with meat or mushrooms). Both Tallinn and Tartu also boast an impressive choice of ethnic restaurants. Outside these two cities, vegetarians will find their choice to be more limited.

When eating out, it's cheaper to head for bars and cafés, many of which serve snacks like pancakes (pannkoogid) and salads (salatid). A modest meal in a café

ESTONIAN

	ESTONIAN	PRONUNCIATION
Yes	Jah	Yah
No	Ei	Ey
Please	Palun	Palun
Thank you	Aitäh/tānan	Ayteh, tanan
Hello/Good day	Tere	Tere
Goodbye	Head aega	Heyad ayga
Excuse me	Vabandage	Vabandage
Where?	Kus?	Kus?
Student ticket	Õpilase pilet	Ypilahse pilet
Toilet	Tualett	Tualet
I'd like	Ma sooviksin	Mah sawviksin
I don't eat meat	Ma ei söö	Mah ay serr
The bill, please	Palun arve	Pahlun ahrreve
Good/Bad	Hea/Halb	Heya/Holb
Near/Far	Lähedal/Kaugel	Lahedal/Cowgal
Cheap/Expensive	Odav/Kallis	Odav/Kallis
Open/Closed	Avatud/Suletud	Avatud/Suletud
Today	Täna	Tana
Yesterday	Eile	Eyle
Tomorrow	Homme	Homme
How much is...?	Kui palju maksab...?	Kuy palyo maksab...?
What time is it?	Mis kell praegu on?	Mis kell prego on?
I don't understand	Ma ei saa aru	May saaru
Do you speak English?	Kas te räägite inglise keelt?	Kas te raagite inglise kelt?
One	Uks	Uks
Two	Kaks	Koks
Three	Kolm	Kolm
Four	Neli	Neli
Five	Viis	Veas
Six	Kuus	Koos
Seven	Seitse	Seytse
Eight	Kaheksa	Koheksa
Nine	Üheksa	Ooheksa
Ten	Kümme	Koome

costs €7–9, while in a typical restaurant two courses and a drink comes to around €27. Self-catering poses no major problems, as supermarkets and fresh produce markets are plentiful.

Restaurant opening hours tend to be between noon and midnight; cafés are open from 9am to 10pm or later.

DRINK

Estonians are enthusiastic drinkers, with beer (õlu) being the most popular tittle. The principal local brands are Saku and A. Le Coq, both of which are lager-style brews, although both companies also produce stronger, dark beers. Some great local craft beers have emerged in the last few years – Lehe, Põhjala, Õllenaut and Pühaste are among the names to look out for. In bars a lot of people favour vodka (viin) with mixers while local alcoholic specialities include hõõgvein (mulled wine) and Vana Tallinn, a pungent dark liqueur which some suicidal souls mix with vodka. Pubs and bars – most of which imitate global models – are taking over, especially in Tallinn. If you're not boozing, head for a kohvik (café); coffee (kohvi) is usually of the filter variety, and tea (teed) is served without milk (piima) or sugar (suhkur) – ask for both if necessary. Bars are usually open from noon until 2 or 4am at weekends.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Estonians tend to be reserved when you first meet them, though if you are lucky enough to be invited to a local home, you will see their warm and generous side. Unused to loud displays of emotion, they are scandalized by the loutish behaviour of foreign stag parties, although they do enjoy sociable drinking. A ten percent tip is sufficient in restaurants to reward good service; otherwise just round up the bill.

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Football and basketball are the national sports; for the former, go to the A. Le Coq Arena (Asula 4c; ☎627 9960), whereas Tallinn's Saku Suurhall (Paldiski mnt 104b; ☎665 9534) is the best place to see a basketball game. In the summertime, Estonia becomes a haven for watersports: windsurfing, kayaking, canoeing or simply hitting the beach. Hiking, biking and horseriding are popular both on the Estonian mainland and on the islands off its coast, such as Saaremaa and Hiiumaa. Almost twenty percent of Estonia is protected land, divided between four national parks and numerous nature reserves, which are home to many species of wild animals and birds. National parks are best visited between May and September; RMK (☎rmk.ee) manages the protected areas and campsites.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices (postkontor) are open Monday to Friday 8am to 6pm and Saturday 9am to 3pm. Users of mobile phones from EU countries should find call and data charges no more expensive than at home. Those with non-EU phones should consult their provider about roaming charges, and consider buying a local SIM card plus top-up talk time. There are few internet cafés due to the proliferation of free wi-fi hotspots: free wi-fi is available in most cafés and restaurants, and in all accommodation options in this chapter.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police ☎110; Fire & ambulance ☎112.

EMERGENCIES

Theft and street crime are at relatively low levels. The police (politsei) are mostly young and some speak English. Emergency health care is free and, in Tallinn at least, emergency operators speak English.

INFORMATION

Tourist offices (☎visitestonia.com) can be useful for booking B&Bs and hotel rooms, as well as good-quality free maps; most bookshops also have good map sections. The In Your Pocket guides (☎inyourpocket.com) are excellent listings guides, available from tourist offices and kiosks for €2.50, or they can be downloaded free from their website.

MONEY AND BANKS

The Estonian currency is the euro (€). Bank (pank) opening hours are Monday to Friday 9am to 4pm, with most also open on Saturday from 9am to 2pm. ATMs are widely available. Credit and debit cards can be used in most hotels, restaurants and stores, but outside urban areas cash is preferred.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Most shops open Monday to Friday 10am to 6pm and Saturday 10am to 3pm, but many larger ones stay open later and are also open on Sundays. Public holidays, when most shops and all banks are closed, are: January 1, February 24, Good Friday, Easter Sunday, May 1, Pentecost (50 days after Easter), June 23 and 24, August 20, December 24, 25 and 26.

Tallinn

TALLINN, Estonia's compact, buzzing capital, with its enchanting heart surrounded by medieval walls, has been shaped by nearly a millennium of outside influence. While the fairytale Old Town has become the ideal weekend getaway for city-break tourists, the Estonian capital's growing importance as a regional centre for business, arts and technology has provided it with a go-ahead contemporary feel coupled with bags of hedonistic energy.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The heart of Tallinn is the Old Town, still largely enclosed by the city's medieval walls. At its centre is the Raekoja plats, the historic marketplace, above which looms Toompea, the hilltop stronghold of the German knights who controlled the city during the Middle Ages. East of the city centre there are several places worth a visit, such as Kadriorg Park, a peaceful wooded area with a cluster of historic buildings, and the forested island of Aegna.

Raekoja plats

Raekoja plats, the cobbled market square at the heart of the Old Town, is as old as the city itself. On its southern side stands the fifteenth-century Town Hall (Raekoda), boasting elegant Gothic arches at ground level, and a delicate steeple at its northern end. Near the summit of the steeple, Vana Toomas, a sixteenth-century weather vane depicting a medieval town guard, is Tallinn's city emblem. The well-labelled and informative museum inside the cellar hall (late June to Aug Mon–Sat 10am–4pm; rest of the year closed; €5) depicts Tallinn town life through the ages. For an expansive view of the town square, climb the spiral staircase of the Town Hall Tower (Raekoja Torn; May to mid-Sept daily 11am–6pm; €3).

THE TALLINN CARD

To do a lot of sightseeing in a short time, it can be worth buying a Tallinn Card (tallinncard.ee; €32/42/52 for 24/48/72hr), which gives you unlimited free rides on public transport as well as free entry to a plethora of attractions and discounts in shops and restaurants. Check website for details.

Church of the Holy Ghost and St Nicholas's Church

The fourteenth-century Church of the Holy Ghost (Pühä Vaimu kirik; Mon–Sat: May–Sept 9am–6pm; Oct–April 10am–3pm; €1) on Pühavaimu is the city's oldest church, a small Gothic building with stuccoed limestone walls, stepped gables, carved wooden interior, a tall, verdigris-coated spire and an ornate clock from 1680 – the oldest in Tallinn.

Contrasting sharply is the late Gothic St Nicholas's Church (Niguliste kirik; Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; museum €5), southwest of Raekoja plats. Dating back to the 1820s and rebuilt after being mostly destroyed in a 1944 Soviet air raid, it now serves as a museum of church art, including medieval winged altars and the haunting Danse Macabre ("Dance With Death") by Bernt Notke. It also hosts free organ recitals (Sat & Sun 4pm).

Toompea and the Aleksander Nevsky Cathedral

Toompea is the hill where the Danes built their fortress after conquering what is now Tallinn in 1219. According to legend, it is also the grave of Kalev, the mythical ancestor of the Estonians. Approach through the sturdy gate tower – built by the Teutonic Knights to contain the Old Town's inhabitants in times of unrest – at the foot of Pikk jalg. This is the cobbled continuation of Pikk, the Old Town's main street, that climbs up to Lossi plats, dominated by the impressively cake-like Aleksander Nevsky Cathedral (daily 8am–7pm; free). Bristling with domes, this structure was built at the end of the nineteenth century for the city's Orthodox population – an enduring reminder of the two centuries Tallinn spent under tsarist rule.

At the head of Lossi plats, the pink Toompea Castle stands on the site of the original Danish fortification. Rebuilt many times, the building is now home to the Riigikogu, Estonia's parliament.

Kiek-in-de-Kök and Bastion Tunnels

The imposing Kiek-in-de-Kök tower (Tues–Sun: March–Oct 10.30am–6pm; Nov–Feb 10.30am–4.30pm; €6; joint ticket with Bastion Tunnels €10), dating from 1475, stands on Komandandi tee. It houses interactive displays on the development of the town and its fortifications throughout its history. Below the tower lies the entrance to a network of seventeenth-century bastion tunnels, originally built for defence by the Swedes but most recently used as bomb shelters during World War II. Guided tours (Tues–Sat 10.30am–6pm; frequency depends on demand; book in advance on ☎644 6686 or at Kiek-in-de-Kök; €6;) initiate you into the tunnels’ history and legend; bring warm clothes as the temperature tends to be a cool 6–8°C even in the height of summer.

Museum of Occupations

The Museum of Occupations

South of Lossi plats, on Toompea 8, the airy and modern Museum of Occupations (daily: June–Aug 10am–6pm; Sept–May 11am–6pm; €6) brings to life the personal experience of Estonians under Nazi and Soviet occupation through use of interactive exhibitions, and displays of artefacts from 1940 to 1991. It’s well worth taking time to sit and watch some of the documentary films commemorating the anti-Soviet “Singing Revolution” of 1987–91.

Pikk and around

Pikk tänav, running northeast from Pikk jalg gate and linking Toompea with the port area, has some of the city’s most elaborate examples of merchants’ houses from the Hanseatic period, including the Great Guild at Pikk 17, headquarters of the German merchants who controlled the city’s wealth; the House of the Blackheads, Pikk 26, with a lavishly decorated Renaissance facade; and the Three Sisters, a gabled group at Pikk 71. Supremely functional with loading hatches and winch-arms set into their facades, these would have served as combined dwelling places, warehouses and offices. Take the parallel street of Vene to the outstanding Tallinn City Museum at no. 17 (Mon & Wed–Sun: March–Oct 10.30am–6pm; Nov–Feb 10.30am–5.30pm; €4), which imaginatively recounts the history of Tallinn from the thirteenth century through to Soviet and Nazi occupations and Estonian independence.

St Olaf’s Church

At the northern end of Pikk stands the enormous Gothic St Olaf’s Church (Oleviste kirik; daily 10am–6pm; free), first mentioned in 1267 and named in honour of King Olaf II of Norway, who was canonized for battling against pagans in Scandinavia. The church is chiefly famous for its 124m spire, which you can climb for a spectacular view of Old Town and the port (daily 10am–6pm, July & Aug until 8pm; €3).

The Maritime Museum

The sixteenth-century Great Sea Gate, which straddles Pikk at its far end, is flanked by two towers. The larger of these, Fat Margaret Tower, has walls 4m thick and now houses the Estonian Maritime Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–7pm; €4), a surprisingly entertaining four floors of nautical instruments, scale models of ships and antique diving equipment: some displays have English captions.

The city walls

The 4km-worth of walls that surrounded the Old Town were mostly constructed during the fourteenth century. Today, 1.85km of them still stand, along with 20 of the original 46 towers. One of the most dramatic stretches can be found along Laboratoriumi (subsequently Gümnaasiumi), where three of the oldest towers – Nunne, Kuldjala and Sauna – can be entered from Gümnaasiumi 3 (June–Aug: daily 11am–7pm; Sept–May daily except Thursday 11am–4/5pm; €2).

The Cultural Kilometre and Patarei Prison

Just north of the Old Town, the Cultural Kilometre (Kultuurikilomeeter) is a footpath that runs through an intriguing stretch of post-Soviet, post-industrial Tallinn. It begins beside the Kultuurikattel (“The Culture Boiler”), a former power station now converted into a concert venue. The power station’s iconic chimney is where Russian film director Andrei Tarkovsky shot key scenes of his existential classic, Stalker. From here the path heads west past a small fishing harbour, and the Estonian Design House at Kalasadama 8 (@estoniandesignhouse.ee), where young designers display and sell their wares. The path continues past the atmospheric old houses of the Kalamaja district before arriving at Patarei Prison Museum (May–Sept daily noon–7pm; €3; @patarei.org), a nineteenth-century fortress that was turned into a jail in 1920. Abandoned in 2004, it remains in pretty much the same state it was left in, providing an eerie, unsettling experience for visitors.

The Air Harbour

The Cultural Kilometre terminates outside Estonia's most astounding museum attraction, the Air Harbour (May–Sept daily 10am–7pm; Oct–April Tues–Sun 11am–7pm; €14; @lennusadam.eu), a huge hangar built by the Russians in World War I to house a fleet of sea planes. A masterpiece of modern construction, this cavernous concrete space was reopened in 2012 as an extension of the Maritime Museum (see opposite). A system of raised walkways takes you past the exhibits – including fishing boats, mines, a replica World War I biplane and naval guns. The pièce de résistance is the Lembit submarine, built for the Estonian navy in Barrow-in-Furness in the 1930s. Outside, ice-breaker Suur Tõll and several other ships are moored.

Telliskivi Creative City

Ten minutes' walk north of the Old Town, a former engineering works on the far side of the Balti Jaam station now houses the Telliskivi Creative City (@telliskivi.eu), a cluster of creative companies and artists' studios. It is also home to an assortment of cafés, restaurants and art-and-design shops, plus a popular Saturday flea market (see p.249).

Kadriorg Park

Kadriorg Park, a heavily wooded area 2km east of the Old Town along Narva maantee, was laid out according to the instructions of Russian tsar Peter the Great. The main entrance to the park is at the junction of Weizenbergi tänav and J. Poska (tram #1 or #3 from Viru väljak). Weizenbergi cuts through the park, running straight past Kadriorg Palace, a Baroque residence designed by the Italian architect Niccolò Michetti, which Peter had built for his wife Catherine. The palace houses the Kadriorg Art Museum (May–Sept Tues & Thurs–Sun 10am–5pm, Wed 10am–8pm; Oct–April closed Tues; €5.50), with a fine collection of Dutch and Russian paintings.

KUMU

Marking the eastern end of Kadriorg Park is the immense, futuristic-looking KUMU (April–Sept Tues & Thurs–Sun 11am–6pm, Wed 11am–8pm; Oct–April closed Tues; €6; @kumu.ekm.ee), a must-see for anyone interested in twentieth-century Estonian art. It's certainly a wide-ranging collection: surrealism, pop art and abstraction flourished during the Soviet period, despite official hostility to such modernist excesses.

Aegna Island

An hour's boat ride (May–Sept Mon & Wed–Fri 2 daily, Sat & Sun 3 daily; double-check timetable with tourist office; €6 return) from Pirita harbour (bus #1, #34 or #38 from the underground stop at the Viru Centre), tiny peaceful

ESTONIA'S SONG FESTIVAL

The Lauluväljak at Narva maantee 95 (@lauluvaljak.ee), just to the northeast of Kadriorg Park, is a vast amphitheatre which is the venue for Estonia's Song Festivals. These gatherings, featuring a 25,000-strong choir, are held every five years, and have been an important form of national expression since the first all-Estonia Song Festival held in Tartu in 1869. The grounds were filled to their 45,000-person capacity in summer 1988 when people assembled here spontaneously to sing patriotic songs in protest against Soviet rule, in what became known as the "Singing Revolution". The next Song Festival is in July 2019.

Aegna is an excellent day-trip destination. Its forest-covered interior and clean beaches attract locals who camp here in the summer.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The Lennart Meri Tallinn Airport (lennu jaam) is 3km southeast of the city centre and linked to the Viru shopping mall by bus #2 (every 20–40min, 6am–midnight; €2), a 5min walk from the Old Town's Viru Gate.

By train Tallinn's train station (balti jaam) is at Toompuiestee 35, just northwest of the Old Town, a 10min walk to the Town Square. There are ATMs by the front doors.

Destinations Moscow (1 daily at 5.10pm; 14hr); Pärnu (2 daily; 2hr 20min); St Petersburg (1 daily at 5.10pm; 6hr 40min); Tartu (8 daily; 2hr 10min).

By bus The city's bus terminal (autobussi jaam) is at Lastekodu 46, 2km southeast of the centre; there is an ATM and luggage storage. Trams #2 and #4 run from nearby Tartu mnt. to Viru väljak at the eastern entrance to the Old Town; alternatively, take any bus heading west along Juhkentali.

Destinations Kuressaare (up to 16 daily; 4hr–4hr 30min); Pärnu (every 30min, 6.20am–9pm; 2hr); Riga (12 daily; 4hr 30min); St Petersburg (6–8 daily; 7–9hr); Tartu (every 30min, 5.45am–11pm; 2hr 30min); Vilnius (5 daily; 9–10hr).

By boat Arriving by sea, the passenger port (reisadam) is just northeast of the centre at Sadama 25. For updated schedules see www.portoftallinn.com.

Destinations Helsinki (10–15 daily; 2hr–3hr 30min); Stockholm (1 daily at 6pm; 16hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Tourist office at Niguliste 2 (April, May & Sept Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 9am–4pm; June–Aug Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 9am–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10am–3pm; ☎645 7777, tourism.tallinn.ee). You can also buy the Tallinn Card here (see box, p.242).

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Tallinn has an extensive tram, bus and trolleybus network. Locals travel for free; non-Tallinners must buy tickets (talongid) from the driver (€2); or buy a Smartcard (Ühiskaart) from a post office or news kiosk (€2 deposit necessary), topping it up according to what you think you will need – single journeys cost €1.10 (24/72hr €3/€5).

ACCOMMODATION

Demand for budget accommodation outstrips supply in summer, so book in advance.

16 Euro Hostel Fat Margaret's Põhja pst 27 ☎510 0916, 16eur.ee. Just outside the Old Town walls, this tastefully decorated cheapie haven offers free use of the sauna (9–11am) to complement your stay in one of its en-suite rooms or dorms. The large kitchen/social area is a major boon. Dorms €13, doubles €32

Euphoria Roosikrantsi 4 ☎5837 3602, euphoria.ee. A four-storey hostel with a great communal atmosphere, impromptu jam sessions, clean dorms and a couple of rooms, all with shared facilities. You can smoke a hookah and even paint your own mural in the large common room. Dorms €13, doubles €70

Hotel Economy Kopli 2c ☎667 8300, economyhotel.ee. Refurbished 1920s hotel offering modern, comfortable rooms overlooking the train station area on the outskirts of the Old Town. Breakfast is included, as is wi-fi in the lobby. Doubles €70

★ The Knight's House Rüütli 16 ☎631 1444, knight-house.eu. Soothing hostel with floral murals in a characterful old house just steps from the main square. There's a mixture of dorms, quads and private doubles; a simple breakfast is included in the price. Dorms €18, doubles €42

Old House Hostel & Guesthouse Uus 26 ☎641 1281, oldhouse.ee. Renovated, quiet Old Town house with attractive dorms and a handful of cosy twin rooms with shared bath, guest lounge and kitchen. Dorms €15, doubles €60

★ Red Emperor Hostel Aia 10 ☎615 0035, redemperorhostel.com. Ideally located on the eastern fringes of the Old Town, Red Emperor offers a choice of brightly decorated rooms ranging from quads to 10-bed dorms. Additional facilities include kitchen and a next-door bar with pool tables. Dorms €10

Tallinn Backpackers Olevimägi 11 ☎644 0298, tallinnbackpackers.com. This party spot encourages

TALLINN TOURS

Tallinn can be explored in many different ways. Here are some of the more innovative tours:

City Bike Tours Vene 33 ☎511 1819, citybike.ee. Tours of the Old Town and beyond (from €19) run by young, energetic guides. Self-guided tours of Estonian beauty spots also available.

EstAdventures ☎5308 8373, estadventures.ee. Small-group tours of Tallinn, as well as day-trips to Lahemaa National Park.

Tallinn Traveller Viru 6 ☎5837 4800, traveller.ee. Excellent and inexpensive walking tours of Tallinn plus day-trips to Lahemaa National Park and coastal resort Haapsalu, led by young, knowledgeable guides.

bonding between fellow international travellers, be it through video screenings, communal dinners or bar crawls. Don't count on getting much sleep! Dorms €16

Tallinn Boutique Hostel/Viru Backpackers Viru 5 ☎ 644 6050, virubackpackers.com. The calmer sister hostel to Tallinn Backpackers with quiet singles, doubles and triples, as well as access to all Tallinn Backpackers' facilities and an invitation to join their raucous parties, but with the option of actually sleeping afterwards. Doubles €32

EATING

Self-caterers can try the Rimi supermarket at Aia 7 or else buy some cheap fresh produce at the Balti Jaama Turg (train station market) behind the train station.

CAFÉS, CHEAP EATS AND SNACKS

Bogapott Pikk jalg 9. This tiny family-run Tallinn institution, surrounded by part of the medieval wall, serves delicious sandwiches, coffee and pastries while you look around the art shop and ceramics studio. Coffee €1.80. Daily 10am–7pm.

Chocolaterie de Pierre Vene 6. Quaint café with vintage furnishings and a cobbled-alley terrace. Pierre's handmade chocolates are the stars of the show, although all manner of other sweets are on offer too. Carrot cake €3.50. Daily 9am–11pm.

Kohvik Klaus Kalasadamä 8. In the same building as the Estonian Design House and perfectly situated for an assault on the Cultural Kilometre (see p.244), Klaus is a chic and cheery place in which to indulge in salads, pastas and main meals, as well as kick-start espressos and a full range of alcohol. Mon 9am–10pm, Tues–Sat 10am–11pm, Sun 10am–10pm.

Lido Solaris shopping centre, Estonia pst 9. It's a fast-food chain, captain, but not as we know it: traditional dishes from Estonia and all over the Baltic, some of which (potato pancakes, grilled meats) are cooked in front of you as you pass along the endless canteen counter. Scale models of Estonian buildings fill the dining space, staff in national costume man the tills. Fill your plate for under €4. Daily 10am–10pm.

More Viru Keskus shopping centre. Located on the top floor of the Rahvu Raamat bookshop in the Viru Centre, More represents the aristocratic end of the order-at-the-counter market, with Tallinn's beautiful things queuing up to grab an equally beautiful range of soups, pastries and cakes. The coffees and leaf teas are also top-notch. Quiche €4.30. Daily 9am–9pm.

RESTAURANTS

Beer House Dunkri 5. Vast, popular beer cellar which brews its own ales and serves up generous portions of imaginative meat dishes, such as elk and wild boar, as well as good, solid sausage-and-mash combos. Mains €8–12. Live music nightly. Daily 11am–midnight.

★ Bocca Olevimägi 9. A chic cocktail spot in the evenings, this slick Italian restaurant serves superbly executed dishes that won't blow a hole in your budget if you stick to the soups and pastas. Try the linguine with grilled prawns and scallops (€12). Mon–Thurs noon–11pm, Sat noon–midnight, Sun 1–10pm.

F-Hoone Telliskivi 60A. Roomy restaurant in a post-industrial setting, with a broad and inexpensive range of Estonian-European fare served up in bare-brick, bare-floorboard surrounds. Breakfasts are served until 11.30am; two-course set lunches weigh in at around €6. Mon–Sat 9am–midnight, Sun 9am–10pm.

Kivi Paber Käärid Telliskivi 60A C4. In the C block of the Telliskivi factory complex, chef Kivi Paber cooks up delicious Nordic-meets-Mediterranean fare in a redesigned former factory hall. Try duck fillet with roasted veg (€10.90) or opt for one of the three-course daily specials (€8). All dishes gluten-free. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–2am.

Kohvik Moon Vorgu 3. Just outside the Old Town near the start of the Cultural Kilometre, Moon ("Poppy") serves up Baltic-Mediterranean cuisine in contemporary surroundings. Borscht €3, duck breast €10. The dish of the day is a steal at €5. Mon–Sat noon–11pm, Sun 1–9pm.

Lendav Taldrik Telliskivi 60A. Indian cuisine in a former factory space, this time given a bright and colourful café makeover. Classics like Kahlmiri lamb curry weigh in at around €10.50, and there's plenty of scope for vegetarians (Tarka dal €4.80). Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–10pm, Fri & Sat noon–1am.

No99 Sakala 3. Café-restaurant-bar in the foyer of the No99 Theatre, with outdoor seating under the colonnaded facade. Most punters come for the daily-special lunches (ranging in style from Italian pasta dishes to tofu cutlets; €5.20); there is also a full menu of drinks and the chance of catching live jazz on weekend evenings. Mon–Thurs noon–11pm, Fri & Sat noon–midnight.

Vanaema Juures Rataskaevu 10/12. A Tallinn favourite for many years, "Grandma's Place" serves no-nonsense Estonian home food in a cosy cellar setting. Menus change seasonally, although locally sourced trout, lamb, duck and elk are sure to feature. Mains €10–15. Mon–Sat noon–10pm, Sun noon–6pm.

★ Von Krahli Aed Rataskaevu 8. The self-styled "Embassy of Pure Food" delivers delicious and imaginative fusion dishes, with locally sourced meat, fish and vegetables given a modern European makeover. There are plenty of vegetarian options; mains hover around the €8–11 mark. Mon–Sat noon–midnight, Sun noon–6pm.

DRINKING, NIGHTLIFE AND ENTERTAINMENT

Most of Tallinn's popular clubs cater for a mainstream crowd. More underground, cutting-edge dance music

SAUNAS

The first thing to do when you go to an Estonian sauna is get completely naked, though in mixed saunas wrapping a towel around you is at your own discretion.

Once you get used to the heat, scoop some water onto the hot stones; it evaporates instantaneously, raising the temperature. Once everyone is sweating profusely, some might gently swat themselves or their friends with birch branches; this increases circulation and rids the body of toxins. Don't overdo it – ten minutes should be long enough, but get out immediately if you start to feel dizzy. Locals normally follow up with a plunge into a cold lake, although a cold shower will suffice. A good place to start is Kalma at Vana-Kalamaja 9a (Mon–Fri 11am–10pm, Sat & Sun 10am–11pm; public sauna for men only €9–10; private sauna for both sexes €14–20/hr); ☎ 627 1811, 🌐 kalmasaun.ee – Tallinn's oldest public bath (built in 1928), containing private saunas for rent as well as men's and women's general baths (complete with swimming pool).

events change location frequently and are advertised by flyers, or try asking around in the city's hipper bars; expect to pay €4–10 admission.

BARs

Drink Bar & Grill Väike-Karja 8. The patrons at this lively bar are a mixed bunch: locals, backpackers and expats – but all are united in their love of unusual beers, organic ciders and the bar's own house brew. Daily noon–midnight.

Kelm Vene 33. This artsy-student-local bar hidden round a corner from the well-trodden thoroughfares of touristy Tallinn offers a nice mixture of grungy minimalism and domestic comfort, with distressed walls and dim lighting in one room; sofas, standard lamps and bookshelves in another. Occasional gigs and DJ evenings add to the fun. Daily 4pm–4am.

Kohvik Tops Soo 15. Housed in a ramshackle wooden house that's typical of the Kalamaja district just north of the Old Town, Tops proves the perfect hipster retreat with its jumble of retro furnishings, soundtracked by a mixture of indie, jazz and retro pop. Tues–Thurs 4–11pm, Fri 4pm–2am, Sat noon–2am.

Must Puudel Müürivähe 2. Cute and cosy café-bar decked out in a medieval-meets-1970s retro style, the "Black Poodle" serves daily specials (€4.50) at lunchtime, before filling up with a hedonistic local drinking crowd at night. Estonian craft beers on the menu and vinyl DJ nights at weekends. Mon–Wed & Sun 9am–11pm, Thurs–Sat 9am–2am.

★ Pudel Bar Telliskivi 60A. Whitewashed brick and bare lightbulbs provide the requisite air of minimalist hip to this cool but welcoming bar dedicated to the art of a good brew. The list of craft beers from home and abroad (Brewdog Punk IPA €4) runs into the hundreds; platters of quality cheese and sausage will keep hunger pangs at bay. DJs, quiz nights and unplugged concerts add to the fun. Mon–Thurs 4pm–midnight, Fri 4pm–2am, Sat noon–2am, Sun 2pm–midnight.

Speakeasy by Põhjala Kopli 4. This outwardly nondescript, functionally furnished bar serves everything produced by the excellent Põhjala microbrewery, on tap as well as bottled. Local favourites include their Virmalised IPA and Rukkirääk rye ale; although they brew a lot of one-off seasonal specials too. Daily 6pm–2am.

Von Krahli Bar Rataskaevu 10/12. "Krahl" to regulars, this large hip hangout is always packed with a mix of local students and bohemian types. Frequent live music – from alternative to reggae to hip-hop. Good, cheap food: huge daily specials €4. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–1am, Fri & Sat noon–3am.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

Clazz Vana Turg 2 🌐 clazze.ee. One of the most popular venues in the Old Town for nightly live music – from blues to jazz to Latin. Shorter hours in winter. Sun–Thurs 11am–2am; Fri & Sat 11am–4am.

Club Hollywood Vana-Posti 8 🌐 clubhollywood.ee. Large Old Town dance club playing techno, R'n'B and hip-hop. Very popular with a younger crowd as well as tourists. Cover €3–10; free entry for women on Wed. Wed–Sat 11pm–5am.

Club Privé Harju 6 🌐 clubprive.ee. Style-conscious temple to cutting-edge dance culture, often attracting big-name DJs; check the schedule. Over 20s only. Entry €7–15. Thurs 11pm–5am, Fri & Sat midnight–6am.

Club Studio Sauna 1 🌐 clubstudio.ee. A regular menu of house and cutting-edge dance music styles, plus frequent appearances from big-name visiting DJs, make Studio the place to be for the knowledgeable, party-hungry clubber. Entry €7–12. Wed–Sat 11pm–5am.

CINEMAS

Artis Estonia pst. 9 🌐 kino.ee. Shows a full range of independent films. Entry €5–7.

Coca Cola Plaza Hobujaama 5 🌐 forumcinemas.ee. Central multiplex showing the latest Hollywood productions. Entry €6–7.50.

SHOPPING

Katarina Gild Katarina käik. Alleyway just off Vene crammed with high-quality, highly original craft shops selling ceramics, stained glass, linen and more. Mon–Sat 11am–6pm.

Masters' Courtyard Vene 6 ☎ hoov.ee. Courtyard housing some of Tallinn's most original art and craft shops and galleries, where you can find ceramics, glassware, woodworks and candles for a very reasonable price. Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm.

Rahva Raamat 3rd floor, Viru Centre, Viru väljak. Large bookshop selling numerous English-language books and travel guides. Daily 9am–9pm.

Telliskivi Flea Market Telliskivi 60A. Furniture, books, clothes, crockery and wholefood snacks in the courtyard of the Telliskivi former factory complex. June–Sept Sat 10am–3pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies Canada, Toomkooli 13, 2nd floor ☎ 627 3311; Ireland, Rahukohtu 4 ☎ 681 1870; UK, Wismari 6 ☎ 667 4700; US, Kentmanni 20 ☎ 668 8100.

Exchange Outside banking hours, try Tavid at Aia 5, though their overnight rates are not as favourable as their day rates.

Hospital Tallinn Central Hospital, Ravi 18 ☎ 666 1900. English-speaking doctors available.

Left luggage At the bus station (Mon–Sat 6.30am–10pm, Sun 7.45am–8pm; €4/24hr).

Pharmacies Aia Apteek, Aia 7 (8.30am–10.30pm); Tõnismäe Apteek, Tõnismägi 5 (24hr).

Police Pärnu mnt. 11 ☎ 612 3000.

Post office Narva mnt. 1, opposite the Viru Hotel (Mon–Fri 7.30am–8pm, Sat 8am–6pm).

The rest of Estonia

There are several attractions outside Tallinn that are well worth visiting, such as the vast, beautiful expanse of Lahemaa National Park and the pretty island of Saaremaa, home to the Bishop's Castle. The seaside resort of Pärnu is a slightly livelier affair, but outshone in vibrancy by the buzzy university town of Tartu.

LAHEMAA NATIONAL PARK

The largest of Estonia's national parks, 725-square-kilometre Lahemaa lies an hour's drive or bus ride from Tallinn. It stretches along the north coast, comprising lush forests, pristine lakes, and ruggedly beautiful coves and wetlands. The land is dotted with erratic boulders (giant rocks left over from the last Ice Age) and tiny villages throughout, while the forest is home to brown bears, wild boar, moose and lynx. The park is best explored by bicycle, as the villages are all connected by good paved roads. Parts of the park are doable as a day-trip, but you may well be charmed into staying longer.

EXPLORING THE PARK

If you go with Tallinn's Tallinn Traveller (see box, p.246), this is the day route that offers an excellent introduction to the park: start in the village of Palmse, where you can take in the grand German manor (May–Sept 10am–7pm; Oct–April shorter hours; €7), then cycle 8.5km northeast to Sagadi Manor, a well-preserved eighteenth-century aristocratic home (May–Sept daily 10am–6pm; €4), before heading north for 3km to Oandu – the start of several nature trails. Just before the fishing village of Altja, 2km to the north, you'll find the 1km Beaver Trail, where you can see dams built by beavers and stop for lunch at Altja Korts – an attractive tavern serving tasty fresh dishes, such as grilled salmon with grated potato pancakes (mains €8). From Altja you can cycle around the coast of the Vergi peninsula, taking in the picturesque villages (17km) surrounded by pine forest, before ending up on the wide, clean, windswept beach in Võsu. A seaside trail heads north from Võsu for 6km before arriving at the attractive village of Käsmu, which has a superb nautically themed museum (daily 9am–6pm; donations welcome) started by a local collector many years ago; look out for the giant sea mines in the front yard.

If you have any energy left, you can then tackle the rugged cycle trails along the western half of the Käsmu peninsula before getting picked up. Travelling independently, you can take the bus to Käsmu (see p.249), do the trail in reverse and then cycle up from Palmse to Võsu (6km) for an overnight stay before catching a bus back to Tallinn the following day.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus There are buses from Tallinn to Võsu (3 daily; 1hr 25min), Käsmu and Altja (both 1–2 daily; 1hr 10min–1hr 45min). For Palmse, take a morning bus from Tallinn to Rakvere (hourly; 1hr 30min) then catch a bus to Palmse (1 daily at 1.10pm; 25min).

Tourist information Located in tiny Palmse, the Lahemaa National Park Visitor Centre (daily: May–Aug 9am–7pm; Sept 9am–5pm; ☎ 329 5530, 🌐 lahemaa.ee) has helpful staff who can advise on accommodation, biking and hiking trails, plus nature tours, and provide a detailed map of the area.

GETTING AROUND

By bike Cycling is the best way to get around (locals do hitchhike, but the usual precautions apply). You can rent a bicycle at the Palmse Hotel (€4/hr or €15/day) and Sagadi Manor (see p.249), though bikes are sturdier and better maintained at Tallinn's Tallinn Traveller (see box, p.246), which also arranges transfers and day-trips to Lahemaa.

ACCOMMODATION

There are guesthouses and places to eat in Palmse, Sagadi, Altja, Võsu and Käsmu, as well as campsites, huts and forest houses throughout the park, maintained by RMK (🌐 rmk.ee).

Metsa Puhkemaja Võsu ☎ 323 8431, 📧 marika.innos@mail.ee. Simply furnished doubles and triples with shared bathrooms, kitchen facilities and a sauna. Free wi-fi throughout. Doubles €30

Toomarahva Turismitalu Altja ☎ 505 0850, 🌐 toomarahva.ee. A lovely traditional farmstead complete with thatched roof, log-panelled rooms, and a sauna hut at the bottom of a blissful garden. In summer, travellers can sleep in a barn on a bale of hay. Hay bales €5, doubles €45

SAAREMAA

The island of SAAREMAA, off the west coast of Estonia, is claimed by many to be one of the most authentically Estonian parts of the country. Buses from Tallinn, Tartu and Pärnu come here via a ferry running from the mainland village of Virtsu to Muhu Island, which is linked to Saaremaa by a causeway. The principal attraction is Kuressaare's thirteenth-century castle, one of the finest in the Baltic region, but the rest of the island also deserves exploration; cycling is the best way to get around.

Kuressaare

In Kuressaare's Kesk väljak (main square) you'll find the yellow-painted Town Hall, dating from 1670, its door guarded by stone lions. From the square, Lossi runs south to the magnificent Bishop's Castle (Piiskopilinnus), set in the middle of an attractive park and surrounded by a deep moat. The formidable structure dates largely from the fourteenth century and is protected by huge seventeenth-century ramparts. The labyrinthine keep houses the Saaremaa Regional Museum (May–Aug daily 10am–7pm; Sept–April Wed–Sun 11am–7pm; €5; students €2.50), a riveting collection of displays charting the culture, nature and history of the island (including an excellent section on Soviet occupation). You can also climb the watchtowers, one of which houses stunning contemporary art and photography exhibitions.

Around the island

Cycling is a wonderful way of seeing Saaremaa, with its alternating landscapes of pine forest, tiny villages and vast fields. Highlights include the 37km route north from Kuressaare to ANGLA, its five much-photographed wooden windmills by the roadside. Halfway along, KAALI village, home to a giant meteorite crater thought to be at least 4000 years old, makes a worthy detour.

Ten kilometres southwest of Kuressaare, you can stop at JARVE, the local beach hangout, or do the 47km down to the tip of the Torgu peninsula, which ends in an amazing view from the jagged cliffs.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus From the bus station on Pihlta in Kuressaare, turn left onto Tallinna to reach the main square.

Destinations Leisi (5–6 daily; 55min); Pärnu (4 daily; 3hr); Tallinn (up to 16 daily; 4hr–4hr 30min); Tartu (2 direct daily; 6hr).

Tourist information The tourist office is in the Town Hall at Tallinna 2 (June–Aug Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; Sept–May Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎ 453 3120, 🌐 kuressaare.ee & 🌐 saaremaa.ee).

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bike rental from Bivax Rattapood, Tallinna 26 (Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–2pm; €8/4hr, €15/day).

★TREAT YOURSELF

Spa Hotel Rütli, Pargi 12, Kuressaare

☎ 452 2133, 🌐 saaremaaspahotels.eu.

Non-guests are welcome to sample a variety of inexpensive “medical” and “wellness” spa treatments at this hotel, including “Charcot’s Shower” – strip naked and be pummelled with strong jets of water (€10). Treatments take place 8am–3pm; book in advance.

ACCOMMODATION

Kraavi Holiday Cottage 500m southeast of the castle at Kraavi 1, Kuressaare ☎ 5335 8784, 🌐 kraavi.ee. Family-run guesthouse offering cosy, spacious doubles and triples with a hearty breakfast included. Use of sauna and bikes is extra. Little English spoken but the hostess is very welcoming. Doubles €25

Ovelia Majutus Suve 8, Kuressaare ☎ 518 5932, 🌐 ovelia.ee. Friendly and clean guesthouse with basic rooms, some with TVs. Some are also en suite, and have a shared kitchen. A 10min walk from the bus station. Doubles €25

Piibelehe Holiday Home Piibelehe 4, Kuressaare ☎ 453 6206, 🌐 piibelehe.ee. On the outskirts of town, this place has a number of airy guest rooms, some en suite and with use of a kitchen; camping also available. Discounts for multi-day stays; breakfast €6 extra. Camping/person €3, plus per tent €6, doubles €38

EATING AND DRINKING

Classic Café Lossi 9, Kuressaare. A great little spot to sample some of the best coffee and food in town while sitting in a cosy nook, surrounded by black-and-white photos of Kuressaare. Coffee €1.50. Daily 8.30am–10pm.

Kodulinna Lokaal Tallinna mnt. 11, Kuressaare. Popular café-pub on the main square dishing up inexpensive soups, light meals, and some filling daily specials (€3.50). Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–2am, Fri & Sat noon–5am.

Kohvik Retro Lossi 5, Kuressaare. An odd mix of furnishings and vinyl records pinned to the wall lend a vaguely hipsterish edge to this bar-restaurant serving a fine selection of Estonian-Mediterranean meals and a good choice of Estonian craft beers. Mains €9–11. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–10pm, Fri & Sat noon–midnight.

PÄRNU

PÄRNU, Estonia’s main seaside resort, comes into its own in summer, when it fills up with locals and tourists, and hosts daily cultural and musical events.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Rütli, cutting east–west through the centre, is the Old Town’s main pedestrianized thoroughfare, lined with shops and a mix of seventeenth- to twentieth-century buildings, while parallel Kuninga boasts the largest concentration of restaurants. The entertaining Pärnu Museum is at Rütli 53 (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €4, students €3), tracing local history from 9000 BC to World War II; ask for the information sheet in English. The oldest building in town is the Red Tower (Punane Torn; Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; free), a fifteenth-century remnant of the medieval city walls at Hommiku 11, a block north from Rütli.

Follow Nikolai south from the centre and you’ll reach the Kunsti Museum (daily: June–Aug 9am–9pm; Sept–May 9am–7pm; €3; 🌐 chaplin.ee), set in the former Communist Party HQ at Esplanaadi 10. It holds excellent temporary exhibitions of contemporary art. South of here Nikolai joins Supeluse, which leads to the beach, passing beneath the trees of the shady Rannapark. Just beyond the sand dunes lies Pärnu’s main attraction: the wide, clean sandy beach, lined with see-saws, changing booths and volleyball nets.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is about 5km east of the centre at Riia mnt. 116.

Destinations Tallinn (2 daily; 2hr 20min).

By bus The bus station is on Pikk in the Old Town (information & ticket office round the corner at Ringi 3; daily 6.30am–7.30pm). Luggage storage by platform 8 (Mon–Fri 8am–7.30pm, Sat & Sun 9am–5pm; €3/day).

Destinations Kuressaare (4–5 daily; 3hr); Riga (3 daily; 2hr 30min); Tallinn (every 30min, 6am–9pm; 2hr); Tartu (up to 16 daily; 2hr 30min).

Tourist information The tourist office at Uus 4 (mid-May to mid-Sept daily 9am–6pm, mid-Sept to mid-May Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–2pm; ☎ 447 3000, 🌐 visitparnu.com) stocks extensive information on Pärnu and the surrounding area.

ACCOMMODATION

Hommiku Hostel & Guesthouse Hommiku 17 ☎ 445 1122, 🌐 hommikuhotel.ee. Both hostel and guesthouse-style accommodation are on offer at this attractive central budget option: all doubles and triples are en suite and have their own kitchenettes; singles share a bathroom. Optional breakfast (€6) is served in a nearby café. Dorms €20, doubles €64

Hostel Lõuna Lõuna 2 ☎ 443 0943, 🌐 hostellouna.ee. Centrally located, with spartan, spacious dorms and basic rooms with shared facilities, popular with local students. Functional en suites on the ground floor. Dorms €15, doubles €55

Karjamaa Camping Asume Karjamaa 20a ☎ 564 8717, 🌐 karjamaacamping.ee. Just off the southeastern end of Pärnu's beach (and a 35-minute walk from the centre), Karjamaa offers tent space in a suburban garden setting, or dorm beds in 4-person chalets. Camping/person €5, plus per tent €6, dorms €25

EATING AND DRINKING

Postipoiss Vee 12. Wooden tavern, invoking nostalgia for tsarist Russia with its decor, and specializing in delicious Russian cuisine. You can't go wrong with home-made pelmeni (meat dumplings) in chanterelle sauce. Get in early to beat the groups. Mains €5–8. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–11pm, Fri & Sat noon–2am.

Puhvet A.P.T.E.K Rütüli 40. Housed in a former pharmacy complete with tiled floor and wooden counter fittings, this buzzing bar offers an enticing list of shots and cocktails and DJ-driven dance action at weekends. The outdoor terrace is the place to hang out in summer. Wed & Thurs 6pm–2am, Fri & Sat 6pm–5am.

Sõarikubaar Pühavaimu 15. An essential stop for caffeine addicts, this popular little café also does tasty pastries and sõorikud (Estonian doughnuts). Mon–Fri 9am–9pm, Sat & Sun 9am–8pm.

Steffani Nikolai 24. Extremely popular restaurant serving a wide choice of tasty pizza and pasta dishes (huge calzone €7). There's a popular second branch between Ranna pst. and the beach in the summer, serving similar fare. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–11.30pm, Fri & Sat 11am–1.30am.

★ Supelsaksad Nikolai 32. Relaxing café on the ground floor of a former family house, with bare floorboards, lots of pinks and blues and the odd ravishing roll of retro wallpaper. Expect strong coffee, proper leaf teas, super salads and the cakes and pastries of your dreams. There's a small but exquisite menu of main meals (mushroom risotto €12). Garden seating in summer. Daily 9am–10pm.

Veerev Õlu Uus 3A. The "Rolling Beer" is an enjoyably unpretentious wooden-bench bar attracting an agreeable mixture of holidaymakers and garrulous locals. Mon–Sat 11am–midnight, Sun 1pm–midnight.

KIHNU

A short boat ride from Pärnu lies an island stuck in a delightful time warp. The four hundred or so inhabitants of Kihnu sustain a traditional way of life that you won't find on the Estonian mainland. Young women still wear traditional striped woollen skirts here, just like their great-grandmothers, while little old ladies ride old-fashioned Soviet motorcycles with sidecars (there are no cars on the island).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By boat To get to Kihnu, take a ferry from the quay at Munalaid, 45km west of Pärnu (June–Sept 2–4 daily; 1hr). There are connecting buses between Pärnu bus station and Munlaid (50min).

ACCOMMODATION

Rock City Guesthouse Sääre village ☎ 5626 2181, 🌐 rockcity.ee. One of the few places to stay, this is a simply furnished building set among trees near the shore. Open June–Aug only. Doubles €45

TARTU

Just over two hours southeast of Tallinn, TARTU is in many ways the undiscovered gem of the Baltic States, a small-scale university town that is full of youthful energy but happily free from the city-break tourism that tends to swamp the Estonian capital. With plenty of diversions, and events all year round, it's worth a stay of a couple of days.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The city's centre is its cobbled Raekoja plats, fronted by the Neoclassical Town Hall, a pink-and-white edifice with the "Kissing Students" statue in the fountain in front of it. The northeast corner features the Leaning House (a wonky-looking structure that is still essentially sound), home of the Tartu Art Museum (Wed & Fri–Sun 11am–6pm, Thurs 11am–9pm; €3), with edgy temporary exhibitions downstairs and works by Estonian masters upstairs. The Neoclassical theme continues in the cool white facade of the main Tartu University building at Ülikooli 18, just north of the square. Upstairs you can see the Student Lock-up, where students were incarcerated in the nineteenth century for such offences as the late return of library books and duelling (Mon–Sat 10am–6pm; €1). About 100m beyond the university is the red-brick Gothic St John's Church (Mon–Sat 10am–7pm; church free; tower €2), founded in 1330, and most famous for over one thousand pint-sized terracotta sculptures set in niches around the main entrance, although only about two hundred still survive.

Cathedral Hill and around

Behind the Town Hall, Lossi climbs Cathedral Hill, a pleasant park with the remains of the red-brick Cathedral at the top, housing the University History Museum (May–Sept Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; Oct–April Wed–Sun 11am–5pm; €4). Inside are some weird and wonderful scientific instruments, and a viewing terrace on one of the former cathedral towers. Nearby is the Sacrifice Stone, left over from Estonia's pagan past; students now burn their lecture notes on it after the exams. Behind the stone you'll find Kissing Hill, where newlywed grooms carry their brides. South of Cathedral Hill, the infamous "Grey House" at Riia 15b – a place which filled the inhabitants of Tartu with dread in the 1940s and 50s – is now the KGB Cells Museum (Tues–Sat 11am–5pm; €4) with exhibits on deportations, Estonian resistance and life in the Soviet gulags, summarized in English.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is about 900m southwest of the centre at Vaksali 6. There are no facilities at the station.

Destinations Tallinn (8 daily; 2hr 10min).

By bus The bus station is just east of the centre at Soola 2, and there is an ATM on the premises as well as a café and toilets. There's luggage storage at Hotel Dorpat next to the station (€1.50/bag).

Destinations Kuressaare (2 direct daily; 6hr); Pärnu (up to 15 daily; 2hr 30min); Riga (2 daily; 5hr); Tallinn (every 30min, 5.30am–11pm; 2hr 30min).

Tourist information The Tartu Visitors' Centre inside the old Town Hall (May to mid-Sept Mon–Fri 9am–6pm Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; mid-Sept to April Mon 9am–6pm, Tues–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 10am–2pm; ☎ 744 2111, 🌐 visittartu.com) can book accommodation, store luggage and provide a wealth of info on Tartu and southern Estonia. You can pick up a copy of Tartu in Your Pocket here and surf the internet (free for 20min).

ACCOMMODATION

Academus Hostel Pepleri 14 ☎ 5306 6620, 🌐 tartuhostel.eu. Cheap and fairly central accommodation in a well-appointed student dorm. Choose between self-contained doubles with TV and kitchenette, or a family room featuring two single beds and a pull-out sofa-bed (€50). Book well in advance. Doubles €40

Hostel Looming Kastani 38 ☎ 5699 4398, 🌐 loominghostel.ee. Inside the Young Estonian Creativity Centre, this eco-hostel has an emphasis on recycling, with bright decor, friendly young staff, comfy beds and a spacious guest lounge. Bike rental from €10. Dorms €14, doubles €56

Riia Villa Riia 117a ☎ 738 1300, 🌐 riiavilla.ee; bus #1, #8, #18 or #22 up Riia to Soinaiste bus stop. West of Old Town, this tranquil guesthouse is well worth seeking out. Each of the six en-suite rooms has its own theme; choose "Glamorous Simplicity" or "Kleopatra's Room". Doubles €42

★ Terviseks Raekoja Plats 10 ☎ 565 5382, 🌐 terviseksbbb.com. Backpacker-favourite-turned-B&B run by friendly, energetic young staff, with spacious, brightly decorated doubles and dorms, modern lounge and gleaming kitchen. Special touches include reading lights by each bed and a guitar for guests to strum. Dorms €15, doubles €44

EATING

Café Spargel Kalevi 13. In an Art Nouveau house just west of the bus station, the "Asparagus Café" excels in affordable, well-presented European cuisine with plenty of healthy veggie options. Risottos and pastas in the €7–10 range. There's a shady terrace out the back. Mon 11am–9pm, Tues–Sat 11am–11pm.

Crepp Rüütli 16. Chic and busy café serving delicious salads, baguettes and filling crêpes (€3). The service is sometimes quite leisurely. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–midnight.

Kung Fu Ülikooli 5. Small, unpretentious but satisfying Chinese restaurant that runs through the classics in dependable and eminently affordable style. Mains €7–9. Daily noon–11pm.

★ La Dolce Vita Kompanii 10 (entrance from Gildi) ☎ 740 7545. Life seems pretty sweet when one of the thin-and-crispy, wood-fired pizzas is placed on your chequered tablecloth at this Italian-run restaurant. Mains €6–7. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11.30am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11.30am–midnight.

Ülikooli Kohvik (University Café) Ülikooli 20. Split-level establishment with an elegant café upstairs serving the likes of smoked duck with roast beetroot, and a bargain buffet on the ground floor, dishing up a selection of salads and hot meals to hungry students; pay by weight at €0.70/100g. Mon 11.30am–9pm, Tues 11.30am–10pm, Wed 11.30am–11pm, Thurs & Fri 11.30am–midnight, Sat noon–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

★ Genialistide Klubi Magasini 5 🌐 genklubi.ee. Tartu's self-styled "subcultural centre"; this eclectic boho venue is a café (with a varied and tasty food menu) by day and an indie bar-club by night, attracting a mixed, arty crowd. Music and events vary, as do opening times; check the website for details. Mon–Sat noon–3am.

J R Schramm'i Keller Rüütli 11. Cellar bar under a low, vaulted ceiling, serving up a selection of ales that range from the latest Nordic craft brews to Newcastle Brown. There's a lot of standing room down here but it still gets rammed with students at weekends. Wed & Thurs 3pm–1am, Fri & Sat 3pm–2am, Sun & Mon 3–11pm.

Naiiv Vallikraavi 6. Set slightly apart from the main pub-crawl routes and much the better for it, Naiiv is a chic but welcoming bar that does a great line in local craft beers. It can be a tight squeeze at weekends when live gigs and DJs add to the fun. Tues & Wed 6pm–1am, Thurs 6pm–2am, Fri & Sat 6pm–3am.

Trepp Rüütli 16. Upstairs from Crepp (see above), this typically Tartu-esque slice of student bohemia features bare wooden floors, matt black furnishings, and a dangerously long and tempting menu of shots and spirits. Mon–Thurs 7pm–2am, Fri & Sat 8pm–4am.

Zavood Lai 30. Legendary student hangout with post-industrial decor, table football, eccentric indie sounds and a menu of cheap and tasty food chalked up on the blackboard. Mon–Fri 11am–4am, Sat & Sun 6pm–4am.

SÁMI WOMAN WITH REINDEER

Finland

HIGHLIGHTS

- ① Saunas Don't be shy – strip off and join the locals. See p.263, p.272 & p.274
- ② Design District, Helsinki Sample the shops, cafés, galleries and nightlife of this vibrant, trendy area of the capital. See p.264
- ③ Tampere's museums Industrial powerhouse Tampere has been revamped with impressive museums, including the new Moomin Museum at Tampere Hall See p.269
- ④ Olavinlinna Castle, Savonlinna One of the best-preserved medieval castles in northern Europe – and with great watersports nearby. See p.271
- ⑤ Sámi Culture, Inari One of Europe's last frontiers, where nomadic reindeer herders live in harmony with snowmobiles. See p.274

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.257

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €40, occasional treat €65

Drink Salmiakki €4–6 shot

Food Reindeer stew with potatoes €10

Hostel/budget hotel €25/€60

Travel Train: Helsinki–Rovaniemi €80; bus: Helsinki–Tampere €27

FACT FILE

Population 5.4 million

Language Finnish and Swedish

Currency Euro (€)

Capital Helsinki

International phone code +358

Time zone GMT +2hr

Introduction

10

Drawing strong cultural influences both from its easterly neighbour, Russia, and from its western one, Sweden, Finland remains one of Europe's most enigmatic countries. It's a land best known for its laconic, pithy people with a penchant for kicking back in a sauna au naturel, for its bizarre annual festivals and for creating those quirky, hippo-like fairytale characters, the Moomins – its strangeness is a good part of the country's charm. And while it's far from a budgeteer's paradise, there are definitely ways to save – especially if you know where to drink.

The Finnish landscape is flat and punctuated by huge forests and lakes, with the drama heightening as you head north. The south is still peppered with stunning bodies of water, however. The capital, Helsinki, straddles several islands, brightened by brilliant fin-de-siècle architecture and superb collections of late modern and contemporary artworks. Former capital Turku is a cultural beacon too. Stretching from the thrumming industrial city of Tampere to the Russian border in the east, the vast waters of the Lake Region provide a natural means of transport for the timber industry – indeed, water here is a more common sight than land, with many towns lying on narrow ridges between lakes. North of here, the gradually rising fells and forests of Lapland are Finland's most alluring terrain and are home to the Sámi, semi-nomadic reindeer herders. For a few months on either side of midsummer, the midnight sun is visible from much of the region; in the dead of winter the north of the country is shrouded in polar darkness.

CHRONOLOGY

1800 BC Tribes from Russia settle in Lapland.

98 AD Roman historian Tacitus writes first recorded reference of the "Fenni".

1293 Sweden invades and defeats Finland, establishing dividing lines between the Catholic West and Orthodox East.

1642 First complete Finnish translation of the Bible produced.

1721 In the Treaty of Uusikaupunki, Sweden cedes Finnish land to Russia.

1809 Russians take Finland after military victory over Sweden.

1812 Helsinki is declared capital of Finland.

1837 The Kalevala, a collection of folklore-inspired poetry and Finland's most famous literary work, is first published.

1858 Confusion caused as Russia forces Finns to drive on the right-hand side of the road.

1860 Finland acquires its own currency, the markka.

1906 Finland gains its own national parliament. Finnish women are the first in the world to receive full political rights.

1917 Finland declares independence from Russia.

1939–40 Soviet troops invade Finland but meet fierce resistance during the "Winter War".

1941 Under the Moscow Peace Treaty, the southeast territory of Karelia is ceded to the Russians.

1945 Tove Jansson publishes the first of her Moomin books for children.

1952 Helsinki holds the Olympic Games.

1995 Finland joins the EU.

2000 Tarja Halonen becomes the first female president.

2002 Finland adopts the euro.

2006 Finnish death metal group Lordi win Eurovision song contest.

2008 Ex-president Martti Ahtisaari awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

2009 Finnish government sells its share in Santa Park, signalling that the global economic crisis has reached the North Pole.

2011 Turku is joint European Capital of Culture.

2014 Finnish company Nokia sells its mobile phone business to Microsoft.

2017 Finland celebrates the centenary of its independence.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

There are over twenty airports dotted around the country (information at finavia.fi/en), but you're most likely to arrive at Helsinki Vantaa Airport, which is the main hub for international flights. British Airways (ba.com), Finnair published by VR and available from all train stations and tourist offices.

BY BUS

Buses cover the whole country, but are most useful in the north. Tickets can be purchased at bus stations and most travel agents; only ordinary one-way tickets can be bought on board. Check matka.huolto.fi, which lists all bus routes and sells discounted tickets, or ask for the timetable (Pikavuoroaikataulut), available at all main bus stations. The private company Express Bus (expressbus.fi) sells some particularly cheap fares – often as low as €2 – though you must book at least five days in advance for the most rock-bottom fares.

BY PLANE

Domestic flights can be comparatively cheap as well as time-saving, especially if you're planning to visit Lapland and the far north. Finnair (finnair.com) operates the most flights, although Norwegian (norwegian.com) also runs a few domestic routes. The cheaper tickets are generally only available if booked well in advance.

BY BIKE

Cycling can be an enjoyable way to see the country at close quarters, and the only appreciable hills are in the far north. You can take your bike along with you on an InterCity train for a €10 fee (reservations rarely necessary), and most youth hostels, campsites and some hotels and tourist offices offer bike rental from €15 per day; there may also be a deposit of around €30.

ACCOMMODATION

There's a good network of 65 official HI hostels (hostellit.fi) as well as a few independents. Most charge €5–6 for breakfast, and bed linen is often extra (€4–7), so if you're on a tight budget it's worth bringing your own sheets. Dorms are almost always single-sex in HI hostels; some independents have mixed dorms. The free Finland: Budget Accommodation booklet, available from any tourist office, contains a comprehensive list of hostels and campsites.

Hotels are expensive. Special offers in summer mean that you'll be able to sleep well on a budget in high season, but may have difficulty finding anything affordable out of season – the reverse of the norm. In many towns you'll also find tourist hotels (matkustajakoti) offering fewer frills for €45–60 per person, and summer hotels (kesähotelli; June–Aug only), which offer decent accommodation in student blocks for €25–45 per person.

Official campsites (leirintäalue) are plentiful. The cost to camp is roughly €15 per pitch, plus €5 per person, depending on the site's star rating. Most open from May or June until August or September, although some stay open longer and a few year-round. Many three-star sites also have cottages, often with TV, sauna and kitchen. To camp in Finland, you'll need a Camping Key Scandinavia, available at every site (and online: camping.fi) for €16 and valid for a year. Camping rough is illegal without the landowner's permission – though in practice, provided you're out of sight of local communities, there shouldn't be any problems.

FOOD AND DRINK

Finnish food is a mix of Western and Eastern influences, with Scandinavian-style fish specialities and exotic meats such as reindeer and elk alongside dishes that bear a Russian stamp – pastries, and casseroles strong on cabbage and pork. Also keep an eye out for karjalan piirakka – oval-shaped pastries containing rice and mashed potato, served hot with a mixture of finely chopped hard-boiled egg and butter. Kalakukko is another inexpensive delicacy, if an acquired one: a chunk of bread with pork and whitefish baked inside it; it's legendary around Kuopio but available almost everywhere. Slightly cheaper but just as filling, lihapiirakka are envelopes of sweet pastry filled with rice and meat – ask for them with mustard (sinappi) and/or ketchup (ketsuppi). Don't pass over a chance to try a hearty bowl of lohikeitto (creamy salmon and potato soup) either.

Breakfasts (aamiainen) in hotels usually consist of a buffet of herring, eggs, cereals, cheese, salami and bread, while you can

FINLAND ONLINE

🌐 visitfinland.com The official Finnish Tourist Board site.

🌐 finland.fi A well-run, informative government site on Finnish culture and society.

🌐 sauna.fi Everything you ever wanted to know about saunas but were afraid to ask, from the Finnish Sauna Society.

🌐 festivals.fi A comprehensive listing of festivals throughout Finland.

🌐 nationalparks.fi A handy starter for planning your visit to the Finnish outdoors.

lunch on the economical snacks sold in market halls (kauppahalli) or adjoining cafés. Most train stations and some bus stations and supermarkets also have cafeterias offering a selection of snacks, greasy nibbles and light meals, and street stands (grillis) turn out burgers and hot dogs for around €3. Otherwise, campus mensas are the cheapest places to grab a hot meal (€5 or less); theoretically, you have to be a student, but you're only asked for ID occasionally. In regular restaurants or ravintola, lunch (lounas) deals are good value, with many places offering a lunchtime buffet table (voileipäpöytä or seisovapöytä) stacked with a choice of traditional goodies for a set price of around €12. Pizzerias are another good bet, serving lunch specials for €7–10. For evening meals, cheap eats come in the form of pizzerias, along with, in bigger cities, Chinese, Thai or Nepalese. Authentic Finnish cuisine is invariably pricier.

DRINK

Finns are the world's biggest coffee consumers, knocking back an average 12kg per person annually: cafés fuel the trend and generally open 8am to 6pm. Most restaurants are fully licensed, and are often frequented more for drinking than eating. Bars are usually open till midnight or 1am (and clubs until 2am or 3am) and service stops half an hour before closing. You have to be 18 to buy beer and wine, 20 to buy spirits, and some places have a lower age limit of 24. The main – and cheapest – outlets for takeaway alcohol are the ubiquitous government-run ALKO shops (Mon–Fri 9am–8pm, Sat 9am–6pm).

Beer (olut) falls into three categories: “light beer” (I-Olut), like a soft drink; “medium strength beer” (keskiolut; III-Olut), perceptibly alcoholic, sold in supermarkets and cafés; and “strong beer” (A-Olut or IV-Olut), on a par with the stronger European beers, and only available at licensed restaurants, clubs and ALKO shops. Strong beers, such as Lapin Kulta and Koff, cost about €1.30 per 300ml bottle at a shop or kiosk. Imported beers go for about €3 per can. Finlandia vodka is €20 for a 700ml bottle; Koskenkorva, a rougher vodka, is €15. You'll also find Finns knocking back salmiakki, a premixed vodka/liquorice cocktail which looks, smells and tastes like cough medicine, and fishu, another inexplicably popular drink that blends Fisherman's Friend lozenges with Koskenkorva.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Finnish people are normally an outsider's favourite thing about Finland: percipient, laconically humorous, self-deprecating and genuinely interested in those who care to find out more about their country. Yes, their brevity can make them come across as withdrawn, introspective, even downright odd: little value is put on exuberance, and you can have an entire conversation with a Finn without their making any discernible facial expression. But underneath this reserve, Finnish people are as full of enthusiasm and affection as any other nation. This is a people whose aversion to small talk and affinity for the awkward moment is rivalled only by their remarkable ability to drink several times their body weight in alcohol in an evening's sitting. Their underlying bonhomie does reveal itself when there's drink around, but alcohol abuse really has long been a problem here, and it's wise to avoid trying to keep up with the Finnish capacity for drinking.

Tipping is rare in Finland, and buying rounds is unheard of. Service is usually included in restaurant bills, although it's common to round the bill up to the nearest convenient figure when paying in cash (the same applies for taxi fares).

FINNISH

Stress on all Finnish words always falls on the first syllable.

	FINNISH	PRONUNCIATION
Yes	Kyllä	Koo-leh
No	Ei	Ay
Thank you	Kiitos	Keetos
Hello/Good day	Hyvää päivää	Hoo-veh pai-veh
Goodbye	Näkemiin	Nek-er-meen
Excuse me	Anteeksi	Anteksi
Where?	Missä?	Miss-eh?
Good	Hyvä	Hoo-veh
Bad	Paha	Paha
Near	Lähellä	Le-hell-eh
Far	Kaukana	Kau-kanna
Cheap	Halpa	Halpa
Expensive	Kallis	Kallis
Open	Avoinna	Avoin-na
Closed	Suljettu	Sul-yet-oo
Today	Tänään	Ten-ern
Yesterday	Eilen	Aylen
Tomorrow	Huomenna	Hoo-oh-menna
How much is...?	Kuinka paljon maksaa...?	Koo-inka pal-yon maksaa...?
What time is it?	Paljonko kello on?	Palyonko kello on?
I don't understand	En ymmärrä	Enn oomerreh
Do you speak English?	Puhutteko englantia?	Poohut-tuko englantia?
One	Yksi	Uksi
Two	Kaksi	Kaksi
Three	Kolme	Col-meh
Four	Neljä	Nel-yeh
Five	Viisi	Veesi
Six	Kuusi	Coosi
Seven	Seitsemän	Sayt-se-men
Eight	Kahdeksan	Cah-deksan
Nine	Yhdeksän	Oo-deksan
Ten	Kymmenen	Kummenen

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

The winter landscape lends itself to cross-country skiing, the season lasting from December until January in the south and April or May in northern and central Finland. There are ski slopes, too – Levi, Ylläs and Ruka are the main ones – see www.ski.fi for more information. Several operators offer off-piste skiing. The hiking season is short (May to September) because of snow coverage, but trails like the 80km-long Karhunkierros (bear's ring; www.nationalparks.fi/en/karhunkierros) remain popular. Watery pursuits like kayaking (or kitesurfing on the frozen lakes in the winter) are a worthwhile option in the lake regions, especially around Lake Inari. Popular national sports include the distinctively Finnish pesäpallo, similar to baseball, and ice hockey.

COMMUNICATIONS

Communications are dependable and quick. Free internet access is readily available, often at the local library. Major towns and cities usually have free, comprehensive wi-fi, with even remoter areas getting 3G coverage. Post offices are generally open 9am to 6pm Monday to Friday, with later hours in Helsinki. Public phones have been swiftly phased out in favour of mobile service; if you plan to make a lot of calls in Finland, invest in a Finnish SIM card; €20 will get you a Finnish number with about sixty minutes of domestic calling time or several hundred domestic text messages. Directory enquiries are ☎118 (domestic) and ☎020208 (international).

EMERGENCIES

You hopefully won't have cause to come into contact with the Finnish police, though if you do they are likely to speak English. As for health problems, if you're insured you'll save time by seeing a doctor at a private health centre (lääkäriasema) rather than waiting at a national health centre (terveyskeskus), though you're going to pay for the privilege. Medicines must be paid for at a pharmacy (apteekki), generally open daily 9am to 6pm; outside these times, a phone number for emergency help is displayed on every pharmacy's front door.

INFORMATION

Most towns have a tourist office, some of which will book accommodation for you, though in winter their hours are much reduced and some don't open at all. You can pick up a decent map of Finland free from tourist offices.

MONEY AND BANKS

Finland's currency is the euro (€). Banks are generally open Monday to Friday 9am to 4pm. Some banks have exchange desks at transport terminals, and ATMs are widely available. You can also change money at hotels, but the rates are generally poor. Credit cards are widely accepted right across the country.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Most shops generally open Monday to Friday 9am to 6pm, Saturday 9am to 4pm. Along with banks, they close on public holidays, when most public transport and museums run to a Sunday schedule. These are: January 1, January 6 (Epiphany), Good Friday and Easter Monday, May 1, Ascension (mid-May), Whitsun (late May), Midsummer (late June), All Saints' Day (early Nov), December 6 and 24 to 26.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

☎112 for all emergency services.

Helsinki

Sitting across a series of islands in Finland's far south, HELSINKI has a maritime feel and a mood as much akin to Baltic Eastern Europe and Russian cities as to anywhere else in Scandinavia. For a century an outpost of the Russian Empire, Helsinki's very shape and form derives from its more powerful neighbour. Yet during the twentieth century it became a showcase for independent Finland, many of its impressive buildings reflecting the dawning of Finnish nationalism and the rise of the republic. This ushered in the so-called golden age of Finnish design in the 1950s, and the city is justifiably proud of its cutting-edge architecture. Today, visitors will find a youthful buzz on the streets, where the boulevards, outdoor cafés and restaurants are crowded with Finns who take full advantage of their short summer. At night the pace picks up in Helsinki's solid selection of bars and clubs.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Following a devastating fire in 1808, and the city's designation as Finland's capital in 1812, Helsinki was totally rebuilt in a style befitting its new status: a grid of wide streets and Neoclassical brick buildings modelled on the then Russian capital, St Petersburg.

Esplanadi and Senate Square

Esplanadi, a wide, tree-lined boulevard across a mishmash of tramlines from the harbour, is Helsinki at its most charming. A couple of blocks north of its eastern end, the suavely refurbished City Museum at Aleksanterinkatu 16 (Mon–Fri 11am–7pm, Sat & Sun 11am–5pm; free; ☎helsinginkaupunginmuseo.fi) offers a microcosm of 450 years of Helsinki life through wonderful interactive exhibitions.

Just west of City Museum is Senate Square (Senatintori), dominated by the exquisite form of the Tuomiokirkko (Cathedral; June–Aug daily 9am–midnight; Sept–May Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun noon–6pm; helsinginseurakunnat.fi). After the elegance of the exterior, the spartan Lutheran interior comes as a disappointment; more impressive is the gloomily atmospheric crypt (entrance on Kirkkokatu; June–Aug daily 9am–midnight; Sept–May Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun noon–6pm), now often used for exhibitions. West across Unioninkatu, the city's most spectacular interior decoration awaits in the soaring ceilings and mesmerizing decorative painting of the National Library of Finland (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, plus some Sat; free; kansalliskirjasto.fi).

Uspenski Cathedral

The square towards the eastern end of Aleksanterinkatu is overlooked by the onion domes of the Russian Orthodox Uspenski Cathedral (May–Sept Mon–Fri 9.30am–4pm, Sat 9.30am–2pm, Sun noon–3pm, Oct–April closed Mon). Inside, there's a glitzy display of icons. Beyond is Katajanokka, a wedge of land extending between the harbours; with some beautiful Art Nouveau architecture, it's one of the city's most atmospheric places to walk around.

SWEAT IT OUT: HELSINKI'S HOTTEST SAUNAS

Kulttuurisauna @kulttuurisauna.fi.

Opened in 2013 on the north shore of the Kaisaniemenlahti and blending Finnish and Japanese influences, this is one of the world's most energy-efficient saunas.

Visitors can cool off in the sea afterwards. Tram #3 or #7B to Hakaniemi. Entry €15.

Löyly Design Sauna @facebook.com/helsinkisauna. 2016's new addition to the capital's sauna scene uses contemporary wooden architecture to create a huge, stunning seaside complex at the Pyhän Birgitan Puisto park on the Hernesaari peninsula. Tram #1A to Perämiehenkatu. Entry €19/2hr.

Kamppi Chapel of Silence

This tranquil, award-winning space (Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; @evl.fi) west of the train station on busy Narinkka Square (locally referred to as Kamppi Square) is a non-ecumenical structure designed to instil a sense of calm in anyone needing respite from the hustle and bustle of downtown.

Kiasma

Kiasma is Helsinki's museum of contemporary art (Tues 10am–5pm, Wed–Fri 10am–8.30pm, Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm; €12; @kiasma.fi), its gleaming steel-clad exterior and hi-tech interior making it well worth visiting. Temporary exhibitions feature everything from paintings to video installations.

The National Museum

North of Kiasma is the National Museum (Tues–Sun 11am–6pm; €8; @kansallismuseo.fi), its design drawing on the country's medieval churches and granite castles. The exhibits, from prehistory to the present, are exhaustive; concentrate on a few specific sections, such as the fascinating medieval church art and the ethnographic displays. The highlight could just be by the ticket desk anyway: glance up for fabulous vivid murals based on Finland's fabled national epic poem, the Kalevala (which inspired Tolkien's Lord of the Rings).

Hakasalmi Villa

There are four museums affiliated with the City Museum scattered around town, of which the lovely Hakasalmi Villa (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 11am–5pm, Thurs 11am–7pm; free), a rose-pink mansion in English-style grounds that are good for a stroll, is most eye-catching. It's northwest of the city centre near the Finlandia Hall, a striking conference centre designed by Alvar Aalto.

Suomenlinna

Built on five interconnected islands by the Swedes in 1748 to protect Helsinki from seaborne attack, the fortress of Suomenlinna, fifteen minutes away by boat, is the biggest sea fortress in the world. Reachable by ferry (hourly; €5 return) from the harbour, it's also a great place to stroll around on a summer afternoon, with superb views back across the water towards the capital: you can either visit independently or take one of the hour-long summer guided walking tours, beginning close to the ferry stage and conducted in English (June–Aug daily 11am, 12.30pm & 2.30pm; Sept–May Sat & Sun 1.30pm; €11 high season, €4 low season). Suomenlinna has a few museums, none particularly riveting, but the best is Suomenlinna Museum (daily: May–Sept 10am–6pm; Oct–April 10.30am–4.30pm; €6.50), with a permanent exhibition on the island. There are several atmospheric places to eat and drink.

Vallisaari

The islands lying off the Finnish coast run into the thousands, of which Vallisaari – until 2016 private military property – is the latest to become easily accessible. It's an island for wildlife lovers, as the flora here is superb, and marked trails criss-cross it. Bring a picnic. The ferry (May–Aug daily hourly; Sept Sat & Sun hourly; €7.50 return) stops at Suomenlinna on the return, so you can explore both.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Vantaa airport (@helsinki-airport.com) is 20km to the north, connected by Finnair buses to the central train station (every 20min; €6.30).

Destinations Ivalo (for Inari; 1–2 daily; 1hr 30min); Oulu (13–15 daily; 1hr); Rovaniemi (5 daily; 1hr 15min).

DARING DESIGN

The Golden Age of Finnish Design started in the 1950s, driven by the innovation of architects like the celebrated Alvar Aalto who designed many of Helsinki's most striking modern buildings, cementing Helsinki's place as a European design capital. Design-wise there are plenty of attractions to check out and even a

Design District (☎ designdistrict.fi), an area fanning out from the Dianapuisto park at the northeastern end of Uudenmaankatu and full of fashion stores, galleries and showrooms.

DESIGN DESTINATIONS

Artek Keskuskatu 1B (Mon–Sat 9am–6pm; ☎ artek.fi). Opposite Stockmann's Department Store, this is part museum paying homage to Alvar Aalto's visionary designs and part flashy furnishings store.

Design Museum Korkeavuorenkatu 23 (June–Aug daily 11am–6pm; Sept–May Tues 11am–8pm, Wed–Sun 11am–6pm; €10; ☎ designmuseum.fi). A romp through Finnish design history.

Alvar Aalto Museum (July & Aug Tues–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 11am–6pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €6; ☎ alvaraalto.fi). The architect's former home in the Töölönlahden puisto park shows the foresight of his early 1930s style when he acquired the property, with signs of the functionalist design he would become renowned for evident throughout. Tram #4.

By train The train station is in the heart of the city on Kaivokatu.

Destinations Oulu (11 daily; 6–9hr); Rovaniemi (4 daily; 10–13hr); St Petersburg (2 daily; 3hr 30min); Tampere (hourly; 1hr 30min); Turku (hourly; 2hr).

By bus The long-distance bus station is under the Kamppi shopping centre on Simonkatu.

Destinations Porvoo (15 daily; 1hr); Turku (hourly; 2hr 30min–2hr 50min).

By ferry Terminals are less than 1km from the centre; take tram #3T or #3B.

Destinations Stockholm (3 daily; 16hr); Tallinn (hourly; 2hr–4hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist office The excellent City Tourist Office at Pohjoisesplanadi 19 (mid-May to mid-Sept Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 9am–4pm; mid-Sept to mid-May Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; ☎ 09 3101 3300, ☎ visithelsinki.fi) hands out the useful, free listings magazines Helsinki This Week and City.

Discount card If you're staying a while, consider purchasing a Helsinki Card (€41/51/61 for 24/48/72hr; ☎ helsinkiocard.com), giving unlimited travel on public transport and free entry to more than fifty museums among other savings.

GETTING AROUND

The city's transport system (trams, buses and a limited metro) is very efficient.

Tickets One-way tickets can be bought on board (€3.20) or from the bus station, tourist office or kiosks around the centre (€2.50), while a tourist ticket (€12/24/36/48 for one/three/five/seven days) permits unlimited use of the whole network for the period covered. Tram #3T/#3B follows a useful figure-of-eight route around the centre.

ACCOMMODATION

Hostel beds are in short supply, especially during summer, so booking ahead is sensible. The Strömman tickets and tours desk at the tourist office can help with this in person, by phone, email or online (Mon–Fri 10am–4/4.30pm, Sat 10am–4pm; June–Aug also Sun 10am–4pm; ☎ 09 2288 1600, ☎ stromma.fi).

HOSTELS

Academica Hietaniemenkatu 14 ☎ 09 1311 4334, ☎ hostelacademica.fi. On the fringes of the city centre with single-sex dorms and double rooms. Breakfast and bed linen included in the price. June–Aug only. Tram #3T (stop "Kauppakorkeakoulu"). Dorms €29, doubles €70

Cheapsleep Sturenkatu 27B ☎ 04 5845 6188, ☎ cheapsleep.fi. Does what it says on the tin, in a clean and amenable way, with 24hr reception and a supermarket downstairs. Dorms €29, doubles €59

Eurohostel Linnankatu 9 ☎ 09 622 0470, ☎ eurohostel.fi. The biggest hostel in Finland, close to the ferry terminals and with a free sauna. Dorms €29, doubles €58.80

★ Hostel Diana Park Uudenmaankatu 9 ☎ 09 642 169, ☎ dianapark.fi. Sociable, hip and atmospheric hostel (think shabby couches) in a grand old building on Helsinki's best street for bar-hopping. Dorms €28, doubles €68

Hostel Suomenlinna ☎ 09 684 7471, ☎ hostelhelsinki.fi. Easily the most idyllic place to stay, and located on the fortress island of Suomenlinna (see p.263). Dorms €25, doubles €64

HOTELS

Finn Kalevankatu 3b ☎ 09 684 4360, ☎ hotellifinn.fi. Peaceful modern rooms on the top floor of an office block, virtually in the city centre. Doubles €79

★TREAT YOURSELF

In Nuukio National Park thirty minutes' drive from Helsinki you can camp in the world's greenest campsite, where state-of-the-art tents are suspended from trees so barely a blade of grass gets trampled. Book through the outdoor adventure company Honkalintu (www.honkalintu.fi) who arrange overnight camping adventures for €150 per two people.

Helsten Hotel Parliament Museokatu 18 ☎09 251 1050, www.helstenhotels.fi. Sleek, large and well-appointed apartment-style rooms that are perfect for groups of friends. Operates another similar hotel in Katajanokka. Doubles €105
Omena Yrjönkatu 30 & Lönnrotinkatu 13 ☎omenahotels.com. Helsinki's best deals can often be found at either of these two centrally located, self-service, internet-reserved hotels (rates are very variable). Rooms are very sleek. Doubles €55

CAMPSITE

Rastila Karavaaninkatu 4 ☎09 107 8517, www.rastila.fi. Great camping spot with cabins and dorms in an attached hostel. It's 13km east of the city centre, near the end of the metro line (Vuosaari) and served by night buses #90N till 1.30am during the week and 4.15am Fri & Sat. Camping/person €5, plus per pitch €15, cabins €85

EATING

Many places offer good-value lunchtime deals, and there are plenty of affordable ethnic restaurants and fast-food grillis for the evenings. At the end of Eteläesplanadi the kauppahalli (Mon–Fri 8am–7pm, Sat 8am–4pm) is good for snacks and sandwiches. Another bargain are the numerous university student cafeterias around the city. Kallio district, across the Kaisaniemenlahti 2km north of the city centre, has some great cheap Bohemian hangouts.

CAFÉS

Café Ekberg Bulevardi 9 ☎cafeekberg.fi. Nineteenth-century fixtures and a fin-de-siècle atmosphere, with waitresses bringing expensive sandwiches and pastries to marble tables. Lunch €9.30. Mon–Fri 7.30am–7pm, Sat 8.30am–5pm, Sun 9am–5pm.

Café Fazer Kluuvikatu 3 ☎fazer.fi. Owned by Finland's biggest chocolate company, with celebrated cakes and pastries. Lunch about €10. Mon–Fri 7.30am–10pm, Sat 9am–10pm, Sun 10am–6pm.

★Café Succès Korkeavuorenkatu 2. Going strong over fifty years, Succès exudes classy tradition and has a huge local following. Great korvapuusti (cinnamon buns) and divine salmon soup. Snacks €3–10. Mon–Sat 8am–6pm.

Café Tin Tin Tango Töölöntorinkatu 7 ☎tintintango.info. Quirky café-bar with a laundry machine and sauna (book a day in advance) in the Töölö district northwest of the centre via tram #4. Breakfasts and light lunches around €10. Beer available. Mon–Fri 7am–midnight, Sat 9am–midnight, Sun 10am–9pm.

Good Life Coffee Kolmas Linja 17, ☎goodlifecoffee.fi. Exquisite coffee, pure and simple, at this hip Kallio joint: and there are a dozen more cool cafés within a five-block radius. Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat 10am–6pm.

Strindberg Pohjoisesplanadi 33 ☎strindberg.fi. A classic Finnish café: the upstairs restaurant serves contemporary Scandinavian cuisine, while the street-level café is one of the places in town to see and be seen. Mains around €20. Mon–Tues 9am–10pm, Wed–Sat 9am–midnight, Sun 10am–10pm.

Uni Café Mannerheimintie 3 ☎hyyravintola.fi. Cheap, filling dishes at this university cafeteria right in the city centre, with meals from as little as €5. Mon–Fri 11am–7pm, Sat 11am–6pm.

RESTAURANTS

Bar 9 Uudenmaakatu 9 ☎bar9.net. Though known as a great, unpretentious neighbourhood bar, they also serve excellent food all day. Massive grilled ham and cheese sandwiches, spicy pastas and salads from €10. Mon–Fri 11am–2am, Sat & Sun noon–2am.

★The Cock Fabianinkatu 17 ☎thecock.fi. A refreshing find serving Helsinki's most creative and best-value lunch (€12 for a scrumptious soup and salad buffet) by a country mile. A more intimate lower level opens for dinner. Animated, atmospheric, and run by people who know about good food. Mon–Wed 7.30am–midnight, Thurs & Fri 7.30am–2am, Sat noon–2am.

Everest Luotsikatu 12 ☎everesttyti.fi. The best of several good Nepalese restaurants in Helsinki, on the Katajanokka peninsula. Main dishes start at €12. Mon–Fri 10.30am–10pm, Sat & Sun noon–10pm.

Juuri Korkeavuorenkatu 27 ☎juuri.fi. This cosy joint has popularized the concept of sapas (Finnish tapas) and you can come here to sample classic Finnish dishes prepared well and for cheap prices. A main – or four sapas – will set you back €16. Mon–Fri 11.30am–11pm, Sat & Sun noon–11pm.

Pelmenit Kustaankatu 7. This affordable hole-in-the-wall East European restaurant does amazing home-style comfort food such as blini, borscht and pelmeni (dumplings) for under €10. Mon–Thurs 11am–5pm, Fri–Sun 10am–10pm.

Pompei Snellmaninkatu 16 ☎facebook.com/ravintola.pompei. Excellent, down-to-earth neighbourhood Italian restaurant run by a friendly Neapolitan. Good salads and pastas, and especially great pizzas from €10. Grappa and limoncello to boot. Mon–Fri 10.30am–11pm, Sat noon–11pm, Sun 10am–10pm.

Soul Kitchen Fleminginkatu 26–28 ☎soulkitchen.fi. American-style restaurant serving southern specialities such as macaroni cheese and succulent barbecue ribs from €10. Aretha and Ray play the tubes. Mon–Fri 11am–midnight, Sat 2pm–midnight, Sun 2–10pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Wednesday is a popular night for going out, while on Friday and Saturday it's best to arrive as early as possible to get a seat. There are occasional free gigs on summer Sundays in Kaivopuisto Park, south of the centre. There's also a wide range of clubs and discos, which charge a small admission fee (€5–10). For details of what's on, read the back page of the culture section of Helsingin Sanomat, or the free fortnightly English-language paper City, found in record shops, bookshops and tourist offices.

BARS

A21 Annankatu 21 ☎ a21.fi. This award-winning bar offers excellent if pricey cocktails, designer seating and cliques of there-to-be-seen clientele. Wed & Thurs 6pm–1am, Fri & Sat 6pm–3am.

Ateljee Bar Hotel Tornii, Yrjönkatu 26. The best views of Helsinki from this stylish (but expensive) rooftop bar. Mon–Thurs 2pm–2am, Fri & Sat noon–2am, Sun 2pm–1am.

Bryggeri Sofiankatu 2 ☎ bryggeri.fi. Just what the beer-lover needed: a sleek brewery restaurant just back from the harbourfront. Mon–Sat 11.30am–midnight, Sun noon–9pm.

Karaoke Bar Restroom Tehtaankatu 23A ☎ karaokebar.net/restroom. One-time public lavatory rebuilt as a karaoke bar, with large gold-framed paintings on the walls. Popular with stag dos, so consider yourself forewarned. Mon–Fri 3pm–2am, Sat & Sun 2pm–2am.

Liberty or Death Erottajankatu 5 ☎ libertyordeath.fi. Small exposed-brick cocktail bar that feels something like a Nordic speakeasy, with candles, jazz and regular changing menus of drinks bearing names such as Jabberwocky and Mutineer. As hip as you'll find in Helsinki. Mon–Thurs 4pm–2am, Fri & Sat 4pm–2am.

Siltanen Hämeentie 13B ☎ siltanen.org. This great little red-brick spot is a Kallio favourite for local artists and musicians. They often play Finnish music from the 1960s. Great spot for its hulking large breakfasts and brunches (€16) too. Mon–Fri 11am–2am, Sat 11am–3am.

We Got Beef Iso Roobertinkatu 21. Helsinki's hippest-of-the-hipster bars has long been the place to come to hear DJs spin reggae, ska and funk, with a small dancefloor out the back. Wed–Sat 6pm–4am.

Zetor Kaivopihä, Mannerheimintie 3 ☎ zetor.net. This classic Finnish bar-restaurant is filled with old rusty tractors and serves drinks and eats all day and night until 3.30am. A great place to try salmi, Finnish home-brewed ale. Mon & Sun noon–midnight, Tues noon–3am, Wed–Sat noon–4am.

CLUBS

Juttatupa Säästöpankinranta 6. The city's best jazz club has live gigs Wednesdays and Saturdays. Mon–Wed 10.30am–midnight, Thurs–Sat 10.30am–1am, Sun 10.30am–11pm.

Korjaamo Töölönkatu 51B ☎ korjaamo.fi. This well-managed cultural centre puts on superb indie rock, electronica and avant-garde concerts, and has a great bar. Opening hours depend on gigs but are at least Mon–Sat 11am–10pm.

Lady Moon Kalvokatu 12 ☎ ladymoon.fi. Open nightly, this club claims you never need to drink the same drink there twice. The die-hard partiers love it. Opposite the train station. Daily 9pm–4am.

Tavastia Urho Kekkonen Katu 4 ☎ tavastiaklubi.fi. Finland's (perhaps Europe's) most legendary rock club and synonymous with the development of Finnish rock. Fri & Sat 8pm–4am, Sun 8pm–1am.

LGBT HELSINKI

The gay scene in Helsinki is small but spirited. For the latest details, pick up a copy of the widely available monthly Z magazine – in Finnish only but with a useful listings section – or drop into the state-supported gay organization SETA, Pasilanraitti 5 (☎ seta.fi).

dtm (Don't Tell Mamma) Mannerheimintie 6 B ☎ dtm.fi. The capital's legendary gay nightclub still has all the charm: drag shows, gay karaoke and regular house music parties. Mon–Sat 9pm–4am.

Sauna Vogue Sturenkatu 27A ☎ saunavogue.net. Finland's only gay sauna, with a bar, steamroom, terrace and masseur. €18 entry. Tues–Sat 3–10pm, Sun 3–11pm.

SHOPPING

Arkadia Nervanderinkatu 11 ☎ arkadiabookshop.fi. Good international bookshop with hundreds of English titles. Tues–Fri noon–7pm, Sat 10am–6pm.

Black & White Toimen Linja 1 ☎ blackandwhite.fi. Wonderful Kallio record store going strong over 30 years with lots of Finnish music (particularly strong on rock) besides an eclectic international mix. Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–3pm.

Marimekko Mikonkatu 1 ☎ marimekko.com. Signature snazzy Finnish clothing brand with many stores nationwide. Mon–Sat 10am–8pm.

Stockmann Department Store Corner of Aleksanterinkatu and Mannerheimintie ☎ stockmann.com. Sprawling Constructivist edifice selling everything from bubble gum to Persian rugs. Mon–Fri 9am–9pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun noon–6pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies Australia (honorary consulate), Museokatu 25b; Canada, Pohjoisesplanadi 25b ☎ 09 228 530; Ireland, Erottajankatu 7A ☎ 09 682 4240; South Africa, Pohjoinen

Makasiinikatu 4 ☎ 09 6860 3100; UK, Itäinen Puistotie 17 ☎ 09 2286 5100; US, Itäinen Puistotie 14a ☎ 09 616 250.

Exchange Apart from the banks, try Change Group at the airport (6am–8/9pm) or Forex at the train station (Mon–Fri 8am–10pm, Sat & Sun 9am–7pm).

Hospital HUS Hospitals (🌐 hus.fi/en/medical-care/hospitals) has 26 hospitals.

Left luggage Lockers (€4–8) in the train station (daily 5.20am–11pm).

Pharmacy Yliopiston Apteekki (☎ 0300 20 200, toll call, 🌐 yliopistonapteekki.fi) at Mannerheimintie 96 is open 24hr.

Post office Elielinaukio 2F (Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat 10am–4pm, Sun noon–4pm).

PORVOO

About 50km east of Helsinki, PORVOO is one of the oldest towns on the south coast and among Finland's most charming places. Its narrow cobbled streets, flanked by brightly hued wooden buildings, give a sense of Finnish life before Helsinki's bold Neoclassical geometry came along. The Porvoo Museum (May–Aug Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–4pm; Sept–April Wed–Sun noon–4pm; €8) includes the Johan Ludwig Runeberg House at Aleksanterinkatu 3 near the station where the famed Finnish poet lived from 1852; one of his poems provided the lyrics for the Finnish national anthem.

The old town is built around the hill on the other side of Mannerheimkatu, crowned by the fifteenth-century Tuomiokirkko (May–Sept Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–2pm, Sun 2–5pm; Oct–April Tues–Sat 10am–2pm, Sun 2–4pm), where Alexander I proclaimed Finland a Russian Grand Duchy. The cathedral survived a serious arson attack in 2006 and reopened two years later.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses run daily from Helsinki to Porvoo (from €9 one-way; 1hr).

Tourist office Aleksanterinkatu 1 (Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 040 489 9801, 🌐 visitporvoo.fi).

ACCOMMODATION

Porvoo Hostel Linnankoskenkatu 1–3 ☎ 019 523 0012, 🌐 porvoohostel.fi. Cosy 29-bed hostel, with ten rooms. There's an indoor pool and sports facilities nearby. Dorms €23, doubles €54

EATING

Hanna Maria Välikatu 6 🌐 hanna-maria.fi. The cheapest place to eat in the Old Town, with lunches that range from €7 to €14. Stays open an extra hour later in the summer. Mon–Sat 8am–4pm, Sun 10am–4pm.

The southwest

10

The region immediately west of Helsinki comprises swathes of interminable forests interrupted only by modest-sized patches of water and wooden villa towns. The extreme southwestern corner is more interesting, with islands and inlets abutting a jagged shoreline, a spectacular archipelago stretching halfway to Sweden (so renowned it's known as the archipelago) and some distinctive Finnish–Swedish coastal communities.

TURKU

Co-host of the European Capital of Culture during 2011 (along with Tallinn), TURKU was once the national capital, but lost its status in 1812 and most of its buildings in a ferocious fire in 1827. These days it's a small and sociable city, bristling with history, culture and a sparkling nightlife, thanks to the students from its two universities. If you base yourself here for a few days, you'll be able to explore the fascinating coastal inlets and islands in the surrounding area.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

To get to grips with Turku and its pivotal place in Finnish history, cut through the centre to the Aura River that splits the city. This tree-framed space is, as it was before the great fire of 1827, the community's bustling heart.

Tuomiokirkko

Overlooking the river, the Tuomiokirkko (daily 9am–6pm except during services) was erected in the thirteenth century and is still the centre of the Finnish Lutheran Church. Despite repeated fires, a number of features survive. A cathedral museum (€2) is located at the main entrance.

Turku Art Museum

The Turku Art Museum (Tues–Fri 11am–7pm, Sat & Sun 11am–5pm; €9; @turuntaidemuseo.fi) is at the top of Aurakatu, housed in a lovely building constructed in 1904. It contains one of the better collections of Finnish art, with works by all the great names of the country's nineteenth-century Golden Age plus a commendable stock of modern pieces.

Aboa Vetus and Ars Nova

Turku's combined museum of Aboa Vetus and Ars Nova (daily 11am–7pm; €9; guided tours July & Aug daily 11.30am) sits on the riverbank. Digging the foundations of the modern art gallery revealed a warren of medieval lanes, now on show. The gallery comprises 350 striking works plus temporary exhibits, and there's a great café.

Turku Castle and harbour

Crossing back over Aurajoki and down Linnankatu and then heading towards the mouth of the river will bring you to harbour-hugging Turku Castle (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €9). If you don't fancy the walk, hop on bus #1 from the market square. The somewhat featureless whitewashed exterior conceals a maze of cobbled courtyards, corridors and staircases, with a bewildering array of finds and displays – a 37-room historical museum. The castle probably went up around 1280; its gradual expansion accounts for the patchwork architecture.

At the harbour several historic ships are moored, including the 1902-built 100m-long Suomen Joutsen, evoking something of the city's erstwhile maritime clout. To get the nitty-gritty on all things nautical, visit the diverting harbour-side Forum Marinum (June–Aug daily 11am–7pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 11am–7pm; €8) where the new permanent exhibition colourfully runs the gamut of several centuries of maritime history.

Naantali

15km west of Turku, the small town of Naantali is one of the biggest and best-preserved examples of Finnish wooden architecture, and the gateway to a chunk of the archipelago lying off the southwest coast (much accessible by road). There are several good-quality restaurants here, though the big attraction is Moominland (daily mid-June to Aug; day ticket €28; moominworld.fi) theme park, devoted to the famous Finnish children's book characters. Needless to say, kids enjoy this most. Buses #6/7 from Turku's kauppatori (market square) run here.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is just north of the city centre. It takes roughly 15min to walk into town.

Destinations Helsinki (hourly; 2hr); Tampere (9 daily; 1hr 40min).

By bus The bus station is next to the train station.

Destinations Helsinki (hourly; 2hr 5min–2hr 40min); Tampere (every 30min; 2–3hr).

By ferry From the Stockholm ferry, take the train to the terminal, 2km west, or catch bus #1 to Linnankatu.

Destinations Stockholm (4 daily; 10–11hr).

Tourist office Aurakatu 2 (April–Sept Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9am–4pm; Oct–March Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–3pm; ☎ 02 262 7444, @visitturku.fi).

ACCOMMODATION

It's worth contacting Kotimaailma (@kotimaailma.com) for online offers on fully serviced apartments close to Turku city centre: these work out as little as €80 for two people. For staying out on the archipelago, contact Archipelago Booking of Finland (☎ 02 410 6600, @archipelagobooking.fi).

Campsite Ruissalo ☎ 02 262 5100; bus #8. On the island of Ruissalo, which has two sandy beaches and overlooks Turku harbour. There is also a villa in the grounds with rooms. June–Aug. Camping/person €5, plus per tent €17, doubles €40.

Omena Hotelli Humalistonkatu 7 @omenahotels.com. Alvar Aalto fans might fancy a stay in this building designed by Finland's most famous architect. The hotel is modern and self-service, with an automated reception area. Doubles €55.

★ River Hostel Turku Linnankatu 72 ☎ 040 689 2541, @www.msborea.fi. Permanently docked on the river, the SS Borea is the most exciting place to stay in Turku on a budget. Staying on an ex-cruise ship is a novel quirk, and the en-suite cabin rooms are tidy and neat. Dorms €23, doubles €42.

Tuure Bed and Breakfast Tuureporinkatu 17 C ☎ 02 233 0230, @www.netti.fi/~tuure2/en/. Clean, pleasant little guesthouse with friendly proprietors in Turku centre, where fifteen rooms are located in something of a drab office building. Doubles €58.

EATING

Fresh produce is sold in the kauppatori (market square), near the tourist office, every day; in summer it's full of open-air cafés; nearby, the effervescent market hall or kauppahalli (Mon–Fri 8am–5pm, Sat 8am–2pm) offers a slightly more upmarket choice of delis and other places to eat.

Assarin Ullakko Rehtorinpellonkatu 4a. This rock-bottom-priced student cafeteria offers a lively atmosphere great for meeting local students. Lunch costs €5.60 (50 percent discount for students). Mon–Fri 10.30am–3pm.

Blanko Aurakatu 1 @blanko.net. Ever-popular bar-restaurant just opposite the tourist office. Good lunches and drum 'n' bass and house DJs till 3am at weekends. Mains from €10 to €17. Mon & Tues 11am–11pm, Wed & Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri 11am–3am, Sat noon–3am, Sun noon–6pm.

Café Art Läntinen Rantakatu 5 @cafeart.fi. Popular river-fronting café that don't scrimp on the strength of its espressos. Mon–Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 11am–5pm.

Viikinkiravintola Harald Aurakatu 3 @ravintolaharald.fi. A fun Viking-style restaurant, this joint does hearty meals. Lunches around €10 served until 3pm. Mon noon–11pm, Tues–Thurs noon–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–1am, Sun 3pm–10pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

A drink at one of the many floating bar-restaurants moored along Itäinen Rantakatu is a popular summer tradition.

★ Brewery Restaurant Koulou Eerikinkatu 18 @panimoravintolakoulu.fi. This former schoolhouse has been converted into a labyrinthine bar serving beer brewed on the premises and a fantastic range of whiskies. Mon–Sat 11am–2am.

Klubi Humalistonkatu 8 @klubi.net. Cavernous, studenty venue featuring live bands and DJ nights. Wed 10pm–4am, Thurs–Sat 9pm–4am.

Monk Humalistonkatu 3 @monk.fi. Cool spot with lots of live jazz. Mon 9pm–1am, Fri–Sat 9pm–4am.

The Lake Region

About a third of Finland is covered by the Lake Region, a massive area of bays, inlets and isles interspersed with dense pine forests. Despite holding much of Finland's industry, it's a remote, peaceful, verdant area, and even Tampere, a major industrial city, enjoys a laidback lakeside setting. The eastern part of the region is the most atmospheric: slender ridges furred with conifers link the few sizeable landmasses. The regional centre, Savonlinna, stretches gorgeously across several islands and boasts a fine medieval castle, inside which a famous opera festival is held every summer, while bustling Kuopio has superb museums and another enviable lakeshore location for water-based fun.

TAMPERE

Scandinavia's largest inland city, TAMPERE is a leafy place of cobbled avenues, sculpture-filled parks and two sizeable, placid lakes. It was long a manufacturing centre, but thanks to an impressive arts patronage, it has metamorphosed into one of Finland's most enjoyable cities, with free outdoor concerts, a healthy nightlife and cracking modern art. Even its old industry is now part of its edgy appeal: check the bars and the boutiques in the former factories and the hipsters hanging out alongside the weirs and canals.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The main streets run off either side of Hämeenkatu. At its western edge, Hämeenpuisto runs north–south. Further west, in undulations of parkland interspersed with churches and grand residential addresses, the isthmus that divides the two lakes of Näsijärvi and Pyhäjärvi stretches away.

Lenin Museum

The Lenin Museum at Hämeenpuisto 28 (June–Aug daily 11am–6pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 11am–5pm; €6) was newly refurbished for 2016 and commemorates the revolutionary's ties with Finland.

Särkänniemi

At the northern end of Hämeenpuisto, Särkänniemi (one-day pass €38; @sarkanniemi.fi/en) is far more than the lake-fronting amusement park you see from afar. Aside from all the rides and a planetarium (which the day-pass gets you entry to, along with the tower), it's here that you will find Näsinneula observation tower (daily 11am–11pm; included in Särkänniemi ticket price, €5 by itself), topping out at 130m with a great view of the city and a restaurant. There's a lift if you don't fancy the climb.

With a separate admission charge, tremendous Sara Hildén Art Museum (May–Sept daily 10am–6pm; Oct–April Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €10; www.tampere.fi/english/sarahilden.html) behind the observation tower is a quirky collection of Finnish and foreign modern works perched above the lakeshore.

Tampere Cathedral

Three blocks north of Hämeenkatu, stone-built Tampere Cathedral (daily May–Sept 10am–5pm; Oct–April 11am–3pm; free) is attractive from the outside. Inside, however, it is stunning, with some quite controversial decorative murals by Hugo Simberg and Magnus Enckell.

Tampere Hall

On the east side of the rail tracks, Scandinavia's largest conference centre is flash, but of note to sightseers as the new home of the adorable Moomin Museum (Tues–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €6), a respectful and exhaustive overview of Tove Jansson's creations with touching models and sketches.

Rauhaniemi

About 3km north of Tampere Hall in Lappi neighbourhood, a woody park culminates in Rauhaniemi beach, complete with a sauna (Mon–Thurs 3–8pm, Fri 3–8.30pm, Sat & Sun 1–8pm; €4; www.rauhaniemi.net) where you cool off in the lake afterwards. Take bus #2 from outside the tourist office.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Tampere-Pirkkala Airport is located 17km southwest of the city. Bus #1a operates between the airport and the train station, taking 40min (€6).

By train The train station is at Rautatiekatu 25, at the end of Hämeenkatu.

Destinations Helsinki (hourly; 2hr); Kuopio (4 daily; 3–4hr); Oulu (14 daily; 4hr 25min–8hr 30min); Savonlinna (5 daily; 5hr 30min–6hr 30min); Turku (9 daily; 1hr 40min).

By bus The long-distance bus station is in the town centre, off Hämeenkatu, two blocks west of the river.

Tourist office Hämeenkatu 14 (Sept–May Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat 10am–3pm; June–Aug Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–3pm; ☎03 5656 6800, www.visittampere.fi).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Dream Hostel Åkerlundinkatu 2 ☎045 236 0517, www.dreamhostel.fi. Wonderfully furnished, high-on hotel standard modern hostel with pretty much every amenity you could imagine, including a sauna and gym. Dorms €19.80, doubles €59

★ Härmälä Campsite ☎020 719 9777, www.suomicamping.fi; bus #1. 4km south of the city centre in gorgeous wooded environs with cabins. Early May to late Sept. Camping/person €5, plus per pitch €15, cabins €47

★ Omena Hotelli Hämeenkatu 7 & Hämeenkatu 28 www.omenahotels.com. Two excellent self-service hotels. No reception, so you must book online, but great deals are offered. Doubles €55

EATING

★ 2H+K Aleksanterinkatu 33 ☎2hk.fi. Time-tested but hip as ever, this vibrant restaurant, with exposed brick walls, serves fresh Italian-Finnish food. Mains are about €15. Mon–Thurs noon–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–1am, Sun 1–11pm.

★ Gopal Ilmarinkatu 16. Friendly vegetarian Indian lunch spot where you pay by weight (€1.85/100g). Mon–Fri 11am–5pm, Sat noon–4pm.

★ Kahvila Runo Ojakatu 3 www.kahvilaruno.fi. With some great Finnish rustic furniture, this bookish, high-ceilinged space is the best place in town for a coffee and cake. Mon–Fri 9am–8pm, Sun 10am–8pm.

★ Pizzeria Napoli Aleksanterinkatu 31 www.pizzerianapoli.fi. Tampere's best and longest-standing pizza place. Mon–Fri 10.45am–11pm, Sat noon–midnight, Sun noon–11pm.

★ Tivoli Smørrebrød & Øl Itäisenkatu 9–13. Good selection of Nordic sandwiches and beers in this resto-pub set in the Finlayson factory area. Mon & Tues 11am–9pm, Wed & Thurs 11am–10pm, Fri 11am–11pm, Sat noon–11pm, Sun noon–8pm.

DRINKING

★ Jack the Rooster Satakunnankatu 13 www.jacktherooster.fi. By the Satakunnankatu bridge, this legendary rock venue puts on great live gigs. Good food too. Mon, Thurs & Fri 4pm–4am, Tues & Wed 4pm–2am, Sat & Sun 1pm–4am.

★ Klubi Tullikamarin aukio 2 www.klubi.net. Busy nightclub and concert venue in an old customs house behind the train station. Wed 10pm–4am, Thurs–Sat 9pm–4am.

★ Telakka Tullikamarin aukio 3 www.telakka.eu. The most popular watering hole among Tampere university students, serving good meals (from €13.50). Mon & Tues 11am–midnight, Wed & Thurs 11am–2am, Fri 11am–3am, Sat noon–3am, Sun noon–midnight.

SAVONLINNA AND AROUND

SAVONLINNA is one of Finland's most relaxed towns, renowned for its opera

festival (☎015 476 750, 🌐operafestival.fi) in July. Book well ahead if you're visiting in summertime. Out of peak season, its streets and beaches are uncluttered, and the town's easy-going mood and lovely setting – amid a confluence of forests and lakes – make it a pleasant place to linger.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The best locations for absorbing the atmosphere are the harbour and market square at the end of Olavinkatu. At the square, try the Savonlinna speciality of lörtsy, a delicious meat-and-rice-filled pastry.

Follow the harbour around picturesque Linnankatu, or around the sandy edge of Pihlajavesi, which brings you to atmospheric and surprisingly well-preserved Olavinlinna Castle (hourly guided tours Jan–May Mon–Fri 10am–4pm, Sat & Sun 11am–4pm; June to mid-Aug daily 10am–6pm; mid-Aug to mid-Dec Mon–Fri 10am–4pm, Sat & Sun 11am–4pm; €8), perched on a small island. Founded in 1475, the castle witnessed a series of bloody conflicts until the Russians claimed possession of it in 1743 and relegated it to the status of town jail.

Nearby is the Savonlinna Provincial Museum in Riihisaari (Tues–Sun 11am–5pm, plus Mon same times June–Aug; €5), which occupies an old granary and displays an intriguing account of the evolution of local life, with rock paintings and ancient amber carved with human figures.

Punkaharju

Punkaharju, a densely forested ridge set amid the lakes 35km southeast of Savonlinna, and accessible by train, is your best opportunity to get out into the region's stunning countryside. A must-see near the train station is the Finnish Forest Museum (June–Aug daily 10am–7pm; May & Sept daily 10am–5pm; Oct–April Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €10; 🌐www.lusto.fi), which has riveting exhibits that bring the forests and their place in Finnish culture alive. There's a restaurant, and trails nearby.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train There are two train stations: get off at Savonlinna-Kauppatori, across the main bridge from the tourist office.

Destinations Parikkala (for Helsinki; 6 daily; 50min); Punkaharju (4 daily; 30min); Tampere (5 daily; 5hr 30min–6hr 30min).

By bus The bus station is off the main island at the western end of Olavinkatu, but within easy walking distance of the town centre.

Destinations Kuopio (3–5 daily; 3hr).

Tourist office Puistokatu 1 (July to early Aug Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–2pm; rest of year Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎0600 30 007, 🌐savonlinna.travel).

ACCOMMODATION

Kesähotelli Vuorilinna Kylpylaitoksentie ☎015 739 50. Nice, fairly central hostel on Vääräsaari island (road and boat connections) open June–Aug. Dorms €30

Perhehotelli Hospitz Linnankatu 20 ☎015 515 661, 🌐www.hospitz.com. Attractive, central hotel. Prices go up by some 50 percent during the opera festival. Doubles €98

Wanha Pappila Opistokatu 13 ☎015 572 910, 🌐www.sko.fi. 6km southwest of the centre in Poukkisilta, a beguiling former vicarage offering bed and breakfast. On-call reception June–Aug only. Doubles €80

EATING AND DRINKING

Good, cheap food is available at the pizza joints along Olavinkatu and Tulliportinkatu.

Café Alegria Puistokatu 3. Prettily painted café in the west of town with wickedly strong coffee and tasty snacks. Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat 10am–3pm.

Majakka Satamakatu 11. Tasty Finnish nosh, and a definite maritime theme going on, with some good deals at lunchtime (around €10). Mon–Sat 11am–1am, Sun noon–midnight.

KUOPIO

The pleasant lakeside town of KUOPIO is best known for its enormous smoke sauna, the biggest in the world, and makes for a worthwhile pit stop on your way north to Lapland. One of the best times to visit is during Kuopio Dance Festival (🌐kuopiodancefestival.fi) in mid-June.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Built on a grid system, the centre is easy to navigate. Just south of the train station is the main square, the kauppatori.

Museums

From the main square Kauppakatu leads east to the Kuopio Museum (Tues–Sat 10am–5pm; €8; 🌐kuopionmuseo.fi) at no. 23 with two floors of natural and cultural history. Further up the road, at no. 35, the Kuopio Art Museum (Tues–Sat 10am–5pm; €6; taidaimuseo.kuopio.fi) has mainly modern Finnish art, housed in a converted bank. Two blocks down on Kuninkaankatu, the Victor Barsokevitsch Photographic Centre (Mon–Fri 11am–6pm, Sat & Sun 11am–4pm; €8; vb-valokuvakeskus.fi) is a real find – one of the best photography galleries in the country.

Puijo Tower

Every self-respecting Finnish city has a tower to look out over the flat lands below, and Puijo Tower, Puijontie 135, 2km north of the train station (Mon–Sat 10am–9pm, Sun 10am–7pm; €6; bus #10), is Kuopio's. The tower is modern but the woods nearby are ancient and undisturbed, plus there's a rare example of a sixteenth-century tenant farm to explore.

Woodsmoke sauna

Kuopio's woodsmoke sauna (Tues year-round, plus Thurs June–Aug; €12; rauhalahti.fi) is the main draw in town, and about as quintessentially Finnish an experience as you'll find: there are traditional Finnish evenings each night the sauna is open, which include a Lumberjack Show and great dinner buffet from mid-May to mid-August (€21). The sauna is located 4km south of the centre within the Rauhalahti spa hotel complex (see below).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Kuopio's train station is located just north of the kauppatori.

Destinations Helsinki (8–10 daily; 4hr 15min–4hr 50min); Oulu (5 daily; 4hr–4hr 40min); Rovaniemi (3 daily; 7hr); Tampere (6 daily; 3hr–3hr 30min).

By bus The bus station is connected to the train station by subway.

Destinations Savonlinna (3–5 daily; 3hr; some buses change at Varkaus).

Tourist office Kauppakatu 45, within Apaja shopping centre in the underground marketplace (Mon–Fri 8am–3pm; ☎017 182 584, kuopio.fi); ask here about boat trips on the lake.

ACCOMMODATION

Rauhalahti Spa Hotel & Resort Katiskaniementie 8, 5km from the city centre ☎017 473 000, rauhalahti.fi; bus #7. It's a spa, it's a hotel, it's a hostel, it's the region's best campsite, with tent space and a wide range of cabins – in short, it's every type of accommodation you could possibly want, all set in attractive verdant lakeside grounds. Camping/person €6, plus per tent €13, camping cottage doubles €33, hostel double €70, hotel doubles €104

EATING AND DRINKING

The harbour area has several eateries that open up in summer and are good for a drink. Kuopio is famous for its fish- and pork-filled breads known as kalakukko.

★ Café Kaneli Kauppakatu 22 ☎kahvilakaneli.net. Charming little café cluttered with knick-knacks, serving superb coffee and cake. Mon, Tues, Thurs & Fri 9.30am–6pm, Wed 9.30am–7.30pm, Sat 11am–4pm, Sun 11am–3pm.

Intro Kauppakatu 20 ☎ravintolaintro.fi. The best restaurant in town, it's spacious, sophisticated but far from the most expensive. Especially good salads, and quite a few mains for €16. Mon–Thurs 11am–10pm. Fri & Sat 11am–midnight.

Sampo Kauppakatu 13. Proudly traditional fish restaurant that has been serving Finnish dishes loved by locals since 1931. Mains around €14. Mon–Thurs 11am–10pm, Fri & Sat 11am–midnight, Sun noon–10pm.

The north

The northern regions make up a vast portion of Finland: a full one third of the country lies north of the Arctic Circle. It's sparsely populated, with small communities often separated by long distances and little of anything in between besides tundra-like plains or dense forests. The coast of Ostrobothnia is affluent thanks to the flat and fertile farmland around; bustling Oulu is the major city, though it maintains a pleasing small-town atmosphere. Further north is the little-traipsed territory of Lapland, its wide-open spaces home to several thousand Sámi, who have lived more or less in harmony with this harsh environment for millennia. Up here are two good bases: the university town of Rovaniemi and, further north, the quiet spread-out village of Inari, a great jumping-off point for trips to more remote bits of the region; there is an extensive bus service and regular flights from Helsinki. Make sure you try Lappish cuisine, too – fresh cloudberries, smoked reindeer and wild salmon are highlights.

OULU

OULU, with its renowned university, is a great place to pause on your way up north, with a good collection of restaurants and cafés and a pulsing nightlife, mostly gathered around a nicely designed harbour. On Kirkkokatu, the copper-domed and stuccoed Tuomiokirkko (June–Aug daily 11am–8pm; Sept–May Mon–Fri noon–1pm) seems anachronistic amid the bulky blocks of modern Oulu. The few museums are nothing to write home about, but Oulu has won plaudits for its fabulous network of cycling trails, connecting the surrounding islands and woods, including Hietasaari Island with its lovely beach. Pick up a map of them at the tourist office.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is located a few blocks east of the kauppatori and kauppahalli.

Destinations Helsinki (11 daily; 6–9hr); Rovaniemi (7 daily; 2hr 15min–2hr 45min); Tampere (14 daily; 4hr 25min–8hr 30min).

By bus The bus station is located next to the train station.

Destinations Helsinki (11 daily; 8hr–11hr 55min); Rovaniemi (6 daily; 3–4hr).

Bike rental Lappis Kiikelsilta (☎ 414 338 602, @lappis.fi) on Kiikei island, accessed from the southern end of Oulu's Kauppatori. The office isn't always open, but give them a call and they can normally be there within 15min or so. €15/3hr or €25/day.

Tourist office Torikatu 10 (Mon–Thurs 9am–5pm, Fri 9am–4pm; mid-June to Aug until 5pm, plus Sat 10am–4pm; ☎ 08 5584 1330, @visitoulu.fi).

ACCOMMODATION

Nallikari Holiday Village ☎ 044 703 1353, @campingfinland.fi. Campsite with cabins (including some luxury ones) by the beach on Hietasaari island, 4km from town; take bus #17 from Isokatu in the town centre. Camping/person €5, plus per tent €13, cabins €45

EATING AND DRINKING

Rooster Café Torikatu 23 @caferooster.fi. This stylish, youthful café-cum-restaurant-cum-bar serves delicious and exciting brunches and dinners, although the large burger menu is what most diners tuck into (around €15). Mon–Thurs 10.30am–10pm, Fri 10.30am–11pm.

Sokeri Jussin Pikisaarentie 2 @sokerijussinkievari.fi. A prettily painted wooden house on Pikisaari island where you can try delicious, creative Finnish cooking, such as roasted reindeer, or baked Arctic char in morel sauce. Mains from €18. Mon–Sat 11am–11pm, Sun noon–10pm.

ROVANIEMI

ROVANIEMI is touted as the capital of Lapland, and while its fairly bland shopping streets can't compare to the surrounding rural hinterland, the town's Arctic sensibility makes it worth spending a day here while gearing up for an exploration of truly wild northern Finland. The midnight sun is also visible from Rovaniemi for several weeks each side of midsummer.

Prepare yourself for what lies further north by visiting the 172m-long glass tunnel of Arktikum at Pohjoisranta 4 (mid-Jan to May & Sept–Nov Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; June–Aug daily 9am–6pm; Dec to mid-Jan daily 10am–6pm; €12; @arktikum.fi). Subterranean galleries house fascinating insights into Sámi culture, the log-floating industry and all things circumpolar.

At Koskikatu 1, Lapland Safaris (branches also all over Lapland, including Inari; ☎ 016 331 1200, @laplandsafaris.com), and are the go-to adventure outfit for organizing excursions in Lapland proper, including their wonderful husky rides (€126 per person).

The biggest attractions are outside town. The Arctic Circle, 8km north, is connected by hourly bus #8 from the train station (€6.80 return). A few paces north is the Santa Claus Village (daily: early Jan to May 10am–5pm; June–Aug 9am–6pm; Sept–Nov 10am–5pm; Dec to early Jan 9am–7pm; free), a large, very commercialized log cabin where you can meet Father Christmas all year round.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane The airport is located 10km north of town, and connected by bus (€7).

Destinations Helsinki (5 daily; 1hr 15min).

By train The train station is 1km southwest of the town centre, at Ratukatu 3.

Destinations Helsinki (4 daily; 10–13hr); Kuopio (3 daily; 7hr); Oulu (7 daily; 2hr 15min–2hr 45min).

By bus The bus station is just west of the centre, off Postikatu, a few minutes' walk east from the train station.

Destinations Inari (3 daily; 4hr 40min–5hr 40min); Nordkapp, Norway (June to late Aug 1 daily; 10hr 35min). Tourist office Maakuntakatu 29–31 (mid-June to mid-Aug Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9am–3pm; rest of the year Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎ 016 346 270, @visitrovaniemi.fi).

ACCOMMODATION

Guesthouse Borealis Asemieskatu 1 ☎044 313 1771, www.guesthouseborealis.com. Family-run spot with colourful rooms and great service. Doubles €68

Hostel Rudolf Koskikatu 41, book via ☎016 321 321, rudolf.fi. Modern hostel with colourful no-frills rooms a 10min walk from the centre. There are no staff on site; check-in and reservations are handled by Hotel Santa Claus, Korkalonkatu 29. April–Nov. Doubles €49

Ounaskoksi Camping ☎016 345 304, ounaskoksi-camping-rovaniemi.com. Campsite on the far bank of Ounaskoksi, facing town – a 20min walk from the station. Mid-May to late Sept. Per person €8.50, plus per tent €15

EATING AND DRINKING

★ Café and Bar 21 Rovakatu 21 ☎cafebar21.fi. Lively little spot, serving salads, waffles, smoothies and coffee. Mon & Tues 11am–9pm, Wed & Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri 11am–2am, Sat noon–2am, Sun noon–9pm.

Kauppayhtiö Valtakatu 24. Unexpectedly fantastic café-bar with a mishmash of retro furniture. DJs at the weekend and a gallery at the back. “Best burgers in town” they claim: you may well agree. Mains €10–15. Tues–Thurs 11am–9pm, Fri 11am–3am, Sat 1pm–3am.

Monte Rosa Pekankatu 9 ☎monterosa.fi. Rovaniemi’s best Italian restaurant, with excellent pan pizzas and pasta dishes, from €9.50. Mon–Fri 5–11pm, Sat 3–11pm, Sun 5–10pm.

Ravintola Roka Ainonkatu 3 ☎ravintolaroka.fi. Rovaniemi might not be the first place that comes to mind for sampling streetfood when the air temperature outside is invariably freezing, but in here it’s warm and friendly, with massive hot sandwiches starting at €9. Mon–Thurs 10.30am–9pm, Fri 10.30am–11pm, Sat noon–11pm, Sun noon–9pm.

INARI

A half-day bus ride north of Rovaniemi, INARI lies along the fringes of Inarijärvi, one of Finland’s largest lakes, and makes an attractive base from which to explore Lapland further. In the town, the excellent SIIDA (Sámi Museum; June–Sept daily 9am–7pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €10; www.siida.fi) has an outstanding outdoor section illustrating how the Sámi survived in Arctic conditions in their teepees, or kota, while the indoor section has a well-laid-out exhibition on life in the Arctic. Huge photographs depict how drastically the weather fluctuates here throughout the year. Towards the northern end of the village, summer boat tours (€20) depart from under the bridge to the ancient Sámi holy site on the island of Ukonkivi. If walking’s your thing, then check out the pretty Pielpajärvi Wilderness Church, a well-signposted 7km (2hr) hike from the village. Hotel Inari (☎016 671 016, hotellinari.fi) has an adjoining outdoor adventure company that organizes fun excursions in the surrounding wilderness.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Ivalo airport in Törmänen is roughly 50km southeast of Inari. Buses meet flights and run via Ivalo to Inari (€8.50).

Destinations Helsinki (1–2 daily; 1hr 30min).

By bus Buses stop outside the tourist office, in the town centre, before continuing to Karasjok in Norway and – from June to Aug only – Nordkapp, about the most northerly point in mainland Europe.

Destination Ivalo (3–5 daily; 35min); Rovaniemi (3–4 daily; 4hr 40min–5hr 40min).

Tourist office The tourist office (June–Sept daily 9am–7pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; ☎040 168 9668, www.inarisaariselka.fi) is in the SIIDA museum. Staff can advise on guided snow-scooter trips in winter and fishing trips in summer – as well as trips across the Russian border to Murmansk.

ACCOMMODATION

Hotel Kultahovi Saarikoskentie 2 ☎016 511 7100, hotelkultahovi.fi. Not much to look at from afar but right by the river, and with the best restaurant, Aanaar, for a very long way (reindeer carpaccio, skewered tiger prawns). Doubles €104

Uruniemi Campsite ☎016 671 331, www.ununiemi.fi. 2km south of the village In a gorgeous location right by the lake, with cabins and rooms arranged around manicured grounds. June–Sept. Camping/person €5, plus per tent €5, cottages €28

SAARISELKÄ

Saariselkä is a ski resort about the same distance (50km) from Ivalo airport as Inari, only heading south. It’s not Finland’s best ski centre but it is the easiest to access, as Rovaniemi–Inari buses stop by. South of town, try a stay at Kiilopää (☎016 668 741, www.kiilopaa.fi), a delightful complex with a hotel, hostel, cabins and a legendary woodsmoke sauna. Here you can go fell-walking, snow-shoeing or partake of just about any outdoor activity you like. Dorms €30, doubles €82, four-person cabin €137

THE SEINE, VIEWED FROM NOTRE-DAME, PARIS

France

HIGHLIGHTS

- ① Paris Explore some of Europe's best museums, restaurants and nightlife. See p.281
- ② Reims Treat yourself to champagne tasting and a cellar tour. See p.296
- ③ Strasbourg A city of striking architecture and hearty Alsatian food. See p.305
- ④ Marseille Cycle along the dazzling Corniche for free. See p.329
- ⑤ Lyon France's gastronomic capital also boasts some of the country's best nightlife. See p.339
- ⑥ Corsica Marvel at the fiery red Calanques on L'Île de Beauté. See p.345

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.277

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €55, occasional treat €80

Drink Glass of wine €3, beer €3.50

Food Baguette/sandwich €3.50–5

Hostel/budget hotel €19–35/€40–70

Travel Train: Paris–Nice €24 (if booked in advance)

FACT FILE

Population 66 million

Language French

Currency Euro (€)

Capital Paris

International phone code ① 33

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

France is one of Europe's most stylish and dynamic countries. The largest country in Western Europe, it offers a variety of cultural and geographical experiences unmatched across the continent. Yet, despite its size, it's surprisingly easy to explore, with a fantastic high-speed train network which means that within hours of indulging in the café culture of the capital, you could be swimming in the clear waters of the Côte d'Azur.

11

Paris continues to captivate visitors with its world-class museums, distinctive neighbourhoods and exuberant nightlife. To the west, Normandy boasts some of the country's greatest Romanesque architecture, while the lush countryside and rocky coastline of neighbouring Brittany provide great surroundings for getting away from it all. To the east, you'll find the rolling vineyards and elegant towns of Champagne and Burgundy, while south lie the châteaux of the Loire Valley and the gorgeous hills and valleys of the Dordogne beyond. The Atlantic coast has a misty charm, including low-key La Rochelle and the surfing capital of Biarritz. Though most people push on south to the country's most obvious attractions, there's a lot to be said for exploring the Germanic towns of Alsace in the east and the high and rugged heartland of the Massif Central.

France's gastronomic capital, Lyon, acts as a gateway to the heady southern region of Provence, characterized by beautiful countryside, charming towns and sublime food. The Côte d'Azur retains something of its old glamour, while Marseille is more worthy of exploration than its reputation would have you believe. The very south of the country, marked by the canyons of the Pyrenees, hides the dream-like fortress of Carcassonne, and provides some of the country's best walking territory, alongside the Alps. The student cities of Montpellier and Toulouse should be stops on any budget traveller's itinerary, boasting cheap restaurants, excellent nightlife and a relaxed ambience.

CHRONOLOGY

51 BC Julius Caesar conquers Gaul.

486 AD Clovis I, leader of the Franks, establishes his rule over Gaul.

800 Charlemagne rules as King of the Franks.

1066 William, the Duke of Normandy, invades England and is crowned King of England.

1337 The Hundred Years' War with England begins.

1431 After leading the French army to victory, Joan of Arc is burnt at the stake for heresy, at the age of 19.

1589 Henry IV is the first of the Bourbon dynasty to become King of France; he enforces Catholicism in the country.

1789 The French Revolution ends the rule of the monarchy and establishes the First Republic.

1804 Napoleon I declares himself Emperor of the French Empire.

1815 Napoleon I is defeated at the battle of Waterloo; the monarchy is restored.

1871 Defeat in the Franco-Prussian War leads to the creation of the Third Republic.

1872 Monet ushers in the Impressionist Movement.

1889 Eiffel Tower is built, making it the tallest building in the world.

1905 Church and State are legally separated.

1914–18 World War I – over 1.5 million Frenchmen killed.

1939–44 Nazi Germany invades France, leading to four years of fascist rule. France is liberated by Allied forces in August 1944.

1968 Student revolts and national strike cripple the country.

2002 The euro replaces the franc.

2005 Civil unrest and riots across the country after the death of two teenagers who were running from police in one of Paris' impoverished housing estates.

2007 Nicolas Sarkozy is elected President.

2011 Full-face veils are banned from public places.

2012 Socialist François Hollande is elected President.

2015 Paris is attacked by Islamist terrorists in January and November, killing 30 and 130 people respectively, and injuring hundreds more.

2016 In another act of terror, at least 85 people are killed when a man drives a lorry into the crowds celebrating Bastille Day on Nice's seafont.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

The main hub for arrivals by plane is Paris Charles de Gaulle, which is served by both major and budget airlines. In addition, there are around forty other airports, including Lyon, Nice, La Rochelle and Marseille. France has excellent train connections to the rest of Europe. The main access point is Paris: Gare du Nord links to Belgium, Germany and the UK; and Gare de Lyon to Italy, Spain and Switzerland. There are also excellent connections from the south of France to Italy and Spain.

The Eurolines coach service (eurolines.com) connects most European countries to France; the main arrival point in Paris is the gare routière in the suburb of Bagnolet.

GETTING AROUND

France has one of the most extensive rail networks in Western Europe, run by the government-owned SNCF (sncf.com). Bus services tend to be uncoordinated and are best used only as a last resort.

Train fares are reasonably high, but you can make savings by booking well in advance; Paris to Lyon, for example, can cost €25, but will be at least double that if booked on the day of travel.

InterRail and Eurail passes are valid on normal trains at all times. The high-speed TGVs (Trains à Grande Vitesse) require reservations (from €9), and there is a supplement to travel on certain other trains (from €1). Tickets (not passes) must be stamped in the orange machines in front of the platform on penalty of a steep fine. All but the smallest stations have an information desk but only a handful have left-luggage facilities. The word autocar on a timetable indicates that it's an SNCF bus service, on which rail tickets and passes are valid.

Bikes that can be dismantled and carried in a bike bag go free on all trains – if you can't collapse your bike then it can still travel free as long as the train doesn't require reservations and there's room. If you're catching a train that requires a reservation, your bike will also need a booking, and you'll have to pay a flat fee of €10. Bike rental shops (charging around €15 per day) are plentiful and many towns also have bike-sharing schemes.

ACCOMMODATION

Outside the summer season and school holidays, it's generally possible to turn up in any town and find accommodation. However, many hostels get booked up with school groups, so where possible it's worth reserving in advance.

All hotels are officially graded and are required to post their tariffs inside the entrance. Most hostels in France are operated by FUAJ, the French youth hostel association (part of the worldwide Hostelling International; www.hihostels.com). Many of the hostels are situated some distance from the centre of town, and the quality varies widely – from old-fashioned institutional accommodation to bright, modern, well-situated buildings. Many FUAJ hostels close in the middle of the day so you are unable even to leave your bags, and all require that you vacate the rooms by around 10am, even if you're not checking out. Almost all hostels provide bed linen, and most offer a free breakfast. Gîtes d'étape provide bunk beds and simple kitchen facilities in rural areas for climbers, hikers, cyclists, etc – they are listed, along with mountain refuges, on www.gites-refuges.com. Local campsites provide a good budget alternative as they are generally clean, well equipped and often enjoy prime locations. Ask tourist offices for lists of sites or consult www.campingfrance.com.

FOOD AND DRINK

Eating out in France isn't particularly cheap, but the quality of the food is often excellent and, even in the big cities, it's usually easy to find somewhere you can enjoy a plat and a glass of wine for under €20.

Generally the best place to eat breakfast (petit déjeuner) is in a bar or café. Most serve tartines (baguette with butter and/or jam) and croissants until around 11am. Coffee is invariably served black and strong – un café is an espresso, while un café crème is made with hot milk. Tea (thé) and hot chocolate (chocolat chaud) are also available – though the former is served without milk unless you request it on the side.

Cafés are often the best option for a light lunch, usually serving omelettes, sandwiches (generally half-baguettes filled with cheese or meat) and croque-monsieur (toasted ham and cheese sandwich; €5–8), as well as more substantial meals. Crêperies are ubiquitous throughout France and are usually very reasonably priced (from €5). Most cafés and restaurants have a midday formule (a set menu starting at around €12) of two or three courses, which will often allow you to enjoy high-quality restaurant food that you wouldn't otherwise be able to afford. Most restaurants serve food from noon to 2pm and 7 to 11pm.

Vegetarian restaurants are becoming more common, especially in large cities, and if you make it clear that you're un végétarien(ne), something can normally be arranged in all but the most basic of places.

DRINK

Drinking is an important part of French life, with the local bar playing a central social role. Wine (vin) is the national drink, and drunk at just about every meal or social occasion. Even the most basic of cafés usually offer a wide range of French wines by the glass, and ordering a pichet or a carafe (usually ranging from a quarter bottle to a half bottle) is often great value.

FRANCE ONLINE

🌐 discoverfrance.net Useful tourist information, with links to other sites.

🌐 france.fr French tourist board.

🌐 tourisme.fr Links to many tourist offices.

🌐 viafrance.com Information on festivals, expos, events and concerts.

Beer can be very expensive, especially if ordered by the pint. Beer on tap (à la pression) is the best value – ask for une pression or un demi (0.33 litre). Spirits such as cognac and armagnac, and of course the notorious absinthe, are widely drunk but not cheap. A pleasant, inexpensive pre-dinner drink is un kir, a mix of white wine and crème de cassis, and if you're in the south of France it's definitely worth sampling the local pastis, drunk over ice and diluted with water – very refreshing on a hot day.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Making an effort to speak French, however dreadful your accent, is always highly appreciated; a few basic words will get you a lot further than any amount of grinning and pointing.

It's customary to tip porters, tour guides, taxi drivers and hairdressers, around ten percent. Restaurant prices almost always include a service charge, so only leave an additional cash tip if you feel you've received service out of the ordinary.

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

The main sport in France is undoubtedly football. The French football league (🌐 lfp.fr) is divided into Ligue 1 (the highest), Ligue 2 and National. Match tickets are available from specific club websites, or in the town they are playing – ask at the local tourist office.

Rugby is another major pursuit, especially in the southwest, and the country often puts up a good showing in the Six Nations tournament. Further details of rugby fixtures can be found at 🌐 www.ffr.fr. The annual Tour de France, an epic 3000km cycle race across the country every July (🌐 letour.fr), is one of the country's most popular sporting events. The best skiing is in the Alps, and it's usually possible to ski from November to April. Prices can be high, however, so it's worth checking package prices in resort towns such as Chamonix (see p.344). France is also traced with lots of long-distance footpaths, known as sentiers de grande randonnée or GRs, and facilities for hikers are generally very good, including mountain refuges and excellent information centres in major hiking regions. The most popular areas for hiking are the Pyrenees and the Alps, though the Massif Central has some impressive, off-the-beaten-track routes.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices (la poste) are widespread and generally open from 8.30am to 6.30pm Monday to Friday, and 8.30am to noon on Saturday. Stamps (timbres) are also sold in tabacs (newsagents). For all calls within France you must dial the entire ten-digit number, including area code. The number for directory enquiries is 📞 12. Almost all hotels and hostels, as well as an increasing number of campsites, offer wi-fi; you can also usually get online at the local tourist office.

EMERGENCIES

There are two main types of police, the Police Nationale and the Gendarmerie Nationale, and you can report a theft, or any other incident, to either.

To find a doctor, ask for an address at any pharmacie (chemist) or tourist information office. Consultation fees for a visit will be around €25 and you'll be given a Feuille de Soins (Statement of Treatment) for any insurance claims. EU citizens are, with an EHIC, exempt from charges (see p.42).

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police 📞 17; Ambulance 📞 15; Fire 📞 18; or 📞 112 for all three.

FRENCH

Yes
No
Please
Thank you
Hello/Good day
Goodbye
Excuse me
Today
Yesterday
Tomorrow
What time is it?
I don't understand
How much?
Do you speak English?
Where's the...?
Entrance
Exit
Tourist office
Toilet
Hotel
Youth hostel
Church
Museum
What time does the... leave?
Boat
Bus Plane
Train
Ticket
Do you have a... room?
Double Single Cheap
Expensive
Open
Closed
One
Two Three Four Five
Six
Seven
Eight
Nine
Ten

FRENCH

Oui
Non
S'il vous plaît
Merci
Bonjour
Au revoir/à bientôt
Pardon
Aujourd'hui
Hier
Demain
Quelle heure est-il?
Je ne comprends pas
Combien?
Parlez-vous anglais?
Où est...?
Entrée
Sortie
Office de tourism
Toilettes
Hôtel
Auberge de jeunesse
Église
Musée
À quelle heure part...?
Le bateau
Le bus
L'avion
Le train
Billet
Avez-vous une chambre...?
Avec un grand lit
À un lit
Bon marché
Cher
Ouvert
Fermé
Un
Deux
Trois
Quatre
Cinq
Six
Sept
Huit
Neuf
Dix

PRONUNCIATION

Whee
No(n)
See voo play
Mersee
Bo(n)joor
Orvoir/abyantoe
pardo(n)
Ojoordwee
Eeyair
Duhma(n)
Kel ur et eel?
Je nuh compron pah
Combyen?
Parlay voo onglay?
Oo ay...?
Ontray
Sortee
Ofees der toureesmer
Twalet
Otel
Obairjh der jherness
Ay-gleez
Mewzay
A kel er par...?
Ler bato
Ler bews
Lavyon
Ler trun
Beelay
Avay voo ewn shombrer...?
Avek un grand lee
A un lee
Bo(n) marchay
Share
Oovair
Fermay
Uh(n)
Duh
Trwah
Kattre
Sank
Seess
Set
Wheat
Nurf
Deess

INFORMATION

Most towns and villages have an Office de Tourisme, giving out local information and free maps. The larger ones can book accommodation anywhere in France, and most can find you a local room for the night, albeit with an added service charge.

STUDENT AND YOUTH DISCOUNTS

Most museums and attractions offer a student or under-26 discount, which can be anything up to a third off. To make the most of these, buy an ISIC (International Student) or IYTC (International Youth) card. For more information see www.isiccard.com. It's also worth noting that many museums have free entry on the first Sunday of every month.

MONEY AND BANKS

The currency of France is the euro (€). Standard banking hours are Monday to Friday 9am to noon and 2 to 4.30pm; in cities, some also open on Saturday morning. ATMs are found all over France and most accept foreign cards. Credit cards are generally accepted by most shops, restaurants and hotels.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Basic working hours are 9am to noon/1pm and 2/3 to 6.30pm. The traditional closing days for shops (and some restaurants) are Sunday and Monday. Museums often have one closing day, frequently Mondays or sometimes Tuesdays, with reduced opening hours outside of summer. All shops, museums and offices are closed on the following national holidays: January 1, Easter Sunday and Monday, Ascension Day, Whit Monday, May 1, May 8, July 14, August 15, November 1, November 11, December 25.

Paris

All the clichés about PARIS are true – stylish, romantic, glamorous and utterly compelling – yet it retains surprises that continue to delight even the most seasoned visitors. The landscape of the city changes as you cross from quartier to quartier, and each area has a distinct style and atmosphere – from historic St-Germain and the genteel Luxembourg Gardens to the vibrant Marais, abuzz with bars and cafés, and the steep cobbled streets of Montmartre. Paris is small for a capital city, and the best way to explore it is on foot – or do as the locals do and rent a bike (see p.289). Of course, it goes without saying that the café, bar and restaurant scene here is among the best in Europe, even for travellers on a budget.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Paris is split into two halves by the Seine. On the north of the river, the Right Bank (Rive droite) is home to the grands boulevards and its most monumental buildings, many dating from the civic planner Baron Haussmann's nineteenth-century redevelopment. Most of the major museums are here, as well as the city's widest range of shops around rue de Rivoli and Les Halles.

The Left Bank (Rive gauche) has a noticeably different feel. A legendary bohemian hangout since the nineteenth century, some of the city's most evocative streets can be found here. These days much of the area has given in to commerce, though it's not hard to discover some of its old spirit if you wander off the main roads around boulevard St-Germain and St-Michel.

Parts of Paris, of course, don't sit so easily within such definitions.

Montmartre, rising up to the north and dominated by the great white dome of Sacré-Cœur, has managed to retain a village-like feel despite its tourist popularity, and the islands of the Seine (de la Cité and St-Louis), though touristy themselves, retain a charming, old-fashioned atmosphere within their side streets. In recent years, Paris's once run-down eastern districts have also been

PARISIAN ARRONDISSEMENTS

Paris is divided into twenty postal districts, known as arrondissements, which are used to denote addresses. The first, or premier (abbreviated as 1<sup>er</sup>), is centred on the Louvre and the Tuileries, with the rest (abbreviated as 2<sup>e</sup>, 3<sup>e</sup>, 4<sup>e</sup> etc) spiralling outwards in a clockwise direction.

revitalized and are now home to some of the city's best nightlife.

The Arc de Triomphe, Champs-Élysées and around

The Arc de Triomphe (daily: April–Sept 10am–11pm; Oct–March 10am–10.30pm; €9.50; arcde.triompheparis.com; Charles-de-Gaulle-Etoile), at the head of the Champs-Élysées, is an imposing Parisian landmark, matched only by the Eiffel Tower, and offers panoramic views from the top. The celebrated avenue des

Champs-Élysées is now, unfortunately, home to little more than a constant stream of tourists and too many chain shops. It leads to the vast, usually traffic-clogged place de la Concorde, whose centrepiece, a gold-tipped obelisk from the temple of Ramses at Luxor, was given to King Louis-Philippe by the viceroy of Egypt in 1831. Beyond lies the formal Jardin des Tuileries (daily: April, May & Sept 7am–9pm; June–Aug 7am–11pm; Oct–March 7.30am–7.30pm; free; 10 Concorde), the perfect place for a stroll with its grand vistas and symmetrical flowerbeds. Towards the river, the Orangerie (Mon & Wed–Sun 9am–6pm; €9; 📍www.musee-orangerie.fr; 📍Concorde) displays Monet's largest water-lily paintings in a specially designed room, as well as works by Cézanne, Matisse, Utrillo and Modigliani.

The Louvre

On the east side of the Jardin des Tuileries is arguably the world's most famous museum, the Louvre (Mon, Thurs, Sat & Sun 9am–6pm; Wed & Fri 9am–9.45pm; €15; 📍louvre.fr; 📍Palais Royal-Musée du Louvre/Louvre-Rivoli). The building was first opened to the public in 1793, and within a decade Napoleon had made it the largest art collection on Earth with the takings from his empire, which explains the remarkably eclectic collection.

The main entrance is via I.M. Pei's iconic glass pyramid, but you can sometimes avoid the (lengthy) queues by entering through the Louvre Rivoli métro station or through the Louvre Carousel shopping arcade. Most people head straight for Da Vinci's Mona Lisa, but it's definitely worth exploring some of the other sections such as Sculpture, which covers the entire development of the art in France from Romanesque to Rodin.

The Pompidou Centre

From the Louvre, it's a short walk to the Pompidou Centre on place Georges-Pompidou (Mon & Wed–Sun 11am–10pm; free; 📍centrepompidou.fr; 📍Rambuteau), famous for its striking design masterminded by Renzo Piano and Richard Rogers, who had the innovative idea of turning its insides out to allow for maximum space inside. The main reason to visit is the hugely popular Musée National d'Art Moderne (Mon & Wed–Sun 11am–9pm; €14), one of the world's great collections of modern art, spanning the period from 1905 to the present day, and taking in Cubism, Surrealism and much more along the way.

The Marais

Just east of the Pompidou Centre lies the Marais, one of Paris's more striking quartiers. This chic district is defined by its designer boutiques and trendy café-bars; it's also one of the city's main centres for gay nightlife. The Musée d'Art et d'Histoire du Judaïsme, 71 rue du Temple (Mon–Fri 11am–6pm, Sun 10am–6pm; €8; 📍mahj.org; 📍Rambuteau), pays homage to the area's Jewish roots, with a major display of Jewish artefacts and historical documents as well as paintings by Chagall and Soutine. A short walk east brings you to the seventeenth-century Hôtel Juigné Salé, which holds the Musée Picasso, 5 rue de Thorigny (Tues–Fri 11.30am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–6pm; €12.50; 📍musee-picasso.fr; 📍St-Sébastien Froissart), housing one of the largest collections of the artist's work.

Bastille

Southeast of the Marais is the traffic-choked place de la Bastille, the site of the Bastille prison that was famously stormed in 1789, starting the French Revolution. Now the place is marked by the Colonne de Juillet, topped by a green bronze figure of Liberty, and by the strikingly modern Opéra Bastille.

Île St-Louis and Île de la Cité

A short walk southwest from place de la Bastille and across the pont de Sully brings you to the peaceful Île St-Louis, its main road, rue St-Louis en l'Île, lined with shops and restaurants.

Pont St-Louis bridges the short distance to Île de la Cité, where the city originated in the third century BC, when a tribe of Gauls known as the Parisii settled here. The most obvious attraction is the astounding Gothic Cathédrale de Notre-Dame (Mon–Fri 8am–6.45pm, Sat & Sun 8am–7.15pm; free; 📍notredamedeparis.fr; 📍Cité), which dates from the mid-fourteenth century and was extensively renovated in the nineteenth. It's worth climbing the towers (daily: April–Sept 10am–6.30pm, July & Aug Fri & Sat until 11pm; Oct–March 10am–5.30pm; €10) for an up-close view of the gargoyles and tower architecture.

At the western end of the island lies Sainte-Chapelle, 4 bd du Palais (daily: March–Oct 9.30am–6pm; Nov–Feb 9am–5pm; €10; ⑩ sainte-chapelle.fr; ⑩ Cité). One of the finest achievements of French Gothic style, it is lent fragility by its height and huge expanses of glorious stained glass.

The Eiffel Tower

Gustave Eiffel's iconic tower is, rightly or wrongly, the defining image of Paris for most tourists. Hugely controversial on its 1889 debut, it has come to be recognized as one of the city's leading sights. If you wish to ascend the tower (daily: mid-June to Aug 9am–midnight; Sept to mid-June 9am–11pm; €11 to second floor via lift, €7 to second floor via stairs, €17 to top; ⑩ tour-eiffel.fr; ⑩ Bir Hakeim/RER Champ de Mars–Tour Eiffel), be prepared for frustratingly long queues. It's at its most impressive at night, when fully illuminated – especially from the opposite side of the river.

Les Invalides and the Musée Rodin

A short walk from the Eiffel Tower is the Hôtel des Invalides, easily spotted by its gold dome. Built as a home for invalid soldiers on the orders of Louis XIV, it now houses the giant Musée de l'Armée, 129 rue de Grenelle (daily: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–5pm; €11; ⑩ musee-armee.fr; ⑩ Varenne). Military buffs will be fascinated by the vast collection of armour, uniforms, weapons and Napoleonic relics, and the section devoted to World War II.

Immediately east, at 77 rue de Varenne, the Musée Rodin (Tues–Sun 10am–5.45pm; €10; ⑩ musee-rodin.fr; ⑩ Varenne) contains many of Rodin's greatest and most famous works, including The Kiss and a bronze version of The Thinker. The collection is housed in an elegant eighteenth-century mansion, the Hôtel Biron, surrounded by a serene sculpture garden.

Musée d'Orsay

In a beautifully converted train station by the river, the celebrated Musée

d'Orsay, 62 rue de Lille (Tues–Sun 9.30am–6pm, Thurs until 9.45pm; €12; ⑩ musee-orsay.fr; RER Musée d'Orsay/⑩ Solférino), is much more compact and manageable than the Louvre. Covering the periods between the 1840s and 1914, the collection features legendary artists such as Renoir, Van Gogh and Monet, and famous works including Manet's Le Déjeuner Sur L'Herbe and Courbet's striking L'Origine du Monde. The queues are always long, but booking tickets the day before at the advance ticket office on site will allow you priority entrance.

The Latin Quarter

The neighbourhood around the boulevards St-Michel and St-Germain has been known as the Quartier Latin since medieval times, when it was the home of the Latin-speaking universities. It is still a student-dominated area – its pivotal point being place St-Michel – now sadly dominated by tacky tourist traps. There are, however, some excellent bars and restaurants nearby.

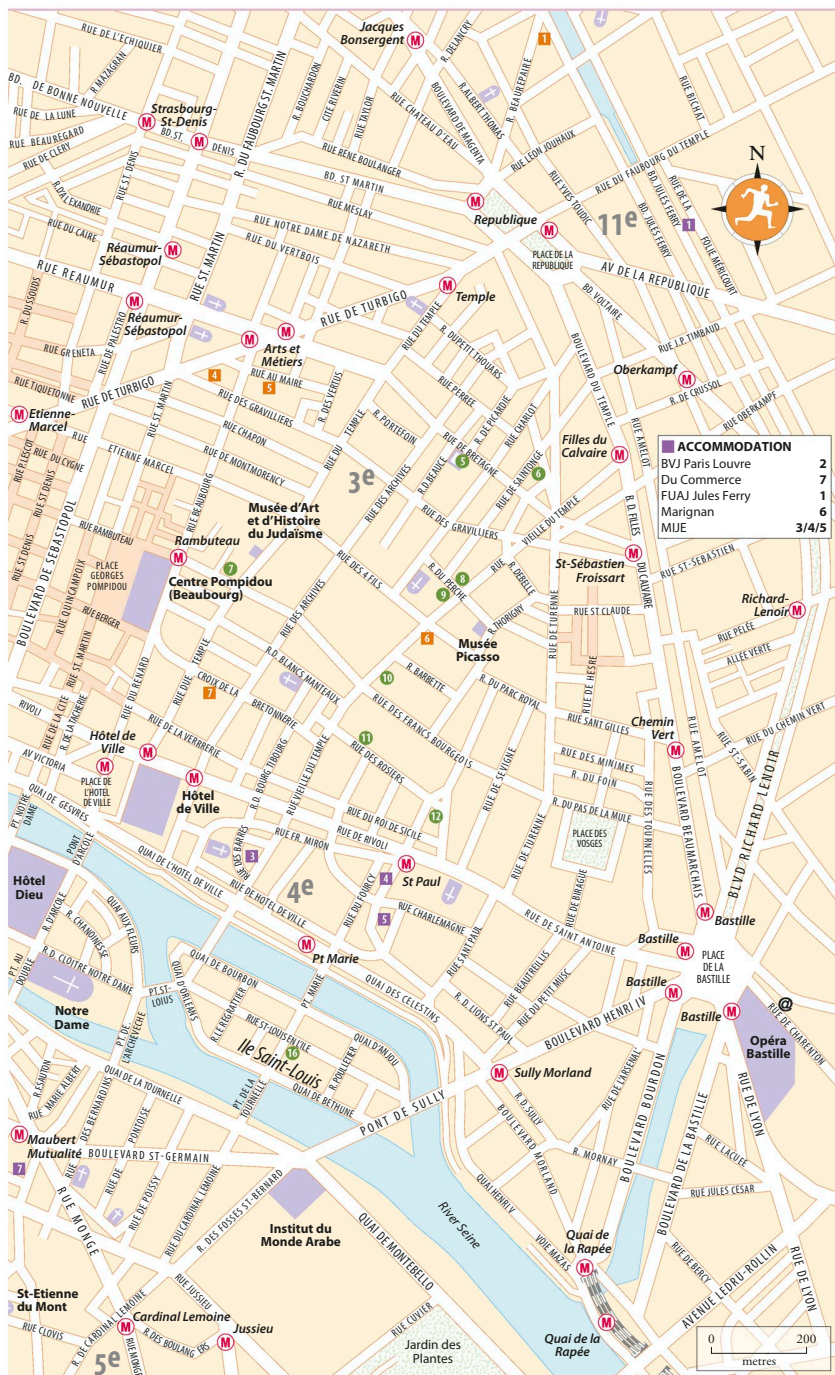

Immediately south of here stand the prestigious Sorbonne and Collège de France universities, the jewels in the crown of French education and renowned worldwide. Nearby, the elegant surroundings of the Jardin du Luxembourg (daily dawn to dusk; RER Luxembourg) are perfect for a leisurely picnic.

St-Germain

The northern half of the 6<sup>e</sup> arrondissement is an upmarket and expensive part of the city, but fun to wander through. The area is steeped in history: Picasso painted Guernica in rue des Grands-Augustins; in rue Visconti, Delacroix painted and Balzac's printing business went bust; and in the parallel rue des Beaux-Arts, Oscar Wilde died quipping "Either the wallpaper goes or I do." Boulevard St-Germain is home to the famous Flore and Deux Magots cafés, both with rich political and literary histories; however, the astronomical prices mean that gawping rather than sipping is the best option.

Montparnasse

Southwest of the Luxembourg gardens is Montparnasse, which has somewhat lost its lustre since the erection of the hideous 59-storey skyscraper, Tour Montparnasse. This has rightly become one of the city's most hated landmarks since its construction in 1973, a sole redeeming feature being the view it offers if you take the lift to the 56th floor (April–Sept daily 9.30am–11.30pm; Oct–March Mon–Thurs & Sun 9.30am–10.30pm, Fri & Sat 9.30am–11pm; €15; tourmontparnasse56.com; Ⓜ Montparnasse-Bienvenue). The nearby Montparnasse cemetery on boulevard Edgar-Quinet (mid-March to Oct Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat 8.30am–6pm, Sun 9am–6pm; Nov to mid-March Mon–Fri 8am–5.30pm, Sat 8.30am–5.30pm, Sun 9am–5.30pm; free; Ⓜ Raspail) offers a little peace in this busy quartier and has plenty of illustrious names, including Samuel Beckett and Serge Gainsbourg.

Montmartre

In the far north of the city, in the middle of the 18<sup>e</sup> arrondissement, is the glorious district of Montmartre. Though the area around Sacré-Cœur and place du Tertre can be horribly touristy, the quieter streets that surround lively rue des Abbesses are a pleasure to wander around, and still suggest a bygone age. The nineteenth-century neo-Byzantine Sacré-Cœur (daily 6am–10.30pm; free; Ⓜ Anvers/Abbesses) crowns the Butte Montmartre – to get there, take the funicular from place Suzanne Valadon (ordinary métro tickets and passes are valid) or climb the very steep stairs via place des Abbesses. The views from the top of the dome (daily: May–Sept 8.30am–8pm; Oct–April 9am–5pm; €6) can be rather disappointing, except on the clearest of days. Off nearby rue Lepic is the Moulin de la Galette, the last remaining windmill in Montmartre. Further down the hill, in the seedy district of Pigalle, you'll find the famous Moulin Rouge, though it's not worth going out of your way to see.

Père-Lachaise

To the east of the city lies one of the world's most famous graveyards, the Père-Lachaise cemetery, boulevard de Ménilmontant, 20<sup>e</sup> (Mon–Fri 8am–5.30pm, Sat 8.30am–5.30pm, Sun 9am–5.30pm; free; Ⓜ Père-Lachaise), which attracts pilgrims to the graves of Oscar Wilde (in division 89) and Jim Morrison (in division 6). There are countless other famous people buried here, among them Chopin (division 11) and Edith Piaf (division 97) – pick up a map at the entrance as it's easy to get lost.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Paris has two main airports: Charles de Gaulle and Orly. A much smaller one, Beauvais, 65km northwest, is primarily used by Ryanair. Charles de Gaulle (CDG) is 23km northeast and connected to Gare du Nord by RER B (every 10–20min 4.50am–11.50pm; 25–30min; €10) and the Roissybus (every 15–20min 6am–12.30am; 1hr 15min; €11), which terminates at Ⓜ Opéra. Orly, 14km south of Paris, is connected to the centre via Orlybus (every 8–15min 6am–12.30am; 25–35min; €7.70), a regular shuttle bus direct to Denfert-Rochereau RER and métro station, and via Orlyval (every 5–7min, 6am–11pm; 30min; €9.30), a fast shuttle train to Antony RER B station.

By train Paris has six main-line train stations, all served by the métro. You can buy national and international tickets at any of them. Gare du Nord serves northern France and London (on Eurostar), while trains from nearby Gare de l'Est go to eastern France. Gare St-Lazare serves the Normandy coast; Gare de Lyon the southeast and the Alps; Gare Montparnasse serves Chartres, Brittany, the Atlantic coast and TGV lines to southwest France; and Gare d'Austerlitz serves the Loire valley and the southwest.

Destinations Avignon (12 daily; 2hr 40min); Calais (6 daily; 1hr 40min); Lille (hourly; 1hr 10min); Bayonne (5 daily; 5hr 10min); Bordeaux (hourly; 3hr 20min); Dijon (hourly; 1hr 35min); Grenoble (5 daily; 3hr); La Rochelle (6 daily; 3hr 10min); Lyon (hourly; 2hr); Marseille (hourly; 3hr 20min); Montpellier (hourly; 3hr 25min); Nantes (11 daily; 2hr 20min); Nice (7 daily; 5hr 35min–6hr); Nîmes (hourly; 3hr); Reims (6 daily; 45min); Rouen (hourly; 1hr 15min); Strasbourg (10 daily; 1hr 50min); Toulouse (7 daily; 5hr–6hr 30min); Tours (6 daily; 1hr 15min).

By bus Most international and national long-distance buses use the main gare routière at Bagnolet in eastern Paris (Ⓜ Gallieni).

INFORMATION

Tourist information There are tourist office branches all over the city. The most useful one is at 25 rue des Pyramides 1<sup>er</sup> (daily: May–Oct 9am–7pm; Nov–April 10am–7pm; ☎08 92 68 30 00, parisinfo.com; [Pyramides/REr Auber](http://Pyramides/REr Auber)) and can help with last-minute accommodation, as can the booths at Gare de Lyon (Mon–Sat 8am–6pm) and Gare du Nord (daily 8am–6pm). You can also book tickets to museums at the tourist offices – handy for skipping the long queues.

Discount passes Many museums offer discounted entry to under-26s with ID (see box, p.281). They're also often free on the first Sunday of every month, but do get very busy because of it. The tourist office sells the Paris Museum Pass (€48/€62/€74 for 2/4/6 days; parismuseumpass.fr), valid for more than 35 museums and monuments in Paris, and which also allows you to skip the queues.

GETTING AROUND

Tickets Single tickets (€1.80) are valid on buses, the métro and, within the city limits (zones 1–2), the RER rail lines. If you're going to be using a fair bit of public transport, it makes more sense to buy a carnet of ten tickets (€14.10).

By métro The métro (Mon–Thurs & Sun 5.30am–12.30am, Fri & Sat 5.30am–2am) is an easy way of travelling around the city. The various lines are colour-coded and numbered, and the name of the train's final destination is visible.

By train Longer journeys across the city, or out to the suburbs, are best made on the underground RER express rail network (daily 5.30am–midnight).

By bus The bus network runs Mon–Sat 7am–8.30pm or 12.30am depending on the route, with a greatly reduced service on Sun. Night buses (noctilien.fr) run 12.30–5.30am (every 30min–1hr) on 4 routes.

By bike There are over 1500 locations in the city from where you can rent a bike as part of the city's Vélib' scheme (€1.70/day, €8/week; first 30min free, €1/30min thereafter; velib.paris). You'll need a credit card for a deposit in case the bike is damaged. When you've finished with them, bikes can be deposited at any of the Velib' stands in the city.

By taxi Taxis are plentiful after dark and can be hailed on the street. Rates start at €2.60, with a minimum charge of €7.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation is a lot more expensive in Paris than elsewhere in the country, and it's best to book in advance. The city has a good selection of independent hostels, some of which are more like boutique hotels than the usual standard of French hostel. All properties listed below have wi-fi and most hostels provide a rudimentary breakfast.

HOSTELS

★ 3 Ducks Hostel 6 place Etienne Pernet, 15<sup>e</sup> ☎01 48 42 04 05, 3ducks.fr; map pp.282–283. Lively, long-established and popular hostel in a historic building, offering colourful mixed and female-only dorms, plus a number of private rooms. Interior decor is stylish, and the terrace and lively streetside bar are nice places to hang out. Rates include breakfast and there's a kitchen for guests' use. Dorms €37, doubles €125

BVJ Paris Louvre 20 rue Jean-Jacques Rousseau, 1<sup>er</sup> ☎01 53 00 90 90, bvjhotel.com; [Louvre Rivoli](http://Louvre Rivoli); map pp.286–287. The most central hostel in Paris, close to the Louvre and Les Halles, is rather institutional but excellently located. Dorms €30, doubles €70

FUJ Jules Ferry 8 bd Jules-Ferry, 11<sup>e</sup> ☎01 43 57 55 60, fuaj.org; map pp.286–287. With a great position in the lively area by the Canal St Martin, this is a popular hostel despite being a little careworn. Dorms are on the small side. Dorms €27.70, doubles €62

★ Generator Hostel 9–11 place du Colonel Fabien, 10<sup>e</sup> ☎01 70 98 84 00, generatorhostels.com; Colonel-Fabien; map pp.282–283. New, well-run and friendly hostel right by the métro in a safe neighbourhood, with spotless dorms (four- to ten-beds) and private bathrooms. Facilities are excellent, with lots of storage space, a friendly bar and handy café. There's also some private doubles and quads. Dorms €27.90, doubles €88

Le Village 20 rue d'Orsel, 18<sup>e</sup> ☎01 42 64 22 02, villagehostel.fr; Anvers; map pp.282–283. A friendly, independent hostel with good facilities, smarter than average dorms and an on-site bar. It might be located in the least picturesque area of Montmartre, but has a lovely terrace with views of the Sacré-Cœur. Dorms €30, doubles €85

The Loft 70 rue Julien Lacroix, 20<sup>e</sup> ☎01 42 02 42 02, theloft-paris.com; Belleville; map pp.282–283. This boldly decorated hostel in up-and-coming Belleville is smart and stylish, but the paper-thin walls and pop rock endlessly pumped into the corridors mean it doesn't quite live up to its boutique hotel aspirations. Dorms €36, doubles €115

MIJE ☎01 42 74 23 45, mije.com; [St-Paul or Pont-Marie](http://St-Paul or Pont-Marie); map pp.286–287. A group of three hostels – Le Fauconnier (11 rue du Fauconnier), Le Fourcy (6 rue de Fourcy) and Maubuisson (12 rue des Barres) – situated just a few hundred metres apart in a set of magnificent mansions. Rooms are simple, but all guests can eat at Le Fourcy's decent restaurant. There's a 1am curfew and additional obligatory purchase of MIJE membership (€2.50; valid for a year). Dorms €33.50, doubles €82

Oops! 50 av des Gobelins, 13<sup>e</sup> ☎01 47 07 47 00, oops-paris.com; [Place d'Italie](http://Place d'Italie); map pp.282–283. The city's first and much imitated "design hostel", situated south of the Latin Quarter near Place d'Italie. All rooms are en suite and kept very clean, though doubles can be seriously overpriced in high season. Dorms €43, doubles €115

Peace & Love 245 rue La Fayette, 19° 01 46 07 65 11, 01 paris-hostels.com; 01 Jaurès or Stalingrad; map pp.282–283. Right opposite the Canal St Martin, this small, welcoming hostel is a good choice if sleep isn't high on your priorities, with a cheap, popular bar that's open till 2am. Prices vary considerably with demand. Dorms €26, doubles €70

Plug-Inn 7 rue Aristide Bruant, 18° 01 42 58 42 58, 01 plug-inn.fr; 01 Abbesses; map pp.282–283. Small and swish hostel with designer decor and a great location on the slopes of Montmartre. The only downside is that some rooms are a little cramped. Dorms €32, doubles €99

★ St Christopher's Inn 5 rue de Dunkerque, 10° 01 40 34 34 40, 01 stchristophers.co.uk; 01 Gare du Nord; map pp.282–283. This whopper of a hostel (it has over six hundred beds) is a very slick operation: dorm beds all have lockable storage cages and USB points in the headboard, plus there are two on-site restaurants and a bar. Other perks include phones for free international calls, a female-only floor and a slew of nightly activities. There's a particular focus on private rooms here (four-bed apartments from €178), whereas their purpose-built "canal" branch (159 rue de Crimée, 19°) has a higher proportion of dorm beds. Dorms €40, doubles €128

HOTELS

Bonséjour Montmartre 11 rue Burq, 18° 01 42 54 22 53, 01 hotel-bonsejour-montmartre.fr; 01 Abbesses; map pp.282–283. In a great position just off lively rue des Abbesses, this charming family-run hotel offers great-value doubles and singles. The rooms are peaceful but not polished; some share a toilet and shower on the landing, and the best have small balconies. Book direct for the best rates. Dorms €69

Du Commerce 14 rue de la Montagne-Ste-Geneviève, 5° 01 43 54 89 69, 01 commerceparishotel.com; 01 Maubert-Mutualité; map pp.286–287. Welcoming budget hotel on a quiet street in the heart of the Latin Quarter. The rooms are decorated in bright, cheery colours, and there's a communal kitchen. Doubles €58

Eldorado 18 rue des Dames, 17° 01 45 22 35 21, 01 eldoradohotel.fr; 01 Place de Clichy; map pp.282–283. Eclectic budget hotel near busy Place de Clichy and a 5min walk from Montmartre, with a bohemian atmosphere, quirkily decorated rooms and a good attached wine bar. Book well in advance. Doubles €65

Marignan 13 rue du Sommerard, 5° 01 43 54 63 81, 01 hotel-marignan.com; 01 Maubert-Mutualité; map pp.286–287. Excellent backpacker-oriented hotel, with laundry facilities, a kitchen and a good choice of triples and singles. The ebullient proprietor is a mine of information on Paris. Breakfast included. Doubles €85

CAMPSITE

Camping Bois de Boulogne allée du Bord de l'Eau 01 45 24 30 00, 01 campingparis.fr; shuttle bus to and from 01 Porte Maillot; map pp.282–283. The city's major campsite is situated in the beautiful Bois de Boulogne and offers a range of facilities including showers, a canteen and bike rental. Per person and tent €11

EATING

Eating out in Paris need not be an extravagant affair, and even at dinner, it's possible to have a meal for around €15. Make a reservation Thursday to Saturday evening if you can.

CAFÉS, CHEAP EATS AND SNACKS

Angelina 226 rue de Rivoli, 1°; 01 Tuileries; map pp.286–287. Drinking a cup of the decadent chocolat chaud à l'ancienne (€8.20) at this historic tearoom is a Paris institution. Mon–Fri 7.30am–7pm, Sat & Sun 8.30am–7.30pm.

Berthillon 31 rue St-Louis-en-l'Île, 4°; 01 Pont Marie; map pp.286–287. Expect long queues for some of the best ice creams and sorbets in the city; the divine flavours include salted caramel and Earl Grey. Single scoop €2.50. Wed–Sun 10am–8pm.

Bouillon Racine 3 rue Racine, 6°; 01 Cluny-La Sorbonne; map pp.286–287. One of a few surviving bouillons (soup kitchens) that opened in the early 1900s, featuring gloriously extravagant Art Nouveau decor. The lunch formule is good value at €16.95 for two courses. Daily noon–11pm.

Café de la Mosquée 39 rue Geoffroy-St-Hilaire, 5°; 01 Place Monge; map pp.282–283. Attached to La Grande Mosquée, this Moorish café is an oasis of calm. Mint tea (€2.50) and baklava (€7 for three) are on offer in the intricately tiled salon de thé, or you can smoke shisha in the courtyard. Daily 9am–midnight.

★ L'As du Falafel 34 rue des Rosiers, 4°; 01 Saint-Paul; map pp.286–287. Arguably the best falafel shop in the Jewish quarter. Their signature combination – pitta bread

★TREAT YOURSELF

Mama Shelter 109 rue de Bagnole, 20° 01 43 48 48 48, 01 mamashelter.com; 01 Porte de Bagnole; map pp.282–283. Doodle-covered blackboard ceilings and a graffiti theme distinguish this cool, Philippe Starck-designed hotel. Rooms come with an iMac, mini-bar and free movies, and facilities include a restaurant, pizzeria, bar and rooftop terrace. Book early for their ludicrously cheap starting rate. Doubles €99

TOP THREE PARISIAN PATISSERIES

You can't walk far in Paris without stumbling over a pâtisserie, many of which have been serving cakes for hundreds of years. Here are three of the best that are worth braving the queues for:

Gérard Mulot 76 rue de Seine, 6<sup>e</sup>; ☎ Odéon; map pp.286–287. This justifiably famous pâtisserie is usually crammed with locals. The many delights include lemon meringue tart (€4.70) and red fruit millefeuille (€5.20). Mon, Tues & Thurs–Sun 6.45am–8pm.

Ladurée 75 av des Champs-Élysées 8<sup>e</sup>; ☎ George V; map pp.282–283. Famous for its delectable macarons (€1.85/piece), which come in flavours such as salted caramel and orange blossom. Indulge in one of their many treats over a cup of their delicate tea in this ornate tearoom, or head to the more intimate branch at 16 rue Royale. Daily 7.30am–11.30pm.

Stohrer 51 rue Montorgueil, 2<sup>e</sup>; ☎ Étienne-Marcel; map pp.286–287. The city's oldest pâtisserie serves arguably its most divine selection of cakes – try a baba au rhum (variations from €4.50), which was actually invented here. Daily 7.30am–8.30pm.

stuffed full of falafel, cabbage, aubergine, hummus and yoghurt – costs just €5 to take away. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–midnight, Fri noon–3pm.

Le Loir dans la Théière 3 rue des Rosiers, 4<sup>e</sup>; ☎ St-Paul; map pp.286–287. The Sunday brunch (€19.50) at this laidback, cosy café is especially popular, as are their excellent cakes (€11 with tea). Get there early to bag a comfy leather armchair. Daily 9am–7.30pm.

★ Marché des Enfants Rouges 39 rue de Bretagne, 3<sup>e</sup>; ☎ Filles du Calvaire; map pp.286–287. Not a café, but the oldest market in Paris. Take your pick from the freshly cooked food available at the stalls (including French, Moroccan and Italian) then grab a spot at the shared picnic tables. Tues–Sat 9am–2pm & 4–8pm, Sun 9am–2pm.

RESTAURANTS

Au Père Louis 38 rue Monsieur le Prince, 6<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 43 26 54 14; ☎ Odéon; map pp.286–287. This cosy, labyrinthine restaurant is a great choice for a long, relaxed meal. The menu is packed with classic dishes including onion soup (€9) and crème caramel (€7.50). Daily noon–3pm & 6pm–midnight.

★ Au Pied de Fouet 45 rue de Babylone, 7<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 47 05 12 27; ☎ Saint-François-Xavier; map pp.282–283 & map pp.286–287. Tiny and charmingly old-fashioned restaurant with red-check tablecloths, picture-cluttered walls and wonky floors. Try the pâté de campagne (€3.50) and confit de canard (€12.50) with wine from €2.90 a glass. There's another branch at 3 rue Saint-Benoît, 6<sup>e</sup>. Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7–11pm.

Big Fernand 55 rue du Faubourg Poissonnière, 9<sup>e</sup>; ☎ Poissonnière or Cadet; map pp.282–283. Run by a young and jolly team, this is the place to satisfy a burger craving in Paris (though there are now a number of branches in the city). Try one of their creations like Le Bartholomé (beef patty with raclette and caramelized onions; €12) or build your own. Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7.30–10.30pm.

Bistrot Victoires 6 rue de la Vrillière, 2<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 42 61 43 78; ☎ Bourse; map pp.286–287. A convivial local bistro, tucked away near the Palais Royale. The fantastic old bar and big mirrors lend it a timeless appeal, and the food is surprisingly cheap for this part of the city (poulet roti €10). Daily 9am–11pm.

Breizh Café 109 rue Vieille du Temple, 3<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 42 72 13 77; ☎ Saint-Sébastien-Froissart; map pp.286–287. Authentic Breton galettes and crêpes (from €7) served in a refreshingly modern interior. The galette complète (ham, cheese and egg) is particularly good, as is the salted caramel crêpe. Wed–Sat 11.30am–11pm, Sun 11.30am–10pm.

★ Candelaria 52 rue de Saintonge, 3<sup>e</sup>; ☎ Saint-François-Xavier; map pp.286–287. The queue usually snakes out the door for the excellent Mexican food here. There's no menu, but tortilla chips and home-made guacamole (€7) are a must, as are their potent cocktails (from €12). There are just six stools and scruffy sharing tables for diners (no reservations), with a crowded, dark cocktail bar behind. Restaurant Mon–Wed & Sun 12.30–11pm, Thurs–Sat 12.30pm–midnight; bar daily 6pm–2am.

Crêperie des Canettes 10 rue des Canettes, 6<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 42 65 20 27; ☎ St-Sulpice; map pp.286–287. A cosy little crêperie with a great range of galettes such as the savoyarde (raclette, potatoes, bacon and cream; €10) and pichets of Breton cider (from €4). Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7–11pm.

La Guêpe 14 rue des Trois Frères, 18<sup>e</sup>; ☎ Abbesses or Anvers; map pp.282–283. This cheerfully decorated tapas bar, with a striking tile-topped counter, offers a refreshing change from the raft of so-so, tourist-oriented *bistrot*s in the neighbourhood. For just €3–6 per dish, choose from a beautifully presented and creative selection of Spanish, Italian and Asian-inspired plates such as Comté spring rolls and cuttlefish croquettes. Tues–Sun 6pm–2am; closed Aug.

Le Cambodge 10 av Richerand, 10<sup>e</sup>; ☎ Goncourt; map pp.282–283. A laidback Cambodian restaurant with a unique ordering system where you write (or draw) your choice on a notepad. Try the bo bun, a fragrant noodle dish with beansprouts, carrots and peanuts (from €10). Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7–11pm.

Pho 67 59 rue Galande, 5<sup>e</sup> ① 01 45 25 56 69; ② Maubert-Mutualité; map pp.286–287. A beacon of Southeast Asian authenticity in this desperately touristy area. The open kitchen produces a good range of Vietnamese dishes; go for the filling pho special (€14), made with French steak, or the three-course menu (€17). No credit cards. Mon 6.30–11pm, Tues–Sun noon–3pm & 6.30–11pm.

Pink Flamingo 105 rue Vieille du Temple, 3<sup>e</sup> ① 01 42 71 28 20; ② Saint-Sébastien-Froissart; map pp.286–287. The inventively named pizzas (from €13) at the Marais branch of this eclectic pizzeria include the Gandhi (sag paneer, baba ganoush and mozzarella) and the Bjork (smoked salmon, lumpfish caviar and crème fraîche). Tues–Fri noon–3pm & 7–11.30pm, Sat & Sun noon–11.30pm.

Polidor 41 rue Monsieur-le-Prince, 6<sup>e</sup> ① 01 43 26 95 34; ② Odéon; map pp.286–287. Historic bistro that was a favourite of James Joyce and Hemingway; service can be short-tempered but the food is good and reasonably priced. Try the boeuf bourguignon (€12). Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7pm–12.30am, Sun noon–2.30pm & 7pm–midnight.

Potager du Marais 22 rue Rambuteau, 3<sup>e</sup> ① 01 57 40 98 57; ② Rambuteau; map pp.286–287. A tiny vegetarian restaurant serving interesting dishes like a “crusty” quinoa burger and goat’s cheese with honey. Two-course menu €20. Wed–Sun noon–4pm & 7–10.30pm.

★ Robert et Louise 64 rue Vieille du Temple, 3<sup>e</sup> ① 01 42 78 55 89; ② Rambuteau or Saint Paul; map pp.286–287. The unassuming facade of this Marais institution doesn’t betray anything of the restaurant’s rustic, down-to-earth interior. The ground-floor dining room is permeated by the heady smell of the wood fire, over which the signature dish, côte de boeuf pour deux (€42), is beautifully cooked. The weekday lunch menu (€12) is excellent value. Tues & Wed 7–11pm, Thurs–Sun noon–2.30pm & 7–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Drinks are charged according to where you sit, with supplements for drinking on the terrace. The old working-class districts east of the Canal St Martin continue to hold some of the city’s liveliest nightlife, while the Marais is the place to head for chic café-bars and trendy gay spots. The university quarter near St-Germain-des-Prés is also worth exploring. Most places are open all day until around 2am, and many offer an early-evening “happy hour”. For listings, pick up the weekly guide Pariscope, which has a small section in English.

BARS

Au P’tit Garage 63 rue Jean-Pierre Timbaud, 11<sup>e</sup>; ② Parmentier; map pp.282–283. A young and rowdy crowd pack out this scruffy bar; expect to see plenty of double denim and check shirts. Cheap and sugary caipirinhas (€6.50) fuel the rock’n’roll atmosphere. Daily 5pm–2am.

Café Charbon 109 rue Oberkampf, 11<sup>e</sup>; ② Parmentier or rue Saint-Maur; map pp.282–283. Long a stalwart of the rue Oberkampf scene, the popularity of Café Charbon hasn’t waned. The classic brasserie decor – oxblood booths, chandeliers and high ceilings – dates from the early twentieth century, and the long happy hour (daily 5–8pm) is particularly appealing. Wine starts at €4, with cocktails from €7. Mon–Wed & Sun 9am–2am, Thurs–Sat 9am–4am.

★ Café Chéri(e) 44 bd de la Villette, 19<sup>e</sup>; ② Belleville; map pp.282–283. This friendly neighbourhood bar is a great place to get a feel for Belleville’s laidback “bobo” (bourgeois bohemian) vibe. Old school desks have been resurrected to provide the seats on the street, while the interior hosts exhibitions and DJs (Thurs–Sat). Drinks from €2.80. Daily 11am–2am.

Chez Georges 11 rue des Canettes, 6<sup>e</sup>; ② Mabillon or Saint-Sulpice; map pp.286–287. Fantastic, old-fashioned cellar wine bar (wine by the glass from €3.50), popular with students and older locals alike. Mon–Fri 5pm–2am, Sat noon–2am, Sun 6pm–1am.

Chez Prune 36 rue Beaurepaire, 10<sup>e</sup>; ② Jacques Bonsergent; map pp.286–287. As you might guess from the shabby-chic decor, mosaic floors and yellow walls, this relaxed café-bar is the quintessential canal-side hipster hangout. You’ll need to get here early for a table outside. Wine from €3.50 a glass. Daily 10am–2am.

Glass 7 rue Frochot, 9<sup>e</sup>; ② Pigalle; map pp.282–283. Located in the seedy but slowly gentrifying area south of Pigalle (dubbed “SoPi”), Glass is a little slice of Americana in Paris. Ignore the menacing bouncer; there’s a great

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Frenchie Bar à Vins 6 rue du Nil, 2<sup>e</sup> ① 01 40 39 96 19; ② Sentier; map pp.286–287.

Across the road from their very chic (and very popular) restaurant, this modern, bare-brick wine bar offers a more accessible taste of Gregory Marchand’s cooking. He’s worked in London (under Jamie Oliver) and New York, the influences of which can be seen in both his food and cosmopolitan clientele. All dishes are designed to share; expect savoury options like papardelle with lamb ragu, feta and olives (€15) followed by a divine chocolate pot with caramel butter and passion fruit (€8). Wines (from €6 a glass) are exceptionally well chosen. Daily 7–11pm.

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Andy Wahloo 69 rue des Gravilliers, 3e; ☎ Arts-et-Métiers; map pp.286–287. This very popular bar decked out in original Pop Art-inspired Arabic decor is fairly quiet during the week but gets packed to the gills at weekends. The bar serves mojitos and a few original cocktails, including the Wahloo juley (mint, rum, tobacco liquor, lime and cherry; €15). From Wednesday to Saturday DJs play a wide range of dance music, hip-hop, Moroccan rock and Algerian rai. Happy hour 6–8pm. Tues–Sun 7pm–1.45am.

atmosphere inside this small, packed bar. Try one of their whisky-based cocktails (€12) or craft beers (from €4). Tues–Thurs & Sun 7pm–4am, Fri & Sat 7pm–5am.

La Fourmi 74 rue des Martyrs, 18e; ☎ Pigalle; map pp.282–283. Refreshingly casual Montmartre café-bar with comfy red velvet benches, high ceilings and an enormous chandelier made from old wine bottles. Affordable beers (from €2.80) and cocktails keep things lively well into the night. Mon–Thurs 8am–2am, Fri & Sat 8am–3am, Sun 10am–1am.

La Perle 78 rue Vieille du Temple, 3e; ☎ Rambuteau or Saint-Sébastien-Froissart; map pp.286–287. This gay-friendly Marais bar might appear unremarkable, but it becomes enormously popular on weekend evenings. Prices aren't bad for this part of town either, with 50cl beers from €6.70 and wine from €3.50 a glass. Mon–Fri 6am–2am, Sat & Sun 8am–2am.

Wine by One 27 rue de Marignan, 8e; ☎ Franklin D. Roosevelt; map pp.282–283. An unpretentious concept wine bar with over a hundred wines to sample from snazzy self-service machines. Load a €2 card with as much money as you wish, then choose a wine to taste; prices start at €1.40 for a small sip. Tues–Fri noon–10pm, Sat 3–8pm.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

Autour de Midi...et Minuit 11 rue Lepic, 18e; ☎ autourdemidi.fr; ☎ Blanche; map pp.282–283. A cosy subterranean jazz club with free jam sessions on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Tues–Sat, hours vary.

Le Divan du Monde 75 rue des Martyrs, 18e; ☎ divandumonde.com; ☎ Pigalle; map pp.282–283. Small venue with an eclectic selection of live music, from techno to Congolese rumba. See website for gig times.

Nouveau Casino 109 rue Oberkampf, 11e; ☎ nouveaucasino.net; ☎ Parmentier or rue Saint-Maur; map pp.282–283. An interesting, experimental line-up of live gigs makes way for a relaxed, dancey crowd later on, with music ranging from electro-pop or house to rock.

Entry €5–12, depending on whether you reserve online and the time you arrive. Tues–Sun, hours vary.

Point Éphémère 200 quai de Valmy, 10e; ☎ pointephemere.org; ☎ Jaurès; map pp.282–283. Grungy, concrete-floored bar, restaurant, club and gallery, which spills out onto the bank of the canal. Expect a mix of exhibitions, DJs and live acts. Tickets generally €11–18. Mon–Sat noon–2am, Sun noon–9pm.

Social Club 142 rue Montmartre, 2e; ☎ parissocialclub.com; ☎ Bourse; map pp.286–287. Head to this unpretentious yet cool club to see big-name techno and electro DJs. Free–€20. Wed 11.30pm–3am, Thurs–Sat 11pm–6am.

LGBT PARIS

Paris has a well-established gay scene concentrated mainly in the Halles, Marais and Bastille areas. For information, check out Têtu (☎ tetu.com), France's biggest gay monthly magazine, or visit the main information centre, Centre Gai et Lesbien de Paris, 63 rue Beaubourg, 3e (☎ 01 43 57 21 47, ☎ centrelgbtparis.org; ☎ Ledru-Rollin/Bastille).

Le Club 18 18 rue du Beaujolais, 1er; ☎ club18.fr; ☎ Palais Royal; map pp.286–287. The oldest gay club in Paris, but still fashionable, especially among a friendly, fresh-faced crowd. Tiny, too, which is part of the fun. Entry €10, which includes a drink. Fri & Sat midnight–6am.

Le Freedj 35 rue Ste-Croix-de-la-Bretonnerie, 4e; ☎ Hôtel-de-Ville; map pp.286–287. A stylish club in the heart of the Marais, attracting a young, trendy crowd. Daily 6pm–4am.

Le Tango (La Boîte à Frissons) 13 rue au Maire, 3e; ☎ boite-a-frissons.fr; ☎ Arts-et-Métiers; map pp.286–287. This old dancehall welcomes a mixed gay, lesbian and straight crowd for ballroom dancing before the music gives way to disco around 1am. Entry up to €15. Thurs 8pm–2am, Fri & Sat 10.30pm–5am, Sun 6–11pm.

ENTERTAINMENT

CINEMA

Tickets cost around €9 and discounts are offered across the city on Wednesdays. Films are identified as either v.o., which means they're shown in their original language, or v.f., which means they're dubbed into French.

Cinémathèque Française 51 rue de Bercy, 12e; ☎ cinematheque.fr; ☎ Bercy. Housed in a striking Frank Gehry-designed building, Cinémathèque Française screens a range of films from avant-garde pieces to homages to Hollywood stars. Tickets €6.50.

Le Champo 51 rue des Ecoles, 5e; ☎ lechamp.com; ☎ Cluny-La Sorbonne. This Latin Quarter cinema has been screening films since 1938. They now show an interesting selection of art-house classics and run les nuits du Champo: a night of three films followed by breakfast for €15.

THEATRE, OPERA AND CLASSICAL MUSIC

Concert venues and theatres sometimes offer standby tickets at a reduced rate. These are generally only released around 20min before the performance, and many offer discounted tickets to students.

Cité de la Musique 221 av Jean-Jaurès, 19<sup>e</sup> ☎ cite-musique.fr; ☎ Porte-de-Pantin. Modern venue in Parc de la Villette with an eclectic music programme that covers Baroque, contemporary works and world music. Tickets around €20.

Comédie-Française ☎ comedie-francaise.fr. For classical theatre by the likes of Molière or Racine, head to a production by this venerable company, staged in several theatres across Paris. Tickets from €13.

Palais Garnier place de l'Opéra, 9<sup>e</sup> ☎ operadeparis.fr; ☎ Opéra. The city's original opera house stages both operas and ballets within its lavish interior. Tickets from €5.

SHOPPING

Galleries Lafayette 40 bd Haussmann, 9<sup>e</sup> ☎ galerieslafayette.com; ☎ Chaussée d'Antin-La Fayette; map pp.282–283. This massive department store sells everything from lingerie and designer fashion to books and DVDs. Worth a visit just to gawp at the astonishing architecture. Mon–Wed & Sat 9.30am–8pm, Thurs 9.30am–9pm.

Hédiard 21 place de la Madeleine, 8<sup>e</sup> ☎ hediard.fr; ☎ Madeleine; map pp.282–283. Gastronomes will be in seventh heaven in this shop, where the finest foods have been sold since 1854. Mon–Sat 9am–8.30pm.

Marché aux Puces de St-Ouen rue des Rosiers, 18<sup>e</sup> ☎ les-puces.com; ☎ Porte de Clignancourt; map pp.282–283. Bargain hunters congregate on this massive flea market (Europe's largest), with over 2500 stalls – be prepared to haggle. Mon, Sat & Sun 7.30am–6pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies and consulates Australia, 4 rue Jean Rey, 15<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 40 59 33 00; Canada, 35 av Montaigne, 8<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 44 43 29 00; Ireland, 4 rue Rude, 16<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 44 17 67 00; New Zealand, 7 rue Léonard de Vinci, 16<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 45 01 43 43; South Africa, 59 quai d'Orsay, 7<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 53 59 23 23; UK, 35 rue du Faubourg-St-Honoré, 8<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 44 51 31 00; US, 2 av Gabriel, 8<sup>e</sup> ☎ 01 43 12 22 22.

Banks and exchange ATMs are located at all airports and mainline train stations, and at most of the banks in town. Beware that money-exchange bureaux and automatic exchange machines may advertise the selling rather than the buying rate and add on hefty commission fees.

Hospital Contact SOS-Médecins (☎ 36 24) for 24hr medical help, or dial ☎ 15 for emergencies.

Left luggage Lockers (€5.50–9.50) are available at all train stations.

Pharmacy Dérhy (☎ 01 45 62 02 41), 84 av des Champs-Élysées, is open 24hr.

Post office 52 rue du Louvre, 1<sup>er</sup> (Mon–Sat 7.30am–6am, Sun 10am–midnight).

DAY-TRIPS FROM PARIS

Within easy day-trip distance from Paris are two of the country's most popular sights – stately Versailles and Monet's beautiful garden at Giverny.

Versailles

The Palace of Versailles (Tues–Sun: April–Oct 9am–6.30pm; Nov–March 9am–5.30pm; €18 palace and gardens, €15 palace only; ☎ en.chateauversailles.fr) is the epitome of decadence and luxury, with its staggeringly lavish architectural splendour that is a homage to its founder, the “Sun King” Louis XIV. The ornamental gardens (daily: April–Oct 8am–8.30pm; Nov–March 8am–6pm) are particularly splendid and ostentatious, complete with canals, boating lakes and fountains. The easiest way to get to Versailles is on the half-hourly RER line C to Versailles-Rive Gauche (35min).

Giverny

Less than an hour northwest of Paris, GIVERNY is famous for Monet's house and gardens, complete with water-lily pond (April–Oct daily 9.30am–6pm; €9.50; ☎ fondation-monet.com). Monet lived here from 1883 until his death in 1926 and the gardens that he laid out were considered by many – including Monet himself – to be his “greatest masterpiece”; the best months to visit are May and June, when the rhododendrons flower around the lily pond and the wisteria hangs over the Japanese bridge, but it's overwhelmingly beautiful at any time of year. To get here, take a train to nearby Vernon from Paris-St-Lazare (around 5 daily; 45min; €29.40 return), then either rent a bike from the café opposite the station (€14 for the day) or take the shuttle bus (€8 return; timed to meet trains to/from Paris).

Northern France

Northern France includes some of the most industrial and densely populated parts of the country. However, there are some curiosities hidden away in the far northeastern corner. Lille with its vieux ville is lovely to amble around, while Boulogne is the most interesting port town. Further south, the maisons and vineyards of Champagne are the main draw, for which the best base is Reims, with its fine cathedral.

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER is a pleasant Channel port with a long, sandy stretch of beach. Its ville basse (Lower Town), where the main port is located, is somewhat run-down, but within the medieval ramparts of the ville haute (Upper Town) rising above, there's a twelfth-century castle, a cathedral and a range of cafés and restaurants. It takes about 45 minutes to walk around the walls, from which you can enjoy panoramic views of the city.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is on bd Voltaire, from where it's a 10min walk to the centre.

Destinations Calais (hourly; 30min); Lille (10 daily; 1hr); Paris (10 daily; 2hr 25min).

By bus Buses to Calais (4 daily; 40min) depart from the bus station on place de France, a few minutes' walk from the centre.

Destinations Calais (4 daily; 40min); Dunkerque (4 daily; 1hr 20min).

Tourist information The main tourist office is in Nausicaä aquarium, bd St-Beuve (Mon–Sat 10.30am–12.30pm & 2–5pm, with longer hours in summer; ☎03 21 10 88 10, ☗tourisme-boulognesurmer.com).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Faidherbe 12 rue Faidherbe ☎03 21 31 60 93, ☗hotelfaidherbe.com. Don't be put off by the rather grim exterior; this is a great-value two-star near the sea and shops, with pretty rooms, a small bar-cum-breakfast room and friendly proprietors. Doubles €69

FUJAJ Bologne-sur-Mer 56 place Rouget de Lisle ☎03 21 99 15 30, ☗fuaj.org. The cheapest beds in town are at this friendly hostel opposite the station. It has a small bar with a pool table and babyfoot (table football). Dorms €22.70

La Grillardine 30 rue de Lille ☎03 21 80 32 94. Bright, small and cheerful restaurant in the ville haute, this has a growing and glowing reputation for its bistro dishes, using locally sourced meat. The €21 menu is particularly good value. Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 7–10pm, Sun noon–2pm.

CALAIS

CALAIS is one of the main ports for ferries to and from the UK. Unless you have an early-morning departure there's little reason to make a special stop here.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Calais Ville (served by SNCF) is in the town centre; Calais Frethun (served by Eurostar) is on the outskirts.

Destinations Boulogne-Ville (hourly; 35min); Lille (2 hourly; 30min); Paris (5 daily; 1hr 30min).

By bus Buses for Boulogne (5 daily; 40min) depart from in front of Calais-Ville station.

By ferry For last-minute ferry bookings contact P&O Ferries (☎0825 120 156).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Centre Européen de Séjour av du Maréchal de Lattre de Tassigny ☎03 21 34 70 20, ☗auberge-jeunesse-calais.com; bus #3 from Calais Ville station. Decent hostel just a block from the beach, with small dorms and an on-site restaurant. Dorms €24.50

Histoire Andenne 20 rue Royale ☎03 21 34 11 20. Family-run restaurant with a good-value menu gourmand (three courses €20.90) featuring dishes like salmon in a béarnaise sauce. Mon noon–2.30pm, Tues–Sat noon–2.30pm & 6–11pm.

Hotel Particulier Richelieu 17 rue Richelieu ☎03 21 34 61 60, ☗hotel-richelieu-calais.co.uk. Delightful small hotel with individually decorated rooms (some with claw-foot tubs); don't be put off by the unpromising modern exterior. Doubles €55

LILLE

LILLE is a lively, modern city which is well worth visiting for a day or two. The winding, cobbled streets of the old town are lined with traditional patisseries, brasseries and a range of upmarket shops. The Grand-Place, also known as place du Général de Gaulle, is a busy square dominated by Vieille Bourse, the old exchange building, which now houses an afternoon book market (Tues–Sun 1–7pm). South of the old quarter lies the modern place Rihour, beyond which is the Palais des Beaux-Arts, place de la République (Mon 2–6pm, Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €7; ☎03 20 06 78 00, wpba-lille.fr), a notable fine arts museum with an excellent collection of Renaissance art and varying exhibitions.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Gare Lille-Flandres is on place de la Gare; Gare Lille-Europe is a 2min walk further east and has faster services.

Destinations from Gare Lille-Europe Boulogne (8 daily; 1hr); Brussels (7 daily; 40min); Calais (hourly; 30min); London (11 daily; 1hr 25min); Lyon (2 hourly; 3hr); Paris (23 daily; 1hr).

Destinations from Gare Lille-Flandres Brussels (16 daily; 35min); Paris (23 daily; 1hr).

Tourist information place Rihour (Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm, Sun 10am–4.30pm; lilletourism.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Faidherbe 42 place de la Gare ☎03 20 06 27 93, hotel-faidherbe-lille.fr. Just opposite the station, this simple hotel is clean and welcoming. The cheapest rooms (with bathrooms down the hall) are great value. Doubles €70
FUJ 112 rue Malpart ☎03 20 57 08 94, fuaj.org. Centrally located but basic FUJ hostel. Breakfast is included and there are simple cooking facilities. Note that reception is closed 11am–3pm. Dorms €24.50

Hotel Kanai 10 rue de Bethune ☎03 20 57 14 78, hotelkanai.com. This stylish boutique hotel has a great location on a pedestrianized road in the heart of the city. As Lille is geared to business travellers, you can grab a real bargain at weekends. Doubles €60

EATING AND DRINKING

Estaminet T'Rijsel 25 rue de Gand ☎03 20 15 01 59. If you want the true Flemish estaminet (café) experience, this is the place. Decorated with hops, old photos and candles on the tables, this crowded bistro serves the whole gamut of regional dishes, and over forty beers. Plats from €12. Mon 7–10.30pm, Tues–Sun noon–2.30pm & 7–10.30pm.

L'illustration 18 rue Royale. The pick of the bars on this lively stretch, thanks to the friendly bartenders and retro-pop soundtrack. They serve a good range of beers (from €4.50 for 50cl) and wine (from €3 a glass). Mon–Fri 12.30pm–2am, Sat 2pm–3am, Sun 3pm–2am.

MEERT 27 rue Esquemoise. A grand pâtisserie and confiserie selling all manner of pastries and chocolates, which you can eat in their salon de thé or take away. The éclairs (€3.10) are divine. Tues–Fri 9.30am–7.30pm, Sat 9am–7.30pm, Sun 9am–1pm & 3–7pm.

REIMS

REIMS is located at the heart of the Champagne region, so if you fancy a tippie or two it's worth stopping by. The town is also home to the spectacular Gothic Cathédrale Notre Dame (daily 7.30am–7.30pm), one of the most beautiful in France. The interior is renowned for the stained-glass designs by Marc Chagall in the east chapel and glorifications of the champagne-making process in the south transept.

If you're in town for the champagne, head to the tourist office for details of which maisons are currently offering tours; all have English-speaking guides. Cellar tours involve a small fee which includes a tasting at the end. The atmospheric caves of Taittinger, 9 place St-Nicaise (April to mid-Nov daily 9.30am–5.30pm; mid-Nov to March Mon–Fri 9.30am–1pm & 1.45–5.30pm; €16.50; taittinger.fr), and the in-depth tours of Lanson, 66 rue de Courlancy (Mon–Fri 9.30am–noon & 1.30–5.30pm; tours at 10am & 2.30pm; €15), which take you into the factory, are the only cellars you can visit without an appointment.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is on bd Joffre, a short walk northwest of the centre.

Destinations Paris (7 daily; 45min).

Tourist information 4 rue Rockefeller (April–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–4pm).

ACCOMMODATION

CIS de Champagne Parc Léo Lagrange ☎03 26 40 52 60, cis-reims.com; tram A or B to "Comédie". The only dorm accommodation in Reims is predominantly group-oriented and a 15min walk from the train station. Dorms €23.80, doubles €49.70

Hotel Monopole 28 place Drouet d'Erlon ☎03 26 47 10 33, hotellmonopole.com. Like all of Reims' budget hotels, the Monopole is a little careworn, though it's cheap, friendly and well located on bustling place Drouet d'Erlon. Doubles €45

EATING

L'Apostrophe 59 place Drouet d'Erlon ☎03 26 79 19 89, restaurant-lapostrophe.fr. Smart, modern café, bar, brasserie and terrace in an old building with a menu that goes from burgers (€14.60) to salmon with a creole sauce and wild rice (€15.80). Lunch menus €13.50–18. Daily noon–1.45pm & 7–9.30pm.

Waidā 3–5 place Drouet d'Erlon ☎ 03 26 47 44 49. An old-fashioned bakery offering a mix of savoury and sweet pastries to eat in or take away; it's a good spot for a simple breakfast of baguette with butter and jam (€3.50). Tues–Sun 7.30am–7.30pm.

Normandy and Brittany

To the French, the essence of Normandy is in its food and drink: this is the land of butter and cream, cheese and seafood, cider and calvados. Many of the towns also have great historic importance:

Rouen is where Joan of Arc was burned at the stake; Bayeux is rightly celebrated for its eponymous tapestry; the 80km stretch of northern coastline was the site of the D-Day landings; and the granite spectacle of Mont St-Michel dates back to the thirteenth century. The striking coastline, sandy beaches and lush countryside of Brittany feel like a world apart; it seems almost unbelievable that these verdant pastures are within easy reach of Paris. People here are both fiercely proud and defiantly isolationist.

ROUEN

ROUEN is a city of impressive churches, half-timbered houses and small cobbled streets. The town's focal point is place du Vieux-Marché, where Joan of Arc was burned at the stake in 1431. The old market square leads onto rue du Gros-Horloge, which has a colourful one-handed clock arching over the street. Walking along here brings you to the impressive Cathédrale de Notre-Dame (April–Oct Mon 2–6pm, Tues–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 8am–6pm; Nov–March Mon 2–6pm, Tues–Sat 9am–noon & 2–6pm, Sun 8am–6pm), a Gothic masterpiece built in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. The cathedral is best known as the subject of a series of paintings by Monet which explore the interaction between light and shadow on its facade.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Gill Côté Bistro 14 place du Vieux Marché, Rouen ☎ 02 35 89 88 72. While the local two Michelin star restaurant, Gill, might be out of reach, its smart bistro offshoot is great value. Expect beautifully executed classics like beef tartare and chocolate fondant, with excellent-value lunch formules starting from €22.50 for two courses. Daily noon–2.30pm & 5.30–10.30pm.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is a 10min walk from the centre; there are hourly trains to Paris (1hr 10min).

Tourist information 25 place de la Cathédrale (May–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; Oct–April Mon–Sat 9.30am–12.30pm & 1.30–6pm; ☎ rouentourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

FUJ Rouen 3 rue du Tour, route de Darnétal ☎ 02 35 08 18 50, ☎ fuaj.org; bus #2 or #3 to "Auberge de Jeunesse". Housed in a former dyeworks, this modern hostel has good communal areas. Dorms €24.20

★ Le Sisley 51 rue Jean Lecanuet ☎ 02 35 71 10 07. Take your pick from Monet, Manet, Degas or Renoir – each room here is decorated in the style of one of the great Impressionist painters. Some of the colours are pretty loud, but it has bags of personality. Doubles €62

EATING AND DRINKING

Brasserie Paul 1 place de la Cathédrale ☎ 02 35 71 86 07. An archetypal French brasserie, serving tasty traditional dishes and a great-value lunch formule at €17. Mon–Thurs & Sun 10am–11pm, Fri & Sat 10am–midnight.

Crêperie la Regalière 12 rue Massacre ☎ 02 35 15 33 33. This inexpensive but good-quality crêperie, with some outdoor seating just off the place du Vieux-Marché, is one of central Rouen's best bargains, with menus at €10 and €15. Tues–Sat 11.45am–11pm.

Delirium Café 30 rue des Vergetiers. In a splendid half-timbered house, this student-oriented pub, part of a Belgian chain, focuses entirely on beer, with a couple of dozen on draught – largely Belgian – and plenty more in bottles. Mon–Sat 1pm–2am.

BAYEUX

BAYEUX's world-famous tapestry depicting the 1066 invasion of England by William the Conqueror is one of the highlights of a visit to Normandy. The 70m strip of linen, embroidered over nine centuries ago, is housed in the Centre Guillaume le Conquérant, rue de Nesmond (daily: mid-March to mid-Nov 9am–6.30pm; mid-Nov to mid-March 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; €9; chateau-guillaume-leconquerant.fr). The cathedral, place de la Liberté (daily: Jan–March 9am–5pm; April–June & Oct–Dec 9am–6pm; July–Sept 9am–7pm), is a spectacular thirteenth-century edifice, with some parts dating back to the eleventh century.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

11

By train The train station is a 15min walk southeast of the centre, just outside the ring road.

Destinations Caen (hourly; 20min); Paris (6 daily; 2hr 15min).

Tourist information pont St-Jean (Mon–Sat 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–5.30pm, Sun 10am–1pm & 2–5.30pm, with later opening July & Aug; 02 31 51 28 28, bayeux-bessin-tourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

De la Gare 26 place de la Gare 02 31 92 10 70, hotel-delagare-bayeux.fr. Home to Normandy Tours (see box below), this conveniently situated hotel has fourteen rooms and a simple brasserie. Doubles €44

L'Insolite 16 rue des Cuisiniers 02 31 51 71 16. Cheap but chic crêperie serving an imaginative range of savoury galettes (around €8) and sweet crêpes. Set menus from €16. Tues–Sun noon–2pm & 7–9.30pm.

Mogador 20 rue A. Chartier 02 31 92 24 58, hotel-mogador-bayeux.fr. A small hotel in the centre of town offering cosy doubles as well as quads and triples. Doubles €62

ST-MALO

ST-MALO is a beautiful Breton coastal town with cobbled streets surrounded by medieval ramparts. You can easily spend a lazy day or so ambling through the lanes and strolling along the beaches. The town museum, in the castle to the right as you enter the main city gate, Porte St-Vincent (April–Sept daily 10am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; Oct–March Tues–Sun 10am–noon & 2–6pm; €6), covers the city's eventful history, which has encompassed colonialism, slave-trading and privateers.

There are plenty of windsurfing, sailing and wakeboarding opportunities at Surf School St-Malo, just off chaussée du Sillon along the bay, at 2 av de la Hoguette (02 99 40 07 47, surfschool.org).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is a 20min walk east from the walled town. For Paris, you'll need to travel via Rennes.

Destinations Dol de Bretagne (hourly; 15min); Rennes (14 daily; 50min).

Tourist information Esplanade St-Vincent (Mon–Sat 9am–1pm & 2–6pm, with longer hours in summer; saint-malo-tourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Centre Patrick Varangot 37 av du Révérend Père Umbricht 02 99 40 29 80, centrevarangot.com; bus #3 to "Auberge de Jeunesse". Spotlessly clean hostel located 1.5km from the train station and 150m from the beach. Book well in advance. Rates reduce after the first night. Dorms €24.50

Cité d'Alet Allée Gaston 02 99 81 60 91, ville-saint-malo.fr. Perfectly positioned campsite on a peninsula by

D-DAY BEACHES

On June 6, 1944, 135,000 Allied troops stormed the beaches of Normandy in Operation Overlord. After heavy fighting, which saw thousands of casualties on both sides, the Allied forces took command of all the beaches, which was a major turning point of World War II. The 80km stretch of coastline north of Bayeux that saw the D-Day landings includes: Omaha, now home to the Musée Mémorial d'Omaha Beach (daily: mid-Feb to March & Oct to mid-Nov 10am–6pm; April–Sept 9.30am–6.30pm; €6.70; musee-memorial-omaha.com), where exhibits include uniforms and a tank; and Arromanches, 10km northwest of Bayeux, which was the main unloading point for cargo (some four million tonnes of it). The interesting museum at Arromanches, Musée du Débarquement, place du 6 Juin (daily: Feb, Nov & Dec 10am–12.30pm & 1.30–5pm; March, April & Oct 9.30am–12.30pm & 1.30–5.30pm; May–Sept 9am–6pm; €7.90; musee-arromanches.fr), has further information on France's liberation.

One of the best ways to see the beaches is on a tour: contact Normandy Sightseeing Tours (from €50; 02 31 51 70 52, normandy-sightseeing-tours.com), or Normandy Tours (from €55; 02 31 92 10 70, normandy-landing-tours.com).

the beach. Amenities include a café, shop and showers. Two people with a tent €16

Port Malo Hotel 15 rue Ste-Barbe ① 02 99 20 52 99, ② hotel-port-malo.com. Inside the town walls, this quaint hotel has surprisingly modern rooms, plus there's a bar right downstairs. Doubles €72

EATING AND DRINKING

Bouche en Folie 14 rue du Boyer ① 06 72 49 08 89. This little place offers classic, seasonal French dishes, with a good lunch menu for €15. Some outdoor seating. Mon & Thurs–Sun noon–2pm & 7–10pm.

La Brigantine 13 rue de Dinan ① 02 99 56 82 82. You won't find an English menu at this contemporary crêperie, but there is one British concession: the "queen mum", a marmalade and chocolate crêpe flambéed in whisky (€7.10). Daily noon–10pm, closed Mon & Thurs in winter.

La Java 3 rue Ste-Barbe. Fantastically cluttered and quirky cider bar with swings rather than stools at the bar and a toilet hidden in an old confessional. This is a great place to sample a kir Breton (cassis and cider; €4). Daily 8.30am–9pm, sometimes later.

MONT ST-MICHEL

Although part of Normandy, the island of MONT ST-MICHEL is easily reached from Brittany and can be visited on a day-trip from St-Malo. It's the site of the striking Gothic Abbaye du Mont-Saint-Michel (daily: May–Aug 9am–7pm; Sept–April 9.30am–6pm; €9; ② abbaye-mont-saint-michel.fr), known as La Merveille, which is visible from all around the bay. The granite structure was sculpted to match the contours of the hill, and the overall impression is stunning. Until recently, the island was attached to the mainland by a long causeway, topped by a road. Now, thanks to a vast hydraulic and reconstruction project, it has become an island once again, connected to the island by a futuristic curved bridge.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By coach The easiest way of getting here is to take a Keolis coach (② destination-montsaintmichel.com) from Dol de Bretagne (€8 one-way) or Rennes (€15 one-way). You can reach Dol by train from St-Malo (hourly; 15min) and regular trains run from Paris to Rennes (hourly; 2hr 10min).

By train Very infrequent trains (2–4 daily; 20min) run from Dol de Bretagne to Mont St-Michel's nearest station, Pontorson, where shuttle buses connect to the island (8–10 daily; 20min).

Tourist information In the lowest gateway (April–June & Sept Mon–Sat 9am–12.30pm & 2–6.30pm, Sun 9am–noon & 2–6pm; July & Aug daily 9am–7pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 9am–noon & 2–6pm, Sun 10am–noon & 2–5pm; ② 02 14 13 20 15, ② bienvenueaumontsaintmichel.com).

The Loire Valley

With countless châteaux overlooking the stunning river and panoramic views over some of France's best vineyards, the Loire Valley is deservedly one of the country's most celebrated regions. Alongside the magnificent châteaux there are numerous lovely towns, including laidback Saumur, historic Orléans and the fairytale towns of Amboise and Chinon. The cathedral city of Tours is the best base for exploring the castles, while the modern metropolis of Nantes holds some unusual attractions.

NANTES

Part of Brittany until the 1960s, NANTES has transformed itself in the last decade. The star attraction is the Machines de l'Île (mid-April to June, Sept & Oct Tues–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; July & Aug daily 10am–7pm; Nov & Dec Tues–Fri 2–5pm, Sat & Sun 2–6pm; €8.50 for elephant ride or a spin on the carousel; ② lesmachines-nantes.fr), home to a disarmingly realistic mechanical elephant which takes regular walks along the riverside, and an intricate, multi-level merry-go-round.

Back in the centre of town, the Château des Ducs (courtyard, ramparts and garden daily: July & Aug 9am–8pm; Sept–June 10am–7pm; free; ② chateaunantes.fr), built by two of the last rulers of independent Brittany, François II and his daughter Duchess Anne, is now home to the high-tech Musée d'Histoire de Nantes (July & Aug daily 10am–7pm; Sept–June Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €5). In 1800 the castle's arsenal exploded, shattering the stained glass of the Cathédrale de St-Pierre et

St-Paul (Mon–Fri 10am–noon & 2–5pm; cathedrale-nantes.cef.fr), 200m away, just one of many disasters that have befallen the church.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station, on rue de Richebourg, is a 10min walk from the centre or a short tram ride to “Commerce”.

Destinations Bordeaux (2 daily; 4hr 20min); Le Mans (for connections to Tours; hourly; 1hr 30min); Paris (hourly; 2hr 30min).

Tourist information 9 rue des Etats, opposite the Château des Ducs (mid-June to mid-Aug daily 9am–7pm; mid-Aug to mid-June daily 10am–6pm; 02 72 64 04 79, nantes-tourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

FUJAJ La Manu 2 place de la Manu 02 40 29 29 20, fujaj.org; tram #1 to “Manufacture”. Nantes’ basic HI hostel is housed in an old tobacco factory a little east of the centre. Breakfast included. Reception daily 8am–noon & 3.30–10.30pm. Dorms €21.90

Saint Daniel 4 rue du Bouffay 02 40 47 41 25, hotel-saintdaniel.com. You couldn’t ask for a more central location, although the surrounding streets can be a little noisy at night. Rooms are plain but clean, and the staff are welcoming. Doubles €45

EATING AND DRINKING

Café Cult 2 rue des Carmes 02 40 47 18 49. Splashes of magenta and orange paint liven up this historic building. Grab one of the coveted tables outside on place du Change for classic bistro dishes (€22 for two courses) and wonderfully cheap wine (from €2.70 a glass). Mon–Wed noon–2pm & 7.30–10pm, Thurs–Sat noon–2pm & 7.30pm–2am.

La Ribouldingue 33 rue de Verdun. Table football, pinball and DJ sets are among the draws at this industrial-themed bar. Drinks are cheap, too, with cocktails from €6, shooters from €3 and half-litre beers for just €4. Mon 4pm–2am, Tues–Sat 11am–2am, Sun 2–8pm.

Le Melting Pot 26 bd de la Prairie au Duc 02 40 35 18 10. Cool, youthful burger joint with a big range of well-priced burgers (from €8.50, with chips), including vegetarian and gluten-free options. There are regular theme nights, too, such as a salsa evening and live comedy. Mon–Fri noon–2pm & 7.30–10.30pm, Sat 7.30–10.30pm.

TOURS

The elegant and compact regional capital TOURS makes a good base. The city has two main areas, situated on either side of the central rue Nationale. To the east loom the extravagant towers and stained-glass windows of the Cathédrale St-Gatien, with some handsome old streets behind. Adjacent, the Musée des Beaux-Arts (Mon & Wed–Sun 9am–12.45pm & 2–6pm; €5; www.mba.tours.fr), on place François Sicard, has some beautiful paintings in its collection, notably Mantegna’s Agony in the Garden. The old town crowds around medieval place Plumereau, on the west side of the city, its half-timbered houses now packed with innumerable bars and restaurants.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is located to the south of the city on rue Édouard Vaillant.

Destinations Amboise (frequent; 20min); Chenonceaux (8 daily; 30min); Chinon (8 daily; 45min); Orléans (6–8 daily; 1hr 15min); Paris (hourly; 1–2hr); Saumur (frequent; 45min).

Tourist information The tourist office at 78–82 rue Bernard-Palissy, in front of the train station (April–Sept Mon–Sat 8.30am–7pm, Sun 10am–12.30pm & 2.30–5pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 9am–12.30pm & 1.30–6pm, Sun 10am–1pm; 02 47 70 37 37, tours-tourisme.fr), can arrange tours of the châteaux.

ACCOMMODATION

Colbert 78 rue Colbert 02 47 66 61 56, tours-hotel-colbert.fr. If you want a hotel at the heart of the action, this is the place, with a huge selection of bars and restaurants right on the doorstep. The friendly hosts (and equally friendly dogs) and sunny garden terrace are an added bonus. Doubles €61

Des Arts 40 rue de la Préfecture 02 47 05 05 00, hoteldesartstours.com. Located 5min from the station, this friendly hotel is no-frills but excellent value. Rooms are a little cramped, but nonetheless light and cheerful, some with little balconies. Doubles €54

EATING AND DRINKING

Comme Autre Fouée 11 rue de la Monnaie 02 47 05 94 78. An old-fashioned restaurant specializing in the miniature sweet and savoury dough-based snacks, fouée, with local fillings such as andouillette and mustard (lunch menu from €10). Tues & Wed 7–10pm, Thurs–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7–10pm.

L’Atelier Gourmand 37 rue Etienne Marcel 02 47 38 59 87. A trendy, ultra-modern restaurant with superb fresh cuisine, not far from rue Colbert. Head here for lunch,

CYCLING THE LOIRE VALLEY

The Loire à Vélo scheme provides over 800km of safe cycling routes, with cycle paths meandering along the river all the way from Cuffly to St-Nazaire (📍 loire-a-velo.fr has all the details). You can rent bikes in Tours from Detours de Loire, 35 rue Charles Gille (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9am–1pm & 2–7pm, Sun 9.30am–12.30pm & 6–7pm; ☎ 02 47 61 22 23, 📍 locationdevelops.com), who allow you to drop the bike off at another town in their network for a small fee, depending on how far you've travelled.

when the formule is just €13. Daily noon–2pm & 7.30–10.30pm.

La Souris Gourmande 100 rue Colbert ☎ 02 47 47 04 80. Cheery local joint, where you'll be welcomed with a smile. The menu offers cheese dishes from all over France, including fondue (from €14), raclette and crêpes (from €8), and the cheese theme even extends to the decor. Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 7–10pm.

VILLANDRY

One of the Loire's most popular châteaux, Villandry (daily 9am–5pm, with later opening in summer; €10.50, €6.50 gardens only; 📍 chateauvillandry.fr) lies around 17km west of Tours. It boasts extraordinary ornamental Renaissance gardens that have marvellous views over the River Cher. The château itself dates from 1536 and has an interesting collection of Spanish paintings dating back to the seventeenth century.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bike There's no public transport, but Villandry is easy to reach by bike from Tours: cycle direct or take your bike on the train (3 daily; 12min) to Savonnières, 4km away.

By bus Shuttle buses operate July & Aug between Tours and the château (2–3 daily; 35min; timetables at 📍 filbleu.fr).

CHENONCEAU

Perhaps the finest Loire château is Chenonceau (daily 9.30am–5pm, with later opening in summer; €13; 📍 chenonceau.com), straddling the river 30km east of Tours. As with Villandry, the stunning formal gardens and beautiful river views are the highlight. The château's charming interior is preserved in pristine condition and houses an excellent collection of paintings and tapestries.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Regular trains run from Tours to the adjacent village of Chenonceaux (hourly; 30min) – note the additional “x” that differentiates it from the château.

CHINON

The ancient town of Chinon is an attractive and tranquil place to stop, with opportunities for kayaking on the River Vienne. The ruined fortress overlooking the town (daily 9.30am–5pm, later hours in summer; €8.50; 📍 forteressechinon.fr) offers glorious views and is a fascinating relic of France's historic past: parts of it date from the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. It's been sensitively renovated, with interactive guidebooks and video projections that bring the ruins to life.

ARRIVAL, INFORMATION AND TOURS

By train The station, a 15min walk east of town, has good connections to Tours (8 daily; 45min–1hr).

Tourist information place Hofheim (May–Sept daily 10am–1.30pm & 2–7pm; Oct–April Mon–Sat 10am–12.30pm & 2.30–6pm; ☎ 02 47 93 17 85, 📍 chinon-valdeloire.com).

Kayak tours CLAN (daily April to mid-Oct; ☎ 06 23 82 96 33, 📍 loisirs-nature.fr), on quai Danton next to the campsite, offer combined kayak and bike excursions and also rent sit-on kayaks (€7.50/hr).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Agnes Sorel 4 quai Pasteur ☎ 02 47 93 04 37, 📍 agnes-sorel.com. Delightful, family-run hotel well worth the schlep to the other side of town. The best of the modern, crisply decorated rooms have river views. Doubles €68

Café des Arts 4 rue Jean-Jacques-Rousseau ☎ 02 47 93 09 84. Offering reliable and reasonably priced brasserie grub at around €15 and specializing in local products, this café is especially popular with locals and visitors alike. Daily except Wed noon–2pm & 7.30–9.30pm.

Camping de l'Île-Auger quai Danton ☎ 02 47 93 08 35, 📍 camping-chinon.com. A 5min walk from the town, this campsite enjoys a lovely location by the river. Open April–Oct. Per person and tent €7

SAUMUR AND AROUND

SAUMUR is a peaceful, pretty riverside town, famous for its sparkling wine and as a centre of spirit distillation. Above town, the château (Tues–Sun 10am–1pm & 2–5.30pm, with longer hours in summer; €6; www.chateau-saumur.com) boasts great views, but only one wing is open to the public.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is on the north bank of the river; head over two bridges to the town.

Destinations Nantes (frequent; 1hr–1hr 30min); Tours (frequent; 40min).

11

Tourist information Quai Carnot (mid-May to Sept Mon–Sat 9.15am–7pm, Sun 10.30am–5.30pm; late Sept to mid-May Mon–Sat 9.15am–12.30pm & 2–6pm, Sun 10am–noon; 02 41 40 20 60, ot-saumur.fr).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Camping l'Île d'Offard Rue de Verden, l'Île d'Offard 02 41 40 30 00, saumur-camping.com. This combined campsite and centre de séjour has a swimming pool, small bar and restaurant. In addition to waterfront tent pitches, there's clean and cheerful hostel accommodation. Camping/two people €31, dorms €20, doubles €60

Le Pot de Lapin 35 rue Rabelais 02 41 67 12 86. A relaxed vibe and exceedingly friendly staff make this contemporary bistro-restaurant a hit with both locals and out-of-towners. The large and varied menu might include delights like boudin blanc (€13) and rabbit tartin (€15), as well as tapas. Tues–Sat noon–1.45pm & 7–9.30pm.

Le Volney 1 rue Volney 02 41 51 25 41, www.levolney.com. Simple, no-frills budget hotel that's great value, with clean rooms and comfy beds. Some rooms have shared showers. Doubles €48

ABBAYE DE FONTEVRAUD

The immense Abbaye de Fontevraud (daily: May–Oct 9.30am–6.30pm; Oct–April 10am–5pm; €11; abbayedefontevraud.com), 15km southeast of Saumur, was founded in 1099 as both a nunnery and a monastery with an abbess in charge. Its chief significance is as the burial ground of the Plantagenet kings and queens, notably Henry II, Eleanor of Aquitaine and Richard the Lionheart; some of the tombs are extraordinarily elaborate.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus The only way to get here by public transport is on the irregular bus #1 from Saumur (4–6 daily; 25min).

AMBOISE

Situated on the banks of the Loire, AMBOISE is a beautiful if heavily visited town. The main sight is the Château Royal d'Amboise (daily 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–4.45pm, with longer hours in summer; €11.20; chateau-amboise.com), holding a majestic spot overlooking the river. It was built in the eleventh century and saw further additions by successive royals. Leonardo da Vinci's final residence, Clos-Lucé, is also located here (daily 10am–5pm, with longer hours in summer; €15; vinci-closlucé.com), housing a collection of some of his inventions with models dotted around the surrounding gardens.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is a 15min walk north of town on the opposite bank of the river.

Destinations Orléans (10 daily; 1hr); Tours (at least 4 hourly; 20min).

Tourist information By the river on quai du Général de Gaulle (Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–12.30pm; 02 47 57 09 28, [amboise-valde Loire.co.uk](http://amboise-valde Loire.co.uk)).

ACCOMMODATION

Café des Arts 32 rue Victor Hugo 02 47 57 25 04, www.cafedesarts.net. This pleasant café has a collection of two- to four-bed rooms hidden upstairs, all kitted out with sturdy pine bunks. It's not a hostel, so you don't share with people you don't know, but the prices are just as reasonable. Doubles €45

Camping de l'Île d'Or 100 rue de l'Île d'Or 02 47 57 23 37, camping-amboise.com. A peaceful campsite located at the eastern end of l'Île d'Or. Camping/person €3.20, plus per tent €3.90

Le Blason 11 place Richelieu 02 47 23 22 41, leblason.fr. Built as a school in 1490, this charming hotel has exposed beams in all of the rooms. It's slightly old-fashioned, but full of character. Doubles €68

EATING AND DRINKING

Anne de Bretagne 1 place du Château 02 47 57 05 46. This simple crêperie is a good choice for an affordable meal; the €13.80 menu will get you a savoury galette, sweet crêpe and a bole of cider. Daily noon–10pm.

Le Shaker 3 quai François Tissard, l'Île d'Or. With views across the water to the château, this riverside cocktail bar and glacier serves gigantic, fruity creations from €9 and non-alcoholic shakes from €5. Tues–Sun 6pm–3am.

ORLÉANS

Due south of Paris, ORLÉANS became legendary when Joan of Arc delivered the city from the English in 1429. Stained-glass windows in the nave of the enormous, Gothic Cathédrale Sainte-Croix (daily 9.15am–6pm) tell the story of her life, from her childhood through to her heroic military career and her eventual martyrdom. Immediately opposite, the Musée des Beaux-Arts (Tues–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 1–6pm; €4) has an excellent collection of French paintings.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is a 15min walk north of the centre. Destinations Amboise (10 daily; 1hr); Paris (hourly; 1hr); Tours (8 daily; 1hr–30min).

Tourist information 2 place de l'Étape (Tues–Sat 10am–1pm & 2–5pm, with longer hours in summer; ☎ 02 38 24 05 05, 🌐 tourisme-orleans.com).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Archange 1 bd de Vedun ☎ 02 38 54 42 42, 🌐 hotelarchange.com. It's impossible not to smile on entering Archange, which is crammed with quirky artefacts, bold artworks and bohemian keepsakes. Each room has a distinct personality: from medieval in the Joan of Arc to monochrome in the yin-yang room. Doubles €49

Auberge de Jeunesse 7 av de Beaumarchais, 10km south of the city ☎ 02 38 53 60 06, 🌐 aubergedajeunesseorleans.fr; tram A to "Université l'Indien". Pleasant modern hostel with helpful staff, although it's a bit of a trek from the centre of town. Dorms €17

★ TREAT YOURSELF

De L'Abeille 64 rue Alsace-Lorraine ☎ 02 38 53 54 87, 🌐 hoteldelabeille.com. A luxurious, family-run boutique hotel, decorated with beautiful wallpaper and antique furniture. In summer you can enjoy views over to the cathedral from their roof terrace. Three- and four-bed rooms available (from €146). Doubles €79

EATING AND DRINKING

La Pause 14 place du Châtelet ☎ 06 22 11 09 78. Simple but tasty dishes are the order of the day here, with quality burgers (€13.50), bagels and light bites, plus good vegetarian options. Wed–Fri 11.30am–3pm & 6.30–10.30pm, Sat & Sun 11am–10.30pm.

Le P'tit Barcelone 218 rue de Bourgogne. A laidback student haunt, this budget bar has cheapish drinks (€3–4 for a beer or glass of wine) and a range of tapas (from €5) to accompany them. Mon–Sat 11.30am–2am, Sun 5pm–1am.

Burgundy

Burgundy has some charming towns and villages, as well as some of the country's finest food and drink. Dijon, the capital, is an affluent place with great shops and lovely architecture. Heading south, the small town of Beaune is a good destination to sample the best of the region's famous wine, and to try local specialities such as escargots à la bourguignonne and bœuf bourguignon.

DIJON

Most famous for its mustard, DIJON is an elegant, historic town, based around a range of classical squares and narrow, winding streets. The Palais des Ducs, in the heart of the city, is notable both for the fifteenth-century Tour Philippe le Bon (guided tours only; April–Nov daily; Dec–March Wed, Sat & Sun; €3) and the fourteenth-century Tour de Bar, which houses the magnificent Musée des Beaux-Arts (Mon & Wed–Sun: May–Oct 9.30am–6pm; Nov–April 10am–5pm; free), the highlight of which are the Flemish paintings. Just to the north lies the stunning thirteenth-century Gothic church of Notre-Dame (Mon–Sat 9am–6.30pm), the exterior north wall of which holds a well-worn sculpted owl (chouette), which people touch for luck.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Dijon's train station is a 15min walk west from the centre.

BURGUNDY VINEYARDS

The Burgundy vineyards are justly famous for their complex wines, made predominantly from Pinot Noir and Chardonnay grapes. The best way to explore them is on the Route des Grand Crus (📍 route-des-grands-crus-de-bourgogne.com), which takes in such places as Vougeot and Puligny Montrachet, famous for their high-calibre reds and whites respectively. The wine is cheaper if bought from source – expect to pay around €10 for a good bottle and €20 and upwards for an excellent one. If you fancy learning more about the wines, the École des Vins de Bourgogne in Beaune, 6 rue du 16<sup>e</sup> Chasseurs (📞 03 80 26 35 10, 📍 bourgogne-wines.com), offers crash courses in wine appreciation, some in English.

Destinations Beaune (1–3 hourly; 25min); Lyon (hourly; 2hr 10min); Paris (hourly; 1hr 30min); Reims (every 30min–1hr; 3hr 20min).

Tourist information 11 rue des Forges (April–Sept Mon–Sat 9.30am–6.30pm, Sun 10am–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 9.30am–1pm & 2–6pm, Sun 10am–4pm; 📞 08 92 70 05 58, 📍 visitdijon.com); there's another branch near the train station at 15 Cour de la Gare (same hours).

ACCOMMODATION

CRIS Dijon 1 av Champollion 📞 03 80 72 95 20, 📍 cri-dijon.com; bus #3 to “CRI-Dallas”. The local hostel is comfortable, cheap and has good self-catering facilities. The only drawback is that it's 2.5km from the centre. Dorms €23.10

Le Jacquemart 32 rue Verrerie 📞 03 80 60 09 60, 📍 www.hotel-lejacquemart.fr. A traditional hotel with warmly furnished rooms, the best with faux-marble bathrooms. The cheaper rooms aren't en suite. Doubles €40

Le Sauvage 64 rue Monge 📞 03 80 41 31 21, 📍 hotellesauvage.com. Beautifully restored fifteenth-century hotel in a central location with a good restaurant. Doubles €55

EATING AND DRINKING

Au Vieux Léon 52 rue Jeannin. Decorated like an old-fashioned French café on acid, this alternative – and strictly antifascist, as it proudly proclaims – café-bar is a student favourite, with a lively, friendly atmosphere. Bottles of wine from €10. Mon–Sat 6pm–1.30am.

Chez Copains 10 Rue Quentin 📞 03 80 40 20 10. The friendly, young proprietors and ingredients sourced in the adjacent market make this restaurant a hit. Try a Burgundian classic like œufs en meurette (poached eggs in red wine; £7). Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 7–10.30pm.

Le Shanti 69 rue Berbissey. Great little hookah joint, decked out with divans and South Asian decor, serving delicious teas, non-alcoholic cocktails, lassis and flavoured shisha. The food is all vegetarian – try the delicious Bombay burger. Dishes around €6–8. Mon–Sat noon–midnight.

BEAUNE

At the heart of the Côte d'Or region, BEAUNE is home to some of Burgundy's most prestigious wine cellars, many of which can be visited on guided tours (ask at the tourist office).

Its other major attraction is the fifteenth-century hospital, the Hôtel-Dieu on place de la Halle (daily: April to mid-Nov 9am–6.30pm; mid-Nov to March 9am–11.30am & 2–5.30pm; €7.50), now a museum with re-creations of the original wards and an exhibition of paintings and tapestries. On nearby rue d'Enfer is the old-fashioned Musée du Vin (April–Nov daily 9.30am–6pm; Dec–March Mon & Wed–Sun 11am–6pm; €5.80), which explains the history of the region's wine industry. The Marché aux Vins, 7 rue de l'Hôtel Dieu (daily: April–Oct 10am–7pm; Nov–March 10am–noon & 2–7pm; €11 for 6 wines), is a rather more taster-friendly experience, offering a self-guided tour of their modern cellars with some delectable wines to taste along the way.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Beaune station is a 10min walk east of the centre. Destinations Dijon (1–3 hourly; 25min); Lyon (hourly; 1hr 10min).

Tourist information 6 bd Perpreuil (Mon–Sat 9am–noon & 1–6pm, Sun 10am–12.30pm & 1.30–5pm, longer hours in summer; 📞 03 80 26 21 30, 📍 ot-beaune.fr).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Foch 24 bd Foch 📞 03 80 24 05 65, 📍 hotelbeaune-lefoch.fr. Eleven pleasant rooms above a little café, run by a helpful family; some rooms sleep up to four. Doubles €40

Le Bistrot Bourguignon 8 rue Monge 📞 03 80 22 23 24. Beaune's first wine bar has a good-value lunch menu (€14.90) featuring classics like confit canard, with wine from €3 a glass. Tues–Sat 11am–3pm & 6–11pm.

Les Cent Vignes 10 rue Auguste Dubois ☎ 03 80 22 03 91, ✉ campinglescentvignes@mairie-beaune.fr. Located just 1km out of Beaune, this good-value, pretty campsite has showers and a shop. Camping/person €4.80, plus per tent €5.20

Alsace and Lorraine

Dominated by the remarkable city of Strasbourg, Alsace often bears more similarity to Germany or Switzerland than to the rest of the country. The mélange of cultures is at its most vivid in the string of little wine towns that punctuate the Route des Vins along the eastern margin of the wet and woody Vosges mountains. The province of Lorraine is home to elegant eighteenth-century Nancy. Food and drink is excellent in the region, particularly the delicious white Rieslings and Gewürtztraminers, served at the winstubs (or wine rooms) that predominate and offer inexpensive, unpretentious food based around pork, veal and beef, often in stews or casseroles.

NANCY

NANCY, capital of Lorraine, is a refined and beautiful town of opulent squares and splendid boulevards. At the centre is place Stanislas, a supremely graceful square dominated by the Hôtel de Ville. The roofline of this UNESCO World Heritage Site is topped by florid urns and lozenge-shaped lanterns dangling from the beaks of gilded cockerels. On the west side of the square, the Musée des Beaux-Arts (Mon & Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €6; ☎ mban.nancy.fr) boasts work by Caravaggio, Delacroix, Matisse and Picasso as well as contemporary installations. A little to the north the Musée Lorrain, 64 Grande-Rue (Tues–Sun 10am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; €4), devoted to Lorraine's history, is housed in the splendid Palais Ducal.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Nancy's station is a 10min walk from place Stanislas.

Destinations Lyon (3 daily; 4hr); Paris (hourly; 1hr 30min); Strasbourg (hourly; 1hr 25min).

Tourist information 1 place Stanislas (May–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–5pm; Oct–April Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–1pm; ☎ 03 83 35 22 41, ✉ nancy-tourisme.fr).

ACCOMMODATION

Château de Rémicourt 149 rue de Vandoeuvre ☎ 03 83 27 73 67, ✉ fuaj.org; bus #134 or #135 from outside the station to "Lycée Stanislas". The local hostel is a 20min bus ride from town, but it's spacious and friendly. Dorms €15.30

Revotel 43 rue Raymond Poincaré ☎ 03 83 28 02 13, ✉ revotel-hotel.com. Just a 5min walk from the train station, this is a smartly decorated two-star with budget prices. The rooms are small, but they all come with flat-screen TV and free wi-fi. Doubles €50

EATING AND DRINKING

Bouche à L'Oreille 42 rue des Carmes ☎ 03 83 35 17 17. This bric-a-brac cluttered restaurant is the place to indulge a cheese craving; they have a huge range of tartiflettes and fondues, with good-value menus starting from €10.95 at lunchtime. Mon 7–10pm, Tues–Sat noon–1.30pm & 7–10pm.

Le Shortbus 2 ter rue de la Citadelle. Gay bar embraced by the mainstream student population. Packed to the rafters, loud and youthful, with a DJ spinning the decks after 10pm. Beers from €3. Wed–Sun 6pm–2am.

STRASBOURG

STRASBOURG is a major city with the feel of a charming provincial town. It has one of the loveliest cathedrals in France, an ancient but active university and is the current seat of the Council of Europe and the European Court of Human Rights, as well as part-time base of the European Parliament.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The Grand Île section of the city is the most striking, centred on two main squares, the busy place Kléber and, to the south, place Gutenberg, named after the fifteenth-century pioneer of printing type.

Cathédrale de Notre-Dame

The major landmark is the Cathédrale de Notre-Dame (daily 7–11.20am &

11

Musée de l'Oeuvre Notre-Dame

Petite France

Petite France is made up of winding streets bordered by sixteenth- and seventeenth-century houses. The name Petite France was given to the area by the Alsatians in the seventeenth century, having been a quarantine area for patients of a devastating sixteenth-century venereal disease attributed to the French.

The Musée d'Art Moderne et

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

Destinations Lille (daily; 3hr 20min); Nancy (9–13 daily; 1hr 20min); Paris (1–2 hourly; 2hr 20min).

Tourist information 17 place de la Cathédrale (daily 9am–7pm; ☎ 03 88 52 28 28, www.otstrasbourg.fr).

ACCOMMODATION

Hotels get booked up early when the parliament is in session (one week a month); check europarl.europa.eu.

Camping Indigo rue de l'Auberge de Jeunesse ☎ 04 37 64 22 34, camping-indigo.com; bus #2 from the train station to "Camping". This smart campsite offers simple pitches for tents, plus there's a pool on site, and free wi-fi. Per pitch with up to six people €26.50

Ciarus 7 rue de Finkmatt ☎ 03 88 15 27 88, ciarus.com. Pleasant and central hostel, set around a pretty internal courtyard and with a very cheap on-site restaurant. Dorms €27, twins €72

Etc... 7 rue de la Chaîne ☎ 03 88 32 66 60, etc-hotel.com. Surprisingly smart two-star just a short walk from the cathedral, offering cosy but nicely decorated rooms, some of which sleep up to four. Doubles €60

EATING

L'Épicerie 6 rue Vieux Seigle. A lovely café with vintage decor, situated in a reconstructed grocer's. Try one of their delicious tartines (open sandwiches) from €6.20. Daily 11.30am–1.30am.

★ La Corde à Linge 2 place Benjamin Zix ☎ 03 88 22 15 17. Popular brasserie with a prime location in La Petite France and a contemporary interior. The canal-side terrace is perfect for people-watching and the simple, tasty food includes large salads (from €12), spatzle pasta dishes (€11.50) and meaty Alsatian classics. Daily 11.45am–11pm.

DRINKING

Jeanette et les Cydeaux 30 rue des Tonneliers. Trendy, chilled-out bar serving wine (from €3.50), cocktails (from €7), milkshakes and light snacks. Daily 11.30am–1am.

L'Académie de la Bière 17 rue Adolphe-Seyboth. Head here for an enormous range of French and German beers: there are fifteen on tap with half-litres from €5.50. Daily 11am–4am.

The southwest

The varied landscapes of southwest France stretch from the vast horizons of Poitou-Charente to the ordered rows of Bordeaux's vineyards and the lush, heady green of the Dordogne. The Atlantic coast, lacking the busy glitz of the Côte d'Azur, has a slow, understated charm, best seen in La Rochelle. Further south, Bordeaux, justifiably famous for its wines, is a cosmopolitan and lively city that's worth a few days' exploration – from here, it's easy to strike east to Périgueux, a good base for exploring the nearby prehistoric caves, or south to the Basque coast, home to Biarritz, the country's surf capital, and Bayonne, with its fine old timber-framed buildings and excellent chocolatiers.

The Pyrenees, marking the very south of France, are home to some of the country's best walking and one of its most vibrant cities, the rose-brick university town of Toulouse, whose youthful energy is matched only by Montpellier. Medieval Carcassonne, between the two, is undoubtedly the biggest tourist trap of the region, but it's hard not to be wowed when you first see its fairytale spires rising above the surrounding buildings.

LA ROCHELLE

The lively port town of LA ROCHELLE has an exceptionally beautiful seventeenth- and eighteenth-century centre and is a very pleasant place to linger for a few days. Granted a charter by Eleanor of Aquitaine in 1199, it rapidly became a port of major importance, trading in salt and wine. Following a makeover in the 1990s, which established a university, pedestrianized the centre and moved out the fishing operation, La Rochelle has become the largest Atlantic yachting port in Europe, without the exclusivity of some of its Mediterranean counterparts.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The heavy Gothic gateway of the Porte de la Grosse Horloge straddles the entrance to the old town, dominating the pleasure-boat-filled inner harbour, which is guarded by two of La Rochelle's three sturdy towers, Tour de la Chaîne and Tour St-Nicolas (daily: April–Sept 10am–6.30pm; Oct–March 10am–1pm & 2.15–5.30pm; €8.50 for all three towers). Behind the Grosse Horloge, the main shopping street, rue du Palais, is lined with eighteenth-century houses and arcaded shop fronts. The excellent Musée du Nouveau Monde, 10 rue Fleuriau (July–Sept Mon & Wed–Fri 10am–1pm & 1.45–6pm, Sat & Sun 2–6pm; Oct–June Mon & Wed–Fri 9.30am–12.30pm & 1.30–5pm, Sat & Sun 2–6pm; €6), commemorates the town's dubious fortunes from slavery, sugar, spices and coffee.

For beaches – and bicycle paths – you're best off crossing over to the Île de Ré, a narrow, sand-rimmed island immediately west of La Rochelle (take one of the Rébus buses from place de Verdun). Out of season it has a slow, misty charm, centred on the cultivation of oysters and mussels; in summer it's packed to the gills.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane La Rochelle airport is located 2.5km northwest of the city. For the centre, take the #7 bus (Mon–Sat 7am–8.30pm; 20min) and get off at stop "Place de Verdun". On Sundays, take bus #47 to "Place de Verdun" (7am–8.30pm; 20min). Tickets cost €1.30 and can be bought on board.

By train From the train station, it's a 7min walk down av du Général de Gaulle to the town centre.

Destinations Bordeaux (7–14 daily; 2hr 20min); Cognac (6 daily; 1hr 20min–2hr); Nantes (5 daily; 1hr 50min); Paris (15–20 daily; 3hr 10min–4hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 2 quai Georges Simenon (April & May Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 9am–5pm; June & Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 9am–5pm; July & Aug Mon–Sat 9am–8pm, Sun 9am–7pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–1pm; ☎05 46 41 14 68, www.larochelle-tourisme.fr).

GETTING AROUND

By bike There are two municipal bike stations, run by Yélo (www.yelo.agglo-larochelle.fr): one in place Verdun (all year) and the other on quai Verlin near the tourist office (May–Sept). On handing over ID you get 1hr of free bike rental; after this it's €2 for the second hour and €3 per 30min afterwards.

ACCOMMODATION

FUAI La Rochelle av des Minimes ☎05 46 44 43 11, www.aj-larochelle.fr. Modern hostel, well positioned by Port des Minimes, a 30min walk from the station. The bright, nicely decorated rooms are all en suite; dinner is available and outdoor activities are often organized. From the station, follow signs to Porte des Minimes. Reception 8am–noon & 2–8pm. Dorms €17.50, doubles €47.60.

Hotel de l'Océan 36 cours des Dames ☎05 46 41 31 97, www.hotel-ocean-larochelle.com. This small, friendly hotel is decked out in blues and yellows. Rooms are en suite, and those at the front have excellent views of the port. Doubles €75.

Hotel les Rosiers 56 bd André Sautel ☎05 46 67 42 27, www.hotel-lesrosiers.com. Located a short walk from the old town, what this basic hotel lacks in style it compensates for in price. More expensive en suites also available. Doubles €75.

Le Soleil av Michel Crépeau ☎05 46 44 42 53. This municipal campsite has ping-pong, pétanque and hot showers, and allows barbecues. Fabulously located right by the sea, and just 800m from the town centre. Open late June to late Sept. Per person and tent €10.38.

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Corrigans 20 rue des Cloutiers. A low-key but convivial little place down a quiet street near the market. Serves reasonably priced beer, with Irish music sessions every Sunday. Tues–Sat 6pm–2am, Sun 7pm–1am.

★ Ernest le Glacière 48 cours des Dames. The only place to head if you're looking for ice cream, making use of the best ingredients in an array of imaginative flavours, from lemon meringue to rice pudding. From €3.20. There's another branch at 16 rue du Port (closed Mon). Mon–Sat 11.30am–11pm, Sun 11.30am–7pm.

L'Amaranthe 14 rue Bletterie ☎05 17 83 07 21. Seating only fifteen, it's all rather cosy but the changing menu here offers fresh, inventive dishes and the €16 lunch menu is excellent value. Tues–Sat noon–10pm.

La Guignette 8 rue Saint Nicolas ☎05 46 41 05 75. Formerly a sailor's haunt, this is a wine bar beloved of students, who come at l'heure de l'apéro for a glass of its eponymous aperitif – white wine flavoured with fruit. Mon–Sat 10.30am–1.30pm & 4.30–9pm, Sun 4.30–9pm.

Le Soleil Brille Pour Tour le Monde 13 rue des Cloutiers ☎05 46 41 11 42. Decked out with luminous yellow furniture and cutesy sun motifs, this family-run restaurant is as vibrant and cheery as its name suggests. The good vibes infuse the food too, with fresh market ingredients whipped into delicious tartes, varied salads (from €10.50) and great vegetarian options. Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 7.30–10pm.

COGNAC

COGNAC is shrouded in the heady scent of its famous brandy. Of the various cognac chais (distilleries) huddled around the end of the Grande-Rue, Baron Otard is one of the best choices for a guided tour (€10; www.baronotard.com), which recounts a history of the site, the principles of making cognac and, most importantly, a tasting.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is southeast of the town centre, about a 15min walk.

Destinations Bordeaux (frequent, via Angoulême; 1hr 50min–2hr 50min).

Tourist information 16 rue du 14 Juillet (May, June & Sept Mon–Sat 9.30am–5.30pm; July & Aug Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–5pm; Oct–April Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; ☎ 05 45 82 10 71, 🌐 tourism-cognac.com).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

L'Oliveraie 6 place de la Gare ☎ 05 45 82 04 15, 🌐 oliveraie-cognac.com. Though not exactly in the centre of town, this pleasant cheapie is right by the station and has simple rooms and a swimming pool. Doubles €62

Le St Jacques 8 rue Minotiers ☎ 05 45 32 43 07. Jolly worker's bistro with tables so close you can almost taste your neighbour's soup. Piquant, robust cooking and friendly service. Daily menus from €11 and the bar is open all day. Mon–Fri noon–2pm.

BORDEAUX

Though crammed with grand old buildings, BORDEAUX still has a surprisingly youthful feel. Café culture is in full swing here – indeed, one of the most pleasurable things about a visit to the city is sitting out on a sun-drenched terrace enjoying a glass or two of the region's fabulous wines. If you have time, and want to find out more about the justifiably world-famous wines of the region, it's definitely worth doing a wine tour (see box below).

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The centre of Bordeaux bends around the west bank of the Garonne River in a crescent moon shape – and is colloquially known as Porte de la Lune.

Le Triangle d'Or and Quinconces

The “golden triangle”, full of chic Parisian boutiques, runs between place Gambetta, with its eighteenth-century Porte Dijéaux, place de la Comédie with the classical 1780 Grand Théâtre, and place Tourny at the peak. In a breathtaking nineteenth-century colonial warehouse to the north of the vast Esplanade des Quinconces is the unmissable CAPC musée, 7 rue Ferrère (Tues–Sun 11am–6pm, Wed till 8pm; €4; 🌐 capc-bordeaux.fr). This is the finest contemporary art exhibition space in France, displaying pioneering national and international works with admirable use of space and lighting. The permanent collection includes Richard Long and Sol LeWitt, but the temporary installations are often the most exciting.

Sainte-Catherine, Saint Pierre and Place de la Victoire

The central pedestrian artery, rue Ste-Catherine, leads down from place de la Comédie to the Musée d'Aquitaine, 20 cours Pasteur (Tues–Sun 11am–6pm; €4; 🌐 musee-aquitaine-bordeaux.fr), which illustrates the history of the region from prehistoric times through to the 1800s. A few streets north stands the Cathédrale St-André (Mon 3–7.30pm, Tues–Sat 10am–noon & 2–6pm, Sun 9.30am–noon & 2–6pm, longer hours in summer), with its exquisite stained-glass windows and slender twin spires. Around the corner at 20 cours d'Albret, the Musée des Beaux-Arts (Mon & Wed–Sun

WINE TASTING IN THE BORDEAUX REGION

Along with Burgundy and Champagne, the wines of Bordeaux form the Holy Trinity of French viticulture. Bordeaux is mostly a red-wine region, growing high-class (and more expensive) Cabernet Sauvignon on the Left Bank (the countryside to the west of the Garonne River and Gironde estuary), while smaller growers make predominantly Merlot and Cabernet-Franc-based wines on the Right Bank. There are also some very good white wines, mainly from the Pessac and Graves regions to the south and southeast – largely based on Sauvignon Blanc and Semillon, that come in both dry and sweet forms. The easiest way to taste the wines is to visit the village of St Emilion, to the east of Bordeaux, where there are many wine shops that hold wine tastings. L'Envers du Décor, 11 rue du Clocher (☎ 05 57 74 48 31), is a good choice and has reasonable prices. The Bordeaux tourist office (see p.311) has information on château visits and wine tastings, and organizes a good variety of half- and full-day wine tours of the area.

11am–6pm; €4; musba-bordeaux.fr) displays works by Rubens, Matisse and Renoir, as well as Lacour's evocative 1804 Bordeaux dockside scene, Quai des Chartrons. To the east of the centre lies the striking place de la Bourse, best viewed from the river's edge, reflecting in the glassy Font du Miroir, while farther south you'll find the student-friendly place de la Victoire, surrounded by cafés, restaurants and late-night bars.

Lacanau

Bordeaux's nearest beach, Lacanau-Océan, is well known for its beautiful lake and famous for its world-class surfing. If you fancy catching some waves, take bus #702 from opposite gare St Jean (6 daily; 1hr 50min; €2.60 one-way). You can rent boards and learn to surf at Lacanau Surf Club (☎05 56 26 38 84, www.surflacanau.com), located on the corner of boulevard Plage and boulevard Liberty.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Bordeaux Mérignac airport, 12km west, is connected by regular shuttle bus (every 30min; €7.20) to Gare St Jean.

By train The station, Gare St-Jean, lies 2km southeast of central Bordeaux; bus #16 and tramline C run into town.

Destinations Bayonne (3–10 daily; 1hr 40min–2hr 10min); Biarritz (6–12 daily; 2hr–2hr 45min); La Rochelle (4–6 daily; 2hr–2hr 20min); Lourdes (3–10 daily; 2hr 20min–3hr); Marseille (5 daily; 4hr); Nice (3–8 daily; 9–10hr); Paris (14–18 daily; 4hr); Périgueux (1–9 daily; 1hr–1hr 30min); Toulouse (10–17 daily; 2hr–2hr 40min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 12 cours du 30-Juillet (May, June, Sept & Oct Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 9.30am–6.30pm; July & Aug Mon–Sat 9am–7.30pm, Sun 9.30am–6.30pm; Nov–April Mon–Sat 9am–6.30pm, Sun 9.45am–4.30pm; ☎05 56 00 66 00, www.bordeaux-tourisme.com). Organizes a plethora of wine and city tours. There are also branches at the train station and at the airport.

GETTING AROUND

By tram/bus The hubs of the comprehensive transport networks are place Gambetta for buses and Esplanade des Quinconces for trams. Buy tickets (€1.50) at the machines on the platforms before boarding and validate them on board.

By bike Bike rental from Liberty Cycles, 104 cours d'Yser (€10/day; book in advance; ☎05 56 92 77 18). There's also VCub, a city bicycle scheme with 31 stations across the city (first 30min free, €2/hr thereafter).

ACCOMMODATION

Bordeaux Youth Hostel 22 cours Barbey ☎05 56 33 00 70, www.auberge-jeunesse-bordeaux.com. A decent private hostel with a warm, relaxed vibe. A 15min walk from the centre by foot and a stone's throw from the station. Kitchen and laundry facilities available, and breakfast is included. Dorms €24

Choiseul 13 rue Huguerie ☎05 56 52 71 24, www.hotelchoiseul.com. Conveniently close to place Gambetta, this friendly hotel is great value. Check your room first as some are slightly cell-like. Every room has a private shower, but some share toilets. Doubles €58

Des Voyageurs 3bis av Thiers ☎05 56 86 18 00, www.hoteldesvoyageurs.net. This small two-star hotel is a short, picturesque walk from the centre across the Pont de

Pierre, and offers some of the nicest rooms in this price range. It has helpful staff and clean, well-furnished rooms. Doubles €75

★ Hôtel le Pavillon 6 rue Honoré Tessier ☎05 56 91 75 35, www.hotelpavillon.com. An absolute gem tucked away in the heart of town. Three tastefully furnished rooms with original art (the owner is a collector) and antiques. No en-suite bathrooms, but rooms have sinks. Doubles €40

Hôtel Notre Dame 36–38 rue Notre Dame ☎05 56 52 88 24, www.hotelnotredame33.fr. Just 10min from the Esplanade des Quinconces in Bordeaux's elegant antiques quarter, with small but pleasant rooms, all en suite. Doubles €59

La Villa Zénith 16 av Adjudant Guittard, Lacanau ☎06 84 60 88 08, www.lacanau-zenith.com. Out in Lacanau, but just 200m from the beach, with comfy dorms and rooms, a garden, cooking facilities and equipment lockers. Dorms €26, doubles €70

EATING

Baud & Millet 19 rue Huguerie. Enjoy a leisurely glass of wine (from €4) and a huge bowl of fondue to share (€18) at this fantastic wine shop where the friendly Monsieur Baud speaks excellent English. Mon–Sat 11am–11pm.

Fufu 37 rue St-Remi. A well-loved Japanese noodle bar in the heart of town; eat at the long bar, watching the chefs fry your noodles, or take away a hot box of ramen (from €8) and perch on a bench next to the Garonne, a few minutes' walk away. Tues–Sat noon–3pm & 7–11pm.

Le Café d'Utopia 5 place Camille Jullian. A lively, casual place in a beautiful old building that houses the Utopia arthouse cinema. Try one of their huge sandwiches (from €5.50) or delicious gourmet salads (from €8). May–Sept daily noon–10.30pm; Oct–April Mon–Fri noon–3pm & 7–10.30pm, Sat & Sun noon–10.30pm.

Le Plat dans l'Assiette 8 rue Ausone ☎05 56 01 05 01. One whole menu on a plate – that's the hook here – but it's no haute cuisine gimmick; the cheapest of the assiettes – the Impression fromage levant at €16.50 – still crams in roast camembert, gouda with cumin and speck, among relatively healthy stuff. Tues–Sat 7.30–10pm.

Michel's Bistro & Brasserie 15 rue du Pas-Saint Georges. A charming corner bistro with a sunny terrace, Michel's makes a great stop, with excellent mains from just €11, such as boudin noir with apples, and a number of beautifully presented (and delicious) desserts. Mon–Sat 8am–midnight, Sun 4–10pm.

Paul's Place 76 rue Notre Dame. Paul graciously welcomes you into his place, a delightful treasure-trove of old books, paintings and curios, while his son Jack prepares the good-value menu (€12.50). Host to regular film nights, poetry readings and gigs; glass of wine €2.80, beer €3.20. Tues noon–2.30pm, Wed–Fri noon–2.30pm & 6pm–midnight, Sat noon–2.30pm & 4.30pm–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Bar à Vin du CIVB 1 cours du 30 Juillet. As promoters for Bordeaux wine growers and home to a wine-tasting school, the bar here is a good place to sample the region's excellent wines (from €2.50). Mon–Sat 11am–10pm.

Black Velvet Bar 9 rue du Chai des Farines ☎ 09 51 34 28 73. The atmospheric arches host regular concerts and open mic nights every Sunday – doubly intoxicating when combined with the happy hour (6–8pm). Mon–Sat 6pm–2am, Sun 6pm–midnight.

HMS Victory 3 Place Général Sarraill ☎ 05 56 92 78 47. Expect a packed dancefloor and merrymaking spilling onto the terrace at this lively student pub where you're welcome to bring your own food. Beer from €3. Happy hours: Mon–Fri 3–8pm, Sat & Sun 5–7pm. Live music Fri & Sat. Mon–Fri 3pm–2am, Sat 1.30pm–2am, Sun 2pm–midnight.

DIRECTORY

Consulates UK, 353 bd du Président-Wilson ☎ 05 57 22 21 10; USA, 10 place de la Bourse ☎ 05 56 48 63 80.

Health Centre Hospitalier Pellegrin-Tripode, place Amélie-Raba-Léon ☎ 05 56 79 56 79), to the west of central Bordeaux.

Police Commissariat Central, 23 rue François-de-Sourdis ☎ 05 57 85 77 77 or ☎ 17 in emergencies).

PÉRIGUEUX

The bustling market town of PÉRIGUEUX, with its beautiful Renaissance and medieval centre, makes a fine base for visiting the Dordogne's prehistoric caves.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Place de la Clautre sits at the heart of the medieval old town, presided over by the striking Cathédrale St-Front (daily: April–June, Sept & Oct 8.30am–7pm; July & Aug 9am–8pm; Nov–March 8.30am–6pm) – its square, pineapple-capped belfry surging above the roofs of the surrounding medieval houses. During a nineteenth-century restoration, the architect Paul Abadie added five Byzantine domes to the roof, which served as a prototype for his more famous Sacré Cœur in Paris (see p.288). If you head north along rue St-Front, you'll reach the Musée d'Art et d'Archéologie du Périgord, at 22 cours Tourny (April–Sept Mon & Wed–Fri 10.30am–5.30pm, Sat & Sun 1–6pm; Oct–March Mon & Wed–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 1–6pm; €5.50; ☎ perigueux-maap.fr), which boasts some beautiful Gallo-Roman mosaics found locally.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is a 15min walk from the cathedral.

Destinations Bordeaux (9–15 daily; 1hr 15min–1hr 30min); Les Eyzies (4–8 daily; 35min).

Tourist information 6 place Francheville (mid-June to mid-Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; mid-Sept to mid-June daily 9am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; ☎ 05 53 53 10 63, ☎ tourisme-perigueux.fr). It has a factsheet detailing how to get to the caves and back in a day (see opposite).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Barnabé 80 rue des Bains ☎ 05 53 53 41 45, ☎ barnabe-perigord.com. This peaceful campsite enjoys an excellent position on the banks of the River Isle. Plots are shady, and there's a bar, ping-pong and mini-golf on site. To get there cross pont des Barris and follow the south riverbank for 20min. April–Oct. Per person €4.80, plus per tent €4.

★ Des Barris 2 rue Pierre Magne ☎ 05 53 53 04 05, ☎ hoteldesbarris.com. A lovely little eighteenth-century hotel with twelve simple but attractive wood-furnished rooms. All are en suite and the best have views across the river to the cathedral. Doubles €55.

Ibis 8 bd Georges Saumande ☎ 05 53 53 64 68, ☎ ibis.com. The only hotel in the city where all the rooms boast either a river or – even better – a cathedral view, which makes up for their otherwise bare functionality. The lobby is deceptively grand, but staff are helpful. Book online for the best rates. Doubles €59.

EATING AND DRINKING

Café Louise 10 place de l'Ancien Hôtel de Ville ☎ 05 53 08 93 85. This intimate maison gourmande is very popular for its blend of Italian and French flavours. Menus start from €14.50 and might include dishes like ravioli of foie gras. In fine weather you can sit out on the lovely place. Wed–Sun noon–midnight.

Le Saint Louis 26bis rue Equillerie ☎ 05 53 53 53 90. An unpretentious bar-brasserie on one of the city's loveliest squares. Sit out under the umbrellas on the cobblestones, or inside the surprisingly smart interior. Menus start from €20 in the evenings, including dishes like scallops in a creamy pepper sauce. Mon–Sat 10am–11pm.

Les Toqués 38 rue Pierre Semard. An Irish pub/gig venue with over 160 bottled beers and seven on tap. The place accelerates from quiet evening drinks to no-holds-barred rowdiness at the drop of a hat. Mon–Wed 10am–2pm, Thurs 10am–2pm & 6–10pm, Fri 10am–2pm & 6pm–2am.

VÈZÈRE VALLEY CAVES

This lavish cliff-cut region, riddled with caves and subterranean streams, is half an hour or so by train from Périgueux. Cro-Magnon skeletons were unearthed here in 1868, and since then an incredible wealth of archeological evidence about the life of late Stone Age people has been found. The paintings that adorn the caves are remarkable not only for their age, but also for their exquisite colouring and the skill with which they were drawn.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The centre of the region is LES EYZIES, a rambling, somewhat unattractive village dominated by tourism. Worth a glance before or after visiting the caves is the Musée National de la Préhistoire (July & Aug daily 9.30am–6.30pm; June & Sept Mon & Wed–Sun 9.30am–6pm; Oct–May Mon & Wed–Sun 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–5.30pm; €6; musee-prehistoire-eyzies.fr).

Font de Gaume caves

Just outside Les Eyzies, off the road to Sarlat, the Grotte de Font-de-Gaume (Mon–Fri & Sun: mid-May to mid-Sept 9.30am–5.30pm; mid-Sept to mid-May 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–5.30pm; €7.50; 05 53 06 86 00, sites-les-eyzies.fr) contains dozens of polychrome paintings, the colour remarkably preserved by a protective layer of calcite. The tours last 45 minutes, but only 80 people are admitted each day with a maximum of twelve people per group, so to be sure of a place you should reserve in advance by phone or arrive before 9.30am.

The Cap Blanc frieze

The Abri du Cap Blanc (Mon–Fri & Sun: mid-May to mid-Sept 10am–6pm; mid-Sept to mid-May 10am–12.30pm & 2–5.30pm; €7.50; 05 53 06 86 00, sites-les-eyzies.fr) is a steep 7km bike ride from Les Eyzies. This is not a cave but a rock shelter, containing a 15,000-year-old frieze of horses and bison; of only ten surviving prehistoric sculptures in France, this is undoubtedly the best.

Grotte des Combarelles

Three kilometres from Les Eyzies is the Grotte des Combarelles (Mon–Fri & Sun: mid-May to mid-Sept 9.30am–5.30pm; mid-Sept to mid-May 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–5.30pm; €7.50, sites-les-eyzies.fr), whose engravings of humans, reindeer and mammoths from the Magdalanian period (about 12,000 years ago) are the oldest in the region.

Lascaux

Up the valley of the Vézère River to the northeast, Montignac is more attractive than Les Eyzies. Its prime interest is the cave paintings at nearby Lascaux – or, rather, the tantalizing replica at Lascaux IV (due to open late 2016; for up-to-date information, visit projet-lascaux.com, or speak to the tourist office in Montignac). Produced 17,000 years ago, the paintings are considered the finest prehistoric works in existence; the original has been closed since 1963 due to deterioration caused by the breath and body heat of visitors. The new replica experience aims to create the feeling of being inside the original cave, at a safe distance from Lascaux itself.

ARRIVAL

Les Eyzies The train station is a short walk northwest of town, and is served by trains from Périgueux (5–7 daily; 30–40min).

Montignac Buses run from place Tourny to Périgueux, but you'll need to reserve in advance (05 53 59 01 48).

INFORMATION

Les Eyzies On the main street (Jan–March, Nov & Dec Mon–Fri 10am–12.30pm & 2–5pm; April & Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; May, June & Sept Mon–Sat 9.30am–12.30pm & 2–6pm, Sun 9.30am–12.30pm; July & Aug daily 9am–6.30pm; 05 53 06 97 05, lascaux-dordogne.com).

Montignac place Bertran-de-Born (July & Aug daily 9am–6.30pm; Sept–June Mon–Fri/Sat 9.30/10–12.30pm & 2–5/6pm; 05 53 51 82 60, lascaux-dordogne.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Des Falaises av de la Préhistoire, Les Eyzies 05 53 06 97 35, hotel-d-falaises@wanadoo.fr. At the quieter end of the main drag, this is the cheapest option in Les Eyzies. Rooms are fairly plain, but enlivened with colourful bed covers, and all are en suite. Doubles €45

Le Moulin du Bleufond av Aristide Briand, Montignac ①05 53 51 83 95, ②bleufond.com. On the riverbank 500m downstream from the centre of Montignac, this is a well-tended and very popular three-star campsite, with a great pool. Two people and a tent €25.30

BIARRITZ

A former Viking whaling settlement, BIARRITZ became famous in the nineteenth century when Empress Eugénie came here with the last French Emperor, Napoleon III. He built her a seaside palace in 1855, and an impressive list of kings, queens and tsars followed, bringing belle époque and Art Deco grandeur to the resort. Today Biarritz is the undisputed surf capital of Europe, hosting the prestigious week-long Surf Festival in July, which includes a longboard competition and nightly parties on the Côte des Basques beach. Despite its surf cachet, the town feels as though its glory days are well past, and it's actually a rather traditional (and tacky) seaside resort that can't compete with the Côte d'Azur.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The town's beaches are the main attraction. The best surfing is on the long competition beach, plage de la Côte des Basques, to the south – those less interested in surfing should try the intimate Port-Vieux beach for a calmer swim. A free beach shuttle, the Océane bus (Ligne 10), connects all the major beaches from Anglet to Ilbarritz in high season, departing from Biarritz Gare or outside the municipal casino on 1 boulevard du Général de Gaulle (July & Aug daily every 12min; ③anglet-tourisme.com).

The Biarritz Aquarium, plateau Atalaye (April–June, Sept & Oct daily 9.30am–8pm; July & Aug daily 9.30am–midnight; Nov–March Tues–Sun 9.30am–7pm; €14.50; ④museedelamer.com), has one of Europe's best aquarium collections, including hammerhead sharks, turtles and seals. Asiatica, at 1 rue Guy Petit (Mon–Fri 2–6.30pm, Sat & Sun 2–7pm; €10; ⑤museeasiatica.com), uphill and left off avenue Foch, houses an impressive collection of oriental art, including medieval jades and religious icons.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Biarritz airport is 4km inland from the town centre. Bus #14 (€1) heads into Biarritz.

By train The station is 4km southeast of the centre in La Négresse. Bus #A1 and #10 run between the station and the town centre.

Destinations Bayonne (14 daily; 15–30min); Bordeaux (hourly; 2hr 15min).

By bus Buses to Bayonne (#A1 & #A2) can be picked up from avenues Edouard VII and Louis Barthou respectively, beside the tourist office.

INFORMATION

Tourist information Square d'Ixelles (April–June & Sept to mid-Oct Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; July & Aug daily 9am–7pm; mid-Oct to March Mon–Fri 10am–noon & 2–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–1pm; ①05 59 22 37 00, ②tourisme.biarritz.fr).

GETTING AROUND

By bus Local operator Chronoplus have an information kiosk (①05 59 24 26 53, ②www.chronoplus.eu) near the main bus hub. Two free shuttle services operate from Square d'Ixelle (Mon–Sat 7.30am–7.30pm) – one for the town centre (every 10min) and another for the suburb of Saint-Charles (every 20min).

By bike and scooter Solibo, 24 rue Peyroloubilh (①05 59 24 94 47), rents bikes and scooters; ID and credit card required (€20/day).

ACCOMMODATION

Biarritz Camping 28 rue Harcet ①05 59 23 00 12, ②biarritz-camping.fr. This reasonably basic campsite 3km south of town is the nearest to Biarritz, with a small pool and shop; the beach is a 10min walk. Early April to Sept. Two people plus tent €36

FUAI Biarritz 8 rue Chiquito de Cambo ①05 59 41 76 00, ②fua.org; bus #9, #A1, or route B bus on Sun to "Bois de Boulogne". Just 1.5km from the beach and close to the station and the lake, this fantastic hostel has two- to four-bed dorms, rents out bicycles and has some good deals on surf lessons. Dorms €28.70

La Marine 1 rue des Goélands ①05 59 24 34 09, ②hotel-lamarine-biarritz.com. The best-value budget option in town offers a warm reception and has an ideal location near the old port. All rooms are en suite but can get a bit noisy thanks to the brasserie downstairs. Doubles €60

★ Surf Hostel Biarritz 27 av de Mignon ①06 63 34 27 45, ②surfhostelbiarritz.com. The hippest hostel on the west coast, with bikes, boards and a hearty breakfast all included in the price. It is a bit out of the way; however, hostel shuttle buses run to and from the surf as well as the train station and airport. Booking essential. April–Oct. Dorms €40

EATING AND DRINKING

★ Bar Jean 5 rue des Halles ☎ 05 59 24 80 38. Noisy and intimate, and with a lengthy list of fine Riojas, this local tapas favourite is the perfect place to pass any evening. Tapas around €3.50, paella €20. Very popular so worth booking ahead. Daily 9am–3pm & 6.30pm–1.30am; Oct–May closed Tues & Wed; closed Jan.

Crampotte 30 Port des Pêcheurs ☎ 05 35 46 91 22. An ideal place for an aperitif in the early evening, overlooking the pretty Petit Port. Try the plates of Basque ham and cheese (to share €8.90) with a glass of Basque cidre (€3.50). Wed–Sun 11am–11pm.

Le Surfing plage de Côte des Basques, 9 bd Prince de Galles. A sea-view shrine to the sport positioned near the water's edge, serving an interesting array of fish, meat and veggie dishes, from fish and chips to mee goring and risotto, with mains starting from €11. Wed–Sun 9am–2.30pm & 7.30–10.30pm.

Les Halles place Sobradieu. This recently restored halles is a fantastic spot to savour fresh, inexpensive seafood and local delicacies. Try fresh oysters and a glass of wine at L'Ecaillerie, a simple seafood stand that supplies most restaurants in town, yet whose €5-or-less dishes don't reflect restaurant prices. Daily 7am–1.30pm.

Miremont Pâtisseries place Clémenceau. Established in 1872, this opulent boutique-cum-tearoom-cum-restaurant serves up devastatingly pretty cakes (from €2.50); the restaurant at the back has nice sea views. Daily 9am–8pm.

BAYONNE

Capital of the French Basque country and home of the bayonet, BAYONNE lies 6km inland at the junction of the Nive and Adour rivers. Having escaped the worst effects of mass tourism, it remains a cheerful and pretty town, with the shutters on the older half-timbered houses painted in the distinctive Basque tones of green and rust-red.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The town's two medieval quarters line the banks of the Nive, whose quays are home to many bars and restaurants. Grand Bayonne on the west bank is the administrative and commercial centre, while Petit Bayonne, to the east, has a more bohemian feel and is full of places to eat and drink. Chocolate-making techniques were brought to Bayonne by Jewish chocolatiers fleeing the Spanish Inquisition. It was here that a devilish brew, hot chocolate, was introduced to the country, much to the distaste of the Catholic Church due to its aphrodisiac qualities – the best place in town to try it is Cazenave (see p.316).

Petit Bayonne

On quai des Corsaires, along the Nive's east bank, stands the Musée Basque (April–June & Sept Tues–Sun 10am–6.30pm; July & Aug daily 10am–6.30pm, Thurs till 8.30pm; Oct–March Tues–Sun 10.30am–6pm; €6.50; ☎ musee-basque.com), which provides a comprehensive overview of modern Basque culture.

Grand Bayonne

The Cathédrale Ste-Marie (daily 9am–12.30pm & 2–5pm), across the Nive, looks best from a distance, its twin spires rising with airy grace above the houses; the cloister rewards a visit with a good view of the stained glass and buttresses.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train and bus The train station is just off place de la République on the north bank of the Adour. Buses from Biarritz also arrive here.

Destinations Biarritz (every 30min; 10min); Bordeaux (hourly; 2hr); Hendaye (for the Spanish border; every 30min; 40min); Lourdes (4–6 daily; 1hr 40min; Paris (14–16 daily, some indirect; 4hr 45min–6hr); St Sébastien (from Hendaye; every 30min; 45min); Toulouse (3 daily; 3hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 25 place des Basques (July & Aug Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–1pm; Sept–June Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat 10am–6pm; ☎ 08 20 42 64 64, ☎ bayonne-tourisme.com). It has an excellent scheme that lends bikes for free.

ACCOMMODATION

Hôtel des Arceaux 26 rue Port-Neuf ☎ 05 59 59 15 53. Many rooms don't have exterior windows, which can prove stuffy on hot days, but the hotel nevertheless has a pleasantly quirky character, with an agreeable mishmash of antique and faux-antique furniture. Doubles €70

Hôtel le Port Neuf 44 rue Port-Neuf ☎ 05 59 25 65 83. Excellently located within the picturesque old town and a 10min walk from the station. The rooms are stylishly furnished with en-suite bathrooms. Doubles €60

Monte Carlo 1 rue Sainte Ursule ☎ 05 59 55 02 68. Basic and charmless rooms, albeit with a handy location opposite the station. The restaurant and bar below may prove noisy at night. Doubles €40

EATING AND DRINKING

★ Auberge du Petit Bayonne 23 rue des Cordeliers ☎ 05 59 59 83 44. The welcome is warm and the food hearty at this husband-and-wife-run place. Be sure to try the roasted suckling lamb (agneau de lait) if it's available. Menus €11–19.50. Mon & Thurs–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7.30–10pm, Tues & Sun noon–2pm.

Chocolat Cazenave 19 Arceaux du Pont-Neuf. The pick of Bayonne's chocolatiers; try the famous chocolat mousseux – delicious, hand-whipped hot chocolate served with chantilly cream (€5.50) – with a serving of their hot, buttered toast (€3). Tues–Sat 9.15am–noon & 2–7pm.

La Karafe 25 quai Jaureguiberry. This cheap and lively wine bar is the place to go for pintxos (tapas), which might include local sheep cheese, magret de canard or chorizo (from €3), with glasses of wine starting from €2.50. Mon–Thurs 6pm–late, Fri & Sat noon–2.30pm & 6pm–late.

LOURDES

In 1858 Bernadette Soubirous, the 14-year-old daughter of a poor local miller in LOURDES, had eighteen visions of the Virgin Mary in a spot called the Grotte de Massabielle. Miraculous cures at the grotto soon followed and Lourdes grew exponentially; it now sees six million Catholic pilgrims a year and whole streets are devoted to the sale of religious kitsch. At the grotto itself – a moisture-blackened overhang by the riverside with a statue of the Virgin inside – long queues of the faithful process

HIKING IN THE PYRENEES

From either Gavarnie or Barèges, a few hours on the Pyrenees-spanning hiking trail, GR10, or the harder HRP (Haute Randonnée Pyrénéenne), brings you to staffed alpine refuges (rough camping is not generally allowed in the park). In summer, serious and properly equipped hikers may wish to continue on the trails, which are well served with refuges, though the weather and terrain make them highly dangerous in winter. The Lourdes and Bayonne tourist offices have information, or check ☎ lespyrenees.net.

through. Above looms the first, neo-Gothic church built here, in 1871; nearby the massive subterranean basilica has a capacity of twenty thousand.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Lourdes train station is on the northeastern edge of town.

Destinations Bayonne (6 daily; 1hr 40min); Biarritz (frequent; 2hr 20min–4hr 10min); Toulouse (frequent; 2–3hr).

By bus The gare routière is located in the central place Capdevielle. There are two public transport networks, Ma Ligne and TER Midi-Pyrénées.

Destinations Barèges (7 daily; 1hr 17min); Gavarnie (June–Sept 1 daily; 1hr 40min).

Tourist information place Peyramale (Jan to mid-March, Nov & Dec Mon–Sat 9am–noon & 2–5.30pm; mid-March to May & Oct Mon–Sat 9am–12.30pm & 1.30–6.30pm, Sun 10am–12.30pm; June & Sept Mon–Sat 9am–6.30pm, Sun 10am–12.30pm; July & Aug Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; ☎ 05 62 42 77 40, ☎ lourdes-infotourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Hotel Croix des Nordistes 29 bd de la Grotte ☎ 05 62 94 28 57, ☎ hotelcroixdesnordistes-lourdes.com. There's an abundance of inexpensive hotels in Lourdes, including this simple place. Doubles €42

Plein Soleil 11 av du Monge ☎ 05 62 94 40 93, ☎ camping-pleinsoleil.com. A well-equipped campsite with swimming pool, on-site bar and spotless facilities within close proximity of Lourdes. Camping for two people and tent €24

GAVARNIE AND BARÈGES

From Lourdes train station, several SNCF buses run daily to Gavarnie and Barèges, two resorts near the heart of the Parc National des Pyrénées Occidentales. Gavarnie is smaller and pricier than Barèges, but has an incomparable natural amphitheatre towering above, forming the border with Spain. From these two bases, you can embark on hikes in the park (see box above).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping La Bergerie Chemin du Cirque, Gavarnie ☎ 05 62 92 48 41, ☎ camping-gavarnie-labergerie.com. A lovely campsite with basic facilities and a small on-site bar. The pitches are discreetly located in terraces to preserve the beauty of the surrounding landscape. June–Sept. Per person €3.90, plus per tent €3.40

Gîte L'Oasis 2 Pass Toys, Barèges ☎05 62 92 69 47, gite-oasis.com. A comfortable family-run gîte. Rooms are en suite, cosily furnished, and some have mountain views with balconies. Breakfast included with dorms; doubles are half-board. Dorms €25, doubles €92

La Ribère Route de Labatus, Barèges ☎05 62 92 69 01, laribere.com. One of the highest campsites in the French Pyrenees, offering stunning mountain views. Over 50 terrace-based pitches, with good, clean facilities. Camping for two people and tent €16

TOULOUSE

TOULOUSE is one of the most vibrant provincial cities in France, thanks to its sizeable student population – second only to that of Paris. The city has long been a centre for aviation – St-Exupéry and Mermoz flew out from here on their pioneering flights over Africa in the 1920s – and has more recently been developed as the country's centre of high-tech industry.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The centre of Toulouse is a rough hexagon clamped around a bend in the wide, brown Garonne River.

Place du Capitole and the old city

The place du Capitole is the site of Toulouse's town hall and a prime meeting place, with numerous cafés and a mammoth Wednesday market. South of the square, and east of rue Alsace-Lorraine, lies the old town. The predominant building material is the flat Toulousain brick, whose cheerful rosy colour gives the city its nickname of ville rose. Best known of these buildings is the Hôtel d'Assézat, west towards the river end of rue de Metz, which houses the marvellous private art collection of the Fondation Bemberg (Tues–Sun 10am–12.30pm & 1.30–6pm, Thurs till 9pm; €8; fondation-bemberg.fr), including excellent works by Bonnard.

St-Sernin

Rue du Taur leads northwards from place du Capitole to place St-Sernin and the largest Romanesque church in France, Basilique de St-Sernin (daily 8.30am–6pm). Dating back to 1080, it was built to accommodate passing hordes of Santiago pilgrims and is one of the loveliest examples of its kind.

Les Jacobins

West of place du Capitole, on rue Lakanal, the church of Les Jacobins (Tues–Sun 9am–7pm) is another impressive ecclesiastical building. This is a huge fortress-like rectangle of unadorned brick, with an interior divided by a central row of slender pillars from whose capitals springs a colourful splay of vaulting ribs.

Across the Garonne

Across the Pont-Neuf on the west bank of the Garonne stands the brick tower of the inspirational Châteaux d'Eau (Tues–Sun 1–7pm; €3.50; galerie.chateaud'eau.org), the first public gallery dedicated to photography in France and holding over four thousand pieces, along with antique equipment. Continue west from the river, then north up Allées de Fitte to the vaulted nineteenth-century slaughterhouse, Les Abattoirs (Wed–Sun noon–6pm; €7), whose comprehensive modern and contemporary art collections include a striking 8m-high Picasso theatre screen.

Aeroscopia

The city's major new aerospace museum, Aeroscopia (daily 9.30am–6pm; €11.50), is located right next to the airport (see below) and celebrates the city's close links with air travel. There are all sorts of sleek flying machines on display, from huge commercial Airbuses to supersonic military planes, alongside fascinating behind-the-scenes information about how these remarkable craft are made and then handled in mid-air.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Aéroport Toulouse-Blagnac (toulouse.aeroport.fr) is 5km northwest of the town centre; shuttle buses connect to Gare Matabiau (every 20min, 5.30am–12.15am; 20min; €8). Alternatively, take the T2 tram (every 15min; €1.60) from the airport to Palais du Justice.

By bus and train Trains arrive into Gare Matabiau, buses into the gare routière, just to the right of the former on bd Pierre Semard, a 15min walk from the city centre down allées Jean-Jaurès. For details on buses to Andorra, see www.andorabybus.com.

Destinations (train) Barcelona (3 daily, via Narbonne; 4hr 50min–5hr 45min); Bayonne (18–22 daily; 2hr 30min–3hr 45min); Bordeaux (18–22 daily; 2hr 30min); Carcassonne (18 daily; 45min–1hr 15min); Lourdes (8–16 daily; 1hr 40min); Lyon (14–18 daily; 4–6hr); Marseille (22 daily; 3hr 30min–6hr); Paris (13 daily; 5hr 20min–6hr 45min).

Destinations (bus) Andorra (2 daily; 3hr 30min); Carcassonne (1 daily; 2hr 20min).

INFORMATION AND GETTING AROUND

Tourist information Square Charles de Gaulle, by Capitole métro station (June–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10.30am–5.15pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–12.30pm & 2–6pm, Sun 10am–12.30pm & 2–5pm; ☎ 08 92 18 01 80, www.toulouse-tourisme.com).

By bike VélôToulouse bike stands can be found throughout the city – credit card guarantee required (first 30min free, around €2/hr thereafter).

ACCOMMODATION

Ambassadeurs 68 rue Bayard ☎05 61 62 65 84, hotel-des-ambassadeurs.com. This friendly, family-run hotel offers spacious, good-value rooms, all en suite. Its location can't be beaten, a mere 5min walk from the station and 15min from the centre. Doubles €54

Auberge de Jeunesse Ô Toulouse 2 av Yves Brunaud ☎05 34 30 42 80, otoulouse.org. Though not very central, this hotel is only 1km from the station and offers simple but clean dorm rooms. Dorms €19

Camping le Rupé 21 chemin du Pont de Rupé ☎05 61 70 07 35, camping-toulouse.com; bus #59 to Rupé. The closest campsite, just north of the city in a leafy park, with waterskiing and fishing spots nearby. Two people and tent €21.20

Croix Baragnon 17 rue Croix-Baragnon ☎05 61 52 60 10, hotelcroixbaragnon.com. Surprisingly airy rooms in this rarest of things, a central budget hotel. Be prepared to climb some stairs as there's no lift available. Doubles €68

Petite Auberge St Sernin 17 rue d'Embarthe ☎07 60 88 17 17, lapetiteaubergedesaintsernin.com. A fantastic and friendly hostel in a buzzing part of town. Four-, six- and eight-bed dorms, some of which overlook a public park, with kitchenette and en-suite bathrooms. No arrival after 10.30pm. Dorms €22

EATING

Benjamin 7 rue des Gestes ☎05 61 22 92 66. A long-standing favourite for economical terroir food; service is pleasant and professional, although the atmosphere is somewhat anonymous. There's a wide selection of duck-based lunch and dinner menus from €17–23. Daily noon–2.30pm & 7.30–11pm.

La Petite Ile 30 rue des Salenques ☎05 61 21 54 31. A restaurant reunaonnais popular for its excellent-value Creole-inspired cuisine. The plat du jour consists of three changing dishes – a rougail (typical Creole dish using spices and tomatoes), a curry and a masala – and, at €7.50, is a bargain given the huge portions. Mon–Wed & Fri noon–3pm, Thurs noon–3pm & 6.30–10.30pm.

Le Sherpa 46 rue du Taur ☎05 61 23 89 29. The extensive menu of this busy crêperie and tea place is not only cheap (from €3) but encompasses every possible combination of filling. Daily 11am–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Breughel l'Ancien 30 rue de la Chaine. A popular student-dominated bar with over thirty different, mainly Belgian, beers (from €4) and an infectiously lively atmosphere. Crowds regularly spill onto the neighbouring Place des Tiercerettes as impromptu live music fills the air. Mon–Fri 5pm–2am, Sat 5pm–3am.

Café des Artistes 13 place de la Daurade. A table on the sun-drenched terrace overlooking the Garonne is a deservedly popular spot. Come evening, it's perfect with a beer (€3) from their wide-ranging selection. Mon–Wed 11am–1am, Thurs–Sat 11am–2am, Sun noon–10pm.

The Dispensary 1 rue Marthe Varsi. With its rock'n'roll aesthetic, impressive cocktail menu and delicious burgers (€13), this is an excellent option. Tues & Wed 6pm–12.30am, Thurs & Fri 6pm–2am, Sat noon–3am, Sun noon–12.30am.

La Maison Blanche 10 rue Arnaud Bernard www.cafe-maison-blanche.fr. Sizzling, and not just because of the crowds that flock to this happening little venue. An Association Bar (you must register to gain free admittance) committed to staging fantastic live music. By day the café serves coffee (€1) and tapas (€2); come night, the wine flows (€1.50) and the party truly begins. Mon–Fri 2.30pm–midnight, Sat 6.30pm–1am.

Le Bar de la Lune 22 rue Palaprat. Relax with one of 120 types of beer (bottles such as Duvel from €5, a demi of well-kept beer €2) in this friendly little bar where the volume allows for conversation. Mon–Fri 7pm–2am, Sat 8pm–3am, Sun 6pm–2am.

Le Café Populaire 9 rue de la Colombette. This long-standing drinking den boasts some of the city's best happy hour bargains – on Wednesday, for example, you can buy ten beers for just €13 – which goes some way to explaining its buzzy atmosphere. Happy hour 7.30–8.30pm. Mon–Fri 1.30pm–2am, Sat 1.30am–3am, Sun 4pm–2am.

DIRECTORY

Consulates Canada, 10 rue Jules de Resseguier ☎05 61 52 19 06, consulat.canada-toulouse@amb-canada.fr; USA, 25 allées Jean-Jaurès ☎05 34 41 36 50, france.usembassy.gov.

Health For medical emergencies contact SAMU ☎115. The network of university hospitals has facilities all over the city. For non-emergencies check their website for the appropriate centre (chu-toulouse.fr).

CARCASSONNE

The fairytale aspect of CARCASSONNE's old town (la Cité) was the inspiration for the castle in Walt Disney's Sleeping Beauty. Viollet-le-Duc rescued it from ruin in 1844, and his rather romantic restoration has been furiously debated ever since. Unsurprisingly, it's become a real tourist trap, its narrow lanes lined with innumerable souvenir shops and regularly crammed with hordes of day-trippers.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The Cité is a 25-minute walk from the station (20min from the new town) – well worth it to get a full view of the fortress from below. There's no charge for admission to the main part of the Cité, or the grassy lîces (moat) between the walls. However, to see the inner fortress of the Château Comtal (daily: April–Sept 10am–6.30pm; Oct–March 9.30am–5pm; €8.50), with its small museum of medieval sculpture, and to walk along the walls, you have to join a guided tour. In addition to wandering the town's narrow streets (though they can be a bit of a squeeze in summer), don't miss the beautiful, thirteenth-century church of St-Nazaire (daily: July & Aug 9am–7pm; Sept–June 9am–6pm) at the end of rue St-Louis.

CYCLING THE CANAL DU MIDI

The 240km-long Canal du Midi, which begins in Toulouse and ends at Sète, opening on to the Mediterranean, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and renowned for its beauty. The towpath that runs along the canal beneath the dappled light of the plane trees is a picturesque cycle route, and you can explore this stretch of the canal by cycling between Carcassonne and Trèbes or Castelnaudary. Bikes can be rented from Génération VTT, Canal du Midi port opposite the station in Carcassonne (April–Oct daily 9.30am–1.30pm & 2.30–6.30pm; from €10/2hr; ☎ 06 09 59 30 85, generation-vtt.com).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is on the northern edge of the new town, at the end of av du Maréchal Joffre, from where it's a 35min walk to the Cité (very steep for the last 5min) or catch #4 from the bus stop on bd Omer Sarraut (Mon–Sat hourly, 7am–7pm; €1).

Destinations Arles (4–8 daily; 2hr 40min–3hr 30min; Barcelona (6 daily, via Narbonne; 4hr–5hr 10min); Bordeaux (18–22 daily; 3hr 20min–4hr 30min); Marseille (12–18 daily; 3hr 20min–5hr 30min); Montpellier (18 daily; 1hr 15min–1hr 45min); Nice (6 daily, via Marseille; 4–5hr); Nîmes (26 daily; 2hr 5min–3hr 10min); Paris (11–16 daily; 3–6hr); Perpignan (13 daily; 1hr 30min–2hr 15min); Toulouse (22 daily; 45min–1hr).

Tourist information 28 rue Verdun (April–June, Sept & Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm, Sun 10am–1pm; July & Aug daily 9.30am–7pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 9.30am–12.30pm & 1.30am–6pm; ☎ 04 68 10 24 30, tourisme-carcassonne.fr). There's also an annexe (April–June & Sept daily 9am–6pm; July & Aug 9am–7pm; Oct 9.30am–5.30pm; Nov–March Tues–Sun 9.30am–1pm & 1.30–5.30pm) just inside Porte Narbonnaise, the main gate to the Cité.

ACCOMMODATION

Camping la Cité rte St-Hilaire ☎ 04 68 10 01 00, campingcitecarcassonne.com. A lovely riverside location (less than 10min from the Cité) and good sporting facilities. Two people and tent €28

★ FUAJ Carcassonne rue du Vicomte Trencavel ☎ 04 68 25 23 16, fuaj.org. A fantastic hostel in an unsurpassable position in the heart of la Cité. Dorms are comfortable, facilities are modern and clean, and breakfast is substantial. There's also table tennis, themed nights in the bar, bike rental and organized trips to the surrounding countryside. Dorms €24.90, doubles €52.60

Hotel du Pont Vieux 32 rue Trivale ☎ 04 68 25 24 99, hoteldupontvieux.com. Some rooms have tired decor but the building is atmospheric nevertheless, with a lovely garden behind ivy-covered walls, and the more expensive rooms offer views of the Cité. There's a roof terrace, too, with spectacular views. Doubles €82

Notre Dame de l'Abbaye 103 rue Trivale ☎ 04 68 25 16 65, abbaye-carcassonne.com. A tranquil option, this former abbey has spick-and-span dorms (groups only) and doubles and a beautiful garden. The cheapest rooms share bathroom facilities. Breakfast included except for campers. Doubles €51

EATING AND DRINKING

Auberge de Dame Carcas 3 place du Château ☎ 04 68 71 23 23. A traditional bistro offering cassoulet and other regional dishes. Menus from €16.50. Daily: July & Aug noon–2pm & 7–10pm; Sept–June noon–2pm & 7–9pm.

L'Auberge des Lîces 3 rue Raymond-Roger Trencavel. Set nicely apart from the main tourist traffic in the Cité. With mains starting at €21, the cheapest menu offers great value at €19.50 and features cassoulet. Mon & Thurs–Sun noon–2pm & 6.30–9.30pm; daily in summer.

Le Ponte Vecchio 22 rue Trivale ☎ 04 68 71 33 17. Combining the romance of Italy with the fine dining of France, this intimate restaurant on the way up to the Cité oozes plenty of charm. The generous €20 menu offers cassoulet and an unmissable dessert list. Mon & Thurs–Sun noon–2pm & 6.30–9.30pm, Wed 6.30–9.30pm.

Le Trivalou 69 rue Trivale ☎ 04 68 71 23 11. Options may be limited but the cooking is excellent: with menus starting at €16 and including delights like black bream on a vegetable risotto, it's well worth heading to this restaurant just a few minutes from the Cité. Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 6.30–10pm.

MONTPELLIER

MONTPELLIER is a vibrant city, renowned for its ancient university, once attended by such luminaries as Petrarch and Rabelais. Most of the central area is pedestrianized, which lends itself to unhurried exploration and many enjoyable evenings at terrace cafés.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

At the city's hub is place de la Comédie, a grand oval square paved with cream-coloured marble and surrounded by cafés. The Opéra, an ornate nineteenth-century theatre, presides over one end, while the other end leads onto the pleasant Champs de Mars park. Nearby, at 39 bd Bonne Nouvelle, the much-vaunted Musée Fabre (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €8; museefabre.montpellier3m.fr) has a wide art collection stretching from the Renaissance to the modern day, housed in a number of exceptionally beautiful buildings. The tangled, hilly lanes of Montpellier's old quarter lie behind the museum, and are full of seventeenth- and eighteenth-century mansions and small museums. The Jardin des Plantes (Tues–Sun: June–Sept noon–8pm; Oct–May noon–6pm; free), just north of the old town, with its alleys of exotic trees, is France's oldest botanical garden, founded in 1593. Opposite the gardens lies the university quarter, with its beautiful old buildings and lively café life.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The airport is 8km to the southeast of Montpellier, by the beaches, connected to the city by navettes (shuttle buses; timed for flights; 15min; €1.60, or €2.60 including one tram connection in town).

By bus and train The train station, Gare St Roch, is next to the gare routière, on the southern edge of town, a short walk down rue de Maguelone from the centre.

Destinations (train) Arles (hourly; 1hr 20min); Avignon (every 20–30min; 1hr 5min–2hr); Barcelona (4 daily, 2 via Port-Bou; 4hr 20min–7hr); Carcassonne (every 20–30min; 1hr 15min); Lyon (every 20–30min; 1hr 40min–3hr 30min); Marseille (every 20–30min; 2hr 20min); Nîmes (frequent; 30min); Paris (every 20–30min; 3hr 15min–6hr); Perpignan (hourly; 2hr 15min); Toulouse (every 20–30min; 2hr 15min–2hr 55min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information At the eastern end of place de la Comédie, opposite the Polygone shopping centre (July–Sept Mon–Fri 9am–7.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–6pm; Oct–June Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; ☎04 67 60 60 60, ot-montpellier.fr).

ACCOMMODATION

FUJ Montpellier Rue des Écoles-Laiques ☎04 67 60 32 22, fuj.org; tram stop "Louis Blanc". While the central location lends a real party atmosphere (noise can be a problem), the interior of this handsome building is tired and awaiting refurbishment. Closed noon–3pm. Dorms €22.50

Le Mistral 25 rue Boussairilles ☎04 67 58 45 25, hotel-le-mistral.com. Simple, pleasant rooms; the location on a quiet street within a 5min walk of Place de la Comédie makes this a solid option. Doubles €69

Les Étuves 24 rue des Étuves ☎04 67 60 78 19, hoteldesetuves.fr. A small family-run hotel, full of belle époque touches. The spotless, plain rooms have en-suite showers or baths. Doubles €49

Nova 8 rue Richelieu ☎04 67 60 79 85, hotelnova.fr. Ideally situated within close proximity to the station and old town, this hotel offers clean, spacious rooms at a bargain price, but it's the friendly welcome that's hard to beat. Doubles €43

EATING AND DRINKING

Barberousse 6 rue Boussairilles. Wooden from top to toe, with barrels for tables, this place feels a little like a ship's hold. Given that it's a rhumerie with nearly eighty different kinds available, you might find the floor starts listing too. Happy hour 6–8pm. Tues–Sat 6pm–1am.

Charlie's Beer 22 rue Aristide Ollivier ☎04 67 58 89 86. There are more than sixty beers on tap at this venerable, grungy old Montpellier institution. Live music at weekends. Mon–Sat 5pm–1/2am.

MONTPELLIER MARKETS

"Allez-allez-allez!" is the call of Montpellier's stallholders in the many markets around town. Here are three of the best.

Halles Jacques-Coeur Opposite the tram on bd Antigone. Stalls sell fresh local produce and home-cooked food. Mon–Sat 7am–8.30pm, Sun 7am–1.30pm.

Halles Castellane Rue de la Loge This graceful, iron-framed market hall is the city's main market.

Mon–Sat 7am–8pm, Sun 7am–1.30pm.

Marché Paysan Across the place from Les Halles Jacques-Coeur. A farmers' market specializing in local produce, seafood and artisanal products. Sun 8am–1.30pm.

La Fabrik 12 rue Boussairolles. Live music (think rock, blues, jazz and Irish), Belgian beers, whiskies from around the world and the occasional indoor boules tournament at this hipster hotspot. Daily 6pm–1am.

La Tomato 6 rue Four des Flammes ☎ 04 67 60 49 38. Truly a city institution, not least because of the prices – a midday menu is just €10, while the €13.90 evening menu offers fish soup and cassoulet among its options. Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 7.30–10.30pm.

Tripti Kulai 20 rue Jacques-Cœur ☎ 04 67 66 30 51. Quirky, friendly vegetarian/vegan restaurant. Dishes, including a good choice of salads, have an oriental flair, and the lassis and home-made chai are superb. Weekday menus from €12. Mon–Sat noon–3pm & 6–9.30pm.

11

PERPIGNAN

This far south, climate and geography alone ensure a palpable Spanish influence, but PERPIGNAN is actually Spanish in origin and home to the descendants of refugees from the Spanish Civil War. It's a cheerful city, with Roussillon's red-and-yellow-striped flag atop many a building, and makes an ideal stop-off en route to Spain or Andorra.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The centre of Perpignan is marked by the palm trees and smart cafés of place Arago. From here rue d'Alsace-Lorraine and rue de la Loge lead past the massive iron gates of the classical Hôtel de Ville to the tiny place de la Loge, the focus of the old heart of the city. Just north up rue Louis-Blanc is one of the city's few remaining fortifications, the crenellated fourteenth-century gate of Le Castillet, now home to the Musée de l'Histoire de la Catalogne Nord, a fascinating museum of Roussillon's Catalan folk culture (Tues–Sun 11am–5.40pm; €2).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is at the end of av General-de-Gaulle, a 15min walk from the city centre.

Destinations Barcelona (3 daily; 2hr 30min); Carcassonne (via Narbonne; 13–16 daily; 1hr 30min–2hr); Collioure (8–12 daily; 25min); Montpellier (16–20 daily; 1hr 30min–2hr); Paris (10–16 daily; 5hr–9hr 20min); Toulouse (16 daily; 1hr 30min–2hr).

By bus The bus station is on bd Saint Assisde, to the west of the city centre. All regional bus journeys cost €1.

Tourist information place François Arago (June–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–5pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–1pm; ☎ 04 68 66 30 30, perpignantourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Catalan Route de Bompas ☎ 04 68 63 16 92, camping-catalan.com. A lively campsite 5km from the centre, with a swimming pool and frequent pétanque competitions. Ask for shade as not all pitches have it. Per person and tent €17.98

FUAI Perpignan Parc de la Pépinière ☎ 04 68 34 63 32, fuai.org/perpignan. Backing onto a busy road isn't ideal but noise is limited and location is convenient for the station (5min). Dorms are basic, but staff are friendly and helpful, and the breakfast is excellent. Closed 10am–5pm. Dorms €20.40, doubles €42.60

Hotel de la Loge 1 rue des Fabriques d'en Nabot ☎ 04 68 34 41 02, hoteldelaloge.fr. A beautiful hotel dating from 1650. Rooms have original beams, traditional Catalan furniture and some look out onto the lovely inner courtyard – all in all, a bargain. Doubles €79

Hotel du Berry 6 av du Général de Gaulle ☎ 04 68 34 59 02, hotelduberry.com. Close to the station, the rooms (all en suite) really are basic but a night's sleep doesn't come much cheaper. Doubles €40

EATING AND DRINKING

Boulangerie Chez Ben Nouzid Place Cassanyes. Savour the scent of a true boulangerie as you enter this gourmet tribute to France's colonial past. Serves a selection of French and North African breads, plus irresistibly sticky pastries for little more than €1. Daily 8am–5pm.

Crêperie Bretonne 8 rue du Maréchal Foch. You may find yourself eating on the back of an old Renault Prairie at this charming crêperie, replete as it is with a dazzling array of vintage paraphernalia. Galettes €3.30–9.30. Mon & Tues noon–2pm, Wed–Sat noon–2pm & 7–11pm, Sun 7–11pm.

La Cafetière Catalane 17 rue de l'Ange. Located in a quiet courtyard, this distinguished café is a specialist in the brewing of aromatic teas and coffees. Select one of their slow-roasted coffee beans from the bean-filled drawers, perfectly accompanied by a home-made pastry (drinks from €2). Mon 1.30–7pm, Tues–Sat 8am–7pm.

THE CÔTE VERMEILLE

The Vermilion Coast (collioure.com) is named for its richly coloured rocks, which attracted artists such as Picasso, Dalí and Matisse. The latter's 1905–06 paintings of Collioure saw the birth of Fauvism, the forerunner to Cubism. Aside from these colourful rocks, the coast is also home to some lovely beaches and charming fishing towns. Frequent daily trains run between Perpignan and Collioure (see above).

New Bodega 3bis rue Voltaire ☎ 04 68 35 21 87. A tapas restaurant, with severely limited seating – booking is advisable at weekends. Straightforward classic tapas: patatas bravas, gambas a la plancha and the like, with prices mostly hovering around the €5 mark, and all prepared behind the large glass screen next to the tables. Daily noon–2pm & 7–11pm.

Provence and the Côte d'Azur

Provence is held by many to be the most irresistible region in France, with attractions that range from the high mountains of the southern Alps to the wild plains of the Camargue. Though technically part of the neighbouring region of Languedoc, the old Roman town of Nîmes is a good place to start exploring, as is nearby Arles, most famous for Van Gogh's paintings, and a great place to indulge in the area's café culture. Avignon, home of a wonderful summer festival, is so crammed full of history that it can sometimes feel like a living museum. Most of the region's towns are full of cobbled streets lined with brightly coloured, shuttered buildings, which are a delight to explore, and none more so than Aix-en-Provence.

By contrast, Marseille, France's second city, still hasn't shaken off its gritty image. Yet it rewards a little exploration and is home to some of the area's finest food. It also makes a good base for exploring the stunning Calanques. The Côte d'Azur certainly lives up to its name – taking a train along the coast reveals sparkling turquoise sea, packed in many places with the glitzy yachts of the rich and famous. Nice has all the trappings of a jet-set lifestyle, yet it feels a little more down-to-earth than nearby Cannes, and makes a great base for exploring small villages in the hills and other seaside towns.

NÎMES

NÎMES is intrinsically linked to two things: ancient Rome – whose influence is manifest in some of the most extensive Roman remains in Europe – and denim, a word corrupted from de Nîmes. First manufactured as serge in the city's textile mills, denim was exported to America to clothe workers, where a certain Mr Levi Strauss made it world-famous. These days, the town has a relaxed charm, and, with an excellent hostel as well, makes for a good place to relax for a few days.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The old centre of Nîmes spreads northwards from place des Arènes, site of the magnificent first-century Les Arènes (daily: April, May & Sept 9am–6.30pm; June 9am–7pm; July & Aug 9am–8pm; Nov–Feb 9.30am–5pm; €10; ☎ arenes-nimes.com), one of the best-preserved Roman arenas in the world. Turned into a fortress by the Visigoths while the Roman Empire crumbled, the arena went on to become a huge medieval slum before it was fully restored. Now, with a retractable roof, it hosts opera, an international summer jazz festival and bullfights during the high-spirited Ferías on Pentecost and the third weekend of September. Another Roman survivor can be found northeast along boulevard Victor Hugo – the Maison Carrée (daily: March & Oct 10am–6pm; April, May &

PONT DU GARD

This stunning vestige of a 50km aqueduct built in the first century AD to carry spring water from Uzès to Nîmes is a poignant memorial to the hubris of Roman civilization. It sits peacefully in the valley of the Gardon River, and is a great place to cool off on hot summer days. Tours are run from the informative museum on the left side of the valley; navettes run from both Nîmes (1–2 daily; 35min) and Uzès (3 daily; 7min); bring a swimsuit, walking shoes and a picnic (☎ ot-pontdugard.com).

Sept 10am–6.30pm; June 10am–7pm; July & Aug 9.30am–8pm; Nov–Feb 10am–1pm & 2–4.30pm; €6; @arenenimes.com), a compact temple built in 5 AD and celebrated for its harmony of proportion – the entrance price includes a 3-D film about Roman Nîmes.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The Camargue airport, shared by Nîmes and Arles, is 15km southeast of the city. A shuttle service links it to the town centre (2–4 daily; timed with flights; “Gambetta” or “Imperator” stop; €6).

By bus and train Nîmes’ adjacent bus and train stations are at the end of av Feuchères, a short walk southeast from the amphitheatre. Regional buses leave from bays situated at the rear.

Destinations (train) Arles (every 20–30min; 30–40min); Avignon (every 20–30min; 30min); Carcassonne (every 20–30min; 2hr 5min–3hr 10min); Clermont-Ferrand (every 20–30min; 5–6hr); Lyon (9 daily; 1hr 20min); Marseille (every 20–30min; 40min–1hr 15min); Montpellier (every 20–30min; 30min); Nice (6 daily, via Marseille; 4–5hr); Paris 20–30 daily; 3hr–9hr 30min); Perpignan (hourly; 2hr 45min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 6 rue Auguste, by the Maison Carrée (April–June & Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; July & Aug Mon–Fri 9am–7.30pm, Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 04 66 58 38 00, @ot-nimes.fr); buy the monument and museum pass (€11) here, which gives access to the town’s attractions for three days.

ACCOMMODATION

Acanthe du Temple 1 rue Charles Babut ☎ 04 66 67 54 61, @hotel-temple.com. The rooms are basic but it’s the service provided by owner Eric (who speaks English) that makes this place the pleasure that it is. Doubles €63

Cesar 17 av Feuchères ☎ 04 66 29 29 90, @hotel-nimes.net. A fine choice, 2min from the station, and with some rooms overlooking the elegant av Feuchères. Check your room first, as some look onto a fire escape. Doubles €55

★ FUJAJ Nîmes 257 chemin de l’Auberge de Jeunesse, Cigale ☎ 04 66 68 03 20, @fuaj.org; bus #i (Alès or Villeverte direction) from the station to Stade; last bus at 8pm. In a beautiful hillside arboretum, 2km west of Nîmes, this friendly, well-equipped hostel offers modern two-, four- or six-bed dorms and camping within their picturesque grounds. Camping/person and tent €7.50, dorms €16.90, doubles €39

EATING AND DRINKING

★ À la Tchatche chez Bertrand 4 rue Saint-Antoine. A wonderful bistrot à vins with a young, convivial owner fiercely proud of the local provenance of all his produce, not least his mother’s cured duck (€6.50). The champignons à la brandade (€4.80) are superb, as is the pêlardon cheese with herbed honey (€6.50). Wed–Sat 10am–3pm & 6pm–1am; daily in summer.

Halles Auberge Central Halles, 5 rue des Halles. A popular counter bar in the bustling halles. Watch as the chefs prepare bold regional dishes such as coeur de canard au balsamique; menus from €13. Tues–Sun 10.30am–2.30pm.

Le Petit Mas Corner of rue Fresque and rue de la Madeleine ☎ 04 66 36 84 25. Generous salads (from €13) are the thing at this buzzing little spot, which is also popular for its tapas (from €6). Mon–Sat noon–3pm & 6pm–1am.

Maison Villaret 13 rue de la Madeleine. Since its foundation in 1775, this beautiful family bakery has become renowned for its trademark croquant Villaret, a small, almond-flavoured biscuit, now a city speciality. Mon–Sat 7am–7.30pm & Sun 8am–7.30pm.

Wine Bar “Le Cheval Blanc” 1 place des Arènes. With a terrace overlooking the arena, this Parisian-brasserie-style place is perfect for a tipple. The €14 lunch menu is excellent value. Mon–Sat noon–2pm & 7–11pm/midnight.

ARLES

ARLES is a lovely, relaxed little Provençal town, steeped in Roman history. In 1888, Vincent Van Gogh was drawn in by the picturesque town, where he painted Starry Night and Night Café, but also got into a drunken argument with Gauguin and cut off the lower part of his own left ear. Today Arles, as home to the École Nationale de Photographie and host to the summer photographic festival, Les Rencontres (July–Sept; @rencontres-arles.com), is the centre of French photography.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The focal point for tourists in Arles is the striking amphitheatre (Arènes), at the end of rue Voltaire (daily: April–Oct 9am–6pm; May–June & Sept 9am–7pm; July & Aug 9am–8pm; Nov–March 9am–5pm; €8), built at the end of the first century. The surrounding Rond-Point des Arènes is crammed full of

THE CARRIÈRES DE LUMIÈRES

Just outside of Les Baux-de-Provence, a fortified village 15km northeast of Arles, lie some bauxite quarries that have been turned into a unique audiovisual experience called the Carières de Lumières (daily: April–Oct 9.30am–7pm; Nov–March 10am–6pm; €12; 04 90 54 47 37, www.carrieres-lumieres.com). Vast images are projected onto the floors, ceilings and walls of this cavernous quarry to the accompaniment of music, giving a unique resonance within the space. Wandering through these vast spaces and enveloped within a spectacular shifting projection of colours and shapes is a mind-blowing experience. Ligne #59 bus (late May to Sept 6 daily, 7.45am–6.15pm; 35min; €4.30) departs from Arles' train station to Les Baux-de-Provence village from where it is a short walk to the quarries.

touristy shops, cafés and restaurants, and can get very crowded on summer days. On place de la République you'll find the Église St-Trophime (mid-April to June Mon–Sat 8am–noon & 2–6pm, Sun 9am–1pm & 3–7pm; July–Sept Mon–Sat 8am–noon & 3–7pm, Sun 9am–1pm & 3–7pm; Oct to mid-April daily 8am–noon & 2–6pm; free), whose doorway is one of the most famous examples of twelfth-century Provençal carving, depicting a Last Judgement trumpeted by rather enthusiastic angels. No original Van Gogh paintings remain in Arles, but the Fondation Vincent Van Gogh, 33 rue du Dr-Fanton (daily 11am–7pm; €9; fondation-vincent-vangogh-arles.org), exhibits works based on his masterpieces by well-known contemporary artists such as Hockney and Bacon.

Around place Constantin

Housed in a splendid medieval building once used by the Knights of the Order of Malta, the Musée Réattu (10 rue du Grand Prieuré; Tues–Sun: March–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–Feb 10am–5pm; €8; museereattu.arles.fr) hosts a fine collection of modern art, including sketches and sculptures by Picasso. Opposite are the remains of the fourth-century Roman baths (daily: April & Oct 9am–6pm; May–Sept 9am–7pm; Nov–March 10am–5pm; €3).

Musée Départemental Arles Antique

The best insight into Roman Arles is at the Musée Départemental Arles Antique (Mon & Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €8; www.arles-antique.cg13.fr), west of the town centre, by the river. The fabulous mosaics, sarcophagi and sculpture illuminate Arles' early history.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is 5min walk from the amphitheatre on av Paulin.

Destinations Avignon (17–25 daily; 20min–1hr); Lyon (7–9 daily; 2hr 30min); Marseille (hourly; 45min–1hr); Montpellier (15–20 daily; 55min); Nîmes (7 daily; 30min); Paris (2 daily; 4hr).

By bus Buses to Saintes-Maries-de-la-Mer (for the Camargue; 9 daily; 50min) depart from bd Georges Clemenceau, east of rue Gambetta.

Tourist information bd des Lices (Easter–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–6.45pm, Sun 10am–1pm; Oct Mon–Sat 9am–5.45pm, Sun 10am–1pm; Nov–Easter Mon–Sat 9am–4.45pm, Sun 10–1pm; 04 90 18 41 20, www.arlestourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Acacias 2 rue de la Cavalerie 04 90 96 37 88, www.acacias.com. Modern, simple but cheerfully decorated – and soundproofed – rooms in a friendly hotel, not far from the train station, with free parking nearby. Closed late Oct to March. Doubles €80

FUJ Arles 20 av du Maréchal-Foch 04 90 96 18 25, www.fuaj.org. The somewhat old-fashioned dorms are clean and airy, and there's a bar on site. Often gets overrun with noisy school kids, but the location is good – just 5min from town and a 15min walk from the station. Closed 10am–5pm. Dorms €20.90

VAN GOGH'S ARLES

The tourist office (see above) issues a good booklet of themed walking tours in Arles (€1). The best of these is the Van Gogh trail, which, by following various markers on the pavements, takes you to the sites of his most famous paintings – it's fascinating to see how the town has changed since he was here.

Le Régence 5 rue Marius Jouveau ☎ 04 90 96 39 85, 🌐 hotel-regence.com. In the heart of the old district and within a 5min walk of the station. Rooms are clean and bright with some overlooking the tranquil Rhône River. Bike rental is available. Doubles €75

EATING AND DRINKING

Café la Nuit 11 place du Forum. The café immortalized in Van Gogh's Café Terrace at Night, this remains the spot to enjoy this pretty Roman place. Fine for a drink, but avoid the poor, overpriced food. Daily 8am–11pm.

Cuisine de Comptoir 10 rue Liberté. A simple, stylish place serving up excellent tartines on fine poilâne bread (from €10.90). It's no sandwich bar, though – served with soup (often gazpacho) and salad, they're worth savouring with a glass of wine. Mon–Sat 8.30am–2pm & 7–9pm.

L'Escaldadou 23 rue Porte-de-Laure ☎ 04 90 96 70 43. Behind its old-fashioned facade, this local favourite holds three substantial and usually very busy dining rooms. Service is friendly, and seafood lovers are in for a real treat. The one set menu is great value at €25 for three courses. Mon, Tues & Thurs–Sun noon–2pm & 7–10pm.

Le 16 16 rue du Dr-Fanton ☎ 04 90 93 77 36. A traditional little bistro serving a good-value lunch formule at €16 and dinner menus from €22. Mon–Fri noon–1.45pm & 7–9.30pm, Sat noon–1.45pm.

THE CAMARGUE

The flat, marshy delta immediately south of Arles – the Camargue – is a beautiful area, used as a breeding ground for the bulls that participate in local corridas (bullfights), and the white horses ridden by their herdsmen. The wildlife of the area also includes flamingos, marsh birds and sea birds, and a rich flora of reeds, wild flowers and juniper trees. The only town is SAINTES-MARIES-DE-LA-MER, best known for the annual Gypsy Festival held each May. It's a pleasant if touristy place, with some fine sandy beaches. If you're interested in birdwatching or touring the lagoons, your first port of call should be the tourist office (see below).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses from Arles (9 daily; 50min) arrive and depart at the north end of place Mireille in Saintes-Maries-de-la-Mer.

Tourist information 5 av Van Gogh, Saintes-Maries-de-la-Mer (daily: Jan, Feb, Nov & Dec 9am–5pm; March & Oct 9am–6pm; April–June & Sept 9am–7pm; July & Aug 9am–8pm; ☎ 04 90 97 82 55, 🌐 saintesmaries.com). They can tell you where to rent bicycles, horses or 4WDs.

AVIGNON

AVIGNON, great city of the popes and for centuries one of the major artistic centres of France, is today one of the country's biggest tourist attractions and is always crowded in summer. It's worth putting up with the inevitable queues and camera-wielding hordes to enjoy the unique stock of monuments, churches and museums of this immaculately preserved medieval town. During the Avignon festival in July (see box, p.328), it's the only place to be – around 200,000 spectators come here for the show, though, so doing any normal sightseeing becomes virtually impossible.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Central Avignon is enclosed by thick medieval walls, built by one of the nine popes who based themselves here in the fourteenth century, away from the anarchic feuding and rival popes of Rome. Place de l'Horloge is lined with cafés and market stalls on summer evenings, beyond which towers the enormous Palais des Papes (daily: March 9am–6.30pm; April–June, Sept & Oct 9am–7pm; July 9am–8pm; Aug 9am–8.30pm; Nov–Feb 9.30am–5.45pm; €11, joint ticket with Pont St-Bénézet €13.50). Save your money, though: the denuded interior gives little indication of the richness of the papal court, although the building is impressive for sheer size. The nearby Musée du Petit Palais (Mon & Wed–Sun 10am–1pm & 2–6pm; €6) houses a collection of religious art from the thirteenth to sixteenth centuries. Jutting out halfway across the river is the famous Pont St-Bénézet (also known as Pont d'Avignon; same hours as Palais des Papes; €5). The struggle to keep the bridge in good repair against the ravages of the Rhône was finally abandoned in 1660, three and a half centuries after it was built, and today just four of the original 22 arches survive.

On the south side of the city, the wonderful private collection of Jacques Doucet is on display at the Musée Angladon, 5 rue Laboureur (April–Sept Tues–Sun 1–6pm; Oct–March Tues–Sat 1–6pm; €8). The former home of museum founders Jean-Angladon Dubrujeaud and his wife Paulette Martin Avignon, it now houses some important pieces by Degas, Cézanne, Picasso, Modigliani and the only painting by Van Gogh displayed in Provence.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Avignon's main train station is opposite the porte de la République on bd St-Roch, just 5min from the central place de l'Horloge. A regular shuttle bus (2–4 hourly; 13min; €3; from just inside porte de la République; www.tcr.fr) and frequent trains (5min; €1.80) run to the separate TGV station, 3km to the southeast.

Destinations from Gare SNCF Arles (hourly; 20–40min); Lyon (12 daily; 2hr 30min); Marseille (14 daily; 1hr 5min–1hr 55min); Nîmes (15 daily; 20–40min); Toulouse (11 daily, 8 via Nîmes or Montpellier; 3hr 10min–4hr 30min).

Destinations from Gare TGV Aix-en-Provence TGV (22 daily; 29min); Lille (5 daily; 4hr 30min); Lyon (14 daily; 1hr 10min); Nice (12 daily; 3hr–4hr 10min); Paris (17 daily; 2hr 40min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office at 1 cours Jean-Jaurès (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm; Nov–March Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–5pm, Sun

AVIGNON FESTIVAL

During Avignon's three-week July festival (☎ 04 90 27 66 50, 🌐 festival-avignon.com), over one hundred venues show multiple plays every day, alongside opera, classical music and film. The most popular aspect of the festival is probably the street performers – musicians, magicians, dancers, jugglers, clowns, artists and mime acts – who bring great colour and noise to the city. Make sure you book your hotel early.

The biggest fringe festival in the world, Le Festival Off, runs simultaneously, comprising hundreds of independent companies and representing the very best of cutting-edge fringe theatre and performance (🌐 www.avignonleoff.com).

10am–noon; ☎ 04 32 74 32 74, 🌐 avignon-tourisme.com) has an accommodation booking service and offers English-language tours.

11

ACCOMMODATION

Bagatelle 25 allée Antoine-Pinay ☎ 04 90 86 30 39, 🌐 campingbagatelle.com. A 20min walk from the station, this is the nearest campsite to town, with an adjoining hostel offering small, clean dorms and some private rooms. The on-site bar and restaurant have the feel of an old-fashioned holiday camp. Camping/person and tent €19.47, dorms €21.21, doubles €59

Boquier 6 rue du Portail Boquier ☎ 04 90 82 34 43, 🌐 hotel-boquier.com. Extremely welcoming little hotel with brightly decorated, widely differing, and consistently inexpensive en-suite rooms, some very small, some sleeping three or four. Doubles €65

Médiéval 15 rue Petite-Saunerie ☎ 04 90 86 11 06, 🌐 hotelmedieval.com. A former aristocratic townhouse with a grand staircase. Though the decor is a little tired, it's kept very clean and the studios are good value for longer stays. Doubles €75

Mignon 12 rue Joseph Vernet ☎ 04 90 82 17 30, 🌐 hotel-mignon.com. Rooms decked out in Provençal colours, all with satellite TV, a/c and wi-fi, with a fantastic location on a chic little street. Doubles €63

Pop Hostel 17 rue de la République ☎ 04 32 40 50 60, 🌐 pophostel.fr. Behind the nineteenth-century facade of this high-quality hostel lie stylish, inviting rooms and a smart bar/lounge. Dorms are four-, six- or eight-bed with shared bathrooms, and doubles are also available. Dorms €21, doubles €83

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Fou de Fafa 17 rue des Trois Faucons ☎ 04 32 76 35 13. Book ahead, as this wonderfully intimate place is unmissable. Antonia's charming service and her partner Russell's spectacular dishes are a truly winning combination. Menus from €26. Tues–Sun 6.30–11pm (last reservations 9.30pm).

EATING

Camili Books & Tea 155 rue Carreterie. Enjoy a book and a special tea blend within the ivy-covered walls of this pretty terrace at owner Camili's well-stocked secondhand English bookshop. Tues–Sat noon–7pm.

Ginette & Marcel 25 place des Corps Saints ☎ 04 90 85 58 70. Famed for their tartines (€5–7), charming location on a pretty place and grocery-style interior decor. The three-cheese-and-pear tartine is particularly delicious. Daily 11am–midnight.

L'Ubu 13 rue des Teinturiers ☎ 04 90 80 01 01. The water mills on this picturesque cobbled street testify to its textile-dyeing heritage, but it's now a thriving destination for nightlife. Stylish and minimal with a menu to match, L'Ubu is an intimate affair with long wooden benches and an Italian-inspired cuisine. Mains from €12.50. Mon–Wed noon–2pm, Thurs–Fri noon–2pm & 8–10pm, Sat 8–10pm.

La Rôtisserie 2 rue Portail Matheron ☎ 09 84 37 04 62. This no-frills shopfront is more of a takeaway than a restaurant, with a handful of outdoor tables. Lunchtime specials like chicken and chips cost just €5, while they also offer sausages and other meats. Mon–Fri 9.30am–2pm & 5–7.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–1.30pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Bokao's 9bis bd du Quai St-Lazare 🌐 bokao.fr. Mainstream, youth-oriented club, in a converted barn with outdoor space, just outside the walls and across from the river, playing an eclectic mix of music. Tues–Sat midnight–7am.

La Cave des Pas Sages 41 rue des Teinturiers. A happening little bar where you can hang out beneath the dappled shade of the plane trees, with live gigs every Sat from 8.30pm. Mon, Tues & Thurs–Sat 12.30pm–midnight, Wed 4pm–1am.

Tapalocas 15 rue Galante. Spanish music, sometimes live, in a large, lively and very hectic three-storey bar, with outdoor seating. €3 tapas plates, plus a few larger dishes. Mon–Fri & Sun 11.45am–4pm & 6pm–1am, Sat 11.45am–1am.

AIX-EN-PROVENCE

For many visitors, AIX-EN-PROVENCE is the ideal Provençal city, the cobbled streets of its old town still retaining the romance of days past, especially when lit by the sun. The city has a (not entirely unfair) reputation for snobbishness, but it is still a relaxed and enjoyable place, where the greatest pleasure is in winding through the streets and relaxing in a shady place over a pastis.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Aix's old town stretches back from the leafy expanse of cours Mirabeau, and it's easy to spend a few hours just exploring the atmospheric streets, which are dotted with interesting shops and cafés. The only museum worth heading to is the Musée Granet, place St-Jean-de-Malte (Tues–Sun: June–Sept 10am–7pm; Oct–May noon–6pm; €5; ☎04 42 52 88 32), whose permanent collection includes some minor works by the town's most famous painter, Paul Cézanne, and a number of archeological finds from the region; it's the interesting and often inventive temporary exhibitions, however, that stand out. To find out more about Cézanne, you can visit his studio, the Atelier Cézanne at 9 av Paul-Cézanne (April–June & Sept Mon–Sat 10am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; July & Aug daily 10am–6pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 10am–12.30pm & 2–5pm; €5.50; ☎atelier-cezanne.com), a ten-minute walk from the north end of the Vieille Ville; it looks exactly the same as it did at the time of his death.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The SNCF station is located on rue Gustave-Desplaces, just 5min southwest of the old town. It's more likely that you'll arrive at the TGV station, 16km southwest of Aix and linked by regular navette (daily 4am–11.30pm every 30min; €5) to the gare routière on av de l'Europe.

AIX STREET MARKETS

You cannot visit Aix and miss the colourful, vibrant street markets with which the town is synonymous. Held all year round, on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays (the main day), the flower market opposite the town hall, the antiques market on place de Verdun and the farmers' market on place Richelme are particularly impressive.

Destinations from Gare SNCF Marseille (every 20min–30min; 30–45min).

Destinations from Gare TGV Avignon (22 daily; 20min); Lyon (20 daily; 1hr 30min); Marseille (frequent; 15min); Paris (4 daily; 3hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 300 av Giuseppe Verdi, just west of Place du General du Gaulle (June–Sept Mon–Sat 8.30am–8pm, Sun 10am–1pm & 2–6pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 8.30am–7pm, Sun 10am–1pm & 2–6pm; ☎04 42 16 11 61, ☎aixenprovencetourism.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Cheap accommodation is unfortunately hard to come by in Aix, especially in high season.

Auberge de Jeunesse 3 av Marcel Pagnol ☎04 42 20 15 99, ☎auberge-jeunesse-aix.fr; bus #4 from the gare routière to Vasarely. Situated 2km out of the city, offering modern dorms, a bar with cheap beers and inclusive breakfast. No communal kitchen facilities. Closed 2–4.30pm. Dorms €23.10

Cardinal 24 rue Cardinale ☎04 42 38 32 30, ☎hotel-cardinal-aix.com. Welcoming, rather old-fashioned establishment in a quiet though very central neighbourhood, with 29 sizeable, great-value antique-furnished a/c rooms. Doubles €78

Hôtel Paul 10 av Pasteur ☎04 42 23 23 89, ☎aix-en-provence.com/hotelpaul. A good budget option a 10min walk from the centre, with basic clean rooms, albeit rather tired. No credit cards accepted and expensive wi-fi charges. Doubles €55

EATING AND DRINKING

Bar Brigand place Richelme (place des Sangliers). A satisfyingly grungy little pub so beloved of the town's hipsters they spill out onto the street. Pression from €2.80, glass of wine from €2. Daily 10am–2pm.

Le Boudoir 28 place des Tanneurs. A lovely place for a coffee on this little terrace beside a tinkling fountain, and their plat du jour is good value at €11.50. Come evening it livens up and makes a perfect spot to enjoy one of their cocktails. Mon–Sat 7am–2am, Sun 10am–8pm.

MARSEILLE

France's second most populous city, MARSEILLE has been a major centre of international maritime trade ever since it was founded by Greek colonists 2600 years ago. Like the capital, the city has suffered plagues, religious bigotry, republican and royalist terror, and had its own Commune and Bastille-storming – it was the presence of so many revolutionaries from this city marching to Paris in 1792 that gave the name Marseillaise to the national anthem. A working city with little of the glamour of its ritzy Riviera neighbours, it is nevertheless a vibrant, exciting place, with a cosmopolitan population including many Italians and North Africans.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The old harbour, or Vieux Port, is the hub of the town and a good place to indulge in the sedentary pleasure of observing the city's street life over a pastis. Two fortresses guard the entrance to the harbour and the town extends outwards alongside the harbour from its three quays.

Musée des Civilisations d'Europe et de la Méditerranée (MuCEM)

One of two fortresses guarding the harbour entrance, medieval Fort St-Jean has been converted (with the addition of a modernist annexe) by Algerian-born architect Rudy Ricciotti into the Musée des Civilisations d'Europe et de la Méditerranée, or MuCEM for short (Mon & Wed–Sun: May, June, Sept & Oct 11am–7pm; July & Aug 10am–8pm, Fri till 10pm; Nov–April 11am–6pm; €9.50 exhibition; mucem.org). With an enormous collection totalling a million works, and encompassing a broad range of disciplines including archeology, art history, sociology, religion and more, the museum transcends national boundaries to trace the important phases of Mediterranean civilization and culture through a series of permanent and temporary exhibitions.

There is a 115m-long bridge joining the fort to the new annexe, and a second bridge connecting the port and the church of St Laurent in the Panier district, linking the oldest parts of the city with the newly rejuvenated docklands.

Villa Méditerranée

Next to the MuCEM the spectacular Villa Méditerranée (Tues–Fri noon–6pm, Fri noon–10pm, Sat & Sun 10am–7pm; villa-mediterranee.org), designed by the

LE CORBUSIER

If you're interested in architecture, it's definitely worth taking the short bus journey out to Le Corbusier's La Cité Radieuse. Completed in 1952, this seventeen-storey block of flats is surprisingly striking even today, and you can take the lift up to the rooftop to enjoy fantastic views of the city and the surrounding area. You can even enjoy a drink while you're here. Take bus #21 from Centre Bourse to the Le Corbusier stop.

Italian architect Stegano Boeri, hosts exhibitions and events dedicated to the opening of dialogue between Mediterranean nations. There is an exciting programme of screenings, concerts, exhibitions and conferences; see website for details.

Euroméditerranée

The focus of the city's long-term regeneration plans is concentrated around the formerly industrial dockland area north of the Vieux Port, rechristened Euroméditerranée. These ambitious plans are currently transforming the hitherto neglected area surrounding the Cathédrale de la Major (Tues–Sun: summer 10am–7pm; winter 10am–6pm), an imposing nineteenth-century structure overlooking the modern docks. South from the cathedral on avenue Vaudoyer sits a low modernist structure built in 1948, formerly a sanitary station used to screen newly arrived immigrants, and now the home of the Musée Regards de Provence (daily 10am–6pm; €3.50; museeregardsdeprovence.com). The museum houses the Fondation Regards de Provence's 850-strong collection of art from, and about, Provence, as well as frequent temporary exhibitions and a permanent exhibition telling the compelling story of the building and its role in the lives of immigrants entering the city.

Le Panier

On the northern side of the harbour is the original site and former old town of

MARSEILLE

ACCOMMODATION
1	Au Vieux Panier
6	FUAJ Bonneveine
5	Mama Shelter
3	Relax
2	Vertigo Centre
4	Vertigo Vieux Port

EATING
5	Chez Sauveur
4	La Cantinetta
1	Le Cartrage
1	Le Glacier du Roi
2	Sur le Pouce
3	Tonou Coquillages

SHOPPING
1	La Cathédrale du Panier
2	Les Navettes des Accoules

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE
3	Au Petit Nice
2	La Caravelle
1	Les Docks des Suds

Marseille, known as Le Panier. During the occupation, large sections were dynamited by the Nazis to prevent resistance members hiding in the small, densely populated streets, which in turn prompted a mass deportation of residents from the northern docks. Rebuilt and repopulated in the 1950s, today's Le Panier is full of a young, fashionable and bohemian working class. The quarter's main attraction is La Vieille Charité, a Baroque seventeenth-century church and hospice complex, on rue de la Charité, now home to several museums, including the Musée d'Archéologie Méditerranéenne (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €5), housing a superb collection of Egyptian mummified animals.

La Canebière

Leading east from the Vieux Port is La Canebière, Marseille's main street. Just off the lower end, in the ugly Centre Bourse shopping mall, is a museum of finds from Roman Marseille, the Musée d'Histoire de Marseille (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €5; musee-histoire-marseille-voie-historique.fr), which includes the well-preserved remains of a third-century Roman merchant vessel. South of La Canebière are Marseille's main shopping streets, rue Paradis, rue St-Ferréol and rue de Rome, as well as the Musée Cantini, 19 rue Grignan (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €5; musee-cantini.marseille.fr), which houses a fine collection of twentieth-century art with works by Dufy, Léger and Picasso.

South of the Vieux Port

The Abbaye St-Victor (daily 9am–7pm) is the city's oldest church. It looks and feels like a fortress – the walls of the choir are almost 3m thick. Dominating the skyline to the south, astride a rocky hill, is the marble and porphyry basilica of Marseille's most famous landmark, the Notre-Dame de la Garde (daily: April–Sept 7am–7.15pm; Oct–March 7am–6.15pm; notredamedelagarde.com). Crowning the high belfry, and visible across most of the city, is a 9m gilded statue of the Virgin Mary, known locally as the Bonne Mère (Good Mother). Inside are beautiful mosaics and shrines covered in ex-votos – trinkets, plaques, paintings and, more recently, football shirts – offered to the saints for good luck.

Chateau d'If, Les Calanques and the beach

A twenty-minute boat ride takes you to the Château d'If (April to mid-May daily 9.30am–4.45pm; mid-May to mid-Sept daily 9.30am–6.10pm; mid-Sept to March Tues–Sun 9.30am–4.45pm; €5.50), the notorious island fortress that figured in Dumas' great adventure story, The Count of Monte Cristo. In reality, no one ever escaped, and most prisoners, incarcerated for political or religious reasons, ended their days here. Boats (€10.80 return; frioul-if-express.com) leave hourly for the island from the Vieux Port.

Twenty minutes southeast of Marseille (bus #20), Les Calanques, beautiful rocky inlets carved from white limestone, provide fine bathing, diving and walking – note that smoking and campfires are prohibited during summer because of the fire risk. To reach the plage du Prado, Marseille's main sand beach, take bus #47 or #19 to the Promenade Pompidou (20min).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Marseille airport is located 20km northwest of the city, connected to the gare SNCF by shuttle buses (every 15–20min, 4.50am–12.10am; 25min; €8.20).

By train Gare SNCF St-Charles is a 15min walk from the city centre.

Destinations Aix-en-Provence (every 15min–1hr; 35–45min); Aix-en-Provence TGV (2 hourly; 12min); Arles (every 30min–1hr; 50min–1hr 15min); Avignon (every 30min–1hr; 30–35min); Cannes (every 30min–1hr; 2hr 5min); Lyon Part Dieu (every 30min–1hr; 1hr 40min); Nice (every 30min–1hr; 2hr 35min); Paris Gare de Lyon (hourly; 3hr 15min).

By bus The gare routière is alongside the train station on place Victor Hugo.

Destinations Aix-en-Provence (every 5–20min; 30–50min); Grenoble (1 daily; 4hr 35min).

By ferry La Mériidionale (08 10 20 13 20, lameridionale.com) and Corsica Linea (08 25 88 80, corsicalinea.com) run ferries to Corsica.

Destinations Ajaccio (1–2 daily; 13hr); Bastia (1–2 daily; 13hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 11 La Canebière (Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 08 26 50 05 00, 🌐 www.marseille-tourisme.com).

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Marseille has an efficient public transport network (🌐 rtm.fr). The métro and trams run from 5am until just after midnight; buses run from 5/6am until 9pm, after which night-bus services take over until around 12.45am. Solos (single tickets; €1.60) can be used on journeys combining all three modes of transport if used within an hour; a good value day-pass, Pass XL 54hr (€5.20), can be bought from métro stations, RTM kiosks, and shops displaying the RTM sign.

By bike Blue bicycles belonging to Le Vélo scheme (🌐 leveau-mpm.fr) can be rented from 130 self-service rental points throughout the city using a bank card (€1 for 7-day membership; usage first 30min free, €1 for each additional 30min).

By ferry RTM runs a ferry between the Vieux Port and Pointe Rouge in the south of the city for easier access to the beaches and Les Calanques (daily: late April to late June & Sept 8am–7pm; July & Aug 8am–10pm; hourly; €5).

ACCOMMODATION

FUAI Bonneveine Impasse Dr Bonfils, off av Joseph Vidal ☎ 04 91 17 63 30, 🌐 fuai.org; bus #44 to the Bonnefon stop. At 5km from the city, yet in a fantastic location near Les Calanques and just 200m from the beach, this is a brilliant hostel, with friendly staff and clean dorms (2–6 beds). Tours, sea kayaking and horseriding can be arranged, and there's a bar on site. Dorms €21, doubles €55.20

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Au Vieux Panier 13 rue du Panier ☎ 06 32 19 90 05, 🌐 auvieuxpanier.com. In the heart of the trendy Le Panier district and 500m from the Vieux Port, the rooms of this seventeenth-century, former Corsican grocery store have been transformed into ephemeral works of art. Each year a different artist is commissioned to design a room within the house, creating unique spaces each with a distinctive atmosphere, equipped with en-suite bathrooms and design touches. There is a lounge area and exhibition space, communal kitchen and a beautiful roof terrace offering spectacular views of the ocean and the landmarks of Marseille. A truly spellbinding experience. Two-night minimum stay. Doubles €85

★ TREAT YOURSELF

La Cantinetta 24 cours Julien ☎ 04 91 48 10 48. Savour classic Italian dishes (€12–19) in the sun-dappled garden or the convivial dining room of this gregarious restaurant that's evocative of a huge Italian family reunion. Reservation essential. Mon–Sat noon–2pm & 7.30–10.30pm.

Mama Shelter 63 rue de la Loubière ☎ 04 84 35 20 00, 🌐 mamashelter.com; 🌐 Baille or Notre Dame du Mont. Combining luxury and practicality, rooms at Mama's include a MacTV, free movies and a kitchenette. The lively terrace bar is so happening there's no need to leave – unless you wish to visit the private beach. Doubles €79

Relax 4 rue Corneille ☎ 04 91 33 15 87, 🌐 hotelrelax.fr. Homey and very friendly budget hotel, right next to the Opéra and near all the action. Public areas are a little overstuffed in style; rooms are simpler, with a/c and soundproofing. Prices are keen for the central location. Doubles €60

★ Vertigo Centre 42 rue Petits Mariés ☎ 04 91 91 07 11, 🌐 hotelvertigo.fr. Mere steps from the train station, this excellent hostel has bright, spacious dorms, all en suite, as well as a number of private rooms – the “deluxe” have private balconies. Staff are friendly and helpful, and there's a good kitchen, garden and a cheap bar. Dorms €22, doubles €70

★ Vertigo Vieux Port 38 rue Fort Notre Dame ☎ 04 91 54 42 95, 🌐 hotelvertigo.fr. A marvellous hostel spread across two former warehouses, each with quality modern art (all local commissions) on display. The communal spaces are very well conceived, the dorms are airy and breakfast is included. Dorms €25, doubles €70

EATING

Chez Sauveur 10 rue d'Aubagne ☎ 04 91 54 33 96. Established in 1943, this modest Sicilian restaurant close to the marché des Capucins is renowned locally for its excellent wood-fired pizzas (from €9), including a few made with brousse, a type of goat's cheese. Tues–Sat 11.30am–2pm & 7.30–10pm.

Le Carthage 8 rue d'Aubagne ☎ 04 91 54 72 85. This traditional salon de thé close to the marché des Capucins sells Tunisian sandwiches from €4.50, but it's the tempting piles of sticky North African pastries (from €1) that draw the eye. Daily 7am–8pm, closed Fri 12.30–2pm.

Le Glacier du Roi 4 place de Lenche. An artisan glacier with over 24 seasonal flavours. The navetissimo flavour is delicious – a blend of biscuit crumbs and orange flower water inspired by the traditional navette biscuits of Marseille. Two scoops €3.50. Daily except Tues 8.30am–7pm.

★ Sur le Pouce 2 rue des Convalescents ☎ 04 91 56 13 28. Lively and inexpensive Tunisian restaurant in the quartier Belsunce, with a huge range of couscous from €5.50–10, plus grills, merguez sausages and brochettes from around €6. One of the city's best budget options. Daily noon–3pm & 6–11pm.

Toinou Coquillages 3 cours Saint-Louis ☎ 04 91 33 14 94. Popular with locals and visitors alike for the choice of more than forty types of shellfish, served in the restaurant and sold fresh from the counter at the front. Moules with chorizo €8.90, oyster formules from €9.20; they also do fish and chips. Daily 7am–10.30pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Au Petit Nice 28 place Jean Jaurès. An institution among the locals for its cheap beer (from €2 pression) and constantly bustling terrace. It remains the spot to soak up the ambience of the city's most bohemian quarter. Tues & Thurs 10am–1.30am, Wed & Fri 9am–1.30pm, Sat 8.30am–1.30pm.

La Caravelle Hotel Belle-Vue, 34 quai du Port. The balcony of this intimate tapas bar overlooking the Vieux Port is a majestic spot come evening. Aperitifs and free tapas are served 6–9pm with live jazz (€3) every Wed & Fri evening. Daily 7am–1am.

Les Dock des Suds 12 rue Urbain V ☎ 04 91 99 00 00, dock-des-suds.org; tram #2, stop "Arenç le Silo". Vast warehouse that hosts Marseille's annual Fiesta des Suds world music festival (Oct) and is a regular live venue for hip-hop, electro and world music. Entry €5–25. Hours vary.

SHOPPING

La Chocolatière du Panier 47 rue du Petit Puit. A beautiful old shop spanning three generations. With over three hundred varieties on offer, these seasonal creations are artisanal, inventive and delicious. Tues–Sat 9am–8pm.

Les Navettes des Accoules 68 rue Caisserie. Renowned for their croquants, macaroons, canistrelli and of course the orange-flavoured navette biscuits, which any self-respecting gourmet must sample. Mon–Sat 9.30am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm.

DIRECTORY

Consulates UK, 24 av du Prado, 6e (☎ 04 91 15 72 10); USA, place Varian Fry, 6e (☎ 01 43 12 48 85).

Health Ambulance ☎ 15; doctor ☎ 3624; 24hr casualty department at Hôpital de la Conception, 147 bd Baille, 5e (☎ 04 91 38 00 00); medical emergencies for travellers at SOS Voyageurs, Gare St-Charles, 3e (☎ 04 91 62 12 80).

Police Commissariat Central, 2 rue Antoine-Becker, 2e (24hr; ☎ 04 91 39 80 00).

CANNES

Fishing village turned millionaires' playground, CANNES is best known for the International Film Festival, held in May, during which time it is overrun by the denizens of Movieland, their hangers-on and a small army of paparazzi. The seafroont promenade, La Croisette, and the Vieux Port form the focus of Cannes' eye-candy life, while the old town, Le Suquet, on the steep hill overlooking the bay from the west, with its quaint winding streets and eleventh-century castle, is a pleasant place to wander.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is on rue Jean-Jaurès, a short walk north of the centre.

Destinations Marseille (frequent; 2hr); Monaco (frequent; 1hr–1hr 10min); Nice (frequent; 25–35min).

Tourist information The main tourist office is in the Palais des Festivals on the waterfront (daily 9/10am–7/8pm; ☎ 04 92 99 84 22, cannes-destination.com). There is also a booth at the station (Mon–Sat 9am–1pm & 2–6pm).

ACCOMMODATION

Alnea 20 rue Jean de Riouffe ☎ 04 93 68 77 77, hotel-alnea.com. Centrally located two-star with pleasant service and simple but colourful and well-equipped rooms with a/c, flatscreen TV and double-glazing. Doubles €70

Parc Bellevue 67 av Maurice Chevalier ☎ 04 93 47 28 97, parcbellevue.com; bus #2 from the train station. The nearest campsite is in the suburb of La Bocca, 3km to the west of Cannes; most plots are shaded and there is a 40m pool. Per person €4, plus per tent €29.50

PLM 3 rue Hoche ☎ 04 93 38 31 19, hotel-cannes-plm.com. A comfortable little hotel close to the station and a short walk from the beachfront. Rooms are decorated in soothing, neutral colours and there's free wi-fi. Doubles €75

EATING AND DRINKING

Chez Vincent & Nicolas 90 rue Meynadier ☎ 04 93 68 35 39. An original choice, with flamboyant staff, inventive food and a lovely setting. Try the scallops wrapped in bacon; meat or fish mains start at around €18. Daily 6.30–11.30pm.

La Crème de la Crêpe 9 rue Buttura. Cool, contemporary crêperie just a short walk from the train station. Galettes start at just €6 and crêpes from €3. Daily 10am–11pm.

Pint House 19 rue des Frères Pradignacs. Irish-style pub with live rugby on TV; the beers are mostly French or Belgian (pression from €3.80). A bit of relief from the trying-too-hard excess of much of Cannes' nightlife. Daily 6pm–5am.

ANTIBES

The charming medieval town of ANTIBES has stupendous sea views shared by the Alps soaring majestically in the distance. Only 11km east of Cannes and easily visited as a day-trip, it has largely escaped the glitzy exclusivity and overdevelopment blighting so many neighbouring resorts, although the sea is still awash with millionaires' yachts.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The town's bustling streets are animated by many bars and restaurants, and there's a fine market selling fresh produce and local crafts (food June–Aug daily 6am–1pm; Sept–May Tues–Sun 6am–1pm; crafts mid-June to Sept Tues–Sun 3pm–midnight; Oct to mid-June Fri–Sun 3pm–midnight).

Antibes also has the excellent Musée Picasso on Place Mariejol (mid-June to mid-July Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; mid-July to Aug Tues, Thurs, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm, Wed & Fri 10am–8pm; mid-Sept to mid-June Tues–Sun 10am–noon & 2–6pm; €6; ☎04 92 90 54 20, musee-juanlespins.com), where you can see some of his lesser-known works in the beautiful surroundings of the sixteenth-century Chateau Grimaldi.

Antibes boasts some of the Riviera's most irresistible beaches – the long, sandy Plage de la Salis and the smaller Plage de la Garoupe are both free and unspoilt by big hotels.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train There are connections with Cannes (frequent; 7–10min) and Nice (frequent; 20–30min).

NICE AND AROUND

NICE, capital of the French Riviera and France's fifth-largest city, grew into a major tourist resort in the nineteenth century, when large numbers of foreign visitors – many of them British – were drawn here by the mild Mediterranean climate. The most obvious legacy of these early holidaymakers is the famous promenade des Anglais stretching along the pebble beach, which was laid out by nineteenth-century English residents to facilitate their afternoon stroll by the sea. These days, Nice is a busy, bustling city, but it's still a lovely place, with a beautiful location and attractive historical centre.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The old town, a rambling collection of narrow alleys lined with tall, rust-and-ochre houses, centres on place Rossetti and the Baroque Cathédrale Ste-Réparate. It's worth making nearby Le Château one of your first stops to take in the view, which stretches across the town and west over the bay. It's a steep walk up, or there's a lift, tucked just under the stairs (free) on the western side. A short walk north through the old town takes you to the promenade des Arts, where the Musée d'Art Moderne et d'Art Contemporain (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €10; mamac-nice.or) has a collection of Pop Art and neo-Realist work, including pieces by Andy Warhol and Roy Lichtenstein.

Cimiez

Up above the city centre is Cimiez, a posh suburb that was the social centre of the town's elite some seventeen centuries ago, when the city was capital of the Roman province of Alpes-Maritimae. To get here, take bus #15 from in front of the train station. The Musée d'Archéologie, 160 av des Arènes (Mon & Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; free), houses excavations of the Roman baths, along with accompanying archeological finds. Overlooking the museum on av des Arènes de Cimiez is the wonderful Musée Matisse (Mon & Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €10;

MUNICIPAL MUSEUMS IN NICE

Many of Nice's museums and galleries are covered by the French Riviera Pass (€10/24hr; €20/7 days), including both the Chagall and Matisse museums. Considering that entry to the latter alone is €10, it provides excellent value.

(musee-matisse-nice.org): Nice was the artist's home for much of his life and the collection covers every period. Nearby, the beautiful Musée Chagall, 16 av du Docteur Ménard (Mon & Wed–Sun: May–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–April 10am–5pm; €9), exhibits dazzlingly colourful biblical paintings, stained glass and book illustrations by Marc Chagall.

Day-trips from Nice

Nice is an excellent base from which to explore the surrounding beaches and picturesque resorts of the Riviera. The medieval Èze Village is a labyrinthine maze of vaulted passages and stairways, its streets winding around a cone of rock below the corniche. Towering 470m above sea level, it offers spectacular panoramic views of the coast. Take bus

#112 or #82 to Èze Village from tram stop Garibaldi (hourly; 30min).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Nice airport is 6km southwest of the city, connected to the main train station, Nice-Ville, by two fast buses: #98 (every 20min, 5.40am–11.45pm) or #99 (every 30min, 7.53am–8.53pm); the single fare of €6 allows unlimited travel on the Lignes d'Azur network for one day. The slower regular bus #52 (every 30min, daily 6am–9.25pm; €1.50) also serves the main train station.

By train The main train station, Nice-Ville, is a 10min walk northwest from the centre, on av Thiers.

Destinations Antibes (2–7 hourly; 15–28min); Avignon TGV (10 daily; 2hr 50min–3hr 35min); Cannes (2–6 hourly; 25–41min); Genoa (7 daily via Ventimiglia; 3hr–4hr 30min); Marseille (every 30min–1hr; 2hr 35min–3hr); Milan (7 daily via Ventimiglia; 4hr 50min–6hr 10min); Monaco (4 hourly; 15–25min); Paris (14 daily; 5hr 45min–6hr 25min).

By bus There is no actual gare routière. Instead, buses depart from the main thoroughfares in central Nice – av St Jean Baptiste, promenade des Anglais, and place Masséna. Check lignesdazur.com for details.

Destinations Antibes (up to 4 hourly; 1hr); Cannes (up to 4 hourly; 1hr 30min); Èze-sur-Mer (up to 5 hourly; 32min); Èze Village (6 daily; 30min); Monaco (every 15min; 37min).

By ferry Corsica Ferries (08 25 09 50 95, corsica-ferries.fr) operate a year-round service to Corsica from the Gare Maritime.

Destinations Ajaccio (5–6 weekly; 6hr 30min); Bastia (8–9 weekly; 5hr 15min); Calvi (daily; 5hr 45min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 5 promenade des Anglais (June–Sept daily 9am–7pm; Oct–May Mon–Sat 9am–7pm; 08 92 70 74 07, nicetourisme.com), with outlets at the airport and next to the station.

GETTING AROUND

By bus and tram Buses and trams in Nice and surrounding towns are run by Lignes d'Azur (lignesdazur.com). Single tickets for both buses and trams cost €1.50, and day pass tickets (€5) are also available.

By bike Nice's on-street bicycle rental scheme, Vélo Bleu (www.velobleu.org), has 175 rental stations scattered throughout the city. You have to sign up online or call toll-free from a bike station (€1/day, €5/week), after which the first 30min is free; thereafter it costs €1 for the subsequent 30min and then €2/hr. Payment by credit card only.

ACCOMMODATION

Backpackers Chez Patrick First floor, 32 rue Pertinax 04 93 80 30 72, backpackerschezpatrick.com. A friendly hostel with dorms of three to six beds and some private rooms, close to the station, with no curfew. Lacks a kitchen or communal space. Closed 11am–2pm. Dorms €35, doubles €80

Belle Meunière 21 av Durante 04 93 88 66 15. In a beautiful old building close to the station and a short walk from town, this friendly backpacker place offers simple but pleasant rooms and small dorms. Breakfast included. Dorms €35, doubles €86

FUAJ Les Camélias 3 rue Spitalieri 04 93 62 15 54, fuaj.org. In an excellent, central location, not far from the old town, this is a great, friendly hostel with clean, modern dorms and a good bar on site. Dorms €28.60

Hôtel Baccarat 39 rue d'Angleterre 04 93 16 14 25. This large hostel has mixed dorms (four to twelve beds), kitchen and a communal space. They have a flexible, helpful attitude, too, in spite of the 3–6am curfew. Private doubles are also good value. Dorms €23, doubles €85

★TREAT YOURSELF

Le Bistro du Fromager 29 rue Benoît Bunico 04 93 13 07 83. The cheesiest restaurant in Nice, their every offering built around France's fantastic fromage, coupled with wine from the cellar. The cooking is excellent, the produce local and the atmosphere buzzy, though expect to pay around €25 per person. Booking recommended. Mon–Sat 7–11pm.

★Villa St-Éxupéry Beach 6 rue Sacha Guityr 04 93 16 13 45, www.villahostels.com. Well-equipped, a/c hostel close to place Masséna and Vieux Nice with a bar, 24hr gym, movie lounge, secure lockers and free wi-fi. There is a good range of smart private rooms, and the dorms (sleeping three to fourteen) are great too. Dorms €39.95, doubles €120

Wilson 39 rue de l'Hotel des Postes 04 93 85 47 79, hotel-wilson-nice.com. A stylish and gay-friendly budget guesthouse on the third floor in a great location, with individually themed rooms, the cheapest of which have washbasins only. Free wi-fi, but no lift. €50

EATING

Attimi 10 place Masséna 04 93 62 00 22. This bright terrace restaurant specializes in regional Italian dishes using organic, seasonal produce. Their specialties include colourful salads (from €7.50) and enormous pizzas (from €10.50). Daily noon–midnight.

★Fenocchio 2 place Rossetti. The master ice-cream maker of Nice, with a huge variety of flavours, like salted caramel and violet, alongside more traditional offerings. One scoop €2. Daily 9am–midnight.

Lou Pilha Leva 10 rue Collet. A self-proclaimed institution, this is nevertheless one of the best places in town to try classic Nice fast food like socca chickpea flatbreads (€2.80) and pan bagnat (tuna, olive and salad sandwich; €4). Daily 11am–8pm (later in summer).

Mets and Café 28 rue Assalit 04 93 80 03 57. Busy budget brasserie close to many of the backpacker hostels, serving traditional French food, with a €10.50 formule at lunchtime. Mon–Sat 11.30am–3pm & 8–9pm.

Pasta Basta 18 rue de la Prefecture 04 93 80 03 57. No-frills pasta place with fresh and dried pasta varieties, and a choice of sauces. Pasta from €4.60, sauce from €4, and rough wine by the pichet from €4. Daily noon–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Akathor 32 cours Saleya. The fifty different European beers on offer attract both locals and tourists in their droves. Live music daily; beer from €4. Happy hour 5.30–9pm. Daily 5.30pm–2am.

High Club 45 promenade des Anglais. Large seafront club that attracts big-name international DJs and live PAs. There's also an eighties-themed club, Studio 47, and an LGBT-friendly club, Sk'high. Expect to pay €10, except for the occasional free nights. Fri–Sun 11.45pm–6am.

Juke House Café 8 rue Defly. Tiny, American-style cocktail and tapas bar that draws a young crowd. Happy hour is 6–8pm, when cocktails cost €5–6 and draught beers start at €2. As the name suggests, there's a jukebox. Tues–Sat 5pm–midnight.

Les Distilleries Idéales 40 rue de la Préfecture. This pleasant terrace bar in the heart of the old town has eight different draught beers (from €3.60), snacks (charcuterie and cheese platter €6) and a happy hour (6–8pm). Daily 9am–12.30am.

Wayne's 15 rue de la Préfecture. Live music and DJ sets every night at this boisterous Irish bar, which heaves with backpackers and Anglophone expats. Happy hour 5–8pm. Daily 10am–2am.

MONACO

The tiny independent principality of MONACO rears up over the rocky Riviera coast like a Mediterranean Hong Kong. The 3km-long state consists of the old town of Monaco-Ville; Fontvieille; La Condamine by the harbour; Larvotto, with its artificial beaches of imported sand; and, in the middle, MONTE CARLO. There are relatively few conventional sights – indeed, Monaco seems composed of little other than roads, fast cars and apartment blocks – but one worth heading to is the superb (though expensive) Musée Océanographique on avenue St-Martin (daily: Jan–March & Oct–Dec 10am–6pm; April–June & Sept 10am–7pm; July & Aug 9.30am–8pm; €14; oceano.mc), which displays a living coral reef, transplanted from the Red Sea into a 40,000-litre tank. If you want to try your luck at the famous casino (over-18s only; daily 2pm–very late; €10 after 2pm), you'll have to dress smartly – no shorts or T-shirts – and show your passport.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Monaco train station is wedged between bd Rainier III and bd Princess Charlotte and has several exits, signposted clearly.
Destinations Nice (up to 4 hourly; 15–20min).

By bus Buses following the lower corniche or autoroute stop at place d'Armes by the gare SNCF and in Monte Carlo.

Tourist information 2a bd des Moulins (Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 11am–1pm; ☎07 92 16 61 16, visitmonaco.com).

ACCOMMODATION, EATING AND DRINKING

Le Pinocchio 30 rue Comte-Félix-Gastaldi. A reliable, good-value Italian in a narrow street in Monaco-Ville, dishing up hearty portions from a long menu of antipasti and pasta, including the likes of saltimbocca and veal Milanese from €20, and pizzas from €9. Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 7–10.30pm.

RIJ Villa Thalassa ☎04 93 78 18 58, clajud.fr. This clean and welcoming hostel is just 2km away from Monte Carlo along the coast near a good beach at Cap d'Ail. You can walk here in 30min from the city, or get the train to Cap d'Ail. Dorms €20

Stars 'n' Bars 6 quai Antoine 1er. This feisty, well-known bar on the quai serves up good-value food (for Monaco; prices from €11). Happy hour 5.30–7.30pm. Daily 11am–midnight.

Villa Boeri 29 bd du Général-Leclerc, Beausoleil ☎04 93 78 38 10, hotelboeri.com. A short walk uphill into France from Monte Carlo, this cheerful and welcoming two star has a nice terrace out the front. The a/c rooms are soundproofed, with satellite TV and bath or shower and WC. Doubles €105

The southeast

The southeast of France encompasses a geographically varied area, from the thick forests of the Massif Central to the dramatic peaks of the Alps. The Massif Central, not the most accessible part of the country, is worth going out of your way for, especially to see the dramatic landscape that surrounds Le Puy-en-Velay, which makes an excellent base for exploration. Most travel in the region will require passing through Lyon, a beautiful city that's worth lingering over, especially to try some of its exquisite restaurants. From here, a few hours on a train will take you to Grenoble, hemmed in by snowcapped mountains, and to Chamonix, which really comes alive during the ski season, and is a great place for extreme sports throughout the year.

LE PUY-EN-VELAY

LE PUY sprawls across a broad basin in the mountains, a muddle of red roofs and poles of volcanic rock; both landscape and architecture are completely theatrical. The town is a good base for explorations of the Massif Central – the tourist office (see below) is well stocked with information to help you plan your visit.

The cathedral, at the top of Mont Corneille, with its small, almost Byzantine cupolas and Romanesque facade, dominates the old town. The nearby church of St-Michel (daily: mid-Feb to mid-March 2–5pm; mid-March to April & Oct to mid-Nov 9.30am–noon & 2–5.30pm; May to mid-July & Sept 9am–6.30pm; mid-July to Aug 9am–7pm; €3.50), at the top of Rocher d'Aiguille, is an eleventh-century construction that appears to have grown out of the rock.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is on place du Maréchal Leclerc, a 15min walk from central place du Clauzel.

Destinations Lyon (7 daily; 2hr 30min); Paris (8 daily via St Etienne and/or Lyon; 4hr 25min–5hr 30min).

Tourist information 2 place du Clauzel (Easter–June & Sept Mon–Sat 9am–noon & 1.30–6pm, Sun 10am–noon & 2–5.30pm; July & Aug Mon–Sat 8.30am–7pm; Sun 10am–noon & 2–5.30pm; Oct–Easter Mon–Sat 8.30am–noon & 1.30–5.30pm, Sun 10am–noon; ☎ 04 71 09 38 41, ☉ ot-lepuyenvelay.fr).

ACCOMMODATION

Dyke 37 bd Maréchal Foyolle ☎ 04 71 09 05 30, ☉ dykehotel.fr. This basic two star is 5min walk from the train station and 10min from the town's historic area, and so is always popular – make sure you book ahead. Doubles €51

FUJ Centre Pierre Cardinal 9 rue Jules Vallès ☎ 04 71 05 52 40, ☉ fuaj.org. This hostel has old but clean dorms, plus basic breakfasts (€3) and cooking facilities; reservations are compulsory for weekend stays. Check-in Mon–Sat 2–11.30pm only, Sun 6–9pm. Dorms €15

Le Régional 36 bd du Maréchal Foyolle ☎ 04 71 09 37 74, ☉ hotelleregional.fr. A basic hotel attached to a friendly bar, offering cheap and comfortable doubles with shared bathroom. Doubles €30

EATING

Âme des Poètes 16 rue Séguret. In a lovely spot by the cathedral, this restaurant serves inexpensive regional food such as green lentil lasagne with salad (mains €11–20). Closed March & Oct. Daily 11am–11pm.

Marco Polo 46 rue Raphaël. The freshly cooked pasta is the thing at this Italian restaurant with a beautiful vaulted cellar, just moments from the cathedral. Menus from €17. Tues–Sat 11.30am–3pm & 7–11pm.

LYON

LYON is France's gastronomic capital, with more restaurants per square metre than anywhere else on Earth. The city also has a vibrant nightlife and cultural scene, the highlight of which is the summer-long festival Les Nuits de Fourvière, celebrating theatre, music and dance.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The city is split into three by its two rivers – the Saône and the Rhône. The elegant city centre, Le Presqu'île, is made up of grand boulevards and public squares, while across the Saône lies the beautifully preserved and atmospheric old Renaissance quarter of Vieux Lyon.

Le Presqu'île

North from Gare de Perrache, the pedestrian rue Victor-Hugo opens out onto the vast place Bellecour, which dwarfs even its statue of Louis XIV on horseback. On rue de la Charité, the Musée des Tissus et des Arts Decoratifs (Tues–Sun 10am–5.30pm; €10; ☉ www.mtmad.fr) has an interesting collection of fabrics, clothes and tapestries dating from ancient Egypt to the present, alongside a collection of period furnishings. Northwest of place Bellecour, on the east bank of the Saône, the quai St-Antoine is lined every morning with a colourful food market; a book market takes place just upriver on Sundays.

North and inland from the river, Place des Terreaux is home to the Musée des Beaux-Arts (daily except Tues 10/10.30am–6pm; €7; ☉ mba-lyon.fr). This absorbing collection includes ancient Egyptian, Greek and Roman artefacts as well as works by Rubens, Renoir and Picasso.

La Croix-Rousse

North of place des Terreaux, the old silk weavers' district of La Croix-Rousse has an authentic, creative feel to it. It is still a working-class area, but today only twenty or so people work on the computerized looms that are kept in business by the restoration and maintenance of tapestries within France's palaces and châteaux. The famous traboules, or covered alleyways, that run between streets were originally used to transport silk safely through town, later serving as wartime escape routes and hideouts for la Résistance. Look out for the small signs dotted about on walls in this area – follow the arrows to do a self-guided walking tour.

Vieux Lyon

The streets on the left bank of the Saône form an attractive muddle of cobbled lanes and Renaissance facades. The Musée des Marionnettes du Monde & Musée d'Histoire de Lyon, in the Musée Gadagne (Wed–Sun 11am–6.30pm; €6; gadagne.musees.lyon.fr), place du Petit Collège, is well worth an hour or two of your time, containing not just Lyon's famous puppets but also a collection of puppets from around the world. At the southern end of the rue St-Jean lies the Cathédrale St-Jean; though damaged during World War II, its thirteenth-century stained glass is in perfect condition.

Lyon Romain

Just beyond the cathedral, on avenue Adolphe-Max, is a funicular station, from which you can ascend (€1.80 one-way) to the two Roman theatres on rue de l'Antiquaille (daily: mid-April to mid-Sept 7am–9pm; mid-Sept to mid-April 7am–7pm; free), and the excellent Musée de la Civilisation Gallo-Romaine, 17 rue Cléberg (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €6), containing mosaics and other artefacts from Roman Lyon. Crowning the hill, the Basilique de Notre-Dame (daily 9am–7pm) is a gaudy showcase of multicoloured marble and mosaic, and there are fantastic views over the city from the gardens at the back of the church.

Elsewhere in the city

Reminders of the war are never far away in France, and the Centre d'Histoire de

LYON CITY CARD

If you're staying in Lyon for up to three days then consider investing in the Lyon City Card (1/2/3 days for €23/€33/€42), an easy, good-value way of enjoying the city. It offers unlimited access to all public transport and free entrance to over twenty museums and temporary exhibitions. The card is available from the tourist office.

la Résistance et de la Déportation,

14 av Berthelot (Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €6), tells of the courage and ingenuity of the French Resistance. It also serves as a poignant memorial to the city's deported Jews. To the southeast of town, the Musée Lumière, 25 rue du Premier-Film (Tues–Sun 10am–6.30pm; €6.50; institut-lumiere.org), houses the Lumière brothers' cinematograph, which in 1895 projected the world's first film.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Lyon-St-Exupéry airport is 25km southeast of the city, connected by the Rhône Express tram (every 15min–30min; 4.25am–midnight; €15.80).

By train The main TGV train station, Gare de la Part-Dieu, is on bd Marius-Vivier-Merle, in the heart of the commercial district on the east bank of the Rhône, and connected to the centre by métro. Other trains arrive at the Gare de Perrache, by the southern edge of the centre on the Presqu'île.

Destinations Arles (7 daily; 2hr 40min); Avignon TGV (hourly; 1hr 10min); Dijon (hourly; 2hr); Geneva (13–15 daily; 1hr 45min–2hr 50min); Grenoble (every 30min; 1hr 15min–1hr 50min); Marseille (frequent; 1hr 45min–3hr 45min); Paris (every 30min; 2hr); Turin (via Chambéry; 4 daily; 4–5hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information place Bellecour (daily 9am–6pm; 04 72 77 69 69, en.lyon-france.com).

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Tickets for all city transport cost a flat €1.80, or buy the tourist office's liberté ticket for a day's unlimited travel on trams, buses and métro (€5.50).

By bike Vélo'v is a citywide cycling scheme where you take and leave a bike from one of about a hundred sites around town (€1.50/day ticket; first 30min free; velov.grandlyon.com; credit card authorization required).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Indigo Porte de Lyon ☎ 04 78 35 64 55, camping-lyon.com; bus #89 from the bus station in Gare de Vaise, north of the city. The closest campsite to town, with a bar, restaurant, internet and a summer swimming pool. Per person and tent €22.20

Cool & Bed 32 Quai Arloing ☎ 04 26 18 05 28, coolandbed.com. Located in a quiet courtyard next to the Saône River and a 20min walk from the old town (10min walk from metro stop Valmy), this is an excellent new hostel with stylish facilities and friendly staff. Dorms €20

★ FUAJ Lyon 41–45 montée du Chemin Neuf ☎ 04 78 15 05 50, fuaj.org. An excellent hostel, well worth the hike up from the metro station (Vieux Lyon; alternatively, take funicular to Minimes and walk down) for the fantastic views of the city from its terrace. Dorms are comfortable and clean, staff friendly and helpful, and there's a good bar. Dorms €25.60

★ Hostel Slo Living 5 rue Bonnefoi ☎ 04 78 59 06 90, slo-hostel.com. There are currently few better hostels in France than Slo, an easy-going place whose attractively designed, all-white rooms (four-, six- and eight-bedded dorms and private doubles) are located either side of a lovely wood-decked patio where you can play a game of loules or just kick back with a beer. Buffet breakfast €5. Dorms €28, doubles €78

Mama Shelter 13 rue Domer ☎ 04 78 02 58 00, mamashelter.com. Another ultra-cool offering from the Mama family. Minimal, contemporary, with quality touches and luxuriously comfortable beds. Location is excellent (only three metro stops from the Gare de la Part-Dieu). Doubles €69

EATING

Best Bagels 1 place Tobie Robatel. With four addresses throughout the city, this bagel-bar is no longer a secret but its success is all in the name. Bagel, drink and accompagnement from €7.15. Mon & Tues 11.30am–10pm, Wed–Sat 11.30am–11pm, Sun 11am–2.30pm.

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Daniel et Denise 156 rue Créqui ☎ 04 78 60 66 53. If you've only got time to try one bouchon (a traditional Lyonnaise eating establishment), make it this one. This little corner restaurant will charm your socks off from the moment you step inside its old-fashioned interior, with its red-and-white-check-clothed table, tiled flooring and copper pots. On the menu are delicious dishes like sirloin of Angus beef with black pepper and Cognac, and poached pears with red wine and orange peel. Starters €14, mains €18. Closed Aug. Mon–Fri noon–2pm & 7–10pm.

Comptoir du Vin 2 rue de Belfort ☎ 04 78 39 89 95. A fantastic local bouchon in the heart of the trendy Croix-Rousse district. Dishes are generous and delicious – the andouillette with mustard sauce (€3.80) is excellent. Menus from €13. Mon–Fri noon–2pm & 7–11pm, Sat noon–2pm,

King Marcel 31 rue Marcière ☎ 04 78 42 28 50. Choose from six juicy burgers (from €11), plus a veggie option, throw in some thick-cut fries and a green salad, then take a seat at one of the dinky tables (spread over two floors) and wait for it to be brought to you. Takeaway available too. Daily 11am–11pm.

Le Meunière 11 rue Neuve ☎ 04 78 28 62 91. Dyed-in-the-wool bouchon whose happily careworn demeanour is manifest in age-old furnishings and faded wall prints. Seating is arranged around a central “guest” table laden with various cuts of meat, cheeses and pâtés, while the menu features the likes of veal kidneys with port wine and mustard sauce. Good fun and good value. Mains €15. Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 7.30–9.30pm.

★ Les Halles 102 cours Lafayette. Lyon's covered market has enough gorgeous produce to keep a gourmand happy for weeks – a great stop on sunny days when you can pick up everything you need for a picnic. There's also a good choice of bars and bistros for more leisurely lunches (mains from €11.50). Tues–Thurs 7am–12.30pm & 3–7pm, Fri & Sat 7am–7pm, Sun 7am–2pm.

Terre Adélice 1 place de la Baleine. Sparkling ice-cream parlour on a pretty old town square, though it's the sorbets that the locals really come here for. Choose, if you can, from over one hundred flavours, from the sublime (Armagnac, brandy and prune) to the ridiculous (cucumber). One scoop €4.60. April–Oct daily 12.30pm–midnight, Nov–March Wed–Sun noon–7pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Broc/Bar 20 rue Lanterne. There's nothing obviously exciting about this street-corner café-cum-bar, with its battered-looking red and yellow tables and chairs, but the terrace is invariably packed with punters idly chatting over a daytime coffee or an evening beer. Sun & Mon 7am–11pm, Tues–Fri 7am–1am, Sat 8am–1am.

Café de la Mairie 4 place Sathonay. One of a number of low-key places on this pleasant place and a lovely spot for an early evening sundowner. Daily 7am–2am.

Johnny's Kitchen 48 rue St Georges. This Irish bar is where it's at, with a lively atmosphere, jovial bar staff and a great location in the old town. And sure, you're in gastronomic Lyon, but don't be embarrassed to order one of the burgers (€11 with fries and salad). Pression from €2.70. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–1am, Fri & Sat noon–3am.

Le Boulevardier 5 rue de la Fromagerie. A great little bar with a charming, relaxed feel that matches the jazz played here (both live and recorded). A good place to start or finish your night off (wine from €2.50, demi €2.70). Mon–Sat 7/8am–8pm, Sun 9am–3pm; till 3am Fri & Sat if there's a gig.

Le Sucre 50 quai Rambaud @le-sucre.eu. Disused sugar factory on the banks of the Rhône that has been brilliantly converted into a cultural hub, the focal point of which is a rooftop bar playing host to an array of events, including techno club nights. Entry varies from free to €18. Thurs & Fri 10pm–5am, Sat 4pm–5am, Sun noon–midnight.

Ninkasi 267 rue Marcel Mérieux @ninkasi.fr. A high-spirited crowd is drawn here nightly to down a few refreshing house brews and soak up some cracking music, from live bands to world-renowned DJs. Entry free to €18 depending on event. Mon–Wed 10am–1am, Thurs 10am–2am, Fri & Sat 10am–4am, Sun 10am–midnight.

DIRECTORY

Health SAMU, emergency medical attention on 15; SOS Médecins 04 78 83 51 51. Hospitals: Croix-Rousse, 93 Grand rue de la Croix Rousse (04 72 07 10 46); Hôpital Edouard-Herriot, 5 place d'Arsonval, 3e (04 72 11 76 45).

Police The main commissariat is at 47 rue de la Charité, 2e (04 78 42 26 56).

GRENOBLE

The economic and intellectual capital of the French Alps, GRENOBLE is a thriving city, beautifully situated on the Drac and Isère rivers and surrounded by mountains. The old centre, south of the Isère, focuses on place Grenette and place Notre-Dame, both popular with local students, who lounge around in the many outdoor cafés. The central Musée de Grenoble, 5 place Lavalette (Mon & Wed–Sun 10am–6.30pm; €8; @museedegrenoble.fr), is considered, by dint of its twentieth-century masterpieces, to be one of the best in Europe and includes works by Matisse, Chagall and Gauguin. Grenoble's highlight, however, especially in good weather, is the trip by téléphérique (May–Sept daily; Oct–April Tues–Sun; first ascent between 9.15am and 11am, last descent between 6.30pm and 12.15am according to the season; €5.50/8 one-way/return) from the riverside quai Stéphane Jay up to Fort de la Bastille on the steep slopes above the north bank of the Isère. It's a hair-raising ride to an otherwise uninteresting fort, but the views over the mountains and down onto the town are stunning, and the walk down is lovely and tranquil.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus and train The train and bus stations are on the northwestern edge of the city, at the end of av Félix Viallet, a 10min walk to the centre.

Destinations (train) Chamonix (5–9 daily with connections; 4hr 15min); Lyon (frequent; 1hr 15min–1hr 45min); Paris (several daily; 3hr); Turin (2–3 daily, via Chambéry; 3hr 30min–3hr 50min).

Tourist information 14 rue de la République, near place Grenette (May–Sept Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 9am–noon; Oct–April Mon 1–6pm, Tues–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 9am–1pm; 04 76 42 41 41, @grenoble-tourisme.com).

Hiking information Maison de la Montagne, behind the tourist office at 3 rue Raoul Blanchard (Mon–Fri 9.30am–12.30pm & 1–6pm, Sat 10am–1pm & 2–5pm; @grenoble-montagne.com), is the place to go for information on mountain activities in the region.

GETTING AROUND

By bus and tram There are five trams in the city, of which lines A and B are the most useful, passing outside the train station and running through the city centre, plus a host of bus lines (@tag.fr). A single ticket (€1.50; day pass €5) is valid for one hour on the TAG network, including changing vehicles.

HIKING IN THE ALPS

There are six national and regional parks in the Alps – Vanoise, Écrins, Bauges, Chartreuse, Queyras (the least busy) and Vercors (the gentlest) – each of which covers ideal walking country, as does the Route des Grandes Alpes, which crosses all the major massifs from Lake Geneva to Menton and should only be attempted by seasoned hikers. All walking routes are clearly marked and equipped with refuge huts, known as gîtes d'étape (@www.gites-refuges.com). The Maisons de la Montagne in Grenoble (see above) and Chamonix (see p.344) provide detailed information on GR paths (an abbreviation of Grande Randonnée, meaning “long ramble”), and local tourist offices often have maps of walks in their areas. Bear in mind that anywhere above 2000m will only be free of snow from early July until mid-September.

By bike Bike rental at Métrovélo, place de la Gare, lower level of the station (Mon–Fri 7am–8pm, Sat & Sun 9am–noon & 2–7pm; ☎ metrovelo.fr; €3/24hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Alizé 1 place de la Gare ☎ 04 76 43 12 91, ☎ hotelalize.com. Just across the road from the station, Grenoble's cheapest hotel offers a friendly welcome and basic but surprisingly spacious and airy rooms. Doubles €43

De l'Europe 22 place Grenette ☎ 04 76 46 16 94, ☎ hoteleurope.fr. Faded grandeur in a seventeenth-century building with a central location overlooking the square. Rooms are generally small, and the cheapest have shared bathrooms. Doubles €59

★ FUAI Grenoble 10 av du Grésivaudan ☎ 04 76 09 33 52, ☎ fuai.org; bus #1 to la Quinzaine (the best option) or tram A to la Rampe. This smart, modern, eco-friendly hostel has ultra-clean dorms and a good atmosphere. There's excellent information about hiking in the area and skiing in winter; unfortunately it's 5km from the centre of town. Dorms €20.20

Les Trois Pucelles ☎ 04 76 96 45 73, ☎ camping3pucelles-grenoble.fr; tram C in the direction of Le Prisme and get off at Mas des Îles. Located 4km from Grenoble, in Seyssins, this campsite has 65 pitches, two swimming pools and a restaurant in an arboretum by the Drac River (400m south of Mas des Îles). May–Sept. Per person and tent €10.50

Victoria 17 rue Thiers ☎ 04 76 46 06 36, ☎ hotelvictoria-grenoble.com. A charming hotel in a quiet street close to town. Some rooms are spacious with traditional decor but some look onto grey rooftops; most are en suite. Doubles €53

EATING AND DRINKING

K Fée des Jeux 1 quai Stéphane Jay. A unique place specializing in board games, Sun brunch and, strangely, mead. The food is good value too, particularly the €12.80 lunch formule. Tues–Sat 11am–1am.

L'As de Pique 14 rue Lieutenant ☎ 04 76 87 32 91. Enjoy a glass of wine (€2) in this pleasantly atmospheric and retro bar. The adjoining restaurant serves the regional speciality Ravioles de Royans (dishes €14–22). Mon–Fri 11am–midnight, Sat noon–2pm & 6pm–midnight.

La Gazzetta 30 av Félix Viallet ☎ 04 76 50 22 22. A cut above your average Italian, La Gazzetta offers sublimely crafted dishes like mushroom and foie gras ravioli, and pappardelle with crayfish and asparagus tips (from €13), as well as pizza (from €9). The big bay windows and mezzanine-level seating lend this place a lounge-like feel. Mon–Fri noon–2pm & 7–10pm, Sat 7–10pm.

Le Café des Arts 36 rue St-Laurent ☎ lecafedesarts38.fr. This intimate venue with stone walls and low lighting is suitably atmospheric for its varied programme, which ranges from African blues and Balkan jazz to classical and chanson. Check website for details. Mon–Sat 8pm–midnight.

Le Ferme à Dédé 1 place aux Herbes ☎ 04 76 54 00 33. You could be forgiven for thinking you were halfway up a mountain in this fun restaurant, with its red-and-white-checked tablecloths and randomly scattered alpine junk. The big menu features hearty sausage casseroles, gooey Savoyard fondues and local favourites, radlette and tartiflette. Packed to the gills most nights. Mains from €14. Mon–Sat noon–2pm & 7–10pm.

Mark XIII 8 rue Lakanal. A two-floor bar and venue that draws in an exciting depth and variety of underground electronic DJ talent (progressive house, drum'n'bass, techno, ambient). Tues & Wed 2pm–1am, Thurs–Sat 2pm–2am.

CHAMONIX AND MONT BLANC

At 4810m, Mont Blanc is both Western Europe's highest mountain and the Alps' biggest draw. Nestled at its base, the town of CHAMONIX is lively year-round; in summer it's popular for rock climbing and hiking, while in winter its draw is the area's vast skiing possibilities. The pricey téléphérique (daily every 15min: May, June & Sept 8.10am–4pm; July & Aug 6.30am–5pm; Oct–April 8.10am–3.30pm; €58.50 return; ☎ 04 50 53 22 75) soars to the Aiguille du Midi (3842m), a terrifying granite pinnacle on which the cable-car station and a restaurant are precariously balanced. Here, the view of Mont Blanc, coupled with the altitude, will literally

★TREAT YOURSELF

One of the most exhilarating experiences you can have in the Alps is not on the ground, but in the air. A number of companies operate tandem paragliding flights, which allow you to take in the fantastic scenery from a different perspective. Fly Chamonix (☎ 610 28 20 77, ☎ fly-chamonix.com) offers tandem flights from €100 – for more information, or to book a flight, head to Chamonix Freeride Centre, 280 rue Paccard, Chamonix (daily 9am–noon & 3–7pm).

leave you breathless. Book the téléphérique ahead to avoid the queues and get there early, before the clouds and the crowds close up.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Chamonix train station is 3min walk from the centre, down av Michel Croz.

Destinations Grenoble (2 daily, via St Gervais; 6hr 10min); Lyon (8 daily, via St Gervais; 4–5hr).

By bus Buses leave from in front of the train station.

Destinations Courmayeur, Italy (2–6 daily; 45min); Geneva (2 daily; 2hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office at 85 place du Triangle-de-l'Amitié (daily: mid-April to mid-Dec 9am–12.30pm & 2–6pm; mid-Dec to mid-April 8.30am–7pm; ☎ 04 50 53 00 24, chamonix.com) is able to book accommodation, provide good information on local activities and advise on weather and snow conditions.

Hiking information The Maison de la Montagne on place de L'Église is the place for organizing climbing, trekking, mountain biking and parapenting. On the top floor, l'Office de Haute Montagne (Mon–Sat 9am–noon & 3–6pm; July & Aug also Sun; ☎ 04 50 53 22 08, ohm-chamonix.com) offer general advice on mountain conditions and activities. They also have good information about the Gîtes de Montagne that are situated along the major hiking trails.

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Les Marmottes 140 chemin des Doux ☎ 04 50 53 61 24, camping-lesmarmottes.com. Situated off the main road south of Chamonix, this campsite is linked to the town via a free bus service. Facilities include a games room, use of barbecues and a laundry, and it enjoys great views of Mont Blanc. Per person €6.80, plus per tent €3.

FUJAJ Chamonix-Mont Blanc 127 Montée J. Balmat, les Pélerins d'en Haut ☎ 04 50 53 14 52, fuaj.org; bus #3 from the town centre or the train to Les Pélerins. Situated in a traditional chalet 2km out of the centre, this hostel has good dorms and a friendly atmosphere, but no on-site kitchen. Closed noon–5pm & 7.30–8.30pm. Dorms €29.80.

★ Gîte Vagabond 365 av Ravelle-le-Rouge ☎ 04 50 53 15 43, gitevagabond.com. This lively and friendly hostel is a good choice year-round and invaluable cheap for the ski season (book ahead), when half-board packages are available. Dorms €21.

Vert Hotel 964 rte des Gaillands ☎ 04 50 53 13 58, verthotel.com; bus #1 stops outside. Around 1km west of the town centre, close to the Lac du Gaillands, this is a welcoming place, offering a mix of double, triple and quad rooms. There's an atmospheric lounge bar-cum-restaurant that does fabulous cocktails and delicious food. Free pick-ups on request. €70

EATING AND DRINKING

L'Atelier Café quai D'Arve. This easy-going and colourful café serves up the best coffee (and pastries) in town, alongside light lunches (bagels and croques), breakfasts and brunches. Daily 8.30am–10pm.

Le Bartavel 26 cour du Bartavel ☎ 04 50 53 97 19. With its sprawling terrace edging out towards place Balmat, this is a good budget bet. Pizza (€10) and pasta (€12) form the mainstay of a long menu, which also includes soups, salads, crêpes and grillades. Daily 11.30am–11.30pm.

MBC 350 route du Bouchet. This microbrewery is perfect for those who find bière blonde doesn't quite hit the spot in the mountain air. Burger lovers will be satisfied, too (from €10). Food served 4–10.30pm. Daily 3pm–2am.

Moö Bar Cuisine 239 av Michel-Croz. A laidback Swedish-run bar-restaurant serving good-value dishes such as the plat du jour (€10.90) or pulled-pork burger €12.50 – all dishes served with salad. The bar has regular live bands. Daily 11.30am–1am.

Poco Loco 47 rue Paccard. It doesn't look like much, but this sliver of a snack bar does what it does – toasted sandwiches and other sur le pouce (on the go) goodies (from €4.40) – very well and very generously. Daily 11.30am–9.30pm.

Corsica

Known to the French as the “île de beauté”, Corsica has an amazing diversity of natural landscape. One-third national park, its magnificent rocky coastline is interspersed with outstanding beaches, while the interior mountains soar as high as 2706m. Two French départements divide Corsica, each with its own capital: Napoleon's birthplace, Ajaccio on the southwest coast; and Bastia, which faces Italy in the north. The old capital of Corte dominates the interior, backed by a formidable wall of mountains. Of the coastal resorts, Calvi draws tourists with its massive citadel and long sandy beach; Bonifacio's Genoan houses perch atop limestone cliffs, overseeing the clearest water in the Mediterranean, on the island's southernmost point. Still more dramatic landscapes lie around the Golfe de Porto in the far northwest, where the famous red cliffs of the Calanches de Piana rise over 400m.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Air France (✉ airfrance.fr) and its partner company Air Corsica (CCM; ✉ aircorsica.com) have regular flights to Corsica's four airports at Ajaccio, Bastia, Calvi and Figari (near Bonifacio) year-round. It's often possible to get discounts if you are under 25. In addition, easyJet (✉ easyjet.com) fly daily to Bastia and Ajaccio; Ryanair (✉ ryanair.com) fly daily to Figaro from Paris; Transavia (✉ transavia.com) fly from Nantes to Ajaccio three times weekly; and XL Airways (✉ xlairways.com) fly to Figari from Paris during the summer. Bastia's airport, Poretta, is 20km south of town. Shuttle buses (35–40min; €9) meet all flights and stop outside the train station in the centre of town.

By ferry The island is served by a number of ferry companies which run services from both France (Marseille, Nice and Toulon) and Italy: Corsica Ferries (✉ corsica-ferries.com), La Méditerranée (✉ lameridionale.fr), Moby (✉ mobyline.fr) and Corsica Linea (✉ corsicalinea.com). Prices range between €20 and €75 for foot passengers, plus between €100 and €250 for a vehicle, depending on the date. Routes are scaled back in winter (Oct–March) to several journeys a week; check websites for details. Bastia's port is in the north of town, a 5min walk from the centre. Destinations from Nice Ajaccio (5–6 weekly; 6hr 15min–7hr); Bastia (7–8 weekly; 5hr 20min–7hr 30min); Calvi (daily; 5hr 45min).

Destinations from Marseille Ajaccio (1–2 daily; 13hr); Bastia (1–2 daily; 13hr).

Destinations from Livorno, Italy Bastia (1–2 daily; 4hr).

Destinations from Genoa, Italy Bastia (1 daily; 4hr 45min).

Destinations from Savona, Italy Bastia (4–14 weekly; 6hr).

Destinations from Santa Teresa di Gallura, Italy Bonifacio (late March to Sept 4–14 weekly; 50min).

GETTING AROUND

Corsica is somewhat difficult to navigate if relying on public transport, with services slow and infrequent. The unofficial website ✉ corsicabus.org is helpful for train and bus timetables. Bastia is the island's main transport hub – while there's little of particular interest here, there's a good chance that you'll pass through the town at least once during your visit.

By train Corsica's narrow-gauge railway crosses the mountains to connect the island's main towns along the most scenic of lines. Lines run from Calvi to Ponte Leccia in the interior and from Ajaccio to Bastia via Corte. A single journey between Ajaccio and Bastia costs €21.60; InterRail tickets reduce fares to half for all services, while students can get a discount of 25 percent. Bastia's station is located west of place St-Nicolas.

Destinations from Bastia Ajaccio (3–5 daily; 3hr 45min); Calvi (change at Ponte Leccia; 3 daily; 3hr 15min); Corte (3–5 daily; 1hr 45min).

By bus Bus services are fairly frequent out of Bastia and Ajaccio, and along the east coast to Porto-Vecchio and Bonifacio. Elsewhere in the island, services are relatively infrequent. Fares are reasonable: tickets for the two-hour trip between Bastia and Calvi cost €16. Services are scaled back drastically Nov–May. Buses arrive in, and depart from, Bastia via either Rond Point de la Prefecture, near the train station, or rue du Nouveau Port.

Destinations Calvi (2 daily; 2hr); Porto-Vecchio (2 daily; 3hr).

By scooter With little public transport and many secluded beaches to visit, the roads that undulate and meander around Corsica mean it's a great place to rent a scooter. Try Scootloc at place du Marché in Ajaccio (€39–46/day; ☎ 06 26 17 31 07); Scoot Rent at 3 quai Banda del Ferro in Bonifacio (€50/day; ☎ 06 25 44 22 82); or Garage d'Angeli at 4 Quartier Neuf in Calvi (€35–50/day; ☎ 04 95 65 02 13).

By car Driving is by far the most convenient way to get around Corsica. Hertz (✉ hertz.fr), Europcar (✉ europcar.com) and Avis (✉ avis.fr) all have offices in the big towns and airports; for the best prices, book via an online car rental portal.

AJACCIO

Set in a magnificent bay, AJACCIO has all the ingredients of a Riviera-style town with its palm trees, spacious squares, glamorous marina and street cafés. Napoleon was born here in 1769, but did little for the place except to make it the island's capital for the brief period of his empire. It is, however, a lovely place to spend time, particularly around the harbour and narrow streets inland from the fifteenth-century Genoese citadel. The Palais Fesch: Musée des Beaux Arts, rue Cardinal-Fesch (May–Sept Mon, Wed & Sat 10.30am–6pm, Thurs, Fri & Sun noon–6pm; Oct–April Mon, Wed & Sat 10am–5pm, Thurs, Fri & Sun noon–5pm; €8), is home to the country's most important collection of Renaissance paintings outside Paris, including works by Botticelli, Titian and Poussin. The best beach to head to is plage Trottel, ten minutes southwest from the centre along the promenade.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The airport, Napoléon Bonaparte, is 8km east and connected to the town by navette (shuttle bus; 3 hourly; €4.50).

By train The train station is a 10min walk north along the seafont.

Destinations Bastia (4 daily; 3hr 30min); Calvi (change at Ponte Leccia; 2 daily; 4hr); Corte (2–4 daily; 2hr).

By bus and ferry The ferry port and bus station occupy the same building off quai L'Herminier.

Destinations (bus) Bastia (2 daily; 3hr); Bonifacio (1–2 daily; 3hr 15min); Corte (3–5 daily; 2hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information place du Marché (April–June & Sept Mon–Sat 8am–7pm, Sun 9am–1pm; July & Aug Mon–Sat 8am–8.30pm, Sun 9am–1pm & 4–7pm; Oct–March Mon–Fri 8.30am–6pm, Sat 8.30am–noon; ☎ 04 95 51 53 03, 🌐 ajaccio-tourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Budget accommodation in Ajaccio is hard to find and hotels get booked up quite quickly. The tourist office can provide a list of those available as well as private apartments to rent.

Camping de Barbicaja Route des îles Sanguinaires ☎ 04 95 52 01 17; bus #5 from place Général-du-Gaulle. The most convenient campsite is 3km out of town, near the beach, a short bus ride away. Closed Nov–March. Two people and tent €14.60

Du Palais 8 bd Béverini-Vico ☎ 04 95 22 73 68, 🌐 hoteldupalaisajaccio.com. A well-run place just a 10min walk north of the centre, within easy reach of the train station. The rooms are on the small side, but they're impeccably clean. Ask for one at the rear of the building if you want peace and quiet. Doubles €80

Marengo 2 rue Marengo ☎ 04 95 21 43 66, 🌐 hotel-marengo.com. A sweet little hotel with spacious, clean rooms. The cheapest have shared toilets, while some lead onto a floral courtyard. Doubles €77.80

EATING AND DRINKING

Da Mamma 3 passage Guingette ☎ 04 95 21 39 44. The set €17 menu (entrée, plat and dessert) doesn't compromise on quality in this traditional restaurant, pleasantly situated in the shade of a magnificent rubber tree; expect dishes like roast kid and seafood. Mon 6.30–11pm, Tues–Sat noon–2.30pm & 6.30–11pm.

Le Grand Café Napoleon 10 cours Napoléon ☎ 04 95 21 42 54. One of the oldest, grandest establishments in Ajaccio where you can eat in style – though not necessarily pay the price. Drop by for a pastry, or enjoy the good-value €20 menu. Mon–Sat 7am–11pm.

Le Temps des Oliviers 1 rue des Halles ☎ 04 95 28 36 72. Run by a pair of young sisters, this upbeat backstreet bistro occupies a secluded spot on a traffic-free alley. It serves quality Italian dishes: the pizzas (€12–15) are sublime, and so are the risotto and grillades. DJs play most Thursday evenings. Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 6.30–11pm. Closed lunchtimes in July & Aug.

Vino de Diablo Port de l'Amirauté. A party place with live music and a lovely expansive terrace on the port. Three tapas and a drink for €13; good lunch menu at around the same price. Tues–Sat 5.30pm–2am.

LE GOLFE DE PORTO

Corsica's most startling landscapes surround the Golfe de Porto, on the west coast. A deep blue bay enfolded by outlandish red cliffs, among them the famous Calanches de Piana rock formations, the gulf is framed by snow-topped mountains and a vast pine forest. The entire area holds endless possibilities for outdoor enthusiasts, with a superb network of marked trails (free maps available from the Ajaccio tourist office) and canyoning routes, perfect bays for kayaking and some of the finest diving sites in the Mediterranean.

Porto

Less adventurous visitors can explore the coast on one of the excursion boats from the village of PORTO, the gulf's main tourist hub.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses arrive and depart from the junction at the end of the route de la Marine, opposite the Banco supermarket, en route to the marina. The local bus operator is Autocars SAIB (🌐 autocarsiledebeaute.com).

Destinations Ajaccio (1–2 daily; 2hr 10min); Calvi (May to mid-Oct 1 daily; 2hr 30min).

Tourist information Quartier la Marine (May, June & Sept daily 9am–6pm; July & Aug daily 9am–7pm; Oct–April Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎ 04 95 26 10 55, 🌐 porto-tourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

The village has a huge range of accommodation. For an inexpensive meal, try one of the pizzerias lining the roadside above the marina.

Camping Les Oliviers Along from the supermarket on the main road east from the village ☎ 04 95 26 14 49, 🌐 camping-oliviers-porto.com. Lovely campsite, with pitches under the shade of olive trees. Amenities include a bar, swimming pool, gym, hot tub, a hammam and massages. Per person €10.80, plus per tent €4

Le Golfe At the base of the rock in the marina ☎ 04 95 26 12 31, 📍 hotel-le-golfe-porto.com. Small, cosy and unpretentious; every room has a balcony with a sea view. Among the cheapest at this end of the village. Closed Nov–Aug. Doubles €58

Le Romulus cours Napoléon. A good-value Italian, offering pizza (from €8.50), pasta dishes (€9.50) and lasagne. The terrace is a particularly lovely spot come evening. Mon–Sat noon–2pm & 7–10.30pm.

CALVI

Seen from the water, the great citadel of CALVI resembles a floating island, defined by a hazy backdrop of snow-capped mountains. The island's third port, it draws thousands of tourists for its 6km of sandy beach. The ville haute, a labyrinth of cobbled lanes and stairways encased by a citadel, rises from place Christophe Colomb, which links it to the town and marina of the ville basse. The square's name derives from the local belief that the discoverer of the New World was born here, in a now ruined house on the edge of the citadel. To reach the public beach, keep walking south, past the boats in the marina, and – unless you want to pay for a lounge and waited service – past the private beach bars.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Calvi's Ste-Catherine airport is 7km southeast of town, connected only by taxis (€25–30).

By train The train station, on av de la République, is just off the marina to the south of the town centre.

Destinations Ajaccio (2 daily; 4hr 10min); Bastia (2 daily; 3hr 20min); Corte (2 daily; 2hr 25min).

By bus Buses to and from Bastia and Calenzana stop in place Porteuse d'Eau, next to the station. Porto buses operate from the roadside behind the marina.

Destinations Bastia (1 daily; 1hr 45min–2hr 15min); Porto (1 daily; 2hr 30min).

By ferry The ferry port is on the opposite side of the marina, below the citadel.

INFORMATION

Tourist information quai Landry (mid-June to Sept daily 9am–7pm; Oct to mid-June Mon–Fri 9am–noon & 2–5.30pm, Sat 9am–noon; ☎ 04 95 65 16 67, 📍 balagne-corsica.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Bella Vista rte de Pietra-Maggiore, 1km southeast of the centre ☎ 04 95 65 11 76, 📍 camping-calvi-bellavista.com. Much closer to the centre of town than the competition – though you pay a couple of euros extra a night for the privilege. Plenty of shade, nice soft ground and clean toilet blocks. Closed Nov–March. Two people and tent €27

Du Centre 14 rue Alsace-Lorraine ☎ 04 95 65 02 01. The most convenient budget accommodation, hidden away in the ville basse, with modest and well-kept rooms. Double €60

U Carabellu rte de Pietra-Maggiore ☎ 04 95 65 14 16, 📍 clajsud.fr. Book ahead for this hostel, with tidy spacious dorms and a great out-of-town location overlooking the bay. From the station, turn left down av de la République, then right at the Total garage after 500m and keep walking for 3.5km. Also offers full- and half-board options. Dorms €20

EATING AND DRINKING

Bar de la Tour quai Landry. A lovely spot overlooking the water, and a great place for an early-evening beer. Daily noon–1am.

Best Of 1 rue Clemenceau, Port de Plaisance Area. The wood-fired bread topped with local specialities, panini and sandwiches made here are perfect for a snack on the move. Daily 11.30am–10pm.

La Tire Bouchon 15 rue Clemenceau ☎ 04 95 38 21 87. Serving traditional Corsican cuisine such as veal stew or tagliatelle with brocciu (fresh ewe's or goat's cheese). Mains €12–22, menu €25. April–Oct daily noon–2pm & 7–11pm.

Pizzeria Cappuccino Quai Landry ☎ 04 95 65 11 19. This restaurant has a great atmosphere and serves up good-value calzones (from €12) and pasta. Daily noon–3pm & 6–11pm.

CORTE

Perching on the rocky crags of the island's spine, CORTE, the island's only interior town, is regarded as the spiritual capital of Corsica, as this is where Pasquale Paoli had his seat of government during the brief period of independence in the eighteenth century. Paoli founded a university here and its student population adds some much-needed life. For outdoor enthusiasts, this is also an ideal base for trekking into the island's steep valleys, with two superb gorges stretching west into the heart of the mountains.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The main street, cours Paoli, runs the length of town, culminating in place Paoli, a pleasant market square lined with cafés. A cobbled ramp leads up to the ville haute, where you can still see the bullet marks made by Genoese soldiers during the War of Independence in tiny place Gaffori. Continuing north, you'll soon come to the gates of the citadelle, whose well-preserved ramparts enclose the ethnographic Museu di a Corsica (April to mid-June & mid-Sept to Oct Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; mid-June to mid-Sept daily 10am–8pm; Nov–March Tues–Sat 10am–5pm; €5.30). The best views of the citadel, the town and its valley are from the Belvédère, a man-made lookout post on the southern end of the ramparts.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Corte's train station is 1km southeast of town at the foot of the hill near the university.

Destinations Ajaccio (4 daily; 1hr 50min); Bastia (4 daily; 1hr 35min); Calvi (2 daily via Ponte Leccia; 2hr 30min).

By bus Buses to and from Porto (1 daily; 2hr 30min) work from outside the train station. Since the upgrade of the train line there are no longer any bus services from Ajaccio or Bastia.

Tourist information In the citadelle (July & Aug Mon, Wed & Sat 10am–5pm, Tues, Thurs & Fri 9am–7pm; Sept–June Mon–Fri 9am–noon & 2–6pm; ☎04 95 46 26 70, corte-tourisme.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Ferme Équestre l'Albadu Ancienne route d'Ajaccio ☎04 95 46 24 55, hebergement-albadu.fr. The nicest of the local campsites, located a 15min walk from town – follow the main road south down the hill from place Paoli and take the second right after the second bridge. Per person €6, plus per tent €3

Gîte d'Étape U Tavignanu Behind the citadelle

☎04 95 46 16 85. Run-of-the-mill hikers' hostel with small dorms and a relaxing garden terrace that looks over the valley. Follow the signs for the Tavignano trail (marked with orange spots of paint) around the back of the citadelle. Breakfast included. Easter to mid-Oct. Dorms €20

HR Allée du 9 Septembre ☎04 95 45 11 11, hotel-hr.com. Cheap and cheerful rooms in an old converted police station southwest of the station and just 10min from the centre. No credit cards. Doubles €50

EATING AND DRINKING

Café du Cours 22 rue Paoli. Student nights and well-priced drinks at this busy bar which also has internet access, some live Corsican bands and daytime left-luggage facilities; demi €3. Daily 7am–2am.

Les Délices du Palais bakery Paoli. Frilly little crêperie-cum-salon de thé whose bakery sells a selection of delicious Corsican pâtisseries: try their colzone (spinach pasties) or brocciu baked in flaky chestnut-flour pastry. Mon–Sat 9am–2pm & 4–6pm.

U Valentinu 1 place Paoli ☎04 95 61 19 65. This great little Italian restaurant on the main street serves Corte's best pizzas, baked to perfection in a wood oven. The dining hall is spacious, staff are friendly, portions copious and prices reasonable. Go for one of their Corsican speciality options, featuring mountain charcuterie and ewe's cheese. Mains from €8. Daily noon–2.30pm & 6–10.30pm.

BONIFACIO

The port of BONIFACIO has a superb, isolated position on a narrow peninsula of dazzling white limestone at Corsica's southernmost point, only an hour away by

THE GR20

The GR20 hiking trail stretches across Corsica's dramatic granite spine from Calenzana in the north to Conza in the south. Covering a breathtaking landscape, the route takes you through some lush countryside and over the snowcapped peaks of the heart of the island. It is manageable for anyone in reasonable shape with basic trekking common sense, but proper hiking equipment is essential, as are nerves of steel for the ropes and vertical staircases built into the mountainside. Covering a distance of 180km, it takes around two weeks to complete, walking 2–6hr per day; red and white waymarks show the route, which is well serviced with bunked mountain refuges. Although the refuges cook and sell food, several days' supplies and a good stock of water are recommended. Do not attempt the route outside of the summer months; even then there is some residual snow in parts.

Buses go from Calvi to Calenzana (1–2 daily; 30min; €8), where the walk begins. Accommodation details and more information about the route itself can be found at corsica.forhikers.com/gr20. Detailed maps can be obtained from the Calvi tourist office.

boat from Sardinia. For hundreds of years the town held the most powerful fortress in the Mediterranean and was a virtually independent republic. Nowadays, people are met with sights of precariously balanced houses edging their way into the sea. Bonifacio has become a chic holiday spot, sailing centre and deluxe day-trip.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The ville haute is connected to the marina by a steep flight of steps at the west end of the quay, at the top of which you can enjoy glorious views across the straits to Sardinia. Within the massive fortifications of the citadel is an alluring maze of cobbled streets which bring you back down to the marina, where a boat excursion (from €17.50; try Rocca Croisières, rocca-croisieres.com) round the base of the cliffs gives a fantastic view of the town and the sea caves. Some outstanding beaches lie near Bonifacio, most notably the shell-shaped plage de la Rondinara, 10km north; further north still, off the main Porto Vecchio road, the plages de Santa Giulia and Palombaggia wouldn't look out of place in the Maldives. Buses (1–4 daily; 30–40min) make the journey from Bonifacio to Porto Vecchio, passing the turn-off for la Rondinara. From Porto Vecchio a beach bus runs in July and August to Palombaggia (3 daily at 9.45am, 1.45pm, 4.20pm; 45min) and another to Santa Giulia (Mon–Sat 4 daily at 9.50am, 12.10pm, 3.05pm & 6.30pm; 20min).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Figari Sud-Corse Airport is located 20km from Bonifacio. A seasonal bus service is run by Transports Rossi (☎ 04 95 71 00 11) that should in theory meet incoming flights, stopping at Bonifacio en route to Porto Vecchio; otherwise your only option is to take a taxi into town – around €50.

By bus Buses drop passengers in the marina, next to the tourist office.

Destinations Ajaccio (2 daily; 3hr 30min); Bastia (2–4 daily; 3hr 25min); Porto Vecchio 1–4 daily; 30–40min).

By ferry Boats from Santa-Teresa-di-Gallura on Sardinia dock at the far end of the quay at the bottom of the hill.

Destinations Santa-Teresa-di-Gallura (late March to Sept 2–8 daily; 50min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office is based in the ville haute, at the bottom of rue Fred Scamaroni (July–Sept daily 9am–7pm; Oct–June Mon–Fri 9am–noon & 2–5pm; ☎ 04 95 73 11 88, bonifacio.fr).

ACCOMMODATION

L'Araguina 33 av de Bonifaccio ☎ 04 95 73 02 96, camping-araguina-bonifacio.com. The only campsite close to the town has lumpy and sandy pitches but loans out tents and sleeping bags for those unprepared. It's north from the marina, 1km out of town with an unfortunate roadside location. Per person €8, plus per tent €3.20

Des Étrangers av Sylvere Bohn ☎ 04 95 73 01 09. An absolute bargain just north of the harbour, offering spick-and-span rooms with tiled floor, plus more expensive rooms with a/c. Closed Nov–March. Doubles €60

Royal 8 rue Fred Scamaroni ☎ 04 95 73 00 51, hotel-leroyal.com. A good option in the centre of town, only minutes away from the tourist office. Don't let the slightly faded blue carpet and curtain-less showers put you off – the beds are comfy and it offers a decent night's sleep. Doubles €75

EATING AND DRINKING

B'52 Quai Camparetti. A laidback and tasteful late-night waterfront bar with tapas bites to accompany the house cocktails. Mid-June to mid-Sept daily 8pm–2am.

Cantina Doria 27 rue Doria ☎ 04 95 73 50 49. A charming little place with odds and ends strung from the rafters, and serving traditional, hearty, Corsican specialties – try the fish soup or charcuterie. Three-course menu for €18. June to mid-Sept daily noon–3pm & 6–11pm; March–May & mid-Sept to Oct closed Sat.

Kissing Pigs 15 quai Banda del Ferro ☎ 04 95 73 56 09. In spite of the prevailing pig theme (excellent charcuterie), the aubergine à la bonifacienne is one of the highlights and the €19 châtaignes ("chestnuts") menu is a steal. Worth reserving a table on the terrace for a dreamy view of the port. Daily 11am–late.

BEER PAVILION, OKTOBERFEST, MUNICH

Germany

HIGHLIGHTS

- 1 Berlin Dramatic history and gritty modernity combine in this most untamed of European capitals. See p.358
- 2 Dresden Glorious Baroque architecture by day; decadent bar-crawling by night. See p.370
- 3 Dom, Cologne Cologne's cathedral is Gothic grandeur on a massive scale. See p.387
- 4 Heidelberg Great romantic setting, buzzing student life and the best castle ruins in Germany. See p.398
- 5 Oktoberfest, Munich The world's most famous beer festival. See p.409

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.353

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €55, occasional treat €70

Drink Beer (half-litre) €2.90

Food Schnitzel €8

Hostel/budget hotel €25/€35

Travel Munich–Berlin: train €55–142, bus €22

FACT FILE

Population 81.2 million

Language German

Currency Euro (€)

Capital Berlin

International phone code 49

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

Berlin and Munich deservedly draw the crowds, but the rest of Germany is often underrated as a destination, despite its picture-postcard medieval villages, dynamic modern cities and swathes of idyllic countryside. But those who do explore more widely will find a rich regional diversity, which harks back to a time when the country was made up of a patchwork of independent states, and a robust respect for the past. There are plenty of unique customs, festivals, castles, historic town centres, food, beers and wines to discover. Juxtaposed with all this tradition is – in Germany's cities, at least – a wholehearted embracing of modernity. Here inventiveness is celebrated in dynamic modern architecture, slick engineering, cutting-edge contemporary art museums and luxurious spas.

No German city celebrates innovation and creativity quite like Berlin, which bursts with youth, art and energy. Counter-culture also thrives in the other great eastern German city of Dresden, which is also known for its Baroque finery. This, too, is a key draw in the many palaces of Potsdam, while small but cultured Weimar is another significant town that rewards travel in this region.

In northern Germany the large, bustling harbour city of Hamburg with its rambunctious nightlife is a key draw. Further south, straddling the banks of the River Rhine, Cologne is another dynamic city, famed for a skyline dominated by a spectacular cathedral begun in 1248, and its huge and decidedly impious Carnival celebrations.

Munich is the key city in southern Germany, with its fine museums and bustling beer halls, but in general the region is best appreciated in smaller towns which preserve the country's pastoral and romantic side. Among them are the beautiful university town of Heidelberg; Trier with its many Roman remains; the spa town of Baden-Baden; and the attractive and youthful town of Freiburg. Many of Germany's scenic highlights can be found in the south too, including the Bavarian Alps along the Austrian border; the Bodensee (Lake Constance) near the Swiss border; the Black Forest and the Rhine Valley, whose majestic sweep has spawned a rich legacy of legends and folklore.

CHRONOLOGY

57 BC Julius Caesar invades and conquers "Germania Inferior".

800 AD Charlemagne, the Frankish ruler over territory including Germany, is crowned Holy Roman Emperor.

1438 Habsburg dynasty rules over Germany with election of Albert I.

1517 Martin Luther writes his 95 Theses against corruption in the Catholic Church, a protest that culminates in the Protestant Reformation.

1648 End of the Thirty Years' War between European Catholic and Protestant powers leads to the division of Germany into princely states.

1806 Napoleon dissolves the Holy Roman Empire.

1871 Unification of Germany under Chancellor Otto von Bismarck, after German success in the Franco-Prussian War.

1880s Bismarck establishes German colonies in Africa.

1918 Germany is defeated in World War I; the Treaty of Versailles enforces heavy reparation payments upon Germany.

1919 The Weimar Republic is established.

1923 Hyperinflation causes economic meltdown.

1933 Hitler becomes Chancellor of Germany.

1939 World War II begins as Germany invades Poland.

1939–45 Millions die in Nazi concentration camps during the Holocaust.

1945 Germany is defeated, the Allies occupy the country.

1949 Germany is divided between Communist East and Democratic West.

1961 The Berlin Wall is constructed.

bus companies, such as Flixbus (📍flixbus.de), BerlinLinienBus (📍berlinlinienbus.de) and Eurolines (📍eurolines.com), run routes from as far afield as Barcelona and Bucharest.

Ferries operate services from the German Baltic ports of Lübeck (Travemünde), Rostock and Sassnitz-Mukran to Denmark, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania and Sweden. The major carriers are Scandlines (📍scandlines.de), Stena (📍stenaline.de) and TT-Line (📍ttline.com).

GETTING AROUND

Getting around Germany is quick and easy, with trains and buses very affordable if you plan in advance. Buses can also be handy along designated “scenic routes”, such as the Romantic Road (see box, p.405).

BY PLANE

12

Budget airlines are a cheap and fast way to cover long distances within Germany – especially since Ryanair (📍ryanair.com) started operating domestic flights in 2015, with one-way tickets from €5. Flights from Berlin to Cologne or Stuttgart, or Hamburg to Munich, generally cost €20–90 depending on the airline and time of booking. The main domestic airlines are Airberlin (📍airberlin.com), Ryanair, Eurowings (📍eurowings.com) and easyJet (📍easyjet.com). Skycheck (📍skycheck.de) is a handy flight comparison website that shows all budget airline options. Note that Frankfurt (FRA) is the only major airport not served by budget airlines, most of which use the optimistically named Frankfurt-Hahn (HHN), 120km west of the city.

BY TRAIN

Trains are mainly run by Deutsche Bahn (DB; 📍bahn.de). Main train stations have good information desks, and left-luggage lockers (€3–6/day depending on size). The fastest service is the InterCityExpress (ICE). InterCity (IC) and EuroCity (EC) trains are next in line. Slower Regional trains (RE/RB) run on less used routes and are often significantly cheaper. Major cities often have an S-Bahn commuter rail network.

A BEAUTIFUL WEEKEND

Deutsche Bahn's Schönes-Wochenende-Ticket is one of the best bargains around: on Saturday or Sunday, up to five people can travel anywhere in Germany on regional trains (S-Bahn, RB, IRE, RE) for €40 a day for the first passenger, plus €4 for every second, third, etc passenger. Similar Länder-Tickets are available for a day's travel within a single state from €23 for the first passenger plus a few euros for subsequent passengers (Mon–Fri from 9am, Sat & Sun all day).

With standard tickets, valid for two days, you can make as many stops along the way as you like. So if you're heading from Berlin to Cologne, you can take a day in Hannover on your way for no extra charge. A return ticket costs the same as two one-way tickets. Tickets are a lot cheaper if booked for set journeys in advance (from 3–90 days before the trip; look for Sparpreis tickets online), and there are numerous discount passes for groups and individuals (see box above). Tickets are easily booked online, but staff at the train stations can help you get the best rate. InterRail and Eurail passes are valid (including on S-Bahn trains). The InterRail Germany Pass (📍interrailnet.eu) provides three (€203), four (€223), six (€283) or eight (€313) days' travel in one month – with discounts for under 26s. Supplements apply on a small number of trains including sleepers, the Thalys (a service between Cologne and Brussels or Paris), the Berlin–Warszawa Express, and ICE Sprinters – fast trains between key cities.

BY BUS

Although not as fast as trains, Buses are excellent value for cheap intercity travel and connect all major cities and airports. They have toilets, (limited) free wi-fi on board, and are generally punctual. Prices are very low, even if you book just before travelling: Berlin to Munich (8hr) costs €20–30; Dresden to Leipzig (under 2hr) €5; Cologne to Frankfurt (2hr) around €8. The main bus companies are Flixbus (www.flixbus.de), Berlinlinienbus (www.berlinlinienbus.de) and Eurolines (www.eurolines.com).

BY LOCAL BUS AND TRAM

All cities have reliable local buses, though in more rural areas they can be infrequent. You can usually buy tickets from the driver; stops are marked “H” for Haltestelle. Major cities also have a U-Bahn and/or a tram system, where you’ll normally need to buy and validate your ticket before boarding or, sometimes, as you’re boarding. U-Bahns are patrolled, albeit infrequently, by plain-clothes ticket inspectors who levy on-the-spot fines on passengers without valid tickets.

BY BICYCLE

Cyclists are well catered for: many smaller roads have cycle paths, and bike-only lanes are ubiquitous in cities, where it’s often a great way to get around. There are also some excellent long-distance cycle routes. Many train stations have bicycle rental outlets (around €15/day).

Two national bike rental schemes allow travellers to use bicycles in cities and pay by credit card for the time used. Deutsche Bahn’s Call A Bike service (www.callabike.de, €3 registration fee, usually €1 per 30min, up to €15 for 24hr) is in over 40 cities, while Nextbike (www.nextbike.de, free online registration, usually €1 per 30min, up to €9 for 24hr) covers 45 cities. Register or log in at one of the bike station terminals, or call the number written on the bike, and you obtain a code to open the lock. Bikes can be returned at any other bike station, or in some cities at any central street corner. Bikes need their own ticket (Fahrradkarte) on a train: €5/day on regional trains and €9/day on IC/EC trains; they are not allowed on ICE services.

ACCOMMODATION

It’s often best to reserve accommodation in advance, especially in the cities, where trade fairs and seasonal tourism create high demand. Nearly all tourist offices will reserve accommodation for a fee.

You’re never far from a large, functional HI hostel (Jugendherberge) run by DJH (www.jugendherberge.de) – though they are often block-booked by school groups, so book in advance, and they aren’t particularly cheap (around €23, including breakfast and sheets). There are usually no curfews or lockouts, but reception hours may be limited. Independent hostels are a much better choice in cities – friendly, relaxed and often an excellent source of local advice. The larger ones may book their beds budget-airline-style: the greater the demand and closer to the arrival day you book, the more you pay. Expect to pay €15–30; breakfast (around €6–9) and sheets (around €2–4) are not always included.

Hotels are graded, clean and comfortable. In rural areas, prices start at about €30 for a double room; in cities, at about €50. Pensions and B&Bs are plentiful; local tourist offices will have a list (or look for signs saying Fremdenzimmer or Zimmer frei). Online apartment rental services, such as Airbnb, are very popular, despite resistance from cities and locals fighting rising rents and gentrification.

Even the most basic campsites have toilets, washing facilities and a shop. For a full list of campsites see www.bvcd.de.

FOOD AND DRINK

German food is both good value and high quality, and though traditionally solid and meat-heavy, there’s often a wide range of international choices in cities at least: Italian restaurants are the most reliable, but Greek, Turkish and Chinese places are also common. Some hotels and guesthouses include breakfast in the price of the room – typically cold meats and cheeses, bread and jams.

Traditionally lunch tends to be the main meal, with good-value daily menus on offer. Pubs and inns – a Gaststätte, Gasthaus or Gasthof – are usually cosy and serve hearty home cooking, particularly pork and sausages along with distinct regional variations.

The distinction between café, restaurant and bar is often blurred, with many offering good simple breakfasts, salads

GERMANY ONLINE

📶 bahn.de German railways.

📶 busradar.com and 📶 goeuro.com

Bus, train and shared ride fare comparison sites.

📶 germany.travel Official tourist board site.

and some mains. Gaststätten – along with the brewery-affiliated Brauhäuser – also offer their own beer alongside filling soups, salads and snack dishes. The easiest option for snacks, however, is to head for the ubiquitous Imbiss street stalls and shops, which range from traditional Wurst sellers to popular Döner kebab places.

Traditional German cuisine generally offers little for vegetarians, but nowadays you should be able to find vegetarian food in all but the most diehard of country inns.

12

DRINK

For beer drinkers, Germany is paradise. Munich's beer gardens and beer halls are the most famous drinking dens in the country, offering a wide variety of premier products, from dark lagers through tart Weizens to powerful Bocks. Cologne holds the world record for the number of city breweries, which all produce the beer called Kölsch, but wherever you go you can be fairly sure of getting a locally brewed variety. There are also many high-quality German wines, especially those made from the Riesling grape. Finally, Apfelwein is a sour variant of cider beloved in and around Frankfurt.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Most Germans are friendly, hospitable and helpful, and if you stand at a corner long enough with map in hand, someone's bound to help. Jaywalking is illegal in Germany, so only cross on the green man – you could be fined if you don't, though are most likely to get off with disapproving looks from passers-by.

When paying at a German café, if you're in a group, you'll be asked if you want to pay individually (getrennt) or all together (zusammen). To tip in a café, round your bill up to the next €0.50 or €1 and give the total directly to the waiter; at restaurants you should leave around ten percent of the bill.

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Football (📶 bundesliga.de/en) is the major spectator sport in Germany, with world-class clubs playing in top-notch stadiums. Tickets can be purchased from the clubs' websites or via 📶 eventim.de; important matches sell out well in advance.

Germany's great outdoors has a lot to offer, particularly to hikers and cyclists. The most popular regions for hiking are in the Black Forest and the Bavarian Alps, but there are well-maintained, colour-coded hiking routes all over Germany. The country is crisscrossed with long-distance cycling routes. The cycling page on Germany's tourism website (📶 germany.travel) is excellent for planning.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices are open Monday to Friday 8am to 6pm and Saturday 8am to 1pm. Call shops are the cheapest way to phone abroad and often offer internet access as well; expect to pay €1–2 per hour. EU citizens pay no mobile phone roaming charges: non-EU citizens may want to buy a local SIM card with a German number that lets you call and surf at local rates – Aldi and Lidl sell good-value prepaid SIM cards. German businesses have been slow to offer wi-fi, but now many cafés, hotels and hostels provide free access – though you may need to ask for the password.

EMERGENCIES

The police (Polizei) treat foreigners with courtesy. Reporting thefts at local police stations is straightforward, but there'll be a great deal of bureaucracy to wade

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police 📞 110; Fire & Ambulance 📞 112.

GERMAN

Pronunciation Consonants: "w" is pronounced like the English "v" and the "v" like "f"; "sch" is pronounced "sh"; "z" is "ts". The German letter "ß" is a double "s". Vowels: a is like in "car", e is "eh", "ie" and "i" are "ee", "ei" is "eye", "eu" is "oy"; u is "oo", o is "awe", ä is like in "ma'am", ü is like the French "plus" and ö like the French "oeuf".

	GERMAN	PRONUNCIATION
Yes	Ja	Yah
No	Nein	Nine
Please	Bitte	Bitteh
Thank you	Danke	Duhnkeh
Hello/Good day	Guten Tag	Gooten tahg
Goodbye	Tschüss, ciao, or auf Wiedersehen	Chuss, chow, or owf veederzain
Excuse me	Entschuldigen Sie, bitte	Enshooldigen zee, bitteh
Today	Heute	Hoyteh
Yesterday	Gestern	Gestern
Tomorrow	Morgen	Morgen
I don't understand	Ich verstehe nicht	Ich vershtayeh nicht
How much is...?	Wieviel kostet...?	Vee feel costet...?
Do you speak English?	Sprechen Sie Englisch?	Shprechen zee aing-lish?
I'd like a beer	Ich hätte gern ein Bier	Ich hetteh gairn ein beer
Entrance /exit	der Eingang/der Ausgang	dare eingahng/dare owsgahng
Toilet	das WC/die Toilette	dahs vay-tsay/dee toylettech
HI hostel	die Jugendherberge	dee yougendhairbairgeh
Main train station	der Hauptbahnhof	howptbahnhof
Bus	der Bus	dare boos
Plane	das Flugzeug	das flook-tsoyg
Train	der Zug	dare tsoog
Cheap/expensive	Billig/teuer	Billig/toy-er
Open/closed	Offen/auf geschlossen/zu	Uhffen/owf gehshlossen/tsoo
One	Eins	Einz
Two	Zwei	Tsveye
Three	Drei	Dry
Four	Vier	Fear
Five	Fünf	Foonf
Six	Sechs	Zex
Seven	Sieben	Zeeben
Eight	Acht	Ahkt
Nine	Neun	Noyn
Ten	Zehn	Tsehn

through. Doctors generally speak English. Pharmacies (Apotheken) can deal with many minor complaints; all display a rota of local pharmacies open 24 hours.

INFORMATION

You'll find a good tourist office in every town, with a large amount of literature and maps; town and regional tourist websites are usually bilingual and excellent. City tourist offices often offer discount cards, covering public transport and free or discounted entry to major sights. These can be worthwhile if you visit several sights, but check first what discounts are offered – sometimes they're no cheaper than the student price. Most museums and attractions offer significant reductions for students and young people.

MONEY AND BANKS

German currency is the euro (€). Exchange facilities are available in most banks, post offices and commercial exchange shops called Wechselstuben.

The Reisebank has branches in the train stations of most main cities (generally open daily, often till 10/11pm). Basic banking hours are Monday to Friday 8.30am to noon and 1.30 to 3.30/4pm, Thursdays till 5/6pm. Credit and debit cards are generally accepted – but certainly not universally – with budget restaurants, cafés and many shops requesting cash. ATMs are widespread.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Shops open at 8 or 9am and close around 6 to 8pm weekdays and 2 to 4pm on Saturdays; they are generally closed all day Sunday, though regulations vary by state. Pharmacies, petrol stations and shops in and around train stations tend to stay open late and at weekends. Museums and historic monuments are, with few exceptions (mainly in Bavaria), closed on Monday. Public holidays are: January 1, January 6 (regional), Good Friday, Easter Monday, May 1, Ascension Day, Whit Monday, Corpus Christi (regional), August 15 (regional), October 3, November 1 (regional) and December 25 and 26.

Berlin

Energetic and irreverent, BERLIN is a welcoming, exciting city where the speed of change over the past few decades has been astounding. With a long history of decadence and cultural dynamism, the revived national capital has become a magnet for artists and musicians. Culturally, it has some of the most important archeological collections in Europe, as well as an impressive range of galleries and museums, and an exuberant, cutting-edge nightlife.

The city resonates with modern European history, having played a dominant role in Imperial Germany, both during the Weimar Republic after 1914 and in the Nazis' Third Reich. After 1945 the city was partitioned by the victorious Allies and, as a result, was the front line of the Cold War. In 1961, its division into two hostile sectors was given a very visible expression by the construction of the notorious Berlin Wall. After the Wall fell in 1989, Berlin became the national capital once again in 1990. These days, parliament (Bundestag) sits in the renovated Reichstag building, and the city's excellent museum collections have been reassembled. The physical revival of Berlin has put it at the forefront of contemporary architecture, and there is a plethora of dramatic new buildings around the city.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Most of Berlin's main sights are in the central Mitte district, which extends from the leafy boulevard of Unter den Linden to the bustling area of restaurants, shops and bars around Hackescher Markt a short walk northeast. To the south lies Potsdamer Platz and the museums of the Kulturforum. This overlooks the Tiergarten park, while further west lies the adjacent area City West, a neighbourhood known for its shopping, particularly along the Ku'damm. The residential city districts beyond Mitte – particularly Kreuzberg, Prenzlauer Berg, Friedrichshain and Neukölln – are wonderful to stroll through and have many of the city's liveliest hangouts.

The Brandenburg Gate and the Reichstag

The most atmospheric place to start a tour of Berlin is the Brandenburg Gate, the city-gate-cum-triumphal-arch built in 1791. To its north stands the Reichstag, the nineteenth-century home of the German parliament, which was remodelled by Norman Foster for the resumption of its historic role in 1999, when the much-photographed glass cupola was added. You can climb a spiral walkway to the top of the dome (daily 8am–midnight; free; www.bundestag.de; ID required) for fine views over the surrounding government quarter and Tiergarten park, and an excellent free audiotour, though you'll have to register online weeks in advance. If you haven't booked in advance, you may get a last-minute slot by asking at the nearby Service Centre, across Scheiedemannstrasse (daily: April–Oct 8am–8pm; Nov–March 8am–6pm). Alternatively, those with a fat

WALKING TOURS

Walking tours of Berlin are a popular way for budget travellers to get a handle on the city and meet other travellers. All companies offer four-hour city tours for around €14, plus more specialized ones such as Third Reich sites; Cold War Berlin; Jewish life; Potsdam; and Sachsenhausen. Operators include Original Berlin Walks (☎030 301 91 94, berlinwalks.com), Insider Tours (☎030 692 31 49, insidertour.com) and New Berlin Tours (☎030 510 50 030, newberlintours.com), whose city-centre tour is free, though tips are expected.

Alternative Berlin (☎0162 819 82 64, alternativeberlin.com) runs tours of Berlin's graffiti art and squats, while Christopher Isherwood's Neighbourhood Tour (usually Sat at 11.30; cabaret-berlin.com) provides fascinating insights into the gay, arts and revue theatre scene of the 1920–30s, as depicted in Cabaret.

wallet can book a table at the gourmet rooftop restaurant Käfer (daily 9am–4.30pm & 6.30pm–midnight; ☎030 22 62 990).

The Holocaust Memorials

The bold Holocaust Memorial (officially the “Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe”) lies south of the Brandenburg Gate, where 2711 upright concrete slabs have been arranged in a dizzying grid. The exhibition in its underground information centre (Ort der Information; Tues–Sun: April–Sept 10am–8pm; Oct–March 10am–7pm; free) is carefully presented and moving. Over the road, on the fringes of the Tiergarten park, another concrete oblong forms the Gay Holocaust Memorial, which remembers those convicted of homosexual acts under the regime. Leaning to one side, the memorial is defiantly not straight, and has a small window behind which a film of two men kissing permanently plays.

Just west of the Brandenburg Gate, a pond surrounded by fragmented stones is the Memorial to the Sinti and Roma Victims of National Socialism: a fresh flower is placed daily on a central stone in the pond. At the southern edge of Tiergarten park, the T4 Memorial for the Victims of the Nazi Euthanasia Programme commemorates some 300,000 people who were murdered under the Nazis' euthanasia programme that was coordinated from the building that once stood here.

Unter den Linden

East of the Brandenburg Gate stretches broad and stately Unter den Linden, once Berlin's most important thoroughfare.

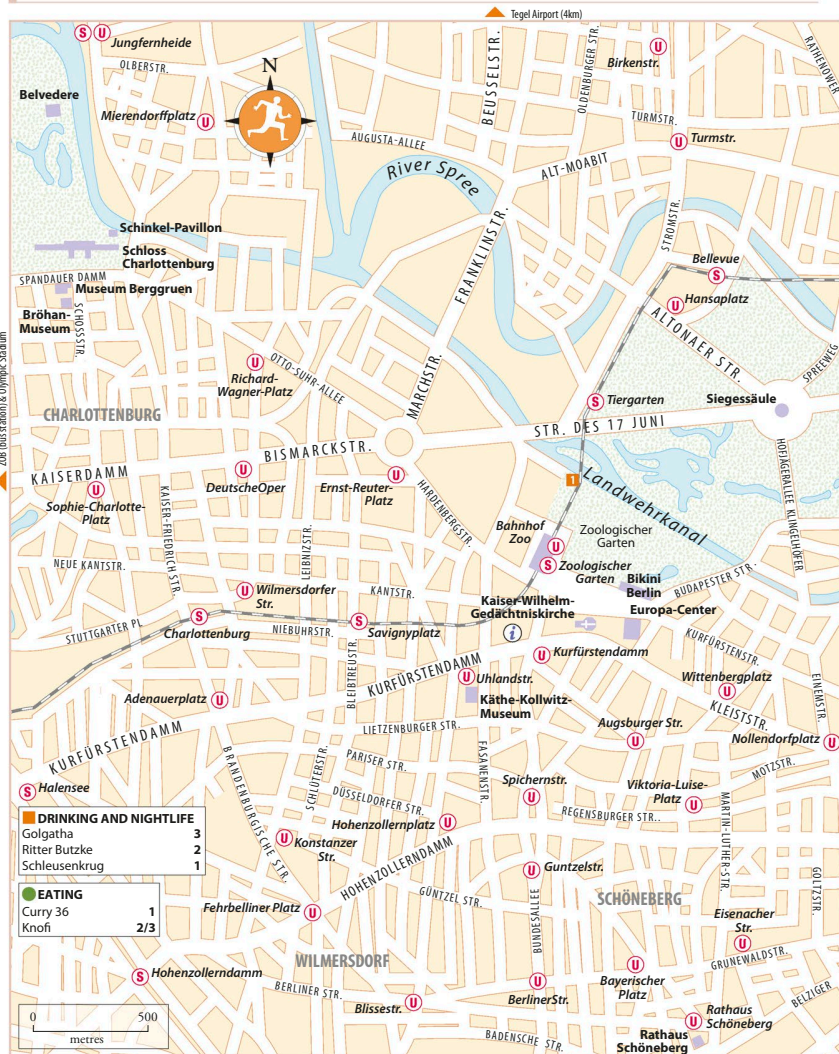

Post-unification renewal, including oversized embassies and museums flanking the boulevard, only hints at its former grandeur.

Bebelplatz, at Unter den Linden's eastern end, was the site of the infamous Nazi book-burning of May 10, 1933; an unusual memorial – an underground room housing empty bookshelves, visible through a glass panel set in the centre of the square – marks the event.

More than anyone, it was architect Karl Friedrich Schinkel who shaped nineteenth-century Berlin, and one of his most famous creations stands opposite the Staatsoper further along Unter den Linden: the Neue Wache, a former royal guardhouse resembling a Roman temple and now a memorial to victims of war and tyranny. Next door the Baroque old Prussian Arsenal now houses the excellent Deutsches Historisches Museum (daily 10am–6pm; €8, students €4). It covers two thousand years of German history in imaginative displays that often focus on social history, making good use of the vast selection of artefacts in the collection: from a seventeenth-century Turkish tent taken during the siege of Vienna to parallel displays of life in 1950s East and West Berlin.

The Gendarmenmarkt

Following Charlottenstrasse south from Unter den Linden, you come to the elegant Gendarmenmarkt, where the Französischer Dom and lookalike Deutscher Dom dominate on either side of the square. The former was built as a church for Berlin's influential Huguenot community at the beginning of the eighteenth century. Between them stands the Neoclassical Konzerthaus by Schinkel. A block west of here lies Friedrichstrasse, a high-class shopping street.

Schlossplatz and Museuminsel

At the eastern end of Unter den Linden is the Schlossplatz, former site of the original imperial palace, then of the GDR's Palast der Republik parliament building, which was dismantled in 2008 to make way for a re-creation of the Stadtschloss, due for completion in 2019. The Platz stands at the midpoint of the Spree island whose northern half, Museuminsel, is the location of Berliner Dom, the city's grandest church, and five of Berlin's top museums. The largest is the Pergamonmuseum (Mon–Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €12, students €6), whose treasure-trove of the ancient world includes the huge Ishtar Gate from sixth-century BC Babylon; the hall housing the spectacular Pergamon Altar from 160 BC is closed for renovations until 2019. The Alte Nationalgalerie (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €12, students €6) houses a collection of nineteenth-century European art, while at the island's northern tip the beautifully restored Bode-Museum (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €12, students €6) displays Byzantine art and medieval to eighteenth-century sculpture. Meanwhile, the Altes Museum (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €10, students €5) focuses on Greek and Roman antiquities, while the Neues Museum (Mon–Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €12, students €6) houses the city's impressive Egyptian collection with Berlin's single most famous exhibit – a 3,300-year-old bust of Nefertiti.

CENTRAL BERLIN

Alexanderplatz

To reach Alexanderplatz, the stark commercial square that was the hub of

BERLIN: MITTE &amp; PRENZLAUER BERG

ACCOMMODATION
Baxpax Downtown Hostel	7
Baxpax Mitte Hostel	3
Circus Hotel	4
Circus Hostel	6
EastSeven	2
Lette'm Sleep	1
Wombat's	5

EATING
Al Hamra	1
Dolores	7
Entweder Oder	3
Kauf dich glücklich	4
Kuchi	6
Sowohl als Auch	2
Monsieur Vuong	5

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE
Clärchens Ballhaus	3
Kaffee Burger	2
Prater Biergarten	1
Strandbar Mitte	4

12

Checkpoint Charlie (800m)

communist East Berlin, head along Karl-Liebknecht-Strasse (the continuation of Unter den Linden), past the Neptunbrunnen fountain beside the thirteenth-century Marienkirche. Like every other building in the vicinity, the church is overshadowed by the gigantic Fernsehturm (TV tower; daily: March–Oct 9am–midnight; Nov–Feb 10am–midnight; €13), whose 203m-high observation platform and revolving café offer unbeatable views. Southwest of here lies the Nikolaiviertel, a quarter of reconstructed medieval buildings and winding streets, which was razed overnight in June 1944.

Hackescher Markt and around

The area north of the River Spree around ⑤ Hackescher Markt emerged as one of the most intriguing parts of the city when Berlin was reunified. Artists' squats, workshops and galleries sprang up here in the early 1990s, and some still survive. But today the district's appeal is based on its history as Berlin's affluent pre-war Jewish quarter and its current status as a booming, if fairly touristy, shopping, restaurant and nightlife quarter, with fashionable boutiques, ethnic restaurants and stylish bars. One highlight is the quarter's distinctive Höfe, or courtyards; particularly the elegant Hackesche Höfe whose network of eight courtyards features cafés, galleries and designer shops.

The district's Jewish legacy is evident in the rebuilt Moorish-style Neue Synagoge on Oranienburger Strasse (April–Sept, Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–7pm; €5, students €4). Little remains of the building beyond the facade, but there are exhibitions on the history of the synagogue and on Jewish culture.

Potsdamer Platz

The heart of prewar Berlin lay to the south of the Brandenburg Gate, around Potsdamer Platz, which for decades lay dormant and bisected by the Berlin Wall. Post-reunification, huge commercial development has produced a business district that gathers around the impressive Sony Center, with its cinema, shops and massive atrium.

MUSEUM ENTRY

Berlin's superb state museums and galleries (including all Museuminsel and Kulturforum museums; ⑩ smb.museum) offer a day-ticket for each cluster of museums called a Bereichskarte (area ticket; €10–18, students €6–9). Meanwhile, a three-day ticket for all Berlin's state-owned museums, plus dozens of others including the Jüdischen Museum, is a steal at €24/12. With a student ID card almost all sights and museums give up to fifty percent discount, while under-18s often have free access.

The Kulturforum

Just west of Potsdamer Platz lies the Kulturforum, a gathering of museums centred on the unmissable Gemäldegalerie (Tues, Wed & Fri 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm, Sat & Sun 11am–6pm; €10, students €5; ⑩/⑩ Potsdamer Platz), with its world-class collection of old masters. The interconnected building to the north houses the Kunstgewerbemuseum (Tues–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 11am–6pm; €8, students €4), a sparkling collection of European arts and crafts. A couple of minutes' walk south, Mies van der Rohe's impressive Neue Nationalgalerie is closed for renovations until 2019; its permanent collection of twentieth-century German paintings includes Berlin portraits and cityscapes by George Grosz and Otto Dix.

The course of the Wall

It's nearly three decades since the Berlin Wall came down, and much of its course is marked by a double row of cobblestones, with information panels at key points. There are also several stretches preserved as memorials to those who died trying to cross it. Immediately east of Potsdamer Platz, a sizeable, crumbling section of Wall runs along Niederkirchnerstrasse, beside the captivating Topography of Terror (daily 10am–8pm; free), an exhibition on the former site of the Gestapo and SS headquarters which documents their chilling histories. To the east, Niederkirchnerstrasse meets and escape attempts and life in a city with the wall (visitor centre Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; open-air exhibition and memorial ground daily 8am–10pm; free; ⑤ Nordbahnhof/⑩ Bernauer Str.).

Stretching along the River Spree, near Friedrichshain, a 1300m-long section of the Wall known as the East Side Gallery (⑤ Ostbahnhof) is covered with paintings by international artists, originally done in the months after the fall of the Iron Curtain, but since touched up and partially fenced off.

Jüdisches Museum
Daniel Libeskind's striking zinc-skinned Jüdisches Museum, Lindenstr. 9–14 in west Kreuzberg (Jewish Museum; Mon 10am–10pm, Tues–Sun 10am–8pm; €8, students €3; ⑩ Hallesches Tor/Kochstr.), is part museum, part memorial. Its lower ground level is Libeskind's reflection on three strands of the Jewish experience in Berlin – exile, Holocaust and continuity – and is a disorientating but compelling experience. On the upper two floors, a more conventional exhibition documents the culture, achievements and history of Berlin's Jewish community.

Ku'damm and around

The focus of the city's western side, a short walk south of Bahnhof Zoo station, is the start of the Kurfürstendamm, or Ku'damm, a 3.5km strip of ritzy shops, cinemas, bars and cafés. Western Berlin's most famous landmark here is the Kaiser-Wilhelm-Gedächtniskirche, mostly destroyed by British bombing in 1943, the broken spire left as a reminder of the horrors of war, with a modern church built alongside. Opposite, the new Bikini Berlin mall, inside a listed 1950s building, is worth visiting for its quirky fashion and pop-up shops, plus a rooftop garden (free) with views over the monkey enclosures of the zoo.

Tiergarten

Berlin Zoo, beside Zoologischer Garten station, forms the beginning of the giant Tiergarten, a restful expanse of woodland and a good place to wander along the banks of the Landwehrkanal. Strasse des 17 Juni heads all the way through the Tiergarten to the Brandenburg Gate, with the Siegessäule, the iconic victory monument, at the central point.

Schloss Charlottenburg

The sumptuous Schloss Charlottenburg with its splendid gardens is on Spandauer Damm 10–22 (Old Palace; Tues–Sun: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–5pm; €10, students €7; 10min walk from ⑩ Westend or bus #M45 from the zoo). Commissioned by the future Queen Sophie Charlotte in 1695, it was added to throughout the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Admission to the Old Palace includes a tour of the main state apartments and self-guided visits to the private chambers, while the New Wing includes an array of paintings by Watteau and other eighteenth-century French artists.

The Olympiastadion

Located in the far west of the city is the site of the 1936 Olympics, and of the 2006 Football World Cup final, the Olympiastadion, one of the very few impressive Nazi-era buildings to have survived. If you can't make it to a Hertha BSC (⑩ herthabsc.de) match, you can visit the stadium at other times (daily: April–July, Sept & Oct 9am–7pm; Aug 9am–8pm, Nov–March 10am–6pm; €7, students €5.50; various tours available €11–13; ⑩ olympiastadion-berlin.de; ⑩/Olympiastadion).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Berlin's two international airports (⑩ berlin-airport.de) lie within easy reach of the city centre. The closer of the two is Tegel airport (TXL), from which the frequent #TXL express bus runs to the Hauptbahnhof and Alexanderplatz, while #X9 express or local #109 buses run to Bahnhof Zoo (all covered by a public transport zone AB ticket; €2.70). Schönefeld (SXF) is southeast of the centre and reachable on S-Bahn line S9 via Ostkreuz, or by regional train RE7 or RB14 to Alexanderplatz, the Hauptbahnhof and Bahnhof Zoo (every 10min; 30min); bus #X7 runs to nearby ⑩ Rudow (all require a public transport zone ABC ticket; €3.30). The new Berlin Brandenburg International (BBI) airport – which will incorporate Schönefeld – is years behind schedule with no opening date in sight; when it finally opens, Tegel will close.

By train The huge Hauptbahnhof (main station) northeast of the Brandenburg Gate is well connected to the rest of the city by S-Bahn, regional trains and trams.

Destinations Cologne (hourly; 4hr 20min); Dresden (every 2hr; 2hr); Frankfurt (hourly; 4hr); Hamburg (hourly; 1hr 40min); Hannover (hourly; 2hr); Leipzig (hourly; 1hr 15min); Munich (hourly; 6hr); Paris (4 daily, including overnight; 8–10hr); Prague (every 2hr; 4hr 30min); Warsaw (4 daily; 5hr 15min); Weimar (every 2hr; 2hr 20min).

By bus Most international and intercity buses stop at the central bus station (ZOB), Masurenallee 4–6, which is linked to the Ku'damm area by many local buses, including the #M49 service, and U-Bahn line #2 from Kaiserdamm station. Destinations Cologne (hourly; 7hr 30min); Frankfurt (hourly; 6hr 30min); Hamburg (hourly; 3hr); Hannover (hourly; 3hr); Leipzig (hourly; 2hr 10min); Munich (hourly; 7hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Main tourist office at the Hauptbahnhof (daily 8am–10pm; ☎ 030 25 00 25, visitberlin.de), with branches at Brandenburg Gate (daily 10am–7pm); Kurfürstendamm 21 (daily: April–Oct 9.30am–7pm; Nov–March 9.30am–6pm); and in the TV Tower at Alexanderplatz (daily: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm).

Discount passes The WelcomeCard (Berlin zones AB 48hr/72hr/5-day for €19.50/€27.50/€35.50; Berlin and Potsdam zones ABC 48hr/72hr/5-day for €21.50/€29.50/€40.50; berlin-welcomecard.de) provides free travel and up to fifty percent off many of the major tourist sights, though not those on the Museuminsel: note that many of the discounts are the same as student prices.

GETTING AROUND

Berlin has an efficient, integrated system of U- and S-Bahn train lines, buses and trams (bvlg.de), though cycling in Berlin is also very easy.

By U- and S-Bahn Trains run daily 4.30am–12.30am (Fri & Sat all night).

By bus and tram The city bus network – and the tram system in eastern Berlin – covers the gaps left by the U-Bahn; several useful tram routes centre on Hackescher Markt, including the #M1 to Prenzlauer Berg. Night buses and trams operate, with buses (around every 30min) generally following U-Bahn line routes; free maps are available at most stations.

Tickets Available from machines at U/S-Bahn stations, on trams or from bus drivers: zone AB single ticket €2.70; zone ABC (includes Schönefeld airport) single €3.30; short-trip ticket (Kurzstrecke) for 3 train or 6 bus/tram stops €1.70; zone AB day ticket €7; for 2/3/5 days the WelcomeCard (see above) can be good value. Validate all tickets in the yellow or red machines on platforms or inside trams and buses before travelling.

By bike Rental bikes from the Call a Bike and Nextbike schemes (see p.355) can be found across the city, while many hostels also rent out bikes for €12–15 per day. Fat Tire beneath the TV tower at Alexanderplatz (daily: Oct–April 9.30am–6pm; May–Sept 9.30am–8pm; ☎ 030 240 479 91, fattirebiketours.com/berlin) rents bikes and runs bike tours (€28 for 4hr 30min).

ACCOMMODATION

Berlin has plenty of great hostels, primarily in Mitte, Prenzlauer Berg, Kreuzberg and Friedrichshain; several new options are more like budget hotels and are often the best choice for private rooms: book at least a couple of weeks in advance in high season. All hostels listed have wi-fi.

HOSTELS

Baxpax Downtown Hostel Ziegelstr. 28 ☎ 030 27 87 48 80, baxpax.de; ☎/📍 Friedrichstr; map p.362. This hostel is a little more hotel-like than its sister branches. Most rooms en suite; linen €2.50. Dorms €22, doubles €100

Baxpax Kreuzberg Hostel Skalitzer Str. 104 ☎ 030 69 51 83 22, baxpax.de; ☎ Görlitzer Bahnhof; map p.364. One of a trio of backpacker outfits with clean, bright rooms, cooking facilities and bike rental. Dorms €17, doubles €70

Baxpax Mitte Hostel Chausseest. 102 ☎ 030 28 39 09 65, baxpax.de; ☎ Zinnowitzer Str; map p.362. Same vibe as all the Baxpax hostels but in a fantastic location amid oodles of bars and restaurants. Dorms €13, doubles €78

Circus Hostel Weinbergsweg 1a, Mitte ☎ 030 20 00 39 39, circus-berlin.de; ☎ Rosenthaler Platz; map p.362. Clean, welcoming, fun and deservedly popular base in a great location between Mitte and Prenzlauer Berg, with helpful staff and its own bar. Dorms €19, doubles €58

EastSeven Schwedter Str. 7, Prenzlauer Berg ☎ 030 93 62 22 40, eastseven.de; ☎ Senefelderplatz; map p.362. Cosy, small, independent hostel with kitchen and pretty garden, including a barbecue. Some nice touches, such as communal meals on Mon and discounts in local shops. Dorms €26, doubles €74

Industrialpalast Warschauer Str. 43, Friedrichshain ☎ 030 74 07 82 90, ip-hostel.com; ☎/📍 Warschauer Str; map p.364. Central for Berlin's main party zone, this former factory has functional but spacious dorms and great-quality private rooms with en-suite facilities. Dorms €17, doubles €80

Jetpak Alternative Görlitzerstr. 38 ☎ 030 62 90 86 41, jetpak.de; ☎ Schlesisches Tor; map p.364. Attractive high-end hostel in a lively neighbourhood close to all the action in Kreuzberg and Friedrichshain. Perks include a buffet breakfast and under-floor heating, along with bicycle rental, laundry facilities and cheap beer. Dorms €28, doubles €64

Lette'm Sleep Lettestr. 7, Prenzlauer Berg ☎ 030 44 73 36 23, backpackers.de; ☎ Eberswalder Str; map p.362. Chilled-out hostel with free internet, a kitchen and a good location, on a particularly attractive square in Prenzlauer Berg. Dorms €18, doubles €72

Plus Berlin Warschauer Platz 6, Friedrichshain ☎ 030 311 69 88 20, plushostels.com; ☎/📍 Warschauer Str; map p.364. Lively large hostel just behind the U-Bahn station with its own pool and sauna. Dorms €22, doubles €68

Wombat's Alte Schönhauser Str. 2 ☎ 030 84 71 08 20, wombats-hostels.com/berlin; ☎ Rosa-Luxemburg-Platz; map p.362. Bright, friendly and well-equipped new hostel in a great location near some good bars. All dorms are en suite, the spacious, 2-person apartments with kitchens are stylish and the roof bar has superb views over the city. Breakfast €4. Dorms €26, doubles €78, apartments €90

HOTELS

Circus Hotel Rosenthalerstr. 1 ☎030 20 00 39 39, circus-berlin.de; ① Rosenthaler Platz; map p.362. Fantastic, stylish budget hotel run by the Circus Hostel over the road. Helpful staff provide local advice and some nice extras like free laptop loans. All rooms are en suite, though those overlooking the street are a little noisy. Doubles €85

Hüttenpalast Hobrechstr. 65 ☎030 37 30 58 06, huettenpalast.de; ① Hermannplatz; map p.364. Funky and quirky place with a garden on the border of trendy Kreuzberg and Neukölln, offering standard hotel rooms, wooden cabins and vintage caravans. Breakfast €6.50 (cabins and caravans include morning coffee and croissant). Doubles €74, caravans/cabins €69

Ostel Wriezener Karree 5 ☎030 25 76 86 60, ostel.eu; ⑤ Ostbahnhof; map p.364. Ostalgie-themed hotel, decked out in 1970s GDR-style, though with modern facilities. Breakfast €8. Singles €30, doubles €39, 4–5 person apartments €80

EATING

Many cafés, bars and restaurants serve food, with plenty offering a good weekend brunch. The bustling Kreuzberg/Neukölln Turkish market (Tues & Fri 11am–6.30pm), on Maybachufer (USchönleinstr.), is great for cheap meals, breads, vegetables, meat and Turkish sweets.

CAFÉS, CHEAP EATS AND SNACKS

Al Hamra Raumerstr. 16, Prenzlauer Berg; ① Eberswalder Str. or ⑤ Prenzlauer Allee; map p.362. Relaxed, extremely popular Arabian-style café-bar. Good food and cheap drinks every day – Sun brunch until 5pm is especially tasty (€12). Daily 11am–11pm.

Burgeramt Krossener Str. 22, on Boxhagener Platz; ① Frankfurter Tor or ⑤ Warschauer Str.; map p.364. Imbiss place with an eccentric line in burger toppings – pineapple, teriyaki and gouda appear together – but there are plenty of classic and veggie versions, making it a perfect bar-hopping pit stop in Friedrichshain. Burgers €4–8. Mon–Thurs noon–midnight, Fri–Sun noon–3am.

Curry 36 Mehringdamm 36, west Kreuzberg; ① Mehringdamm; map pp.360–361. One of the best places to try Berlin Currywurst (€1.50) – a traditional fast-food combo of grilled sausage, hot tomato sauce and curry powder. Daily 9am–5am.

Dolores Rosa-Luxemburg-Str. 7, Mitte; ⑤/① Alexanderplatz; map p.362. Mouthwatering California-style Mexican fast food, complete with San Francisco decor and a high concentration of expats. Burritos from €4. Daily 11am–10pm, Sun 1–10pm.

Entweder Oder Oderberger Str. 15, Prenzlauer Berg; ① Eberwelder Str.; map p.362. Friendly café-bar, with a tasty menu of German dishes that's perfect for a hangover-beating breakfast: a big platter for two costs €16. Mon,

GIVING BACK TO BERLIN

Volunteering is a great way to get to know the real Berlin and its residents. Online platform Vostel (vostel.de) connects volunteers with more than 30 non-profit organizations – and you don't need any languages or specific skills. Short-term placements are possible, even on the same day. Simply register and sign up to help out in refugee shelters, caring for retired animals, picking up or sorting donated food, distributing meals to the homeless and more.

Wed–Sat 10am–midnight, Tues 3pm–midnight, Sun 10am–10pm.

Kauf dich glücklich Oderberger Str. 44, Prenzlauer Berg; ① Eberwelder Str.; map p.362. Super-cute, café-bar-waffle shop and ice-cream parlour, all done out in 1950s retro furniture (that's for sale). Mon–Fri 10.30am–1am, Sat & Sun 10am–1am.

Knofi Bergmannstr. 11 & 98, Kreuzberg; ① Mehringdamm; map pp.360–361. The Gözleme – filled Turkish crêpes – are cheap (€4.50), huge and delicious at this lively local Mediterranean bistro (no. 11) and deli (opposite, no. 98); there's the same menu of soups, salads and some hot dishes at both. Daily: bistro 8am–midnight; deli 9am–midnight.

Kvartira 62 Lübbener Str. 18; ① Schlesisches Tor; map p.364. Atmospheric Russian café with 1920s-era dark red and gold decor serving Russian classics such as borscht soup (€4), delicious pelmeni (dumplings; €5) and tea flavoured with jam – as well as some great chocolate cake. Sun–Thurs 6pm–2am, Fri & Sat 6pm–4am.

Rembrandt Burger Richard-Sorge-Str. 21, Friedrichshain; ① Frankfurter Tor; map p.364. Away from the crowds, this relaxed joint serves excellent beef and veggie burgers (from €8) served with Dutch-style or sweet potato fries. Dutch snacks like deep-fried cheese and spicy sausages (from €2) too. Daily noon–10pm.

Sowohl als Auch Kollwitzstr. 88, Prenzlauer Berg; ① Eberswalder or Senefelderplatz; map p.362. This café has an excellent selection of cakes, with an extensive coffee and tea menu to boot; it's also popular for breakfast. Daily 8am–midnight.

RESTAURANTS

Cocolo Ramen Paul-Lincke-Ufer 39, Kreuzberg ☎030 98 33 90 73; ① Schönleinstr.; map p.364. Authentic and delicious Japanese ramen plus good-value lunch menus from €6. Mon–Sat noon–11pm, Sun 6–11pm.

Kuchi Gipsstr. 3, Mitte; ① Weinmeister Str.; map p.362. Deliciously fresh, imaginative sushi, prepared in front of you, is the speciality at this stylish Mitte restaurant. Well worth the slightly higher prices: sushi selection from around €11. Mon–Sat noon–midnight, Sun 6pm–midnight.

Monsieur Vuong Alte Schönhauser Str. 46, Mitte; ① Weinmeisterstr.; map p.362. Small, hip and popular Vietnamese place with a high-quality, low-price menu that changes daily. Meals €9. Mon–Thurs noon–11pm, Fri–Sun noon–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Among the best in the world, Berlin's nightlife is centred on several different neighbourhoods. As Hackescher Markt and Oranienburger Str. become more upmarket and touristy, the best bars tend to be in the inner-city residential areas: in Prenzlauer Berg, try the area around Kastanienallee for places with a relaxed, neighbourhood feel; in Friedrichshain, the Simon-Dach-Strasse is a premier twenty-something late-night hangout, while many of the city's best clubs and alternative hangouts are in or around the adjoining ramshackle districts of Kreuzberg and Neukölln.

BARS

Ankerklause Kottbusser Damm 43, Neukölln; ① Schönleinstr.; map p.364. Everything-goes bar with a nautical theme, a deck overlooking the canal, a cosy interior with comfy booths, a jukebox and a laidback vibe. They also dish up basic food like nachos and sandwiches (€4–12) until about 9pm. Mon 4pm–2am, Tues–Sun 10am till at least 2am.

Golgotha Viktoriapark, Kreuzberg; ① Platz der Luftbrücke; map pp.360–361. Lively, legendary Biergarten at the foot of Kreuzberg hill serving Löwenbräu (€2.90), Kreuzberger Klosterbier and excellent fresh food and grilled meat dishes for a couple of euros. Daily: April–Aug 9am–late; Sept–March hours depend on weather.

Hops & Barley Wühlischstr. 22–23; ③/① Warschauer Str.; map p.364. One of Berlin's better spots to drink beer brewed on-site, offering seasonal beers and signature brews like the malty Dunkles (dark), a refreshing pilsner and tart cider. Sun–Fri 5pm–2am, Sat 3pm–4am.

Madame Claude Lübbener Str. 19, Kreuzberg; ③/① Warschauer Str.; map p.364. Quirky, grungy subterranean space with furniture on the ceiling (is that an upside-down chair?), making you think you've leapt into a rabbit hole. Gets packed later, with DJs spinning a mix of techno, house, funk, rock and a mish-mash of whatever they like. Daily 7pm till at least 3am.

Prater Biergarten Kastanienallee 7–9; ① Eberswalder Str.; map p.362. Large and relaxed Prenzlauer Berg beer garden. The attached Gaststätte serves German classics year-round. Winter Mon–Sat 6pm–late, Sun noon–late; summer daily noon–late (weather permitting).

Schleusenkrug Müller-Breslau-Str.; ③ Tiergarten; map pp.360–361. Outstanding, relaxed beer garden overlooking the canal lock at the western end of Tiergarten park. Besides beer (€4) there's everything from breakfast (€5–9) to Flammkuchen pizza (€9), organic grilled sausages, schnitzel and healthy salads. Daily 10am–midnight.

Strandbar Mitte Monbijoustr. 3, Mitte; ③ Hackescher Markt; map p.362. Popular, seasonal city beach bar with deckchairs and a dancefloor overlooking the River Spree opposite the Bodemuseum. Great spot to lounge in the afternoon with a beer, attracting a mixed, 20–40-something crowd. April–Oct daily 10am–late.

CLUBS

Don't bother arriving before midnight at Berlin's clubs. To find out what's on, go with the flow from Warschauer Strasse or pick up one of the listings magazines, Zitty (① zitty.de), Tip (① tip-berlin.de) or the English-language Exberliner (① exberliner.com).

Berghain Am Wriezener Bahnhof, Friedrichshain ① berghain.de; ③ Ostbahnhof; map p.364. Legendary techno club in a huge former power station, attracting a mixed gay-straight crowd; entrance policy is strict and generally turns away anyone who looks like a foreign backpacker. Try arriving Sunday at noon. Upstairs Panorama Bar Fri & Sat 8pm–late; Berghain usually Fri 11pm non-stop till Mon morning.

Cassiopeia Revaler Str. 99 ① cassiopeia-berlin.de; ③/① Warschauer Str.; map p.364. A popular club in a former rail maintenance yard with four dancefloors and a mad combination of skate-park, climbing wall, cinema and beer garden. Always worth a look. Club nights Wed–Sun 11pm–late.

Clärchens Ballhaus Auguststr. 24 ① ballhaus.de; ③ Hackescher Markt; map p.362. Classic 1913 dancehall, hosting dance nights from 9pm, often with instruction: Mon salsa, Tues tango, Wed swing, Thurs & Sun ballroom, Fri & Sat Schwoof disco parties (€7). Also serves great pizzas. Daily 11am till at least midnight.

GAY BERLIN

Berlin's diverse gay scene is spread across the city, but there's a discernible gay village just south of ① Nollendorfplatz in Schöneberg. Check out the gay listings magazine Siegessäule (① siegessaule.de), which is available in many local cafés and shops. Look out for the Café Fatal and Rollerdisco nights at SO36 (see opposite), club nights by GMF (① gmf-berlin.de) at various venues, or check out Berghain (see below), a club with a strong gay presence. The annual Christopher Street Day Gay Pride festival is in June or July (① csd-berlin.de).

Kaffee Burger Torstr. 60, Mitte ☎ kaffeeburger.de; ① Rosenthaler Platz/Rosa-Luxemburg-Platz; map p.362. Small, former GDR bar decorated in deep red, with an eclectic range of live music, spoken word events and club nights, including the infamously funky Russian disco twice monthly. Sun–Thurs 9pm–4am, Fri & Sat 9pm–6am.

Privatclub Skalitzer Strasse 85, Kreuzberg ☎ privatclub-berlin.de; ① Görlitzer Bhf; map p.364. Intimate club inside a former post office building, with an eclectic range of live bands from around the world and parties. Thurs–Sat from 7pm.

Ritter Butzke Ritterstr. 26, Kreuzberg ☎ ritterbutzke.com ① Moritzplatz; map pp.360–361. Exciting club in a former factory building in an up-and-coming part of Kreuzberg, with three dancefloors, an outdoor area and music with a more local focus than other clubs.

Rosi's Revalerstr. 29, Friedrichshain ☎ rosis-berlin.de; ① Warschauer Str.; map p.364. Quirky and hugely fun with Berlin's hallmark improvised feel. There's a sense of crashing a house party here, with a small kitchen and living room to hang out in between bouts on dancefloors where indie or techno pounds. Outdoor table tennis too. Thurs–Sat 6pm–late, Sun 2pm till late.

SO 36 Oranienstr. 190, Kreuzberg ☎ so36.de; ① Görlitzer Bhf; map p.364. Cult punk club with a large gay and lesbian following. Sunday's Café Fatal – ballroom dance class at 7pm, dancing from 8pm – is a fantastic, friendly gay and mixed free-for-all. Also frequent live music. See website for exact hours.

ENTERTAINMENT

For last-minute tickets to just about any kind of show or event, try Hekticket (☎ 030 230 99 30, ☎ hekticket.de), which sells half-price tickets from 2pm and has two locations: Hardenbergstr. 29d, Charlottenburg, opposite the main entrance to ① Zoologischer Garten, and Alexanderstr. 1, Mitte, northeast of Alexanderplatz, ① Alexanderplatz.

CineStar Potsdamerstr. 4 ☎ cinestar.de/en; ① Potsdamer Platz; map pp.360–361. Sony Center Cinema that screens films in English; €8.50, students €7.

Philharmonie Herbert-von-Karajan-Str. 1 ☎ 030 25 48 80, ☎ berliner-philharmoniker.de; ① Potsdamer Platz; map pp.360–361. Custom-built home of the world's most celebrated orchestra, the Berlin Philharmonic, with free Tuesday lunchtime concerts at 1pm (Sept to mid-June).

Staatsoper Bismarckstr. 110 ☎ 030 20 35 44 38, ☎ staatsoper-berlin.org; ① Ernst-Reuter-Platz; map p.362. Excellent operatic productions, temporarily based in the Schiller Theatre while their beautiful building on Unter den Linden is being renovated.

DIRECTORY

Banks and exchange ATMs and exchange at the airports, and major stations. The Reisebank has offices at

BARGAINS AND BOUTIQUES

Boutiques and local designers are in good supply in Berlin, though bargains are rare. The area just northeast of ① Hackescher Markt is the best place for a cluster of fashion boutiques. Head to Prenzlauer Berg (from Kastanienallee to Helmholzplatz) for high-quality, high-priced local designers, and to the Boxhagener Platz area of Friedrichshain for the latest hipster apparel. Flea markets (Flohmärkte) abound in Berlin; head to the busy Mauerpark market in Prenzlauer Berg (Sun 9am–6pm; tram #M10 to Friedrich-Ludwig-Jahn-Sportpark) for the best bargains.

Hauptbahnhof, Freidrichstrasse and Ostbahnhof stations (daily 8am–10pm).

Embassies and consulates Australia, Wallstr. 76–79 ☎ 030 880 08 80, ☎ germany.embassy.gov.au/beln/home.html; Canada, Leipziger Platz 17 ☎ 030 20 31 20, ☎ canadainternational.gc.ca/germany-allemande; Ireland, Jägerstr. 51 ☎ 030 22 07 20, ☎ embassyofireland.de; New Zealand, Friedrichstr. 60 ☎ 030 20 62 10, ☎ mfat.govt.nz/en/countries-and-regions/europe/germany/berlin; South Africa, Tiergartenstr. 18 ☎ 030 22 07 30, ☎ suedafrika.org; UK, Wilhelmstr. 70–71 ☎ 030 20 45 70, ☎ www.gov.uk/government/world/organisations/british-embassy-berlin; US, Clayallee 170 ☎ 030 830 50, ☎ de.usembassy.gov.

Hospital There's an emergency room at Campus Charité Mitte, entrance Luisenstr. 65, Mitte (☎ 030 450 531 000)

Pharmacy Apotheke Hauptbahnhof, at the main station (24hr).

Post office The post office (Postamt) with the longest hours is at Bahnhof Friedrichstr., at Georgenstr. 12 (Mon–Fri 6am–10pm, Sat & Sun 8am–10pm).

DAY-TRIPS FROM BERLIN

Easy and engaging day-trips by train include the town of Potsdam, just southwest of Berlin, famous for the lavish summer palaces and gardens of the Prussian royalty at Sanssouci. Just beyond Berlin's northern edge lies the sombre site of the Sachsenhausen concentration camp.

Potsdam: Park Sanssouci

Stretching west from POTSDAM's charming town centre is Park Sanssouci (park entry free, but €2 donation gets you a useful map; day ticket for all sights €19, students €14), a dazzling collection of eighteenth- and nineteenth-century Baroque and Rococo palaces and ornamental gardens that were once the fabled retreat of the Prussian kings. Dotted with follies, fountains and themed gardens, it's a place you could easily spend a day exploring. Schloss Sanssouci (Tues–Sun: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–5pm; €12, students €8), the star attraction, was a pleasure palace completed in 1747, where Frederick the Great could escape the stresses of Berlin and his wife. Head here first, as tickets are timed and sell out fast. East of the palace is the Bildergalerie (May–Oct Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €6, students €5), a restrained Baroque creation with paintings by Rubens, Van Dyck and Caravaggio. On the opposite side of the Schloss, the Neue Kammern (April–Oct Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €6, students €5) was originally used as an orangery and later converted into a guest palace in similar lavish Rococo style.

West of here, the Orangery (April Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; May–Oct Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €4, students €3), a later, Neoclassical palace built by Frederick William IV in 1826, features the astonishing Raphael Hall, covered with quality copies of many of Raphael's most famous works. At the west end of the 1.5km-long stylized gardens stands the massive Rococo Neues Palais (Mon & Wed–Sun: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March by guided tour only 10am–5pm), €8, students €6, including audioguide or guided tour), which has an exquisitely opulent interior.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train and bus Take 1 or 7 (every 10min; 35min; zone C) or a regional train to Potsdam. From Potsdam train station, take bus #614, #695 or #X5 to Schloss Sanssouci (every 5–10min; 2km); #695 also stops at the Neues Palais, Orangery and the Dachhaus.

Tourist information Potsdam tourist offices are in the train station (Mon–Sat 9.30am–8pm), at the Luisenplatz (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm, Sun 10am–4pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm) and at the Alter Markt (Mon–Sat 9.30am–7pm & Sun 10am–4pm).

Gedenkstätte Sachsenhausen

More than 200,000 people were imprisoned at Sachsenhausen concentration camp between 1936 and 1945, of which many tens of thousands died at the hands of the Nazis. Several of the original buildings across the site house exhibitions about the camp's history (daily: mid-March to mid-Oct 8.30am–6pm; mid-Oct to mid-March 8.30am–4.30pm, exhibitions closed on Mondays in winter; guided tour €3, students €2; stiftung-bg.de/gums/en/index.htm).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train and bus Take 1 or a regional train to Oranienburg (every 10min; 25–45 min; zone C), and then bus #804 or #821, or walk for 20min, following the signs to Sachsenhausen.

Eastern Germany

Berlin stands apart from the rest of the East, but its dynamism finds an echo in the two other main cities in the region: particularly Dresden, the beautiful Saxon capital so ruthlessly destroyed in 1945, now rebuilt and thriving, and Leipzig, which provided the vanguard of the 1989 revolution. Both combine some interesting sights and excellent museums and galleries, with a fun, irreverent bar and club scene. Equally enticing are some of the smaller places, notably the beautiful, diminutive Weimar, the fountainhead of much of European art and culture, while small-town Meissen retains the appearance and atmosphere of prewar Germany.

DRESDEN

Once regarded as Germany's most beautiful city, DRESDEN survived World War II largely unscathed until the night of February 13, 1945. Then, in a matter of hours, it was reduced to ruins in saturation bombing, with around 18,000 to 25,000 people killed. Post-reunification, the city has slotted easily into the economic framework of the reunited Germany, and most of the historic buildings have been brilliantly restored in an ambitious and hugely successful project. Its physical revival is reflected in its resurgent nightlife, with the thriving scene around Neustadt a hedonistic surprise.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The city's main sights are in the picturesque Altstadt, which stretches along the southern bank of the River Elbe. The grand Baroque set pieces are centred on Theaterplatz – with the Zwinger, Residenzschloss and Semperoper (the grand opera house) – and Neumarkt further east. Between the two is Augustusstrasse, along which runs a porcelain-tiled mural, while the formal Brühlische Terrasse is an elegant promenade along the river. The southern part of the Altstadt is more prosaic, though the large 1960s Prager Strasse, which runs down to the Hauptbahnhof, is useful for high-street shopping. North of the river, the Neustadt is the best place to eat, drink and sleep.

The Frauenkirche and Albertinum

Dominating Dresden Altstadt's skyline is the elegant, soaring dome of the Baroque Frauenkirche (Mon–Fri 10am–noon & 1–6pm, Sat & Sun open only for special events) on the Neumarkt. Only a fragment of wall was left standing after the war, and in 1991 the decision was taken to rebuild the church, using many of the original stones, creating a chequerboard of light and dark stones in places. The inside is gloriously light, with an impressive 37m-high interior dome. You can climb up the dome for a close-up look and stunning views across town (Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 12.30–6pm; Nov–Feb closes at 4pm; €8, students €6). Just to the east, overlooking the Brühlischer Garten, the Albertinum (daily 10am–6pm; €10, students €7.50;  skd.museum) houses the outstanding New Masters Gallery: it displays art from the nineteenth-century onwards, much of it by German artists – look out for works by the Romantic Caspar David Friedrich, the Expressionist Otto Dix, Van Gogh and the more modern work of Gerhard Richter.

The Residenzschloss

The colossal Residenzschloss (Wed–Mon 10am–6pm; €12; timed ticket for the Historisches Grünes Gewölbe €12; Residenzschloss plus Historisches Grünes Gewölbe €21; book online or arrive early;  skd.museum) houses the Grünes Gewölbe or Green Vault collection, a dazzling array of the Saxon royal family's treasury items. The three thousand items of the Historisches Grünes Gewölbe, assembled by Augustus the Strong between 1723 and 1730, are displayed in the Baroque mirrored rooms of their historic setting. The Neues Grünes Gewölbe exhibition features some of the collection's most impressive items, such as the famous carved cherry stones – with 185 carved faces squeezed onto a single stone. Inside the 60m-long Riesensaal hall, the Rüstkammer displays a collection of weaponry including a magnificent Renaissance suit of armour for man and horse, while the Türkische Cammer exhibits Augustus the Strong's Ottoman fashions and armour.

The Zwinger

Baroque Dresden's great glory was the palace known as the Zwinger (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €10, students €7.50, includes all Zwinger museums plus audioguide;  skd.museum), which faces the Residenzschloss and contains several museums. It's free to enter the palace's magnificent courtyard and view the enchanting Nymphenbad fountain at the rear. Near the Theaterplatz entrance, in the nineteenth-century extension, is the Gemäldegalerie Alte Meister, whose collection of Old Masters ranks among the best in the world, including Raphael's Sistine Madonna, plus masterpieces by Titian, Veronese, Dürer, Holbein and Cranach.

Beautifully displayed in the southeastern pavilion, entered from Sophienstrasse, is the Porzellansammlung, featuring porcelain items from the famous Meissen factory, as well as from China and Japan. The southwestern pavilion houses the Mathematisch-Physikalischer Salon's collection of globes, clocks and scientific instruments. These two museums can also be visited separately (each museum €6, students €4.50).

The Altmarkt and Kreuzkirche

At the north end of Prager Strasse is the Altmarkt; the only building of note here is the Kreuzkirche, a church that mixes a Baroque body with a Neoclassical tower. On Saturdays at 6pm, and at 9.30am Sunday services, it usually features the Kreuzchor, one of the world's leading boys' choirs.

The Neustadt

Across the River Elbe, the Neustadt was a planned Baroque town. The north bank of the Elbe features the green open space of the Elbe Meadows, with a couple of beer gardens and the best views of the Altstadt skyline. The area around Louisenstrasse is the focus of the city's alternative culture, with a burgeoning art scene; wander through the bohemian Kunsthofpassage with its courtyards, houses and arty shops.

On a hill north of Neustadt, a grand old arsenal building, on Olbrichtplatz 2, houses the excellent Militärhistorisches Museum (Military museum; daily 10am–6pm, Mon until 9pm; €5, Mon after 6pm free, mhmbw.de). Designed by US architect Daniel Libeskind, the building is dramatically split into two by a giant wedge, dividing the exhibitions inside into the permanent and fascinating temporary exhibitions. The top of the wedge has a viewing platform overlooking the city.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Dresden Airport (dresden-airport.de) is connected to the Hauptbahnhof and the Neustadt Bahnhof by S 2 (every 30min; 13–23min; €2.20).

By train Dresden has two main train stations – the Hauptbahnhof, south of the Altstadt, and Neustadt Bahnhof, at the northwestern corner of the Neustadt.

Destinations Berlin (every 2hr; 2hr 15min); Frankfurt (hourly; 4hr 45min); Leipzig (every 30min; 1hr 15min–1hr 40min); Meissen (every 30min; 35min); Prague (every 2hr; 2hr 10min); Weimar (hourly; 2hr 10min); Wrocław (3 daily; 4hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Tourist office at Neumarkt 2, inside the QF Passage next to the Frauenkirche (Mon–Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–3pm; ☎ 0351 50 15 01, dresden.de/tourism). Pick up the excellent, free USE-IT Dresden map at hostels and train station information desks, or download it from the website (use-it.travel).

Discount passes The Dresden-City-Card (€35/48hr) includes public transport, entrance to all Dresden state museums, except the Historisches Grünes Gewölbe, and sundry discounts.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport The network of trams, buses and S-Bahn is frequent and reliable, though the main sights are easily walkable. Trams #8 (to Theaterplatz) and #7 (to the Synagoge by Brühlischer Garten) are useful for getting between the Neustadt and Altstadt. One-way €2.30; day ticket €6.

ACCOMMODATION

Campingplatz Mockritz Boderitzer Str. 30 ☎ 035 14 71 52 50, camping-dresden.de; bus #76 from the Hauptbahnhof. Basic campsite with some nice shady spots. Open year-round. Reception 8–11am & 4–9pm. Per person €6, plus per tent €4.50

Kangaroo-Stop Erna-Berger-Str. 8–10, Neustadt ☎ 035 13 14 34 55, kangaroo-stop.de. Cheap, spacious hostel with a kitchen on a quiet street 3min from Neustadt station, 10min from the bar district. Dorms €17, doubles €46, apartments €90

★ Lollis Homestay Görlitzer Str. 34, Neustadt ☎ 035 18 10 84 58, lollishome.de. This wonderfully cosy hostel is in lively Neustadt, with friendly staff, quirky rooms, a kitchen (plus free communal dinners weekly) and bikes for rent – though the central location means it can be loud at night. Tram to Alaanplatz or 20min from Neustadt Bahnhof. Sheets €2 extra. Dorms €17, doubles €47

Louise 20 Louisenstr. 20, Neustadt ☎ 035 18 89 48 94, louise20.de. Bright, quiet, if slightly bland, hotel-quality hostel in a courtyard in the midst of the bar district. Dorms €18, doubles €44

Mondpalast Louisenstr. 77, Neustadt ☎ 035 15 63 40 50, mondpalast.de. A great backpackers' place with artistically decorated rooms on one of Neustadt's liveliest streets. Bike rentals €8/day. Sheets €2. Dorms €14, doubles €48

EATING

Aha Kreuzstr. 7, Altstadt. Slightly hippy-ish fair-trade café and shop, with a good-value menu of soups such as potato and leek, plus healthy main courses like goats' cheese with figs (€13). Daily 10am–midnight.

Curry & Co Louisenstr. 62, Neustadt. This ultra-hip, minimalist Currywurst joint serves up cheap, quick and satisfying snacks on the go. Currywurst and fries €4.30. Sun–Thurs 11am–10pm, Fri & Sat 11am–2am.

Lila Sosse Kunsthof passage, Alaunstr. 70, Neustadt ⑩ lilasosse.de. A great spot for relaxing and unwinding, this cool bistro in an arty courtyard prepares modern German dishes – try the home-made cheese Spätzle (€6.90). Mon–Fri 4–11pm, Sat & Sun noon–11pm.

Oosteinde Preissnitzstr. 18, Neustadt. Delicious, good-value food served beneath a low-vaulted roof or outside in a peaceful beer garden. Burgers start at €7.80, mains from €9. Mon–Sat 4pm–midnight, Sun 11am–midnight.

Planwirtschaft Louisenstr. 20, Neustadt; ⑩ planwirtschaft-dresden.de. Popular café-bar-restaurant and Biergarten with a great breakfast buffet (Mon–Fri €9.80, Sat & Sun €14.50). Convivial tables set under trees offer the chance to chat with new friends. Daily 7.30am–1am.

Raskolnikoff Böhmische Str. 34, Neustadt; ⑩ raskolnikoff.de. A large, rambling, bohemian Russian bar-café and restaurant. Great food and an atmospheric beer garden that gets very crowded at weekends. Mon–Fri 10am–2am, Sat & Sun 9am–2am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

The Neustadt is home to more than 130 bars and clubs clustered around a handful of narrow streets, where crowds drink peacefully outside on warm nights. For nightlife listings, pick up a copy of Sax or Dresdner (German only) from the tourist office or hostels.

BARs

Blue Note Görlitzer Str. 2b, Neustadt ⑩ jazzdepartment.com. Dark and boozy jazz bar, packed to the gills nightly for its live music starting at 9pm. To get a seat, arrive when it opens. Daily 7pm till at least midnight.

Bottoms Up Martin-Luther-Str. 31, Neustadt. Down a quiet backstreet away from the main action, this easy-going café-bar and beer garden is an unpretentious favourite that serves good weekend breakfasts. Mon–Fri 5pm–5am, Sat & Sun 10am–5am.

Lebowski Bar Görlitzerstr. 53, Neustadt. Kick back with a cocktail (a white Russian, of course, just like the Dude) while the Big Lebowski plays in the background. Daily 6pm till at least 1am.

Scheune Alaunstr. 36, Neustadt ⑩ scheune.org. A bastion of the alternative scene with a studenty bar and beer garden, tasty Indian food, a cinema and occasional gigs. Mon–Fri 4pm–midnight, Sat & Sun 10am–midnight.

Teegadrom Louisenstr. 48, Neustadt; ⑩ teegadrom.de. A more tranquil alternative to the Neustadt hipster scene: it's calm and candlelit, with board games, and attracts a mixed crowd of 20- and 30-somethings. Daily 4pm–2am.

Wohnzimmer Alaunstr. 27/Jordanstr. 19, Neustadt; ⑩ wohnzimmer-dresden.de. On two levels, this living-room-themed bar has comfy couches and serves up a good selection of cocktails including mojitos and martinis. Daily 1pm till at least 1am.

CLUBS

Groove Station & Downtown Katherinenstr. 11–13, Neustadt ⑩ groovestation.de, ⑩ downtown-dresden.de. Set around a courtyard, this rough-and-ready rock, hip-hop and dance bar/live music complex has been a Neustadt cornerstone for years. Fri & Sat 8pm–2am.

Katy's Garage Alaunstr. 48, Neustadt ⑩ katysgarage.de. Neustadt institution – and one of the few clubs to open daily – with a chilled beer garden at the front, and club behind (from 8pm); Mon is student night. Daily 5pm till at least 1am.

Strasse E Werner-Hartmann-Str. 2 ⑩ strasse-e.de; tram #7 or S-Bahn to Industriegelände, along Hermann-Mende-Str. then right onto Werner-Hartmann-Str. Industrial area turned club/venue mini-city north of the Neustadt, where there's always something interesting going on. Fri & Sat 6pm till at least 2am.

DAY-TRIPS FROM DRESDEN

Around Dresden there is stunning scenery in Saxon Switzerland and the quaint unspoilt town of Meissen, making the city a good base for exploring the region. Both are within Dresden's regional transport network.

Sächsische Schweiz

The Sächsische Schweiz (Saxon Switzerland) region southeast of Dresden is a natural wonderland of majestic sandstone mountains, stunning views of the River Elbe and ample opportunities for hiking, cycling and climbing. One classic hiking route is the 115km Malerweg (Painter Route), overnighing in tourist-friendly villages along the way. There are also countless day hikes, easily reached by train from Dresden, such as Königstein to Rathen via Lilienstein (7km), through woods and open vistas.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By S-Bahn and bus It's easy to visit this region from Dresden; just take ① 1 (every 30min; single €6.20) to Kurort Rathen, Königstein or Bad Schandau and follow trailheads from there; ferries across the Elbe connect to the trains.

Tourist information The tourist office in Dresden (see p.373) has general information; the friendly office inside Bad Schandau train station sells good maps and can recommend day hikes suited to your abilities (April & Oct Mon–Fri 8am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9am–noon; May–Sept Mon–Sat 8am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9am–4pm; Nov–March Mon–Fri 8am–5pm, Sat 9am–noon, Jan & Feb closed Wed; ⑩ saechsische-schweiz.de).

Meissen

The cobbled square and photogenic rooftop vistas are reason enough to visit the porcelain-producing town of MEISSEN, which, unlike its neighbour Dresden, survived World War II almost unscathed. Walking towards the centre from the train station (a 20min walk over the railroad bridge or the Altstadtbrücke; both are signposted), on the opposite side of the River Elbe, you see Meissen's commandingly sited castle almost immediately, rising just back from the Elbe's edge. The Albrechtsburg (daily: March–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–Feb 10am–5pm; €8, students €4; albrechtsburg-meissen.de) is a late fifteenth-century combination of military fortress and residential palace, which housed a porcelain factory in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Much of its current interior is nineteenth century, with murals celebrating Saxon history. Cocooned within the castle precinct is the Gothic Dom (daily: April–Oct 9am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; €4, students €2.50); inside, look out for the brass tomb-plates of the Saxon dukes.

The Staatliche Porzellan-Manufaktur is at Talstr. 9 (daily: May–Oct 9am–6pm; Nov–April 9am–5pm; €9, students €6; meissen.de), about 1.5km south of the central Markt. It's the most famous factory to manufacture Dresden china, which was invented when Augustus the Strong imprisoned the alchemist Johann Friedrich Böttger, ordering him to produce gold. Instead, he accidentally invented the first true European porcelain. You can view many of the factory's finest creations in the attached museum (same hours) and shop.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By S-Bahn S-Bahn line 1 from Dresden to Meissen station (35–40min, every 30min; single €6.20).

Tourist information Meissen's tourist office is located on Markt 3 (April–Oct Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–3pm; Nov–March Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat 10am–3pm, Jan closed Sat & Sun; ☎03521 419 40, touristinfo-meissen.de).

LEIPZIG

LEIPZIG has always been among the most dynamic of German cities. With its influential and respected university, and a tradition of trade fairs dating back to the Middle Ages, it never experienced the same degree of isolation as other cities behind the Iron Curtain. Leipzigers have embraced the challenges of reunification, and the city's imposing monuments, cobbled backstreets and wide-ranging nightlife make for an inviting visit.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Most points of interest lie within the old centre, a compact mix of traditional and often strikingly modern, with several Passagen, or covered shopping arcades, often with stylish Art Nouveau touches, running between the main streets.

Nikolaikirche and Markt

Following Nikolaistraße due south from the train station brings you to the Nikolaikirche, a rallying point during the collapse of the GDR, when its weekly peace prayers, which had been going on for several years, escalated into large protests. Although a sombre medieval structure outside, inside the church is a real eye-grabber thanks to rich decoration, works of art and pink columns with palm-tree-style capitals. A couple of blocks west is the Markt, whose eastern side is entirely occupied by the Altes Rathaus, built in the grandest German Renaissance style with elaborate gables and an asymmetrical tower. To the rear of the Altes Rathaus is the Baroque Alte Handelsbörse, formerly the trade exchange headquarters. South of the Markt, Mäddler Passage is an elegant arcade famous for the restaurant Auerbach's Keller, which features in Goethe's Faust.

Museum der bildenden Künste

Immense and striking, the modern perspex-skinned cube of the Museum der bildenden Künste, at Katharinenstr. 10 (Tues & Thurs–Sun 10am–6pm, Wed noon–8pm; €10, students €7), houses a distinguished collection, from Old Masters through to twentieth-century artists, and is particularly strong on Leipzig-born Max Beckmann. Traditional galleries are interspersed with airy, two-storey spaces featuring imaginative and playful contemporary pieces, many by local artists. To further explore the thriving local art scene, check out the excellent Galerie für Zeitgenössische Kunst, Karl-Tauchnitz-Str. 11, just outside the Ring southwest of the centre (Gallery for Contemporary Art; Tues–Fri 2–7pm, Sat & Sun noon–6pm; €5, students €3, Wed free), while more contemporary art can be seen in the galleries of the wonderful Spinnerei, at Spinnereistrasse 7, an old cotton mill complex west of the centre (Tues–Sat 11am–6pm; free @spinnerei.de; @Plagwitz).

The Thomaskirche and Bach-Museum

Just southwest of the Markt, on Thomaskirchhof, stands the predominantly Gothic Thomaskirche, where Johann Sebastian Bach served as cantor for the last 27 years of his life. The most remarkable feature is its musical tradition: the Thomanerchor choir, which Bach once directed, can usually be heard on Fridays (6pm), Saturdays (3pm) and during the Sunday service (9am). Directly across from the church is the Bach-Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €8, students €6), which showcases Bach relics such as his manuscripts and evokes his period and music through modern displays.

Runde Ecke and Zeitgeschichtliches Forum

In the autumn of 1989 Leipzig was at the forefront of protests against the GDR, and one focus for this was the Runde Ecke, at Dittrichring 24, the city's headquarters for the Stasi, East Germany's secret police (daily 10am–6pm; €4, students €3; English audioguide €3). Much of it has been preserved as it was, complete with a Stasi official's office, making it a fascinating trawl through the methods and machinery of the Stasi. Less atmospheric but slicker is the Zeitgeschichtliches Forum (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; free), just south of the Markt at Grimmaische Str. 6, a multimedia museum on the history of the GDR.

The Völkerschlachtdenkmal

East of the centre on Strasse des 18 Oktober stands the colossal Völkerschlachtdenkmal (daily: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; €6; @Völkerschlachtdenkmal or tram #15), a 91m-high concrete-and-granite war memorial. It commemorates the 54,000 allied soldiers who died in the 1813 Battle of Nations, which pitted the combined might of the Prussian, Austrian and Russian forces against Napoleon's army. A lookout platform offers great views, and at its base the Forum 1813 exhibition provides context to the battle.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Leipzig-Halle Airport (@leipzig-halle-airport .de) is connected with the main train station by the Airport Express train (every 20min; 15min).

By train Leipzig's enormous Hauptbahnhof is at the northeastern corner of the city centre.

Destinations Berlin (hourly; 1hr 20min); Dresden (every 30min; 1hr 15min–1hr 40min); Frankfurt (hourly; 3hr 30min); Meissen (hourly; 1hr 20min); Weimar (hourly; 1hr).

Tourist information Behind the Museum der bildenden Künste at Katharinenstr. 8 (Mon–Fri 9.30am–6pm, Sat 9.30am–4pm, Sun 9.30am–3pm; @0341 71 04 260, @leipzig.de). The Leipzig Card (1/3-days for €11.50/25.50), which includes public transport and various discounts, is unlikely to be good value – particularly if you get student discounts, which are often the same.

GETTING AROUND

By train, tram and bus S-Bahn trains connect the Hauptbahnhof to the city centre, the Völkerschlachtdenkmal and Plagwitz; trams #9 and #11 from the Hauptbahnhof are useful for Karl-Liebknecht-Str. One-way ticket €2.50, day ticket €6.90.

ACCOMMODATION

Auensee Gustav-Esche-Str. 5 @034 14 65 16 00, @camping-auensee.de; tram #10 or #11 toahren Rathaus, then walk or bus #80 to Auensee. Open May–Dec, with bungalow doubles also available. Reception daily: May–Oct 8am–1pm & 2–8.30pm; Nov & Dec 8am–1pm & 2–5.30pm. Camping/person €6.50, plus per tent €4, bungalows €35

Central Globetrotter Kurt-Schumacher-Str. 41 @034 11 49 89 60, @globetrotter-leipzig.de. Popular backpacker spot just north of the Hauptbahnhof. Rooms facing the street can be noisy. Sheets €3. Breakfast €4. Dorms €15, doubles €24

Sleepy Lion Jacobstr. 1 @034 19 93 94 80, @hostel-leipzig.de. This is a spacious, well-run hostel west of the centre, 15min walk from the station. Bed linen free, sleeping bags not allowed. Dorms €11, doubles €38

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Gottschedstrasse, just west of the Thomaskirche, is lined with attractive cafés and bars, while Karl-Liebknecht-Strasse, a couple of tram stops south of the centre (#10 or #11), is lively and studenty.

Die Versorger Spinnereistr. 7, Plagwitz ☎die-versorger.com. Cosy villa inside the Spinnerei complex with cheap pub food (schnitzel and fries €6.50; soup from €3), occasional concerts and a lovely summer garden with scattered seating and table tennis. Mon–Fri 8.30am–7pm, Sat 10am–7pm, Sun 11am–7pm.

Ilses Erika Bernhard-Göring-Str. 152, Südvorstadt ☎ilseserika.de; tram to Connewitz Kreuz. Indie bar, club and music venue Thurs–Sat; beer garden all summer. Attracts a nice mix of ages and people from students to families with kids in the beer garden. Wed–Sun times vary.

Luise Boserstr. 4, corner of Gottschedstr ☎luise-leipzig.de. Chic café-bar with an attractive, vaguely Pop Art decor, serving excellent breakfasts (from €6) and small pasta dishes. Sun–Thurs 9am–1am, Fri & Sat 9am–3am.

KH70 Karl-Heine-Str. 70, Plagwitz ☎kh70.de. One of several studenty options en route to the Spinnerei complex. The soul food served up includes tasty burgers (around €7), chilli con carne and “groove salad”. Sun–Thurs 6pm–1am, Fri & Sat 6pm–3am.

Moritzbastei Universitätsstr. 9 ☎moritzbastei.de. A cavernous student cellar bar and club in a former bastion, with lots of events, including live music. There are also beer gardens and a cheap student canteen. Mon–Fri 10am–1am, Sat noon–1am.

naTo Karl-Liebknecht-Str. 46, Südvorstadt ☎nato-leipzig.de; tram #10 or #11 to Südplatz. Focus of the city’s alternative scene with a popular bar, gigs of indie, alt-folk and jazz music, theatre, cabaret and an art-house cinema. Daily 5 or 6pm til at least midnight.

WEIMAR

Despite its modest size, WEIMAR has played an unmatched role in the development of German culture: Goethe, Schiller and Nietzsche all made it their home, as did the architects and designers of the Bauhaus school. The town was also chosen as the drafting place for the constitution of the democratic republic established after World War I, a regime whose failure ended with the Nazi accession. Add to this the town’s cobbled streets and laidback, quietly highbrow atmosphere, and Weimar makes an attractive stop for a day or two.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Weimar’s main sights are concentrated in the city’s walkable centre, south of the main train station and on the west side of the River Ilm. The lovely Park an der Ilm stretches 2km southwards from the Schloss on both sides of the river. The Buchenwald concentration camp memorial is a bus ride to the northwest.

The Schloss and Markt

Weimar’s former seat of power was the Schloss, set by the River Ilm at the eastern edge of the town centre, a Neoclassical complex of a size more appropriate for ruling a mighty empire. It’s now a museum (Tues–Sun: Jan–Easter, Nov & Dec 9.30am–4pm; Easter–Oct 9.30am–6pm; €7.50, students €6), with a collection of Old Masters on the ground floor, including pieces by both Cranachs and Dürer, while the first-floor rooms are grand Neoclassical chambers, with lavish memorial rooms to great poets – most notably Goethe and Schiller. South of nearby Herderplatz is the spacious Markt, lined with a disparate jumble of buildings, the most eye-catching of which is the green and white gabled Stadthaus on the eastern side, opposite the neo-Gothic Rathaus.

The Goethewohnhaus und Nationalmuseum

On Frauenplan, south of the Markt, the Goethewohnhaus und Nationalmuseum (Tues–Sun: Jan–March, Nov & Dec 9.30am–4pm; April–Oct 9.30am–6pm; €12, students €8.50) is where Goethe lived for some fifty years until his death in 1832. The house and garden have been atmospherically preserved as they were in his lifetime, complete with the chair in which he died, while the museum showcases his extensive collections of art and natural specimens.

Theaterplatz and around

Weimar’s most photographed symbol is the large double statue of Goethe and Schiller on Theaterplatz, a spacious square west of the Markt. The Nationaltheater on the west side of the square was founded and directed by Goethe, though the present building is a modern copy. Directly opposite is the small but interesting Bauhaus museum, with a collection of artefacts and photos relating to the influential architecture and design movement (Wed–Mon: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; €4, students €3) – a large new museum is planned just north of the town centre for 2019 to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the Bauhaus movement. Schillerstrasse snakes away from the southeast corner of Theaterplatz, with the Schillerhaus at no. 12 (Tues–Sun: April–Oct 9.30am–6pm; Nov–March 9.30am–4pm; €7.50, students €6), the home of the poet and dramatist for the last three years of his life.

Konzentrationslager Buchenwald

The Konzentrationslager Buchenwald (Tues–Sun: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; free; buchenwald.de) is situated north of Weimar on the Ettersberg heights, and can be reached by bus #6 (hourly from Goetheplatz and the train station; 20min). Over 240,000 prisoners were incarcerated in this concentration camp, with 65,000 dying here. Very few original buildings remain, but an audioguide (€3) and the historical exhibition paint a vivid picture of life and death in the camp.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Weimar's train station, on the Leipzig line, is a 20min walk north of the main sights.

Destinations Dresden (hourly; 2hr 30min); Eisenach (every 30min; 50min); Frankfurt (hourly; 2hr 30min); Leipzig (hourly; 1hr).

Tourist information Tourist office at Markt 10 (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–7pm, Sun 9.30am–3pm; Nov–March Mon–Fri 9.30am–6pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–2pm; ☎ 03643 7450, weimar.de).

ACCOMMODATION

A&O Hostel Buttelstedter Str. 27c ☎ 030 809 47 51 10, aohostels.com. Large new hostel with spacious rooms, just five minutes' walk north of the Hauptbahnhof. Dorms €18, doubles €51

Labyrinth Hostel Goetheplatz 6 ☎ 036 43 81 18 22, weimar-hostel.com. Fantastic, central and friendly hostel, with attractive spotless rooms individually designed by local artists. There's a good kitchen, a relaxed communal area and a courtyard. Dorms €14, doubles €50

Pension Savina Meyerstr. 60 ☎ 036 438 66 90, pension-savina.de. Convenient pension where the cosy, spotless and simply furnished rooms come with en-suite bathrooms and kitchenettes. A fine choice. Doubles €62

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

ACC Burgplatz 1. A relaxed bar and restaurant with an upstairs gallery and quiet candlelit tables lining a cobbled side street. Mains from €6.50. Mon–Fri noon–1am, Sat & Sun 10am–1am.

Estragon Herderplatz 3. Small soup bar that's part of an organic supermarket, with a daily-changing menu of tasty, filling soups (€3–6) and salads (pay by weight). Mon–Fri 10am–7pm, Sat noon–7pm.

Giancarlo Schillerstr. 11. Gloriously old-fashioned Italian ice-cream parlour, with over sixty home-made flavours – try the bitter chocolate – plus extravagant sundaes and waffles. The €1.20 coffee-and-croissant breakfast (9–11am) is unbeatable value. Daily 9am–8pm, often later in summer.

Kasseturm Goetheplatz 10. Student club in an atmospheric brick tower – it puts on some good live music nights, which are always sweaty and occasionally rowdy. Mon–Sat 8pm till at least 1am.

San Eisdorf 4. Cosy Korean restaurant with authentic classics such as veg or meat bibimbap (fried rice, from €7), a fireplace in winter and lovely home-made ceramics for sale. Tues–Sat noon–4pm & 5–10pm.

EISENACH: THE WARTBURG

A small town on the edge of the Thuringian Forest, EISENACH is home to Germany's best-loved medieval castle, the Wartburg. The castle complex (guided tours only, every 15min; daily: April–Oct 8.30am–5pm; Nov–March 9am–3.30pm; €9, students €5; English translation available), first mentioned in 1080, includes one of the best-preserved Romanesque palaces this side of the Alps, with several newer additions, including the Festsaal, a nineteenth-century interpretation of medieval grandeur so splendid that Ludwig II of Bavaria had it copied for his fairytale palace, Neuschwanstein. The tour takes you through its ornately decorated rooms. Also on view is a small exhibition of paintings – including some elegant portraits by Cranach the Elder – and the Lutherstube, the room in which Martin Luther translated the New Testament into the German vernacular while in hiding in 1521–22.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Eisenach is 45min–1hr 10min from Weimar by train (every 30min) – an easy day-trip. The Wartburg is a good hour's walk from the train station (get a map from DB information at the train station or tourist office). From the station head southwest along Wartburgallee; after 20–30min, at the Reuter-Wagner-Museum, there's a signposted footpath up to the Wartburg, a steep 30min climb from here. Alternatively, bus #10 runs hourly (April–Oct) from the train station to the Eselstation (donkey station), from where it's a 15min steep climb to the castle. Electric bikes can be rented from Cycle Service, Markt 18.

Tourist information Tourist office inside the Stadtschloss palace at Markt 24 (Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 03691 792 30, ☉ eisenach.info).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

There's a traditional restaurant at the Wartburg, plus cheap and tasty Thuringian Rostbratwurst stalls near the donkey station and a dozen or so cafés and restaurants around the Markt in the town centre.

Jugendherberge Eisenach Mariental 24 ☎ 03691 74 32 59, ☉ eisenach.jugendherberge.de; bus #3 or #10 to "Unterhalb der Herberge". Spacious hostel at the foot of the Wartburg hill, 1km from the main square. Dorms €23, doubles €46

Northern Germany

Hamburg, Germany's second city, is infamous for the sleaze and hectic nightlife of the Reeperbahn strip – but it is far more than this, with a sophisticated cultural scene, handsome warehouse quarter and big-city allure. Another maritime city, Lübeck, has a strong pull, with a similar appeal to the mercantile towns of the Low Countries. To the south lies Hannover, worth a visit for its museums and gardens.

HAMBURG

Stylish media centre and second-largest port in Europe, HAMBURG is undeniably cool – more laidback than Berlin or Frankfurt, more sophisticated than Munich, and with nightlife to rival the lot. Its skyline is dominated by the pale green of its copper spires and domes, but a few houses and churches are all that's left from older times. Though much of the subsequent rebuilding isn't especially beautiful, the result is an intriguing mix of old and new, coupled with an appealing sense of open space – two-thirds of Hamburg is occupied by parks, lakes or canals.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Much of the fun of Hamburg is in exploring different quarters, each with a distinct feel and purpose. The centre, defined by the Binnenalster and Aussenalster lakes to its northeast, and the docks and port to the south, is focused on the oversized Rathaus. The streets that span north, particularly Jungfernstieg and around, are classy and commercial. But the focus of Hamburg is the docks and warehouses along the Elbe River. North from the port are the best neighbourhoods after dark: St Pauli and its infamous Reeperbahn, the studenty Schanzenviertel further north, and chic Altona off to the west.

The Rathaus

The commercial and shopping district centres on Binnenalster lake and the neo-Renaissance Rathaus (guided tours Mon–Fri 11am–4pm, Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 10am–4pm; €4, tours in English on request; ☎ 040 428 312 064), a magnificently pompous demonstration of the city's power and wealth in the nineteenth century.

Nikolaikirche and St Michaelis

Hamburg's skyline is punctuated by a series of church spires – it's worth climbing one to appreciate the surrounding watery expanses. The most dramatic ascent is the glass lift up through the skeletal spire of Nikolaikirche on Willy-Brandt-Strasse, which is pretty much all that remains of the church, the rest having been destroyed in 1943. A small, poignant exhibition is displayed in the crypt (daily: May–Sept 10am–6pm; Oct–April 10am–5pm; €5 for spire and crypt). Hamburg's city church is the elegant Baroque St Michaelis, on Englische Planke. You can go up the tower (daily: May–Oct 9am–7.30pm; Nov–April 10am–5.30pm; €5, students €4) for a panorama over the docks.

The waterfront

From the red-brick Speicherstadt immediately south of the Markt, via eye-catching new developments of the HafenCity area to the impressive utilitarian port to the west, Hamburg's waterfront is its most distinctive area. With its tall, ornate warehouses, the nineteenth-century Speicherstadt quarter is the most attractive part to wander and crisscross the bridges at will – Hamburg has more of them than Venice or Amsterdam. Its modern counterpart behind is HafenCity, a docklands development project with futuristic architecture, such as the Elbphilharmonie concert hall with its stunning interior (opens in 2017; check Welbphilharmonie.de for details of guided tours).

Further west, the harbour area is dominated by the solid wharf building of St Pauli Landungsbrücken, while west again along Hafenstrasse is the location for the legendary Fischmarkt. Come early on Sunday to witness an amazing trading – and drinking, as it's a post-club institution – frenzy; it's in full swing by 6am then all over by 10am. Around the harbour you can pick up a boat tour (from €14; 1hr), giving an intriguing look at the port and its industrial containers.

St Pauli and the Schanzenviertel

The former dockers' quarter, St Pauli, is now the red-light district and nightlife centre. Its main artery is the Reeperbahn – ugly and unassuming by day, blazing with neon at night. Running off here is Grosse Freiheit, the street that famously hosted The Beatles' first gigs – the junction of the two is now Beatles-Platz, with a sculpture of the Fab Four. The neighbourhood north of here, centred on Schulterblatt, is the Schanzenviertel (or Schanze), home to a riotously good fun, scruffy and studenty bar scene and cool urban ateliers.

The Kunsthalle

Just northeast of the Hauptbahnhof, on Glockengiesserwall, is the Kunsthalle, Hamburg's unmissable art collection (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–9pm; Mon–Fri €12, students €6; Sat & Sun €14, students €7; Thurs after 6pm €8, students €4). The main building features an outstanding collection, ranging from Old Masters to the twentieth century, and includes works by Rembrandt and Munch. An attached glass cube, reached via an underground passageway, houses the Galerie der Gegenwart (Contemporary Art; same ticket), with late twentieth-century works plus big temporary exhibitions and installations.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Hamburg Airport, roughly 11km north of the city, is connected with the main train station via S-Bahn line S1 (every 10min; 25min; €3.20).

By train The Hauptbahnhof is at the eastern end of the city centre.

Destinations Århus (2 daily; 4hr 30min); Berlin (hourly; 1hr 40min); Copenhagen (5 daily; 5hr); Frankfurt (hourly; 3hr 30min); Hannover (every 30min; 1hr 20min); Lübeck (every 30min; 40min); Munich (hourly; 5hr 40min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information In the Hauptbahnhof (Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; ☎040 30 05 17 01, hamburg-travel.com); at the airport (daily 6am–11pm) and at Landungsbrücken 4/5, St Pauli (Sun–Wed 9am–6pm, Thurs–Sat 9am–7pm).

Discount pass The Hamburg Card (€9.90/25.50/40.90 for 1/3/5 days) gives free use of public transport and reduced admission to some of the city's museums.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Hamburg is big, with an extensive public transport network, made up of U-Bahn, S-Bahn and buses. A short trip costs €2.20, a one-way trip €3.20, a day ticket €6.20 (after 9am, €7.60 before); a day ticket for up to five people is €11.60.

By bike Bike rental from the Nextbike and StadtRad (Call a Bike) schemes and from Fahrradladen St Georg, Schmilinskystr. 6, 10min from Hauptbahnhof (Mon–Fri 10am–7pm, Sat 10am–1pm; €10/day), and Fahrradstation, Schlüterstr. 11 (☎Dammtor; Mon–Fri 10am–6pm; €12/day).

ACCOMMODATION

Backpackers-St Pauli Bernstorffstr. 98 ☎ 040 23 51 70 43, backpackers-stpauli.de; ☎ Feldstr. Small backpacker hostel run by St Pauli locals, well located for both St Pauli and the Schanze, with a good communal area and bar next door. Sheets €2.50 (own sleeping bags not permitted). Dorms €17, doubles €30

Instant Sleep Max-Brauer-Allee 277 ☎ 040 43 180 180, instantsleep.de; S/☎ Sternschanze. Centrally located in the lively Schanze area, this laidback, independent hostel has basic rooms and a kitchen, though it's on a noisy corner above a bar. Dorms €19.50, doubles €49

Pyjama Park Reeperbahn 36 ☎ 040 31 48 38, pyjama-park.de. Comfortable hotel and hostel with nicely designed and individually styled rooms, a bar with DJs and a rooftop terrace in summer. Dorms €21, doubles €63

Superbude St Pauli Juliusstr 1-7 ☎ 040 807 91 58 20, superbude.de; S/☎ Sternschanze. Trendy and hip hotel-hostel hybrid with stylish communal areas and lots of yellow – smack in the middle of St Pauli. Dorms €16, doubles €60

EATING

Café Koppel In Koppel 66 arts centre, Lange Reihe 75, northeast of the train station in St Georg district; S/☎ Hauptbahnhof. Relaxed, classy vegetarian café-restaurant that's part of an arts centre, with a small menu of home-made breakfasts and daily specials (around €7), delicious cakes and a pretty summer garden. Daily 10am–11pm, garden until 7pm.

Erika's Eck Sternstr. 98; S/☎ Sternschanze. A firm student favourite, serving huge portions of traditional German dishes almost round the clock with breakfast served from midnight, making it popular post-clubbing. Mon–Fri 5pm till 2pm the next day, Sat & Sun 5pm–9am.

Fleetschlösschen Brooktorkai 17; ☎ Messberg. Atmospheric little café in a small building in the Speicherstadt – worth stopping in to browse through its collection of books on Hamburg and the harbour. Good coffee and a short menu of rolls and soups. Daily 8am–10pm.

Gretchen's Villa Marktstr. 142; ☎ Messehallen. Cute, bright little café with a short daytime menu and heavenly cakes – a good spot for people-watching on this street of stylish shops. Tues–Sun 10am–7pm.

Hej Papa Poolstr. 32 ☎ hej-papa.de. The “kitchen and coffee” concept here with healthy snacks, great drinks and fabulous breakfasts at weekends draws in a relaxed mix of locals. Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm.

Jim Burrito's Schulerblatt 12, Schanzenviertel; S/☎ Sternschanze. Laidback, with a nicely shabby charm to the place: tasty, cheap and filling Mexican dishes, if not particularly spicy (a range of chilli sauces is at hand). Burritos €5–9. Daily noon–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Hamburg's nightlife is outstanding: the Schanzenviertel for studenty bar-crawling; St Pauli for clubs and live music venues; while Altona attracts an older, more relaxed crowd. For information on the gay scene check Hinnerk magazine (German only, blu.fm/hinnerk), available from the tourist office, cafés and bars.

BARS

Café Gnosa Lange Reihe 93; St Pauli. Well-known gay bar-café northeast of the train station that also attracts a mixed crowd. Packed at weekends. Marvellous cakes for €4, and good breakfasts. Sun–Thurs 10am–midnight, Fri & Sat 10am–1am.

Knuth Grosse Rainstr. 21; ☎ Altona. Relaxed, stylish neighbourhood café-bar with comfy chairs and a convivial atmosphere where you can lounge and read or just grab a bite. Mon–Sat 9am till late, Sun 10am–8pm.

Mutter Stresemannstr. 11; S/☎ Sternschanze. Small, atmospheric retro-styled bar that's often the last to shut. Attracts a good mix of ages and manages to be hip without any attitude. Daily 9pm–6am.

StrandPauli Hafenstr. 89; S/☎ Landungsbrücken. Cool urban beach-bar on the old wharf, with cocktails, Caribbean vibes and an unrivalled view of the port. Summer Mon–Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–midnight, Sun 10am–11pm; winter Fri & Sat 11am–midnight, Sun 10am–11pm, Mon–Thurs only when weather permits.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

Fabrik Barnerstr. 36 ☎ fabrik.de; ☎ Altona. Major live music and club venue in Altona, with a huge range of music and occasional mixed gay nights. See website for times.

Grosse Freiheit 36 & Kaiserkeller Grosse Freiheit 36 ☎ grossefreiheit36.de; ☎ St Pauli or ☎ Reeperbahn. A tourist attraction in itself, Grosse Freiheit 36 books major acts most weekends, with an emphasis on goth and rock. The massive Kaiserkeller below plays mostly alternative music, and is famous for hosting The Beatles in the early 1960s. Grosse Freiheit 36 (venue) Thurs from 9pm, Fri & Sat from 10pm; Kaiserkeller Wed, Fri & Sat from 10pm.

Haus 73 Schulerblatt 73 ☎ dreiundsiebzig.de; S/☎ Sternschanze. Something is always on in this ramshackle building, somewhere between a community centre and a club, from dance classes to film and reggae club nights. Daily 7pm till at least midnight, usually later at weekends.

Prinzenbar Kastanienallee 20 ☎ prinzenbar.net; ☎ St Pauli or ☎ Reeperbahn. This wonderfully atmospheric venue, all crumbling Baroque cherubs, chandeliers and dark corners, hosts small club nights and live gigs; mainly indie. Tues–Sat 7pm till at least midnight.

Wald Großneumarkt 45. Relaxed beer bar in the Neustadt district with fresh, smooth unpasteurised Pilsner Urquell and a wide range of liquor. Light meals and snacks served too. DJs play at weekends. Tues–Sat 4pm–3am.

DIRECTORY

Bank and exchange Reisebank, at Hauptbahnhof, Dammtor and Altona stations.

Consulates New Zealand, Domstr. 19 ☎ 040 442 55 50; UK, Neuer Jungfernstieg 20 ☎ 040 448 032 36; US, Alsterufer 27/28 ☎ 040 411 711 00.

Pharmacy At the Hauptbahnhof, Steindamm 2 (Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat 9am–6pm).

Post office In the Altstadt at Mönckebergstr. 7 (Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat 9am–3pm).

LÜBECK

Just an hour from Hamburg, LÜBECK makes a great day-trip. Set on an egg-shaped island surrounded by the water defences of the River Trave and the city moat, the pretty Altstadt is a compact place to wander, with many small lanes and courtyards to explore.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The city's emblem – and your first view of the Altstadt as you approach from the station – is the twin-towered, leaning Holstentor (Jan–March Tues–Sun 11am–5pm; April–Dec daily 10am–6pm; €7, students €3.50), with a small city museum inside. Straight ahead, over the bridge and up Holstenstrasse, the first church on the right is the Gothic Petrikirche; an elevator goes to the top of its spire (daily: Oct–March 10am–7pm; April–Sept 9am–8pm, €3, students €2) for great views over the town. Back across Holstenstrasse is the Markt and the elaborate Rathaus. Just behind, you'll find Café Niederegger, a renowned shop crammed with marzipan products and a free museum dedicated to the sugary substance.

Behind the north wing of the town hall stands the Marienkirche, Germany's oldest brick-built Gothic church. The interior makes a light and lofty backdrop for treasures like a 1518 high altar. The church's huge bells remain embedded in the floor where they fell when the church was bombed in 1942. Katharinenkirche, on the corner of Königstrasse and Glockengiesserstrasse, has three sculptures on its facade by Ernst Barlach; only three of the nine commissioned in the early 1930s had been completed when his work was banned by the Nazis. To the north at Königstrasse 9–11 are the Behnhaus and the Drägerhaus, two patricians' houses now converted into a museum (Tues–Sun: Jan–March 11am–5pm; April–Dec 10am–5pm; €7, students €3.50) housing modern and nineteenth-century paintings. More art – excellent medieval plus modern exhibitions – can be found in the St Annen Museum (Tues–Sun: Jan–March 11am–5pm; April–Dec 10am–5pm; €7, students €3.50) in a former convent at St Annen-Strasse, which also has good displays on merchant life in Lübeck.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The train station is 5min west of the Altstadt: walk down Konrad-Adenauer-Str. to the Holstentor.

Destinations Copenhagen (4 daily; 4hr 20min); Hamburg (every 30min; 40min).

By ferry Lübeck's port, Travemünde, is 20min by train from Lübeck. Lisco Baltic Service (☎ 045 02 88 66 90, dfdslico.com) runs to Riga; Finnlines (☎ 045 028 05 43, www.ferrycenter.fi) to Helsinki and Malmö; and TT-Line (☎ 045 028 01 81, ttline.com) to Trelleborg.

Destinations Helsinki (6 weekly; 28hr); Malmö (3 daily; 8–9hr); Trelleborg (6 daily; 7hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office at Holstentorplatz 1 (Jan–March, Oct & Nov Mon–Fri 9am–6pm Sat 10am–3pm; April & Sept Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 10am–3pm; May–Aug & Dec Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 10am–3pm, ☎ 018 058 89 97 00, luebeck.de) has a café, arranges walking tours and has information on boat tours.

Discount passes The Happy Day Card (€12/14/17 for 24/48/72hr) gives free public transport and up to fifty percent discount at museums.

EATING

Hüxstrasse, which runs east from the Markt, has several good cafés and bars.

Coolestreet Beckergrube 18, west of the Markt, off Breite Str. Named after a south London street where the owner once lived, this shabby-chic café and bar is good for snacks, cake or cocktails. Tues–Sun 11am–3am.

HANNOVER

A major transport hub and trade-fair city, HANNOVER looks fairly dull. The city's showpiece – refreshingly – is not a great cathedral, palace or town hall, but a series of gardens and first-class museums. Hannover's location at the intersection of major cross-country rail lines makes it a good place to stop over on your way to somewhere else.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Hannover's commercial centre is a short walk southwest of the train station. The best museums are further south, on the other side of Friedrichswall, while the splendid royal gardens are northwest of the centre. The centre is pretty bland, but there are some attractive corners and interesting neighbourhoods if you explore a bit further out.

12 The Altes Rathaus and Marktkirche

A short distance southwest of the train station, a few streets of rebuilt half-timbered buildings convey some impression of the medieval town. The elaborate brickwork of the high-gabled fifteenth-century Altes Rathaus is impressive, despite the modern interior. Alongside is the fourteenth-century red-brick Gothic Marktkirche, with some miraculously preserved stained glass and a shockingly frank depiction of twentieth-century German history depicted on the modern church doors, complete with a Nazi dictator, tanks, executions and corpses.

Niedersächsisches Landesmuseum and Sprengel Museum

Southeast of the Marktkirche, across Friedrichswall on Willy-Brandt-Allee, the Niedersächsisches Landesmuseum (Tues–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €4, students €3, Fri 2–5pm free; ① Aegidientorplatz) houses a fine collection of paintings from the Middle Ages to the early twentieth century, plus archaeology and ethnology collections. Further down the road lies the Sprengel Museum (Tues 10am–8pm, Wed–Sun 10am–6pm; €7, students €4, Fri free; ② sprengel-museum.de), with a first-rate collection of twentieth- and twenty-first-century painting and sculpture.

The Neues Rathaus

West of the Landesmuseum on Friedrichswall is the vast, green-domed Neues Rathaus, built at the start of the twentieth century. In the foyer are four models of Hannover in 1689, 1939, 1945 and today, illuminating the extent of wartime loss, something that is all too clear as you look over the city from the top of the town hall's dome (March to mid-Nov Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6.30pm; €3, students €2), reached via a curved lift.

The gardens

The royal gardens of Herrenhausen, featuring Europe's highest garden fountain, stretch out northwest of the centre. Proceeding north from town along Nienburger Strasse, the Georgengarten, an English-style landscaped garden, is to the left, a foil to the city's pride and joy, the magnificent formal Grosser Garten beyond (daily 9am till dusk; €5; trams #4 and #5 to Herrenhäuser Gärten, main entrance just by the stop on Herrenhäuser Str.). If possible, time your visit to coincide with the fountain displays (late March to late Oct daily 11am–noon & 2/3–5pm). Directly opposite, on Herrenhäuser Strasse, is the entrance to Berggarten, the botanic garden (same hours and ticket).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Hannover Airport and the train station are connected with S-Bahn line #5 (every 30min; 20min; €3.40).

By train The train station is in the centre of town, just northeast of main shopping district Kröpke.

Destinations Amsterdam (every 2hr; 4hr 20min); Berlin (hourly; 1hr 40min); Cologne (hourly; 2hr 40min); Frankfurt (hourly; 2hr 20min); Hamburg (every 30min; 1hr 35min); Munich (hourly; 4hr 20min–4hr 40min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Tourist office opposite the train station, Ernst-August-Platz 8 (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 10am–3pm; April–Oct Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 10am–3pm; ① 0511 123 451 11, ② hannover-tourism.de).

Discount pass The HannoverCard (individual €9.50/18 for 1/2 days, up to 5 people €20/27 for 1/2 days) covers public transport and provides discounts to the main museums and sights.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport The best of Hannover is outside the centre, so its excellent transport network of tram/U-Bahn, S-Bahn and buses – centred on the Hauptbahnhof, Kröpke and Aegidienorplatz – is useful. The tram/U-Bahn network has some overground tram lines (such as #17 and #10) and some hybrid tram/U-Bahn lines where central stops are underground, with lines emerging above ground to become street-level trams further out (such as #4 and #5). One-way tickets €2.60, day tickets €5.

ACCOMMODATION

There are very few budget options in Hannover, and prices double or more during trade fairs.

Bed'n Budget City Hostel Osterstr. 37 ☎0511 360 61 07, bednbudget.de. Central hostel and budget hotel with modern appearance and sturdy bunks. Most rooms have a private bathroom, TV, desk and fridge. Dorms €18, doubles €72

Flora Heinrichstr. 36 ☎051 138 39 10, hotel-flora-hannover.de. Spotless hotel with slightly old-fashioned furniture, located behind the train station. The welcome is always very warm and the front-desk staff very helpful. Breakfast included. Doubles €68

Hostel Hannover Lenastr. 12 ☎051 11 31 99 19, hostelhannover.de; trams #10 & #17 to Goetheplatz. Basic but friendly, this slightly old-fashioned hostel has decent communal areas but packed dorms. Though it's located outside the centre, it's good for the Linden-Limmer nightlife. Check-in from 11am. Sheets €4. Prices €5 extra at weekends and during trade fairs. Dorms €20

EATING AND DRINKING

In the centre, slightly twee, touristy Kramerstr. and Knochenhauerstr. near the Markt are your best options. More fun for nightlife is the sprawling Linden-Limmer district west of the centre, particularly around Goetheplatz or midway along Kötnerholzweg. Lister Meile, behind the station, is also a good bet.

Café Glocksee Glockseestr. 35 ☎cafe-glocksee.de; tram #10 to Goetheplatz. Great, scruffy little club and venue; head along Lenastr. and it's the graffitied building at the end (entrance round the back). Mon–Sat 8am–midnight.

Café Safran Königsworther Str. 39, corner of Braunstr; tram #10 to Glocksee. This laidback café-bar has some sort of cheap deal every day, such as beer and a pizza for €7. Daily 9am–2pm, Fri & Sat till 3pm.

Lulu In der Steinriede 12 ☎cafe-lulu.com; ☎Sedanstrasse. Handsome café with seating on a pretty cobbled square a block east of the Lister Meile. It serves Alsatian Flammkuchen and burgers for around €7 plus an excellent weekday lunch for €6. Mon–Sat 9am–1am, Sun 10am–1am.

Markthalle Karmaschstr. 49, near the Markt, ☎markthalle-in-hannover.de. The indoor market is packed full of dozens of food stalls – German, Italian, Spanish, Turkish and Japanese, and even a cocktail bar – selling good-value meals. It's also very popular for a quick after-work drink. Mon–Wed 7am–8pm, Thurs & Fri 7am–10pm, Sat 7am–4pm.

Spandau Projekt Engelbosteler Damm 30 ☎spandauprojekt.de; ☎Christuskirche. Cool, retro-styled café-bar on a street of restaurants north of the centre. There are Italian dishes and Thai veggie curries at fair prices, plus organic breakfast buffets at weekends. Mon–Fri noon–1am, Sat & Sun 10am–1am.

BREMEN

Famous for a fairytale of four animal musicians, BREMEN is an attractive small city located about an hour from Hannover and Hamburg. Maritime trade via the Weser River led to it becoming a wealthy medieval merchant city with a liberal mindset, something for which Bremen remains famous today. Their legacy is such attractive architecture as one of the finest town squares in North Germany, listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and a small but enjoyable nightlife district.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The town's geographic and cultural heart is the Markt, with a Rathaus fronted by a fabulous Renaissance facade of ornate allegorical carving. Rooms within (Mon–Sat tours at 11am, noon, 3pm and 4pm, Sun 11am and noon; €5.50) live up to the looks, especially the Güldenammer with gilded Jugendstil leather wall-hangings. Outside, a statue of Roland, a chivalric knight and protector of civic rights, brandishes a sword at the Dom opposite, to champion the citizens' independence from the archbishops; a church lackey burned down its wooden predecessor. Running south off the Markt, Böttcherstrasse was remodelled in the 1920s from a decaying alley into an Art Deco and Expressionist fantasy by a team of avant-garde artists, notably sculptor Bernhard Hoetger. Here, the Paula-Modersohn-Becker Museum (Tues–Sun 11am–6pm; €8, students €6) is the world's first museum dedicated to a female artist, who worked in the nearby art colony at Worswede, while revamped Gothic merchant's house Roselius-Haus (same ticket) displays late medieval art and furniture.

South of the Dom is the Schnoorviertel, the traditional quarter of fishermen, sailors and craftsmen on the Weser's banks at the edge of the old town. Today the cottages contain upmarket boutiques, galleries and restaurants – touristy, but cute nonetheless. East of the Schnoor, the Kunsthalle (Tues 10am–9pm, Wed–Sun 10am–5pm; €9, students €5) has an excellent gallery of German and international art, including works by Rubens and Delacroix, alongside works by Worswede artists.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Head straight out of the train station; it's a 10min walk into the centre.

Destinations Hamburg (every 30min; 1hr); Hannover (every 30min; 1hr 5min).

Tourist information Just off Markt on the corner of Obernstr. and Liebfrauenkirchhof (Mon–Fri 9.30am–6.30pm, Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 10am–4pm; ☎ 0421 308 00 10, 🌐 bremen-tourism.de), plus smaller branch in the train station (Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–5pm).

ACCOMMODATION, EATING AND DRINKING

In the centre, Schlachte is a line of bars on the riverbank, while the main student bar and nightlife district is the Ostertorviertel east of the old town.

Lila Eule Bernhardstr. 10. Cheap, grungy and fun little basement club – one of the oldest in Germany – with wild alternative, disco-punk, electrorock, hip-hop and other parties. Free admission on Thursday's student night. Thurs–Sat 11pm–late.

Piano Fehrfeld 64. Lazy-paced café-bar at the heart of the Ostertorviertel whose menu of pizzas, pastas and steaks, most priced under €15, is popular with everyone from families to friends. Daily 9am–1am.

Ratskeller Am Markt 21. Touristy and not cheap at around €16 a main, but the cellar restaurant beneath the Rathaus is one of the most famous in Germany for historic atmosphere as much as traditional cooking. Daily 11am–midnight.

Townside Am Dobben 62 ☎ 042 17 80 15, 🌐 townside.de; tram #6 from the train station. Friendly modern hostel in Bremen's nightlife district, with eco ethics such as Fairtrade products plus a kitchen and women's dorm. Dorms €15, doubles €52

Central Germany

Central Germany is the country's most populous region and home to its industrial heartland – the Ruhrgebiet.

Cologne stands out here, with its reminders of long centuries as a free state, cheek-by-jowl bars and a populace that's legendary for its friendliness. Neighbouring Bonn, Beethoven's birthplace, makes for a good day-trip, while nearby Aachen is of interest as the first capital of the Holy Roman Empire. To the south, the Rhineland-Palatinate (Pfalz) is famed for the romantic vineyard-lined stretch of the Rhine from Cologne to Mainz, which passes through a gorge of impressive rock outcrops, studded with the sort of castles that have given rise to many a fairytale. Nowadays pleasure cruisers – and a railway line – make the attractive journey through the gorge, and beyond to the state capital of Mainz, where the printing press was invented, as celebrated in the excellent Gutenberg Museum. The Mosel, which joins the Rhine at the city of Koblenz, has a similar parade of vineyards and ruined castles leading south to the ancient town of Trier, with its extraordinarily well-preserved Roman remains – possibly the best outside Italy. To the northeast, in the state of Hesse, dynamic Frankfurt dominates, with its financial sector providing the region's economic powerbase.

COLOGNE (KÖLN)

COLOGNE (Köln) has a population of one million, and its huge Gothic Dom is Germany's most visited monument. Despite its long history, much of the city is modern – the legacy of World War II – but though it's not the most beautiful city in Germany, it's certainly one of the liveliest and friendliest. Try to catch the annual pre-Lent Carnival – when huge parties fill the streets – or the summer Christopher Street Day (Gay Pride) celebrations, which can attract up to a million visitors. Cologne has a long and glorious history – as a Roman colony (Colonia), a pilgrimage centre, trading city, marketer of eau de Cologne and recently as Germany's media capital.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Cologne's major sights are all within walking distance of the train station, in a dense centre on the west bank of the Rhine.

The Dom

Begun in 1248, and only finished in 1880, Cologne's gigantic Dom, next to the train station (May–Oct Mon–Sat 6am–9pm; Nov–April Mon–Sat 6am–7.30pm, Sun

1–4.30pm, koelner-dom.de), is one of the largest Gothic buildings ever built and its archbishop was one of the seven Electors of the Holy Roman Empire. Its treasures are many and it's worth paying €1 for the explanatory English booklet inside. Climb the 509 steps to the top of the south tower (daily: March, April & Oct 9am–5pm; May–Sept 9am–6pm; Nov–Feb 9am–4pm; €4, students €2) for a breathtaking panorama over the city and the Rhine. The Domschatzkammer (daily 10am–6pm; €6, students €3) in the vaults on the north side of the building contains a stunning array of treasury items.

ACCOMMODATION

Dom Apartments	2
Hostel Köln	5
Köln-Deutz City Hostel	3
Meininger	6
Stapelhäusern	4
Station Hostel	1

EATING

Freddy Schilling	7
Früh am Dom	2
Habibi	6
Paffgen	1
Peters Brauhaus	3
Pizzeria Bella Italia	4
Zum Prinzen	5

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Biernuseum	3
Ex-Corner	5
Filmdose	8
Km689 Beach Club	1

MTC	6
Stiefel	7
Underground	2
Venue	4

Museum Ludwig and the Römisch-Germanisches Museum

In a modern building next to the Dom, the spacious Museum Ludwig (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, first Thurs in month 10am–10pm; €13, students €8.50, first Thurs in month €7; museumludwig.de) is one of Germany's premier collections of modern art, particularly strong on American Pop Art and German Expressionism. The neighbouring Römisch-Germanisches Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm, first Thurs in month 10am–10pm; €9, students €5; roemisch-germanisches-museum.de) was built directly over its star exhibit, the Dionysus Mosaic, which can be viewed in situ (and even for free through the windows facing the Dom). The finest work of its kind in northern Europe, it was created for a patrician villa in about 200 AD.

12 Gross St Martin and the Rhine

For nearly six hundred years, the tower of Gross St Martin, one of Cologne's twelve Romanesque churches, was the dominant feature of the city's skyline. Just behind it is the best spot to enjoy the Rhine, a grassy promenade stretching between the Hohenzollern and Deutzer bridges. For the best view of the Altstadt, cross the river by the footway along the first bridge to reach the Köln Triangle skyscraper at Ottoplatz 1, which has an observation deck (May–Sept Mon–Fri 11am–11pm, Sat & Sun 10am–11pm; Oct–April Mon–Fri noon–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €3; koelntrianglepanorama.de).

Wallraf-Richartz-Museum and Schokoladenmuseum

Southwest of Gross St Martin, at Martinstrasse 39, is the Wallraf-Richartz-Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, first and third Thurs of the month 10am–10pm; €8, students €4.50; wallraf.museum), with a fine Impressionist collection. Opposite, you will find the fascinating Aroma Museum, in the building where Johann Farina established the first perfume house in 1709 and invented the original eau de cologne (Mon–Sat 10am–7pm, Sun 11am–5pm; €5 including guided tour; 0221 399 8994, farina-haus.de). Further south, on the banks of the Rhine, the thoroughly enjoyable Chocolate Museum (Tues–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 11am–7pm; July & Aug also Mon 10am–6pm; €9, students €6.50; 022 19 31 88 80, chocolatemuseum-cologne.com) focuses on the history and production of chocolate.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Cologne/Bonn Airport is connected to the train station with line S13 and S19 (every 30min; 15min; €2.70).

By train The Hauptbahnhof is immediately north of the Dom in the centre of the city.

Destinations Aachen (every 30min; 35–55min); Amsterdam (every 2hr; 3hr 20min); Berlin (hourly; 4hr 30min); Bonn (frequent; 20–30min); Brussels (7 daily; 1hr 50min); Frankfurt (10–11 daily; 1hr 20min); Heidelberg (every 30min–1hr; 2hr); Mainz (1–2 hourly; 1hr 45min); Munich (hourly; 4hr 30min); Paris Gare du Nord (4 daily; 3hr 20min); Stuttgart (1–2 hourly; 2hr 20min).

By bus Intercity buses only stop at the airport.

INFORMATION

Tourist information Main office opposite the Dom (Mon–Sat 9am–8pm, Sun 10am–5pm; 022 122 13 04 00, cologne-tourism.de). Staff can book hotel rooms and hand out the handy free Köln Miniguide.

Discount pass The KölnCard (valid for 24/48hr for €9/€18) provides free transport, including from the airport, plus discounts for many sights.

GETTING AROUND

By bus and tram The public transport network (www.kvb-koeln.de) includes buses and trams/U-Bahn. Short trip €1.90 (up to four stations), one-way longer trip €2.80, day-pass €8.50.

By bike Call-a-bike and Nextbike bikes can be found across town; rental is available at the Radstation by the north exit (Breslauer Platz, 022 11 39 71 90) from the Hauptbahnhof (Mon–Fri 5.30am–10.30pm, Sat 6.30am–8pm, Sun 8am–8pm; €5/3hr, €10/day, deposit €50 cash).

ACCOMMODATION

Dom Apartments Johannistr 43–45 022 19 77 11 44, domapartment.de. A range of self-catering apartments all over Cologne, but mostly around the station and the Dom. The price of budget studios compares well to hostels. Two-person studio €69

★ Hostel Köln Marsilstein 29 022 19 98 77 60, hostel.ag. Stylish combination of budget hotel and hostel with a children's play area and an excellent central location. No dorms as such; rooms are only rented whole. Breakfast included. Doubles €79, six-bed room €174

Köln-Deutz City Hostel Siegesstr. 5 ☎ 022 181 47 11, koeln-deutz.jugendherberge.de. Large and functional DJH hostel close to Deutz station, directly across the Rhine from the Altstadt. Facilities include a disco room. Normally booked by large groups. Good weekend deals online. Dorms €25, doubles €77

Meininger Engelbertstr. 33–35 ☎ 022 199 76 09 65, meininger-hotels.com. This branch of the hostel chain has a great location and a wide range of services: kitchen, bar, laundry facilities, a female dorm and bike rental €12. Dorms €19, doubles €59

Stapelhäuschen Fischmarkt 1–3 ☎ 022 12 72 77 77, kleines-stapelaehauschen.de. Charming Altstadt hotel-restaurant rebuilt to resemble its seventeenth-century appearance, and located by Gross St Martin. Rooms overlooking the river are the nicest. Doubles €70

Station Hostel Marzellenstr. 44–56 ☎ 022 19 12 53 01, hostel-cologne.de. Large, independent hostel just north of the station, with 24hr reception and kitchen. A good buffet breakfast (€6) is served in the restaurant next door. Dorms €17, doubles €48

EATING

The Altmarkt area is the main focus of nightlife for visitors, though locals tend to prefer the western part of the city along the Ring, while students gather around Zülpicher Platz and Brüsseler Platz.

Freddy Schilling Kyffhäuserstr. 34. Delicious organic burgers (from €6) and fries served with home-made sauce by friendly staff. Also has some vegan options. Sun–Thurs noon–10pm, Fri & Sat noon–11pm.

Früh am Dom Am Hof 12–18. Near the Dom and fronted by a marvellous fountain with dwarves, this huge, heavily toured Brauhaus has excellent food. Main courses from around €10, snacks €5. Daily 8am–midnight.

★ Habibi Zülpicher Str. 28. Plastered with posters, this lively Lebanese restaurant in the student neighbourhood is perfect for fantastic falafel and other late-night munchies. Falafel in pita €1.90. Sun–Thurs 11am–1am, Fri & Sat 11am–3am.

Päffgen Friesenstr. 64–66. Less touristy than the places near the Dom, with a younger clientele, and Kölsch brewed on the premises. Local dishes from €10. Sun–Thurs 10am–midnight, Fri & Sat 10am–12.30am.

★ Peters Brauhaus Mühlengasse 1 ☎ 022 12 57 39 50. Reservations only to eat in this popular beer tavern, but it's worth visiting if only to admire the grand Art Deco room. The beans with smoked bacon and potato fill you up for €11. Daily 11am–12.30am.

Pizzeria Bella Italia 1 Friesenwall 52. Super-cheap Italian with pasta dishes and pizzas from €4; needless to say, its benches are packed shoulder to shoulder.

Mon–Thurs 11.30am–midnight, Fri & Sat 11.30am–1am, Sun 1pm–midnight.

Zum Prinzen Alter Markt 20–22. Typical, old-style restaurant that is much cosier than most. It serves house beer and huge portions of food, with Cologne specialities from around €10 and Flammekuchen pizza €8.80. Daily 11am–1am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Cologne's unique beer, Kölsch, is a light, aromatically bitter brew served in small, thin glasses.

Biermuseum Buttermarkt 39. Loud, busy Altstadt bar tucked away near the river, serving 18 beers on tap as well as countless more in bottles, all costing less than €3.50. Daily 2pm–3am.

Filmdose Zülpicher Str. 39 ☎ filmdose-koeln.de. Quiet wine bar that's packed with students; it has a cabaret stage for live theatre during term time. Snacks from €2. Mon–Fri 9am–1am, Fri & Sat 9am–3am.

Km689 Beach Club Rheinparkweg 1 ☎ km689.de. A relaxed beach club with sand and palm trees overlooking the Rhine near the Köln Triangle skyscraper. Admission is free if you spend €6 on cocktails (from €6) or snacks like currywurst (€4). Mid-May to Sept Fri–Sun 4pm–late.

MTC Zülpicher Str. 10 ☎ mtclub.de. Studenty basement venue on Cologne's best street for nightlife, featuring live rock and metal bands. Go early to avoid the long queues. Fri & Sat punk parties 11pm–late.

Stiefel Zülpicher Str. 18. Dilapidated and relaxed punk-rock bar in the student quarter. A great place to down a beer or shoot pool. Sun–Thurs 6pm–2am, Fri & Sat 6pm–5am.

Underground Vogelsanger Str. 200 ☎ underground-cologne.de; ☎ Venloer Str. Great for live gigs, especially rock and punk, the Underground has a lovely beer garden, table football and a big indie/alternative following. Daily 6.30pm–late.

GAY NIGHTLIFE

Cologne's gay scene is second only to Berlin's: see ☎ heart-of-cologne.de.

COLOGNE'S CARNIVAL

Though Cologne's carnival actually begins as early as November 11, the real fun starts with Weiberfastnacht on the Thursday before Lent. The city goes wild for the next five days until Ash Wednesday; prepare yourself for drunken dancing in the streets and wild costumes. The best of the numerous parades are the alternative Geisterzug Saturday night, complete with fire-juggling and drumming, and the spectacular Rose Monday Parade, with music, floats and political caricatures.

Ex-Corner Schaafenstr. 57–59. This corner bar is one of a triangular cluster of gay bars just south of Rudolfplatz and is busy every night of the week. Daily 7pm–5am.

Venue Hohe Str. 14 @venue-cologne.de. The biggest, loudest, brashest gay club in Cologne, with different music nights attracting a variety of clubbers every weekend. Fri & Sat 11pm–late.

DIRECTORY

Internet Gigabyte, Hohenzollernring 7–11 (24hr; €1–1.50/hr, @giga-byte.info). Giant internet café with 130 terminals.

Hospital Out-of-hours medical service (@01805 04 41 00; calls 14 cents/min).

Left luggage At the train station (€3/2hr, €6/24hr).

Pharmacy At the north exit from the train station (Mon–Fri 6am–9.30pm, Sat 8am–9.30pm, Sun 10am–6pm); there's also a digital notice board giving details of out-of-hours service.

Post office Breite Str. 6 (Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat 9am–2pm).

12 BONN

A great day-trip from Cologne, lovely, riverside BONN was West Germany's unlikely capital from 1949 until unification in 1990. But even with its role diminished, the city is still worth a visit to see the birthplace of Ludwig van Beethoven, a string of top-rated museums and an attractive Old Town.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The small pedestrianized Old Town (Altstadt) centres on two spacious squares. The square to the south is named after the Münster, whose central octagonal tower and spire are the city's most prominent landmarks. The Market square (Marktplatz) is dominated by the pink Rococo Rathaus and hosts a market every day except Sunday.

The Beethoven-Haus and the Schloss

A couple of minutes' walk north of Marktplatz, at Bonngasse 20, is the Beethoven-Haus (April–Oct daily 10am–6pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 11am–5pm; €6, students €4.50; @228 98 17 525, @beethoven-haus-bonn.de), where the composer was born in an attic room in 1770. Beethoven left Bonn for good aged 22, but the city nevertheless has the best collection of memorabilia of its favourite son. To the east is the Baroque Schloss, once the seat of the Archbishop-Electors of Cologne and now part of the university.

The Museumsmeile

The Museumsmeile (@Heussallee) is home to the Kunstmuseum at Friedrich-Ebert-Allee 2 (Tues & Thurs–Sun 11am–6pm, Wed 11am–9pm; €7, students €3.50; @kunstmuseum-bonn.de), with its fine Expressionist collection. Next door is the Kunst- und Ausstellungshalle (Tues & Wed 10am–9pm, Thurs–Sun 10am–7pm; price depends on exhibition; @bundeskunsthalle.de), an arts centre hosting major temporary exhibitions. The Kunstmuseum's other neighbour is the Haus der Geschichte at Willy-Brandt-Allee 14 (Tues–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; free; @hdg.de), a fascinating museum exploring German history from the end of World War II to the present.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train and bus Bonn's train station lies in the middle of the city; just to the east is the bus station, whose local services, along with the trams, form part of a system integrated with Cologne's.

Tourist information Windeckstr. 1, am Münsterplatz (Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 10am–2pm; @0228 77 50 00, @bonn-region.de).

Discount pass The Bonn Regio Welcome-Card (valid 24hr; from €10) is a great deal, including travel and free admission to almost all museums and sights.

EATING AND DRINKING

Biergarten Alter Zoll Brassertufer 1. Lovely Biergarten shaded by huge trees, right by the Rhine near the Schloss. It serves up pizza (from €5), good German and Asian dishes, and hosts occasional concerts. Daily 11am–midnight.

Cassius Garten Maximilianstr. 28d, opposite the station. Offers daily-changing hot vegetarian and vegan specials, buffet-style meals (pay by weight €1.85/100g, cheaper after 7pm), and great soups from €2.50. Mon–Sat 11am–8pm.

Pawlow Heerstr. 64. Fashionable café-bar in the bohemian Nordstadt district, with benches outside, great coffees and small measures of wine for tight budgets from €2. At weekends after 10pm it becomes a club. Mon–Thurs 11am–1am, Fri & Sat 11am–late, Sun 10am–1am.

AACHEN

AACHEN has a laidback atmosphere that reflects its large student population, making it a good day-trip from Cologne. Bordering Belgium and the Netherlands, it was the hub of Charlemagne's Europe-wide eighth-century empire. The choice was partly strategic but also because of the presence of hot springs. Relaxing in these waters was one of the emperor's favourite pastimes, and they remain a major draw at the luxurious Carolus Thermen spa, overlooking Kurgarten park, just northeast of the centre (daily 9am–11pm, last entry 9.30pm; from €12 for 2hr 30min; www.carolus-thermen.de) – alternatively, you can taste the smelly, 53°C hot thermal water for free in the pavilion beside the tourist information office (see below).

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Little of Charlemagne's architectural legacy survives, but its crowning jewel, the former Palace chapel, has pride of place at the heart of the Dom (Mon–Sat 11am–7pm, Sun 1–7pm; www.aachendom.de), a UNESCO World Heritage Site. At the rear of the chapel, the gilded shrine of Charlemagne, finished in 1215 after fifty years' work, contains the emperor's remains, while the gallery has the imperial throne, viewable only on a tour (English tour daily at 2pm; €4, students €3; tickets from the Dominformation office opposite the Schatzkammer). Next to the Dom is the dazzling treasury or Schatzkammer (Jan–March Mon 10am–1pm, Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; April–Dec Mon 10am–1pm, Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €5, students €4; entrance on Johannes-Paul-II-Strasse). Its highlights are the tenth-century Lothar Cross and a Roman sarcophagus once used as Charlemagne's coffin. The emperor's palace once extended as far as the expansive Markt. Here two of the palace towers remain, incorporated into the Rathaus, whose fourteenth-century facade is lined with the figures of fifty Holy Roman Emperors, 31 of whom were crowned in Aachen. The glory of the interior (daily 10am–6pm; €5, students €3) is the massive twelfth-century Coronation Hall, repository of the reproduction crown jewels. Behind the Rathaus at Katschhof 1, an excellent interactive exhibition in the new Centre Charlemagne (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, €5, students €3; www.centre-charlemagne.eu) provides the low-down on the city's rich history.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Aachen-Maastricht airport is 41km from Aachen and is best reached via Maastricht train station; Cologne's airport can be reached by train in about 1hr 15min.

By train The centre is 10min walk from the train station – down Bahnhofstrasse, then left into Theaterstrasse.

Destinations Brussels (hourly; 1–2hr); Cologne (every 30min; 35–55min); Liège (hourly; 25–50min); Paris Gare du Nord (4 daily; 2hr 40min).

Tourist information In the Eisenbrunnen pavilion on Friedrich-Wilhelm-Platz (Jan–March Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat 10am–2pm; April–Dec Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–3pm; ☎ 0241 180 29 50, www.aachen-tourist.de); hands out the free Aachen at a glance guide and map.

EATING, DRINKING AND ACCOMMODATION

Leading northeast out of the Markt, Pontstrasse is the student quarter and lined with bars, cheap cafés and restaurants.

A&O Hostel Hackländerstr. 5 ☎ 024 1463 07 33 00, www.aohostels.com. Large new chain hostel by the station with comfy modern rooms, a roomy communal area and a bar. Breakfast €7. Dorms €22, doubles €69

Alt-Aachener Kaffeestuben Büchel 18. Historic wood-clad café with great cakes and particularly good Printen, a spiced gingerbread that's the main local speciality. Breakfasts from €7. Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–6pm.

Kittel Pontstr. 39. Relaxed bohemian café serving great inexpensive food, such as pasta from €6, plus cheap daily breakfast specials. DJs man the decks from 8pm on Sat. Daily 10am–2am.

Sowiso & Ocean Pontstr. 164–166. One of a cluster of lively sports and cocktail bars, with student-friendly prices, plenty of outdoor seating and a cheerful atmosphere. Guinness on tap, Jägermeister €2. Daily 10am–late.

MAINZ

At the confluence of the Rhine and Main rivers, MAINZ is an agreeable mixture of old and new, with an attractively restored centre and a jovial populace who are responsible for Germany's second-biggest carnival bash after Cologne. Its long-standing ecclesiastical power aside – the archbishop of Mainz was the head of German bishops – the city is also famous for Johannes Gutenberg, who invented printing here around 1450.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Rearing high above central Mainz, the Dom (March–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat 9am–4pm, Sun 12.45–3pm & 4–6.30pm; Nov–Feb Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–4pm, Sun 12.45–3pm & 4–5pm) is unusual for sharing its outer walls with rows of eighteenth-century houses. Inside, the choirs at both ends indicate it as an imperial cathedral, with one for the emperor and the other for the clergy; seven coronations have taken place here. The bustling market square outside (markets Tues, Fri & Sat 7am–2pm) adjoins Liebfrauenplatz and the fascinating Gutenberg Museum (Tues–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 11am–5pm; €5, students €3; gutenberg-museum.de), which pays tribute to the Gutenberg Press. One of the greatest inventions of all time, it enabled the mass production of books – don't miss the original Gutenberg Bibles on the third floor. Next door in the Druckladen (Printing shop; Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 10am–3pm; free), visitors can learn how to hand-set type, and buy posters and souvenirs.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane From Frankfurt airport take S8 to Mainz Hauptbahnhof (2 hourly; 25min).

By train The station is a 15min walk northwest of the city centre; head down Bahnhofstrasse or take a tram or bus (single ticket €2.75).

Destinations Cologne (1–3 hourly; 1hr 20min–1hr 55min); Frankfurt (very frequent; 35min); Heidelberg (several hourly; 55min); Stuttgart (2–3 hourly; 1hr 50min).

By boat KD Lines sail along the Rhine between Mainz and Cologne via Bacharach and Koblenz (late March to late Oct 1–2 daily; 5hr 45min/2hr 45min to Bacharach; 0221 208 83 18; k-d.com).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Brückenturm am Rathaus Rheinstrasse 55 (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 10am–4pm; 061 31 24 28 88, www.touristik-mainz.de) – it's tricky to find, in an isolated location above the street beside a pedestrian bridge. There's also an office in the Landesmuseum, Grosse Bleiche 49–51 (Tues 10am–8pm, Wed–Sun 10am–5pm).

Discount pass The MainzPlus card, sold at the tourist office and in the local transport office in front of the central station at Bahnhofplatz 6a, costs €11.95 and includes access to all museums, a city tour and transport in the Mainz/Wiesbaden conurbation for 48hr.

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bike rental from Mainzer Rad Verleih Bingerstr 19 (on the viaduct south of the station; from €8.90/day, deposit €50 with ID; 06131 33 61 225, cjd-mainz.de).

ACCOMMODATION

DJH Otto-Brunfels-Schneise 4 06131 853 32, jugendherberge.de; buses #62 & #63 from the Hauptbahnhof to stop "Am Viktorstift/Jugendherberge". Modern HI hostel, with single, twin and four-bed rooms and dorms, in the wooded heights of Weisenau with great views over the Rhine. Breakfast included. Dorms €23, doubles €57

Mainzer Hof Kaiserstr. 98 06131 9 72 40, hotel-mainzerhof.de. Along the Rheinpromenade a 15min walk from the station, this is the cheapest of the city-centre hotels, with decent rooms (some with river views) and a sauna. Doubles €69

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Mainz boasts more vineyards on its outskirts than any other German city; its many lovely wine bars are the best places to sample their produce.

Altdeutsche Weinstube Liebfrauenplatz 7. The oldest wine bar in town (established in 1462) is still going strong – it offers daily dishes for around €12, served up with local wine for €3–4. Mon–Sat 4pm–midnight.

Annabatterie Gartenfeldpl. 2 annabatterie.de. In the student district near the train station, this small and cosy café serves breakfast until 3pm, plus sandwiches and salads (from €5). Daily 10am–8pm.

Heiligegeist Mailandsgasse 11. Attractive bistro in the Gothic vaults of a fifteenth-century hospital; main courses are around €15 and include Croustade, a kind of local pizza-cum-pancake. Mon–Fri 4pm–1am, Sat & Sun 9am–2am.

THE RHINE GORGE

North of Mainz, the Rhine snakes west to BINGEN, where the spectacular 80km-long Rhine Gorge begins. Its most famous sight is the Lorelei, a rocky projection between Oberwesel and St Goar, where legend has it that a blonde maiden lured passing mariners to their doom with her song. The region is best visited by boat or by bike, spending a night in Bacharach, but if you're pressed for time, the train will do.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The railway between Mainz and Koblenz runs along the riverbank, offering wonderful gorge views from the windows – sit on the right.

By boat Some river cruises depart from Mainz, but KD begin at Bingen (summer 2–3 daily; kd-rhein-main.de). The one-way fare from Bingen downstream to Koblenz is €38.40 (4hr; 6hr upstream).

Bacharach

Pretty, half-timbered BACHARACH, 15km from Bingen, huddles behind a fourteenth-century wall, which you can walk along for a brilliant view. The town is chock-full of alleyways and quirky buildings, such as the celebrated Altes Haus at Oberstrasse 61, so wonky it seems to lean in all directions at once. Many of the buildings house Weinstuben (wine bars), where you can try local favourite Hahnenhof Riesling.

ACCOMMODATION

Im Malerwinkel Blücherstrasse 41–45 067 43 12 39, im-malerwinkel.de. Bacharach's best budget hotel is this lovely half-timbered place built into the old town wall; the path into town next to the brook nearby is a delight. Doubles €69

Jugendherberge Bacharach Burg Stahleck 067 43 12 66, djh.de. The twelfth-century castle of Burg Stahleck above town houses Germany's most atmospheric hostel. It's a steep uphill climb to get there, but the views of the Rhine Valley are worth it; book well in advance in high season. Dorms €22, doubles €55

TRIER

Birthplace of Karl Marx, and the oldest city in Germany, TRIER was once the capital of the Western Roman Empire. Today, it's merely a regional centre for the upper Mosel valley, giving it a relaxed air. Despite a turbulent history, the city's past is well preserved, particularly in the most impressive group of Roman remains north of the Alps.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The centre corresponds roughly to the Roman city and can easily be covered on foot. From the train station, it's a few minutes' walk down Theodor-Heuss-Allee to the impressive Porta Nigra, Roman Trier's northern gateway (daily: March & Oct 9am–5pm; April–Sept 9am–6pm; Nov–Feb 9am–4pm; €4). From here, Simeonstrasse runs down to the Hauptmarkt, a busy pedestrian area, where market stalls sell groceries and flowers. At the southern end of the Hauptmarkt, a half-hidden Baroque portal leads to the exquisite Gothic church St Gangolf, built by the burghers of Trier to aggravate the archbishops, whose political power they resented.

The Dom and Konstantinbasilika

Up Sternstrasse from the Hauptmarkt, the magnificent Romanesque Dom (daily: April–Oct 6.30am–6pm; Nov–March 6.30am–5.30pm; dominformation.de) lies on the site of the one built in the fourth century by Emperor Constantine. The present church dates from 1030, and the original facade has not changed significantly since then. From here, take Liebfrauenstrasse and turn left on An der Meerkatz, to the Konstantinbasilika (April–Oct Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 3–6pm; Nov–March Tues–Sat 10am–noon & 2–4pm, Sun 1–3pm; Dec also open Mon 10am–noon & 2–4pm). Built as Emperor Constantine's throne hall, its dimensions are awe-inspiring: 36m high and 71m long, it is completely self-supporting. It became a church for the local Protestant community in the nineteenth century.

The Rheinisches Landesmuseum and the Kaiserthermen

Just beyond the formal gardens southwest of the Konstantinbasilika, the Rheinisches Landesmuseum (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; €8, students €6; landesmuseum-trier.de) is easily the best of Trier's museums, with a permanent display that conveys the sophistication and complexity of Roman civilization; the prize exhibits are the richly sculpted tombstones from Neumagen and the collection of Roman mosaics, the largest north of the Alps. A few minutes' walk further south, the Imperial Baths (daily: March & Oct

BOAT TRIPS ON THE MOSEL

The stretch of the Mosel connecting Trier with the city of Koblenz cuts a sinuous and attractive gorge that gives Germany some of its steepest vineyards and best full-bodied wines. Boats offer an ideal way to explore the valley: Gebrüder Kolb (moselfahrplan.de) runs regular sailings from Trier to Bernkastel-Kues, while the Princesse Marie-Astrid (visitmosele.lu/en/what-to-do/au-bord-de-l'eau) sails along the Luxembourg border on the upper Moselle; Mosel-Schiffs-Touristik (moselpersonenschiffahrt.de) concentrates on the middle leg around Traben-Trarbach and Bernkastel-Kues, while Köln-Düsseldorfer (k-d.com) covers the northern stretch between Cochem and Koblenz. Pick up the latest timetables from the tourist information office in Trier.

9am–5pm; April–Sept 9am–6pm; Nov–Feb 9am–4pm; €4) was one of the largest bath complexes in the Roman world. Its extensive underground heating system has survived, and you can walk through its passages.

The Karl-Marx-Haus

Southwest of the Hauptmarkt, the Karl-Marx-Haus, Brückenstrasse 10 (late March to Oct daily 10am–6pm; Nov to late March Mon 2–5pm, Tues–Sun 11am–5pm; €4, students €2.50 including free audioguide; fes.de/karl-marx-haus), is where Karl Marx was born. It now houses a modern three-storey museum on his life and work, as well the influence of his ideas in history up to the present.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is slightly east of the centre: walk 500m straight up the Christophstrasse to reach the Porta Nigra.

Destinations Cologne (hourly; 2hr 45min–3hr 30min); Luxembourg (1–2 hourly; 50min).

Tourist office At the Porta Nigra (Jan & Feb Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 10am–1pm; March, April, Nov & Dec Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–3pm; May–Oct Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm; ☎ 0651 97 80 80, trier-info.de).

Discount cards The Antiquity Card (€12–18) includes free admission to the Landesmuseum and two Roman structures plus reductions for other sights. The Trier-Card (€9.90/3 days) includes transport plus discounts to the museums.

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bike rental (€12/day) is in the underground bicycle garage next to the Porta Nigra (mid-April to Oct Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm), and inside the train station by platform 11 (May–Sept daily 9am–6pm; Oct to mid-April Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–2pm).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Trevis Luxemburgerstr. 81 ☎ 065 18 20 09 11, camping-trevis.de. Campsite on the western bank of the Mosel, over the Konrad-Adenauer bridge, with a beer garden and barbecue. Open April–Oct. Per person €5.90, plus per tent €5.10

DJH An der Jugendherberge 4 ☎ 065 114 66 20, djh.de; buses #5, #7, #8 and #12. Spotless modern HI hostel, with games rooms and sports facilities. Some single-bed rooms. Dorms €23, doubles €57

Hille's Gartenfeldstr. 7 ☎ 065 17 10 27 85, hilles-hostel-trier.de. Homely, clean and sociable independent hostel, just 10min walk south of the station. Breakfast €6 extra, sheets €3. Dorms €74, doubles €52

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Alt Zalawen Zurlaubener Ufer 79. This traditional tavern, complete with outdoor seating overlooking the Mosel, makes an excellent place to try out the local cider, Viez. Meat platter €6. April–Oct daily 3–11pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 3–11pm.

Astarix Karl-Marx-Str. 11. This relaxed student bar is your best bet for good and inexpensive food, such as oriental snacks for €7.50 or pizza from €3.50, and there's often live music at night. It's tricky to find, behind the Miss Marples pub, down a side alley. Mon–Thurs 11.30am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11.30am–11.30pm, Sun 1–11.30pm.

Irish Club Trier Jakobstr. 10. Central, reliably popular and fun bar offering quiz nights, karaoke, live bands and DJs at weekends. Pint of Guinness €5.50. Mon–Thurs 4pm–1am, Fri 4pm–3am, Sat noon–3am, Sun 2pm–1am.

FRANKFURT (AM MAIN)

Straddling the River Main just before it meets the Rhine, FRANKFURT is known as Germany's financial capital and the home of the European Central Bank. But it also has some of Germany's best museums – no other German city spends as much on culture – and some excellent, if expensive, nightlife. Over half of the city, including almost all of the centre, was destroyed during World War II, and the rebuilders often opted for innovation over restoration, resulting in an architecturally mixed skyline – part quaint, Germanic red sandstone, part skyscraper, giving rise to the name Mainhattan.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Frankfurt's centre is defined by its old city walls, now a semicircular stretch of public gardens. Presided over by the gabled Römer or town hall, the broad, irregular piazza of Römerberg is the historical and geographical heart of the Altstadt, where Charlemagne built his fort to protect the original frankonovurd (ford of the Franks). The whole quarter was flattened by bombs in 1944, but significant landmarks were rebuilt or restored afterwards – recently the horrendous 1970s town hall was demolished to make way for fifteen reconstructions of the original pre-war buildings, plus twenty other houses. Each December, Römerberg is the focus for Frankfurt's delightful Christmas Market.

Kaiserdom

The Altstadt's most significant survivor is the thirteenth-century church of St Bartholomäus, known as the Kaiserdom (Sat–Thurs 9am–8pm, Fri noon–8pm; free), where for two centuries Holy Roman Emperors were crowned. To the right of the choir is the restored Wahlkapelle (electoral chapel), where the seven Electors would choose the Holy Roman Emperor. You can climb up the tower for a great view of the city (April–Oct daily 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–5pm; €3). Alternatively, take the lift up 200m to the 56th floor of the Main Tower at Neue Mainzer Strasse 52–58 (April–Oct Sun–Thurs 10am–9pm, Fri & Sat 10am–11pm; Nov–March Sun–Thurs 10am–7pm, Fri & Sat 10am–9pm; €6.50, students €4.50).

Goethehaus

A must-visit, the Goethehaus, Grosse Hirschgraben 23–25 (Mon–Sat 10am–6pm, Sun 10am–5.30pm; €7, students €3), was where Johann Wolfgang Goethe was born in 1749

and lived on and off until his move to Weimar in 1775. After being destroyed in a 1944 bombing raid, the mansion was painstakingly reconstructed and filled with paintings and furniture that had been evacuated in time. The museum gives you an excellent overall description of Germany's literary giant.

Museum für Moderne Kunst

Dividing Braubachstrasse from Berliner Strasse at the eastern end of the Altstadt, the Museum für Moderne Kunst at Domstrasse 10 (MMK; Tues & Thurs–Sun 10am–6pm, Wed 10am–8pm; €12, students €6; mmk-frankfurt.de) is a three-storey affair featuring major modern artists such as Lichtenstein and Beuys, alongside innovative temporary exhibitions.

Sachsenhausen and Museumsufer

For a laidback evening out, head for Sachsenhausen, the city-within-a-city on the south bank of the Main. The network of streets around Affentorplatz is home to the apple-wine (Ebbelwei) houses, while the Schaumainkai – also known as Museumsufer – is lined with excellent museums. Pick of the bunch is the recently extended Städel, at no. 63 (Tues, Wed, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs & Fri 10am–9pm; €14, students €12; staedelmuseum.de). All the big names in German art are represented, including Dürer, Holbein and Cranach the Elder – as well as other European masters from Rembrandt to Picasso. The Deutsches Filmmuseum at no. 41 (Tues & Thurs–Sun 10am–6pm, Wed 10am–8pm; €6, students €3; deutschesfilmmuseum.de) has its own cinema and is popular for foreign films and arthouse screenings. Another engaging choice is the lively Museum für Kommunikation at no. 53 (Tues–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 11am–7pm; €3; www.mfk-frankfurt.de), installed in a bright, glassy modern building, whose exhibits include a Salvador Dalí lobster telephone.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Frankfurt Airport (frankfurt-airport.com) is Germany's busiest, though it's not used by budget airlines.

It has rail links to many German cities and Frankfurt's Hauptbahnhof (S8 and S9; 10min; €4.65). The deceptively named Frankfurt Hahn Airport (Hahn-airport.de) is a distant 125km west, midway between Trier and Koblenz. It is connected to Frankfurt by bus that stops just south of the Hauptbahnhof (12 daily; 1hr 45min; €15; bohr.de).

By train From the Hauptbahnhof it's a 15min walk to the centre; take S4 or S5, or tram #11 or #12.

Destinations Berlin (hourly; 4hr 10min); Cologne (1–3 hourly; 1hr–1hr 20min); Hamburg (hourly; 3hr 40min); Hannover (1–2 hourly; 2hr 30min); Heidelberg (hourly; 50min); Mainz (frequent; 35min); Munich (hourly; 3hr 10min); Nuremberg (1–2 hourly; 2hr 5min).

By bus The bus station is just south of the Hauptbahnhof.

INFORMATION

Tourist information In the train station (Mon–Fri 8am–9pm, Sat & Sun 9am–6pm; 069 21 23 88 00, frankfurt-tourismus.de), and at Römerberg 27 (Mon–Fri 9.30am–5.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–4pm). They can book accommodation.

Discount passes The Frankfurt Card (€10.50/15.50 for 1/2 days) can be bought from tourist offices and allows travel throughout the city, plus fifty percent off entry charges to most museums. The two-day Museumsufer Ticket (€18, students €10) provides free entrance to 34 museums.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Frankfurt has an integrated public transport system (rmv.de) made up of S-Bahn, U-Bahn and trams. Tickets €2.80, short trip €1.80 (permitted destinations shown at every stop), day ticket €7 (€9.10 includes airport).

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation is pricey, thanks to the business clientele; rates can triple during or just before trade fairs. The flipside is that they tumble at weekends (when you are strongly advised to come).

Fair Hotel Europaallee Mainzer Landstr. 120 ☎ 069 74 26 28, fairhotelfrankfurt.de. Pleasant budget hotel just north of the train station, away from the sleazier streets. Good weekend rates. Doubles €62

Five Elements Moselstr. 40 ☎ 069 24 00 58 85, frankfurt.selementshotel.de. Lively hotel a short walk from the main station, with 24hr reception, all-you-can-eat breakfast until noon (€4.50) and laundry. The bar is a great place to socialize and there's live music every Sat. Dorms €19, doubles €59

Little Paris Karlsruherstr. 8 ☎ 069 273 99 63, little-paris-hotel.de. Delightful little hotel in a side street south of the station, where each room is designed around a French movie star. Breakfast included. An excellent choice. Doubles €79

Smart Stay Hotel Niddastr. 45–47, ☎ 069 25 78 10 60, hotel-frankfurt.smart-stay.de. Large new hotel near the station with neat private rooms and spacious dorms, each with en-suite bathrooms and TVs. Dorms €16, doubles €59

United Hostel Kaiserstr. 52 ☎ 069 256 67 80 00, united-hostel-frankfurt.com. A lot of money has been spent on this bright, hip hotel, with double-glazed windows, hotel-quality bathrooms, a huge kitchen and cinema-size TV screen. Breakfast €4.50. Dorms €19

EATING AND DRINKING

Bayram Münchnerstr. 29. Turkish restaurant and kebab house going since 1991, popular and highly recommended by the locals. All food is fresh and cooked on a wooden grill. Massive portions from €9. Mon–Thurs & Sun 8am–2am, Sat 8am–6am.

Café Karin Grosser Hirschgraben 28. Frankfurt institution that's friendly, unpretentious and well worth a visit. Breakfast till 6pm (from €3.20) and a bistro-bar later on; pasta €9.80. Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–7pm.

Die Kuh die Lacht Schillerstr. 28 & Friedensstr. 2. Excellent burgers at the "Laughing Cow" – including meat-free falafel and nut options – with side dishes ranging from fries to salad or veggie tempura. Classic burger €7.25. Both branches Mon–Sat 11am–11pm, Sun noon–10pm.

Metzgerei Ebert Grosse Eschenheimer Str. 5. A family butchery which also sells cooked food in Frankfurt's pedestrian area. A plateful of Frankfurters and potato salad costs €6.50 – try the famous Zeppelinwurst, cooked since 1909 from a patented recipe. Mon–Fri 8am–7pm, Sat 8am–6pm.

NIGHTLIFE

Apfelwein (acidic cider) is Frankfurt's speciality, and Sachsenhausen's taverns are the most atmospheric places to try it.

Adolf Wagner Schweizer Str. 71. One of the most popular of the Apfelwein taverns, with a lively clientele of all ages and a cosy terrace. Meals from €9, Apfelwein €1.90. Daily 11am–midnight.

Club Voltaire Kleine Hochstr. 5. Politically committed, alternative bar and club that hosts various events from art exhibitions to live music (entry €5–10). Beer €3. Mon–Sat 6pm–1am, Sun 6pm–midnight.

Cooky's Am Salzhaus 4 cookys.de. Stylish hip-hop, house and soul club north of Berliner Strasse, hosting popular DJ nights plus occasional live acts. Beer €3.50, entry €5–10. Tues–Sun 11pm–late.

Fichtekränzi Wallstr. 5. Lovely Apfelwein tavern with a tree-shaded courtyard, wood-panelled interior and a more extensive menu than many. Apfelwein €1.80; "Frankfurt butcher's platter" €7.80. Daily from 5pm, garden closes at 11pm.

Maincafé Schaumainkai 50. Situated on the river quay, this is the perfect place to sit on the grass, drink beer and chill, while watching the sun set behind the skyscrapers opposite. Daily 10am–midnight.

Zum Eichkatzerl Dreieichstr. 29, Sachsenhausen. An excellent, traditional Apfelwein tavern with a large courtyard; meaty main courses, such as Frankfurt Schnitzel with green sauce from €9. Mon–Fri 5pm–midnight, Sat & Sun 4pm–midnight.

Zum Schwejk Schäfergasse 20, schwejk-frankfurt.de. A lively, straight-friendly gay bar in the middle of Frankfurt's gay triangle, with seasonally changing over-the-top decoration and outside seating. Tues–Thurs 4pm–1am, Fri 4pm–3am, Sat noon–3am, Sun 6pm–1am.

DIRECTORY

Consulates Australia, Main Tower, Neue Mainzer Str. 52–58 ☎ 069 90 55 80; UK, Barclays Capital, Bockenheimerlandstr. 38–40 ☎ 069 71 67 53 45; US, Giessenerstr. 30 ☎ 069 753 50.

Hospital Bürgerhospital, Nibelungenallee 37–41 ☎ 069 15 00 0.

Pharmacy At the train station, lower concourse (Mon–Fri 6.30am–9pm, Sat 8am–9pm, Sun 9am–8pm).

Post office Branches at the train station, next to platform 23 (Mon–Fri 7am–7pm, Sat 9am–4pm), and in the Karstadt department store at Zeil 90 (Mon–Sat 10am–8pm).

Baden-Württemberg

The southwestern state of Baden-Württemberg is Germany's most prosperous. The motorcar was invented here in the late nineteenth century, and the region has stayed at the forefront of technology ever since, with Stuttgart still the home of Daimler (Mercedes) and Porsche. The state is also home to the famous university city of Heidelberg. Baden-Württemberg's scenery is wonderful: its western and southern boundaries are defined by the Rhine and its bulge into Germany's largest lake, the Bodensee (Lake Constance). Within the curve of the river lies the Black Forest, source of another of the continent's principal waterways, the Danube.

12

HEIDELBERG

Quintessentially German and home to Germany's oldest university, HEIDELBERG lies majestically on the banks of the swift-flowing Neckar, 85km south of Frankfurt. For two centuries, it has seduced travellers, most notably Mark Twain, like no other German city and it still draws them to its bosom. The centrepiece is the Schloss, a compendium of magnificent buildings, made more atmospheric by their ruined condition; this is one castle where you won't end up traipsing through over-decorated bedchambers. The rest of the city has some good museums, but the main appeal lies in its picturesque cobbled streets, crammed with traditional restaurants and student pubs. In spring and early summer the streets hum with activity and late-night parties – by July and August, most students have left, to be replaced by swarms of visitors.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Actually a group of Renaissance palaces, the dominating Heidelberg Schloss (daily 8am–6pm; €7, students €4 including funicular, audioguide €5; schloss-heidelberg.de) can be reached from the Kornmarkt by the Bergbahn funicular (daily 9am–8pm, every 10min), which continues to the Königstuhl viewpoint (€7, students €5.50 return); you can also walk up to the castle in ten minutes via the steep Burgweg. At the southeastern corner is the most romantic of the ruins, the Gesprengrter Turm; a collapsed section lies intact in the moat, leaving a clear view into the interior. The Schloss is also home to the Grosses Fass, an eighteenth-century wine barrel capable of holding 220,000 litres, plus the diverting Pharmacy Museum with exhibits in English (daily: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–5.30pm; €6, students €4).

The Altstadt

The Altstadt's finest surviving buildings are grouped around the sandstone Heiligegeistkirche on Marktplatz. Note the tiny shopping booths between its buttresses, a feature ever since the church was built. The striking Baroque Alte Brücke is reached from the Marktplatz down Steingasse; dating from the 1780s, the bridge was painstakingly rebuilt after being blown up by the German army during World War II. The Palais Rischer on Untere Strasse (now a private dwelling) was the most famous venue for the university's Mensur, or fencing match; wounds were frequent and prized as badges of courage – for optimum prestige, salt was rubbed into them, leaving scars that remained for life.

Universitätsplatz, the heart of the Old Town, is flanked by the eighteenth-century Alte Universität (April–Oct Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; Nov–March Tues–Sat 10am–4pm; €3, students €2.50) with its impressive conference room Alte Aula (1886) and the Neue Universität, built with US donations in 1931. Heidelberg's students didn't come under civil jurisdiction: offenders were dealt with by the university authorities, and could serve their punishment at leisure. The Studentenkarzer (Students' Prison) around the corner at Augustinergasse 2 (same hours and ticker as Alte Universität) was used from 1778 to 1914; its spartan cells are covered with some fantastic graffiti.

Finally, check out the wonderful, quirky Packaging Museum at 12

Hauptstrasse 22 (Wed–Fri 1–6pm, Sat & Sun 11am–6pm; €5, students €3; verpackungsmuseum.de), displaying consumer products like 1890s carbolite toilet paper, 1900s Knorr cubes and Persil washing powder from 1907.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Ryanair, Wizz Air and other budget flights fly into Karlsruhe/Baden-Baden airport, 90km to the south (badenairpark.de), which is connected to Heidelberg's train station by bus #140 (1–2 daily; 1hr 30min; €20; hahn-express.de).

By train and bus Heidelberg's train and bus stations are next to each other in an anonymous quarter 20min walk west of the Altstadt. All trams except the #24 run to the old centre; bus #33 stops at the Bergbahn below the Schloss. Destinations Frankfurt (1–2 hourly; 54min); Mainz (1–2 hourly; 51min); Munich (hourly; 2hr 20min); Stuttgart (1–2 hourly; 45min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information In the Rathaus on Marktplatz (April–Oct Mon–Fri 8am–5pm, Sat 9am–3pm. Nov–March Mon–Fri 8am–5pm; ☎062 215 84 02 24, heidelberg-marketing.de) and on the square outside the station (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–6pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 9am–6pm).

Discount pass The Heidelberg Card (1/2/4 days for €15/17/19) includes transport in the city, entry to the Schloss and reductions in museums, attractions and restaurants.

GETTING AROUND

By bus and tram Although Heidelberg is small, the bus and tram system is useful for journeys from the train or bus stations. A bus from the station to the old town is €1.30 one-way; longer trip €2.34; day ticket for one person €6.50, extra people €2.70 each.

By bike Heidelberg is covered by the Nextbike and Call-a-Bike rental schemes.

ACCOMMODATION

Hotels are often booked solid and are expensive; reserve months in advance for July & Aug.

Am Kornmarkt Kornmarkt 7 ☎ 062 21 90 58 30, hotelamkornmarkt.de. Excellent-value hotel in a 600-year-old building beneath the castle. Large rooms each with a different colour scheme but not all en suite. Continental buffet breakfast €9. Doubles €75

Hotel Central Kaiserstr. 75 ☎ 062 212 06 41, info147262.wix.com/hotelcentral. Airy but bland hotel near the train station. One of the best-value places in town that's likely to have a bed: breakfast included. Doubles €95

Lotte Burgweg 3 ☎ 062 217 35 07 25, lotte-heidelberg.de; bus #33, get off at Rathaus-Bergbahn. The cheapest option inside the Altstadt, this is a modern, but cosy, hostel with a well-equipped kitchen and washing facilities. Dorms €23, doubles €64

Steffi's Hostel Alte Eppelheimer Str. 50 ☎ 062 217 78 27 72, hostelheidelberg.de. Independent hostel in a former brick factory a short walk from the train station. Perks include a big kitchen and bike rental, though the lift is noisy. Breakfast €3. Dorms €18, doubles €56

12

EATING

Alte Gundtei Zwingerstrasse 15a ☎ alte-gundtei.com. Friendly Turkish restaurant serving excellent kebab, lamb and fish dishes for €11–16, plus a good selection of vegetarian options. Mon–Sat 5pm–1am, Sun 4pm–1am.

Café Knösel Haspelgasse 20. Chic café dishing up enormous cakes at this popular corner spot; simple daily mains around €10. Mon–Fri noon–3pm & 6–10pm, Sat & Sun noon–10pm.

Weisser Schwan Biermuseum Hauptstr. 143. Spacious establishment offering thirty types of beer and much loved by the locals for its good-value lunch menu. Try the Fleischkäse (meatloaf) for €7. Daily 11am–11.45pm.

Zeughaus Mensa Im Marstallhof. Inside the old barracks is a student refectory that's open to everyone. Fill up from a basic warm buffet and pay by weight. Around €6 for a plateful. Daily 11am–10pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Because of its large student community Heidelberg punches well above its weight in nightlife. The focus is

THE HEIDELBERG KISS

Not to be confused with the nearby Café Knösel, the Knösel Chocolaterie at Haspelgasse 16 (daily 11am–7pm) is home to the famous Heidelberger Studentenkuss, a dark chocolate filled with praline and nougat on a waffle base (€2.50). The sweet has remained unchanged since 1863, when the male students were not allowed to talk to chaperoned girls, so showed their affections (and passed on a secret message) by offering this small confectionery.

Untere Strasse and the Rathausplatz, but there are many clubs dotted around the new city as well.

Cave 54 Krämmergasse 2 ☎ cave54.de. The oldest student jazz club in Germany, since 1954, this famous venue has hosted Ella Fitzgerald and Louis Armstrong, among others. The 8.30pm Tues jam is legendary. €5 cover. Tues–Thurs 10pm–3am, Fri & Sat 10pm–5am.

Gasthaus Zum Mohren Untere Str. 5. One of several hip, young drinking spots along this alley, with various nightly events. On Thurs women drink champagne free all night. Fri–Thurs 4pm–3am, Fri & Sat 1pm–3am.

Nachtschicht Bergheimer Str. 147 ☎ nachtschicht.com. Just north of the train station, this popular club in a former factory hosts hip-hop, disco and house nights. Cover €6. Thurs 10pm–3am, Fri 8pm–3am, Sat 11pm–4am.

Schnookeloch Haspelgasse 8 ☎ schnookeloch-heidelberg.de. The oldest tavern in town and still cosy. You can drink beer from a boot (€7.60) and challenge yourself to finish the enormous schnitzels for €13.50. Daily 7.30am–3am.

Villa Lounge Hauptstr. 187. Popular to the point of bursting with under 25s who flock here for cheap drink specials – if you're lucky, you'll get cocktails for €4, or an all-night Happy Hour. Mon–Thurs & Sun 9am–2am, Fri & Sat 9am–3am.

FREIBURG (IM BREISGAU)

FREIBURG basks in the laidback atmosphere you'd expect from Germany's sunniest city. It's been a university town since 1457 and its youthful presence is maintained year-round with a varied programme of festivals. It's a thoroughly enjoyable place to visit, and makes the perfect urban base for exploring the surrounding Black Forest. Home of the cuckoo clock and source of the Danube, the Black Forest, stretching 170km north to south, and up to 60km east to west, is

TREAT YOURSELF

Holländer Hof Neckarstaden 66 ☎ 062 216 05 00, hollaender-hof.de. Possibly the most comfortable hotel in this romantic town, with dreamily furnished, cosy rooms facing the Alte Brücke. Breakfast and half a bottle of sparkling wine included. Doubles €129

Germany's largest and most beautiful forest. Its name reflects the mountainous landscape darkened by endless pine trees and, as late as the 1920s, much of this area was eerie wilderness, a refuge for boars and bandits. Today, many of its villages are geared toward tourism, brimming with souvenir shops, while old forest trails provide easy and enjoyable hiking.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The city's most impressive sight is the dark-red sandstone Münster (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 1–7.30pm), with its intricate openwork spire. Begun in about 1200, the church has a masterly Gothic nave, with flying buttresses, gargoyles and statues – the stained-glass windows are all original, having survived World War II. From the tower (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm; €2, students €1.50) there's a fine panorama of the city and the surrounding forested hills. Walking south from here on Kaiser-Josef-Strasse, Freiburg's central axis, you come to the Martinstor, one of two surviving towers of the medieval fortifications. Just southeast of here is the main channel of the Bächle (medieval rain canals that supplied water in case of fire); follow it along Gerberau, to the Schwabentor, the other thirteenth-century tower. Nearby, at Oberlinden 12, you can find Germany's oldest surviving inn, Zum Roten Bären (established 1120). Opposite here, the Schwabentor footpaths lead up the Schlossberg, with a ruined French fortress and great views over the city.

Schauinsland

The hills of the Black Forest almost rise out of Freiburg's Altstadt, giving the town a convenient outdoor playground for hikers and mountain bikers: the tourist information office has good maps, and details of numerous trailheads accessible by public transport. The largest of these forested peaks, Schauinsland, lies 7km south of the city and is easily ascended on the Schauinslandbahn cable car (daily: July–Sept 9am–6pm; Oct–June 9am–5pm; one-way €9, students €8.50, return €12.50, students €11.50; 📞0761 4511 777, 🚠schauinslandbahn.de; tram #2 to Günterstal then bus #21). From its summit a five-minute walk leads to a lookout tower and the top of several well-marked trails. These offer first-class hiking and mountain biking – with almost the entire 14km journey back to Freiburg downhill – plus great views along the way.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The EuroAirport Basel-Mulhouse-Freiburg (just across the border in France) is 70km south of Freiburg; Flixbus runs to Freiburg train station (hourly; €20 single; 55min; 🚌flixbus.de).

By train The train station is on Bismarckallee about a 10min walk west of the city centre.

Destinations Basel (2 hourly; 45min–1hr); Frankfurt (hourly; 2hr 20min); Stuttgart (hourly; 2hr); Zürich (hourly; 2hr).

By bus The bus station is on Bismarckallee just below the train station. Ticket for city buses and trams cost €2.20, a 24hr ticket is €5.60 or €11.20 for up to 5 people. The Freiburg WelcomeKarte (€25, 3 days) includes all local transport plus the Schauinslandbahn cable car.

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist information Rathausplatz 2–4 (June–Sept Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 10.30am–3pm; Oct–May Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat 9.30am–2.30pm, Sun 10am–noon; 📞076 13 88 18 80, 🌐freiburg.de). For €3, they'll also find you a room.

Tours Tours in English (1hr 30min) are run by Freiburger Leben (May–Oct Wed–Fri 10am & 2pm, Sat 10.30am, noon & 3.30pm; €9; 📞076 11 37 69 18, 🌐freiburgerleben.com).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Black Forest Hostel Kartäuserstr. 33 📞076 18 81 78 70, 🌐blackforest-hostel.de; tram #1 from the station to Schwabentorbrücke. Buzzing backpackers' hostel in an old factory near the centre, and by far the best place to stay in town. Well-equipped kitchen, and bikes for €8/day. Sheets €4. No wi-fi, but there are several PCs with internet access. Dorms €17, doubles €60

Camping Hirzberg Kartäuserstr. 99 📞076 13 50 54, 🌐freiburg-camping.de; tram #1 to Musikhochschule, then turn left through the subway, cross the river and follow the signs. The most accessible (on foot) of Freiburg's three campsites. Open all year. Per person €8.80, plus per tent €4.70

Helene Staufenerstr. 46 📞076 14 52 10 29, 🌐hotel-helene-freiburg.de. Just over 1km south of the train station (take tram #5), just beyond the Dreisam River, this is the best-value central hotel in Freiburg. Breakfast buffet included. Doubles €75

KL Freiburg Kartäuserstr. 41 ☎ 076 12 11 16 30, kl-freiburg.de. Very modern, clean hotel-cum-hostel, near the centre, with a cafeteria. Though it's almost always full, it's worth trying. Students get thirteen percent discount. Breakfast included. Doubles €69

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Freiburg has great nightlife; pick up a free Fipps magazine to see what's on, or just head into the bar area around Löwenstrasse and make some new friends.

Brennessel Eschholzstr. 17 ☎ brennessel-freiburg.de. Local students pack out this slightly shabby restaurant behind the station for the unbeatable €1.80 spaghetti bolognese (from 6–7.30pm and 10.30–11.30pm only). Also has roast pork for €9.80 and vegetarian dishes from €8. Mon–Sat 6pm–1am, Sun 5pm–1am.

Jazzhaus Schnewlinstr. 1 ☎ jazzhaus.de. Club in an old wine cellar attracting a range of ages and hosting musical events, from world music concerts to blues, jazz, rock and hip-hop. Club night cover €7. Fri & Sat club nights 11pm–4am, gigs from 8pm.

Karma Bertoldstr. 51–53 ☎ karma-freiburg.de. The Karma complex has it all: a café-bar, a good Indian restaurant with a weekday all-you-can-eat buffet (€8), and a club in the cellar (cover €6). Café-bar Mon–Thurs 9.30am–2am, Fri & Sat 9.30am–3am, Sun 9am–1am; restaurant Mon–Thurs 11.30am–2.30pm & 6–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–1am, Sun 11am–11pm; club Fri & Sat 11pm–5am.

Kastaniengarten Schlossbergg 3 ☎ kastaniengarten-freiburg.de. A beautiful biergarten shaded by chestnut trees on the Schlossberg, accessed by elevator from opposite the Schwabentor. A litre of beer is €7.50. Weisswurst with a pretzel is €6. April–Oct daily 11am–midnight.

Markthalle Grünewalderstr. 4 ☎ markthalle-freiburg.de. This food court bustles with locals visiting different kiosks that dish up quality regional Swabian and international dishes. Mon–Thurs 8am–8pm, Fri & Sat 8am–midnight.

Martin's Bräu Kaiser-Joseph-Str. 237 (down the Martinsgässle alley). Typical bierstube brewing its own beer and offering cheap local specialities such as cheese noodles for €8.90 and standard international dishes. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–midnight, Fri & Sat 11am–2am.

★ Schlappen Löwenstr. 2 ☎ schlappen.com. Cool café-bar attracting mainly students – it starts as a restaurant and pub and ends as a club with late-night music. Try the delicious local Maultaschen dumplings (€7), washed down with one of the many beers (€3). Mon–Wed 11am–1am, Thurs 11am–2am, Fri & Sat 11am–3am, Sun 3pm–1am.

STUTTGART

In the centre of Baden-Württemberg, 85km southeast of Heidelberg, STUTTGART is home to the German success stories of Bosch, Porsche and Mercedes. Founded in 950 as a stud farm (Suoetgarten) by Duke Liudolf of Swabia, it became a town only in the fourteenth century. Set amid rolling hills, it has some unique museums and sparkling nightlife.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

From the train station, Königstrasse passes the brutalist modern Dom and enters Schlossplatz, on the south of which is the Altes Schloss, built to defend Duke Liudolf's stud farm and now home to the Württemberg State Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €5.50, students €4.50; landesmuseum-stuttgart.de). This large and varied museum explores the history of the region from the Stone Age to the present through archeological exhibitions as well as arts and crafts. On the western side of Schlossplatz, the shiny glass box of the Kunstmuseum (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm, Thurs 10am–8pm; €7, students €5, Wed free; kunstmuseum-stuttgart.de) boasts a rich permanent collection including some harsh Weimar-era paintings by Otto Dix, plus excellent temporary exhibitions.

Northeast of Schlossplatz at Konrad-Adenauer-Strasse 30–32, the State Gallery is one of Germany's most visited art museums (Tues & Thurs 10am–8pm, Wed & Fri–Sun 10am–6pm; €5.50; Wed & Sat free; staatsgalerie.de). There's an Old Masters section as well as a New

EUROPA PARK

Some 40km north of Freiburg, Germany's largest theme park (daily: mid-March–Oct 9am–6pm or later; late Nov & Dec 11am–7pm; €44.50; ☎ 078 22 77 66 88, europapark.de) is great fun. Fairytale figures like Rapunzel and Hansel & Gretel plus eleven roller coasters entertain you during the day, while variety shows, cinemas, pop concerts and restaurants in the fourteen country-themed areas amuse you at night. Flixbus has a daily bus service from Freiburg at 9.30am (30min; €8; flixbus.de), or take the train to Ringsheim, then a connecting bus. You can stay overnight at the Europa-park campsite (per person €10.50).

Gallery focusing on various schools within twentieth-century art movements.

The Weissenhofmuseum

Over five months in 1927, pioneering modern architects including Le Corbusier and Mies van der Rohe built Stuttgart's residential Weissenhofsiedlung area, 3km north of the centre, to demonstrate radical new ideas and materials. Eleven buildings have survived here and Le Corbusier's semi-detached house at Rathenastr. 1 – recently granted UNESCO World Heritage status – now houses the Weissenhofmuseum (Tues–Fri 11am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €5, students €2; www.weissenhofmuseum.de; Ⓜ Killesberg). Inside is a fascinating exhibition about the district and Le Corbusier's revolutionary ideas on architecture, plus various original interiors.

The Mercedes and Porsche museums

As much as they are collections of vintage cars, the Mercedes and Porsche museums are also temples to fine engineering, human ingenuity and thousands of hours of careful hard work. So slick are the museums – their modern architecture airy and futuristic, the displays self-confident, seamless and high-tech – that they can't fail to inspire. The Mercedes-Benz Museum, Mercedesstr. 100 (Tues–Sun 9am–6pm; €8, students €4; www.mercedes-benz.com; Ⓜ Neckarpark), is strong on the early parts of motoring history, since its founders invented both the motorbike and the motorcar. The Porsche Museum, Porscheplatz 1 (Tues–Sun 9am–6pm; €8, students €4; www.porsche.com/museum; Ⓜ 6 to Neuwirtshaus) is no less flashy – and allows you to pose inside a Carrera GTS. Dozens of priceless, highly polished examples of fine engineering are explained by an intelligent audioguide and touch-screen monitors. The success of the brand is underlined by a display of some of Porsche's 28,000 trophies.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Stuttgart Airport is linked to the train station by Ⓜ 2 and Ⓜ 3 (frequent; 30min).

By train Stuttgart's train station is located in the centre of town.

Destinations Berlin (4–5 daily; 5hr–5hr 45min); Cologne (8 daily; 2hr 14min); Frankfurt (hourly; 1hr 17min); Hamburg (6–7 daily; 5hr 30min); Konstanz (10 daily; 2hr 20min); Munich (1–2 hourly; 2hr 15min); Zürich (every 2hr; 3hr).

By bus There's no bus station in the city centre. Some buses use the station at Hafenbahnstr. 15 in Obertürkheim, while others use Burgunderstr. 39 in Zuffenhausen. Both are 15–20min by S-Bahn from the central train station.

INFORMATION

Tourist information Opposite the train station at Königstr. 1a (Mon–Fri 9am–8pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–6pm; tours & tickets Ⓜ 071 12 22 81 11, hotel bookings Ⓜ 071 12 22 81 00, Ⓜ stuttgart-tourist.de), and in Terminal 3 at the airport (Mon–Fri 8am–7pm, Sat 9am–1pm & 1.45–4.30pm, Sun 10am–1pm & 1.45–5.30pm). Stuttgart has free wi-fi in the city centre; log in to the Unitymedia network.

Discount passes The StuttCard (€15/20/25 for 1/2/3 days) gives free admission to various attractions and numerous discounts; the Combination StuttCard (€25/35/45 respectively) includes use of local public transport.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport A day ticket for the extensive integrated public transport network costs €6.80, a one-way ticket €0.80.

ACCOMMODATION

Alex 30 Alexanderstr. 30 Ⓜ 0711 838 89 50, Ⓜ alex30-hostel.de; Ⓜ Olgaack. Established independent hostel near the Bohnenviertel that has a bar, café, kitchen and terrace. Breakfast buffet €8. Dorms €25, doubles €64

A&O Stuttgart City Rosensteinstr. 14 Ⓜ 0711 25 27 74 00, Ⓜ aohostels.com; Ⓜ Milchhof. Large and functional new chain hostel, 2km north of the station, with a kitchen and bar. Good breakfast buffet €7. Dorms €15, doubles €60

International Studenthotel Neckarstr. 172 Ⓜ 0711 41 43 00, Ⓜ sw-stuttgart.de; Ⓜ Stöckach. Excellent-value modern student hotel just east of the centre. Breakfast is included and there's a communal lounge for socializing. Non-students pay €10 extra. Singles with shared facilities €28, en-suite doubles €58

Jugendherberge Stuttgart International Haussmannstr. 27 Ⓜ 0711 664 74 70, Ⓜ jugendherberge-stuttgart.de; Ⓜ Eugensplatz. Large, well-organized but run-of-the-mill DJH hostel, on a hillside, with great views over town from the terrace. Dorms €32, doubles €64

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Stuttgart is surrounded by vineyards, and its numerous Weinstuben are excellent places to try good-quality local

TREAT YOURSELF

Sautter Johannesstr. 28 ☎071 16 14 30, hotel-sautter.de; ☎Schloss/Johannesstrasse. Good, central, quiet business hotel with lower rates at weekends and a restaurant attached offering local specialities. Breakfast included. Doubles €87 wines at low cost. It is also great for nightlife with the focus below Schlossplatz, around the Hans-im-Glück fountain on Geisstrasse and west of Rotebühlplatz, while to the southwest, hip Marienplatz has casual cafés and ice-cream parlours.

Brauhaus Schönbuch Bolzstr. 10. Independent brewery, beer hall and garden in the middle of the pedestrian district serving filling lunch dishes for €8 or schnitzel and fries for €12. Try a half-litre of its Ur-Edel lager for €3.80. Sun–Wed 11am–midnight, Thurs–Sat 11am–1am.

Café Galao Tübinger Str. 90. Small, quirky café off Marienplatz with healthy breakfasts, home-made cake and lethal cocktails, plus concerts ranging from jazz to African to Middle Eastern psych rock. Mon–Fri noon–10pm, Sat & Sun 3–10pm.

Kiste Hauptstätterstr. 35 ☎kiste-stuttgart.de. Live venue that hosts interesting jazz sessions as well as performances by local indie rock bands. Entrance €5. Mon–Thurs 6pm–2am, Fri & Sat 7pm–3am.

Lehmann Seidenstr. 20 ☎lehmannclub.de. One of techno's cathedrals with a reputation inside Germany second only to legends like Berlin's Berghain – check out the We Are Techno nights. Cover €10–15. Fri & Sat 11pm–late.

★Mata Hari Geissstr. 3. Standing room only in this bar/café, very popular with the under 25s, and always packed to the rafters, often spilling out to the street. Daily dish €8. Mon–Thurs & Sun 3pm–2am, Fri & Sat 2pm–3am.

Palast der Republik Friedrichstr. 27. Offbeat cult place: a former public loo that's now a beer kiosk. On sunny days drinkers line the pavement outside and (amazingly for Germany) DJs play loud music on the pavement at night. Sun–Wed 11am–2am, Thurs–Sat 11am–3am.

Udo's Snack Calverstrasse 23. Hole-in-the-wall snack bar offering quality burgers for €4.50 and loud techno for free: an irresistible combination that's been going strong for over 30 years. Mon–Wed 11am–10pm, Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–1am.

KONSTANZ AND THE BODENSEE

In the far south, hard on the Swiss border, KONSTANZ lies at the tip of a tongue of land sticking out into the huge Bodensee (Lake Constance). The town itself is split by the lake, giving Konstanz the air of a sea town. Its convivial atmosphere is best experienced in the summer, when street cafés tempt prolonged stays and the water is a bustle of sails.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Konstanz's most prominent building is the Romanesque Münster church, in the heart of the Altstadt (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 12.30–5pm; €2), while its regional highlights are two small Bodensee islands, both connected to the mainland by a bridge. The nearby Mainau island (daily dawn to dusk; March–Oct €19, Nov–Feb €9.50, half-price after 5pm; mainau.de; bus #4 from Konstanz) has a royal park featuring magnificent floral displays, formal gardens, greenhouses, forests, a butterfly house and a handful of well-placed restaurants. The larger, but still tranquil, island of Reichenau, 8km west of Konstanz, is home to the Romanesque Benedictine St Georg Abbey, a UNESCO World Heritage Site (daily 9am–5pm; reichenau-tourismus.de).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is at the southern edge of the city on the border with Switzerland. For Reichenau take the train to Reichenau station (frequent; 9min), then change to bus #7372 to "Mittelzell" (frequent; 15min).

Destinations Munich (2 hourly; 4hr 15min–5hr); Zürich (hourly; 1hr 20min).

Tourist information Beside the train station at Bahnhofplatz 43 (April–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–6.30pm, Sat 9am–4pm, Sun 10am–1pm; Nov–March Mon–Fri 9.30am–6pm; ☎075 31 13 30 30, konstanz-tourismus.de; staff can book private rooms.

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bike rental from Kultur-Rädle, Bahnhofplatz 29 (Easter–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–12.30pm & 2.30–6pm, Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 10am–12.30pm; €13/day; ☎07531 273 10; kultur-raedle.de).

By boat Bodensee-Schiffsbetriebe (BSB), Hafenstr. 6 (☎075 313 64 00, bsb-online.com). Ferries and cruises run regularly around the lake and to the Bodensee islands and they also offer scenic trips to Switzerland.

ACCOMMODATION

Campingplatz Bruderhofer Föhrenbühlweg 45 ☎075 313 13 92, campingplatz-konstanz.de; bus #1 to Tannenhof then a 10min walk. One of two pleasant neighbouring campsites on the lakeshore 4km northeast of the centre and around 1km from the car-ferry dock. Per person €7, plus per tent €5.50

DJH Konstanz Zur Allmannshöhe 16 ☎075 313 22 60, jugendherberge-konstanz.de; bus #4 to Jugendherberge. Excellent hostel uniquely located in and around an old water tower, 5km out of town. Dorms €23.20, over 26s €29.20

Bavaria

Bavaria (Bayern), Germany's largest federal state, fills the southeast of the country. It's the home of almost all German clichés: beer-swilling men in Lederhosen, piles of Sauerkraut and sausages galore. But that's only a small part of the picture, and one that's almost entirely restricted to the Bavarian Alps that lie south of the magnificent state capital, Munich. Eastern Bavaria – whose capital is Regensburg – is dominated by rolling forests where life revolves around logging and minor industries like glass production. To the north, Nuremberg is the hub of Protestant Franconia (Franken), a region known for its vineyards and natural parks as well as beautifully preserved and atmospheric medieval towns – notably Rothenburg ob der Tauber, which is but a highlight among the glut of attractive places that dot Bavaria's Romantic Road.

MUNICH

Founded in 1158, MUNICH (München) has been the capital of Bavaria since 1504, and as far as the locals are concerned it's the centre of the universe. Impossibly energetic, it bursts with a good-humoured self-importance that is difficult to dislike. After Berlin, Munich is Germany's most popular city – and with its compact, attractive old centre it's far easier to digest. It has a great setting, with the mountains and Alpine lakes just an hour's drive away. The best time to come is from June to early October, when

THE ROMANTIC ROAD

The charming, picturesque Romantic Road (romantischestrasse.de) is Germany's best-loved tourist route, running from the vineyards of Würzburg in northern Bavaria over 385km of pastoral scenery and quaint medieval villages to the fairytale castle of Füssen in the south. Touring buses (April–Oct 1 daily; ☎069 719 12 61 00, touring-travel.eu) run in each direction between Frankfurt and Füssen via Munich, with short stops in many of the towns and free audioguides included (12hr 20min).

the beer gardens, cafés and bars are in full swing – not least for the world-famous Oktoberfest beer festival.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Just ten minutes' walk east of the train station, the twin onion-domed towers of the red-brick Gothic Frauenkirche (Dom; daily 7.30am–8.30pm) form the focus of the city's skyline. The pedestrian shopping street, Kaufingerstrasse, just below, heads east to the centre and the main square, the Marienplatz.

Marienplatz

The Marienplatz is the bustling heart of Munich, thronged with crowds being entertained by street musicians and artists. At 11am and noon (March–Oct also 5pm), the square fills with tourists as the glockenspiel in the Neues Rathaus, Marienplatz 8 (Tower daily: Ray–Sept 10am–7pm; Oct–April 10am–5pm; €2.50), jingles into action. To the right is the plain Gothic Altes Rathaus, whose tower now houses the Spielzeugmuseum (daily 10am–5.30pm; €4), with its vast toy collection.

Alter Peter and the Viktualienmarkt

On the south side of Marienplatz, the Peterskirche tower (summer Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat & Sun 10am–7pm; winter Mon–Fri 9am–5.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5.30pm; €2, students €1) offers the best views of the Altstadt. Directly below, you'll find the Viktualienmarkt, an open-air food market selling everything from Weisswurst and beer to fruit and veg. West of here, at Sendlinger Str. 62, stands the pint-sized Asamkirche (Mon–Fri 7.30am–6pm; Sat 8am–7pm, Sun 8am–3pm; free), one of the most splendid Rococo churches in Bavaria.

The Hofbräuhaus, the Residenz and Königsplatz

Northeast of Marienplatz is the Hofbräuhaus, Munich's largest and most famous drinking hall (see p.408). North of here, on Residenzstrasse, is the entrance to the palace of the Wittelsbachs, the immense Residenz (daily: April to mid-Oct 9am–6pm; mid-Oct to March 10am–5pm; €7, students €6; residenz-muenchen.de). One of Europe's finest Renaissance buildings, it was so badly damaged in the last war that it had to be almost totally rebuilt. The splendid 66m-long Antiquarium, the oldest part of the palace, is the highlight of the visit. A separate ticket is necessary to see the fabulous treasures of the Schatzkammer (same hours as Residenz; €7, students €6, or €11, students €9 combined with Residenz); the star piece is the dazzling stone-encrusted statuette of St George, made around 1590. Across Odeonsplatz from the Residenz is one of the city's most regal churches, the Theatinerkirche, whose golden-yellow towers and green copper dome add a splash of colour to the roofscape.

Northwest of the Residenz, the grand neo-classicist district around Königsplatz was the centre of Nazi power from the early 1930s and regularly used for mass rallies. Standing on the location of the former Nazi party headquarters, the new Documentation Centre for the History of National Socialism, Brienner Strasse 34 (Tues–Sun 10am–7pm, €5, students €2.50), has an excellent exhibition about Munich's role in the rise and fall of the Nazi movement.

The Deutsches Museum

Munich's most impressive museum – the Deutsches Museum at Museumsinsel 1 (daily 9am–5pm; €11, students €4; deutsches-museum.de) – occupies a midstream island in the Isar, southeast of the centre. Covering every conceivable aspect of scientific and technical endeavour, from historical scientific instruments to the latest medical research, this is the most compendious collection of its type in Germany.

The English Garden

Munich's open central park is a delight to walk around in, especially in the summer. Check out the surfers in the fast-flowing river at the bottom of the garden on Prinzregentenstrasse, walk up for a Hofbräu beer and a sausage in the Chinesischen Turm (daily 10am–11pm), lie naked if you dare in the nudist section in the middle of the garden (west of the stream), or rent a pedalo on the large lake at the top.

North Munich

There are two main attractions a short trip north of the centre: right by U-Bahn Olympiapark, BMW World (Mon–Sat 7.30am–midnight, Sun 9am–midnight; free) is in reality a big showroom for the car giant's latest models but impressive nevertheless, while the BMW museum opposite (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; €10, students €7) has vintage cars and motorcycles on display as well as electric cars and hydrogen engine models. Further north is the futuristic Allianz Arena, home of Bayern Munich and the site of its interesting museum (daily except match days 10am–6pm; €12, students €10; combi ticket including arena tour €19, students €17) where the club's silverware (and goldware) is on display along with photos, mementoes, videos and biographies of their greats.

West Munich

Schloss Nymphenburg (daily: April to mid-Oct 9am–6pm; mid-Oct to March 10am–4pm; €6, students €5, combined ticket for all Nymphenburg sights €11.50, students €9; schloss-nymphenburg.de), the summer residence of the Wittelsbachs, is reached by tram #17 from the train station. Its kernel is a small Italianate palace begun in 1664 for the Electress Adelaide, who dedicated it to the goddess Flora and her nymphs – hence the name.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Munich's airport, Franz Josef Strauss Flughafen (munich-airport.de), 35km north of the city, is connected to the Hauptbahnhof and Marienplatz by S1 and S8 – buy the €12.40 Airport-City-Day-Ticket.

By train The Hauptbahnhof is at the western end of the city centre.

Destinations Berlin (hourly; 6hr 30min); Cologne (1–2 hourly; 5hr); Nuremberg (2 hourly; 1hr); Regensburg (hourly; 1hr 30min); Salzburg (2 hourly; 1hr 45min); Stuttgart (2 hourly; 2hr 15min); Vienna (1–2 hourly; 4hr).

By bus The bus station (ZOB) is on Arnulfstrasse, behind the train station.

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist information At Bahnhofplatz 2 (Mon–Sat 9am–8pm, Sun 10am–6pm; muenchen.de) and in the Neues Rathaus on Marienplatz (Mon–Fri 9.30am–7.30pm, Sat 9am–4pm, Sun 10am–2pm): both can help book rooms. There is also a telephone accommodation line 089 23 39 65 55.

Tours Radius, Arnulfstr. 3 (089 54 34 87 7740, radiustours.com; 3hr bike tour €25), and Mike's Bike Tours, Bräuhäusstr. 10 (089 25 54 39 87, mikesbiketours.com; 4hrs €31), both do fun bike tours around Munich and beyond as well as bike rentals for around €15–20 per day. Both also arrange Neuschwanstein bus tours.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport Regular one-zone tickets cost €2.70 and are valid for 3 hours; a Kurzstrecke short trip ticket valid for up to two S- or U-Bahn stops or four bus or tram stops costs €1.40 (mvv-muenchen.de). Day tickets (€6.40); 3-day tickets (€16); group tickets for up to five people (€12.20/28.20 for 1/3 days).

ACCOMMODATION

The cheap hotel area is south of the station below the length of Bayerstrasse. Accommodation can be hard to find during the Oktoberfest, when prices rocket.

AO Hotel Hostel Bayerstr. 75 089 45 23 57, aohostels.com. Modern hotel-cum-hostel with clean, warm rooms on the large side. Discounts for early bookers. Breakfast €6, sheets €3. Dorms €16, doubles €67.

★ Euro Youth Hotel Senefelderstr. 5 089 59 90 88 11, euro-youth-hotel.de. Good atmosphere and location in an 1880s building with a late-closing bar and friendly staff. Breakfast €4.90. Dorms €17.50, doubles €60.

Meininger City Landsbergerstr. 20 089 55 05 30. Functional, well-managed hotel about 15min from the station. Every room/dorm has shower and WC, while the singles and doubles have a TV. The beer garden is good in the summer. Buffet breakfast included. Dorms €16, doubles €45.

Smart Stay Hostel Munich City Mozartstr. 4 089 558 79 70, smart-stay.de; U-Bahn to Goetheplatz. Welcoming hostel within spitting distance of the Oktoberfest grounds, a 15min walk south from the train station. Breakfast buffet and sheets included. Dorms €15, doubles €89.

Smart Stay Hotel Station Schützenstr. 7 089 552 52 10, smart-stay.de. Good location between the station and the centre, overlooking a pedestrianized street with a terrace in summer. What this clean, basic hotel lacks in charm it makes up for in convenience. Buffet breakfast €6.90. Dorms €20, doubles €79.

Wombat's Senefelderstr. 1 089 59 98 91 80, wombats-hostels.com. Modern, lively and central, with a bright and warm winter garden and friendly staff. There's a great bar, too, with daily happy hours. Breakfast €4.50. Dorms €25, doubles €80.

EATING

A good place to fuel up is the bustling Viktualienmarkt, which has an array of outdoor or stand-up eating options.

★ Andechser am Dom Weinstr. 7a andechser-am-dom.de. Traditional place serving solid Bavarian food and beer from the Andechs monastic brewery. Mains €14.50 and a half-litre of Helles Bier €3.80. Daily 10am–1am.

Gesund & Köstlich Marienplatz 1 gesund-und-koestlich.de. The self-service canteen inside the courtyard of the Neues Rathaus has great-value, freshly cooked lunch deals (from €8) and a pay-by-weight buffet (from €1.50/100g). Mon–Fri 11am–6.30pm, Sat noon–4pm.

★ Guglhupf Kaufingerstr. 5 cafe-guglhupf.de. This cosy café hidden in a courtyard off Kaufingerstrasse is a good budget option. Great selection of salads for €8; schnitzel and chips €10.50 and Apfelstrudel with ice cream for €6.50. Mon–Sat 8am–7pm, Sun 10am–7pm.

Opatija Hochbrückenstr. 3 opatija-restaurant.com. This cosy Croatian and international restaurant serves grilled meat, schnitzel, pasta and pizza at low prices. Simple mains start at €7.50. Daily noon–10pm.

Prinz Myshkin Hackenstr. 2 prinzmyshkin.com. Excellent vegetarian and vegan restaurant serving filling international dishes, such as vegetable curry or chilli con tofu, beneath a high vaulted ceiling. Lunch special €7.50. Daily 11am–12.30am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

The main focus for clubbers is the "Party Banana" semicircle on the inner ring road between Maximilianplatz and Sendlinger Tor. For listings check out the free magazine In München (in German).

Hofbräuhaus Platzl 9 hofbraeuhaus.de. The most famous and touristy of the beer halls, but beer and food prices are reasonable. Mass (1l beer) €8.40, fried sausage €7.90. Daily 9am–11.30pm.

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Ratskeller Marienplatz 8 ☎ 089 219 98 90, ratskeller.com. The labyrinthine cellar of the Neues Rathaus is always full. The food is hearty and good, everything from Weisswurst with bread (€6) to elegant seasonal dishes including game. Two-course lunch menu with drink €15. Daily 10am–1am.

Kilian's Irish Pub am Dom Frauenplatz 11 ☎ kiliansirishpub.com. A popular expat watering hole, with Murphy's Guinness and Kilkenny on tap, massive hamburgers (€11–13) and live music nightly at 8pm. Mon–Thurs 4pm–1am, Fri & Sat 11am–2am, Sun noon–1am.

★ Rock Box Hochbrückenstr. ☎ rockboxbar.de. Lounge-club in a tiny, tried-and-tested venue full of young locals, all eager to practise their English on you. Cocktails from €6.50. DJs on Fri & Sat. Mon–Sat 3pm–late, Sun 7pm–late.

Weisses Bräuhaus Tal 7 ☎ schneider-brauhaus.de. Famous for its Schneider Weissbier (€4.10) and cosier than the Hofbräuhaus. Try the traditional two-sausage breakfast for €2.70, or a roast pork dinner for €9.90. Daily 8am–12.30am.

GAY AND LESBIAN NIGHTLIFE

Munich has a lively and visible gay scene mostly south of the Sendlinger Tor.

NY Club Sonnenstr. 25 ☎ nyclub.de. Munich's top gay club, with lush decor and a great sound system; international DJs play on Sat. Fri 10pm–late, Sat 11pm–late.

Prosecco Theklastr. 1 ☎ prosecco-munich.de. Tiny bar that blends Alpine kitsch with every other variety of decorative excess. The music is a mix of Schlager (schmaltzy German pop) and Eurodisco hits. Thurs–Sat 10pm–late.

DIRECTORY

Consulates Canada, Tal 29 ☎ 089 219 95 70; South Africa, Sendlinger-Tor-Platz 5 ☎ 089 231 16 30; UK, Möhlstr. 5 ☎ 089 21 10 90; US, Königinstr. 5 ☎ 089 288 80.

OKTOBERFEST

The huge Oktoberfest (oktoberfest.de), held on the Theresienwiese fairground for sixteen days following the penultimate Saturday in September, is an orgy of beer drinking spiced up by hairy fairground rides. The event began with a fair held to celebrate a Bavarian royal wedding in October 1810, and it proved so popular that it's been repeated ever since.

Hospital 24hr A&E at Rotkreuz Krankenhaus, Nymphenburger Str. 163 ☎ 089 13 030.

Pharmacy Bahnhofplatz 2, Mon–Fri 7am–8pm, Sat 8am–8pm. For 24hr pharmacies call ☎ 089 59 44 75.

Post office Bahnhofplatz 1 (Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat 9am–4pm).

KZ-GEDENKSTÄTTE DACHAU

On the northern edge of Munich, the town of Dachau was the site of Germany's first concentration camp (daily 9am–5pm; free; English audioguide €3.50, students €2.50; maps free; ☎ kz-gedenkstaette-dachau.de). Many original buildings still stand, including the crematorium and gas chamber; a replica hut gives an idea of the conditions prisoners endured. In the former maintenance building there's a sobering exhibition in English detailing the history of the camp, including graphic colour film shot at liberation. There's also a 22-minute documentary film in English shown five times daily (10am–3pm). Dachau's S-Bahn station is on line S2 from the central station (20min); from the S-Bahn take bus #726 to the KZ-Gedenkstätte stop (Mon–Fri & peak time Sat every 20min, Sun every 40min).

THE BAVARIAN ALPS

It's amid picture-book mountain scenery that you'll find the classic Bavarian folklore and customs, and the Bavarian Alps encompass some of the most famous places in the province, such as the fantasy castle of Neuschwanstein and Hitler's Eagle's Nest near Berchtesgaden. Visit these hotspots outside the July and August peak season and you'll find the crowds less oppressive. Note that the popular resort of Berchtesgaden is more easily accessible from Salzburg (see p.77).

Neuschwanstein and Schloss Hohenschwangau

Lying between the Forggensee reservoir and the Ammer mountains, FÜSSEN and the adjacent town of SCHWANGAU are the bases for visiting Bavaria's two most popular castles. Schloss Hohenschwangau (obligatory guided tours daily: April–Sept

NEUSCHWANSTEIN AND HOHENSCHWANGAU TICKETS

Tickets for both castles must be bought at the ticket centre at Alpestrasse 12, Hohenschwangau village. If you are visiting both castles, you can buy a combination ticket for €23.

5am–5pm; Oct–March 9am–4.30pm; €12; hohenschwangau.de), originally built in the twelfth century but heavily restored in the nineteenth, was where “Mad” King Ludwig II spent his youth. Ludwig’s stamp is firmly imprinted on Schloss Neuschwanstein (guided tours daily: April–Sept 9am–6pm; Oct–March 10am–4pm; €12; neuschwanstein.de), the storybook castle which he had built on a crag overlooking Hohenschwangau. The inspiration for Disneyland’s castle, it’s an architectural hotchpotch with a stunning Byzantine throne hall. Still incomplete at Ludwig’s death, it’s a monument to a sad and lonely character.

ARRIVAL, INFORMATION AND TOURS

By train Take the train to Füssen (hourly from Munich; 2hr) and then bus #73 or #78 to Hohenschwangau.

Tourist information Füssen’s tourist office, Kaiser-Maximilian-Platz 1 (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9.30am–1.30pm, Sun 9.30am–12.30pm; ☎083 629 38 50, fuessen.de), can book accommodation.

Tours Füssen is also the end of the Romantic Road from Würzburg via Augsburg (see box, p.405), served by tour buses in season. You can visit both of the area’s castles in a day; get a Bayern-Ticket for €23, which allows unlimited transport in Bavaria until 3am next day, including city transport in Munich.

ACCOMMODATION

Old King’s Hostel Franziskanergasse 2 ☎083 628 83 73 85, oldkingshostel.com. An intimate design hostel in a medieval building in the old town of Füssen, with individually styled rooms, tours, activities and bike rental. A 7min walk from the train station. Dorms €27, doubles €64

BERCHTESGADEN

Almost entirely surrounded by mountains at Bavaria’s southeastern extremity, the area around BERCHTESGADEN has a magical atmosphere, especially in the mornings, when mists rise from the lakes and swirl around lush valleys and rocky mountainsides.

Unsurprisingly, Berchtesgaden has some great mountain walks to take you away from the summer crowds (the tourist office has maps). Its star attraction, however, is the stunning emerald Königssee, Germany’s highest lake, which bends around the foot of the towering Watzmann mountain (2713m), 5km south of town – regular buses run out here – and there are lake cruises (April–Oct daily 9am–4.15pm; €16 return). The town is also home to an unexpected diversion, the Salzbergwerk, a historic salt mine that’s been refurbished with an hour-long amusement-park-like ride/tour through its underground caverns (tours daily: May–Oct every 10min, 9am–5pm; Nov–April every 25min, 11am–3pm; €16.50; salzbergwerk.de).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus and/or train From Munich you must change trains at Freilassing (1 hourly; 2hr 55min), so it’s quicker and no more costly to take a direct Munich–Salzburg train (1–2 hourly; 1hr 30min), then take a direct bus from Salzburg to Berchtesgaden (hourly; 45min).

Tourist information The tourist office is in the town centre, Maximilianstr. 9 (Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–1pm & 2–6pm; ☎086 52 94 45 300, berchtesgaden.de).

ACCOMMODATION

DJH Berchtesgaden Struberberg 6 ☎086 529 43 70, berchtesgaden.jugendherberge.de. Berchtesgaden’s youth hostel is in the Strub district west of the town centre and has views of the Watzmann massif. Breakfast included. Dorms €22.40, doubles €50.80

HITLER’S HIDEOUT

Berchtesgaden is indelibly associated with Adolf Hitler, who rented a house in the nearby village of Obersalzberg, which he later enlarged into the Berghof, a stately retreat where he could meet foreign dignitaries. High above the village, Hitler’s Kehlsteinhaus, or “Eagle’s Nest”, survives as a restaurant, and can be reached by bus and lift from Obersalzberg (mid-May to late-Oct daily 8.30am–4pm; €16.10 bus and lift return ticket; kehlsteinhaus.de).

Haus Achenal Ramsauer Strasse 4 📞086 52 45 49, gaestehaus-achental.de. A friendly alternative to the youth hostel, located close to the station, this is a large, typically Bavarian family hotel complete with hanging geraniums on balconies. Breakfast included. Doubles €60

REGENSBURG

The undisturbed medieval ensemble of central REGENSBURG, stunningly located on the banks of the Danube midway between Nuremberg and Munich, can easily be visited as a day-trip, but it makes a tempting overnight stop too. Getting lost in the web of cobbled medieval lanes with patrician palaces and towers, nursing a drink in one of the sunny squares or cycling along the Danube are the main draws here. It's also a university city, with a lively nightlife scene for its size.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

A good place to start is the 336m-long, twelfth-century Steinerne Brücke, the only secured crossing along the entire length of the Danube at the time it was built. At the southern end of the bridge, a medieval salt barn houses the World Heritage Exhibition (daily 10am–7pm; free), which relates the history of the town via modern media installations. It's here that you purchase tickets to climb the adjoining Brückturm (same times; €2.50), the last survivor of the bridge's watchtowers, for excellent views of the old town and river. Just south, the Gothic Dom, St Peter's (daily: April, May & Oct 6.30am–6pm; June–Sept 6.30am–7pm; Nov–March 6.30am–5pm), begun in 1273, has some beautiful fourteenth-century stained-glass windows. Regensburg's medieval Alte Rathaus contains the magnificent fourteenth-century Gothic Reichssaal, which was, from 1663 to 1806, the fixed venue for the imperial Diet or Reichstag of the Holy Roman Empire. It can now be visited as part of the Reichstagsmuseum (guided tours in English daily: April–Oct 3pm; Nov, Dec & March 2pm; €7.50, students €4). There's also a prison and torture chamber in the basement. In the southern part of the Altstadt is Schloss Thurn und Taxis (guided tours in English July to mid-Sept daily 1.30pm; €13.50; thurnundtaxi.de), one of the largest inhabited palaces in Europe, occupying the converted monastic buildings of the abbey of St Emmeram.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Maximilianstrasse leads straight from the train station north to the centre.

Destinations Munich (hourly; 1hr 33min); Nuremberg (hourly; 1hr); Vienna (every 2hr; 4hr).

Tourist information Tourist office at Rathausplatz 4 (April–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–4pm, Sun 9.30am–4pm; Nov–March Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–4pm, Sun 9.30am–2.30pm; 📞0941 507 44 10, regensburg.de) hands out free city maps.

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bike rental from Bikehaus, Bahnhofstr. 18 (Mon–Sat 10am–7pm, 📞0941 599 88 08; €13/24hr), on the left as you leave the Hauptbahnhof on the northern (Altstadt) side.

ACCOMMODATION

Brook Lane Hostel Obere Bachgasse 21 📞094 16 90 09 66, hostel-regensburg.de. Independently run hostel in the Altstadt, with accommodation in snug dorms or spartan singles and doubles. Open 24hr. Dorms €16, doubles €50
Jugendherberge Regensburg Wöhrdstr. 60 📞094 14 66 28 30, regensburg.jugendherberge.de. DJH youth hostel on an island in the Danube, within easy walking distance of the Altstadt. Breakfast included. Dorms €28

EATING AND DRINKING

Brauhaus am Schloss Waffnergasse 6 📞brauhaus-am-schloss.com. The Thurn und Taxis' Brauhaus, with a copper microbrewery behind the bar, a shady beer garden and own-brew Helles, Marstall Dunkell and Braumeister Weisse beers. Light meals from €6, main courses from €10. Mon–Fri 11am–midnight, Sat & Sun 10am–midnight.
Dicker Mann Krebsgasse 6 📞dicker-mann.de. Vine-covered and candlelit café-restaurant on an alley off Haidplatz serving delicious, good-value meals, with breakfast from €4 and dinner specials from around €8. Daily 9.30am–1am.

★Spitalgarten St. Katharinenplatz 1 📞garten.spital.de. Traditional brewhouse and Biergarten with 10 different beers and great city views from the northern end of the bridge. Schweinebraten €9, lighter meals around €6. Daily 10am–11pm.

Wurstkuchl Thundorfer Str. 3. Next to the Steinerne Brücke and looking like somewhere a hobbit might cook, this 500-year-old institution was originally the stonemasons' and dock workers' kitchen and has a menu dominated by delicious Regensburg sausages (plate of 6 €9). Daily 9am–7pm.

war-crime trials. Yet all this infamy is a world away from the friendly, bustling city of today. Nuremberg's relaxed air makes a day spent exploring its half-timbered houses, fine museums and beer halls hard to beat.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Meticulous postwar rebuilding means you'd never guess that World War II bombs reduced ninety percent of Nuremberg's centre to rubble. The reconstructed medieval core is surrounded by ancient city walls and neatly bisected by the River Pegnitz. The most charming original streets lie at the western end of the city centre.

The Kaiserburg

The Kaiserburg (imperial castle; guided tours daily: April–Sept 9am–6pm; Oct–March 10am–4pm; €7, students €6; Palas and museum only €5.50, students €4.50; tower and well only €3.50, students €2.50), which forms the northwest corner of the medieval fortifications, was where Holy Roman Emperors held their “Reichstag” or imperial diet. Inside are the impressive thirteenth-century Palas castle halls and chapel, and the castle museum, while in the courtyard are the Tiefer Brunnen – the castle's 47m-deep well – and the Sinwellturm tower for views of the city.

The Germanisches Nationalmuseum

The sprawling Germanisches Nationalmuseum, Kartäusergasse 1 (Tues & Thurs–Sun 10am–6pm, Wed 10am–9pm; €8, students €5; gnm.de), presents the country's cultural history through its large, important collection of artefacts and art from German central Europe, from the Bronze Age to the present. Look out for the first globe, made by Martin Behaim in 1492 – just before Columbus “discovered” America.

The Fascination and Terror exhibition

The Nazi Party rallies were held on the Zeppelin and March fields in the suburb of Luitpoldhain. Here, the gargantuan but never-completed Congress Hall houses the Documentation Centre Nazi

NUREMBERG

In many minds, the medieval town of NUREMBERG (Nürnberg) conjures up images of the Nazi rallies, the 1935 “Nuremberg Laws” which deprived Jews of their citizenship and forbade them relations with Gentiles, and then the Party Rally Grounds (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; €5, students €3; ☎museen.nuernberg.de; tram #9 to Doku-Zentrum), an unmissable multimedia exhibition documenting the history and significance of the rally grounds, and the Nazis' ruthless misuse of propaganda and power.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The driverless U2 metro connects Nürnberg airport with the train station (every 10–12min; 13min).

By train The Hauptbahnhof is just outside the southern edge of the city walls; follow Königstrasse into the centre. Destinations Berlin (every 30min–1hr 30min; 5hr); Frankfurt (every 30min–1hr; 2hr 10min); Munich (every 30min; 1hr 10min); Regensburg (hourly; 55min); Vienna (every 2hr; 4hr 40min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information At Königstrasse 93 opposite the Hauptbahnhof (Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–4pm; ☎091 12 33 60, ☎tourismus-nuernberg.de), plus smaller office at Hauptmarkt 18 (Mon–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–4pm).

Discount pass The Nürnberg Card (€25/2 days) includes public transport plus entrance to museums.

GETTING AROUND

By public transport There are S- and U-Bahn trains, trams and buses; a one-way trip costs €3, a 1-day (Mon–Fri) or 2-day weekend ticket costs €7.70.

By bike Nuremberg's NorisBike rental network (☎norisbike.de) is linked to the Nextbike scheme, with dozens of rental points across the city.

ACCOMMODATION

Five Reasons Frauentormauer 42 ☎0911 99 28 66 25, ☎five-reasons.de. Neat and spacious new hostel and hotel with nicely designed communal spaces at the southern edge of the Altstadt. Dorms €18, doubles €69
Jugendherberge Nürnberg Burg 2 ☎091 12 30 93 60, ☎kaiserstallung-nuernberg.de; ☎2 to Rathenauplatz, then bus #36 to Burgstrasse. The DJH hostel has a wonderful location in the massive fifteenth-century imperial stables next to the Kaiserburg, overlooking the Altstadt, a 25min walk from the Hauptbahnhof. Dorms €31, doubles €87

Pension Vater Jahn-Parma Jahnstr. 13 ☎091 144 45 07, ☎hotel-vaterjahn-parma.de. Immaculate and friendly guesthouse just south of the Opernhaus on the other side of the railway tracks, close to the Hauptbahnhof and Altstadt. Doubles €50

EATING AND DRINKING

There are plenty of snack stops in the pedestrian shopping zone and at the Hauptbahnhof; bars and cafés are scattered throughout the Altstadt.

Barfüsser Hallplatz 2. This popular beer hall in the cavernous cellars of the huge Mauthalle warehouse brews its own beer (€2.60) and serves good food. Daily specials from €8; six Rostbratwurst €7. Daily 11am–1am.

Bratwurst Herzle Brunnengasse 11. A bit less obviously tourist-oriented than other options, Herzle is a great place for sampling Nuremberg's mini-sausages. Six Bratwürste plus a dollop of potato salad will set you back just €7.70. Mon–Sat 11am–10pm.

Hannemann Johannesgasse 22. A cosy bar with retro decor and good vibes, just off Königstrasse. It serves craft beers, wine and long drinks from €7. Tues–Thurs 7pm–1am, Fri & Sat 7pm–2am.

Mach 1 Kaiserstr. 1–9 ☎macheins.club.de. Stylish club with a main floor that pumps out house and electro sounds, plus a futuristic tunnel and a more intimate lounge area. Fri & Sat 11pm–4am.

★Treibhaus Karl-Grillenberger-Str. 28 ☎cafetreibhaus.de. Refreshingly out of the way yet still in the Altstadt, (close to ☎Weisser Turm) this hip café-bar serves from morning to night, with breakfasts from €5, pancakes and light meals from €6, and cocktails from €5. Mon–Wed 9am–1am, Thurs–Sat 9am–2am, Sun 9.30am–1am.

ROTHENBURG OB DER TAUBER

The Romantic Road (see box, p.405) winds its way along the length of western Bavaria, running through the most visited – and most beautiful – medieval town in Germany, ROTHENBURG OB DER TAUBER. In a fairytale location, it's besieged by tour groups during the day, so spend the night – or at least an evening – to appreciate it in relative peace.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The views of the surrounding countryside from the fourteenth-century town walls

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Gideon Königstrasse 45 ☎0911 660 09 70, ☎gideonhotels.de. Modern and comfortable budget, boutique-style hotel with a rooftop terrace in the Altstadt, close to the train station. There's an excellent buffet breakfast (€10), too. Doubles €99 are magnificent, but Rothenburg's true charms lie among its medieval houses and cobbled streets.

Marktplatz and St Jakobs-Kirche

The focus of the Altstadt is the sloping Marktplatz, dominated by the arcaded front of the Renaissance Rathaus; the narrow, 60m tower of the Altes Rathaus (April–Oct daily 9.30am–12.30pm & 1–5pm; Nov & Jan–March Sat & Sun noon–3pm; Dec Mon–Thurs & Sun 10.30am–2pm & 2.30–6pm, Fri & Sat 10.30am–2pm & 2.30–8pm; €2) provides the best views. The other main attractions on the Marktplatz are the mechanical figures on the facade of the Ratsherrntrinkstube. Eight times a day these figures re-enact an episode in which former mayor Nusch allegedly saved Protestant Rothenburg from the wrath of Catholic General Tilly during the Thirty Years' War, by downing three litres of wine in one go. Northwest of the Marktplatz is the impressive Gothic St Jakobs-Kirche (daily: April–Oct 9am–5pm; Nov & Jan–March 10am–noon & 2–4pm; Dec 10am–4.45pm; €2), with the exquisite Heilig-Blut-Altar, a masterpiece of woodcarving by Tilman Riemenschneider, tucked away on an upper level.

The Mittelalterliches Kriminalmuseum

Of the local museums, the most interesting is the Mittelalterliches

Kriminalmuseum at Burggasse 3–5 (daily: Nov–March 1–4pm; April–Oct 10am–6pm; €7, students €4; www.kriminalmuseum.eu), which contains collections of medieval torture instruments and related objects, such as the beer barrels that drunks were forced to walk around in.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train From the station, a 10min walk east of the centre, head left on Bahnhofstr., then right on Ansbacherstr., which takes you straight through Röder city gate.

Destinations Würzburg (hourly; 1hr 10min).

Tourist information Tourist office in the Ratsherrntrinkstube on Marktplatz (May–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; Nov–April Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 10am–1pm; ☎09861 404 800, www.rothenburg.de).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

DJH Mühlackner 1 ☎098 619 41 60, www.rothenburg.jugendherberge.de. A short walk from the train station and the town centre, this hostel is housed in two beautifully restored buildings and a modern annexe off the bottom of Spitalgasse. Dorms €23

Gästehaus Raidel Wenggasse 3 ☎098 61 31 15, www.gaestehaus-raidel.de. Located in a wonderfully creaky 600-year-old building, this guesthouse oozes character, with lots of antiques and a feeling of yesteryear. Doubles €69

Roter Hahn Obere Schmiedgasse 21 ☎098 61 97 40 www.roterhahn.com. Franconian regional specialities are served up in the historic setting of a fourteenth-century inn, with main courses from €12. Daily 11am–11pm. Doubles €89

QUIRAING, ISLE OF SKYE

Great Britain

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ The British Museum Arguably the world's finest museum. See p.424
- ❷ Bath Regency and Roman splendour in England's most beautiful city. See p.443
- ❸ York Medieval city bursting with bars and bistros. See p.467
- ❹ Hiking Wales Dream-like hikes from the Brecon Beacons to Snowdonia. See p.476 & p.478
- ❺ Edinburgh Festival The world's biggest arts festival. See p.481
- ❻ Scotland's islands Otherworldly landscapes and wonderful hospitality. See p.493

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.417

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €60, occasional treat €85

Drink Lager €5

Food Fish and chips €11

Hostel/budget hotel €27/€80–100

Travel Train: London–Brighton €25–35; bus: London–Manchester €10–40

FACT FILE

Population 64 million (includes Northern Ireland)

Language English

Currency Pound sterling (£)

Capital London

International phone code 0044

Time zone GMT

13 Introduction

A famous British newspaper headline in the 1950s declared: “Fog in Channel, Continent Cut Off”. Britain’s outlook on the world has always been unique, born of its status as an island nation on the western edge of Europe. And yet within this compact territory there’s not just one country but three – England, Wales and Scotland – and a multitude of cultural identities: God forbid you should call a Scot or a Welshman English.

London, the capital, is the one place that features on everyone’s itinerary. Brighton and Canterbury offer contrasting diversions – the former a lively seaside resort, the latter one of Britain’s finest medieval cities. The south-west of England holds the rugged moorlands of Devon, the rocky coastline of Cornwall, and the historic spa city of Bath, while the chief attractions of central England are the university cities of Oxford and Cambridge, and Shakespeare’s home town Stratford-upon-Avon. Further north, the former industrial cities of Manchester, Liverpool and Newcastle are lively, rejuvenated places, and York has splendid historical treasures, but the landscape, especially the uplands of the Lake District, is the biggest magnet. For true wilderness, head to the Welsh mountains or Scottish Highlands. The finest of Scotland’s lochs, glens and peaks, and the magnificent scenery of the West Coast islands, can be reached easily from Glasgow and Edinburgh – the latter perhaps Britain’s most attractive urban landscape.

CHRONOLOGY

54 BC The Romans attack Britannia but are forced back until a successful invasion in 43 AD.

1066 AD Duke William II of Normandy defeats the last Anglo-Saxon ruler, King Harold II, at the Battle of Hastings.

1215 The Magna Carta forms the basis upon which English law is built.

1301 Edward I conquers Wales, giving his heir the title Prince of Wales.

1534 Henry VIII breaks with the Catholic Church. The Head of State becomes Head of the Church of England.

1603 King James VI of Scotland also becomes James I of England in the Union of the Crowns.

1653–58 A brief period of republicanism under Oliver Cromwell, following the English Civil War.

1707 The Act of Union unites the parliaments of Scotland and England, with the addition of Ireland in 1800.

1800s The Industrial Revolution helps Britain to expand her empire and become a dominant world force.

1914–18 Britain fights in World War I.

1928 Women attain full suffrage after a hard-fought campaign.

1939–45 Britain fights in World War II. London and other major centres are heavily bombed during the Blitz.

1947 Indian independence from British rule heralds the gradual demise of the British Empire.

1960s The Beatles sing their way through the swinging sixties.

1979 Margaret Thatcher becomes Britain’s first female prime minister.

1998 Devolution in Scotland and Wales.

2005 On July 7 London is rocked by terrorist bombings, leaving 52 dead.

2012 London hosts the Olympics.

2016 The UK holds a referendum and narrowly votes to leave the European Union.

“Great Britain”, or just “Britain”, is a geographical term encompassing England, Scotland and Wales, including their islands. However, it can also be used politically, in the context of central government, “British” nationals, or for national teams at sporting events such as the Olympics, in which case it includes Northern Ireland. “United Kingdom” is a political term, referring to the sovereign state of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. In this guide Northern Ireland is covered with the rest of the island in the Ireland chapter.

BY TRAIN

Having suffered decades of chronic under-investment, the British train network is slowly beginning to improve, though fares remain high. Cheap tickets do exist, but the bafflingly complicated pricing system makes them hard to find, and they can only be obtained (sometimes far) in advance. Avoid rush hours, and if you're booking online be prepared to make several attempts – trying again even an hour later can make cheap tickets appear (or disappear) seemingly at random, while often it's the same price (and occasionally cheaper) to buy a return ticket. National Rail Enquiries (☎0845 748 4950, 🌐nationalrail.co.uk) has details of all train services including online booking. Megabus (🌐uk.megabus.com) is worth checking separately as they run Megatrains too, from £1, but with limited routes.

If you're under 26 or a full-time student, you can get a third off all rail tickets (except some early-morning services) by purchasing a 16–25 Railcard from any train station (though not at Heathrow airport), or apply online. You'll need a photo and proof of your age or student status. The card costs £30 and is valid for a year. Adding the railcard to your Oyster card (see box, p.430) in London also gets you a 34 percent discount on off-peak daily price caps. European travellers (excluding British residents) are also eligible for an InterRail Great Britain Pass (🌐interrailnet.com; see p.430). Prices start from £118/£157 for three days' train travel in one month for under/over-25s.

BY BUS

Long-distance buses are referred to as coaches in Britain. Services between cities are frequent and cheaper than trains, though long journeys take considerably longer: National Express (☎08717 818178, 🌐nationalexpress.com) serve the most routes. If you are student or under 26 you can buy a National Express Coachcard (£10), which gives up to thirty percent off standard fares, or their BritXplorer Pass offering unlimited travel for £79 for seven days, £139 for two weeks and £219 for 28 days for all ages. Megabus (🌐uk.megabus.com) is generally the cheapest coach operator; the cheap seats go fast, so book ahead. Local bus services are run by an array of companies, and there are very few rural areas that aren't served by at least the occasional minibus.

You can also see Britain via guided tours; Haggis Adventures (🌐haggisadventures.com) and Backpacker Tours (🌐backpackertours.co.uk) offer a wealth of budget options.

BY BIKE

Cyclists are reasonably well catered for in Britain. Routes are marked as part of the National Cycle Network, which crisscrosses the country – you can find a map of them all at 🌐cyclestreets.net. Ordnance Survey Landranger maps, available in tourist offices and outdoor shops, also mark some routes, as well as footpaths and minor roads. Many cities now have some cycle lanes, which are often shared with buses and taxis.

Bikes can generally be taken on trains, though not on all London underground trains (see 🌐tfl.gov.uk for details of when and where you can take a bike), and there is usually a limit on how many bikes can be taken on each train. Some train companies may charge you and/or require you to book in advance. National Express coaches only take bikes if they can fold and are bagged. Folded bikes are accepted on London buses.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation in Britain is expensive and it's a good idea to reserve in advance. Britain has an extensive network of HI hostels operated by the Youth Hostel Association (🌐yha.org.uk for England and Wales; 🌐syha.org.uk for Scotland). A bed for the night with YHA can cost as little as £13, but in cities expect to pay up to £29. YHA membership (£15/year) will save you £3 per night. Most places of interest also have at least one independent hostel, which will generally be of a comparable standard and price but often more centrally located.

In tourist cities it's hard to find a double room in a hotel for less than £70 a night, though there are a few cheaper chain hotels, which offer special deals: Premier Inn (@premierinn.com) sometimes offer identikit rooms from £29, while Travelodge (@travelodge.co.uk) can be as low as £25 per room. EasyHotel (@easyhotel.com) have small rooms decked out in their signature orange; London rooms start at £31, Edinburgh rooms from £28. A nicer option for budget accommodation, and often cheaper outside London (particularly if you're on your own), are guesthouses and B&Bs – usually a comfortable room in a family home, plus a substantial breakfast – starting at around £30 a head: tourist offices often have a list of nearby accredited B&Bs. Airbnb (@airbnb.com), too, is an excellent way of staying with locals – it tends to be cheaper than a regular B&B and is widespread across the country.

There are more than 750 official campsites in Britain, charging from around £6 per person. Camping wild in England and Wales requires the landowner's permission, while in Scotland it is mostly legal as long as you're unobtrusive and leave the site as you found it.

FOOD AND DRINK

Long lampooned as a culinary wasteland, Britain has seen a transformation in both the quality and variety of its restaurants over the past two decades. Modern British cuisine – in effect anything inventive – has been at the core of this change, though wherever you go you'll find places serving Indian, Italian and Chinese food, and often plenty of other international cuisines. If you're on a tight budget, the temptation is still to head for the nearest fast-food joint or one of the ubiquitous sandwich chains, but with a little effort, alternatives can easily be found, with even higher-end establishments often offering reasonably priced lunchtime or early-evening deals.

Wherever you stay you'll almost certainly be offered an "English breakfast" – basically eggs, bacon, sausage, and any combination of fried or grilled sides such as tomatoes, mushrooms, black pudding, bread and baked beans; you'll also be given the option of cereal, toast and fruit. Every major town will have upmarket restaurants and so-called gastropubs serving daintily presented cuisine, but traditional British cooking – the mainstay of pub food – is hearty and filling. Typical dishes include the quintessential fish and chips, steak and kidney pie, shepherd's pie (minced lamb topped with mashed potato), and – mainly on Sundays – roast dinners, served with roast potatoes, veg and (particularly with beef) Yorkshire pudding, made from savoury batter. Britain is one of Europe's better countries for vegetarians, and wherever you eat there'll always be at least one veggie choice.

DRINK

Drinking traditionally takes place in the pub, where you can buy draught beer (sold by the pint or half-pint), wine, bottled beer and spirits. Despite the popularity of cold, fizzy lager, traditional British beer, known as real ale or bitter, is undergoing something of a renaissance; richer and often darker than lager, and served at cellar temperature rather than chilled, it comes in thousands of varieties. In England pubs are generally open Monday to Saturday from 11am to 11pm, and on Sunday from noon to 10.30pm (though many places may open longer at weekends); hours are often longer in Scotland, while Sunday closing is common in Wales.

In Scotland, the national drink is whisky. The best – and most expensive – are single malts, best drunk neat or with a splash of water to release the flavour.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Famed for their stiff upper lip and polite reticence, the British tend to be more reserved than many of their continental counterparts. Possibly the most cosmopolitan place in Europe – in the larger cities anyway – Britain has developed a reputation for liberal tolerance and benefits from a diverse range of faiths, creeds and colours.

Tipping is expected (if not mandatory) in restaurants; around ten percent of the total is the norm. Technically this is optional, though you will be frowned at if you ask for it to be removed. It is not necessary to tip bar staff at bars and pubs.

13 SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Football (soccer) is a British obsession. “The beautiful game” was codified here in 1863, and seeing a match is a must for any sports fan, though it can be extremely difficult and costly to acquire tickets for Premier League games: you’ll have more luck with lower-league clubs, such as Fulham, in London (fulhamfc.com). Rugby and cricket, though popular, do not generally inspire the same fervent tribalism as football, and consequently can offer a more relaxed spectator experience. You can turn up and buy tickets on the day for domestic matches at Lord’s cricket ground in London (lords.org) during the season (April–Sept). Tennis fans make a beeline for the world-famous championships at Wimbledon (wimbledon.com): it’s not cheap and tickets are very difficult to come by, but if you are prepared to queue, you can see some great matches on the outside courts for around £25.

Britain’s diverse geography and geology, with access to large bodies of fresh and salt water, mean that venues for outdoor pursuits are easily accessible. Walking is one of the finest ways to see the country, and an excellent infrastructure of long-distance footpaths crisscrosses Britain (walkingbritain.co.uk). The uplands of Wales (visitwales.co.uk/active), Scotland (active.visitscotland.com) and the English Lake District (golakes.co.uk) are particularly good for hiking, climbing and watersports, while Devon and Cornwall (visitsouthwest.co.uk) have the best surfing in the UK.

COMMUNICATIONS

Wi-fi is ubiquitous, and free access is offered at most accommodation, including hostels. Post offices open

BRITAIN ONLINE

visitbritain.com Official tourist board site with links to regional sites.

streetmap.co.uk Detailed UK street maps.

Monday to Friday 9am to 5.30pm, and some open on Saturday 9am to noon. Of the few remaining public phones, most take phonecards, which can be bought from post offices and newsagents, or credit cards. For the operator, call 0100 (domestic) or 155 (international). Increasingly, European mobile phones can be used in the UK at no extra charge (including data packages).

EMERGENCIES

Tourists aren’t a particular target for criminals except in crowds in big cities, where you should be on your guard against pickpockets. Britain’s bigger conurbations all contain areas where you may feel uneasy after dark, but these are usually away from tourist sights.

For health complaints that require immediate attention, go to the emergency department of the local hospital (known as A&E). These are run by the National Health Service (NHS; nhs.uk to find your nearest) and will be free at the time of treatment, though depending on your country (some have mutual agreements with Britain) you may get billed later. For minor injuries you can also use NHS walk-in clinics.

Pharmacies dispense only a limited range of drugs without a doctor’s prescription. Most are open standard shop hours, though in large towns there may be ones that stay open late or even 24hr.

INFORMATION

Tourist offices exist in virtually every British town, offering information and a basic range of maps. National parks (nationalparks.gov.uk) also have their own information centres, which are better for guidance on outdoor pursuits. The most comprehensive series of maps is produced by the Ordnance Survey (ordnancesurvey.co.uk) – essential if you’re planning serious hiking.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Police, fire and ambulance 999 or 112.

MONEY AND BANKS

The pound sterling (£), divided into 100 pence, remains the national currency. There are coins of 1p, 2p, 5p, 10p, 20p, 50p, £1 and £2; and notes of £5, £10, £20 and £50; notes issued by Scottish banks are legal tender but sometimes not accepted south of the border. At the time of writing, £1 was worth €1.20 and $1.47. Normal banking hours are Monday to Friday 9.30am to 5pm, though some branches also open on Saturday mornings. ATMs accept a wide range of debit and credit cards: freestanding ATMs usually charge around £2 to take money out on top of your bank charges, so use one attached to a bank. Shops, hotels, restaurants and most other places readily accept credit cards for payment.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

General shop hours are Monday to Saturday 9am to 5.30/6pm, although many places in big towns are also open Sunday (usually 11am–5pm in England and Wales, longer in Scotland) and until 7/8pm – or later – at least once a week, often on a Thursday. Public holidays are: January 1, January 2 (Scotland only), Good Friday, Easter Monday (not Scotland), first Monday and last Monday in May, last Monday in August, St Andrew's Day (Nov 30, or nearest Mon if weekend; Scotland only), Christmas Day and Boxing Day (Dec 25 & 26) – though in practice it's only on January 1, January 2 (Scotland only) and Christmas Day that everything shuts down; on other holidays, many shops in larger towns and cities – as well as nearly all sights – remain open.

London

With a population of around 8.5 million, LONDON sprawls over an area of more than 600 square miles either side of the River Thames. The city exudes an undeniable buzz of success; it is where the country's news, art and money are made, the pace of life is fast and there's always something new and exciting happening.

Living costs are high here – accommodation and transport are among the most expensive in the world – but Londoners put up with this precisely because there is just so much to see and do here, much of it free.

Skip exorbitantly priced palaces in favour of London's (mostly free) world-class museums and galleries, and be sure to visit at least a couple of the outdoor spaces; London is one of the world's greenest cities, with many parks, cemeteries and canals to explore. London's famous department stores and unbeat weekend markets offer limitless shopping, while its cultural scene caters for all tastes and budgets, churning out everything from epic theatre productions to experimental live music. London's multicultural society means that there is an unparalleled variety of cuisine, too, often very affordable.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The majority of sights are north of the River Thames, and a good place to start is the political and regal centre; the area around Whitehall, with Trafalgar Square at one end, Parliament Square at the other and Buckingham Palace off to the side.

Trafalgar Square and the National Gallery

Trafalgar Square's focal point is Nelson's Column, featuring the one-eyed admiral who died defeating the French at the 1805 Battle of Trafalgar. Extending across the north side of the square is the National Gallery (daily 10am–6pm, Fri till 9pm; free; nationalgallery.org.uk), one of the world's great art collections. Masterpieces include paintings by Raphael, Michelangelo, Da Vinci and Rembrandt, along with Van Gogh's Sunflowers and Seurat's Bathers at Asnières. Round the side of the National Gallery, in St Martin's Place, is the fascinating National Portrait Gallery (daily 10am–6pm, Thurs & Fri till 9pm; free; npg.org.uk), which houses images of the great and good, from Hans Holbein's larger-than-life drawing of Henry VIII to Sam Taylor-Wood's video portrait of David Beckham.

LONDON

ACCOMMODATION

Aviva Studio Apartments	8	Ridgemount Hotel	5
Clink78	3	Russell's	2
Generator	4	St Christopher's Inns	7
Meininger Hyde Park	9	Stylotel	6
Palmer's Lodge		Travel Joy	10
Swiss Cottage	1

13 Covent Garden

A minute or so's walk northeast of Trafalgar Square between Shaftesbury Avenue and the Strand is Covent Garden, a lively area centred around an early seventeenth-century piazza and nineteenth-century market hall, which housed the city's principal fruit and vegetable market until the late 1970s. The structure is now full of boutiques, stalls and quirky, arty shops, while buskers perform in front of Inigo Jones's classical St Paul's Church. Across Long Acre from the station is Neal Street and the Seven Dials, both lined with shops, bars and restaurants.

The British Museum

A short walk from the northern end of Neal Street near Holborn tube station is the magnificent British Museum, Great Russell Street (daily 10am–5.30pm, Fri till 8.30pm; free; britishmuseum.org), one of the world's great museums. Inside, Norman Foster's glass-and-steel covered Great Court surrounds the Round Reading Room, where Karl Marx penned Das Kapital. The museum houses some four million exhibits from around the world, with gems such as the Easter Island moai, an exceptional, turquoise-inlaid Aztec skull, Chinese porcelain and Britain's own Neolithic remains. The Roman and Greek antiquities are second to none, and include the Parthenon Sculptures – taken by Lord Elgin in 1801 and still the cause of discord between the British and Greek governments – while the museum's other most famous exhibit is the Rosetta Stone, which led to the modern understanding of hieroglyphics. High-profile exhibitions take place throughout the year (ticket prices vary).

Buckingham Palace

The tree-lined sweep of The Mall runs from Trafalgar Square southwest through Admiralty Arch, flanked by St James's Park on the left and on to Buckingham Palace (State Rooms daily: late July to Aug 9.15am–7.45pm, last admission 5.15pm; Sept 9.15am–6.45pm, last admission 4.15pm; adult/student £21.50/19.60; royalcollection.org.uk), which has served as the monarch's

THE LONDON PASS

Many of London's major attractions come with whopping entry costs, so

The London Pass (1/2/3/6-day £59/79/95/129; londonpass.com) may save you money. It provides free entrance to around 60 sights, including major attractions like London Zoo, the Tower of London and St Paul's Cathedral, as well as allowing you fast-track entrance and giving extras like audioguides at galleries, and a free bus tour and river cruise. It can also be used as an Oyster card (see box, p.430) by adding the public transport option.

permanent residence since the accession of Queen Victoria in 1837. The building's exterior, last remodelled in 1913, is pretty bland, but it's actually the rear of the Palace: the much finer front overlooks the monarch's garden. When Buckingham Palace is closed, many mill about outside the gates to catch the Changing of the Guard (April–July daily at 11.30am), while over on the other side of St James's Park, the Horse Guards stage a more elaborate equestrian ceremony (Mon–Sat at 11am, Sun 10am). From Buckingham Palace you can retrace your steps to go down Whitehall towards Westminster, or head west through Green Park to Hyde Park Corner.

Whitehall and Westminster

Whitehall, flanked by government buildings, leads off south from Trafalgar Square towards the area known as Westminster, the country's political seat of power for nearly 1000 years. The original White Hall was a palace built for King Henry VIII, but a fire in 1698 meant subsequent monarchs had to move to St James's Palace (closed to the public), just off The Mall. Off to the west side of Whitehall is Downing Street, where No. 10 has been the residence of the prime minister since 1732.

The Houses of Parliament

Clearly visible at the south end of Whitehall is London's finest Gothic Revival building, the Palace of Westminster, better known as the Houses of Parliament. It is distinguished above all by the ornate, gilded clock tower popularly known as Big Ben, after the thirteen-ton bell that it houses. The original royal palace, built by Edward the Confessor in the eleventh century, burnt down in 1834. The only part to survive is the magnificent Westminster Hall, which can be glimpsed en route to the public galleries from which you can watch parliament's proceedings (check parliament is in session; queue 1–2hr before session starts outside the Cromwell Green visitor entrance; free; parliament.uk); guided tours (£25.50) can also be booked on the website.

13 Westminster Abbey

The Houses of Parliament overshadow their much older neighbour, Westminster Abbey (Mon–Fri 9.30am–3.30pm, Wed until 6pm, Sat 9.30am–1.30pm, Sun for worship only; adult/student £20/17; www.westminster-abbey.org). Encompassing the grand sweep of England's history, the abbey has been the venue for all but two coronations since William the Conqueror, and many of the nation's monarchs, together with some of its most celebrated citizens, are interred here; of particular note is Poets' Corner, where the likes of Chaucer, Tennyson and Charles Dickens are buried. More recently, the abbey was the venue chosen for the 2011 wedding of Prince William and Kate Middleton, now the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge. The new Queen's Diamond Jubilee Galleries are due to open in 2018.

Hyde Park

Central London's largest green space, Hyde Park is made up of manicured gardens, forest-like glades and shaded nature zones. In the middle of the park is The Serpentine, a lake with a popular lido; the nearby Serpentine Gallery (daily 10am–6pm; free; www.serpentinegallery.org) hosts excellent contemporary art exhibitions. In the northeast corner of the park, towards Marble Arch, Speakers' Corner has long been associated with public free speech, as well as the famous British eccentricity. Anyone can turn up to discourse on whatever subject they choose, as Orwell and Lenin once did; Sunday is the best day to hear impassioned oratory.

Exhibition Road

From the southwest corner of Hyde Park, Exhibition Road leads to an excellent trio of free museums. The visually striking, interactive Science Museum (daily 10am–6pm, closes 7pm on summer weekends; www.sciencemuseum.org.uk) has exhibitions on space exploration, the industrial age and medicine through the ages, with inventions ranging from Crick and Watson's DNA model to Puffing Billy, the world's oldest surviving steam train, plus ways to convert waste matter into energy, and more. Further south on Cromwell Road, a distinctive German Romanesque building designed by Alfred Waterhouse in the 1880s houses the Natural History Museum (daily 10am–5.50pm, last Fri of the month closes 10.30pm; www.nhm.ac.uk), dedicated to mammals, birds and evolution. It contains the famous Dinosaur Gallery, the state-of-the-art Darwin Centre housing over twenty million biological specimens, and a section on volcanoes and earthquakes accessed by an atmospheric escalator: there are also special exhibitions on the likes of space photography (extra charge).

In terms of sheer variety and scale, the nearby Victoria and Albert Museum (Mon–Thurs, Sat & Sun 10am–5.45pm, Fri 10am–10pm; www.vam.ac.uk) is the greatest museum of applied arts in the world, with five floors of treasures. Highlights include the Raphael Cartoons, fashion from the eighteenth century through to modern haute couture, an immense jewellery collection, and the two striking Cast Courts, filled with casts of priceless marble works, such as the immense Trajan's Column. The ground-floor galleries dedicated to Asia display the enormous Ardabil carpet – the world's oldest – splendid suits of samurai armour, golden tinsure scissors from Thailand and an ornate beggar's bowl from Pakistan.

South Kensington tube is the closest to all three museums and has an underground walkway connecting them.

Tate Britain

A short walk from Parliament Square west along Millbank, Tate Britain (daily 10am–6pm; free; www.tate.org.uk) displays British art from 1500 onwards, including a whole wing devoted to Turner. The permanent galleries usually include a selection of works by the likes of Hogarth, Constable and Bacon, and the gallery hosts the controversial Turner Prize for contemporary British artists each year, along with other temporary exhibitions (entry charges apply). The Tate to Tate Boat carries passengers from Millbank to Tate Modern on Bankside (see opposite; every 40min during Tate opening hours; £7.50 one-way or £5 with a Travelcard).

South Bank

The South Bank forms the stretch by the Thames roughly from Westminster Bridge to London Bridge (a 50min walk). The riverside footpath buzzes with life, as people stroll and jog past street entertainers and art installations, or sit out at the many restaurants. The focal point is the London Eye (Mon–Fri 10am–8.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–9.30pm; £21.20; londoneye.com), a 135m-tall observation wheel that revolves above the river. Head north from here past the brutalist South Bank Centre (see p.436) – which encompasses the Royal Festival Hall and the Hayward Gallery – the adjacent National Theatre and British Film Institute. You'll pass craft shops and restaurants in Gabriel's Wharf and the OXO Tower before reaching Bankside (see below).

Bankside and Tate Modern

Contemporary Bankside is dominated by the colossal Tate Modern (daily 10am–6pm, Fri & Sat till 10pm; free; tate.org.uk), built in a minimalist postwar power station. There are temporary exhibitions (around £10; book ahead for major exhibitions), but as the permanent collection includes works by just about every famous modern artist including Monet, Bonnard, Matisse, Picasso, Dalí, Mondrian, Warhol and Rothko, you should get your fill of modern art for free.

Directly outside Tate Modern, Norman Foster's Millennium Bridge, with its spectacular views, will take you across the river to the City of London and St Paul's Cathedral.

Globe Theatre to London Bridge

Dwarfed by Tate Modern is Shakespeare's Globe (shakespearesglobe.com), a reconstruction of the polygonal playhouse where most of the Bard's later works were first performed. If you're happy to stand in the pit, you can catch a show from as little as £5. A short stroll further east winds away from the river under Victorian railway arches to London Bridge and the popular Borough Market (see box, p.429), a fantastic place to refuel. Towering above Borough Market is London's tallest skyscraper, the Shard. Head up to the observation deck on the 62nd floor (daily 9am–10pm; £26; theviewfromtheshard.com) for unparalleled 360-degree views of the capital, or for the price of a cocktail (around £18) you can enjoy slightly less lofty views from the Gong Bar on the 52nd floor.

The City of London

Despite the newer development of Canary Wharf stealing many companies further east, the City of London remains London's financial hub and can feel hauntingly empty out of office hours. The oldest part of London, it was built on the original Roman Londinium, and its appeal lies in the contrast of tiny chapels on narrow, winding streets with towering, iconic skyscrapers, such as The Gherkin, The Cheese grater and The Walkie Talkie, at 20 Fenchurch St, whose 155m-high Sky Garden (Mon–Fri 10am–6pm, Sat & Sun 11am–9pm, Fri & Sat till 10pm; book free visits online; skygarden.london) is particularly worth visiting.

St Paul's Cathedral

On the western edge of the City is one of London's most famous landmarks, St Paul's Cathedral (Mon–Sat 8.30am–4pm; adult/student £18/16; stpauls.co.uk). The most distinctive feature of architect Christopher Wren's Baroque edifice is the vast dome, one of the largest in the world. Highlights include the Whispering Gallery, up in the dome, so-called because words whispered to the wall on one side are clearly audible on the other; the broad exterior Stone Gallery; and the uppermost Golden Gallery, which offers panoramas over London. The crypt is the resting place of Wren, Turner, Reynolds and other artists, but the most imposing sarcophagi are those occupied by the Duke of Wellington and Lord Nelson.

Museum of London

Just north of St Paul's, situated in the 1970s-designed Barbican Centre, is the Museum of London (daily 10am–6pm; free; museumoflondon.org.uk). It tells the story of the city from prehistoric times to the present day, with particularly interesting displays on Roman London and the Great Fire, plus the Lord Mayor's state coach dating to 1757. The Barbican Centre itself (@barbican.org.uk) is one of London's cultural hotspots, housing cinemas, theatres and galleries.

Tower of London

Justifying all the hype, the Tower of London (March–Oct daily 9am–5.30pm; Nov–Feb Mon–Fri 9am–4.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4.30pm; adult/student £25/19.50; online discounts; @hrp.org.uk), on the river a mile southeast of St Paul's by the iconic Tower Bridge, remains one of London's most remarkable buildings. Begun by William the Conqueror, and pretty much completed by the end of the thirteenth century, the Tower is the most perfectly preserved (albeit heavily restored) medieval fortress in the country. The central White Tower holds part of the Royal Armouries collection, and, on the second floor, the Norman Chapel of St John, London's oldest church. Close by is Tower Green, where two of Henry VIII's wives were beheaded. Look out for the ravens; according to legend, the monarchy will fall if they ever leave, so their wings are clipped accordingly. The Waterloo Barracks house the Crown Jewels, among which are the three largest cut diamonds in the world.

The East End

A short walk from the Tower brings you to Aldgate and the start of the East End. The area has always drawn large immigrant populations due to its proximity to the river – it has been in turn Huguenot, Jewish and, most recently, Bangladeshi and Pakistani. Walk down Whitechapel Road from Aldgate and you'll pass one of Britain's largest mosques, as well as the excellent Whitechapel Gallery (Tues–Sun 11am–6pm, Thurs until 9pm; free; @whitechapelgallery.org), which shows off a cutting-edge mix of contemporary art. Brick Lane meanders off to the left (take Osborn St), lined with curry houses, trendy street markets, retro shops and boutiques.

At the other end of Brick Lane are the funky, creative areas of Shoreditch, Hoxton and Old Street, full of restaurants, galleries, cafés and design stores. A two- to three-mile walk further east down Whitechapel Road brings you to what was once a desolate industrial area, transformed into the Olympic Park for the 2012 Games. The site reopened as the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in July 2013 (@queenelizabetholympicpark.co.uk), with major sporting and events venues surrounded by parkland, plus Anish Kapoor's 115m-high Orbit, Britain's largest piece of public art: its sky-high platforms offer fantastic views across London and a hair-raising 40-second ride down the world's longest tunnel slide (daily: April–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–March 11am–5pm; tower only £10, slide and tower £15; @arcelomitalorbit.com).

Regent's Park and Camden

As with almost all London's royal parks, Londoners have Henry VIII to thank for Regent's Park: he confiscated it from the Church for yet more hunting grounds and it's now a popular picnicking spot. Flanked by some of the city's most elegant residential buildings, the park is home to London Zoo (daily: Easter–Aug 10am–6pm, Sept & Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–Easter 10am–4pm; £24.25; @zsl.org), one of the world's oldest and most varied collections of animals. Take the tube to Baker Street, Regent's Park or Great Portland Street to enter the park at its southernmost edge and walk north to the zoo, or get the tube to Camden Town with its famous market (see box opposite) and music scene, and walk west down Regent's Canal, which runs through the middle of the zoo.

Hampstead Heath and Highgate Cemetery

Camden gives way to the affluent suburb of Hampstead and the vast Hampstead Heath, which offers the perfect antidote to London's highly manicured parks. East of Hampstead is Highgate Cemetery, ranged on both sides of Swains Lane (@Highgate/Archway). Karl Marx lies in the East Cemetery (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm,

MARKETS

At the weekend, visit one of London's high-quality markets: some are well established, some trendy pop-ups, but wherever you go, you're sure to find tasty food and a lively, relaxed atmosphere. Unless specified, markets tend to run 10am–5pm.

Borough ① London Bridge; ② boroughmarket.co.uk; map pp.422–423. Where serious foodies stock up on hard-to-source ingredients. Not cheap, but there are free tasters and excellent food stalls. Mon–Thurs 8am–5pm, Fri noon–6pm, Sat 8am–5pm; limited stalls on Mon & Tues.

Brick Lane and Spitalfields ① Liverpool St; ② bricklanemarket.com; map pp.422–423. Technically two separate markets, but punters wander between the two on Sundays, when Brick Lane is thick with food stalls. Spitalfields draws an eclectic mix of artists, jewellers and designers in a restored covered market. Brick Lane Sun 9am–5pm; Spitalfields Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sun 9am–5pm.

Camden ① Camden Town; ② camdenlock.net; map pp.422–423. A punk hangout in the 1970s, with plenty of Dr. Martens and studded jackets still on offer today, mixed with every other sub-culture going. Daily 10am–6pm.

Columbia Road Shoreditch High Street Overground; ③ columbiaroad.info; map pp.422–423. An easy walk from Brick Lane, this lovely plant and flower market is also full of boutique stores and hip coffee shops. Sun 8am–3pm.

Greenwich Cutty Sark DLR; ④ greenwichmarketlondon.com; map pp.422–423. Covered market with quirky handmade gifts and crafts (Tues, Wed & Fri–Sun) as well as vintage clothes stores and antiques (Tues, Thurs & Fri). Tues–Sun 10am–5.30pm.

Portobello Road ① Notting Hill; ⑤ portobelloroad.co.uk/market; map pp.422–423. The most iconic London market thanks to the film Notting Hill, with stalls peddling antiques, rare books and vintage finds (Sat only), as well as fashion and crafts. Mon–Wed 9am–6pm, Thurs 9am–1pm, Fri & Sat 9am–7pm.

the East Cemetery (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 11am–5pm; £8; ⑥ highgate-cemetery.org); more atmospheric is the overgrown West Cemetery (guided tours only: March–Nov Mon–Fri 2pm, Sat & Sun hourly 11am–4pm; Dec–Feb Sat & Sun hourly 11am–3pm; £12, includes entry to East Cemetery), with its eerie Egyptian Avenue and terraced catacombs.

Greenwich

One of London's most beguiling spots, and offering respite from the frenetic centre, Greenwich is worth the short trip. Transport links are good: there are regular riverboats (see p.431), trains from London Bridge, or the DLR scoots from Bank via the redeveloped Docklands south to the Cutty Sark (daily 10am–5pm, last admission 4pm; entry by timed ticket only, best to pre-book online; £13.50; ⑦ rmg.co.uk). This famous tea clipper has recently been dazzlingly restored after a devastating fire, and now you can walk beneath the 143-year-old hull, as well as stroll the decks and explore the hold. Hugging the riverfront to the east is Wren's beautifully symmetrical Baroque ensemble of the Old Royal Naval College (daily 10am–5pm; free; ⑧ ornc.org). Across the road, the National Maritime Museum (daily 10am–5pm, closes 8pm Thurs; free; ⑨ rmg.co.uk) has model ships, charts and globes, and hosts sea-themed exhibitions. From here Greenwich Park stretches up the hill, crowned by the Wren-inspired Royal Observatory (daily 9am–5pm; £9.50), where you can straddle the Greenwich Mean Time meridian and catch a show at the excellent planetarium.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

BY PLANE

Flying into London, you'll arrive at one of the capital's five international airports: Heathrow (⑩ heathrowairport.com), Gatwick (⑪ gatwickairport.com), Stansted (⑫ stanstedairport.com), Luton (⑬ london-luton.co.uk) or City (⑭ londoncityairport.com). EasyBus (⑮ easybus.co.uk) has buses from Gatwick, Stansted and Luton to central London, while National Express operate from all airports. From Heathrow, Gatwick and Stansted, there are express trains every 15min that will get you there faster than other modes of transport, but cost around £20 one-way; fares are often discounted online.

Heathrow 15 miles west. Served by Piccadilly Line on the Tube (every few min, 6am–11.50pm; 1hr; £6 cash or £5.10/3.10 Oyster peak/off-peak). In addition to the express train services, Heathrow Connect trains offer a slower stopping service to Paddington Station (every 30min; 25min; £10.20). National Express coaches go to Victoria Coach Station (every 10–15min; 50min; £6). After midnight, night bus #N9 runs to Trafalgar Square (every 20min; 1hr 10min; £2.50 cash/1.50 Oyster).

13

Gatwick 30 miles south. Connected by several train companies: Southern trains run on the same route as the Gatwick Express, but are cheaper (every 15min; 35min; £15.50), and First Capital Connect trains run to London Bridge, Blackfriars and St Pancras International (every 15min; 30–40min; around £12).

Stansted 34 miles northeast. Regular National Express services run to Victoria Coach Station via Baker Street and Marble Arch (every 15min; 1hr 45min; £10), or Liverpool Street (every 15min; 1hr–1hr 15min; £8 advance booking); Terravision buses also go to Victoria and Liverpool Street (every 20–40min; 40–55min; £10).

Luton 37 miles north. Served by shuttle buses to Luton Airport Parkway station, from which there are services to St Pancras (every 5–20min; 25–45min; £14) and other stations with First Capital Connect (see Gatwick). Green Line bus #757 also runs from the airport terminal into central London (every 20min–1hr; 1hr 30min; £17 or £25 return within 3 months).

London City 10 miles east. Served by the Docklands Light Railway (DLR), with regular services to Bank (every 8–15min; 22min; £4.90 cash or £3.30/2.80 Oyster peak/off-peak).

BY TRAIN

Eurostar services terminate at St Pancras International. Trains from the English Channel ports arrive at Victoria, Waterloo or Charing Cross stations, while those from elsewhere in Britain come into one of London's numerous main-line termini (namely Waterloo and Paddington from the southwest, Euston or King's Cross from the north, and Liverpool Street from the east), all of which have tube stations.

Destinations from Charing Cross Canterbury (every 30min; 1hr 45min); Dover (every 30min; 1hr 10min–2hr).

Euston Glasgow (hourly; 4hr 30min–5hr 40min); Liverpool (every 20min; 2hr 10min–2hr 30min); Manchester (every 20min; 2hr 10min).

King's Cross Cambridge (every 15min; 50min–1hr 20min); Durham (every 30min; 2hr 45min–3hr); Edinburgh (every 30min; 4hr 20min–5hr 40min); Glasgow (hourly; 4hr 30min–5hr 40min); Newcastle every 30min; 2hr 50min–3hr 15min); York (every 30min; 1hr 50min–2hr 20min).

London Bridge Brighton (every 15min; 1hr 5min).

Marlyebone Stratford-upon-Avon (hourly; 2–3hr).

Paddington Bath (every 30min; 1hr 30min); Bristol (every 15min; 1hr 20min–1hr 45min); Oxford (every 10–20min; 1hr–1hr 50min); Penzance (13 daily; 5hr 10min–8hr 10min); Cardiff (every 15min; 2hr 10min).

St Pancras International Brussels (10 daily; 2hr–2hr 15min); Lille (8 daily; 1hr 20min–1hr 40min); Paris (hourly; 2hr 15min–2hr 50min).

BY BUS

Long-distance buses from around Britain and continental Europe arrive at Victoria Coach Station, a 500-yard walk south of Victoria train station.

Destinations Amsterdam (4 daily; 10–12hr); Bath (every 1hr 30min; 2hr 50min–3hr 20min); Berlin (1–2 daily; 24hr); Brighton (hourly; 2hr 15min–3hr 15min); Bristol (hourly; 3hr); Cambridge (every 90min; 2hr 30min); Cardiff (hourly; 3hr 15min–3hr 45min); Dover (hourly; 2hr 30min–3hr); Dublin (1 daily; 12hr 30min); Durham (4 daily; 6–7hr); Edinburgh (2 daily; 9hr–9hr 45min); Glasgow (5 daily; 8hr 15min–9hr 45min); Inverness (1 daily; 13hr); Liverpool (every 2hr; 4hr 40min–5hr 45min); Manchester (hourly; 4hr 35min–5hr 20min); Newcastle (5 daily; 6hr 25min–7hr 25min); Oxford (every 20–30min; 1hr 50min–2hr); Paris (6 daily; 10hr); Penzance (6 daily; 8hr 45min–9hr 45min); Stratford-upon-Avon (3 daily; 3hr 15min–3hr 25min); York (4 daily; 4hr 50min–5hr 25min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information London's flagship tourist office is the City of London Information Office (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5.30pm, Sun 10am–4pm; ☎020 7332 1456,

OYSTER AND CONTACTLESS CARDS

The cheapest way to pay for public transport in London is to use a contactless credit or debit card or an Oyster touch card (📍tfl.gov.uk; £5 refundable deposit). They both work in exactly the same way – you touch in at the beginning and end of each journey – and are valid on the underground, buses, trams, the DLR, the London Overground rail network and most National Rail services in London, as well as giving money off some riverboats. You can store cash on the Oyster card (“pay as you go”) as well as weekly travel cards (from £32.40); simply “top up” at stations or Oyster Ticket Stops, including newsagents and other shops with an Oyster logo outside. When using an Oyster or contactless card, one-way bus fares are almost half the cash price (£1.50 instead of £2.50) and tube fares in Zone 1 are £2.40 instead of £4.90 – also, your overall fee is capped, no matter how many journeys you make (currently £6.50 a day for Zones 1 and 2). If you don't have an Oyster or contactless card, a one-day paper Travelcard for Zones 1 to 4 (£12.10) is still cheaper than buying individual tickets.

visitlondon.com), opposite St Paul's Cathedral. There are other branches all over the city – the website details them on a map.

GETTING AROUND

Transport for London (TfL) oversees the city's public transport, and their website (tfl.gov.uk) is a vital tool for all Londoners and visitors to help navigate this enormous city by tube, bus, boat or bike. TfL's six tourist information centres are in the following stations: Piccadilly Circus tube station, Heathrow Terminals 1, 2 and 3, Euston, Liverpool Street, Victoria and King's Cross (all open daily). There's also a 24hr phone line for information on all services, including up-to-date closures or diversions (0843 222 1234). Central London is very walkable and Citymapper (citymapper.com) is an excellent navigational app that gives you route options from A to B using both public transport, taxis, bikes or just walking, showing times, prices and even when the next bus/train is due.

BY UNDERGROUND

The quickest way to get around is via the London Underground network, known as "the tube" (daily 5.30/7.30am–12.30am approx, with trains running all night on Fri & Sat on several lines; check "first and last" tube on TfL website). Tickets must be bought in advance from the machines or booths in station entrance halls and need to be kept until the end of your journey so that you can leave the station. If you use Oyster, always touch the card reader on the way in and out of each station. If you cannot produce a valid ticket or Oyster card on demand, you'll be charged an on-the-spot penalty fine of £80. Avoid the packed tube during rush hour.

BY BUS

A great way to see the city, especially from the top of London's famous red double-deckers. Many run 24hr, though be aware that night buses prefixed with the letter "N" may not run the same route as their day counterpart. If you don't have an Oyster or a contactless debit/credit card, you will need to buy a single ticket (£2.50) from the machine at the bus stop before boarding (in central London), or, outside the centre, simply pay the driver (use small change). Hail buses by sticking your arm out. Most buses are modern, but classic London Routemaster buses, complete with conductor, still run on two routes: Charing Cross station to the Tower of London (#15) and Kensington High St to Aldwych (#9).

BY BOAT

Riverboat services on the Thames are a pleasant and quick way to get between east and west. Having an Oyster or contactless debit/credit card or a paper Travelcard will get you a third off riverboat tickets (otherwise £3.50 single), while if you've got a pay-as-you-go Oyster you'll get ten percent off single fares. Westminster Pier, Embankment Pier and Waterloo Pier are the main central embarkation points and there are regular sailings to Bankside, London Bridge, Tower Bridge and Greenwich. Timings and services alter frequently, so pick up the Thames River Services booklet from a TfL travel information office, or see tfl.gov.uk/river.

BY TAXI

If you're in a group, London's metered black cabs (just wave to hail one when their orange "taxi" light is illuminated) can be a viable way of travelling. Cost depends on time of day, distance travelled and travel time and there's a minimum £2.40 fare, plus a £2 phone call charge. A two-mile journey (10–20min) should cost around £15 (6am–8pm). To book in advance, call 020 7272 0272, www.londonblackcabs.co.uk or find your nearest black cab via the Hailo (hailocab.com) app. Minicabs look just like regular cars and are considerably cheaper than black cabs (a black cab to Heathrow will cost up to £85, while a minicab will charge £40–60), but need to be booked by phone in advance. To get numbers for local registered minicab companies, check out minicabit.com and minicabsinlondon.com, download the Cabwise app or text CAB to 60835. Cheaper still is Uber (uber.com).

BY TRAIN AND TRAM

There is a variety of different train lines in London. The Overground and the Docklands Light Railway (DLR) are operated by TfL and form part of the tube map – most interchanges are as simple as on the tube. National Rail services from London out to Greater London suburbs and commuter towns are run by outside agents, but you can use Oyster cards for most journeys in and around the city (details on TfL website). Oyster can also be used on the trams in south London.

BY BIKE

London is becoming more bike friendly with new cycle superhighways and a public bike rental scheme (tfl.org.uk; credit or debit card needed to rent at docking stations found all over central London). "Boris Bikes", named after Boris Johnson, the mayor who installed them, cost £2 to rent for the day or £10 for a week, then you pay an hourly incremental charge after that; as the first half an hour is free, so long as you keep docking the bikes and picking up new ones, it can be a great and cheap way to see London. Alternatively, you can find standard rental shops through the London Cycling Campaign (lcc.org.uk). Pick out cycle-friendly routes using the free guides available from transport information offices, or check the TfL website.

13 ACCOMMODATION

West London offers easy access to the museums and central London, though it tends to be expensive for eating and nightlife. Northeast London is currently London's hippest area, with a vibrant atmosphere and some of the best nightlife in town, while anywhere near the South Bank is central enough to walk into the West End. Student rooms are available July–Sept; try Imperial College (020 7594 9507, imperial.ac.uk/summeraccommodation) or LSE (020 7955 7676, lsevacations.co.uk). For classy, modern budget B&Bs, try the Bed and Breakfast Club (thebedandbreakfastclub.co.uk) or stay with locals via Airbnb (airbnb.com).

HOSTELS

The YHA (see p.418) has seven HI-affiliated London hostels, most in unbeatable locations (Oxford Street, St Pancras, St Paul's, Central near Regent's Park, Earls Court and Thameside), and most with cheap twins and doubles as well as dorms. Prices shown are for the cheapest weeknight dorm in high season; in low season beds start from around £17. A continental breakfast is included at the hostels below unless specified.

Astor Museum Hostel 27 Montague St 020 7580 5360, astorhostels.com; 0 Russell Square; map pp.422–423. Right next to the British Museum, this venerable mansion combines a stellar location with ample self-catering facilities and a large guest lounge. 18–35-year-olds only. Sociable without being a party hostel. Breakfast £1. Dorms £21, doubles £95

Clink78 78 King's Cross Rd 020 3475 3000, clinkhostels.com; 0 King's Cross; map pp.422–423. Quirky hostel housed in a Victorian courthouse with dorms of various sizes (some female-only) painted in cheerful colours. Chill-out space is in the actual courtrooms, while the cheapest of the private rooms are the cramped former police cells. Dorms £20, doubles £90

Generator 37 Tavistock Place 020 7388 7666, generatorhostels.com; 0 Russell Square; map pp.422–423. Part of a Europe-wide range of design-led hostels, this huge, raucous place combines clubby, neon-lit social spaces with luxurious digs, on-site bar, games room and free walking tours for its youthful clientele. Dorms £52, doubles £122

Meininger Hyde Park 67 Queen's Gate 020 3318 1407, meininger-hotels.com; 0 Gloucester Road; map pp.422–423. Right near Hyde Park and the Victoria & Albert Museum, this spotless, minimalist German hostel/hotel has comfortable beds in dorms (for over-18s only) plus stylish en-suite rooms. Dorms £17, doubles £121

Palmers Lodge Swiss Cottage 40 College Crescent 020 7483 8470, palmerslodges.co.uk; 0 Swiss Cottage; map pp.422–423. One of a mini-chain of boutique hostels, this is a superb option within a converted Victorian mansion, with privacy curtains around bunks, comfy guest lounge and helpful staff around the clock. Free bed linen, too. Extensive breakfast £4.50. Dorms £19, doubles £77

St Christopher's Inns 121 Borough High St 020 7939 9710, st-christophers.co.uk; 0 London Bridge; map pp.422–423. Self-styled "international party house" in three separate buildings near London Bridge: The Village has a nightclub and comedy bar; The Inn is above a pub and a little more tranquil; while The Oasis is women-only. No curfew. Dorms £19, doubles £78

Travel Joy 111 Grosvenor Rd 020 7834 9689, traveljoyhostels.com; 0 Pimlico or bus #24 from central London; map pp.422–423. Right on the river in tranquil Pimlico, this friendly hostel is set above the King William IV pub, with a terrace hosting barbecues on sunny days and live music on Sat. Some dorms are en suite. Dorms £28

HOTELS, B&BS AND SELF-CATERING

Most budget hotels and B&Bs in central London are grotty or old-fashioned; with a short commute from the centre, you get much better value for money. See p.418 for budget chain hotels.

★Aviva Studio Apartments 42 Glenthorne Rd 020 7976 020304, avivastudio-apartments.co.uk; 0 Hammersmith; map pp.422–423. On a residential street in West London but with plenty of local restaurants and just 5min from the tube, these well-equipped 1- and 2-person studio apartments are clean and comfortable, and the owners are friendly and knowledgeable. Doubles £70

★hub 110 St Martin's Lane 0333 321 3104, hubhotels.co.uk; 0 Covent Garden; map pp.422–423. Right in the heart of West End, this stylish hotel borders on capsule, but cleverly designed, high-tech, compact rooms, all with monsoon showers and a/c. Good deli downstairs. Doubles £65

Ridgemount Hotel 65–67 Gower St 020 7636 1141, ridgemounthotel.co.uk; 0 Euston Square; map pp.422–423. This Georgian terraced house has a great location near the British Museum and a tranquil garden – you can choose cheaper rooms with wash basins or fancier en suites (£20 more). Doubles £90

Russell's 123 Chatsworth Rd, Hackney 020 797 666 9906, russellsofclapton.com; Homerton Overground or #38 bus from central London; map pp.422–423. The out-of-the-way location in an ungentrified part of Hackney means you get a boutique B&B offering vintage-style luxury, not to mention a great breakfast, courtesy of the former music industry manager/owner. A good location for exploring trendy Shoreditch and Dalston. Doubles £80

Stylolet 160–162 Sussex Gardens 020 7723 1026, stylolet.com; 0 Paddington; map pp.422–423. Ultra-modern budget hotel inside two Georgian townhouses, with aluminium wall coverings, floor-to-ceiling mirrors, excellent beds and a Styloleone for hanging out. Buffet breakfast included. Doubles £79

EATING

Few cities can match London for the sheer diversity of eating experiences on offer. You'll find restaurants for every cuisine you can think of and competition keeps prices low. If you're after a quick bite to eat, Pret a Manger and Eat chains are ubiquitous and serve freshly made, imaginative sandwiches, wraps and soups.

CAFÉS, CHEAP EATS AND SNACKS

A. Gold 42 Brushfield St agoldshop.com; Liverpool Street; map pp.422–423. Right by Spitalfields Market (see box, p.429), this superb traditional food shop sells tasty, made-to-order sandwiches and salad boxes, crammed with gourmet ingredients such as smoked Cheddar with pear chutney or smoked duck breast (£5–5.50). Mon–Fri 10am–4pm, Sat noon–5pm.

★ The Attendant 27a Foley St the-attendant.com; Goodge Street; map p.425. Salads, imaginative breakfasts, wraps, pastries, smoothies and juices, all made with fresh local produce, are all on offer at this Victorian public lavatory turned café. Speciality coffees are de rigueur here, and special diets are catered for. Mon–Sat noon–8.30pm, Sun noon–5.30pm.

★ E. Pellicci 332 Bethnal Green Rd; Bethnal Green; map pp.422–423. Run by the Pellicci family since the 1900s and a favourite haunt of gangster brothers the Krays, this is an East End institution, serving hearty cooked breakfasts (£5.50) and Italian specials. Mon–Sat 7am–4pm.

F. Cooke 150 Hoxton St; Old Street; map pp.422–423. Get the very traditional London pie, mash & liquor (parsley gravy) with house chilli vinegar for under £4.50, or if you dare, jellied eels in this spit 'n' sawdust Cockney place. Mon–Thurs 10am–7pm, Fri & Sat 9.30am–8pm.

★ Homeslice Pizza 13 Neal's Yard homeslicepizza.co.uk; Covent Garden; map p.425. Buzzy, friendly spot serving 20-inch wood-fired pizzas big enough for two (£20); several are available by the slice too (£4). Wonderful, unusual ingredients: try goat shoulder with sumac yogurt or oxtail with horseradish and sorrel cream. No reservations. Daily noon–11pm.

Monmouth Coffee Company 27 Monmouth St, Seven Dials monmouthcoffee.co.uk; Holborn; map p.425; also at Borough Market (see box, p.429); London Bridge; map pp.422–423. Monmouth have made a name for themselves by making the best coffee in London – look out for other cafés selling their blends. Mon–Sat 8am–6.30pm; Borough branch Mon–Sat 7.30am–6pm.

Paul Rothe & Son 35 Marlybone Lane paulrotheandsondelicatessen.co.uk; Bond Street; map pp.422–423. Established in 1900 and still run by the Rothes, this deli puts together an exemplary array of hot and cold sandwiches (£3.50) and ladles toppings on jacket potatoes (£5). Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat 11am–5pm.

RESTAURANTS

★ Bao 53 Lexington St baolondon.com; Oxford Circus or Piccadilly Circus; map p.425. Taiwanese street stall gone upmarket, this tiny, trendy eatery specializes in bao (steamed, filled buns), as well as other small, tapas-style dishes – pig blood cake and century egg with eryngii mushroom are revelations: dishes from £3. No reservations, so be prepared to queue. Mon–Sat noon–3pm & 5–10pm.

Baozi Inn 26 Newport Court 020 7287 6877; Leicester Square; map p.425. Kitsch Communist decor is combined here with authentic northern Chinese dishes. The noodles, buns and dumplings are a treat, and the spicy beef noodle

13

LONDON STREET FOOD

London's latest trend is for gourmet street food, and food vans are popping up all over the capital selling everything from pulled-pork sandwiches to custard tarts. Locations change frequently, but the following, along with Borough Market and Portobello Market (see box, p.429), are good bets for a gourmet lunch on a budget.

Broadway Market From London Fields Park to the Regent's Canal broadwaymarket.co.uk; London Fields rail or Haggerston Overground; map pp.422–423. There's been a produce market on this site in Hackney since the 1890s; these days more than a hundred stalls sell everything from Vietnamese coffee and meze to gourmet sausage rolls and cupcakes. Sat 9am–5pm.

KERB at Cubitt Square, Stable St kerbfood.com; Kings Cross; map pp.422–423. "Making cities taste better", gourmet street food vendors bring their lunchtime action to Kings Cross, with epic burgers, Scandi-style smoked fish, Indonesian rendang, burritos, tonkatsu and Filipino BBQ. Wed–Fri noon–2pm.

Street Feast Dalston Yard, Hartwell St streetfeastlondon.com; Dalston Junction Overground; map pp.422–423. Probably London's most exciting night market, with cuisines spanning Mexican, Vietnamese, Korean, Hawaiian-style sushi and much more, plus the Gin Store and Tequila Treehouse providing after-dinner tipples. Fri & Sat 5pm–midnight; £3 entry after 7pm.

Whitecross Street Market Whitecross St Barbican; map pp.422–423. Mexican and Italian street food are both specialities at this bustling food market in the heart of the City. Mon–Fri 11.30am–3pm.

soup is topped with a layer of tongue-numbing chilli oil. Cheap, spicy and filling. Mains from £8. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–10.30pm, Fri & Sat noon–midnight.

Ciao Bella 86–90 Lamb's Conduit St ⑩ ciaobellarestaurant.co.uk; ⑩ Russell Square/Holborn; map pp.422–423. Jolly, extremely popular old-style Italian, serving huge plates of classic pasta dishes, pizza, calzones plus hearty mains from £9. Mon–Sat noon–11.30pm, Sun noon–10.30pm.

Comptoir Libanais 1–5 Exhibition Rd ⑩ comptoirlibanais.com; ⑩ South Kensington; map pp.422–423. Super-handy for three of London's best museums, this colourful Lebanese-style canteen, with tables on the street outside, serves tasty hot and cold meze, wraps, tagines and grilled meats: meze from £3.50, mains from £9. Several other branches. Mon–Sat 8.30am–midnight, Sun 8.30am–10pm.

Dishoom 12 Upper St Martin's Lane ⑩ dishoom.com; ⑩ Covent Garden or Leicester Square; map p.425. Bombay Café mini-chain that specializes in Indian street-food-style dishes, ideal for sharing. Gunpowder potatoes, spiced chickpeas and prawn koliwada stand out; dishes from £4.20. Another branch at 22 Kingley St, ⑩ Oxford Circus. Mon–Fri 8am–11pm, Sat & Sun 9am–11pm.

Misato 11 Wardour St; ⑩ Piccadilly Circus; map p.425. This Japanese café attracts a lot of students from the Far East with its enormous portions of katsu curry and other Japanese dishes: mains from £7.50. Daily noon–11pm.

Simpson's Tavern Ball Court, 38½ Cornhill ⑩ simpsonstavern.co.uk; ⑩ Bank; map pp.422–423. This historic chophouse, tucked away down a Dickensian alley in the City, dates from 1757 and the interior and menu seem to have changed little since. Settle into one of the wood-panelled booths and feast on doorstep sandwiches (from £4.50) or hearty mains such as sausage and mash (£7). Mon–Fri 8am–4pm.

Sông Quê 134 Kingsland Rd ⑩ songque.co.uk; Hoxton Overground; map pp.422–423. On a strip of road packed with Vietnamese restaurants, this unpretentious place is a cut above the rest, with authentic flavours and efficient service: mains from £8.50. Mon–Fri noon–3pm & 5.30–11pm, Sat noon–3pm, Sun noon–10.30pm.

★ Wahaca 66 Chandos Place ⑩ wahaca.co.uk; ⑩ Charing Cross or Covent Garden; map p.425. Part of a nationwide chain, this vast basement restaurant serving Mexican street food is always packed. It's noisy and fun, and the tapas-size servings of tacos, tostadas and quesadillas are delicious: tapas from £4, mains from £10. Mon–Sat noon–11pm, Sun noon–10.30pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

From Victorian pubs serving ale to old gents, to hip bars and clubs frequented by an eternally young, edgy clientele, London has it all. In the east, there's a thriving bar and club scene around Shoreditch, Hoxton and Old Street, while Soho and north London also get their share of the action. In recent years, craft beer has taken London by storm, with numerous brewpubs serving their own microbrews.

BARS AND PUBS

Brewhouse & Kitchen Islington Torrens St, Highbury ⑩ brewhouseandkitchen.com/islington; ⑩ Angel; map pp.422–423. One of a small chain of brewpubs, this congenial spot serves fifty of its very own microbrews, as well as guest beers and freshly cooked food to go with it. Beer tastings arranged. Mon–Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–midnight, Sun noon–11pm.

The French House 49 Dean St ⑩ frenchhousesoho.com ⑩ Leicester Square; map p.425. One of Soho's most iconic pubs, attracting a bohemian crowd. Charles de Gaulle was based here during WWII and the French connection is evident in its collection of wines, champagnes and beers. Mon–Sat noon–11pm, Sun noon–10.30pm.

★ Jerusalem Tavern 55 Britton St ⑩ Farringdon; map pp.422–423. Cool Clerkenwell's the setting for this packed pub, serving some of the best ales in London from barrels in the wall amidst eighteenth-century decor. Mon–Fri 11am–11pm.

Lamb & Flag 33 Rose St ⑩ Covent Garden or Leicester Square; map p.425. A respite from hectic Covent Garden, this compact, atmospheric pub was once known as the Bucket of Blood – after the prize fights held here. Mon–Sat 11am–11pm, Sun noon–10.30pm.

Lexington 96 Pentonville Rd ⑩ Angel; map pp.422–423. This luxuriously decorated bourbon joint puts on events like a pop pub quiz, as well as cheap live music and club nights upstairs. Mon–Wed & Sun noon–2am, Thurs noon–3am, Fri & Sat noon–4am.

Lock Tavern 35 Chalk Farm Rd ⑩ lock-tavern.com ⑩ Chalk Farm; map pp.422–423. This laidback Camden pub is ever-popular, thanks to its free live music, tasty food and buzzing atmosphere. The roof terrace and garden are in high demand on summer weekends. Mon–Thurs noon–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–1am, Sun noon–11pm.

★TREAT YOURSELF

The Wolseley 160 Piccadilly ⑩ thewolseley.com; ⑩ Piccadilly Circus; map p.425. Traditional British afternoon tea doesn't come much more special than this, within the beautiful Art Deco surroundings of the opulent Wolseley. If you only do it once in your life, it's worth splashing out £27.50 for a full afternoon tea, with finger sandwiches, cakes and scones (cream teas from £11.50). Dressing up? Smart casual is fine. Afternoon tea served Mon–Fri 3–6.30pm, Sat 3.30–5.30pm, Sun 3.30–6.30pm.

DRINKING ON A BUDGET

For a break from London's sky-high drink prices check out the sensitively restored Victorian pubs owned by the Sam Smith's brewery. Prices are kept low as everything, including spirits and soft drinks, comes from the same brewery; a pint of lager starts at just £3. The Cittie of York, 22 High Holborn (📍 Chancery Lane; map pp.422–423), Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese at 145 Fleet St (📍 Blackfriars; map pp.422–423), and The Princess Louise at 208 High Holborn (📍 Holborn; map p.425) all have historical interiors, but there are plenty of others.

The Old Bank of England 194 Fleet St; (📍 Holborn/Temple; map pp.422–423). You're unlikely to sip a pint in a grander setting than this nineteenth-century bank with ceiling frescoes, chandeliers, marble and dark wood. Great pies and a solid wine list, too. Mon–Fri 8am–11pm.

Salisbury 90 St Martin's Lane; (📍 Leicester Square; map p.425). Beautiful old gin palace and pub packed with original features, dark wood, mirrors and glassware in the heart of Theatreland. Mon–Thurs 11am–11.30pm, Fri & Sat 11am–midnight, Sun noon–10.30pm.

CLUBS

Blues Kitchen Shoreditch 134–146 Curtain Rd (📍 theblueskitchen.com/shoreditch; (📍 Old Street; map pp.422–423). A converted Victorian warehouse with a New Orleans vibe, this place is a lively restaurant by day, serving BBQ, steak, ribs and bourbon cocktails, before morphing into a live blues/jazz/soul joint by night. Mon–Wed noon–midnight, Thurs noon–1am, Fri noon–2.30am, Sat 11am–3am, Sun 11am–10.30pm.

Cargo 83 Rivington St (📍 cargo-london.com; (📍 Old Street; map pp.422–423). Live music bar/club playing global music, with decked gardens for socializing and DJs playing their sets into the wee hours. Mon–Thurs 6pm–1am, Fri & Sat 6pm–3am, Sun 6pm–midnight.

EGG London, 200 York Way, Kings Cross (📍 0207 871 7111, (📍 eggglondon.co.uk; map pp.422–423). Spread over five separate spaces that include one of London's biggest dance floors, EGG has a 24-hour licence and parties until morning most nights. Friday nights see up-and-coming DJs at the decks, while on Saturdays it's a mix on international DJ superstars and fresh talent. Daily approx 10pm–9am.

Guanabara Parker St (📍 guanabara.co.uk; (📍 Holborn; map p.425). Nightly samba, bossa-nova and Latin beats keep the punters on the dancefloor at this fun Brazilian club. Free Wed, Thurs & Sun, Fri £10 after 9pm, Sat £10 after 8pm. Mon–Sat 5pm–2.30am, Sun 5pm–midnight.

Proud Camden The Stables Market, Chalk Farm Rd (📍 proudcamden.com; (📍 Camden Market; map pp.422–423). This former horse hospital is a chilled-out bar by day that turns into a burlesque club at night. Groove to the live music and the DJs or head out to the Alice in Wonderland-esque rooftop bar for an alfresco drink. Entrance £3–8. Sun–Wed 11am–1.30am, Thurs–Sat 11am–2.30am.

XOYO 32–37 Cowper St, Shoreditch (📍 xoyo.co.uk; (📍 Old Street; map pp.422–423). Spread over two floors, with an industrial, street-arty vibe, this club benefits from a superb sound system and plays host to London's biggest house event, Sneak, every Tuesday, and guest DJs on other nights. Tickets £4–10. Mon–Thurs 10pm–3am, Fri & Sat 9pm–4am, Sun 8pm–midnight.

LIVE MUSIC AND SPORTS VENUES

Barfly 49 Chalk Farm Rd (📍 thebarflylondon.com; (📍 Camden Town/Chalk Farm; map pp.422–423). Where a large array of punk, rock and indie bands make their debut, with club nights too. Mon & Thurs 3pm–2am, Tues & Wed 3pm–1am, Fri & Sat 3pm–3am, Sun 3pm–midnight.

O2 Arena Peninsula Square (📍 theo2.co.uk; (📍 North Greenwich). Excellent mid-sized concert and event venue on the south side of the Thames. Past performers have included Leonard Cohen, Rihanna, Prince, Alice Cooper and more. You can also sign up for guided walks along the top of the arena.

★TREAT YOURSELF

If you fancy a change from pints of lager, head for one of the city's stylish cocktail bars for a barrel-aged daiquiri or smoky negroni. The drinks are pricey (£10–15), but they pack a punch, and the bars are open till the early hours. For speakeasy-style cool, try Evans & Peel Detective Agency, 310c Earls Court Rd (📍 evansandpeel.com (📍 Earls Court; map pp.422–423), while the eclectic, Lewis-Carroll-themed Callooh Callay, 65 Rivington St (📍 calloohcallaybar.com (📍 Old Street; map pp.422–423), serves creative cocktails. Dandelyan inside the Mondrian hotel, 20 Upper Ground (📍 London Bridge; map pp.422–423), offers some of the most unusual cocktails in London by award-winning mixologist Mr Lyan, Göng inside the Shangri-La hotel at the Shard, 32 London Bridge St (📍 gong-shangri-la.com (📍 London Bridge; map pp.422–423), has the loftiest views in London from its 52nd-floor setting, while Mark's Bar, 66 Brewer St, Soho (📍 Piccadilly Circus; map p.425), is a lavish subterranean haven with classic British cocktails and an extensive gin and Scotch list.

Ronnie Scott's 47 Frith St ronniescotts.co.uk; Ⓜ Tottenham Court Rd; map p.425. London's most famous jazz club; big-name acts play in the dimly lit, red-velvet downstairs club. Mon–Sat 6pm–3am, Sun 6.30pm–midnight.

South Bank Centre Belvedere Rd, by Waterloo Bridge southbankcentre.co.uk; Ⓜ Waterloo; map pp.422–423. Vast arts complex, showcasing high-quality music of all genres, from classical to the likes of Mary Chapin Carpenter; it includes the Royal Festival Hall and the Purcell Room, both top classical music venues.

Wembley Stadium Wembley wembleystadium.com; Ⓜ Wembley Park. With a capacity of 90,000, this immense stadium hosts major football games and the biggest names in rock and pop, from Bruce Springsteen and Beyoncé to Coldplay and Ed Sheeran.

GAY AND LESBIAN NIGHTLIFE

Freedom 66 Wardour St freedombarsoho.com; Ⓜ Tottenham Court Road; map p.425. Stylish, glamorous cocktail bar and nightclub that attracts those who work in fashion and entertainment. Cabaret, drag and comedy are on weeknights. Mon–Fri 4pm–3am, Sat & Sun 2pm–3am.

G-A-Y at Heaven Under The Arches, Villiers St heavennightclub-london.com; Ⓜ Charing Cross/Embankment; map p.425. Britain's most popular gay club, this legendary, 2000-capacity club continues to reign supreme. Expect disco divas and big acts. Free entry vouchers on website. Regular club nights Mon & Thurs–Sat; for other events see website.

Ku Bar/Ku Club 30 Lisle St ku-bar.co.uk; Ⓜ Leicester Square/Tottenham Court Rd; map p.425; smaller branch at 25 Frith St. Ever-popular bar over three floors with a huge variety of inventive club nights. Tues is lesbian night. Free entry; £5 after 11pm Fri & Sat. Mon–Sat noon–3am, Sun noon–2am.

Royal Vauxhall Tavern 372 Kennington Lane rvt.org.uk; Ⓜ Vauxhall; map pp.422–423. From cabaret to comedy and from drag shows to discos, London's oldest gay venue has it all. An international gay institution. Entry around £8

ENTERTAINMENT

CINEMAS

Leicester Square is where film premieres take place and where you can catch blockbusters at the Odeon and Vue.

BFI Under Waterloo Bridge, South Bank bfi.org.uk; Ⓜ Waterloo; map pp.422–423. Serious arts cinema showing up to ten different films each day and screening the London Film Festival (Oct) and London Lesbian and Gay Film Festival (late March).

Prince Charles 2–7 Leicester Place princecharlescinema.com; Ⓜ Leicester Square; map p.425. The bargain basement of London's cinemas, with a programme of newish movies, singalong events and cult favourites.

THEATRES AND OPERA

Almeida Theatre Almeida St, Islington almeida.co.uk; Ⓜ Highbury & Islington; map pp.422–423. Theatre known for launching independent, original performances.

Coliseum St Martin's Lane eno.org; Ⓜ Leicester Square; map p.425. Home to the English National Opera, and more radical and democratic than the Royal Opera House, with opera (in English) and ballet. Expect the likes of Madam Butterfly and Tristan and Isolde.

Donmar Warehouse 41 Earlham St donmarwarehouse.com; Ⓜ Covent Garden; map p.425. Formerly the spiritual home of director Sam Mendes, and the best bet for a central off-West End show. Front-row tickets £10 on Mon when bought two weeks in advance (see website); standing tickets are £7.50.

National Theatre by Waterloo Bridge, South Bank nationaltheatre.org.uk; Ⓜ Waterloo; map pp.422–423. The NT has three separate theatres putting on consistently good productions. Tickets often go on sale at £10; ask about discounted day seats or standing tickets.

Old Vic The Cut, off Waterloo Rd oldvictheatre.com; Ⓜ Waterloo; map pp.422–423. A venerable theatre, which mostly showcases classic drama.

Royal Court 50–51 Sloane Square royalcourttheatre.com; Ⓜ Sloane Square; map pp.422–423. With an emphasis on new work by cutting-edge young writers, this intimate space is a great place to catch emerging talent.

Sadler's Wells Rosebery Ave sadlerswells.com; Ⓜ Angel; map pp.422–423. London's biggest dance venue puts on a truly varied mix of contemporary dance – from tap to hip-hop – as well as more traditional forms such as ballet and flamenco.

CULTURE ON THE CHEAP

Many theatres offer student discounts, and have standing, restricted view, or standby tickets available last minute. lastminute.com often have cheaper tickets for most of the big shows, such as Phantom of the Opera, The Lion King and Mamma Mia!, while the TKTS booth in Leicester Square sells half-price tickets (Mon–Sat 9am–7pm, Sun 10.30am–4.30pm; tks.co.uk) for that day's performances, with tickets also available up to a week in advance. For classical music, between July and September, you can't beat the Proms (bbc.co.uk/proms), the annual classical music festival held at the Royal Albert Hall. Simply queue up a few hours before the performance to get standing tickets for around £5.

SHOPPING

London's up there with Paris and New York for the sheer variety of its shopping, and there are many stores and boutiques you simply won't find anywhere else. If you're on a budget, window-shopping is still a great way of spending time; better still, visit one of the capital's many markets (see box, p.429). Westfield, the mammoth mall with outlets in west London (📍 Shepherd's Bush) and east London (📍 Stratford and Stratford Overground), has all the big names, both high-end and high-street. For shopping by street, see box below.

Harrods Brompton Rd, 📍 harrods.com; 📍 Knightsbridge; map pp.422–423. London's grandest department store and a place where many tourists come just to browse; check out the incredible food hall and the art gallery. Daily 10am–8pm, Sun noon–6pm.

Liberty Great Marlborough St 📍 liberty.co.uk; 📍 Oxford Circus; map p.425. Famous for its iconic prints, with jewellery, scarves, bags and designer clothes in opulent surroundings. Mon–Sat 10am–8pm, Sun noon–6pm.

Topshop & Topman 214–216 Oxford St 📍 topshop.com; 📍 Oxford Circus; map p.425. "World's largest fashion store" attracts huge crowds in search of the latest fashions. Mon–Sat 9am–9pm, Sun 11.30am–6pm.

★ Stanford's 12–14 Long Acre 📍 stanfords.co.uk; 📍 Covent Garden/Leicester Square; map p.425. The best travel shop in the UK, with several floors of maps, guidebooks, travel literature and related paraphernalia. Mon–Fri 9am–8pm, Sat 10am–8pm, Sun noon–6pm.

QUINTESSENTIAL LONDON SHOPPING STREETS

Charing Cross Road A great place to pick up reading material. Rummage in one of the many secondhand bookshops, or browse new titles in Foyles.

Covent Garden Plenty of high-street stores, plus independent fashion outlets around the Neal St area, Floral St, Seven Dials and Long Acre.

Knightsbridge to Sloane Square Every high-end designer has their flagship store near here.

Oxford Street London's most famous and frequented shopping strip, home to gargantuan branches of high-street shops including Primark and Nike Town.

Soho and Carnaby Street Seedy Soho is crammed with quirky fashion shops, independent record stores and erotica. At its western boundary, Carnaby Street (📍 carnaby.co.uk) trades heavily on its association with the swinging Sixties, but is still a good bet for cool trainers and young fashion.

DIRECTORY

Banks and exchange Shopping areas such as Oxford St and Covent Garden are littered with private exchange offices, but their rates are usually worse than the banks. Any post office (see p.420) will exchange money commission-free and any large bank will offer competitive rates.

Embassies Australia, Australia House, Corner of Aldwych with the Strand 📍 020 7379 4334, 📍 uk.embassy.gov.au (📍 Holborn/Temple); Canada, Canada House, Trafalgar Square 📍 020 7258 6600, 📍 UnitedKingdom.gc.ca (📍 Charing Cross); Ireland, 17 Grosvenor Place 📍 020 7235 2171, 📍 embassyofireland.co.uk (📍 Hyde Park Corner); New Zealand, 80 Haymarket 📍 020 7930 8422, 📍 nzembassy.com/uk (📍 Piccadilly Circus); South Africa, South Africa House, Trafalgar Square 📍 020 7451 7299, 📍 southafricahouseuk.com (📍 Charing Cross); United States, currently at 24 Grosvenor Square (📍 020 7499 9000, 📍 uk.usembassy.gov; 📍 Bond Street), but due to move south of the river to Nine Elms in 2017.

Hospitals St Mary's Hospital, Praed St (📍 020 3312 6666; 📍 Paddington); University College Hospital, 235 Euston Rd (📍 0845 1555 000; 📍 Euston Square or Warren Street).

Left luggage At all airport terminals and major train stations.

Pharmacy Boots at Piccadilly Circus is open until midnight (6pm on Sun), or Zafash at 233 Old Brompton Rd is 24hr (📍 Earls Court).

Post office 24 William IV St (Mon & Wed–Fri 8.30am–6.30pm, Tues 9.15am–6.30pm, Sat 9am–5.30pm; 📍 Leicester Square/Charing Cross).

Southeast England

Leafy and prosperous, southeast England is well served by swift, frequent rail and coach services from London, making it ideal day-trip territory. The medieval ecclesiastical power base of Canterbury is full of history, while on the coast the upbeat, hedonistic resort of Brighton is London's summer playground by the sea.

DOVER

DOVER is the main port of entry along this stretch of coast, and the country's busiest: ferries sail to Calais and Dunkirk from the Eastern Docks. Besides the spectacular white cliffs of Dover, a symbol

13 of Britain's wartime defiance, and the impressive Dover Castle, with its war tunnels and Roman lighthouse remains, there's little to detain you here.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The main train station is Dover Priory, a 10min walk west of the centre and served by shuttle buses from the Eastern Docks.

Destinations Canterbury (2 hourly; 16–27min) and London (2 hourly; 2hr).

By bus Coaches to London pick up from both the docks and the town-centre bus station on Pengecster Road.

Destinations London (hourly; 2hr 25min–3hr 20min).

Tourist information The tourist office is in Dover Museum, Market Square (daily 9.30/10am–3/5pm; Oct–March closed Sun; ☎ 01304 201066, whitedcliffscountry.org.uk).

CANTERBURY

CANTERBURY, still home to England's pre-eminent Archbishop, was one of medieval Europe's hottest pilgrimage destinations, as Chaucer's Canterbury Tales attest. Pilgrims flocked to the shrine of Archbishop Thomas à Becket, who was brutally murdered in the cathedral nave in 1170, victim of an unseemly spat between Church and State. Enclosed on three sides by medieval walls that you can stroll along, this World Heritage town hosts a sizeable student population, with the cathedral the main visitor draw.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Built in stages from 1070 onwards, Canterbury Cathedral (Mon–Sat 9am–5.30pm, Sun 12.30–2.30pm; canterbury-cathedral.org; adult/student £10.50/9.50) is dominated by the central, sixteenth-century Bell Harry tower, with late Gothic towers giving the cathedral its distinct appearance. Its interior is austere, with a modern sculpture comprising ragged swords, suspended over the place in the northwest transept where Becket met his violent end. Its Romanesque crypt is one of the few remaining visible relics of the Norman cathedral with religious murals dating back to the eleventh century.

For more on local history, check out the Beaney House of Art & Knowledge, 18 High St (Mon–Wed, Fri & Sat 9am–5pm, Thurs 9am–7pm, Sun 10am–5pm; free; canterburymuseums.co.uk/beaney), whose Explorers' Gallery also features such exotica as a nineteenth-century Chinese face-slapper, weaponry from the Indian Raj, an Egyptian cat mummy and ancient Greek pottery.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Canterbury has two train stations: Canterbury East serves London Victoria and Dover Priory, while Canterbury West serves London Paddington, London Charing Cross and St Pancras – the stations are 10min east and southwest of the centre respectively.

Destinations Brighton (change at London or Ashford International; hourly; 2hr 45min); Dover (every 30min; 30min); London St Pancras (hourly; 1hr 15min); London Victoria (every 30min; 1hr 35min); London Charing Cross (every 30min; 1hr 45min).

By bus The bus station is at St George's Lane, below the High St.

Destinations Dover (hourly; 40min); London (hourly; 2hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office is located in the Beaney (see above; same hours; ☎ 01227 378100).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Canterbury YHA 54 New Dover Rd ☎ 0845 371 9010, yha.org.uk. A 10min walk from the centre, this large, well-run hostel with excellent kitchen facilities and a good ratio of guests per bathroom is a friendly place despite its somewhat institutional decor. Dorms £15, doubles £69

Kipps Canterbury 40 Nunnery Fields ☎ 01227 786121, kipps-hostel.com. Homely independent hostel near Canterbury East station and an easy walk to the centre. There's a communal kitchen, free wi-fi and a garden with pool table. Dorms £19.50, doubles £65

EATING AND DRINKING

Burgate Coffee House 43 Burgate. Steps away from the cathedral entrance, this snug independent café, decorated with photos of Burma, is an excellent stop for good coffee and imaginative sandwiches (£5.50–6.50), including veggie options. Mon–Sat 8.30am–5.30pm, Sun 10am–4.30pm.

★ Goods Shed Canterbury West station thegoodsshed.co.uk. Top-notch local picnic ingredients and cheap lunch specials in this atmospheric restaurant and farmers' market that also stocks up to 300 different ale varieties. Head for Whitstable Larder for gourmet sausage rolls (80p), quiches, pies and tarts. Tues–Sat 9am–6pm, Sun till 4pm.

Kitch 4 St Peter's St. This tiny, whitewashed eatery specializes in generous cooked breakfasts (£8–9), superfood salads and home-made hummus and soup, with an emphasis on local, organic produce: vegetarians and vegans are well-catered for. Mon–Fri 8.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9am–5pm.

BRIGHTON

BRIGHTON has been a magnet for day-tripping Londoners since the Prince Regent (later George IV) started holidaying here in the 1770s with his mistress, launching a trend for the “dirty weekend”. One of Britain’s most entertaining seaside resorts, the city has emerged from seediness to embrace a new, fashionable hedonism, becoming one of the country’s gay centres. This factor – along with a large student presence – has endowed Brighton with a buzzing nightlife scene, and there’s a colourful music and arts festival (@brightonfestival.org), which runs for three weeks in May, coinciding with Brighton Fringe Festival (@brightonfringe.org), followed by Brighton Pride (@brighton-pride.org) in August.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Most people head straight for the beach, a four-mile-long stretch of pebbles bordered by a balustraded promenade. Brighton’s cultural attractions and the shops and cafés of The Lanes are a short stroll from here.

The seafront

The wonderfully tacky half-mile-long Brighton Pier is an obligatory call; it’s a huge amusement arcade, peppered with booths selling fish and chips, candyfloss and the famous Brighton rock. The Brighton Wheel provides sky-high views of the pier and coastline from its glass pods (Mon–Thurs & Sun 10am–9pm, Fri & Sat 10am–11pm; £8, @brightonwheel.com), while a short stroll further east is the oldest electric railway in the world, Volk’s Electric Railway (Easter–Sept daily every 15min, Mon–Fri 10.15am–5pm, Sat & Sun 11.15am–6pm; £3.80 return, @volkselectricrailway.co.uk), whose antiquated locomotives run eastward towards the marina and the nudist beach. Brighton’s newest attraction, a controversial, 531ft observation tower with Sky Bar, the British Airways i360 (Sun–Thurs 10am–10pm, Fri & Sat 10am–11pm; £15; @britishairwaysi360.com), opened in summer 2016 on the seafront by the old West Pier.

The Royal Pavilion and around

Inland, wedged between The Lanes and North Laine (see below) and flanked by the Theatre Royal, is the square known as Pavilion Gardens, home to the flamboyant Royal Pavilion (daily: April–Sept 9.30am–5.45pm; Oct–March 10am–5.15pm; £12.30; @brightonmuseums.org.uk/royalpavilion). The closest you’ll get to the Taj Mahal in Britain, the Royal Pavilion is a wedding-cake confection of pagodas, minarets and domes built in 1817 as a pleasure palace for the Prince Regent. Its interior is even more impressive than the exterior, decorated with ostentatious chandeliers and exotic chinoiserie.

Opposite the Pavilion is the Brighton Museum and Art Gallery (Tues–Sun & Mon bank hols 10am–5pm; free; @brightonmuseums.org.uk), worth a visit for its excellent collection of twentieth-century art and design and a pair of the corpulent Prince Regent’s enormous trousers.

The Lanes and North Laine

Between the seafront and Trafalgar Street lie Brighton’s “lanes”, offering some of the UK’s best shopping. The narrow alleys of The Lanes preserve the layout of the fishing port that Brighton once was, while to the north the arty, bohemian quarter of North Laine is not in fact one road but many thin streets. Both are packed with stalls, independent second-hand clothes-, record- and bookshops, quirky boutiques and cosy coffee houses.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train From the train station on Queen’s Road it’s a 10min stroll straight down to the seafront.

Destinations Gatwick airport (every 15min; 25–40min); London (Victoria, King’s Cross, St Pancras, Blackfriars and London Bridge; every 15min; 50min–1hr 5min).

By bus Coaches arrive at the Pool Valley bus station, very near the seafront.

Destinations Gatwick airport (hourly; 1hr); London Victoria (hourly; 1hr 50min–2hr 15min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information There's no tourist office, but contact ☎ 01273 290337, 🌐 visitbrighton.com for info.

ACCOMMODATION

Most accommodation options in Brighton require a two-night minimum stay at weekends, while prices in hostels go up at weekends, too: book well in advance for festivals and other events.

★ Happy Brighton 23 Broad St ☎ 01273 676826, 🌐 happybrighton.com. Run by friendly, young, multi-lingual hosts, this great hostel is near the sea and the main attractions – you can choose between regular bunks or sleeping pods in a shared room. Dorms £21

Kipps Brighton 76 Grand Parade ☎ 01273 604182, 🌐 kipps-brighton.com. Independent, friendly hostel run by the same people as Kipps Canterbury (see p.438), with a bar, terrace, and all other usual amenities for backpackers. Breakfast £2. Dorms £20, doubles £90

Miami Hotel 22 Bedford Square ☎01273 778701, themiamihotel.co.uk. This is a handsome Grade II-listed Regency townhouse just a short stroll from the beach and town centre. The furniture went out of fashion in the 1970s, but some rooms come with sea views and balconies, and attached kitchenettes allow you to self-cater too. Doubles £45

EATING

Café Coho 53 Ship St ☎cafecoho.co.uk. This bijou independent café with a handful of outdoor tables is a great spot for people-watching in The Lanes. It does posh overstuffed sandwiches (bacon, brie and cranberry £4.25), as well as delicious cakes and coffee. Mon–Fri 8am–6.30pm, Sat & Sun 9am–7pm.

Grubbs Burgers 13 York Place & 89 St James' St. This Brighton micro-chain is legendary for its succulent burgers, with around 15 inventive combos: burger and fries/wedges £5.60. Sun–Thurs noon–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–3am.

★ lydea 17 Kensington Gardens ☎lydea.co.uk. Veggie café with an emphasis on freshness and eco-friendliness, with a Middle Eastern and Mediterranean bent; expect delicious globally influenced mains (£4.70–7.70 including two sides), tempting breakfasts, as well as cakes, salads, smoothies and organic beer and wine. Daily 9.30am–5.30pm.

Pompoko 110 Church St ☎pompoko.co.uk. Extremely popular no-frills Japanese with speedy service and tasty rice dishes such as teriyaki chicken don (£5.20) – everything on the menu is under £6. Daily 11.30am–11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Packed with bars, pubs and clubs, Brighton's frenetic nightlife can compete with that of many larger cities: for full listings, pick up a copy of The Brighton Magazine or check out brighton.co.uk. It also has a lively gay scene; check out the free listings magazine 35ixty.

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Rooms at the vibrant Artist Residence boutique hotel (33 Regency Square, ☎01273324302, arthotelbrighton.co.uk) have been decorated by artists, with each in a different style: some are emblazoned with graffiti, some feature pop art-style murals, while others are more soberly decorated while still retaining an arty feel. The smaller "micro sea view" rooms and standard doubles (without sea view) are a bargain, and breakfasts are a treat. Doubles £120

★ TREAT YOURSELF

English's Oyster Bar 29–31 East St ☎01273 327980, englishs.co.uk.

Superior seafood in appealingly old-school surroundings. The two-course set menu is great value at £18, with dishes such as mussels steamed in cider followed by haddock in a pesto crust. Have your oysters raw or cooked three different ways. Daily noon–10pm.

PUBS

★ The Cricketers 15 Black Lion St ☎cricketersbrighton.co.uk. This historic pub – Brighton's oldest – was immortalized by Graham Greene in the classic Brighton Rock, and its cosy, rich-red interior with plenty of hidden nooks has changed little since. A good selection of ales, and the food's decent too. Sun–Thurs noon–10pm, Fri–Sun noon–8pm.

Dr Brighton's 16 Kings Rd ☎doctorbrightons.co.uk. Friendly gay pub – Brighton's oldest – on the seafloor, which is popular with all ages and has DJ sets at weekends. On Mon, Tues, Thurs & Sun the happy hour lasts all day. Mon–Thurs 1pm–midnight, Fri & Sat 1pm–2am, Sun 1–11pm.

Great Eastern 103 Trafalgar St. A tiny, 150-year-old traditional pub, serving over 60 American whiskeys and a great selection of real ales. Live music on Thurs and DJs every other Fri/Sat, as well as traditional roast lunches on Sun. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–1am.

★ Lion and Lobster 24 Silwood St ☎thelionandlobster.co.uk. A classic pub serving excellent food in rambling dining quarters (book at weekends), and a two-storey outdoor terrace. Mon–Thurs 11am–1am, Fri & Sat 11am–2am, Sun noon–midnight.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC VENUES

Brighton Coalition 171–181 Kings Rd Arches ☎drinkinbrighton.co.uk/coalition. Right on the seafloor, this club puts on a range of events, from club nights to karaoke. Thurs hosts District, dedicated to alternative rock and indie, with cheap drinks and popular with students. Daily 10pm–late.

Komedia 44 Gardner St ☎komedia.co.uk. Cool venue offering everything from cabaret and comedy to rock gigs, club nights and spoken word. Live music nights vary 7.30–11pm; club nights Fri & Sat 11pm–3am; comedy Thurs, Fri & Sun 8–10.30pm, Sat 7–9.30pm & 11pm–1.30am.

Revenge 32 Old Steine ☎revenge.co.uk. Brighton's biggest gay club is a three-floor affair, including a roof terrace, with a cheesy soundtrack. Bar Mon–Wed & Sun noon–1am, Thurs 9pm–1am, Fri & Sat noon–6am; club Tues–Sat 10.30pm–5am.

13 The West Country

As you approach England's West Country, the cosmopolitan feel of the southeast begins to fade into a slower, rural pace of life from Salisbury onwards, becoming more pronounced the further west you travel. In Neolithic times a rich and powerful culture evolved here, shown by monuments such as Stonehenge and Avebury. Urban attractions include vibrant Bristol and the elegant spa town of Bath, with its extensive Roman ruins, while those in search of bleakly picturesque rural landscapes should head for the ancient woods of Dartmoor. The southwestern extremities of Britain include some of the country's most beautiful stretches of coastline: with rugged, rocky shores, excellent white sandy beaches and surfable waves, Cornwall is one of Britain's busiest corners over the summer.

SALISBURY

Over a millennium ago, SALISBURY was founded after clergy living in the fort at Old Sarum, two miles north of the city, moved down the valley and created a walled sanctuary and the magnificent cathedral at the site where five rivers meet. Lined with half-timbered tudor houses, its central streets follow a grid pattern, so it is easy to find your way from the train station off Fisherton Street east over the River Avon to the bus station and Market Square (market on Tues & Sat), or to the cathedral south down the High Street through North Gate.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The city's dominant feature is the elegant spire of its thirteenth-century Gothic cathedral (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun noon–4pm; £7.50 for 45min tour, or £12.50 for 90min tour including spire; salisburycathedral.org.uk), the tallest in the country at over 400ft. Don't miss the world's oldest working clock, dating from 1386, in the north aisle, or the lofty octagonal chapterhouse, approached via the cloisters (Mon–Fri 9.30–4.30pm, Sat 10am–4.30pm, Sun 12.45–3.45pm; free), which holds one of the four extant copies of the 1215 Magna Carta, England's most famous constitutional document, as well as one of Europe's finest medieval friezes.

Most of Salisbury's remaining sights are grouped in a sequence of graceful historic houses around Cathedral Close. The Salisbury Museum on West Walk (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; June–Sept also Sun noon–5pm; £8; salisburymuseum.org.uk) is a good place to bone up on the Neolithic history of the region – don't miss the Stonehenge Archer – before heading out to Stonehenge.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train The station is on the northwest edge of town, a 10min walk from the cathedral.

Destinations Bath (every 30min; 1hr); Bristol (every 30min; 1hr 10min); Exeter (for Dartmoor; hourly; 2hr); London (every 30min; 1hr 40min).

By bus Buses terminate behind Endless St, a short walk northeast of the cathedral.

Destinations Bath (1 daily; 1hr 15min); Bristol (1 daily; 2hr 15min); London via Heathrow Airport (3 daily; 3hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Tourist office on Fish Row, just off Market Square (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 10am–2pm; ☎ 01722 342860, visitwiltshire.co.uk).

ACCOMMODATION

Alderbury Caravan & Camping Park Southampton Rd, Whaddon ☎ 01722 710125, alderburycaravanpark.co.uk; bus #X7. Three miles south of Salisbury, this pleasant campsite with launderette and wi-fi is easily reached from the city centre (15min). Per tent £13

Spire House 84 Exeter St ☎ 01722 339213, salisbury-bedandbreakfast.com. A terrific base for exploring Salisbury, this welcoming B&B has four double rooms with funky wallpaper and comfortable furnishings, chosen with care. Excellent breakfasts, too. Doubles £75

EATING AND DRINKING

Gallery Café at Fisherton Mill 108 Fisherton St. Fantastic café-cum-art-and-craft gallery where you can get a great stone-baked bread sandwich (£6), soup or salad and watch sculptors or milliners at their craft. Tues–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat 9.30am–5.30pm.

★ Haunch of Venison 1 Minster St haunchpub.co.uk. Tiny, atmospheric old pub supposedly home to the ghost of the “Demented Whist Player”, whose amputated mummified hand resides in a nook in a side room as a warning to card game cheats everywhere. Also boasts an outstanding whisky selection. Mon–Sat 11am–11pm, Sun noon–6pm.

STONEHENGE

In deepest darkest Wiltshire, between Salisbury and Bath, the countryside was once home to a thriving Neolithic civilization, the greatest legacy of which is the mysterious stone circle of Stonehenge (daily: mid-March to April, May & Sept to mid-Oct 9.30am–6pm; June–Aug 9am–7pm; mid-Oct to mid-March 9.30am–5pm; £15.50; www.english-heritage.org.uk). Built in several distinct stages and adapted to the needs of successive cultures, the first stones were raised about 3000 BC, and during the next six hundred years the incomplete blue-stone circle was transformed into the familiar formation observed today. The way in which the sun's rays penetrate the enclosure at dawn on midsummer's day has led to speculation about Stonehenge's role as either an astronomical observatory or a place of sun worship.

A smart visitor centre at Airman's Corner features a wonderful 360-degree projection of Stonehenge, as well as reconstructed Neolithic huts: free shuttle buses run from here to the stones – or you can walk the 1.5 miles. The stones are cordoned off, but you can walk round the outside and view them from about 100 yards away. To walk among the stones, you have to pre-book a half-hourly time slot, though there's free access once a year on the evening of the summer solstice, when tens of thousands of revellers party at the stones until sunrise (see website for details).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus The Stonehenge Tour bus (mid-March to early June & Sept to mid-Oct 10am–4pm hourly; early June to Aug 9.30am–5pm every 30min; www.stonehenge-tour.info; £14) connects Salisbury's train station to Stonehenge.

BATH

BATH is surely the prettiest small city in Britain. It became important under the Romans, who worshipped at the hot springs, creating the eponymous baths, one of Britain's top sights. Revived and reconstructed in the eighteenth century as a retreat for the wealthy and fashionable, the city has a harmonious and elegant look, constructed from the local honey-coloured sandstone and still retaining the genteel air of refinement Jane Austen satirized in her novels Persuasion and Northanger Abbey. However, the large student population makes it a vibrant place and there are numerous festivals throughout the year, such as the eclectic two-week International Music Festival in May and, naturally, the Jane Austen Festival in September, when a Regency dress parade takes place: see www.visitbath.co.uk for all festivals.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Bounded on three sides by the River Avon, Bath's core is relatively compact. From Bath Spa train station, head north along Manvers Street which becomes Pierrepont Street in the direction of Pulteney Bridge, then turn off left up York Street to reach the Abbey, Roman Baths and tourist office. Carry on winding northwest from the Abbey until you reach Queen Square and walk through Royal Victoria Park to reach the most famous streets in Bath, the Royal Crescent and the Circus.

The Roman Baths and Bath Abbey

The Romans considered natural hot springs a gift from the gods, and Bath's, being the only ones in Britain, received very special treatment when they conquered in 43 AD. Hidden underground for years, the springs were rediscovered by the Victorians: today, they house the wonderfully interactive Roman Baths museum (daily: March–June, Sept & Oct 9am–5pm; July & Aug 9am–9pm; Nov–Feb 9.30am–5pm; £15, combined ticket with Fashion Museum £21; www.romanbaths.co.uk). Highlights include the almost perfectly preserved bronze head of Minerva, Roman goddess of the sacred spring, a large portion of the decorative front of the Temple that would have stood as part of the bath complex, as well as an extensive warren of spa rooms. The Pump Room, built in the eighteenth century, is now a restaurant and tearoom; the Roman Baths entrance ticket entitles you to a free glass of the tepid ferrous spa water inside.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Follow in the footsteps of the Romans and pamper yourself in stylish, contemporary surroundings at Thermae Bath Spa (daily 9am–9.30pm; 📍thermaebathspa.com), Britain's only natural hot spa. A two-hour session, with access to the spectacular open-air rooftop pool, costs £34.

The Royal Crescent and Assembly Rooms

The best of Bath's eighteenth-century architecture is on the high ground to the north of the town centre, where the well-proportioned Georgian urban planning is showcased by the elegant Circus and adjacent Royal Crescent, former home to the likes of David Livingstone and Clive of India. The first house to be built here, no. 1 (Mon noon–5pm, Tues–Sun 10.30am–5.30pm; £8.50; 📍no1royalcrescent.org.uk), has been sumptuously restored to its former glory; you can wander the elegant Georgian rooms above stairs, as well as the original servants' quarters.

Just east of the Circus, the elegant Assembly Rooms (daily 10.30am–6pm; £2.50, or included in entry to the Fashion Museum) were the hub of fashionable Georgian society. The building also houses the Fashion Museum (daily: Jan, Feb, Nov & Dec 10.30am–4pm; March–Oct 10.30am–5pm; £8.75 or joint ticket with Roman Baths £21; 📍fashionmuseum.co.uk), with displays showcasing the changing dress code from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries.

The Holburne Museum

A ten-minute walk from the centre along Great Pulteney St, the Holburne Museum (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 11am–5pm; free; 📍holburne.org) is an excellent fine-arts collection housed in a stately villa with a bold glass extension. On display are paintings by Gainsborough, who was born in Bath, and his contemporaries

Stubbs and Zoffany, as well as some fine Dutch paintings and exquisite small-scale sculptures, ceramics and porcelain.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Bath Spa train station is on Dorchester St at the end of Manvers St, 5min south of the Abbey.

Destinations Bristol (every 20min; 15min); London Paddington (every 30min; 1hr 30min); Oxford (change at Didcot Parkway; 1–2 hourly; 1hr 10min–1hr 30min); Salisbury (1–2 hourly; 1hr).

By bus The bus station is along from the train station on Dorchester St.

Destinations Bristol (every 20min; 1hr); Bristol Airport (hourly; 1hr 15min); Glastonbury (1 direct daily from Bath Spa; 1hr); London (hourly; 2hr 45min–4hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office is just off the Abbey churchyard (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 10am–4pm; 📍0906 711 2000, 📍visitbath.co.uk). Free walking tours leave from the Pump Room (Sun–Fri 10.30am & 2pm; Sat 10.30am; 2hr; 📍bathguides.org.uk), or you can download a self-guided walking tours app from the Visit Bath website.

ACCOMMODATION

Bath YHA Bathwick Hill 📍0845 371 9303, 📍yha.org.uk; bus #18 or #U18. Stunning hillside villa a couple of miles uphill east of town with an unloved interior that's due to be refurbished. Dorms £20, doubles £48

Bath YMCA Broad St Place 📍01255 325900, 📍bathymca.co.uk. Large, no-frills hostel in a great location in the centre of town. The staff are friendly and breakfast is good, but cleanliness is an issue. Dorms £23, doubles £60

University of Bath Claverton Down 📍01225 386079, 📍bath.ac.uk/accommodation. Simply furnished, great-value en-suite rooms at the university, east of the centre, with hotel-style extras such as free toiletries, tea and coffee; most rooms are available July–Sept, but some can be booked all year. Doubles £60

White Hart Inn Widcombe Hill 📍01225 313985, 📍whitehartbath.co.uk. A 10min walk from the station: although it is a bit further out of the centre, this old inn offers simple but excellent-value dorms, singles and doubles, with a good restaurant and bar downstairs, plus a little sun-trap garden. Dorms £15, doubles £40

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

★The Bell Inn 103 Walcot St 📍thebellinnbath.co.uk. Everything you want from a neighbourhood pub: a range of beers, a mixed and lively crowd, a garden, live music most days and vinyl DJs at weekends, plus good roasts at weekends and barbecues in summer. Mon–Sat 11.30am–11pm, Sun noon–10.30pm.

Made by Ben 100 Walcot St @madebyben.com. Delicious gourmet sandwiches, pies, quiches and cakes. There's a handful of tables out back, or you can take away (quiche with salad £6.50). Mon–Fri 8am–5pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm.

Moles 14 George St @moles.co.uk. This popular live-music venue attracts a good mix of bands, while club nights (Tues–Sat) range from indie and alternative to The Big Cheese. Tues–Sat 10pm–3 or 4am.

The Raven of Bath 6–7 Queen St @theravenofbath.co.uk. As well as micro-brewed ales and a relaxed atmosphere, this pub serves up fantastic pies with mash and gravy (£9.80). Mon–Thurs & Sun 11.30am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11.30am–midnight.

★ Wild Café 10a Queen St @wildcafe.co.uk. A trendy local favourite for brunch (served all day) and mains such as lamb and falafel burgers. Great organic and fairtrade food, and the café is powered by renewable energy. English breakfast £7. Mon–Fri 8am–5pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm.

Yak Yeti Yak 12 Pierrepont St 01225 443473, @yakyeti yak.co.uk. Not the cheapest, but you may not get another Nepalese meal this good in Britain; for £10.50, the 3-course set meal is a great deal (noon–2pm & before 7pm). Booking essential at weekends. Mon–Thurs noon–2pm & 6–10.30pm, Fri & Sat noon–2pm & 5–10.30pm, Sun 6–10.30pm.

BRISTOL

Situated on a succession of chunky hills twelve miles west of Bath and just inland from the mouth of the River Avon, BRISTOL grew rich on transatlantic trade – the slave trade, in particular – in the eighteenth century. It remains a wealthy, commercial centre, and is home to a population of around 450,000, a major university, a thriving music scene that produced some of the most significant artists of the 1990s (Portishead, Tricky, Massive Attack), and Banksy – guerrilla artist and agent provocateur whose subversive stencils adorn neglected city walls throughout the world. More ethnically diverse than other cities in the southwest, Bristol manages to combine clued-up arty urban culture with enticing green spaces and striking industrial architecture. In August, the city hosts Europe's largest hot-air balloon fiesta (@bristolballoonfiesta.co.uk) – a spectacular sight.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The city centre is an elongated traffic interchange, known as the Centre Promenade. Walking from the station, detour via the church of St Mary Redcliffe (Mon–Sat 8.30am–5pm, Sun 8am–8pm; donation expected), a glorious Gothic confection begun in the thirteenth century, before continuing across the river, through elegant Queen's Square.

The Floating Harbour

The southern end of the centre gives way to the city's Floating Harbour, an area of waterways that formed the hub of the old port. It is now the location of numerous bars and restaurants as well as M Shed (Tues–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; free; @mshed.org), a museum whose engaging, interactive exhibits provide an excellent overview of all things Bristolian, from the city's role in the transatlantic slave trade to its contemporary music scene. Nearby are two of Bristol's contemporary arts venues: the Arnolfini (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm @arnolfini.org.uk; free), a cool, white gallery and performing arts space that stages modern art and photography exhibitions, and the Watershed cinema complex (@watershed.co.uk), with an excellent café. Just north of here, College Green is overlooked by the city's Gothic Revival cathedral and the curvaceous red-brick Council House. A short walk west along the southern side of the harbour, or a brief ride on the ferry (£1.60 return; 10min), brings you to Isambard Kingdom Brunel's majestic SS Great Britain (Mon–Fri 10am–4.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5.30pm; adult £14, student £11; @ssgreatbritain.org), the world's first propeller-driven iron ship, which first launched from here in 1843, and has been sensitively restored to its original glory. One of the most technologically advanced ships of its time, the passenger liner zipped between Bristol and New York in just two weeks.

Stokes Croft

The main road leading north from the centre, Stokes Croft, has become the city's cultural pulse as artists and creative types

13 have turned what was until recently a grotty road littered with derelict buildings into a buzzing and fashionable part of the city with an array of vintage shops, cool cafés and street art.

Clifton

Reached by bus #8 from the Centre Promenade, genteel Clifton Village is a great place to wander, its streets lined with Georgian mansions, airy terraces, enticing pubs and antiques shops. Overhanging the limestone abyss of the Avon Gorge is the Clifton Suspension Bridge, another creation of the indefatigable engineer Brunel. From the Clifton side of the Suspension Bridge, the Downs, the city's largest green space, stretches north for a couple of miles. On the way back down to the centre, the Bristol Museum and Art Gallery (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; free; bristol.gov.uk/museums) is home to Banksy's controversial Paint Pot Angel sculpture, as well as an excellent Eastern Art collection, exhibits on prehistory and more.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Bristol Airport (bristolairport.co.uk), eight miles south of town, is served by easyJet and Ryanair flights from Edinburgh, Glasgow and Newcastle as well as European destinations. Regular Bristol International Flyer buses (flyer.bristolairport.co.uk) run to the stations and the city centre (£7 one-way; 30min).

By train The main station, Bristol Temple Meads, is a 5min bus ride southeast of the centre (bus #8 or #9), or a 15min walk.

Destinations Bath (every 10–30min; 15min); Cardiff (every 20min; 40min–1hr); Exeter for Dartmoor (every 30min; 1hr); London (hourly; 1hr 45min); Penzance (hourly; 5hr 15min); Oxford via Reading or Didcot Parkway (every 30min; 1hr–1hr 30min); Salisbury (every 30min–1hr; 1hr 10min); York (hourly; 4hr).

By bus The bus station is near the Broadmead shopping centre on Marlborough St.

Destinations Bath (every 20min; 1hr); Cardiff (every 2hr; 1hr 15min); Glastonbury (some via Wells; every 30min; 1hr 20min); Oxford (1 daily; 3hr); Penzance (5 daily; 5hr 45min–8hr 15min); Salisbury (1 daily; 2hr 10min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office is at E Shed, Canons Rd, just off Centre Promenade on the water (Mon–Fri & Sun 11am–4pm, Sat 10am–4pm; 0906 7112191, visitbristol.co.uk): Bristol Highlights Walk (bristolwalks.co.uk; £6) tours of the old town depart from outside here at 11am every Saturday (March–Nov).

ACCOMMODATION

Bristol YHA 14 Narrow Quay 0845 3719726, yha.org.uk. This splendidly situated hostel is in an old wharfside building – a former grain house – next to the Arncliffe. Staff are helpful and the rooms are clean, though fairly institutional and with cheap beds. Dorms £20, doubles £48.
Clifton House 4 Tyndall's Park Rd 0117 9735407, cliftonhousebristol.com. Boutique B&B in a Victorian villa in Clifton, behind the museum, offering en-suite triple and quad rooms with a luxurious feel. Full English breakfast included. Doubles £85.

Rock and Bowl Motel 22 Nelson St 0117 3251980, rocknbowlmotel.com. For energetic night owls rather than for light sleepers, this loud, convivial, mural-covered place in the city centre has basic but clean dorms and rooms above a retro bowling alley; there's on-site bowling, live music and a large lounge for socializing. Dorms £18, doubles £45.

EATING

Boston Tea Party 75 Park St, 156 Cheltenham Rd, 97 Whiteladies Rd & 1 Princess Victoria St, Clifton. Chain of cafés dotted around the southwest, each with its own personality and an emphasis on locally sourced produce. Cooked breakfast £7. Mon–Sat 7.30am–8pm, Sun 9am–7pm.

★ Canteen 80 Stokes Croft canteenbristol.co.uk. In a refurbished 1960s office block, this cooperative-run bar with restaurant serves slow, locally produced food such as Cornish fish stew for just £8. Live alternative music for all tastes starts from around 9.30pm. Mon–Thurs & Sun 10am–midnight, Fri & Sat 10am–1am.

Eat a Pitta 67a Gloucester Rd eatapitta.co.uk. The short but sweet menu has just three items and they all involve Bristol's best falafel (£6), with home-made sauces. Daily Mon–Sat 10.30am–8.30pm, Sun 10.30am–6pm.

Mud Dock Café 40 The Grove. Bike shed café-restaurant on the quayside, with great views over the water from their balcony, and dishes such as spinach and feta omelette on the £6 weekday lunch menu. Mon 10am–5pm, Tues–Fri & Sun 10am–10pm, Sat 9am–10pm.

Simply Thai 67 Gloucester Rd simplythaibristol.com. One of several inexpensive, good restaurants along Gloucester Rd, north of the centre, this is an authentic take on Thai food, with favourites such as spicy papaya salad and masaman chicken curry (£7). Daily noon–3pm & 5–11pm.

St Nicolas' Market Corn St. For a budget meal on the go, this great market has a huge array of local and ethnic food stalls. Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm.

★ Thali Cafe 12 York Rd, Montpelier, 1 Regents St, Clifton, & 1 William St, across the river from Temple Meads thethalicafe.co.uk. Colourful mini-chain of Bristol Indian

GLASTONBURY FESTIVAL

The world-famous five-day Glastonbury Festival (glastonburyfestivals.co.uk), held annually over the last weekend in June, is one of the West Country's biggest draws. When it was first held in 1970, this small-scale event cost £1; today it draws 175,000-plus people to a binge of music and hedonism and the tickets (£228) sell out in hours. Anyone who is anyone has played here – and there's still nothing else quite like it.

restaurants serving up a fantastic range of street food and thalis (£9). Clifton daily noon–10pm; Montpellier Mon–Fri 6–11pm, Sat & Sun 10am–11pm; William St daily 6–11pm.

DRINKING, NIGHTLIFE AND ENTERTAINMENT

The Apple Cider Boat Welsh Back, at the end of King St applecider.co.uk. A fantastic array of West Country ciders, cider cocktails and snacks such as sausage rolls, all served on a floating canal boat on the harbour. Mon–Sat noon–midnight, Sun noon–10.30pm.

Copper Jack's Crafthouse 30 Clare St. Mural-decorated cocktail bar that hosts live music on Tues, Thurs & Sat – nurse a craft beer on a Chesterfield sofa, or order one of the edgy cocktails that the staff dream up. Tues–Sat 5pm–2am.

Milk Thistle Quay Head House, Colston Ave milkthistlebristol.com. Inside this four-storey speakeasy in a plush townhouse, the beautiful oak-panelled bar serves equally attractive cocktails with a supporting cast of craft beers, wine and cider. Mon–Wed 5pm–1.30am, Thurs–Sat 5pm–3am.

Old Vic King St 0117 9877877, bristololdvic.org.uk. Britain's longest continuously running theatre has undergone a state-of-the-art refurbishment and now has several diverse performance spaces.

★ Start The Bus 7–9 Baldwin St startthebusbristol.co.uk. A buzzing live music bar with local art on the walls, delicious American diner-style food (2 for 1 burgers on Tues) and a happy crowd. Mon–Wed & Sun noon–1am, Thurs noon–2am, Fri & Sat noon–3am.

★ Thekla The Grove, East Mud Dock theklabristol.co.uk. Legendary riverboat venue staging eclectic events, gigs and Bristol's best club nights, ranging from disco to indie. Thurs–Sat 9.30pm–4am.

DARTMOOR

DARTMOOR, an expanse of uplands some 75 miles southwest of Bristol, is one of England's most beautiful wilderness areas. It's home to an indigenous breed of wild pony and dotted with tors, natural outcrops of granite. The area is renowned for outdoor pursuits, from cycling and horseriding to canoeing and climbing, and was the setting for the Sherlock Holmes adventure, The Hound of the Baskervilles. Don't go unprepared, especially if you plan to camp, as the moor has an unforgiving weather system and explorers regularly get lost in its thick fogs. The northern part of the moor is more easily accessible from Exeter while the southern moor is best approached from Plymouth.

Okehampton and Lydford

The wildest parts of the moor, around its highest points of High Willhays and Yes Tor (which at over 2000ft are classified as southern England's only mountains), lie a few miles south of the market town of OKEHAMPTON. Four miles east of here, the Finch Foundry (mid-March to Oct daily 11am–5pm; £5; nationaltrust.org.uk/finch-foundry) is England's last water-powered forge, while the village of LYDFORD lies nine miles southwest of Okehampton, in a lovely gorge setting: there's a great 1.5-mile ramble from the village to the 30m-high White Lady waterfall, via the churning whirlpools of Lydford Gorge.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train and bus There are train stations at Exeter, Newton Abbot, Totnes, Ivybridge and Plymouth; buses run from these towns onto the moor. The Haytor Hoppa bus runs on Sat (June–mid-Sept 4 daily) from Newton Abbot or Bovey Tracey (both serviced by frequent buses from Exeter) up to the northeast corner of the moor. Okehampton is served by regular buses from Plymouth and Exeter.

Tourist information Tourist office located off Fore Street, Okehampton (summer Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; winter Mon, Fri & Sat 10am–4.30pm; 01837 53020, okehamptondevon.co.uk), or check dartmoor.gov.uk for free downloadable walks.

ACCOMMODATION

Dartmoor YHA Postbridge 0845 371 9622, yha.org.uk. This remote and cosy YHA hostel, a mile south of Postbridge, makes a great base for local circular walks. There are basic bunks in the dorms upstairs and a social

CAMPING ON DARTMOOR

Camping wild on certain common land in Dartmoor is permitted for one or two nights, though you shouldn't pitch on farmland, within 100 yards of a road, house or on an archaeological site; check out dartmoor.gov.uk/visiting/vi-enjoyingdartmoor/camping/camping-map for a helpful map. Always obtain consent from the landowner if pitching on private land.

area with books and games downstairs. Small discount for arrival on foot/bike. Dorms £20, doubles £44

Okehampton YHA Klondyke Rd 01837 53916, yha.org.uk. YHA hostel and activity centre in a converted goods shed at Okehampton station, with an on-site restaurant and cycle workshop; it's a popular base for cyclists and there's excellent abseiling and rock climbing in the area, too. Dorms £29, doubles £74

★ Sparrowhawk Backpackers 45 Ford St, Moretonhampstead 01647 440318, sparrowhawkbackpackers.co.uk. A converted barn with a dorm in the old hayloft, plus comfortable if basic private rooms. There's a relaxing communal area including a large kitchen and a sunny courtyard. Dorms £17, doubles £38

PENZANCE AND AROUND

The busy market and port town of PenZANCE with its colourful, pirate-rich history forms the natural gateway to the westernmost extremity of Cornwall, the Penwith Peninsula, and has the best transport links – all the major sights in the region can be reached on day-trips from here.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Penzance itself makes a pleasant base – to explore the town's historic buildings, pick up a self-guided walking tour booklet (£1) from the tourist office. The bigger attractions, however, are a bus ride away along the coast.

St Michael's Mount

The view east across the bay is dominated by St Michael's Mount (stmichaelsmount.co.uk), site of a fortified medieval monastery perched on an offshore pinnacle of rock. At low tide, the Mount is joined by a cobbled causeway to the mainland village of Marazion (bus #2 runs here from Penzance every 30 minutes); at high tide, a boat or amphibious vehicle can ferry you over (£2 each way). You can amble partway along the Mount's shoreline, but most of the rock lies within the grounds of the castle, now a stately home (mid-March to Nov Mon–Fri & Sun 10.30am–5pm; castle £9; gardens £6) that has been inhabited by the St Aubyn family since the seventeenth century.

The Minack Theatre

Clinging to a craggy cove near Porthcurno beach, seven miles west of Penzance, the Minack Theatre (daily: April–Sept 9.30am–5.30pm; Oct–March 10am–4pm; £4 entrance to site, prices for evening performances vary; minack.com) is a splendid sight, a craggy amphitheatre with seats carved into the rocks that overlook the waves below.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Penzance train station is at the northeastern end of town, a step away from Market Jew St.

Destinations Bristol (5 daily; 4hr); London (7 daily; 5hr 40min); Par (for Newquay; hourly; 1hr); St Ives (change at St Erth; hourly; 20–50min).

By bus The bus station is next to the train station.

Destinations Bristol (4 daily; 6hr 10min–8hr); Marazion (every 30min; 10min); Land's End (hourly; 55min); London (4 daily; 8hr 35min); Newquay (3 daily; 1hr 35min–2hr); St Ives (every 30min; 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information There's a National Trust visitor centre just outside the train and bus stations (Mon–Wed, Fri & Sat 10am–4pm; 01736 335530, purelypenzance.co.uk).

GETTING AROUND

By bus From Penzance, bus #1 or #1A takes you to Land's End (8 daily; 55min) – some stop at Porthcurno (35min) from where it is a 400m steep climb to the Minack Theatre; bus #2 runs to Marazion; #17 runs to St Ives. A £10 day travel card gives you unlimited travel on all buses in Cornwall.

ACCOMMODATION

★ Con Amore Guesthouse 38 Morrab Rd 01736 363423, con-amore.co.uk. A 5min walk from the centre of town, this spotless, homey guesthouse offers a handful of snug en-suite rooms with nice extra touches such as bath robes and kettles. The owners couldn't be more helpful and breakfast costs £5 extra. Singles £35, doubles £65

THE EDEN PROJECT

One of Cornwall's major draws, occupying a 160ft-deep disused clay pit, the Eden Project (daily: April–Oct 9am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; school holidays 10am–6pm; £25; ticket valid for one year, discounts if arriving by public transport or booking online; edenproject.com) showcases the diversity of the planet's plant life in a stunningly landscaped site. The centrepiece is two vast geodesic "biomes", or conservatories, one holding plants from the Mediterranean, and the larger housing the world's largest indoor rainforest; a new canopy walkway allows you to take in the view from the treetops. For an extra £20 you can glide above the biomes on England's longest zip wire or take a 65ft freefall: see hanglooseadventure.com for details. The Eden Project lies four miles northeast of St Austell in Bodelva (bus #101 from St Austell train station).

★ Easy PZ Backpackers 29 Lannoweth Rd ☎01736 368136, easypz.info. A lot of thought has gone into this welcoming hostel: from reading lights by each bunk in the individually decorated dorms to a fully equipped kitchen, lounge and room for drying wet gear. It's a 5min stroll from the bus/railway station; summer season only. Dorms £20, doubles £50

Penzance Backpackers Alexandra Rd (no number; about halfway up) ☎01736 363836, pzbackpack.com. Good independent hostel on a quiet tree-lined road 10min walk from central Penzance. With kitchen, cosy lounge and wi-fi. Dorms £16, doubles £36

EATING AND DRINKING

Archie Browns Bread St. Welcoming veggie café above a health-food shop using locally sourced ingredients. Specialities include mango and sweet potato curry, black bean stew and hominy pie. Breakfasts from £3. Mon–Sat 9am–5pm.

★ Mackerel Sky 45 New St ☎mackerelskycafe.co.uk. Excellent café-restaurant specializing in locally caught fish and seafood. It's hard to go wrong with the crab rarebit (£9) or smoked mackerel fishcakes (£11). Mon, Wed & Sun 10am–2.30pm, Thurs–Sat 10am–2.30pm & 6–9pm.

The Turk's Head Chapel St ☎turksheadpenzance.co.uk. Knock back a pint of local Turk's Head ale at this cosy thirteenth-century pub with a pirate heritage and a smugglers' tunnel that runs all the way to the harbour. Excellent food accompanies the local ales and ciders on tap. Mon–Sat 11.30am–11pm, Sun noon–10.30pm.

ST IVES

Across the peninsula from Penzance, the fishing village of ST IVES is the quintessential Cornish resort, featuring a tangle of narrow streets lined with whitewashed cottages, fringed by three wide sandy beaches. The village's erstwhile tranquillity attracted several major artists throughout the twentieth century, including Ben Nicholson and Barbara Hepworth, and every other shop in town is a gallery making the most of its arty heritage. There is even a diminutive outpost of the Tate gallery here overlooking Porthmeor Beach (closed for renovation until Spring 2017, but likely to be same hours and price as Hepworth Museum; tate.org.uk/stives), that focuses on St Ives' School artists such as Patrick Heron and Barbara Hepworth, and features changing exhibitions of contemporary artists. The Barbara Hepworth Museum and Garden on Barnoon Hill (March to late July, Sept & Oct daily 10am–5.20pm; late July & Aug daily 10am–6.20pm; Nov–Feb Tues–Sun 10am–4.20pm; £6.60, or £10 combined with Tate St Ives) preserves the sculptor's studio and you can view some of her more striking abstract works in the beautiful garden.

Of the town's three beaches, the largest, north-facing Porthmeor, usually has good surf; rent a surfboard (£10/2hr) or paddle-board (£18/2hr), or take a lesson at the St Ives Surf School (£35/2hr; ☎01736 793938, stivessurfschool.co.uk). Alternatively, ramble along the

LAND'S END

Mainland Britain's westernmost point is a bleakly beautiful promontory, its steep cliff sides buffeted by relentless waves. Unfortunately, it's also topped by a tacky 1980s monument, shopping arcade and overpriced hotel. However, it's a good starting point for some fantastic day walks along the dramatic coast: you can walk south to Porthcurno (3–4 hours), taking in the Minack Theatre en route and then catching the #1A bus back to Penzance; or walk north to the gorgeous, pristine Sennen Cove (45min), then catch bus #1 back to Penzance.

coastal path south towards Zennor for beautiful views of craggy coves and wild flowers.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is at Porthminster Beach.

Destinations London (via St Erth; 7 daily; 5hr 35min–6hr 20min); Penzance (hourly; 30–50min).

By bus The bus station is at The Malakoff, next to the train station. Buses #17 and #18 run to Penzance (1–2 hourly; 45min).

Tourist information The St Ives Visitor and Information Centre (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 11am–4pm; ☎ 0905 2522250, stivestic.co.uk) is in the Guildhall.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Blas Burgerworks The Warren ☎ 01736 797272. Tuck into the best burgers in the southwest, with a great choice for vegetarians, too: specialities include halloumi stack with caper aioli and black bean burger with guacamole. Daily noon–9.30pm.

Cohort Hostel The Stennack, Town Centre ☎ 01736 791664, stayatcohort.co.uk. The refurbished St Ives Backpackers hostel occupies an enormous old Wesleyan chapel and comes with seriously comfortable beds, a chill-out room and surfer-friendly facilities. It's built around a central courtyard where barbecues are organized in summer. Dorms £19, doubles £40

NEWQUAY

Buffeted by Atlantic currents, Cornwall's north coast is the area of the West Country most favoured by the surfing set. King of the surf resorts is tacky NEWQUAY, whose seven miles of golden sands, including Fistral Beach, host surfing championships. Equipment can be rented on most beaches or from one of the surf shops around town.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Newquay's airport (newquaycornwallairport.com) is three miles north of town; destinations include London Gatwick, Glasgow, Liverpool and Manchester: bus #56 runs to the centre (hourly; 20min).

By train The train station (change in Par or Plymouth) is just east of the centre.

Destinations London (5 daily; 5hr); Penzance (6 daily; 2hr).

By bus The bus station is on Manor Rd.

Destinations Eden Project (hourly; 1hr); St Ives (every 30min; 1hr).

Tourist information The tourist office at Marcus Hill (Mon–Fri 9.15am–5.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm, reduced hours in winter; ☎ 01637 854020, visitnewquay.org) has a left luggage facility and books surfing lessons.

ACCOMMODATION

Base Surf Lodge 20 Tower Rd ☎ 07766 132124, basesurflodge.co.uk. Overlooking Fistral Beach, just thirty seconds from the UK's best waves, this lively lodge welcomes surfers with dorm-style digs of two to six beds per room. Surf lessons arranged and stag and hen parties welcome. Three-night minimum July to August. Dorms £25, doubles £50

Smarties Surf Lodge 84 Crantock St ☎ 01637 872391, smartiessurflodge.co.uk. Hospitable Jackie plies her guests with cake and cold beer on arrival, the downstairs common area is a sociable chill-out spot and the place is just a short walk from both the beaches and the nightlife. Dorms £20

Central England

Encompassing both the old industrial towns and cities of the Midlands and some postcard-pretty countryside, alongside some of England's major cultural landmarks, CENTRAL ENGLAND defies easy categorization. With close on a million residents, Birmingham is the Midlands' largest city, but despite boasting one of the best concert halls in the country, is still unlikely to feature on a whistle-stop national tour. More appealing for a quick fix of history and culture are Stratford-upon-Avon, birthplace of William Shakespeare, and the rival university cities of Oxford and Cambridge.

OXFORD

Thoughts of OXFORD inevitably conjure up the university, revered as one of the world's great academic institutions. The city's skyline is dominated by its "dreaming spires", while the streets and narrow lanes of its compact medieval heart form a dense maze lined with historic honey-stone buildings containing the university's 38 grand colleges. Its combination of workaday vitality with hallowed academia, hidden centuries-old taverns and thousands of students strolling its lanes makes Oxford one of Britain's most appealing cities.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

If you're looking to visit the colleges, plan your visit in advance (check www.ox.ac.uk) since access may be restricted at exam time – especially in May and June – as well as during conferences and functions.

Christ Church College and the cathedral

The largest and most ostentatious of Oxford's colleges, Christ Church (Mon–Sat 10am–4.30pm, Sun 2–4.30pm; £8; www.chch.ox.ac.uk) was founded by Cardinal Wolsey in 1524; today, a great number of visitors come to view its grand dining hall (open from 2.30pm) and Great Staircase, which featured in the Harry Potter films. The college chapel is in fact the city of Oxford's beautiful cathedral.

Christ Church Meadow, Merton and Magdalen

South of Christ Church, Christ Church Meadow offers scenic views and gentle walks – either east along Broad Walk to the River Cherwell or south along New Walk to the River Isis. From the Broad Walk, paths lead to Merton College (Mon–Fri 2–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–5pm; £3; www.merton.ox.ac.uk), founded in 1264 and home to Oxford's first quad, the Mob Quad, as well as the oldest medieval library in use, where Tolkien wrote much of Lord of the Rings. Nearby Rose Lane emerges at the eastern end of the High Street opposite Magdalen College (pronounced “maudlin”; daily noon–6/7pm; £6; www.magd.ox.ac.uk), with a beautiful medieval chapel and cloisters – the wealth of gargoyles and grotesques perching on its buttresses is said to have inspired C.S. Lewis' stone statues in The Chronicles of Narnia.

The Bodleian Library and around

Just north of the High Street stands the Bodleian Library (term time: Mon–Fri 9am–10pm, Sat 9am–4pm, Sun 11am–5pm; holidays: Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat 10am–4pm; 1hr tour £8; www.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/bodley), the country's second-largest copyright library, with a staggering 4000 books added every week. Tours take in the fifteenth-century Divinity School (Hogwarts' infirmary in the Harry Potter films) and Duke Humphrey's medieval library, while

OXFORD*ACCOMMODATION

Central Backpackers Oxford	2
Hollybush Guest House	1
Oxford YHA	3

EATING

Atomic Burger	3
Edamamé	1
Oli's Thai	4

White Rabbit	2
--------------	---

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

The Bear	4	Turf Tavern	2
The Cellar	3
The Eagle & Child	1

extended tours (Wed, Sat & Sun; 90min; £14; booking essential, ☎01865 287400) include the circular Radcliffe Camera, a spectacular reading room with Britain's third-largest dome.

South of the Radcliffe Camera, you can scale the spire of the University Church, St Mary the Virgin, on the High Street (Mon–Fri 9.30am–4.30pm, Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 11.45am–4.30pm; £4), for fantastic panoramic views of central Oxford.

University museums

A few minutes' walk north along Parks Road, and accessed through the Natural History Museum, the Pitt Rivers Museum (Mon noon–4.30pm, Tues–Sun 10am–4.30pm; free; ☎pr.m.ox.ac.uk) is a treasure trove of anthropological miscellanea gathered from around the world by Victorian adventurers. Its fascinating collection includes displays of ceremonial masks, weaponry, tattooing implements, shrunken heads, body adornments and more.

Five minutes' walk west along Museum Road and south along St Giles is the mammoth Neoclassical Ashmolean Museum (Tues–Sun & Bank Holiday Mondays 10am–5pm; free; ☎ashmolean.org). Its extensive collections include Greek, Roman, Mesopotamian and Egyptian antiquities, Islamic, Indian, European and Chinese art, the world's largest collection of Raphael drawings and a priceless Stradivari "Messiah" violin dating from 1716.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Oxford's train station is a 5min walk west of the centre along Park End St.

Destinations Bath (change at Didcot Parkway or Reading; 1–2 hourly; 1hr 20min–1hr 40min); London (2–3 hourly; 1hr–2hr); Manchester (every 30min; 2hr 50min); Stratford-upon-Avon (change at Leamington Spa; every 2hr; 1hr 30min).

By bus Long-distance buses terminate at the centrally located Gloucester Green bus station, off George St. Of the various London–Oxford coach services, the #X90 is currently the cheapest (£15 one-way; ☎oxfordbus.co.uk).

Destinations Cambridge (every 30min; 3–4hr); Gatwick Airport (hourly; 2hr–2hr 30min); Heathrow Airport (every 30min; 1hr 20min); London (every 10–15min; 1hr 40min); Stratford-upon-Avon (1 daily at 11.05am; 1hr 10min).

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist information At the tourist office, 15 Broad St (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 10am–3.30pm; ☎01865 686430, ☎visitoxfordandoxfordshire.com), you can book themed walking tours (£12–24), rent bikes or buy a visitors' guide (£1).

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bainton Bikes at 78 Walton St (☎01865 311610, ☎baintonbikes.com; £10–15/day) rents out hybrids, standard bikes and mountain bikes and organizes guided bike tours; advance booking necessary.

ACCOMMODATION

Out of term time, some colleges rent student rooms to tourists (single/double from £50/90; ☎oxfordrooms.co.uk); singles tend to have shared facilities. It's advisable to book in advance and to check whether you're in picturesque medieval grounds or in less characterful modern accommodation. There are also a few Airbnb (☎airbnb.com) rooms on offer, particularly in the Jericho area, a short walk north of the centre.

★Central Backpackers Oxford 13 Park End St ☎01865 242288, ☎centralbackpackers.co.uk. A central location, helpful staff, spacious but spartan dorms and a friendly vibe make this a good place to meet fellow travellers: there's free wi-fi throughout, a rooftop terrace and light breakfast, plus earplugs provided due to the location on top of a nightclub. Dorms £22

PUNTING IN OXBRIDGE

Renting a punt – essentially a flat-bottomed Venetian-style gondola powered by a brave soul brandishing a pole – is one of the finest ways to experience Oxford and Cambridge. In Oxford, Magdalen Bridge Boathouse (☎oxfordpunting.co.uk), on the High Street, rents punts, rowboats and pedaloes for £22 per hour. In Cambridge, Trinity College Punts (☎trin.cam.ac.uk/visiting/punting), down a side street behind Trinity College, offers the cheapest punt rental in town at £16 per hour – perfect for a cruise downstream past the architectural splendours of the college Backs or a trip upstream to rural Grantchester. Punting tours are available in both Oxford and Cambridge – just ask the ubiquitous tous.

Hollybush Guest House 530 Banbury Rd ①01865 554886, ②hollybushguesthouse.com. This appealing, family-run guesthouse offers a handful of singles and doubles, as well as a family room; continental breakfast included. It's 2.5 miles north of the centre; buses #2 and #7 pass by. Doubles £75

Oxford YHA 2a Botley Rd ①0845 371 9131, ②yha.org.uk. Next to the train station, this large, modern HI hostel is somewhat impersonal but spotlessly clean, efficiently run and offers inexpensive meals, a kitchen, bar, wi-fi and laundry. Dorms £19, doubles £49

EATING

The Covered Market is a good bet for independent, daytime cafés, while the Jericho district (north of the centre) or Cowley Rd out east have plenty of independent cafés and restaurants.

Atomic Burger 96 Cowley Rd. With comic books for wallpaper, this Oxford institution is an ode to Americana. Burger-wise, choose from the likes of Chuck Norries (BBQ pulled pork, cheese and fried onions), Molly Ringwald (bacon, camembert & BBQ sauce), or supersize it with a double-stacked Dolly Parton (double burger, bacon and cheese). Burgers available in beef, chicken or veggie (£8.25–17.50). Daily 11.30am–10.30pm.

Edamamé 15 Holywell St ②edamame.co.uk. Terrific Japanese food at fair prices (mains £6–9.50) – it's no wonder the queue for this tiny restaurant snakes down the street. Lunch consists of Japanese curries, ramen and tonkatsu dishes, while Thursday night is sushi night. Wed 11.30am–2.30pm, Thurs–Sat 11.30am–2.30pm & 5–8.30pm, Sun noon–3.30pm.

★ Oli's Thai 38 Magdalen Rd ①01865 790223 ②olisthai.co.uk. With a succinct menu of beautifully executed, authentic Thai dishes (£9–14) and just a handful of tables, this tiny place, 15min walk from the centre, is wildly popular. While it's often reserved weeks in advance, there are a few unreserved seats at the bar for walk-ins – their confit duck panang alone is worth it. Tues noon–3pm, Wed–Sat noon–2pm & 5–9pm.

★ White Rabbit Friar's Entry ②whiterabbitoxford.co.uk. This cosy pub serves up a good selection of local craft beers and a range of award-winning stonebaked pizzas (£7.50–10). There are numerous veggie options, but we're big fans of the Zola (Gorgonzola, pear and pancetta pizza). Daily noon–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

For listings of gigs and other events, consult Daily Info, a poster put up in colleges and all around town on Tues and Fri (②dailyinfo.co.uk).

The Bear 6 Alfred St. Oldest pub in Oxford (1242) with very low ceilings, real ales and snippets from neckties – proffered by their owners in exchange for a pint. Decent pub grub, too. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11pm–midnight.

The Cellar Frewin Court, off Cornmarket St ①01865 244761, ②cellaroxford.co.uk. Nightly, mostly live music, from rock and pop acts to Afrobeat, Goth and electronica. Popular with students. Tickets from £4. Daily 7.30pm–2 or 3am.

The Eagle & Child 49 St Giles. This pub, a.k.a. “Bird & Baby”, was once the haunt of J.R.R. Tolkien, C.S. Lewis and friends, and serves a good selection of local ales, though the ordering system is odd and the food can be hit-and-miss. Mon–Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–1am, Sun noon–10.30pm.

★ Turf Tavern 4 Bath Place One of Oxford's oldest drinking establishments (c. 1280), this tavern is hidden away down narrow twisting passages (look for the Bridge of Sighs). With its heavy wooden beams, low ceilings and crooked floors, it's suitably characterful and serves local beers, as well as generous portions of tasty pub food. Mon–Sat 11am–11.15pm, Sun 11am–10.30pm.

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON

The pretty town of STRATFORD-UPON-AVON is synonymous with its most famous citizen, William Shakespeare, who was born here in 1564. The town revels in its links to the Bard and successfully plays up the “merrie olde England” image. Most people come to see the five attractively restored Shakespeare-related properties, but you could simply soak up the atmosphere by meandering along the river, lined with Tudor buildings.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Top of the Bardic itinerary is Shakespeare's Birthplace on Henley Street (daily: April–June, Sept & Oct 9am–5pm; July & Aug 9am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; £17.50 including Nash's House/New Place & Hall's Croft, or pass including all five houses £26.25; ②shakespeare.org.uk). The heavily restored Tudor building where the great man was born features interesting displays on his life plus plentiful graffiti from devotees through the ages.

A short walk away on Chapel Street are Nash's House/New Place (daily: April–Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–March 11am–4pm; for ticket price see above). The former was once the property of Thomas Nash, first husband of Shakespeare's granddaughter, 13 Elizabeth Hall, and is kitted out with period furnishing, temporary exhibitions and archeological findings excavated from beneath the New Place plot next door. New Place is the site of Shakespeare's last home, where he died in 1616, though the house itself is long gone. A five-minute walk away, Old Town Street is home to the medieval Hall's Croft (daily 10am–5pm; for ticket price see above), former home of Shakespeare's eldest daughter, Susanna, and her husband, John Hall. Inside, you can learn about medicine in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

About half a mile west of the town centre in Shuttery is the thatched, wood-beamed Anne Hathaway's Cottage (same hours as Shakespeare's Birthplace, but closes 5pm July & Aug; £10.25), surrounded by beautiful gardens said to be where Shakespeare courted Anne. Two and a half miles from here (clearly signposted) is Shakespeare's mother's family home, now called Mary Arden's Farm (mid-March to early Nov daily 10am–5pm; £13.25): a classily re-created Tudor working farm complete with rare-breed animals, as well as weavers, falconers and farmers in period costume.

Back in town, a short walk from Hall's Croft towards the river, is the handsome Holy Trinity Church (April–Sept Mon–Sat 8.30am–6pm, Sun 12.30–5pm; Oct–March Mon–Sat 9am–3.45pm, Sun 12.30–4.45pm). William and Anne Shakespeare are buried here in the chancel (£2, or free with ticket to one of Shakespeare's houses).

THE ROYAL SHAKESPEARE COMPANY

Seeing a play at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre (box office Mon–Sat 10am–6pm; 01789 403493, rsc.org.uk), home to the fantastically talented Royal Shakespeare Company, is a Stratford highlight. The Company works on a repertory system, which means you could see three or four different plays in a visit of a few days (though not all by the Bard himself). Ticket prices vary and the most popular shows get booked up months in advance.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Stratford's train station is on the northwestern edge of town, a 10min walk from the centre.

Destinations London Marylebone (change at Birmingham, Dorridge or Leamington Spa; hourly; 2hr); Oxford (change at Banbury or Leamington Spa; every 2 hours; 1hr 30min).

By bus Long-distance buses pull into the Riverside Station on the east side of the town centre, off Bridgeway.

Destinations London Victoria (3 daily; 3hr 5min–3hr 50min); Oxford (1 daily at 4pm; 1hr 10min).

Tourist information Tourist office at Bridgefoot, opposite Bancroft Gardens (March–Oct daily 9am–5.30pm; Nov–Feb Mon–Sat 9am–5.30pm, Sun 10am–4pm; 01789 264 293, discover-stratford.com).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Hamlet House 52 Grove Rd 07968 702434, hamlethouse.com. Friendly B&B a 5min walk from the centre, with quirky themed rooms. Free internet, bikes and jumbo breakfasts, with specialities such as omelette cooked with herbs from the garden. £60

Stratford YHA Hemmingford House, Alveston 0845 371 9661, yha.org.uk; buses #X15, #18A and #X18 from Bridge St or bus station. Rambling Georgian mansion with its own café-bar on the edge of the pretty village of Alveston, two miles east of town. Dorms £17, doubles £39

EATING AND DRINKING

El Greco 27 Rother St el-greco.co.uk. Conveniently located right near Shakespeare's birthplace, this Greek restaurant serves up Mediterranean tapas (dolmades, keftedes, grilled halloumi) plus more substantial lunch and pre-theatre menus (£14.50 for two courses). Daily 10am–10pm.

★ HR Coffee Bar 12 Windsor St hrcatering.co.uk. This fresh and funky café makes the most of locally sourced, seasonal ingredients. Come here for hearty breakfasts, toasties, imaginative salads and the Reuben sandwich for lunch, or wonderful cakes plus coffee from an award-winning local micro-roastery. Mon–Sat 8am–5pm.

Old Thatch Tavern Market Place oldthatchtavernstratford.co.uk. The only thatched building in the centre of Stratford, and one of the few historic inns that hasn't lost its character, this fifteenth-century pub serves good British food and ales. Mon–Sat 11.30am–11pm, Sun noon–6pm.

CAMBRIDGE

Tradition has it that the University of CAMBRIDGE was founded by refugees from Oxford, who fled that town after one of their number was lynched by hostile townsfolk in the 1220s; there's been rivalry between the two institutions ever since, though nowadays it's manifested in the annual boat race. More walkable and tranquil than its rival, Cambridge features "the Backs", a green swathe of land straddling the River Cam, which overlooks the backs of the old colleges and provides the town's most enduring image of grand academic architecture. Access to the colleges is restricted during examinations, conferences and functions. For four days in late July, the town hosts the popular Cambridge Folk Festival (@cambridgefolkfestival.co.uk).

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Cambridge city centre is bound to the west by the Cam and is dominated by historic university buildings. A logical place to start a tour is King's Parade, originally the medieval High Street.

King's College

Flanking King's Parade, Cambridge's grandest college is King's College, with a much-celebrated, beautiful chapel (term time Mon–Sat 9.30am–3.15pm, Sun 1.15–2.30pm; hols daily 9.30am–4.30pm; £9; @kings.cam.ac.uk) and an equally vaunted choir (term time Evensong Mon–Sat 5.30pm, Sun 10.30am & 3.30pm) – its Christmas services are renowned worldwide. At the northern end of King's Parade, the Senate House is the scene of graduation ceremonies.

Trinity College

Just north of King's, Trinity College (daily 10am–5pm; £3; @trin.cam.ac.uk) is the largest of the Cambridge colleges. Beyond the Great Gate lies the vast asymmetrical expanse of Great Court, which displays a fine range of Tudor buildings, the oldest of which is the fifteenth-century clock tower – the annual race against its midnight chimes is now common currency thanks to the film Chariots of Fire. The west end of Nevile's Court is enclosed by the beautiful Wren Library (term time Mon–Fri noon–2pm, Sat 10.30am–12.30pm; hols Mon–Fri only; free). Back outside Trinity, it's a short hop to the River Cam, where you can go punting – the quintessential Cambridge pursuit (see box, p.452).

St John's College and the Round Church

Founded by Henry VII's mother, Lady Margaret Beaufort, St John's College (daily 10am–5pm, closes 3.30pm Jan, Feb, Nov & Dec; £8; @www.joh.cam.ac.uk) is worth a peek for its chapel ceiling depicting saints and scholars standing shoulder to shoulder, as well as its mishmash of architectural styles. The lovely Bridge of Sighs, modelled on its famous counterpart in Venice and built in 1813, links the college's New Court with Third Court. On Bridge Street, the strange and distinctive twelfth-century Round Church (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm; £2) is not only the second-oldest building in the city, but also directly influenced by the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem.

Queens' College and the Fitzwilliam Museum

Queens' College (Jan to mid-March, Nov & Dec daily 2–4pm; mid-March to mid-May & mid-June to Sept daily 10am–4.30pm; Oct Mon–Fri 2–4pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4.30pm; £3; @queens.cam.ac.uk), with its twin Tudor courtyards, is accessed through the gate on Queen's Lane. Equally eye-catching is the wooden Mathematical Bridge over the Cam, a copy of the mid-eighteenth-century original which, it was claimed, would stay in place even if the nuts and bolts were removed. From Queens', it's a short stroll in the opposite direction from the colleges down Trumpington Street to the excellent Fitzwilliam Museum (Tues–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun noon–5pm; free; @fitzmuseum.cam.ac.uk). The ground floor is a treasure trove of antiquities, from Egyptian sarcophagi and funeral offerings to Roman statuary, while the first floor displays applied arts and European painting, including masterpieces by Rubens, Hogarth, Renoir and Picasso.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Cambridge train station is a mile or so southeast of the city centre, off Hills Rd. It's a 20min walk into the centre, or else cross the street and take Citi buses #1, #2, #3, #7 or #8 (£1.60) from the bays to the left of the station exit.

Destinations Birmingham (12 daily; 2hr 30min); London (every 15min; 50min–1hr 30min); Stansted Airport (every 30min; 30min).

By bus Coaches stop at the Drummer St bus station or along Parkside Piece.

Destinations Heathrow Airport (hourly; 2hr 30min); Gatwick Airport (7 daily; 4hr); London (13 daily; 2hr 30min); Oxford (every 30min; 3hr 30min–4hr 20min); Stansted Airport (9 daily; 45min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information In the Guildhall, Peas Hill, near Market Square (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; May–Oct also Sun 11am–3pm; ☎ 01223 457581, 🌐 visitcambridge.org).

ACCOMMODATION

Staying in one of the university college rooms is an excellent bet for centrally located, cheap accommodation out of term time; see 🌐 cambridgerooms.co.uk for details.

Cambridge YHA 97 Tenison Rd ☎ 0845 371 9728, 🌐 yha.org.uk. Fully refurbished, large hostel near the train station comprises a clutch of private en-suites, basic doubles and a dorm, with good facilities for self-caterers, social areas, and a canteen/bar serving local ales.

Somewhat lacking in atmosphere, though, and occasionally overrun with school groups. Dorms £25, doubles £65

Harry's Bed & Breakfast 39 Milton Rd ☎01223 503866, welcometoharrys.co.uk. This welcoming B&B with four cosy en-suite rooms is an easy 10min walk from the centre across Jesus Green. The Full English breakfast is top-notch. Doubles £65

EATING

★ Bread & Meat 4 Bene't St breadandmeat.co.uk. The budget place does just four types of meaty sandwiches on sourdough (with a roast vegetable version for vegetarians) – our favourite is the porchetta. Generous sides include poutine and slaw. Mon–Sat 11.30am–8pm, Sun 11.30am–5pm.

Gardenia 2 Rose Crescent gardis.co.uk. A beloved Cambridge student institution, "Gardis" provides late-night nourishment in the form of lamb souvlaki, falafel and superior kebabs: mains from £4.70. Daily 11am–5am.

Stickybeaks 42 Hobson St. This independent café is always justifiably busy; come here for breakfast, lunch (chunky sandwiches and home-made soup), or just linger over coffee and cake: mains from £5. Mon–Fri 8am–5.30pm, Sat 9am–5.30pm Sun 10am–5pm.

Thanh Binh 17 Magdalene St. The only non-chain Vietnamese place in town, with an excellent 2-course lunch menu (£11.50) and the best nem nuong (pork meatballs) this side of Hanoi. Mon–Sat noon–2pm & 6–10pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

To find out about current club nights, theatre productions and comedy nights, browse the flyers hanging from the railings down King's Parade.

Corn Exchange Corn Exchange St ☎01223 357851, cornex.co.uk. Entertainment venue in the heart of town where you can catch anything from the Shaolin monks on tour to Mary Chapin Carpenter and various comedy shows.

Fez Club 15 Market Passage cambridgefez.com. A much-loved Cambridge student haunt, the Fez's eclectic music policy and pseudo-Arabian decor keep it ahead of the competition. Tuesday Fresh is student night, with r'n'b, hip-hop and dancehall on the menu. Entry £4–6. Daily 10pm–3am.

★ Free Press 7 Prospect Row freepresspub.com. In the backstreets behind Emmanuel College this tiny pub is off the tourist trail: it serves local brews, real ales and guest beers and has a beer garden and great food. Mon–Thurs noon–2pm & 6–11pm, Fri & Sat noon–11pm, Sun noon–2.30pm & 7–10.30pm.

Northern England

The great outdoors grabs the headlines in lake-laden, mountain ravine-scored Northern England. The best-known area is the Lake District, encompassing picturesque stone-built villages, sixteen huge lakes and England's highest mountains. Less explored but equally beautiful is Northumberland in the northeast and the southern Peak District. Northern England is also home to some of the country's major cities, including Manchester and Liverpool in the west and Newcastle in the northeast – they each combine the ostentatious civic architecture of nineteenth-century capitalism with vigorous twenty-first-century renewal. In the ecclesiastical hotbeds of Durham and York, their famous cathedrals provide a focus for fascinating, medieval-themed meanderings.

MANCHESTER

Sprawling northern metropolis MANCHESTER has one of the country's most vibrant social and cultural scenes, enlivened by the student population of its two major universities, its stylish Gay Village, the glitzy Curry Mile and its buzzing, bohemian Northern Quarter. In many ways it is the flagship for multifaceted Britishness: it shot to prominence courtesy of its Industrial Revolution riches, later becoming a powerhouse of music and football.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

From the main Piccadilly train station, it's a few minutes' walk northwest to Piccadilly Gardens, an obvious starting point for an exploration of the city.

Manchester Art Gallery

The Manchester Art Gallery (daily 10am–5pm, till 9pm Thurs; free; manchestergalleries.org) has a fine collection of Pre-Raphaelite paintings, Impressionist pictures of Manchester by Adolphe Valette, twentieth-century

13 British art by the likes of Lucien Freud and Stanley Spencer, and an excellent interactive gallery. It is located a quarter of a mile from the gardens, on Mosley Street. Just to the west, the Town Hall (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, free; guided tours Tues and occasional Sun at 11am; £5) is the country's pinnacle of Victorian civic aspiration: check out the Ford Madox Brown murals inside.

Royal Exchange Theatre and National Football Museum

St Ann's Square is home to the wonderful Royal Exchange Theatre (☎royalexchange.co.uk). If you don't have time to see a show, pop in and have a look at the building – formerly the Cotton Exchange – whose florid, pink marble columns and lofty cupolas surround the spherical performance space, an egg-like module squatting in the centre. A short walk north in Cathedral Gardens you'll find the National Football Museum (daily 10am–5pm; free; ☎nationalfootballmuseum.com), a spectacular, wedge-shaped glass building housing artefacts that tell the story of football, from its earliest beginnings around the world to the birth of the women's game. You can also try Football Plus, an interactive simulator that tests your footballing skills and commenting prowess.

Museum of Science and Industry

South down Deansgate and right onto Liverpool Road, the superbly informative Museum of Science and Industry (daily 10am–5pm; free; ☎msimanchester.org.uk) spreads over several old factory buildings to celebrate the triumphs of industrialization. Exhibits include working steam engines, textile machinery, a hands-on science centre and atmospheric re-creations of period rooms. There's also a chance to walk through a rebuilt Victorian sewer, complete with its unique aroma.

Salford Quays and Old Trafford

Metrolink trams from Piccadilly and Deansgate-Castlefield run to Harbour City, jumping-off point for the revamped Salford Quays, scene of a massive urban renewal scheme in the old dock area. Here, the spectacular waterfront arts hub, The Lowry (Mon–Fri 9.30am–8pm, Sat & Sun 10am–8pm; free; ☎thelowry.com), houses performance spaces and galleries, where you can view the work of the artist L.S. Lowry, best known for his “matchstick men” scenes. You can also get here by walking down the docks from the Salford Quays tram stop. A footbridge runs across the docks to the Imperial War Museum North (daily 10am–5pm; free; ☎north.iwm.org.uk), a striking aluminium-clad building imaginatively exploring the effects of war in the twentieth century, with the main conflicts covered through a series of thoughtful displays and films. Looming nearby is Old Trafford, home of Manchester United Football Club, whose museum, a must-see for any football fan, is situated in the Sir Alex Ferguson Stand (northern side of stadium; daily 9.30am–5pm; museum & tour £25, museum only £18; advance booking essential for tours ☎0161 868 8000, ☎manutd.com; Metrolink towards Altrincham to Old Trafford, or towards Eccles to Exchange Quay).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Manchester Airport (☎manchesterairport.co.uk) is ten miles south of the city centre, with a fast, frequent train service to Manchester Piccadilly (every 5–10min; 15–20min).

By train Most trains arrive at Piccadilly station, on the city's east side.

Destinations Chester (every 30min; 1hr–1hr 30min); Edinburgh (every 2hr; 3hr 20min); Glasgow (hourly; 3hr 10min); London Euston (3 hourly; 2hr 15min); Liverpool (frequent; 45min–1hr 10min); Newcastle (hourly; 2hr 40min); York (3 hourly; 1hr 25min).

By bus Long-distance coaches stop at Chorlton St coach station, just west of Piccadilly station.

Destinations Chester (3 daily; 1hr 15min–1hr 40min); Glasgow (4 daily; 4–5hr); Liverpool (hourly; 1hr 15min); London (hourly; 3hr 45min); York (via Leeds; 18 daily; 2hr 20min–2hr 40min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Manchester Visitor Centre is in Piccadilly Plaza, on Portland St (Mon–Sat 10am–5.15pm, Sun 10.30am–4.30pm; ☎0871 222 8223, ☎visitmanchester.com).

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bike rental from Bicycle Boutique, Hillcourt St (Mon–Fri 8.30am–6.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm;

Mon–Fri £15/day, Sat & Sun £12/day; ☎0161 273 7801 @hillcourtstreetcycles.co.uk).

By Metrolink The handy Metrolink (☎www.metrolink.co.uk) tram system runs around central Manchester. Buy tickets from machines on the platform.

ACCOMMODATION

Hatters Hilton Chambers 15 Hilton St ☎0161 236 4414, @hattersgroup.com. This clean Northern Quarter hostel has a roof terrace, complimentary all-day breakfast and feels fresher than its sister property on

Newton St. Weekend rates are higher. Dorms £19, doubles £56

Hatters Hostel 50 Newton St ☎0161 236 9500, @hattersgroup.com. Inside a refurbished factory, this hostel is a good option if you want to party and just need somewhere cheap to lay your head. Dorms £18, doubles £49

★Manchester YHA Potato Wharf, Castlefield ☎0871 371 9647, @yha.org.uk. Close to the Museum of Science and Industry, this swanky HI hostel (all dorm rooms have en-suite bathrooms) has a great canalside location. Dorms £19, doubles £55

13 EATING

For good, cheap eats, try the decent mini-chains around Exchange Square, or head for the "Curry Mile", Wilmslow Rd in Rusholme (bus #18 from the city centre; 25min) for some of Britain's best budget Asian cooking.

Blue Pig 69 High St @thebluepigmc.co.uk. Brasserie-style bar-restaurant serving small plates for sharing (3 for £13), such as harissa lamb meatballs and masala fish fingers, plus hearty burgers, ribs and steaks. Daily 10am–midnight or 1am.

Mowgli 16 Corn Exchange House @mowglstreetfood.com. This mini-chain is all about casual Indian street food. Choose several small dishes (from £4) to share, such as gunpowder chicken, yogurt chat bombs and Goan fish curry, or go for a four-tiered tiffin for one (£12). Daily 11am–11pm.

★ The Pasta Factory 77 Shudehill @pastafactory.co.uk. This friendly Italian place is true to its name with a succinct menu that sticks to imaginative pasta dishes (reginette with venison ragu, bucatini with vegetables and pistachios) and wine. And it's all great. Mains from £11. Daily noon–10pm.

Spicy Mint 35 Wilmslow Rd @spicymint.co.uk. Garishly decorated, long-standing and unpretentious curry house on the Curry Mile, whose award-winning curries and sizzling dishes are a speciality. Mains from £9. Mon–Thurs 5pm–midnight, Fri & Sat 6pm–1am, Sun 3pm–midnight.

Teacup Kitchen 55 Thomas St @teacupandcakes.com. Feel-good food and imaginative breakfasts (£8) draw a mostly young crowd to this relaxed café, but the place truly shines when it comes to their loose-leaf teas (including a hangover-busting herbal brew) and cakes. Mon–Thurs & Sun 10am–6pm, Fri & Sat 10am–8pm.

Trof 8 Thomas St @trofnq.co.uk. Come for coffee, sandwiches, burgers, beer or eclectic cocktails, as well as events such as Sun's roast dinner-and-vinyl session: mains from £7.50. Mon–Thurs 10am–midnight, Fri & Sat 10am–3am, Sun 9am–midnight.

DRINKING, NIGHTLIFE AND ENTERTAINMENT

Manchester has no shortage of places to drink. The two best-known areas are the Northern Quarter, around Oldham St, and the Gay Village, around Canal St. For details of nightlife, consult Fri's Manchester Evening News.

★ Common 39 Edge St @aplacecalledcommon.co.uk. Hipster Northern Quarter creative hub by day, lively bar by night, Common is decorated with bright murals by local artists – amid its extensive cocktail list, the Martinis really shine. Mon–Wed & Sun 11am–midnight, Thurs–Sat 11am–2am.

Dry Bar 28–30 Oldham St @drybar.co.uk. A "Madchester" institution and a catalyst for much of what goes on in the Northern Quarter. The downstairs music venue hosts DJs

MANCHESTER MUSIC

In 1978, local TV personality Tony Wilson founded Factory Records and gave voice to a movement that came to define both Manchester and Britain's post-punk musical soundscape. Bands like Joy Division and New Order emerged and embraced the new electronic music that was played at Factory's club, The Hacienda, the prototype for the industrial warehouse spaces ubiquitous in club design today. Homegrown guitar bands followed – the Stone Roses, Happy Mondays, the Smiths – succeeded in the 1990s by a new generation of bands, from Oasis and The Verve to The Chemical Brothers and Badly Drawn Boy. Although The Hacienda closed in 1997, its legacy lives on, with places like the Night & Day Café, 26 Oldham St (@nightnday.org), providing a stage for up-and-coming talent.

and live bands, while Good Vibes on Fridays is soul/funk/pop night. Mon–Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri & Sat 11am–4am, Sun 11am–midnight.

Dusk Till Dawn Stevenson Square, Northern Quarter. Disguised as a pawnshop, this speakeasy bar has the likes of Bowie on the stereo, excellent cocktails and infused bourbons. There's a free jukebox and the bartenders are fun to hang out with. Tues–Thurs & Sun 5pm–1am, Fri & Sat 5pm–3am.

Velvet 2 Canal St. Elegant, Renaissance-style Gay Village cocktail bar, decorated with plush velvet curtains and zebra-striped chairs. DJs play funks and disco on weekends. Mon–Wed 4pm–12.30am, Thurs 4pm–1am, Fri & Sat 4pm–2am, Sun 2pm–12.30am.

PEAK DISTRICT

Lying between Manchester and Sheffield, the wild, cavern-riddled PEAK DISTRICT is Britain's oldest and most easily accessed national park. The main centres are Buxton, just outside the park boundaries, Castleton to the northeast and Bakewell in the southeast.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The sedate Victorian spa town of Buxton should be your first stop if coming by train from Manchester. The town is centred around nineteenth-century pleasure gardens complete with a pavilion theatre and the legendary St Ann's Well, where the famous mineral water is sourced. There are spectacular caverns just outside town at Poole's Cavern (daily: March–Oct 9.30am–5pm; Nov–Feb Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; pooleascavern.co.uk; £9.75), while in Castleton, a beautiful stone village 10 miles northwest, there are three showcaves and dozens more challenging subterranean passageways to explore: details at the National Park Centre (see below). A five-mile hike or one stop on the Hope Valley line further brings you to Edale, where the area's best hike begins and climbs up to Kinder Scout (8 miles) on the bleak Kinder Plateau. From Bakewell, famed for its jam-filled pudding, it's a ten-minute ride on bus #215 or #218 to Chatsworth House (get off at Baslow; house daily 11am–5.30pm; garden daily 11am–6pm; £23; chatsworth.org), one of Britain's grandest country houses: set in a 35,000-acre estate, its garden features the stately home's iconic cascades, as well as woods, valleys, fountains and tumbling rivers.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Trains from Manchester Piccadilly run to Buxton (hourly; 1hr) and Hope (hourly; 50min), two miles east of Castleton.

By bus Several direct buses a day run from Manchester to Bakewell (2hr) and Buxton (1hr 20min). TransPeak buses run three times daily between Bakewell and Buxton (30min); other routes include the #173 (Castleton–Bakewell) and the #68 (Buxton–Castleton).

Tourist information The main offices are at Pavilion Gardens in Buxton (daily: 9am–5pm; 01298 25106) and Castleton's National Park Centre, Buxton Rd (daily: Jan–March 10.30am–4.30pm; April–Dec 10am–5.30pm; 01629 816572, peakdistrict.gov.uk).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Castleton YHA Castleton 08453 719628, yha.org.uk. This YHA hostel in a fabulous Gothic mansion just outside Castleton is a fantastic base for hiking, and there's also a planetarium and a Celtic roundhouse for campfires. Dorms £20, doubles £65

Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese Inn How Lane, Castleton www.cheshirecheeseinn.co.uk. Pretty half-timbered coaching inn selling sandwiches (£6 with Cheshire cheese and apple chutney), plus home-made pies. Food daily noon–8.30 or 9pm.

Youlgreave YHA Fountain Square, Youlgreave 0845 3719151, yha.org.uk; bus #170/#171. A 42-bed hostel in a converted Victorian shop, 3 miles outside Bakewell. It has cycle storage and self-catering facilities. Dorms £18, doubles £39

LIVERPOOL

Thanks to an astounding twenty-first-century revival, LIVERPOOL leads the way as the region's most liveable, loveable big city: a major turnaround from its infamous post-war poverty. The rediscovered sense of cultural pride is almost as palpable as in the days when it was Britain's main transatlantic port and the empire's second city. The Albert Dock has been the focus of regeneration, where converted warehouses and glitzy, glassy architecture showcase Liverpool's cultural spoils. Acerbic wit and loyalty to one of the city's two football teams are the linchpins of Liverpool's identity, along with an underlying pride in the local musical heritage – which is fair enough from the city that produced The Beatles.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

From Lime Street train station it's a short walk to William Brown Street and the impressive Walker Art Gallery (daily 10am–5pm; free; liverpoolmuseums.org.uk/walker), which takes you on a jaunt through British art history: Hogarth, Gainsborough, Hockney and local boy Stubbs are all well represented, while modern British art is a highlight – don't miss Ben Johnson's vivid 2008 Liverpool cityscape.

The Waterfront

From the Pier Head and Liverpool's waterfront, it's worth taking a "Ferry 'cross the Mersey" (as sung by Gerry and the Pacemakers) to Birkenhead for the views back towards the city; ferries serve commuters during morning and afternoon rush hours (£2.60 single, £3.20 return), but in between there are hourly cruises with commentary (£10). Just behind the ferry terminal, but best seen from the river itself, stands the grandiose Royal Liver Building, with its enormous clock faces and local mascots – a Liver

13 (pronounced lie-ver) bird perched on each tower.

A short stroll south at Albert Dock, you'll find Tate Liverpool (daily 10am–5.50pm; free; tate.org.uk/liverpool), northern home of the national collection of modern art, which also showcases touring exhibitions from Tate Modern.

On the other side of the dock, the Merseyside Maritime Museum (daily 10am–5pm; free; liverpoolmuseums.org.uk/maritime) presents a thorough history of Liverpool's docks, complete with models of notable ships built there, and an exhibition on the city's role in the Battle of the Atlantic. Particularly compelling are the displays on emigration from the city to North America and Australia, and another on Liverpool's Titanic connections. Inside the same building, the superb International Slavery Museum (daily 10am–5pm; free; liverpoolmuseums.org.uk/ism) focuses on Liverpool's role in the transatlantic slave trade, with exhibits on the conditions aboard slaving ships and some original shackles. The museum also explores modern-day slavery in India, with powerful displays on racism, including moving first-hand video testimonies.

The cathedrals

To the east of the city, at either end of Hope Street, stand two very different twentieth-century cathedrals. The Roman Catholic Metropolitan Cathedral (Mon–Fri 7.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 7.30am–6pm; donation requested), a ten-minute walk up Mount Pleasant, is a vast inverted funnel of a building, while the pale red Anglican Liverpool Cathedral (daily 8am–6pm; free) is the largest in the country: a neo-Gothic creation, designed by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott in 1903 but not completed until 1978. Climb the colossal tower (£5.50) to get fabulous 360-degree views of the city. On clear days, you can see Blackpool Tower, 28 miles to the north.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Liverpool John Lennon Airport (liverpoolairport.com) is nine miles southeast of the city and connected to the Liverpool One bus station in the city centre by Arriva's #500 buses (every 30min).

By train Regional destinations such as York, Manchester and London Euston arrive and depart from Liverpool Lime Street station, on the eastern edge of the city centre.

Destinations Cardiff (via Crewe/Chester/Birmingham; 3–4 hourly; 4hr); London Euston (hourly; 2hr 15min); Manchester (every 15min; 45min); York (hourly; 2hr 15min).

By bus Regional coaches stop on Norton St, northeast of Liverpool Lime Street.

Destinations Cardiff (1–2 daily; 6hr 45min); Chester (4 daily; 50min); London (6 daily; 6hr); Manchester (every 30min; 1hr); Newcastle (4 daily; 5–6hr); Oxford (2 daily; 5hr 15min–6hr).

THE FAB FOUR

Liverpool's most famous sons, The Beatles, account for a large number of the city's tourist attractions, with plenty of pubs and shops providing a high dose of Fab Four nostalgia.

Spread over two venues on Albert Dock and Pier Head, The Beatles Story (daily: April–Oct 9am–7pm; Nov–March 10am–6pm; £15; beatlesstory.com) is a multimedia attempt to capture the essence of the band's rise. The audioguide tour covers everything, from the Beatles' upbringing and early years to Beatlemania in the 1960s and the Fab Four's final split and solo careers. There may be few revelations for true fans, but the painstakingly put-together collection of photos, memorabilia and videos, as well as re-creations of the Casbah and The Cavern Club, where they used to play, is a labour of love.

Bus depart twice daily from Albert Dock's tourist information centre for a two-hour Magical Mystery Tour (book on ☎0151 703 9100 or at tourist offices; £17.95) of sites associated with the band, such as Penny Lane and Strawberry Fields. Hardcore fans will also want to visit 20 Forthlin Rd, once home of the McCartney family, and the Mendips, the house where John Lennon lived between 1945 and 1963 (both are accessible on a pre-booked minibus tour Feb–Nov Sat & Sun; £23; ☎0151 427 7231, nationaltrust.org.uk). Finish your Fab tour with a night at The Cavern Club (see p.463).

By boat P&O ferries (☎poferries.com) from Dublin (3 daily; 8hr) dock at Liverpool Freeport, 5 miles north of the centre; Stena Line ferries (☎stenaline.co.uk) from Belfast 1–2 daily; 8hr) dock at the Seacombe 12 Quays Ferry Terminal, across the river from Albert Dock.

INFORMATION

Tourist information Albert Dock (daily: April–Sept 10am–5.30pm; Oct–March 10am–5pm; ☎0151 233 2008, ☎visitliverpool.com), plus branches at St Georges Place (daily 10am–5pm) and Liverpool John Lennon Airport (daily 8am–6pm).

ACCOMMODATION

Embassie Hostel 1 Falkner Square ☎0151 707 1089, ☎embassie.com. This nineteenth-century, former Venezuelan consulate exudes character, with a games room, two kitchens and a garden. Breakfast included, plus free entry to The Cavern Club. Dorms £18

International Inn 4 South Hunter St, off Hardman St ☎0151 709 8135, ☎internationalinn.co.uk. Converted Victorian warehouse with four- to ten-person, en-suite dorms, plus cheap doubles and apartments. The staff are helpful and there's a 24-hour reception. Dorms £24, doubles £50, apartments £70

Liverpool YHA 25 Tabley Street, off Wapping ☎0845 371 9527, ☎yha.org.uk. Reliable HI hostel, a 5min walk from Albert Dock, with smart three- to six-bed rooms, all with private bathrooms. Dorms £14, doubles £49

The Old Dairy 39a Kempton Rd ☎theolddairy.liverpool.co.uk; bus #14/#79c/#79d from Queen Square. Popular guesthouse a couple of miles from the centre, with clean double rooms (most en-suite). Doubles £49

EATING

As well as the places below, Liverpool's Chinatown, around Berry and Nelson Streets, is a good spot to look for cheap food.

Cuthbert's Bakehouse 103 Mount Pleasant ☎cuthbertsbakehouse.co.uk. Relaxed coffee shop with a little garden, serving stuffed bagels, soups, jacket potatoes, panini and excellent cream teas with scones. Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 11am–5pm.

The Egg Café 16–18 Newington, 2nd floor ☎eggcafe.co.uk. Gem of a veggie/vegan café doing mammoth quiches, salads and vegan-friendly cakes: mains from £5. Bring your own wine. Mon–Fri 9am–10.30pm, Sat & Sun 10am–10.30pm.

★ Etsu Japanese Restaurant Beetham Plaza, 25 the Strand ☎etsu-restaurant.co.uk. Beautiful, authentic Japanese food in light, bright surroundings. Get your fill of gyoza, tempura, Japanese curry (£10), donburi (£13), udon noodles and varied sushi sets (from £4). Tues, Thurs & Fri noon–2.30pm & 5–9pm, Wed & Sat 5–9pm, Sun 4–9pm.

HoSt 31 Hope St ☎ho-st.co.uk. This pan-Asian brasserie conjures up fresh, imaginative dishes – some may be a little ambitious, but the duck coconut curry, slow-cooked Korean meatballs and the smoked baby-back ribs are spot-on: mains from £10. Daily 9.30am–11pm.

Lucha Libre 96 Wood St ☎lucha-libre.co.uk. Lively Mexican restaurant serving street food (think tacos, quesadillas and burritos): the Baja fish tacos (£5) and pork pibil burritos (£7) stand out, while the home-made salsas are ace. Daily noon–10 or 11pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Serious clubbers and live-music fans gravitate towards the streets around Wolstenholme Square, while the Cavern Quarter around Mathew St is home to myriad cheesy late-night bars, often Beatles-themed. The evening paper, the Liverpool Echo, has what's-on listings. Keep an eye out, too, for the free local music fanzine Bido Lito.

Alma Da Cuba St Peter's Church, Seel Street. Catholic church spectacularly converted into a bar/restaurant, which turns into a pumping party venue later on in the night. Mon–Wed & Sun 11am–midnight, Thurs–Sat 11am–2am.

★ Berry and Rye 48 Berry St. Hidden behind an all-black shop front (no sign), this speakeasy-style cocktail bar specializes as the name suggests, in whisky and gin. Knowledgeable staff and candlelit snugs make it a good pre-club bar. Tues–Sat 5pm–2am, Sun 7pm–1am.

Kazimier Garden 32 Seel St ☎thekazimier.co.uk. This rickety outdoor offshoot of the defunct Kazimier club has a refreshing boho vibe, interesting drinks and a fine roster of gigs (there's also a train carriage to sit in). Mon–Fri 4pm till late, Sat & Sun noon till late.

The Cavern Club 8–10 Mathew St ☎cavernclub.org. Rebuilt version of The Beatles' original venue (not quite in the same place), hosting nightly live bands, such as the Kinks and Small Faces tributes (Thurs–Sun nightly admission charge of up to £5). Daily 10am–midnight/2am.

Leaf on Bold St 65–67 Bold St ☎thisisleaf.co.uk. An unusual combination of teasop, bar and venue for self-expression, with regular yoga classes, clothing fairs and Scrabble sessions. Mon–Thurs 9am–midnight, Fri 9am–2am, Sat 10am–2am, Sun 10am–midnight.

The Philharmonic 36 Hope St. Remarkable, ornate pub with mosaic floors and gilded wrought-iron gates, designed by the shipwrights of the Lusitania. Skip the food in favour of the guest ales. Daily 11am–midnight.

ENTERTAINMENT

FACT 88 Wood St ☎fact.co.uk. The Foundation for Art and Creative Technology shelters two galleries showing film/video/new media projects, an arthouse cinema and café-bar. Mon–Sat 10am–9pm, Sun 11am–9pm.

13 02 Academy 11–13 Hotham St @o2academyliverpool.co.uk. The best medium-sized live music venue in town, with good club nights.

CHESTER

The heart of genteel CHESTER is surrounded by Britain's most intact city walls and its narrow streets are lined with Victorian and Tudor Rows (covered walkways high above street level lined with shops and cafés). Timber-framed houses sit sedately beside the River Dee, which in Roman times made it a port and one of the most important strongholds in the empire. Today, Chester makes a good base for visiting Liverpool or North Wales.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Walking the 2.5 miles round the Roman city walls is the best introduction to the city. Outside the walls to the east on Vicar's Lane is Britain's largest Roman Amphitheatre (daily; free), hinting at Chester's former importance within the empire. For more on the Romans, visit the red-brick Grosvenor Museum (Mon–Sat 10.30am–5pm, Sun 1–4pm; free; @grosvenormuseum.co.uk) on Grosvenor Street, or stroll along a reconstructed Roman street at the Dewa Roman Experience (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10am–5pm; £5.50; @dewaromanexperience.co.uk) on Pierpoint Lane. The northeastern section of the walls skirts the 1000-year-old Cathedral (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 1–4pm; £3), a grand monastic complex with wonderfully preserved cloisters. Another fun way to explore is via a river or canal boat: Chester Boat (@chesterboat.co.uk; £14; 1hr 30min) tours leave from the dock on Souters Lane, along the Dee to Eaton Estate, home to the duke and duchess of Westminster.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Trains arrive and depart from the station on the eastern edge of the city, a 10min walk from the centre. Destinations Conwy (hourly; 1hr); Liverpool (every 15min; 45min); London (hourly; 2hr); Manchester (2–3 hourly; 1hr 15min).

By bus Coaches stop just north of Princess St, in the city centre.

Destinations Liverpool (4 daily; 1hr); Manchester (4 daily; 1hr 15min).

Tourist information The main tourist office, inside the town hall on Northgate St (daily 9am–5.30pm; ☎08456 477 868), arranges themed walking tours of the city.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

The Brewery Tap 52–54 Lower Bridge St @the-tap.co.uk). Seventeenth-century hall with a fantastic selection of cask ales and meals – like grilled ox heart – for £9.95. Mon–Thurs noon–11pm, Fri & Sat noon–midnight, Sun noon–10.30pm.

Chester Backpackers 67 Broughton St @chesterbackpackers.co.uk. The best budget option in town: a quirky former pub with en-suite singles, twins and doubles, a large guest lounge and a 24-hour kitchen. Doubles £38

★Urbano 32 32 Bridge St @www.urbano32chester.co.uk. An ideal place for brunch (from £6), lunch (sour dough pizzas from £8) or cocktails, this trendy, independent joint with exposed brick walls sits right in Chester's medieval heart. Daily 9am–11pm.

THE LAKE DISTRICT

The site of England's highest peaks and its biggest concentration of lakes, the glacier-carved Lake District National Park is the nation's most popular walking area. Weather here in Cumbria changes quickly, but the sudden shifts of light on the bracken-bedaubed moorland, and on the slate of the local buildings, are part of the area's appeal. The region is informally divided into the South Lakes, including Windermere and Ambleside, and the North Lakes, which include Keswick.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train From London, use the main-line service from Euston to Glasgow, disembarking at Lancaster or Oxenholme: from Oxenholme a branch line runs to Windermere and Kendal.

Destinations from Windermere Lancaster (5 daily; 40min); Oxenholme (hourly; 20min).

Destinations from Kendal Lancaster (5 daily; 25min); Oxenholme (hourly; 5min).

By bus National Express coaches run daily from London Victoria and Manchester to the Lake District.

Destinations from Windermere London (1 daily; 8hr 40min); Manchester (via Preston; 1 daily; 5hr 35min).

Destinations from Kendal London (1 daily; 8hr); Manchester (via Preston; 1 daily; 5hr 30min).

GETTING AROUND

By bus Stagecoach buses go everywhere in the region: Explorer Tickets provide unlimited bus travel across all of Cumbria and Lancashire (1-day £10.50, 3-days £25). The main routes are #555 from Lancaster to Kendal, Windermere, Ambleside, Grasmere and Keswick, and the open-top #599 from Bowness to Ambleside and Grasmere via Windermere and Brockhole: tourist offices can provide a complete list of other services.

Windermere and Bowness

Windermere is the largest of the lakes, with its main town of WINDERMERE set a mile or so back from the water. Other than the short climb up to the viewpoint of Orrest Head (30min), it has a motor museum and an aquarium, and it is the region's main service centre.

There are also buses (#555 and #599 from outside the train station) to the Lake District National Park Visitor Centre at Brockhole, which has an excellent information centre as well as exhibitions on the Lake District past, present and future (daily: mid-March to Oct 10am–5pm; Nov to mid-March 10am–4pm; free; ☎01539 446601). Boats (£8) run from Ambleside (see below) to the Visitor Centre.

For trips onto Lake Windermere itself, catch bus #508 or #599 from outside Windermere train station to the photogenic, but often more crowded, lakeshore town of BOWNESS. Lake ferries (☎01539 443360, windermere-lakecruises.co.uk) run to Lakeside at the southern tip (£10 return) or to Waterhead (for Ambleside) at the northern end (£8 return).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The Windermere tourist office is located outside the train station (Mon–Fri 9am–4.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–5pm; ☎01539 446499).

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bikes can be rented from Country Lanes at Windermere train station (from £23/day; ☎01539 444544, countrylaneslakedistrict.co.uk).

ACCOMMODATION, EATING AND DRINKING

Lake District Backpackers' Lodge High St, Windermere ☎01539 446374, lakedistrictbackpackers.co.uk. This little hostel just downhill from the station has simple, cosy dorms.

Booking ahead is recommended; cash only if paying on arrival. Breakfast included. Dorms £17, doubles £39

The Hole in't Wall Low Side, behind the church in Bowness ☎01539 443488. Don't miss the chance to enjoy a pint of cask ale (£3.50) at the oldest hostelry in Bowness, once supposedly frequented by Dickens. Mon–Sat 11am–11.30pm, Sun 11am–10.30pm.

Lazy Daisy's Lakeside Kitchen Crescent Rd, Windermere. Welcoming coffee shop serving sandwiches and snacks (from £6) throughout the day and a more sophisticated evening menu that includes fish dishes and salads. Daily 9am–9pm.

Ambleside

Pretty but touristy, Ambleside is good for stocking up on outdoor gear, and makes a reasonable base between the north and south lakes. The Armitt Museum (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; £3.50; armitt.com) exhibits items of local geological, archeological and literary interest.

INFORMATION

Tourist information Limited info is available at The Hub of Ambleside (look for the post office sign) by the Market Cross (daily 9am–5pm; ☎01539 432582).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Ambleside Backpackers Old Lake Rd ☎01539 432340, englishlakesbackpackers.co.uk. Independent family-run

13 hostel located in a quiet part of town, with immaculate dorms. Breakfast included. Dorms £20, doubles £50
Ambleside Youth Hostel Waterhead ☎0845 3719620, yha.org.uk. Huge YHA hostel in a prime lakeside location. It's a great base for outdoor adventures, from kayaking to scrambling, and there are excellent facilities, including a licensed restaurant. Dorms £23
Zeffirelli's Compston Rd ☎zeffirelli.com. A cinema with its own daytime café and a pizza restaurant (margheritas £8.45). Daily 10am–10pm.

Elterwater and Langdale

The #516 Stagecoach bus from Ambleside runs four miles west to the charming hamlet of ELTERWATER. The valley here offers dramatic scenery and plenty of good walking, such as routes up to Stickle Tarn and the peaks of Langdale (including England's highest point, Scafell Pike). The Sticklebarn Tavern, two miles beyond Elterwater on the same bus route, is a good place to start from, though you should make sure you have good shoes, waterproofs and a map.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

★Baysbrown Farm Campsite A few minutes' walk west of the village of Chapel Stile ☎01539 437150, baysbrownfarmcampsite.co.uk. Canny campers shun expensive hotels in favour of this spectacular site, which has views down the valley. Per person £6

Brambles Café In the centre of Chapel Stile. Attractive little café serving coffee and light meals (from £6) to a mix of tourists and locals. Daily 9am–5pm.

Keswick and Derwent Water

Principal hiking and tourist centre for the northern lakes, KESWICK (pronounced “kez-ick”) lies on the shores of Derwentwater. The Keswick Launch (mid-March to Nov & school hols daily; Dec to mid-March Sat & Sun; £10.25 return trip; ☎01768 772263, keswick-launch.co.uk) runs right around the lake: you can get off at Hawes End to climb Cat Bells (1481ft), for the best lakeside vantage point. From Keswick you can hike up to Latrigg (1203ft; 3hr) for breathtaking views or the more challenging Skiddaw (3050ft; 5hr), among the more straightforward of the area's many true mountain hikes. Walks round the lake via Borrowdale, perhaps the most beautiful valley in England, take three to five hours, depending on whether you stick to the lakeside or climb above it. A mile and a half's stroll eastwards is Castlerigg Stone Circle (free), a Neolithic monument commanding spectacular views.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus The terminal is behind Booths Foodstore, off Keswick's Main St.

Destinations Ambleside (hourly; 45min); Grasmere (hourly; 30min); Kendal (hourly; 1hr 30min); Windermere (hourly; 1hr 10min).

Tourist information Moot Hall, Market Square (Mon–Fri 9.30am–4.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–5.30pm; ☎01768 772645).

LAKE DISTRICT LUMINARIES

The lakeland landscape has been an inspiration to some of England's most revered literary figures. William Wordsworth lived at both Rydal Mount (March–Oct daily 9.30am–5pm; Nov–Feb Wed–Sun 11am–4pm; £7.50, gardens only £5), three miles northwest of Ambleside on the #555 bus, and the more interesting Dove Cottage, Grasmere (Mon–Fri 9.30am–4.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–5pm; closed Jan; £7.50), which still holds many of Wordsworth's possessions. Both he and his sister Dorothy lie in simple graves in the village churchyard of St Oswald's.

Beatrix Potter, author, illustrator and botanist, lived at Hill Top (Mon–Thurs, Sat & Sun: mid-Feb to mid-March 10.30am–3.30pm; mid-March to mid-May 10.30am–4.30pm; mid-May to Aug 10.30am–5.30pm; Sept & Oct 10.30am–4.30pm; £11; ticket numbers limited; ☎nationaltrust.org.uk), a lovely seventeenth-century house in the hamlet of Near Sawrey. You can take a ferry from Bowness (see p.465) and cover the steep two miles to the house on foot or by minibus. Get there early to beat the crowds.

From the village of Coniston, reached by bus #505 from Windermere or Ambleside, you can take the wooden Coniston Launch (£11 return; ☎01768 775753, conistonlaunch.co.uk) to the elegant lakeside villa, Brantwood (Mon–Fri 9.30am–4pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–5pm; £8, gardens only £5.50), former home of artist and critic John Ruskin. The house is full of Ruskin's drawings and sketches, as well as items relating to the Pre-Raphaelite painters he inspired.

GETTING AROUND

By bike Bike rental available from Keswick Mountain Bikes, Southey Hill (daily 9am–5.30pm; ☎01768 775202, www.keswickbikes.co.uk; £25/day).

ACCOMMODATION, EATING AND DRINKING

Denton House Penrith Rd ☎01768 775351, www.dentonhouse-keswick.co.uk. Sprawling, laidback hostel that focuses on the Lake District's outdoor attractions, and can organize activities in the area. Dorms £19

The George 3 St John's St. Old coaching inn with Jennings ales on tap, serving a much-in-demand Cow Pie (£11.95 for a half portion). Daily 11am–11pm or midnight.

Keswick YHA Station Rd ☎08453 719746, www.yha.org.uk. Well-maintained YHA hostel in a serene riverside spot with impressive mountain scenery: its licensed restaurant serves cheap evening meals. Dorms £30, doubles £59

Lakeland Pedlar Henderson's Yard, off Main St. Keswick's most agreeable café: vegetarian-friendly, with excellent home-made cakes and scones, as well as soups and sandwiches. Try the "boneshaker" salad with organic bread (£5.50). Mon–Fri 9am–4pm, Sat & Sun 9am–5pm.

YORK

Affluent YORK is a layer cake of history: the Romans used the city as their capital in northern Britain, as did Edwin of Northumbria, whose conversion to Christianity in 627 granted it huge spiritual importance. Then the Vikings swept through in 866, and ruled until 954, when Eric Bloodaxe lost Jorvik – as it was then known – to King Edred, who brought it into his unified England. Today its sinuous centuries-old cobbled streets are filled with cafés and craft shops, surrounded by picturesque medieval ramparts and centred on the spectacular Gothic Minster cathedral.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Start your sightseeing with a stroll along the city walls (daily till dusk), a three-mile circuit that takes in the various medieval "bars", or gates, with fine views of the Minster. Guided walks (daily 10.15am; April–Sept also 2.15pm; July & Aug also 2.15pm & 6.45pm; free; 2hr) depart from outside the art gallery in Exhibition Square; just turn up.

York Minster

Ever since Edwin built a wooden chapel on the site, York Minster (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 12.45–5pm; adult £15, student £14; www.yorkminster.org) has been the centre of religious authority for the north of England. Most of what's visible now was built in stages between the 1220s and the 1470s, and today it ranks as the country's largest Gothic building. Inside, the scenes of the East Window, completed in 1405, and the abstract thirteenth-century Five Sisters window, represent Britain's finest collection of stained glass. You can also climb up the central tower, which gives views over the medieval pattern of narrow streets to the south known as The Shambles.

Yorkshire Museum

Southwest of the Minster, just outside the city walls, Museum Gardens leads to the ruins of the Benedictine abbey of St Mary and the Yorkshire Museum (daily 10am–5pm; £7.50; www.yorkshireremuseum.org.uk), which contains much of the abbey's medieval sculpture, and a selection of Roman, Saxon and Viking finds. The displays give a good insight into life in Roman-era Eboracum (York), with exhibits on Viking and medieval York too.

Jorvik, Dig and Castle Museum

From the Minster, shopping streets spread south and east, focusing eventually on Coppergate, former site of the city's Viking settlement. The blockbuster experience that is Jorvik Viking Centre (daily: April–Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; www.jorvik-viking-centre.co.uk; £10.25) provides an entertaining taste of the period through a re-creation of Viking streets, complete with appropriate sounds and smells: book online to skip the queues. Just north of here, within St Saviour's Church, is the hands-on museum Dig (daily 10am–5pm; £6.50 or £14.45 including Jorvik; www.dig-york.com), where visitors carry out their own excavations, discovering artefacts and learning about the science and processes of archaeology. Further south, the superb Castle Museum (daily 9.30am–5pm; £10; yorkcastle.museum.org.uk has full-scale re-creations of life in bygone times, with evocative street scenes of the Victorian and Edwardian periods.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train York's train station lies outside the city walls on Station Rd.

Destinations Edinburgh (every 30min; 2hr 30min); London King's Cross (every 30min; 2hr); Manchester (every 15–30min; 1hr 30min); Newcastle (every 30min; 1hr).

By bus Long-distance coaches stop outside the train station, as well as on Rougier St, 200 yards northeast, just before Lendal Bridge.

Destinations Edinburgh (1 daily; 6hr 30min); London (3 daily; 5hr 30min); Manchester (hourly via Leeds; 2hr 45min); Newcastle (2 daily; 2hr 45min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 1 Museum St (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10am–4pm; ☎01904 550099, visityork.org), sells the York Pass (£38 for one day), which includes access to nearly all the city's sights.

ACCOMMODATION

Outside term time, the University of York (☎01904 328431, www.york.ac.uk) rents out good-value double rooms on its campus.

★The Fort Boutique Hostel 1 Little Stonegate ☎01904 639573, www.thefortyork.co.uk. Bang in the centre, this upmarket hostel has spacious, characterful rooms with flat-screen TVs and local artwork. Rooms (but not all dorms) are en suite; there's a bar-café downstairs, which makes the place a little noisy. Dorms £16, doubles £96

Rowntree Park Terry Ave ☎01904 658997, www.caravandclub.co.uk. Conveniently placed campsite on the banks of the River Ouse, just south of town, within easy walking distance. Per person £9.60, plus per tent £12.30

★Safestay York 88–90 Micklegate ☎02033 268471, www.safestay.com. Wonderful boutique hostel in a Grade I-listed Georgian terrace house. Expect wood-panelled rooms, luxurious private rooms, privacy curtains for bunk beds, a basement games room, plus a bar and other comfy spaces to socialize in. Dorms £29, doubles £93

EATING

El Piano 15–17 Grape Lane ☎el-piano.com. Bright, family-run vegan restaurant serving plenty of nut-free and raw dishes (mains £9.95), with flavours from South America, Spain and East Africa. Mon–Sat 11am–11pm, Sun noon–9pm.

Harlequin 2 King's Sq ☎harlequinyork.com. This first-floor tearoom serves generous lunches (jacket potatoes, salads, baguettes), excellent cream teas with freshly baked scones and ethically sourced coffee (espresso £1.90). Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–3pm.

★Mannion & Co 1 Blake St ☎mannionandco.co.uk. Deli, bistro, bakery, patisserie – this sweet place wears a lot of hats and wears them well. Queue for Yorkshire rarebit for breakfast, charcuterie platters and more substantial mains (£6–10) for lunch and artisan coffee anytime. Mon–Fri 9am–5.30pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm.

Your Bike Shed 148–150 Micklegate ☎yourbikeshed.co.uk. A bike repair workshop, coffee shop and café serving hearty meals to hungry cyclists – expect toasties, imaginative sandwiches, superfood salads and overflowing jacket potatoes. Mains from £5. Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10am–5pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

The Attic by Night 2 King's Sq, on the second floor, above Harlequin. A youthful, art-filled coffee shop run by the same team as Harlequin, with occasional cabaret nights, gin tastings and bottled craft beer. Thurs noon–6pm, Fri & Sat noon–8pm.

Fibbers Stonebow House, Stonebow ☎fibbers.co.uk. Long-established, this is still York's best live music venue, with bands and musicians from around the

TREAT YOURSELF

★Ate O'Clock 13a High Ousegate ☎ateoclock.co.uk. Buzzy bistro serving a changing menu of Mediterranean-themed dishes that make the most of locally sourced ingredients. Expect the likes of roasted pork belly and crab risotto; the three-course menu before 8pm is a steal at £19.50. Mon 6–9pm, Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 6–9.30pm world playing most nights of the week. Gigs nightly from 7.30pm.

House of the Trembling Madness 48 Stonegate. Hidden away above a bottle shop, this taxidermy-filled pub serves a great range of Belgian beers in a shadowy, candlelit hall. Daily 11am–midnight.

Pivni 6 Patrick Pool ☎pivni.co.uk. A proper beer drinkers' pub in a timber-framed building dating back to 1190. While some of its many bottled beers from around the world go for up to £20, the ales on tap are much cheaper. Mon–Sat 11.30am–11.30pm, Sun noon–11.30pm.

ENTERTAINMENT

City Screen Picturehouse 13–17 Coney St ☎picturehouses.co.uk. Arthouse cinema with a riverside café-bar and live music. Also screens Hollywood films.

National Centre for Early Music St Margaret's Church, Walmgate ☎ncem.co.uk. Hosts a prestigious early music festival in July, plus world, jazz and folk gigs throughout the year.

DURHAM

A “perfect little city” according to travel writer Bill Bryson, DURHAM is known for its spectacular cathedral and castle perched high on a bluff enclosed by a loop of the River Wear (pronounced “weer”). Once one of northern England's power bases, today it's a quiet city with cobbled streets and a young vibe, being home to one of Britain's most prestigious universities. Visit as a day-trip from Newcastle or stay over to soak up the medieval vibe.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Durham hit the limelight after the remains of St Cuthbert, the patron saint of Northumbria, were moved here in the ninth century because of Viking raids. His shrine at the eastern end of the beautiful eleventh-century cathedral

(Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm, Sun 12.30–5.30pm; till 8pm daily mid-July to early Sept; durhamcathedral.co.uk; donation requested) soon became a pilgrimage site. The cathedral is England's finest example of Norman architecture, and also contains the tomb of the Venerable Bede, the country's first historian. Its tower gives breathtaking views (Mon–Fri 10am–3pm, Sat 10am–4pm; £5). On the opposite side of Palace Green, Durham Castle (tours daily at 1.15pm, 2.15pm, 3.15pm & 4.15pm; during university hols, also at 10.15am, 11.15am & 12.15pm; £5; dur.ac.uk/durham.castle) is a much refurbished Norman edifice that started out as a motte-and-bailey fort in 1072 and is now a university hall of residence: the Black Staircase is one of its most impressive features.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Durham train station is a 10min walk from the centre, via either of the two main river bridges.

Destinations Edinburgh (hourly, 2hr); London (hourly, 3hr); Newcastle (every 20min; 15min); York (4 hourly; 50min).

By bus The bus station is just south of the train station on North Rd.

Destinations London (3 daily; 7hr); Newcastle (every 30min; 1hr).

Tourist information The World Heritage Site Visitor Centre (01913 343 805, thisisdurham.com; Mon–Fri 9.30am–4.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–5pm), near the castle at 7 Owengate, has information on the city's attractions.

ACCOMMODATION

Durham University has rooms available – including within the castle – at Easter and from July to Sept (0800 289 970, dur.ac.uk/conferences).

Castle View Crossgate 0191 386 8852, castle-view.co.uk. The city's best-value guesthouse with homely rooms, internet access and great views of Durham Castle. Doubles £100

Durham City YHA St Chad's College, near the cathedral 0191 334 3358, yha.org.uk. Open only during the summer holidays and at Easter, this well-located college block has great-value single, double and twin rooms, some en suite. Doubles £28

EATING, DRINKING AND ENTERTAINMENT

★ Flat White 21a Elvet Bridge. Home-made cakes are served on floral plates at this café/wine bar just off Saddler St. Its stone walls and wooden beams are decorated with colourful sprigs of dried flowers. Cheap breakfasts (from £3.50) and excellent coffee. Tues–Sat 9am–5.30pm, Sun 10am–4pm.

Gala Theatre & Cinema Millennium Place galadurham.co.uk. Durham's large theatre and cinema complex hosts drama, concerts, comedy shows and film nights. Daily 10am–late.

Shakespeare Tavern 63 Saddler St. Splendidly British, this allegedly haunted twelfth-century watering hole has nooks to snuggle up in and an extensive range of beers and spirits. Daily 11am–11.30pm.

Vennel's Café Saddler's Yard, off Saddler St. Café serving everything from cakes to pies and quiches (£5) in a lovely little hidden courtyard. Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 10.30am–5pm.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE has shaken off its image as being all bare-chested football fans and raucous nightlife. While still possessing both in abundance, this formerly industrial city is now as trendy as it is tough, and more about culture than clubbing. It boasts a slew of fine galleries and arts venues, as well as a handsome Neoclassical downtown area fanning out from the lofty Grecian column of Grey's Monument, the city's central landmark. Facing Newcastle across the Tyne is rejuvenated Gateshead, a former industrial area and now the hub of the city's art scene.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Arriving by train from the south, your first view is of the River Tyne, flanked by redeveloped quaysides and crossed by a series of bridges linking Newcastle to the Gateshead side of the river. Most famous is the single steel-arched Tyne Bridge, built in 1928 and complemented by the hi-tech "winking" Millennium Bridge, a wonderful sweeping arc of sparkling steel channelling pedestrians cross-river. North of the centre is student- and bar-filled Jesmond, while east is the trendy, regenerated area of Ouseburn.

Laing Gallery, Baltic and The Sage

The northeast's main art collection is housed in the Laing Gallery on New Bridge Street (Tues–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 2–5pm; free; laingartgallery.org.uk), though it's overshadowed by the excellent BALTIC Centre for Contemporary Art (daily 10.30am–6pm; free; balticmill.com) next to the Millennium Bridge in Gateshead. One of the biggest contemporary galleries outside London, this converted former flour mill hosts visiting shows by some of the biggest names in contemporary art. On a similarly ambitious scale, the Sage Gateshead (daily roughly 9am–11pm; free; thesagegateshead.org) is a billowing steel, aluminium and glass structure by Norman Foster, that hosts a programme of concerts (classical and contemporary), events and activities.

Discovery Museum and Great North Museum

The Discovery Museum at Blandford Square (Mon–Fri 10am–4pm, Sat & Sun 11am–4pm; free; discoverymuseum.org.uk) zips through Tyneside's exciting history, from the city's technological and scientific achievements to Newcastle's most famous sons and daughters. The showpiece is the Turbinia, a 100ft-long ship that was the world's fastest back in 1897. Further north, near the Haymarket bus station, the university-run Great North Museum, Barras Bridge (Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–4pm; free; greatnorthmuseum.org.uk), has exhibitions on prehistory (dinosaurs) and ancient Egypt plus an interactive model of Hadrian's Wall.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Newcastle International Airport (newcastleairport.com) is five miles north of the city centre, and served by the local Metro system (daily 5.45am–midnight): a DaySaver ticket for unlimited travel in all three zones costs £4.80.

By train Newcastle's Central Station is a 2min walk from the centre.

Destinations Durham (around 3 hourly; 10–15min); Edinburgh (every 30min; 1hr 30min); Glasgow (every 30min, most via Edinburgh; 2hr 30min–3hr); London (every 30min; 3hr); York (up to 5 hourly; 1hr); Manchester (via York; every 15min; 2hr 35min–3hr 20min).

By bus The coach station, on St James's Boulevard, is a few mins' walk west of the station.

Destinations Durham (every 30min; 50min); Edinburgh (3 daily; 3hr 15min); Glasgow (2 daily; 4hr 30min–5hr); Liverpool (7 daily; 5hr 15min–6hr 50min); London (4 daily; 7hr–8hr 15min); Manchester (8 daily; 3hr 40min–4hr 50min); York (5 daily; 2hr 20min–4hr 50min).

Tourist information The main tourist office is at Central Arcade (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5.30pm, Sun 10am–4pm; 0191 277 8000, visitnewcastlegateshead.com).

ACCOMMODATION

The University of Northumbria (0191 227 4209, northumbria.ac.uk) and Newcastle University (0191 222 6318, ncl.ac.uk) offer good-value, summertime B&B (mostly single rooms) in their halls of residence.

Albatross Backpackers Inn 51 Grainger St 0191 233 1330, albatrossnewcastle.co.uk. The most convenient place to stay in Newcastle, this large, friendly hostel is both central and full of nice touches, such as the games room with Xbox, large guest kitchen and bike storage. Dorms £17, doubles £46

Euro Hostel 17 Carloli Square 0845 490 0371, eurohostels.co.uk/newcastle. Clean, smart, en-suite rooms at this refurbished, 256-bed converted warehouse hostel on top of one of the city's best bars. Staff are friendly but a bit disorganized. Dorms £20, doubles £70

EATING

Many restaurants are grouped around Bigg Market, a block west of Grey St.

★Fat Hippo Underground 2 Shakespeare St fathippo.co.uk. Enormous, juicy burgers (from £8) in brioche buns in a cavernous subterranean setting. We love PB&J (with peanut butter and bacon jam) and the signature Fat Hippo with chorizo and cheese. Veggie options on offer, too. Daily noon–10pm.

Kafeneon 8 Bigg Market kafeneon.co.uk. Central, Greek bar/restaurant with a bargain happy-hour menu (5–8pm) of two courses for £10 – the pulled pork gyros gets our vote. Mon–Sat 11am–10pm.

★TREAT YOURSELF

Blackfriars Restaurant Friars Street 0191 261 5945, blackfriarsrestaurant.co.uk. Located in a thirteenth-century monastery, and claiming to be Britain's oldest continually used dining room, this characterful place specializes in "modern medieval" cuisine. Dishes include pan haggerty (a northeastern speciality of potatoes, onions and cheese) and roast pork belly followed by sticky toffee pudding with salted caramel sauce. Go for the set menu (2 courses for £15) or an early evening weekday meal to get the best deals. Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 5.30–9.45pm, Sun noon–2.45pm.

Nudo Noodles 54–56 Low Friar St @nudenoodles.co.uk. Plush, popular noodle house with sushi sets from £7.50 and noodle dishes from £8: authentic dishes include Japanese-style grilled eel. Daily noon–10pm.

Pink Lane Coffee Pink Lane @pinklanecoffee.co.uk. Independent specialist coffee shop just up from the station with staff who really know their beans. Good sandwiches, too (£4). Mon–Fri 7am–7pm, Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10am–4pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Free monthly entertainment listings magazine, The Crack, available in pubs and record shops, is the best way to find out what's on.

Centurion Bar Central Station @centurion-newcastle.com. This wonderfully grand Victorian bar used to be the First Class waiting room at the Central Station. Today, it's a great place to kick off a night out, with beers and wines from around the globe. Sun–Thurs 10am–11pm, Fri & Sat 10am–1am.

The Cluny Lime St, Ouseburn. Intimate live music venue hosting rising stars of the music scene: also serves decent burgers (£7.95) and a good international beer selection. Mon–Sat 8–11pm or midnight, Sun 8–10.30pm.

Digital Times Square @yourfutureisdigital.com. Proud owner of the best sound system in the city. Plenty of world-class DJs have headlined here, with music running the full gamut from 1980s cheese through to rave, with rock'n'roll on Rebel Thursdays. See website for opening and closing times.

HADRIAN'S WALL

A phenomenal construction that was erected between 122 and 128 AD and spanned 73 miles, Hadrian's Wall once separated Roman England from barbarian Scotland. It can be a wonderfully atmospheric place, especially on a rainy day, when it's not difficult to imagine Roman soldiers gloomily contemplating their bleak northern posting from atop the wall. Today the Hadrian's Wall Path, an 84-mile way-marked trail (5–7 days) runs coast to coast across Northumberland and Cumbria. It starts four miles east of Newcastle at Segedunum, the last outpost of Hadrian's great border defence, where you can look round the remains of the Roman fort (daily: April–Oct 10am–5pm; Nov–March 10am–3pm; £5.25; @Wallsend). Otherwise, the best jumping-off point and base for longer exploration is the abbey town of HEXHAM, 45 minutes west of Newcastle by train or bus. Some of the finest preserved sections of wall include Housesteads (Mon–Fri 10am–4pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; £7), the most complete Roman fort in Britain, set in spectacular countryside, and the partly re-created fort and lively museum at Vindolanda Roman Fort (@vindolanda.com; Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; £6.50). The circular route, which can be started from either Housesteads or Vindolanda, provides a decent walk, covering around 7.5 miles and taking in both Housesteads and Vindolanda, as well as some dramatic scenery.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus The Hadrian's Wall #AD122 bus (daily Easter–Oct up to 5, though not all services cover the whole route; 1-day ticket £12) runs between Hexham and Carlisle via all the main sites.

Tourist information Hexham has a tourist office in the main car park (April–Oct Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 11am–4pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 10am–4.30pm; @01434 652220), or check out @visithadrianswall.co.uk.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Hadrian's Wall Camping Melkridge, Haltwhistle @01434 320495, @hadrianswallcampsite.co.uk. Small, level site near the Wall with a centrally heated bunk barn. Camping/person £10, bunk barn £15

Twice Brewed Inn @01434 344534, @twicebrewedinn.co.uk. Just 1.5 miles from the Vindolanda Roman Fort, this friendly pub offers cosy rooms, pub grub throughout the day plus more refined meals in the evening, such as haggis-stuffed chicken, washed down with local beers. Doubles £65

Wales

Picturesque WALES has long appealed to British holidaymakers, drawn by unspoilt countryside and some of the UK's most dramatic mountains. The relationship between Wales and England, however, has never been entirely easy. Fed up with demarcation disputes, the eighth-century Mercian king Offa constructed a dyke to separate the two countries: the 177-mile Offa's

Dyke Path still (roughly) marks the border to this day, though Wales came under English rule in the late thirteenth century. Nevertheless, Wales retains a strong national identity, most clearly manifested in the Welsh language (see box below), and the arrival, in 1999, of the National Assembly for Wales, the first all-Wales tier of government for nearly six hundred years, is a sign that power is starting slowly to shift back.

Much of the country, particularly the Brecon Beacons in the south and Snowdonia in the north, is relentlessly mountainous and offers wonderful hiking terrain, while Pembrokeshire to the west boasts a striking coastline. The biggest towns, including the capital Cardiff in the south, Aberystwyth in the west, and Caernarfon in the north, all cling to the coastal lowlands, but even then the mountains are only a short bus-ride away. Holyhead, on the island of Anglesey, is the main British port for ferry sailings to Dublin.

CARDIFF

Though once shackled to the fortunes of the coal-mining industry, Wales' capital city, CARDIFF (Caerdydd), has been revitalized over the past decade, not least due to the arrival of the Welsh Assembly. The city's narrow Victorian arcades are interspersed with new shopping centres and wide pedestrian precincts.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Cardiff's city centre extends north of Cardiff Central train station. To the west of the centre, overlooking the River Taff, is the gleaming Millennium Stadium (www.millenniumstadium.com), where the country's top rugby is played. Cardiff's main historical landmark, the castle, is a short stroll northeast of here, while the revitalized Cardiff Bay, with its cutting-edge architecture, lies south of the centre.

Cardiff Castle and the National Museum

Cardiff Castle (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9am–6pm; £12; www.cardiffcastle.com) is the historical heart of the city. Standing on a Roman site developed by the Normans (with a twelfth-century Norman keep in the centre), the castle was embellished by the English architect William Burges in the 1860s, and each room in the sumptuous apartments is now a wonderful example of Victorian “medieval” decoration: the Banqueting Hall and the ceiling in the Arab Room steal the show. Look out, too, for the splendid Clock Tower and the Animal Wall, with its menagerie in stone, leading up to the castle.

Five minutes' walk northeast, the ground floor of the National Museum Cardiff in Cathays Park (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; free; www.museumwales.ac.uk) is devoted to natural history and archeology. Upstairs is a fine collection of Impressionist paintings, landscapes and

WELSH CULTURE AND LANGUAGE

Indigenous Welsh culture survives largely through language and song. Music, poetry and dance are celebrated at Eisteddfod festivals throughout the country; most famous is the annual Royal National Eisteddfod (www.eisteddfod.org.uk) in different locations across the country in early August.

The Welsh language has undergone a revival and you'll see it on road signs all over the country, although you're most likely to hear it spoken in the north, west and mid-Wales, where, for many, it's their first language. Some Welsh place names have never been anglicized, but where alternative names do exist, we've given them in the text.

SOME BASICS

Hello
Goodbye
Please
Thank you

Helo
Hwyl
Os gwelwch chi'n da
Diolch

Hello
Huh-will
Oss gway-look un tha
Dee-ol'ch

13 portraits by Welsh artists, abstract art and ceramics – look out for the incredible glass art pioneered by Maurice Marinot.

Cardiff Bay

A half-hour walk south of the centre is the Cardiff Bay area, most easily reached by bus #7 from Cardiff Central. Once known as Tiger Bay, the long-derelict area has seen massive redevelopment since the Welsh Assembly opened. The architectural masterpiece that is the Wales Millennium Centre dominates, with its gleaming copper roof and huge theatre (see opposite). The Doctor Who Experience (Wed–Mon 10am–5pm; £14; doctorwhoexperience.com) explains Cardiff's links to the programme – much of it was filmed here – and you can play Dr Who's sidekick before exploring a warehouse full of props and sets. Nearby is the Cardiff Bay Visitor Centre (see below), known as “The Tube” for its unique, award-winning design. There are also waterfront walks, glittering millennium architecture and an old Norwegian seamen's chapel, converted into a cosy café.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Cardiff Airport (cardiff-airport.com) is around 35min west of the centre; the Cardiff Airport Express Bus (every 20min; £5) runs to Cardiff Central train station.

By train Long-distance services (including all those listed below) arrive and depart from Cardiff Central. Some local trains also depart here, while others use Queen St station, east of the centre.

Destinations Abergavenny (every 30min; 40min); Birmingham (hourly; 2hr); Bristol (Temple Meads; every 30min; 50min); Conwy (3 daily; 4hr 20min); London (every 30min; 2hr 10min); Manchester (hourly; 3hr 25min); Pembroke (2 daily; 3hr).

By bus Long-distance coaches and buses from the airport arrive at the bus terminal, right beside Cardiff Central train station, south of the city centre off Penarth Rd.

Destinations Abergavenny (hourly; 1hr 45min–2hr 30min); Aberystwyth (3 daily; 4hr); Brecon (8 daily; 1hr 30min); Bristol (hourly; 1hr 30min); London (hourly; 3hr 20min–4hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The Old Library on The Hayes (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5.30pm, Sun 10am–4pm; ☎ 029 2087 3573, visitcardiff.com), and Cardiff Bay Visitor Centre (daily 10am–6pm; ☎ 029 2087 7927). The former is also home to The Cardiff Story (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 11am–4pm; free; cardiffstory.com), an interactive museum that uses videos, sound effects and smells to show how the city went from “coal to cool”.

ACCOMMODATION

Austins Guest House 11 Coldstream Terrace ☎ 029 2037 7148, hotelcardiff.com. Friendly guesthouse by the river, with compact, spotless singles and doubles with flat-screen TVs. Most share bathrooms. Doubles £45

NosDa Studio Hostel 53–59 Despensers St ☎ 029 2037 8866, nosda.co.uk. Just across the river from the Millennium Stadium, this lively, well-run hostel has bright, modern dorms and rooms, as well as a bar and computers. Beware, though, if you get a stag party in the room next to yours, as the walls are pretty thin. Breakfast included. Dorms £11, doubles £40

★ River House Backpackers 59 Fitzhamon Embankment, along the riverbank ☎ 029 2039 9810, riverhousebackpackers.com. Spotlessly clean, this intimate riverside hostel feels more like a B&B than a budget crash pad and attracts a sedate clientele. The dorms (4- and 6-bed) and double rooms share a well-equipped kitchen, dining area, lounge and decked outside seating area. The free breakfast is extensive. Dorms £17, doubles £42

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Clwb Ifor Bach (The Welsh Club) 11 Womanby St ☎ clwb.net. Little club playing an eclectic range of music, though rock and indie by up-and-coming local bands dominates. Entry £4–10. Tues–Sat 10pm–2/3am.

Coffee Barker 13 Castle Arcade. Arguably Cardiff's best coffee shop, with a great choice of beans and squishy sofas you can sink into for a spot of breakfast or brunch: coffee from £2.50. Mon–Sat 8.30am–5pm, Sun 11am–4.30pm.

Gwdihw 6 Gifford Crescent ☎ gwdihw.co.uk. Fun little bar (pronounced goody-hoo) with a beer garden that turns into a live music venue by night. Rock, indie and soul dominate. Mon–Thurs & Sun 3pm–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–2am.

Madame Fromage 18 Castle Arcade ☎ madamefromage.co.uk. One of the best cheese specialists in the country, serving up delicious soups (£5), cold platters and home-cooked “slow food” in a pretty Victorian arcade opposite the castle. Mon–Fri 10am–5.30pm, Sat 9.30am–6pm & occasional Sun 11am–4pm.

★ Purple Poppadom 185a Cowbridge Rd East ☎ purplepoppadom.com. A 10min walk from the castle, this restaurant dazzles your tastebuds with a contemporary take on Indian cuisine, such as wonderfully tender, intensely tasty chicken tikka and tangy prawn curry with mango. The 2-course weekday lunch is a steal at £11. Tues–Sat noon–2pm & 5.30–11pm, Sun 1–9pm.

Zerodegrees 27 Westgate St @zerodegrees.co.uk /cardiff. This sleek, industrial-themed bar-restaurant and microbrewery close to the Millennium Stadium serves up stone-fired pizzas with imaginative toppings from £8.50. Mon–Sat noon–midnight, Sun noon–11pm.

ENTERTAINMENT

Wales Millennium Centre @029 2063 6464, @wmc.org.uk. Cardiff Bay's arts hub has a wide-ranging, year-round programme that includes opera, ballet, contemporary dance, music and comedy.

CHEPSTOW AND TINTERN ABBEY

The sleepy market town of CHEPSTOW (Cas-Gwent) is bunched around Britain's first stone castle (March–Oct daily 9am–5pm; Nov–Feb Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–4pm; adult £6, student £4.20; @cadw.wales.gov.uk), built by the Normans in 1067 and much of which is still impressively intact. Nothing in town, however, can match the six-mile stroll north along the Wye to South Wales' main historical treasure, the eerie ruins of Tintern Abbey, built in 1131 and now in a state of majestic disrepair (same hours and price as castle).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Bus #69 (Mon–Fri 8 daily, Sat 6 daily, Sun 4 daily) runs from Chepstow to Tintern then on to Monmouth, eight miles north.

Tourist information For information on Chepstow and the Offa's Dyke Path contact the tourist office on Bridge Street (daily: April–Oct 9.30am–5pm; Nov–March 9.30am–3.30pm; @01291 623772, @chepstow.co.uk).

ACCOMMODATION

St Briavels Castle YHA hostel @08453 719 042, @yha.org.uk; bus #69. Allegedly "Britain's most haunted", this hostel occupies a moated Norman castle seven miles northeast of Chepstow. Dorms £15

THE BRECON BEACONS

The Brecon Beacons National Park (@breconbeacons.org) is a vast area of bare, rocky uplands and wooded valleys that makes perfect walking country. The terrain is tough, though – the SAS train here – and you should always be prepared for inclement weather. The Beacons themselves, accessed from Brecon town, share the limelight with the Black Mountains in the park's eastern portion, which rise north of pretty Crickhowell. Climbing the area's tallest peak, Pen-y-Fan (886m), is a popular three- to four hour round hike along a well-marked trail which leaves from the car park just south of the Storey Arms, 11 miles south of Brecon. An alternative route – less busy and wonderfully scenic – up the peak starts from Cwm Gwdi near Brecon town, and takes around five or six hours round trip.

Crickhowell and around

Friendly CRICKHOWELL (Crughywel) lies five miles west of Abergavenny and makes a picturesque base. A great six-mile hike into the Black Mountains from here takes you through remote countryside to tiny Partrishow Church; inside, you'll find a rare carved fifteenth-century rood screen complete with a dragon, and an ancient mural of the grim reaper. For more dramatic scenery, the six-and-a-half-mile round trip to Table Mountain (1481ft) or the still-longer hike up to Sugar Loaf (1955ft), offer great views of the Black Mountains.

Brecon

The largest of the central Brecon Beacons rise just south of BRECON (Aberhonddu), a lively little town eight miles west of Crickhowell known for its mid-August international jazz festival (@breconjazz.com). Accommodation is scarce during the festival and prices high, so book ahead.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Stagecoach's (@stagecoachbus.com) #T4 bus service runs from Cardiff to Brecon (every 2hr; 1hr 30min), where you can transfer to their #X43 service to Crickhowell (hourly; 25–45min): buses from Brecon stop on the square in Crickhowell, near the tourist office. Buses from Hereford in England (accessible by rail) also run to Brecon.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Crickhowell The tourist office (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun 10am–1pm; @01873 811970, @visitcrickhowell.co.uk) is on Beaufort Street.

THE BEACON WAY

The 100-mile Beacon Way traverses the entire Brecon Beacons National Park from Abergavenny to Llangadog (allow 8 days). Check the weather before setting out as conditions change rapidly on the hills. Regular trains run from Cardiff to Abergavenny.

Brecon For details of the area's numerous hiking routes call at the tourist office in Brecon's Cattle Market car park (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun 10am–4pm; ☎ 01874 622485).

ACCOMMODATION

CRICKHOWELL

Gwyn Deri B&B Mill St ☎ 01873 812494
 Ⓜ gwynderibedandbreakfast.co.uk. Welcoming owners run this homey B&B with three modern, immaculate double rooms. An excellent breakfast is included. Doubles £70

BRECON

YHA Brecon Beacons Seven miles south of Brecon along the A470 ☎ 0845 371 9506, Ⓜ yha.org.uk. Particularly handy for hiking Pen-y-Fan, this converted farmhouse comprises snug dorms, rooms and camping pods, with a large guest kitchen and on-site bar. Dorms £18, doubles £55

PEMBROKESHIRE AND ST DAVID'S

The sleepy town of Pembroke (Penfro), accessible by train from Cardiff, is a handy jumping-off point from which to explore the southern part of the Pembrokeshire Coast National Park (Ⓜ pcnpa.org.uk), which covers 240 square miles of wooded estuaries, rocky cliffs and isolated beaches. Walkers can hail buses that run along the coast.

St David's

Around thirty miles north of Pembroke, the city of ST DAVID'S (Tyddewi), Britain's smallest, is one of the most enchanting spots in Britain (Ⓜ stdavids.co.uk). Its beautiful cathedral (daily 9am–5.30pm; £3 donation requested; Ⓜ stdavids.cathedral.org.uk), delicately tinted purple, green and yellow by a combination of lichens and geology, hosts a prestigious classical music festival in late May or early June. Nearby, the remains of the magnificent fourteenth-century Bishop's Palace (March–Oct daily 9.30am–5/6pm; Nov–Feb Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–4pm; £3.50) add to the wonderful setting.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Travel first to Haverfordwest, served by frequent trains from Cardiff (every 2hr; 2hr 30min) and National Express buses from Pembroke (2 daily; 35min). From here take hourly bus #411 sixteen miles west to St David's.

By car St David's is around 2hr 30min drive west of Cardiff along the M4 and A40.

Tourist information The national park visitor centre in town at the Oriel y Parc Landscape Gallery (daily: March–Oct 9.30am–5.30pm; Nov–Feb 10am–4.30pm; ☎ 01437 720392, Ⓜ pembrokeshirecoast.org.uk) has maps of scenic walks around St David's.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Bishops 22–23 Cross Sq Ⓜ thebish.co.uk. Friendly pub on the main square serving delicious British standards, such as fish and chips and bangers and mash. Mains from £10. Daily 11am–midnight.

St David's YHA Llaethdy, close to Whitesands Beach ☎ 0845 371 9141, Ⓜ yha.org.uk. Converted farmhouse two miles northwest of town that appeals to surfers and climbers, who get a kick out of exploring the surrounding coastline. Dorms £22, doubles £55

ABERYSTWYTH

ABERYSTWYTH, a lively, thoroughly Welsh seaside resort of neat Victorian terraces, has a thriving student culture. The flavour of the town is best appreciated from the seafront, where one of Edward I's castles bestrides a windy

FERRIES TO IRELAND

Two ferries daily to Rosslare in Ireland (4hr; Ⓜ irishferries.com) leave from Pembroke Dock, two miles north of Pembroke.

About 17 miles further north, at the end of the main London to Cardiff train line, is Fishguard (Abergwaun), from where Stena Line ferries depart twice daily to Rosslare (4hr; Ⓜ stenaline.co.uk).

Holyhead (Caergybi), on Anglesey, is the busiest Welsh ferry port, with six ferries and catamarans (run by Stena Line and Irish Ferries) leaving for Dublin each day (2hr 20min–3hr 15min).

headland to the south. The picturesque bluff to the north of town can be reached via a clanking cliff railway (April–Oct daily 10am–5pm; Nov–March limited timetable in operation; £4.50 return). For a more extended rail trip, you can take the Vale of Rheidol narrow-gauge steam train to Devil's Bridge, a picturesque canyon where three bridges span a dramatic waterfall (late March to Oct; £20 return; rheidolrailway.co.uk).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is 10min south of the seafront, reached by walking up Terrace Rd.

Tourist information The tourist office is also on Terrace Rd, near the junction with Bath St (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm; July & Aug also Sun 10am–5pm; 01970 612125).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Baravin Llys y Brenin, Terrace Rd baravin.co.uk. Near the waterfront, this bistro/bar combines Italian dishes with Welsh ingredients – try the pizza with pulled Penlan pork and Perl Wen cheese: mains from £8.50. The horseshoe-shaped bar is the place to make merry, fuelled by imaginative cocktails. Mon–Sat 10am–late.

Maes y Mor 25 Bath St 01970 639270, maesymor.co.uk. While the town seafront is lined with genteel guesthouses, this smart place, located a block back, offers snug singles, doubles and family rooms, with a self-catering kitchen available. Doubles £55

SNOWDONIA NATIONAL PARK

With its jagged peaks, towering waterfalls and glacial lakes, Snowdonia National Park (visitsnowdonia.info) attracts walkers in large numbers, with a steady stream even in the bleakest months. The park covers an enormous area stretching from Aberdyfi in the south to Conwy on the north coast. Its highlight, though, is the glory of North Wales – Mount Snowdon, at 3560ft the highest mountain in England and Wales.

GETTING AROUND

By bus and train There are two main access routes. From Porthmadog, a few miles north of Harlech (both on the local rail network), buses skirt the base of Snowdon north to Caernarfon and Llanberis; main-line trains from Crewe and Chester hug the north coast through Bangor to Holyhead, passing through Llandudno Junction and Conwy (the latter is a request stop).

Llanberis

LLANBERIS is a popular lakeside village in the shadow of Snowdon and a convenient base for exploring the area. The slate quarries that seared Llanberis's surroundings now lie idle, but the excellent Welsh Slate Museum (Easter–Oct daily 10am–5pm; Nov–Easter Mon–Fri & Sun 10am–4pm; free; museumwales.ac.uk) takes an in-depth look at the town's former lifeblood, with slate-cutting demonstrations and immense machinery.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Regular buses run the seven miles southeast from Caernarfon (see p.478), stopping on the high street. Sherpa Bus services encircle Snowdon itself; most routes cost £2 in each direction.

Tourist information The tourist office is a few minutes' walk away from the high street on the A4086, inside the Electric Mountain building (Mon, Tues & Fri–Sun 10am–4pm; 01286 870765, visitsnowdonia.info).

ACCOMMODATION

There's a good choice of accommodation for walkers, particularly in Llanberis. The Sherpa Bus provides access to several well-equipped HI hostels (yha.org.uk), each at the base of a footpath up the mountain.

Bryn Gwynant YHA Nantgwynant, 10 miles south of Llanberis along the A498 0845 371 9108, yha.org.uk/hostel/bryn-gwynant. This converted Victorian mansion has views across Llyn Gwynant lake and is conveniently located near the Watkin Path up Snowdon. Meals available on request. Dorms £20, doubles £60

Idan House 12 High St, Llanberis 01286 670 873, idanhouse.vpweb.co.uk. Centrally located, family-run guesthouse, where most of the rooms share bathrooms. A generous cooked Welsh breakfast is included in the price. Doubles £55

Pen-y-Pass YHA Five miles south of Llanberis along the A4086 0845 371 9534, yha.org.uk/hostel/pen-y-pass. Popular hostel along the Pen-y-Pass mountain pass, at the start of the Miners' Track and Pyg Track, with dorms and private rooms, some en suite. Dorms £18, doubles £55

EATING

Pete's Eats 40 High St, Llanberis petes-eats.co.uk. Busy, bright café that acts as hiker central, serving huge portions of soup, pasta and daily specials to a Goretex-clad crowd. Mains from £4. Daily 8am–8 or 9pm.

CLIMBING SNOWDON

There are six main tracks up Snowdon, varying in length and difficulty.

Llanberis Path (5 miles; 3hr) The longest but easiest ascent of the mountain from Llanberis.

Snowdon Ranger Path (4 miles; 3hr) Runs from Snowdon Ranger YHA and has two steep sections.

Miners' Track (4 miles; 2hr 30min) Largely flat trail that runs from the Pen-y-Pass car park, past Llyn Llydaw, and then climbs steeply up to meet the Pyg Track and Llanberis Path.

Pyg Track (3.5 miles; 2hr 30min) Also starts from the Pen-y-Pass car park, but climbs quite steeply straight away.

Rhyd Ddu Path (4 miles; 3hr) An uncrowded, gentle ascent past the rim of Cwn Clogwyn from the Caernarfon–Beddgelert road (A4085).

Watkin Path (4 miles; 3hr) Steep and challenging route from Nantgwynant that involves a scramble up Bwlch Ciliau then a further climb up Snowdon.

Snowdon Horseshoe (8-mile-loop) Combines the Pyg Track with a scramble up the knife-edge Crib Goch ridge (for experienced hikers only), and a loop around Llyn Llydaw lake from Snowdon that eventually descends to join the Miners' Track.

Alternatively, you can take the steam-hauled Snowdon Mountain Railway (mid-March to early Nov daily; £25 single, £37 return; discounts for 9am departure; ☎ snowdonrailway.co.uk), which operates from Llanberis (see p.477) to the summit, weather permitting. Whichever way you come, make sure you're equipped with suitable shoes, warm clothing, and food and drink to see you through any unexpected hitches.

CAERNARFON

CAERNARFON is a handy springboard for trips into Snowdonia. Caernarfon Castle (March–Oct Mon–Fri 9.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–6pm; Nov–Feb Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–4pm, adult £7.95, student £5.60; ☎ caernarfon-castle.co.uk), built in 1283, is arguably one of the most splendid castles in Britain, with atmospheric towers and rambling stone passageways. It's here that heirs to the throne, the princes of Wales, are ceremonially invested.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses stop at the station on Penllyn, just across Castle Square from the tourist office.

Tourist information Castle St (April–Oct daily 9.30am–4.30pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat 10am–3.30pm; ☎ 01286 672232, ☎ visitsnowdonia.info).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Black Boy Inn Northgate St ☎ 01286 673604, ☎ black-boy-inn.com. Smart (but pricey) en-suite doubles. Also serves great pub food (mains from £8.50) and Welsh cream teas. £90

Totters 2 High St ☎ 01286 672963, ☎ totters.co.uk. An excellent independent hostel with lockers in spick-and-span dorms, cosy rooms and an atmospheric fourteenth-century basement. Dorms £18.50, doubles £44

NORTH WALES COAST

From Caernarfon, buses run northeast to Bangor which is connected to the pretty little island of Anglesey (Ynys Môn) by the Menai Bridge, built by Thomas Telford in 1826. Eighteen miles east of Bangor is the medieval walled town of CONWY and its impressive UNESCO-listed Conwy Castle (March–Oct Mon–Fri 9.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–6pm; Nov–Feb Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Sun 11am–4pm; adult £8, student £5.60). Built in 1307 by Edward I as one of his “Iron Ring” of fortresses to pacify the rebellious Welsh, the castle has eight towers enclosing a cavernous Great Hall, and is rumoured to have a resident ghost.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Conwy YHA Larkhill, Sychnant Pass Rd ☎ 0845 371 9732, ☎ yha.org.uk. Just west of the centre, Conwy's modern HI has a full range of facilities and its private rooms are mostly en suite. Dorms £19, doubles £45

Press Room 3 Rose Hill St, Conwy. With an outdoor courtyard facing the castle, this café-cum-arty-shop serves quiches, full breakfasts and daily specials, such as gourmet takes on Welsh rarebit: mains from £6. Daily 10.30am–3.30pm.

Scotland

With its kilted bagpipers, brooding castles on craggy highland hilltops, mystery-steeped lochs and whisky, SCOTLAND has a unique character, which is apparent as soon as you cross the border from England. This is partly due to the Scots, unlike the Welsh, successfully repulsing the expansionist designs of England down the centuries. Although the “old enemies” formed a union in 1707, Scotland retained many of its own institutions, notably distinctive legal and educational systems. However, Scottish political nationalism has been on the rise since 1997’s referendum, when the Scottish people voted in favour of devolution. The Scottish Parliament held its first meeting in 1999, and the 2011 elections saw the Scottish National Party (SNP) gain a historic majority. Buoyed by its success, the SNP-led government held a referendum on complete independence in late 2014, in which the Scots voted narrowly in favour of remaining part of the UK. Scotland voted strongly to stay in the EU in the 2016 referendum when the UK voted to leave, leading SNP supporters to call for a second independence referendum – whatever happens, the issue of Scottish sovereignty is far from settled.

Most of Scotland’s population clusters around the two principal cities: stately Edinburgh, the national capital, with its magnificent architecture and imperious natural setting, and revitalized Glasgow, a former Industrial Revolution powerhouse now renowned for its culture, nightlife and cuisine. Outside this Central Belt, Scotland is overwhelmingly rural, and just beyond Glasgow the wild, mountainous, loch-strewn bulk of the Highlands rears up and doesn’t stop until it hits the north coast. Off the west coast lie the majority of Scotland’s beach-fringed islands, surviving largely on fishing and agriculture. All this makes for terrific outdoor fun, with many of the most scenic spots – such as the famous Loch Lomond and Loch Ness – easily accessible.

EDINBURGH

EDINBURGH, so said former resident Robert Louis Stevenson, “is what Paris ought to be”. For many centuries Scotland’s capital rivalled Europe’s greatest cities in terms of learning, cultural clout and setting. It straddles two extinct volcanoes: Castle Rock – topped with an imposing castle – and Arthur’s Seat, which shelters the official residence of the Royal Family in Scotland. In between is a beautiful city, made up of steeply twisting alleyways (wynds) and stone-built houses. The population usually hovers around the half-million mark, but swells massively in high season, peaking in August during the Edinburgh Festival.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The centre has two distinct parts. The castle rock is the core of the medieval city – the Old Town – where nobles and servants lived side by side for centuries within tight defensive walls: Edinburgh earned its nickname “Auld Reekie” from the smog and smell generated by the cramped inhabitants. To the north, the New Town, designed by eminent architects of the day, was begun in the late 1700s: still largely intact, it’s an outstanding example of Georgian town planning.

The Old Town and castle

The cobbled Royal Mile – composed of Castlehill, Lawnmarket, High Street and Canongate – is the central thoroughfare of the Old Town, running down to the Palace of Holyroodhouse from the castle (Mon–Fri 9.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–6pm; £16.50; @edinburghcastle.gov.uk), a formidable edifice perched on sheer volcanic rock, with fantastic views of the city from its battlements. Within its precincts are St Margaret’s Chapel, Edinburgh’s oldest surviving building dating from 1110, and the venerable fifteenth-century siege cannon, Mons Meg, complete with enormous cannonballs. Other castle highlights include the richly decorated Great Hall, an exhibition displaying the Honours of Scotland (the Scottish Crown Jewels) and the Stone of Destiny – the coronation stone that was returned to Scotland in 1997 after spending 700 years in Westminster Abbey. The castle esplanade provides a dramatic setting for the Military Tattoo, a lavish display of martial pomp staged during the Festival. Year-round, at 1pm (Mon–Sat), the One O’Clock Gun is fired from the Mills Mount Battery.

National Museum of Scotland

At the eastern end of Lawnmarket, George IV Bridge leads south from the Royal Mile to Chambers Street, where the National Museum of Scotland (daily 10am–5pm; free; nms.ac.uk) is home to many of the nation’s historical treasures, ranging from Celtic pieces to twentieth-century icons.

High Kirk of St Giles and Parliament House

On the Royal Mile, High Street starts at Parliament Square, dominated by the High Kirk of St Giles (May–Sept Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm; Oct–April Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm; £3 donation; stgilescathedral.org.uk) with its crown-shaped spire and Thistle Chapel sporting some impressive mock-Gothic woodcarving. On the south side of Parliament Square are the Neoclassical law courts, incorporating the seventeenth-century Parliament House, under whose spectacular hammerbeam roof the Scottish parliament met until the 1707 Union.

John Knox’s House and Scottish Parliament

The westernmost section of the Royal Mile, Canongate, starts just beyond John

Knox’s House (Mon–Sat 10am–6pm; July & Aug also Sun noon–6pm; £5; scottishstorytellingcentre.co.uk), atmospheric home of the city’s fierce Calvinist cleric (look out for the Devil on the ceiling), and the Scottish Storytelling Centre. The road leads to the new Scottish Parliament (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm except during February recess; free), a costly, controversial but undoubtedly striking piece of contemporary architecture.

The Palace of Holyroodhouse and Arthur’s Seat

The Royal Family’s official Scottish residence is the imposing Palace of Holyroodhouse (daily: April–Oct 9.30am–6pm; Nov–March 9.30am–4.30pm; £12), which has been entwined with its fair share of historical figures including Oliver Cromwell and Mary, Queen of Scots. The public are admitted to the sumptuous state rooms unless the royals are in residence. The Queen’s Gallery (same hours; £6.70) displays works of art from the royal collection. The palace looks out over Holyrood Park, from where fine walks lead along the Salisbury Crags and up Arthur’s Seat beyond; a fairly stiff climb is rewarded by magnificent views over the city and the Firth of Forth.

The New Town

The wide grassy valley of Princes Street Gardens marks a clear divide between the Old and New Towns. Along the north side runs Princes Street, the main shopping area. Splitting the gardens halfway along is the Scottish National

THE EDINBURGH FESTIVAL

By far the biggest arts event in Europe, August’s Edinburgh Festival is really a multitude of festivals, mostly theatre-based, attracting artists, performers, comedians and tourists in their thousands. The Edinburgh Festival Fringe (edfringe.com), begun as a sideline to the International Theatre Festival to showcase alternative performances, is now the largest draw, mainly for its up-and-coming and big-name comedians. But with a ticket even on the Fringe often hitting £10 or more, and accommodation prices soaring, the only way to experience the Festival cheaply is often to work at it. Pretty much everywhere in Edinburgh becomes a venue during the festival, and every venue needs box office, front of house, technical and bar staff. You won’t make much money, but you’ll often end up with accommodation and free passes for your venue’s shows, and sometimes others. The main Fringe venues to approach are the Assembly Rooms (assemblyfestival.com), Gilded Balloon (gildedballoon.co.uk), Underbelly (underbelly.co.uk) and Pleasance (pleasance.co.uk/edinburgh).

HAUNTED EDINBURGH

From serial-killing corpse-dealers Burke and Hare to the malevolent Mackenzie Poltergeist, the winding streets and underground vaults of the Old Town shelter a multitude of spooks, and several entertaining ghost tours operate around the High Street. Some favour a historical approach while others lean firmly toward the high theatrical, using "jumper-ooters" – usually costumed students – to scare unsuspecting tour-goers. The Real Mary King's Close, off the Royal Mile, is a tour of an intact old close built over after the plague, offering a fine balance between the informative and the chilling (every 15min: April–July, Sept & Oct daily 10am–9pm; Aug daily 9am–9pm; Nov–March Mon–Thurs & Sun 10am–5pm, Fri & Sat 10am–9pm; 1hr; adult £14.50, student £12.75; ☎0845 070 6244, 🌐realmarykingsclose.com).

Gallery (daily 10am–5pm, Thurs till 7pm; free; 🌐nationalgalleries.org), an Athenian-style sandstone building. One of the best small collections of pre-twentieth-century art in Europe, it displays works by major European artists including Botticelli, Titian, Rembrandt, Gauguin and Van Gogh. Look out for Sir Henry Raeburn's charming Skating Minister – a postcard favourite. The gallery is linked, via a Neoclassical underground chamber, to the Royal Scottish Academy (Mon–Sat 10am–5pm, Sun noon–5pm; free), an exhibition space originally designed in 1826 that hosts changing exhibitions of contemporary art.

The Scott Monument and Calton Hill

Northeast of the National Gallery you can climb the peculiar Gothic spire of the Scott Monument (daily: April–Sept 10am–7pm; Oct–March Mon–Fri 10am–4pm, Sat & Sun 10am–6pm; £5), a tribute to Scottish author Sir Walter Scott. Further on down Princes Street Calton Hill rises up above the New Town and is worth climbing, both for the citywide views and for the surreal collection of Neoclassical follies, including the unfinished National Monument, perched on the very top.

Scottish National Portrait Gallery

At the eastern end of Queen Street stands the Scottish National Portrait Gallery (daily 10am–5pm, Thurs till 7pm; free), a remarkable red-sandstone building modelled on the Doge's Palace in Venice. Inside, the collection of portraits offers an engaging procession through Scottish history from Robert Burns to Sean Connery.

Scottish Modern Art Galleries

In the northwest corner of the New Town lies Stockbridge, a smart residential suburb with vintage shops, cool cafés and a bohemian vibe. From here Belford Road leads up to the Scottish National Gallery of Modern Art (daily 10am–5pm; free), whose two buildings (named Modern One and Modern Two) offer an accessible introduction to all the notable movements of twentieth-century art, with a sculpted garden area designed by Charles Jencks.

Leith

Once rough-round-the-edges Leith, Edinburgh's historic port two miles northwest of the city centre, has been revitalized in recent years and now has a cool collection of lively waterside bars and restaurants. It's also home to the Royal Yacht Britannia (daily: April–June & Oct 9.30am–4pm; July–Sept 9.30am–4.30pm; Nov–March 10am–3.30pm; adult £15, student £13.50; 🌐royalyachtbritannia.co.uk), the Queen's former luxury yacht, now berthed at Ocean Terminal. The vessel has hosted some of the world's most important figures in its 44 years of service, from Gandhi and Nelson Mandela to Bill Clinton: check out the surprisingly modest royal quarters (the Queen's are separate from Prince Philip's).

Rosslyn Chapel

Located on the eastern edge of the village of Roslin, seven miles south of Edinburgh, is the remarkable, mystery-steeped Rosslyn Chapel (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5pm, Sun noon–4.45pm; £9; 🌐rosslynchapel.com), reachable on Lothian bus #15. Its intricate fifteenth-century design and imagery associated with Freemasonry and the Knights Templar contributed to its starring role in Dan Brown's bestseller The Da Vinci Code and the subsequent Hollywood film.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Edinburgh Airport (edinburghairport.co.uk) is eight miles west of the centre. From the airport to the city centre, you can take Airlink bus #100 (4am–midnight every 10–15min; 40min; £4.50 single; flybybus.com) or Edinburgh Trams (6am–midnight every 10–15min; 30min; £5 single; edinburghtrams.com).

By train Edinburgh's Waverley Station is bang in the centre, just south of Princes St.

Destinations Aberdeen (hourly; 2hr 30min); Durham (every 30min; 1hr 45min); Glasgow (every 15min; 50min); Inverness (10 daily; 3hr 30min); Leuchars (for St Andrews; every 30min; 1hr); London (1–2 hourly; 4hr–7hr 30min); Newcastle (3 hourly; 1hr 30min); Stirling (every 30min; 50min); York (2 hourly; 2hr 30min).

By bus Edinburgh Bus Station is on Elder Street, just south of York Place, and is served by a mixture of long-distance and local buses.

Destinations Aberdeen (hourly; 3hr); Glasgow (every 15min; 1hr 20min); Inverness (every 1–2hr; 3hr 45min–4hr 45min); Manchester (3 daily; 5hr 40min–6hr 25min); Newcastle (5 daily; 2hr 45min–3hr 30min); St Andrews (hourly; 2hr); Stirling (at least hourly; 1hr 30min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information 3 Princes St, above the station on the top level of Princes Mall (July & Aug Mon–Sat 9am–8pm, Sun 10am–8pm; Sept–June Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10am–5pm; 0131 473 3868, visitscotland.com). There's also a branch at the airport. Both tourist offices sell the Edinburgh Pass: it includes a free airport transfer and access to more than thirty of the city's attractions (1-day pass £29; 2-day £39; 3-day £49), though not Edinburgh Castle or Holyroodhouse Palace, so you have to do a lot of sightseeing to make it worthwhile.

GETTING AROUND

By bus The city is covered by an extensive network of Lothian (lothianbuses.com) and First (firstgroup.com) buses. Lothian buses #10, #12, #16 & #22 run from Princes St to Leith via Leith Walk: day passes are available on board for £3.60 (exact change required). First buses charge £3.50 for a day pass and give change.

By bike Edinburgh Cycle Hire, 29 Blackfriars St (0131 556 5560, cyclescotland.co.uk), rents bikes (from £20/day) and offers customized cycling tours of Scotland.

By tram Edinburgh Trams (edinburghtrams.com) run from the airport to the city centre via Haymarket (£5). A single within the city costs £1.60; an unlimited day rider ticket costs £4 (£9 including the airport).

ACCOMMODATION

If you want to stay during the Festival (early Aug to early Sept), you'll need to book months in advance and, in many cases, be prepared to pay more than the high season prices listed here. Minto St, which starts about a mile and a half south of the train station, and Pilrig St, just west of Leith Walk, hold a myriad B&Bs.

HOSTELS

★ Castle Rock 15 Johnston Terrace 0131 225 9666, scotlandstophostels.com. Friendly 200-bed hostel tucked below the castle ramparts. It comes with a comfortable lounge, period features and, allegedly, its own ghost. Dorms £17, doubles £45

★ CODE Hostel Edinburgh 50 Rose St N Lane 0131 659 9883, codehostel.com. This boutique hostel has comfy sleeping pods providing privacy plus electric sockets for your rechargeables. Thoughtfully designed communal spaces and a roof terrace encourage socializing, and the staff are helpful. There's a great 2-person apartment, too. Dorms £25, apartment £99

Haggis Hostel 5/3 West Register St 0131 557 0036, haggishostels.co.uk. Small, clean, fresh-feeling dorms high up in a building near Princes St. TV room, laundry facilities, clean showers and breakfast provided: single-sex dorms available, too. Dorms £22

High Street Hostel 8 Blackfriars St 0131 557 3984, scotlandstophostels.com. Large hostel in a sixteenth-century building just off the Royal Mile, with basic rooms, a mural-filled lounge area and a huge kitchen. The cleanliness could be better, but staff are friendly and the location is excellent. Dorms £20, doubles £70

Malone's Old Town Hostel 14 Forrest Rd 0131 226 5954, maloneshostel.com. Dorms at this hostel above an Irish bar are a little stark, but the location is excellent and guests get discounts on food at the pub below. Dorms £13

Smart City Hostel 50 Blackfriars St 0131 524 1989, smartcityhostels.com. This modern hostel has spotless, hotel-standard en-suite rooms and dorms, with a stylish bar, terrace and restaurant. Dorms £12, doubles £69

GUESTHOUSES AND HOTELS

Ardenlee Guest House 9 Eyre Place 0131 556 2838, www.ardenlee.co.uk. Welcoming guesthouse near the Royal Botanic Garden with comfortable rooms; unusually, solo travellers pay exactly half the price of a double. Doubles £80

Hermitage Guest House 16E Hermitage Place 0131 555 4868. Friendly spot a short walk from Leith. The singles and doubles may be of the can't-swing-a-cat variety, but

13 they're warm, clean, and breakfast is included. Lothian bus #25 takes you almost to the doorstep. Doubles £60

★ hub by Premier Inn 37E Market St ☎ 0871 527 9580, hubhotels.co.uk. All creams and lime greens, these ultra-compact, ultra-modern rooms are designed with comfort in mind: excellent beds, monsoon showers, fast wi-fi and control panels for the light and temperature. And it's right on the Royal Mile. Doubles £59

EATING

CAFÉS, CHEAP EATS AND SNACKS

Brew Lab 6–8 South College St ☎ brewlabcoffee.co.uk. Artisan coffee bar favoured by design-conscious students, who come for the locally made cakes and pastries (from £2), exposed brick interiors and free wi-fi. Daily 9am–6pm.

Elephant House 21 George IV Bridge ☎ elephanthouse.biz. Popular café with a cavernous back room, best known as the place where J.K. Rowling wrote the first Harry Potter book. Simple dishes like chilli con carne cost £5.50. Mon–Fri 8am–10pm, Sat & Sun 9am–11pm.

★ Oink 34 Victoria St ☎ oinkhogroast.co.uk. Busy little takeaway shop specializing in hog roast rolls (look for the pig in the window). Choose your bread, stuffing and sauce, then tuck in (from £4). Daily 11am–5pm, but may close earlier if pork runs out.

Papii 101 Hanover St. Smart, pastel-coloured interiors make this bright café a popular place to stop for a coffee made from locally roasted beans, accompanied by toasted bagels, waffles or a granola breakfast. Mon–Fri 7.30am–4pm, Sat 8am–5pm, Sun 9am–4pm.

Valvona and Crolla 19 Elm Row ☎ valvonaandcrolla.co.uk. Stylish deli (Scotland's oldest) selling picnic treats with a Mediterranean slant (great Italian wines and cheeses). Mon–Thurs 8.30am–6pm, Fri & Sat 8am–6.30pm, Sun 10.30am–4pm.

RESTAURANTS

The Dogs 110 Hanover St ☎ thedogsonline.co.uk. No-nonsense Scottish restaurant with a good-value lunch menu (mains £5–6) and a pricier evening one (mains £10–14) – dishes range from seafood barley risotto to devilled ox liver. Daily noon–10pm.

Fishers 1 The Shore, Leith ☎ fishersrestaurants.co.uk. Among several seafood restaurants on this upmarket stretch beside Leith docks, Fishers is famous for its high-quality fish sourced from around Scotland's coast, and the weekday set menu (two courses for £15) is a good deal. Mains from £16. Daily noon–10.30pm.

Hanedan 41 W Preston St ☎ hanedan.co.uk. Justifiably popular, this tiny authentic Turkish place serves fantastic hot and cold meze, meaty and veggie moussaka and chargrilled meats. Meze from £3.50, mains from £9. Tues–Sun noon–3pm & 5.30pm–late.

Mosque Kitchen 31 Nicholson Square ☎ mosquekitchen.com. “Curry in a hurry”: this simple, canteen-style establishment is super-popular with students and visitors and serves large portions of curry, koftas and biriyani for £6. Daily 10am–9.30pm.

Mother India's Café 3 Infirmary St ☎ motherindia.co.uk. This buzzy, popular spot specializes in Indian tapas, with a couple of dishes (from £4.25) enough for one person. Feast on the likes of lamb saag, fish masala and aubergine fritters. Mon–Thurs noon–2pm & 5–10.30pm, Fri–Sun noon–10.30pm.

★ Mums 4a Forrest Rd. Gravy-drizzled comfort food in a laidback, retro-style diner. Mums serves up more than a dozen types of mashed potato with its gourmet, gluten-free sausages (from £7.50), and has a good selection of bottled Scottish ales and ciders to wash the food down with. Daily 10am–10pm.

★ Tapa 19 Shore Place ☎ tapaedinburgh.co.uk. Atmospheric tapas bar in Leith, serving authentic Spanish specialties that include aubergine with honey, goat's cheese and beetroot towers and plenty of cold cuts. Spanish wines and sherries abound and the El Classico lunch for two (£15) is good value for 6 tapas. Sun–Thurs 1–9pm, Fri & Sat 1–10pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Pick up a copy of The List or The Skinny to find out what's going on with Edinburgh's lively nightlife. If you're just out for a drink, try the New Town's traditional pubs, or the bar-restaurants along the waterfront in Leith. The top of Leith Walk is the place for gay nightlife.

PUBS AND BARS

★ Bramble 16A Queen St ☎ bramblebar.co.uk. Unmarked, refined subterranean bar that has earned its place in the World's Top 20 Bars with its remarkable cocktails. Nary a beer drinker in sight. Daily 4pm–1am.

Café Royal 19 West Register St ☎ caferoyaledinburgh.co.uk. Make a point of visiting this Grade A listed pub, arguably Edinburgh's most beautiful watering hole, which serves a wide selection of wines and beers. There's a pricier restaurant below serving classic dishes (mains from £13; 2-course early bird menu £20). Mon–Sat 11am–midnight, Sun 12.30–11pm.

Dirty Dick's 159 Rose St. Cluttered with old curios, this pub boasts cask-conditioned ales, an animated atmosphere and legendary steak-and-ale pies (£9.50). Mon–Fri 11am–1am, Sat & Sun noon–1am.

Jekyll & Hyde 112 Hanover St ☎ eerie-pubs.co.uk/jekyll-hyde. Ghoulish, Gothic, gimmicky and fun, this themed pub serves creepily named concoctions from the bar. Daily 11am–10pm.

Sheep Heid Inn 43–45 The Causeway, Duddingston ☎ thesheepheidinedinburgh.co.uk. Edinburgh's oldest pub has great ales, an extensive wine list, tasty food and the world's oldest-known skittle alley. It's a 20min walk around the southern edge of Holyrood Park, near Arthur's Seat. Mon–Thurs 11am–11pm, Fri & Sat 11am–midnight, Sun 12.30–11pm.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

Cabaret Voltaire 36–38 Blair St thecabaretvoltaire.com. Eclectic beats, live acts, comedy, theatre and the occasional live band. Most nights 11pm–3am.

Liquid Room 9c Victoria St liquidroom.com. Hosts house nights and cheap, midweek indie parties. It's also a popular live venue; Kasabian, Feeder and the Dead Kennedys have all played here. Most nights keep going until 3am.

Sandy Bell's 25 Forrester St sandybellsedinburgh.co.uk. Music fans and whisky drinkers prop up the long, mirror-backed bar at this corner pub, which has live folk music nightly from 9.30pm. The highland, island and lowland malts are joined by a respectable beer list. Daily noon–1am.

Whistle Binkie's 4–6 South Bridge whistlebinkies.com. Terrific live music bar in a cellar near the Royal Mile that features several bands nightly, the genres veering from jazz to rock and blues. Sun–Wed 11am–midnight, Thurs–Sat 11am–1am.

DIRECTORY

Banks and exchange Several big bank branches on and around St Andrew's Square, Hanover St and along George St.

Embassies and consulates Australia (Honorary Consulate), 5 Mitchell St 0131 538 0582; Canada: Mr John Rafferty 07702 359 916; US, 3 Regent Terrace 0131 556 8315.

Hospital Royal Infirmary, Old Dalkeith Rd 0131 536 1000, has a 24-hour emergency department.

Left luggage At Waverley Station (£8 per item/day).

Post office St James' Shopping Centre, near the eastern end of Princes St (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5.30pm).

GLASGOW

Having shrugged off its post-industrial malaise, rejuvenated Glasgow, Scotland's largest city, has undergone a revamp these last two decades and now basks in the light of its outstanding achievement, which was epitomized by its successful hosting of the 2014 Commonwealth Games. The River Clyde on which it sits now bustles again with prosperity, and the city is also home to one of the world's best art schools and a fantastic live music scene. It's rightly favoured for its down-to-earth ambience, die-hard "Glesga" party spirit and innovative architecture ranging from lavish

SCOTLAND'S MUSIC FESTIVALS

The summer festival season is a great time to visit Scotland. For mainstream acts, check out T in the Park, near Kinross (July; tinthepark.com). For something more alternative, try the Wickerman Festival (July; thewickermanfestival.co.uk), near Dundrennan in Dumfries and Galloway, which culminates in the burning of a huge wicker effigy.

eighteenth-century mansions through to cutting-edge twenty-first-century design.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Glasgow's centre lies on the north bank of the River Clyde, around the grandiose George Square, a little way east of Central Station. Here, in the West End and on the South Side, lies the legacy of grand civic buildings, such as the impressive City Chambers, on the east side of the square, that led the Victorians to label Glasgow the "second city of the Empire".

The Gallery of Modern Art

Just south of George Square, down Queen Street, is the lavish eighteenth-century Gallery of Modern Art (GoMA) (Mon–Wed & Fri 10am–5pm, Thurs 10am–8pm, Sat & Sun 11am–5pm; free; glasgowlife.org.uk), which houses changing exhibitions by contemporary Scots, such as photography by Wolfgang Tillman, music, performance and textiles by Cosima von Bonin and sculpture by Tessa Lynch.

The National Piping Centre

Just across from Glasgow's Theatre Royal at 30–34 McPhater Street, the National Piping Centre (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–1pm; free; thepipingcentre.co.uk) tells the story of the Scottish bagpipe, from its role in clan conflicts to the seemingly impossible task of putting pipe music to paper. Attached is the independently run hotel, The Pipers' Tryst (see p.488).

Cathedral and Necropolis

Northeast of George Square is the cathedral on Castle Street (Mon–Sat 9.30am–5.30pm, Sun 1–4pm; glasgowcathedral.org.uk), which was built in 1136, and is the only Scottish mainland cathedral to have escaped the country's sixteenth-century religious reformers. The adjacent Necropolis, a hilltop cemetery for the magnates who made Glasgow rich, has great views across the city.

Kelvingrove Art Gallery and the West End

The boundaries of the leafy West End are marked by the magnificent Baroque crenellations of Kelvingrove Art Gallery, Argyle Street (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 11am–5pm; free; glasgowlife.org.uk), which houses pieces by Rembrandt, Degas, Millet, Van Gogh and Monet, as well as an impressive body of Scottish painting. Don't miss Dalí's Christ of St John of the Cross – an arresting vision of the Crucifixion.

River Clyde

The Riverside Museum along Glasgow's redeveloped waterfront at 100 Pointhouse Place (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 11am–5pm; free; glasgowlife.org.uk) showcases the city's shipbuilding heritage. In summer you can take a cruise from the quay outside here on the world's last ocean-going paddle steamer (0845 130 4647; waverleyexcursions.co.uk) to Dunoon (£27) and Rothesay (£33), as well as other destinations around the Clyde Estuary.

The Burrell Collection

About four miles south of the centre, in Pollok Country Park (buses #3, #45, #48 & #57 from Union Street, or train to Pollokshaws West), is the astonishing Burrell Collection, amassed by William Burrell and housed in a custom-built gallery (Mon–Fri 10am–5pm, Sat & Sun 11am–5pm; free; glasgowlife.org.uk). Works by Memling, Cézanne, Degas, Bellini and Géricault feature among the paintings, while adjoining galleries display antiquities from ancient Rome, Greece, China and medieval Europe, as well as Islamic art and Persian rugs.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Glasgow International Airport lies eight miles west of the city, with regular bus #500 shuttling to Buchanan St bus station (15min; £7 single). Glasgow Prestwick Airport, thirty miles south, is connected to the city centre by trains (3 hourly; 30min) and buses.

By train Glasgow has two main train stations, around 10min walk apart: Central serves all points south and west, as well as Edinburgh; Queen St serves Edinburgh and the north.

Destinations from Queen Street Balloch (every 30min; 45min); Edinburgh (every 15min; 50min); Inverness (some change at Perth; every 2hr; 3hr 25min); Mallaig (for Skye; 2–3 daily; 5hr 20min); Oban (for Mull; 2 daily; 3hr); Newcastle (most change in Edinburgh; hourly; 2hr 30min–3hr); Stirling (every 30min; 45min–1hr).

Destinations from Glasgow Central Edinburgh (up to 4 hourly; 1hr–1hr 30min); Liverpool (via Wigan/Preston; every 30min; 3hr 30min); London (hourly; 4hr 30min–5hr 30min); Manchester (3 direct, around 23 daily via Preston/Carlisle; 3hr 15min–3hr 45min).

By bus Buchanan St bus station sits at the northern end of Buchanan St.

Destinations Edinburgh (every 15min; 1hr 20min); Inverness (every 1hr 30min; 3hr 45min–4hr 30min); Liverpool (1 daily; 6hr 30min); London (6 daily; 8hr–9hr 45min); Manchester (7 daily; 5hr–5hr 30min); Newcastle (4 daily; 4hr–4hr 30min); Oban (for Mull; 3 daily; 3hr); St Andrews (hourly; 2hr 30min); Skye (3 daily; Kyle of Lochalsh 5–6hr, Portree 6–7hr, Uig 7–8hr); Stirling (up to 3 per hour; 50min–1hr 45min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information The tourist office is at 170 Buchanan St, just west of Glasgow Queen St (Mon–Sat

CHARLES RENNIE MACKINTOSH

There aren't many architects who have made a bigger impression on a city than Charles Rennie Mackintosh (1868–1928). Little-appreciated in his lifetime, his fascinating, pioneering building designs around the city are among the best examples of early modernist architecture, and are now finally getting the recognition they deserve. See his work for yourself at his first commission, the Lighthouse on Mitchell Lane (Mon–Sat 10.30am–5pm, Sun noon–5pm; free; thelighthouse.co.uk), and climb the tower from the third floor for expansive views of Glasgow's rooftops: check glasgowmackintosh.com for details of the city's other examples of the great man's work.

9am–6pm, Sun noon–4pm; 0141 204 4400, www.peoplemakeglasgow.com); there's a smaller office at Glasgow International Airport.

GETTING AROUND

By bus Most city bus services are run by First (www.firstglasgow.com); single tickets cost £1.40 (carry exact change) and an unlimited Day-rider costs £4.50.

By subway The subway is cheap and easy: it has a circular chain of fifteen stations with a flat fare of £1.40 (Discovery Ticket £4 for a day's unlimited travel). If you buy a rechargeable Subway Smartcard (£3), unlimited day travel costs £2.75.

By train The Roundabout ticket (£6.60) gives one day unlimited travel by suburban rail and subway.

By bike Dales at 150 Dobbies Loan has mountain bikes to rent (Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Thurs 9am–7pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 11am–4pm; £22/day; 0141 332 2705, www.dalescycles.co.uk).

ACCOMMODATION

Alamo Guesthouse 46 Gray St 0141 339 2395, www.alamoguesthouse.com. Quiet and attractive Victorian tenement near Kelvingrove Park, whose twelve immaculate rooms come with antique furnishings; the more affordable rooms are downstairs and share facilities. Doubles £59

Alba Hostel 6 Fifth Ave 0141 334 2952, www.albahostelglasgow.co.uk. This good-value West End hostel is a fair way out of town (10min train ride to Anniesland railway station or 30min bus ride) and the furnishings are rather unloved, but the staff try hard to keep guests happy. Dorms £15, doubles £48

Euro Hostel 318 Clyde St 08455 399 956, www.eurohostels.co.uk/glasgow. Its handy central location near the subway and nightlife areas makes up for the rather impersonal feel at this huge hostel. The bar at street level sells cheap cocktails Mon–Thurs & Sun. Dorms £15, doubles £36

Glasgow SYHA 8 Park Terrace 0141 332 3004, www.syha.org.uk. Friendly hostel in a listed building beside Kelvingrove Park, with helpful staff, en-suite rooms and dorms. Reachable via an uphill slog, it's handy for the West End, less so for central Glasgow. Dorms £18, doubles £50

Newton Hotel 248–252 Bath St 0141 332 1666, www.newtonhotel.co.uk. Centrally located, family-run hotel encompassing a clutch of cosy, carpeted singles, doubles and family rooms with power showers and flat-screen TVs. Full Scottish breakfast included. Doubles £60

The Pipers' Tryst 30–34 McPhater St, at the National Piping Centre 0141 353 5551, www.thepipingcentre.co.uk /hotel-restaurant. Its profits supporting the adjacent bagpipe centre, this venerable hotel has decor that pays homage to Scotland: all the beds are tartan-wrapped and just a short stagger upstairs from the bar selling a good selection of single malts. Doubles £89

Tartan Lodge 235 Alexandra Parade 0141 554 5970, www.tartanlodge.co.uk. A 10min walk east of Glasgow Cathedral, this hostel nestles inside a former church. Dorms (including a women-only dorm) are snug, en-suite and come with plenty of secure storage. The staff are very helpful, though noise from the main road might disturb lighter sleepers. Dorms £18, doubles £50

EATING

Café Cossachok 10 King St www.cafecossachok.com. Russian restaurant, gallery and occasional live music venue, serving an excellent-value lunchtime menu (two courses for £10) and Slavic mains such as pork shashlik, pelmeni (Russian dumplings) and borscht. Daily noon–11pm.

Chippy Doon The Lane McCormick Lane, off Buchanan St www.thechippyglasgow.com. Down a tiny alleyway, this chippy specializes in sustainably sourced fish; the golden battered chunks are light and crispy and the portions are huge. Mains from £8. Daily noon–9.30pm.

Las Iguanas 10–14 W Nile St www.iguanas.co.uk. Yes, it's a chain, but a good one at that – come for Latin American-style tapas, such as ceviche, glazed pork ribs and fiery prawns, or opt for a supporting cast of burritos and Brazilian moqueca: three tapas £14.70. Daily 10am–11pm.

Martha's 142a St. Vincent St www.mymarthas.co.uk. With a mission to bring fast, healthy food to the people of Glasgow, this slick café dishes up subtly spiced veggie and meat dishes, serving them either as a main course with rice, or as a takeaway wrap (from £4.50). Mon–Fri 7.30am–4pm, Sat 11am–4pm.

★ Mini Grill 224A Bath Rd www.minibarglasgow.co.uk. Trendy modern Scottish restaurant doing wondrous things with local produce. Go for a gourmet burger at lunchtime (£8) or choose the two-course pre-theatre menu (£14) featuring the likes of haggis trio, scallops with pancetta or seared duck. Daily noon–11.30pm.

Mother India's Café 1355 Argyle St www.motherindia.co.uk. An innovative, tapas-style approach to Indian street food makes this bustling place near the Kelvingrove Art Gallery a winner. Dishes from £4. Daily noon–11pm.

Where the Monkey Sleeps 182 West Regent St www.monkeysleeps.com. This basement coffee shop attracts a student crowd with good tunes and vast selection of filled bagels (from £4), panini, toasties and American pancakes. Mon–Fri 7am–4pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Pubs and clubs cluster around the city centre, the suave Merchant City to the east of Queen St, and the West End around Ashton Lane.

PUBS AND BARS

Blackfriars Glasgow 36 Bell St www.blackfriarsglasgow.com. The somewhat dated decor belies the excellent beer selection at this brewpub. It sources beers from various Scottish microbreweries, as well as craft beers from the US, Norway and elsewhere. A real beer-lover's pub. Sun–Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri & Sat 11am–3am.

Brewdog Glasgow 1397 Argyle St www.brewdog.com. The place to come for top-quality craft beers by the Scottish brewery Brewdog. There's usually at least half a dozen IPAs on tap, plus occasional guest ciders. Feeling brave? Try the 9.2% Hardcore IPA (£3.50 for half a pint). Mon–Sat noon–midnight, Sun 12.30pm–midnight.

Butterfly & The Pig 153 Bath St thebutterflyandthepig.com. Eclectic, shabby-chic basement pub with live music, a decent food menu and a good selection of beers and ales. The tearoom upstairs serves cracking Scottish breakfasts, too. Daily noon–10pm; tearooms open from 8.30am.

★Hillhead Book Club 17 Vinicombe St hillheadbookclub.co.uk. Attractive bar-restaurant in an old cinema, with a high, sculpted ceiling lit by huge lanterns. There are two menus (one for veggies), and the well-presented mains all cost less than £10. It also has ping-pong and retro computer games for pre-club fun. Mon–Fri 11am–10pm, Sat & Sun 10am–10pm.

Hummingbird 186 Bath St. One of several cheap bars along Bath St, Hummingbird is cool and dingy, with candles hanging from the ceiling in birdcages. Does a good line in gourmet burgers (from £8) and has cocktails named after subjects like travel, politics and food. Mon–Thurs noon–1am, Fri & Sat noon–3am.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

The 13th Note 50–60 King St 13thnote.co.uk. A Glasgow institution hosting up-and-coming bands from metal to indie via acoustic rock. Also serves great veggie food. Daily noon–midnight.

Barrowland 244 Gallowgate glasgow-barrowland.com. Glasgow's most famous live venue, with a medium-size capacity for soon-to-be-big bands and more established acts. Gig nights 7–11pm.

★King Tut's Wah Wah Hut 272a St Vincent St kingtuts.co.uk. Famous as the place where the likes of Oasis, Pulp, Radiohead and Manic Street Preachers played at the start of their careers, this intimate venue hosts excellent indie gigs. Daily from 8pm.

Polo Lounge 84 Wilson St pologlasgow.co.uk. Popular gay club that mixes refined drinking upstairs with a packed, cruisy dancefloor in the basement. Tues, Thurs & Sun 11pm–3am, Wed & Fri 10pm–3am, Sat 9pm–3am.

Sub Club 22 Jamaica St subclub.co.uk. Underground club and purveyor of the finest techno and electro, regularly hosting DJs from Glasgow, London and beyond. Fri & Sat 11pm–3am, plus some midweek parties (see website).

ENTERTAINMENT

Centre for Contemporary Arts (CCA) 350 Sauchiehall St cca-glasgow.com. Cultural centre that has a reputation for a programme of controversial performances and exhibitions.

Citizens' Theatre 119 Gorbals St citiz.co.uk. South Side theatre famous for sourcing top Scottish talent; a great place to catch a performance.

Glasgow Film Theatre 12 Rose St glasgowfilm.org/theatre. This wonderful cinema shows art films and old favourites, as well as documentaries by British filmmakers.

DIRECTORY

Hospital Royal Infirmary, 84 Castle St (☎0141 211 4000).

Police Pitt St (☎0141 532 2000).

Post office 59 Glassford St (Mon–Sat 8.30am–5.30pm).

STIRLING

STIRLING's strategic position between the Lowlands and Highlands at the easiest crossing of the River Forth has shaped its major role in Scottish history. Its steep cobbled streets and stupendous castle atop a crag are its loveliest features, though the area beyond Old Town is less appealing.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Set on a rocky volcanic outcrop, the atmospheric castle (Mon–Fri 9.30am–5pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–6pm; £14.50) was the seat of the Stuart monarchs and is, arguably, Scotland's most important castle. Highlights within the complex are the late Renaissance Royal Palace, with its sumptuous Queen's bedchamber, and the earlier Great Hall, with a restored hammerbeam roof. Look out, too, for the tapestry exhibition and the all-encompassing views from the ramparts.

Stirling's oldest part huddles around the narrow, winding streets leading up to the castle. Look out for the Gothic, timber-roofed Church of the Holy Rude (daily 10am–5pm), where the infant James VI – later James I of England – was crowned King of Scotland in 1567. From here, Broad Street slopes down to the lower town, passing the Tolbooth, the city's arts and cultural centre.

Stirling is famous as the scene of Sir William Wallace's victory over the English in 1297, a crucial episode in the Wars of Independence. The Scottish hero was commemorated in the Victorian era with the Wallace Monument (daily: April–May, Sept & Oct 10am–5pm; June–Aug 9.30am–5pm; Nov–March 10.30am–4pm; £10; bus #62A or #63A from the Stirling Bus Station), a bizarre Tolkienesque tower providing stupendous views.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is just east of the lower part of Old Town, off Burgh Muir Rd.

Destinations Aberdeen (hourly; 2hr–2hr 30min); Edinburgh (every 30min; 1hr); Glasgow (3 hourly; 1hr); Inverness (6 daily; 3hr).

By bus Long-distance buses depart from Goosecroft Rd, beside the train station.

Destinations Edinburgh (up to 3 hourly; 2hr 20min); Glasgow (1–2 hourly; 50min); St Andrews (every 2hr; 2hr).

Tourist information Old Town Jail, St John St (daily 10am–5pm; ☎01786 475 019, ✉visitscotland.com); maps of town and helpful info provided.

ACCOMMODATION

Stirling SYHA St John St ☎01786 473442, ✉syha.org.uk. Inside a former church just a few minutes' walk from the castle, this compact hostel offers snug en-suite dorms and rooms and the staff are friendly and helpful. There are full self-catering facilities on-site and inexpensive meals available during high season. Dorms £22, doubles £44

Willy Wallace Hostel 77 Murray Place ☎01786 446773, ✉willywallacehostel.com. Lively backpacker hostel with large, colourful yet spartan dorms, double rooms with iPod docks and a welcoming common area where you can play the piano or pick up a guitar. Dorms £15, doubles £52

EATING AND DRINKING

Brea 5 Baker St ☎brea-stirling.co.uk. Contemporary bistro that makes the most of fresh, locally sourced ingredients and brings you the likes of Shetland Isles mussels, chunky sandwiches, gourmet burgers (from £9.75), stone-baked pizzas and an excellent selection of local brews, gins and whiskies. Sun–Thurs noon–9pm, Fri & Sat noon–10am.

The Portcullis Castle Wynd ☎01786 472 290 ✉theportcullishotel.com. Right by the castle, this eighteenth-century hotel has one of the city's best pubs, complete with beer garden and fire. It also serves reasonable pub food (mains from £10) too. Daily 11.30am–midnight.

ST ANDREWS

Scotland's oldest university town and an important medieval pilgrimage centre, ST ANDREWS lies on a gorgeous stretch of the Fife coast 56 miles northeast of Edinburgh. With Prince William and Kate as former alumni of its university, the town is a young-feeling, well-to-do place with a clutch of atmospheric ruins, and seven swanky golf courses that are some of the oldest and most revered in the world.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

A wonderful crescent of sandy beach sweeps north from St Andrews' famous Old Course, while immediately south of it runs North Street, one of the town's two main arteries, largely taken up with grand university buildings.

The castle and cathedral

St Andrews' two main roads converge on the ruins of the magnificent Gothic cathedral (daily: April–Oct 9.30am–5.30pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; free), the largest and grandest ever built in Scotland and an important medieval pilgrimage centre. The bones of St Andrew allegedly lie beneath the altar. You can scale the nearby St Rule's Tower (Mon–Fri 9.30am–4pm; Sat & Sun 10am–5.30pm; £4.50, combined ticket with castle £8) for some great views. Nearby, off the seafront The Scores, the small thirteenth-century ruined castle (Mon–Fri 9.30am–4pm; Sat & Sun 10am–5.30pm; £5.50, combined ticket with Tower £8) was the former fortified home of the bishop of St Andrews and site of the grisly murder of Cardinal David Beaton in 1546.

The Old Course

Located on the northwestern fringes of town, the Old Course is St Andrews' most famous golf course and – according to Jack Nicklaus – the world's best. If you want to step onto its famous fairways and try your hand at the sport, head to the Himalayas putting green at The Links (April–Sept Mon–Sat 9.30am–6pm, Sun noon–6.30pm; £3 per round).

Arrival and information

By train There are direct trains from nearby Leuchars (five miles away) to Edinburgh (twice hourly; 1hr). Frequent buses (10min) connect with the train station.

By bus The bus station is west of town on City Rd.

Destinations Edinburgh (hourly; 2hr); Glasgow (hourly; 2hr 30min).

Tourist information 70 Market St (Mon–Fri 9.15am–5pm, Sat 9.30am–7pm; April to mid-Oct also Sun 11am–5pm; ☎ 01334 472021, 🌐 visitstandrews.com).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

If you want to stay in summer or during one of the big golf tournaments, book well ahead.

Doll's House 3 Church Square 🌐 dollshousestandrews.co.uk. Tucked away off the main street, this quirky bistro does wonderful things with seasonal local produce and the market menu is your best bet. Expect the likes of haggis balls with mustard sauce, hearty soups and smoked haddock with new potatoes and wilted spinach: two-course lunch £11. Daily 10am–midnight.

St Andrews Tourist Hostel St Mary's Place ☎ 01334 479911. The only hostel in town, in a very central location. While the staff are friendly and helpful, the facilities are basic, the furnishings rather tired and a spring clean wouldn't go amiss. £14

University of St Andrews ☎ 01334 463000, 🌐 bnb.st-andrews.ac.uk Between June and September you can lodge in plush doubles in one of three historic university halls or some self-catering apartments belonging to the university. Doubles £59

THE HIGHLANDS

The beguiling Highlands are a stunning mix of bare hills, green glens and silvery lochs, which extend up to the country's northern coast. The distances involved, along with scarce public transport, mean that you'll need several days to explore any one part properly. FORT WILLIAM is the Highlands' key outdoor base, served by train from Glasgow and bus from Inverness. On the outskirts of town is the Nevis Range, with skiing in winter and superb hiking and mountain biking in summer, and, sixteen miles south, Glen Coe, where soaring scenery and poignant history combine like nowhere else in the country. Fort William also marks one end of the West Highland Way, which runs all the way to Glasgow, and it's a good base from which to climb Ben Nevis, Britain's highest peak.

AVIEMORE, at the foot of the looming Cairngorm range, another national park, is also a good base for challenging hiking, ancient pine forests and winter sports. With outdoor activities the big draw across the region, most tourist information centres and hostels carry information on local hiking routes and adventure sports.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Some scenic spots are served by ScotRail's train network (🌐 scotrail.co.uk), which has good-value travel passes available.

By minibus tour A couple of rival companies offer lively minibus tours of the Highlands designed specifically for backpackers: Haggis (☎ 08452 578345, 🌐 haggisadventures.com) and award-winning Macbackpackers (☎ 0131 558 9900, 🌐 macbackpackers.com) depart from Edinburgh on trips lasting between one and ten days, covering the likes of Loch Ness, Skye and the Highlands. Three-day tours to Skye cost around £129.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

FORT WILLIAM

Glen Nevis Hostel ☎ 01397 702336, 🌐 syha.org.uk. If you're looking to climb Ben Nevis, it's better to stay in Glen Nevis than Fort William itself. This fully equipped SYHA hostel is at the foot of Ben Nevis, a 2.5-mile walk out of town, and private rooms are available for solo travellers. Dorms £22, doubles £70

AVIEMORE

Glenmore Lodge ☎ 01479 861256, 🌐 glenmorelodge.org.uk. As well as running excellent, if expensive, outdoor courses in rock climbing, mountaineering, kayaking and mountain biking, this famous lodge also offers en-suite B&B rooms. Doubles £80

CLIMBING BEN NEVIS

There are two main routes up Ben Nevis, Scotland's highest mountain. The shorter, steeper and more well-trodden Mountain Track (7hr return) starts from the Glen Nevis car park, 2.5 miles east of Fort William, and involves many stone steps. The longer, gentler and more rewarding North Face Route (9 hours return) starts from the North Face car park, around 10 miles north of Fort William, off the road towards Inverness, and gives you full views of the mountain during your riverside approach. For the best of both worlds, ascend via the North Face approach then descend to Glen Nevis, and get a taxi back to your starting point. Never underestimate the mountain and make sure you wear suitable clothing, and take food, water, map and compass, as capricious weather conditions and poor visibility can descend rapidly.

Aviemore SYHA Grampian Rd ① 01479 810345, ② syha.org.uk. Just south of the train station, this hostel is well equipped for hikers. Dorms are simple, but there's a handy drying room and a sociable dining space. Dorms £18, doubles £50

INVERNESS

Lying 160 miles north of Edinburgh, INVERNESS is the capital of the Highlands, a grey but affable town at the mouth of the River Ness, with a vibrant dining scene. The chief historical attraction nearby is the ever-popular Culloden Visitor Centre (daily: April–Oct 9am–5.30pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; £11), six miles east on bus line #2B from the city centre. In 1746, Culloden Moor was the scene of the last pitched battle on British soil, when Bonnie Prince Charlie's Jacobite army was crushed in just forty minutes, ending Stuart ambitions of regaining the monarchy forever. Infinitely more dramatic is the fairytale fourteenth-century Cawdor Castle (May–Oct daily 10am–5.30pm; £10.70; ③ cawdorcastle.com), the legendary home of Shakespeare's Macbeth, twelve miles northeast. Take bus #10 to Nairn and transfer there to #252, walking the last ten minutes or so to the castle.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Inverness Airport (④ hial.co.uk/inverness-airport) is seven miles northeast of the town and served by regular bus (roughly every 30min; 25min).

By train The train station is just northeast of the centre on Station Square.

Destinations Aviemore (every 1–2hr; 45min); Edinburgh (8 daily; 3hr 30min); Glasgow (4 direct daily, or change at Perth; 3hr 30min); Kyle of Lochalsh (for Skye; Mon–Sat 4 daily; Sun 2 daily; 2hr 30min); Stirling (some change at Perth; 11 daily; 2hr 30min–3hr).

By bus The bus station is just northwest of the train station. Destinations Edinburgh (hourly; 3hr 30min–4hr 40min); Fort William (via Loch Ness, 5 daily; 2hr 30min); Glasgow (hourly; 3hr 30min–4hr 30min); Stirling (2 daily; 3hr 20min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Castle Wynd (April–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–6pm, Sun 10am–5pm; Nov–March Mon–Sat limited hours; ⑤ 01463 234353, ⑥ inverness-scotland.com) rents out bikes.

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

★ Bazpackers 4 Culduthel Rd ⑦ 01463 717663, ⑧ bazpackershostel.co.uk. The smallest hostel in town, and the best, with an open fire, good mattresses and individual reading lights in dorms, plus friendly staff and an excellent ratio of showers per guest. Dorms £19, doubles £50

Café 1 75 Castle St ⑨ cafe1.net. Snug Scottish restaurant serving Scottish and European dishes created from fresh, locally sourced ingredients – expect super-fresh fish and seafood. Lunch and early-bird menus are a steal at £10 for two courses. Mon–Sat noon–2.30pm & 6–9.30pm.

Hootananny 67 Church St. Lively pub that specializes in traditional music and weekly ceilidhs and serves solid Scottish food like haggis in puff pastry. Mon–Thurs noon–1am, Fri & Sat noon–3am, Sun 6.30pm–midnight.

Inverness Student Hotel 8 Culduthel Rd ⑩ 01463 236556, ⑪ invernessstudenthotel.com. This welcoming hostel has dorms sleeping between 5 and 10 people, a quiet location by the castle and excellent self-catering facilities. Dorms £19

LOCH NESS

Loch Ness forms part of the thickly forested natural fault line of the Great Glen, which slices across the southern edge of the Highlands between Inverness and Fort William. Most visitors are eager to catch a glimpse of the elusive Loch Ness Monster: to find out the whole story, take a bus to DRUMNADROCHIT, fourteen miles southwest of Inverness, where the Loch Ness Exhibition Centre (daily: Easter–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; Sat & Sun 9.30am–6pm; Nov–Easter 10am–3.30pm; £7.95; ⑫ lochness.com) attempts to breathe life into the old myth. A couple of miles

THE LOCH NESS MONSTER

Tales of Nessie date back at least as far as the seventh century, when the monster came off second best in an altercation with St Columba. However, the possibility that a mysterious prehistoric creature might be living in the loch only attracted worldwide attention in the 1930s, when sightings were reported during the construction of the road along its western shore. Numerous appearances have been reported since, but even the most high-tech surveys of the loch have failed to come up with conclusive evidence.

south, the ruined Castle Urquhart (daily: April–Sept 9.30am–6pm; Oct 9.30am–5pm; Nov–March 9.30am–4.30pm; £8.50) is one of Scotland's most beautifully sited fortresses.

THE ISLE OF MULL AND AROUND

The Isle of Mull is the most accessible of the Inner Hebrides off Scotland's west coast: just 45 minutes by ferry from Oban, which is linked by train to Glasgow. Its three hundred miles of rugged coastline are the main draw, peppered with castles, beautiful beaches, idyllic chocolate-box villages like Tobermory, and Iona, the birthplace of Christianity in Britain.

Craignure and Tobermory

CRAIGNURE is the ferry terminal for boats from Oban. Two miles' walk along the bay is dramatic thirteenth-century Duart Castle (April Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–4pm; May to mid-Oct daily 10.30am–5pm; £6; duartcastle.com), where you can peek into the dungeons and ascend to the rooftops. Mull's "capital" TOBERMORY, 22 miles northwest of Craignure, is easily the most attractive fishing port in the west of Scotland, with brightly coloured houses and boats sheltering in a bay backed by a steep bluff.

Fionnphort and Staffa

Some 35 miles west of Craignure, tiny Fionnphort is nevertheless one of Mull's metropolises. A few miles south at Knockvologan is the gorgeous sandy beach of Erraid, inspiration for Robert Louis Stevenson's thriller Kidnapped. The Iolaire (☎01681 700358; staffatrips.co.uk; £30; also stops on Iona) runs from Fionnphort to Staffa, a moody, uninhabited basaltic island marking the northern end of the Giant's Causeway (see p.600) with the cathedral-like Fingal's Cave, whose haunting noises inspired Mendelssohn's Hebrides Overture.

Isle of Iona

Serene little Iona has been a place of pilgrimage for several centuries: it was here that St Columba fled from Ireland in 563 AD and established a monastery subsequently responsible for the conversion of more or less all of pagan Scotland. The present abbey (Mon–Fri 9.30am–4.30pm, Sat & Sun 9.30am–5.30pm; £7.10; iona.org.uk) dates from 1200, while Iona's oldest building, St Oran's Chapel, lies just south. It stands at the centre of the burial ground, Reilig Odhrain, which is said to contain the graves of sixty kings.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By ferry Regular ferries (up to 7 daily; 45min; £3.45 per passenger single, £13 per car) run from Oban to Craignure. Iona is served by Calmac ferries (at least 9 daily; 10min; £1.65 single) from Fionnphort.

Tourist information The island's main tourist office is at The Pier, Craignure (April to mid-Oct Mon–Sat 8.30am–5pm, Sun 10am–5pm; mid-Oct to March Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 10.30am–noon & 3.30–5pm; ☎01680 812377, visitscottishheartlands.com), while the Explore Mull Visitor Centre, on the edge of Main Street's car park, Tobermory (daily 9am–5pm; ☎01688 302875, exploremull.com), can arrange trips and rent bikes.

ACCOMMODATION

Iona Hostel A mile from the ferry, Iona ☎01681 700781, ionahostel.co.uk. This excellent hostel – a working croft – has comfortable beds in the mixed-sex dorms, a well-equipped kitchen/lounge and a beautiful beach nearby. Dorms £21

Tobermory Youth Hostel Main Street, Tobermory, Mull ☎01688 302481. Dorms here are a little stark, but the setting – among multicoloured harbour-front houses – is undeniably pretty. Open March–Oct only. Dorms £20

MIDGE ALERT

During the summer months, particularly in wetter areas, the Highlands and Islands are blighted by midges – tiny biting insects that appear in swarms. If you're camping or hiking, make sure you have insect repellent – locals swear by Avon's Skin So Soft moisturizer – as well as a midge hood, a net fitting over a wide-brimmed hat which, while making no concessions to fashion, should protect the face. Even a light breeze will blow the midges away, though, so try and pick somewhere that isn't completely still to camp.

ISLAND-HOPPING

The sea off Scotland's west coast is dotted with islands, from tiny rocks to substantial landmasses. The main ferry company, Caledonian MacBrayne (CalMac; ☎calmac.co.uk), connects most of them, and offers a range of island-hopping trips. Arran, Islay and the Small Isles (Rùm, Muck and Eigg) are all worth visiting, too.

THE ISLE OF SKYE

The deeply indented coastline, azure water and spectacular summits of the Isle of Skye make it one of the most captivating spots in Britain. The island's stunning topography once shielded Bonnie Prince Charlie from capture by government forces; now the high, jagged peaks of the Cuillin ridge are some of Britain's best (and most demanding) walking and climbing terrain. Equally dramatic are the rock formations of the Trotternish peninsula in the north.

Elgol and the Cuillins

The best approach to the Cuillins is by #55 bus from Broadford on the dramatic road to ELGOL, from where there are boat trips on the Bella Jane (late March to Oct daily; one-way £14, return £26; ☎0800 731 3089, ☎bellajane.co.uk) to stunning Loch Coruisk, where there's a seal colony. With adequate planning, you can hike from the loch up into the Cuillins or back to Elgol. Serious hikers also head for GLENBRITTLE, west of the Cuillins.

Portree, Dunvegan, Old Man of Storr and Uig

Skye's capital is PORTREE, an attractive fishing port in the north of the island. Some nine miles from Portree on the Trotternish peninsula are Skye's geological highlights: a 165ft sea stack called the Old Man of Storr and, soaring above Staffin Bay ten miles north, the Quiraing – a spectacular forest of rock formations. The tranquil village of UIG, on the west coast, has ferries to the islands of the Outer Hebrides. Twenty-one miles northwest of Portree is Dunvegan, and the fourteenth-century Dunvegan Castle (April–Oct daily 10am–5.30pm; £12.10; ☎www.dunvegancastle.com), seat of the chief of the Clan MacLeod – check out the dungeons and the ragged Fairy Flag, subject of many myths.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Skye is connected to the mainland via a bridge to Kyle of Lochalsh, from where several trains daily serve Inverness (2hr 35min). Trains also run from Mallaig to Glasgow (3 daily; 5hr 20min).

By ferry Ferries run between Armadale in southeastern Skye and Mallaig on the mainland (April–Oct 6–8 daily; 30min).

By bus Regular buses link Skye with Glasgow (3 daily; 7hr).

By car Having your own transport makes exploration of the island considerably easier.

Tourist information Portree has the island's main tourist office just off Bridge Rd (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–6pm; April–Oct also Sun 10am–4pm; ☎01478 614906).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

GLEN BRITTLE

Glenbrittle Hostel Glen Brittle ☎01478 640278, ☎syha.org.uk. No-frills youth hostel with a self-catering kitchen and a small shop selling snacks and supplies. Closed Oct–Feb. Dorms £20, doubles £60

PORTREE

Portree Independent Hostel ☎01478 613737, ☎hostelskye.co.uk. Cheery, paint-daubed hostel in the middle of Skye's attractive capital with single-sex dorms. Cosy living room and free tea and coffee. Dorms £20

L'Incontro The Green. "Italy with a Skye flavour" serves pizza with classic Scottish ingredients (from £11) – our favourite comes with haggis and Stornoway black pudding. May–Sept Tues–Sun 4–11pm.

UIG

★The Cowshed Boutique Bunkhouse Just off the A87 ☎07917 536 820, ☎skyecowshed.co.uk. A couple of minutes from the Outer Hebrides ferry, this gorgeous bunkhouse has snug dorms (all beds with privacy curtains), and shingled sleeping pods for up to three people. Great sea views and well-designed kitchen and common spaces make this a real treat to stay in. Dorms £17, pods £70

FRESCO AT THE PALACE OF KNOSSOS, CRETE

Greece

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Athens Wander at the ancient, awe-inspiring Acropolis and hit the capital's clubs. See p.502
- ❷ Meteora Magical Byzantine monasteries perched on dramatic rock stacks. See p.518
- ❸ Thessaloníki A multicultural hub, springboard to northern Greece and Vergína. See p.520
- ❹ Olympia Explore historic Olympia, birthplace of the famous Games. See p.526
- ❺ Santoríni Take in the sunset from Ía on this spectacular island. See p.531
- ❻ Knossos Visit the impressive site of Knossos, legendary home of the Minotaur. See p.541

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.497

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €30, occasional treat €40

Drink Ouzo €3

Food Souvláki (shish kebab) €3

Hostel/budget hotel €20/€30

Travel Bus: Athens–Delphi €16; ferry: Athens–Crete €40

FACT FILE

Population 11 million

Language Greek

Currency Euro (€)

Capital Athens

International phone code ☎ 30

Time zone GMT +2hr

Introduction

14

With 227 inhabited islands and a landscape ranging from Mediterranean to Balkan, Greece has enough appeal to fill months of travel. The beaches are distributed along a convoluted coastline, with cosmopolitan resorts lying surprisingly close to remote islands where boats may call only twice a week. The initial glimpse of sapphire water or the discovery of millennia-old ruins bordered by ancient olive groves is intoxicating, and it's the mingling of history and hedonism that ensures Greece's enduring appeal. Island-hopping is still popular, but if you're on a tight budget, consider exploring the mainland or the Peloponnese by bus, or save on multiple, pricey ferry trips by focusing on a few highlights.

The country is the sum of an extraordinary diversity of influences. Romans, Arabs, Frankish Crusaders, Venetians, Slavs, Albanians, Turks, Italians, as well as the thousand-year Byzantine Empire, have all been and gone since the time of Alexander the Great. Each has left its mark: the Byzantines through countless churches and monasteries; the Venetians in impregnable fortifications such as Monemvasiá in the Peloponnese; the Franks with crag-top castles, again in the Peloponnese but also in the Dodecanese and east Aegean. Most obvious, perhaps, is the heritage of four hundred years of Ottoman Turkish rule, which exercised an inestimable influence on music, cuisine, language and way of life.

Even before the fall of Byzantium in the fifteenth century, Greek peasants, fishermen and shepherds had created one of the most vigorous and truly popular cultures in Europe, which found expression in song and dance, costumes, embroidery, furniture and the distinctive whitewashed houses. Though having suffered a decline under Western influence, Hellenic culture – architectural and musical heritage in particular – is undergoing a renaissance.

CHRONOLOGY

- c. 800 BC Homer writes The Iliad and The Odyssey.
- 776 BC First Olympic Games are held in Olympia.
- 438 BC The building of the Parthenon is completed.

399 BC The trial and execution of Socrates, the founding father of philosophy, takes place.

387 BC Plato establishes the Athens Academy.

323 BC Alexander the Great dies heralding the beginning of the Hellenistic period.

146 BC Greece becomes a province of the Roman Empire.

330 AD The Roman capital moves to Constantinople and the Byzantine Empire is established. Christianity becomes the dominant religion.

1453 Ottoman Turks invade Constantinople. End of the Byzantine Empire.

1821 Greek National Revolution against Ottoman rule.

1832 The Treaty of London recognizes Greek Independence. Greece becomes a monarchy under King Otto I.

1833 Athens becomes the capital of modern Greece.

1864 King Otto ousted, King George I introduces parliamentary democracy.

1896 The first modern Olympic Games are held in Athens.

1912–13 During the Balkan wars Greece doubles its size, gaining Thessaloniki and parts of Macedonia and Thrace.

1923 War with Turkey ends in defeat, an exchange of populations and an end to the Greek presence in Asia Minor.

1940–41 Greece is invaded and occupied by German, Italian and Bulgarian armies. Liberation comes in October 1944 with the help of heavy resistance fighting.

1945–49 Greek Civil War between Communists and pro-Western forces.

1952 A new constitution is passed which retains the monarchy as head of state.

1967 Military coup led by Colonel George Papadopoulos.

1974 Turkish invasion of Cyprus. The colonels' junta collapses. New constitution established and the monarchy abolished with a referendum.

1981 Greece joins the EU.

2002 Greece adopts the euro.

2004 "The year of Greece" – the country wins the UEFA Euros and stages a successful Olympic Games.

2010 The economic crisis forces the Greek government to seek help from the European Union and the IMF, leading to five years of recession.

2015 Alexis Tsipras' far-left government tries to renegotiate an end to austerity. Faced with the possibility of a euro exit, it accepts a new bailout with more stringent economic conditions.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

There are international airports on the mainland at Athens and Thessaloníki, while budget flights serve numerous other mainland and island destinations including Crete, Corfu, Mykonos, Santorini and Rhodes.

By boat, there are regular ferries from Ancona, Bari, Brindisi, Trieste and Venice in Italy, arriving at Corfu, Igoumenítsa and Pátra. Eurail and InterRail pass holders travel free from the above ports with Superfast Ferries (www.superfast.com) or Minoan Lines (www.minoan.gr) to Igoumenítsa or Pátra on the mainland. From there, regular onward bus services leave for Athens and Thessaloníki. You can also travel by boat from Turkey to the Dodecanese, the northern Aegean islands and from Albania to Corfu.

By bus, land crossings into Greece are possible from Albania, Macedonia, Bulgaria, Romania and Turkey, all arriving in Thessaloníki, from where onward travel to the rest of the country is easy and straightforward. Finally, Thessaloníki is served by train from Belgrade and Sofia.

GETTING AROUND

BY TRAIN AND BUS

While Greece's rail network is limited, there are reliable lines operating from Athens to Thessaloníki and onwards to Alexandroúpoli on the Turkish border, from Athens to Kiáto, Athens to Kalambáka (for Metéora) and Pireás to Halkída, as well as local tourist lines (see box, p.510). Eurail and InterRail are valid, though pass holders must reserve like everyone else, and there's a small supplement on the intercity services. You can book train tickets in advance on trainose.gr.

Buses form the bulk of public land transport, and service on the major routes is efficient, with companies organized nationally into a syndicate called KTEL. If starting a journey from a bus station, you'll be issued a ticket with a seat number. Return tickets are open-ended and must be validated at the ticket office before you board the bus.

BY BOAT

Greek island ferries are all in private ownership so frequencies, destinations and sailing times are likely to change in line with demand. As this can't be forecast reliably in the current crisis, planning months ahead is likely to prove futile. Your best bet is to book your ferry tickets a few days in advance from one of the many port agencies, who receive new timetable info first. While daily boats between the most popular islands in July and August are certain to continue running, this may not be the case outside of these months. All ferry schedules shown here are for summer; ferries are much less frequent off-season. Leave plenty of time for your journey as ferries are often late or take longer to reach their destinations than scheduled.

Hydrofoils and high-speed catamarans are roughly twice as fast but twice as expensive as ordinary ferries. In season, kaikia (caïques) sail to more obscure islets. For more information on ferry and hydrofoil schedules, see gtp.gr.

BY BIKE AND SCOOTER

Once on the islands, almost everybody rents a scooter or a bicycle. Scooters cost from €12 a day, bikes less. To rent a scooter you must produce a motorcycle licence from your country of origin.

ACCOMMODATION

Most of the year you can turn up pretty much anywhere and find a room. Only around Orthodox Easter and in July and August are you likely to experience problems; at these times, it's worth booking well in advance.

Hotels are categorized from "Luxury" down to "E-class", but these ratings have more to do with amenities and number of rooms than pricing – a budget hotel will typically cost €60–80 for a double. There are few hostels in Greece, but plenty of privately let rooms (dhomátia), which are divided into three classes (A–C), and are usually cheaper than hotels. As often as not, rooms find you: owners descend on ferry and bus arrivals to tout any space they have. On the islands, minibuses from campsites and hotels meet new arrivals for free transfers. Increasingly, rooms are being eclipsed by self-catering facilities, which are excellent value. If signs or touts are not apparent, ask for studios at travel agencies, which usually cluster around arrival points.

GREECE IN THE MOVIES

It's no surprise that Greece's photogenic sea, sands and dazzling light have provided the backdrop to numerous films. Worth watching before your trip is the Bond film For Your Eyes Only (1981), set amid the spectacular cliff-top monasteries of the Metéora (see p.518); Shirley Valentine (1989), the story of a downtrodden housewife's discovery of Mykonos (see p.526) and alfresco love; the romantic musical comedy Mamma Mia! (2008), filmed on Skópelos (see p.536); the tender Before Midnight (2013), shot around Kardhamýli (see p.515); and the youth comedy The Inbetweeners (2011) that satirizes the 18–30 drinking culture in Mália, Crete (see p.542).

BUDGET EATING

Snacks are one of the pleasures of Greek eating – head to a supermarket and stock up on Greek yogurt and honey for breakfast and buy tyrópites and spanakópites (cheese and spinach pies respectively) from a bakery for lunch (€2). Good budget food chains include Woodys and Everest.

Bringing a tent increases your options for cheap accommodation. Official campsites range from basic island compounds to highly organized complexes, most of which close in winter (Nov–April). Many sites rent tents or have more permanent accommodation in the form of cabins and bungalows. Rough camping is forbidden.

FOOD AND DRINK

Eating out in Greece is popular and reasonably priced: €10–15 per person for a meal with beer or cheap wine. Typical taverna dishes to try include moussaka (aubergine and meat pie), yílandes (giant haricot beans in tomato sauce), tzatzíki (yogurt, garlic and cucumber dip), melitzanosaláta (aubergine dip), khtapódhi (octopus) and kalamarákia (fried baby squid). Quintessentially Greek establishments ouzeri and mezedhopolia serve filling mezédhes (the Greek version of tapas) with drinks, adding up to a substantial meal. Note that people eat late: 1.30–3pm for lunch & 9–11.30pm for dinner, although most places serve food all day.

As for drinks, the traditional coffee shop or kafenio is the pivot of rural life; like tavernas, these range from the sophisticated to the old-fashioned. Their main business is sweet Greek coffee, but they also serve spirits such as aniseed-flavoured ouzo and brandy, as well as beer and soft drinks. Islanders take pre-dinner ouzo an hour or two before sunset: you'll be served a glass of water alongside, to be tipped into your ouzo until it turns milky white. Bars are ubiquitous in the largest towns and resorts. Drinks, at €5–8, are invariably more expensive than at a kafenio.

GREECE ONLINE

🌐 visitgreece.gr Greek National Tourist Organization.
 🌐 trainose.gr Greek Railways (OSE).
 🌐 gtp.gr Greek ferries, hotels, restaurants.
 🌐 aferry.co.uk Greek ferry bookings.
 🌐 www.greececamping.gr Greek campsites.
 🌐 odysseus.culture.gr Greek Ministry of Culture site; the most up-to-date source for opening hours of museum and archaeological sites.

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

It is important to be respectful when visiting one of Greece's many churches or monasteries, and appropriate clothing should be worn – covered arms and legs for both sexes. The more popular sites often provide such clothing, should you be without it. Photography is also banned in sacred places. Another important part of Greek life is the afternoon siesta, when peace and quiet are valued. In restaurants, tipping is normally expected and usually customers leave a little more for service. Topless bathing is usually fine on virtually all Greek beaches, but, especially in smaller places or town beaches, check first before stripping off. Full nudity is tolerated only at designated or isolated beaches.

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

The larger islands and resorts on the mainland have countless opportunities for watersports – including waterskiing, windsurfing, diving and snorkelling.

PERÍPTERA PAVEMENT KIOSKS

There are more than 11,000 períptero, or pavement kiosks, across the country with a good 1300 in central Athens alone, including the first one that opened in 1911 on Panepistimíou St. Selling everything from bus tickets to condoms, razors and stationery, they're often the first port of call for directions, too. Many open 24 hours.

GREEK

Yes
No
Please
Thank you
Hello/Good day
Goodbye
Excuse me
Sorry
When?
Where?
Good Bad Near Far Cheap
Expensive
Open
Closed
Today
Yesterday
Tomorrow
How much is...?
What time is it?
I don't understand
Do you speak English?
Do you have a room?
Where does this bus go to?
What time does it leave?
A ticket to...
I'm going to...
Can I have the bill please?
One
Two Three Four Five
Six
Seven
Eight
Nine
Ten

GREEK

Ναί
Όχι
Παρακαλώ
Ευχαριστώ
Γεια σας/Χαίρετε
Αντίο
Συγγνώμη
Λυπάμαι
Πότε?
Πού?
Καλό
Κακό
Κοντά
Μακριά
Φτηνό
Ακριβό
Ανοιχτό
Κλειστό
Σήμερα
Χθές
Αύριο
Πόσο κάνει...?
Τι ώρα είναι?
Δέν καταλαβαίνω
Ξαίρετε Αγγλικά?
Έχετε ένα ελεύθερο δωμάτιο?
Πού πηγαίνει αυτό τό λεωφορείο?
Τι ώρα φεύγει?
Ένα εισιτήριο για...
Πάω στό...
Τό λογαριασμό παρακαλώ?
Ένα /Μία
Δύο
Τρία/Τρείς
Τέσσερα/Τέσσερεις
Πέντε
Έξι
Εφτά
Οκτώ
Εννέα
Δέκα

PRONUNCIATION

Né
Óhi
Parakaló
Efharistó
Yá sas/Hérete
Adío
Signómi
Lipáme
Póte?
Póu?
Kaló
Kakó
Kondá
Makriá
Ftinó
Akrivó
Anikhtó
Klistó
Símera
Khthés
Ávrio
Póso káni...?
Tí óra íne?
Thén katalavéno
Ksérete angliká?
Éhete éna eléfthero domátio?
Póu piyéní aftó τό leoforio?
Tí óra févyi?
Éna isitírio yía...
Páo stó...
Tó lohariasmó, parakaló?
Éna/mía (for 1am/pm)
Dhýo
tría/trís(for 3am/pm)
Téssera/tésseris (for 4am/pm)
Pénde
Éxi
Eftá
Októ
Enéa
Théka

There are usually information kiosks at the main beaches. The country's mountainous landscape provides plenty of walking and climbing options, particularly in the spring or autumn. The most rewarding areas are in northern Greece and the Peloponnese, but there are now some good, signposted treks on the islands too. Always wear sturdy walking boots and carry plenty of water.

For serious hiking, it's worth buying a specialist map.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices operate Monday to Friday 8am to 2pm. Stamps can also be bought at minimarkets, newsstands or stationers. Public phones are mainly card-operated; buy phonecards from newsagents and kiosks. It's possible to make collect (reverse-charge) or charge-card calls from these phones (☎ 139 for international operator), but you need €2.50 credit on a Greek phonecard to begin. Mobile phones from EU countries have free roaming charges: those from non-EU countries may find it cheaper to buy a local pay-as-you-go SIM card for about €5 from kiosks, minimarkets or mobile-phone chains like Germanos. There are few remaining internet cafés, since almost every café, bar and restaurant has a strong wi-fi signal.

EMERGENCIES

The most common causes of a run-in with the police are drunken loutishness and camping outside an authorized site. For minor medical complaints go to a local pharmacy (open Mon & Wed 8am–2pm, Tues, Thurs & Fri 8am–1.30pm & 5–8pm): details of out-of-hours places are posted in all pharmacy windows or call ☎ 1434. For serious medical attention you'll find English-speaking doctors in all bigger towns and resorts; ask the tourist police for names or dial ☎ 1016. Emergency treatment is free in state hospitals, though you'll only get the most basic level of nursing care.

INFORMATION

National Tourist Organization (EOT) offices have been scaled down considerably during the economic crisis. You will only find them in the largest of towns and resorts; in other places, try private local agencies near the ports or bus stations.

MONEY AND BANKS

Greece's currency is the euro (€). Banks are normally open Monday to Thursday 8am to 2.30pm, Friday 8am to 1.30pm.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

Any emergency ☎ 112; Police ☎ 100; Ambulance ☎ 166; Fire ☎ 199; Tourist police ☎ 1571.

STUDENTS AND YOUTH DISCOUNTS

Many state-owned museums and sites are free or heavily discounted for students from EU countries – a valid student card is required. Non-EU students generally pay half-price.

A few branches stay open longer, the most central of which in Athens is Pireaus Bank at the junction of Stadhíou and Amerkís St near Síndagma Square (Mon–Fri 8am–8pm, Sat 10.30am–3pm). ATMs accept foreign cards, and credit and debit cards are generally accepted in most hotels, restaurants and shops, though in isolated areas cash will prove useful.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Shops generally open Monday to Saturday from 8.30/9am to 2/2.30pm, with afternoon shopping on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 5.30/6pm to 8/8.30pm. In Athens and tourist areas shops and offices often stay open right through the day. On Sunday shops are generally closed, while in rural areas public transport reduces dramatically or ceases completely, so be careful not to get stranded. Opening hours for museums

FAR FROM AN OPEN AND SHUT CASE

One of the results of Greece's current economic crisis is the erratic opening times of state museums, tourist offices and archeological sites. Many museums employ extra staff for the summer season with its longer opening hours. However, due to new anti-corruption laws, in order to take on new staff they have to go through a lengthy public tendering process – even when employing guards for just a few months in the summer. As a result, summer opening hours are fairly fluid – they can start as early as April or as late as July and end in early September or continue until October. Hence, in some of our opening times, we just state summer and winter, rather than giving exact months.

and ancient sites change with exasperating frequency (see box, p.501), though most state museums are closed on Mondays: smaller sites and monasteries may close for a siesta, even when they're not supposed to. There's a vast range of national holidays and festivals. The most important, when almost everything will be closed, are: January 1 and 6, first Monday of Orthodox Lent (February 23 2017; February 19 2018), March 25, May 1, Orthodox Good Friday & Easter Monday April 14 & 17 2017; April 6 & 9 2018), Whit Monday (June 5 2017, May 28 2015), August 15, October 28, December 25 and 26.

Athens

Exasperating and exhilarating, ATHENS has been inhabited continuously for over seven thousand years. Vastly improved by a vigorous scrub for the 2004 Olympics, it now has an efficient, ever-expanding, user-friendly metro and its mix of contemporary culture, nightlife and heritage rivals that of any European city. Part of Athens' charm is the mix of retro and contemporary: cutting-edge clothes shops and designer bars stand by the remnants of the Ottoman bazaar, while modernist 1960s apartment blocks stand shoulder to shoulder with Neoclassical mansions.

Athens' Acropolis, protected by a ring of mountains and commanding views of all seagoing approaches, was a natural choice for prehistoric settlement. Its development as a city-state reached its zenith in the fifth century BC with a flourish of art, architecture, literature and philosophy that has pervaded Western culture ever since. The ancient sites are the most obvious of Athens' attractions, but the pleasant cafés, markets and landscaped stair-streets, the startling views from the hills of Lykavittós and Filopáppou, and, around the foot of the Acropolis, the scattered monuments of the Byzantine and nineteenth-century town, all have their appeal.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Pláka is the best place to begin exploring the city. One of the few parts of Athens with unified architecture, its narrow streets and stepped lanes are flanked by nineteenth-century Neoclassical houses. The interlocking streets provide countless opportunities for watching the world – or at least the tourists – go by. While the Acropolis complex is an essential sight, it can be rewarding to stumble across smaller and more modest relics, such as the fourth-century BC Monument of Lysikrátis, or the first-century Tower of the Winds. Or take a walk through the pleasant National Gardens, away from the chaos of Athens' traffic-choked streets. Save some energy for the balmy evenings, however – with fantastic restaurants and funky bars, Athens knows how to juxtapose the ancient with the modern.

The Acropolis

A rugged limestone outcrop, watered by springs and rising abruptly from the plain of Attica, the Acropolis (daily: summer 8am–7pm; winter 8.30am–4pm; €20, including entrance to the Theatre of Dionysos) was one of the earliest settlements in Greece, supporting a Neolithic community around 5000 BC. During the ninth century BC, it became the heart of the first Greek city-state, and in the fifth century BC, Pericles had the complex reconstructed under the direction of architect and sculptor Pheidias, producing most of the monuments visible today, including the Parthenon. Having survived more or less intact for over two millennia, the Acropolis was blown up by a shell in

ACROPOLIS COMBINED TICKET

If you are visiting several of Athens' ancient sites, the combined ticket for €30 (valid for 5 days) is excellent value. It includes the Acropolis, the Theatre of Dionysus, the Ancient Agora and the Roman Forum, as well as other minor sites such as the Lykeion, Hadrian's Library, Kerameikos and Olympieion.

1687 during the Ottoman-Venetian war. In 1811 Lord Elgin controversially sawed off parts of the frieze (the “Elgin Marbles”), which he later sold to the British Government. While the original religious significance of the Acropolis is now nonexistent, it is still imbued with a sense of majesty. The vistas alone are worth the climb, as the Acropolis’s height affords a rare bird’s-eye view over the capital. Go early or late to beat the crowds and savour a moment alone with this icon of Western civilization.

The Parthenon

With the construction of the Parthenon, fifth-century BC Athens reached an artistic and cultural peak. No other monument in the ancient Greek world had achieved such fame, and it stood proud as a symbol of the greatness and the power of Athens. The first and largest building constructed by Pericles’ men, the temple is stunning, achieving an unequalled harmony in temple architecture. Built on the site of earlier temples, it was intended as a new sanctuary for Athena and a house for her cult image, a colossal statue decked in ivory and gold plate that was designed by Pheidias and considered one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World; unfortunately the sculpture was lost after the fifth century AD.

The Erechtheion

To the north of the Parthenon stands the Erechtheion, the last of the great works of Pericles. The building is intentionally unlike anything else found among the remnants of ancient sites. The most bizarre and memorable feature is the Porch of the Caryatids, as the columns are replaced by six maidens from the town of Caryae (Caryatids) holding the entablature gracefully on their heads. The significance of this design continues to puzzle both historians and visitors.

The Acropolis Museum

In a striking, purpose-built building at the foot of the rock, the Acropolis Museum (April–Oct Mon 8am–4pm, Tues–Thurs, Sat & Sun 8am–8pm, Fri 8am–10pm; Nov–March Mon–Thurs 9am–5pm, Fri 9am–10pm, Sat & Sun 9am–8pm; €5; theacropolismuseum.gr) stands above a set of excavations visible through a see-through floor. It contains nearly all the portable objects removed from the Acropolis since 1834. Prize exhibits include the Moschophoros, a painted marble statue of a young man carrying a sacrificial calf; the graceful sculpture of Athena Nike adjusting her sandal, known as Nike Sandalizoussa; and four Caryatids from the Erechtheion. Athens now has a suitable facility for the storage and display of the Elgin Marbles – but whether the British Museum will return them remains to be seen.

Herodes Atticus Theatre and Theatre of Dionysus

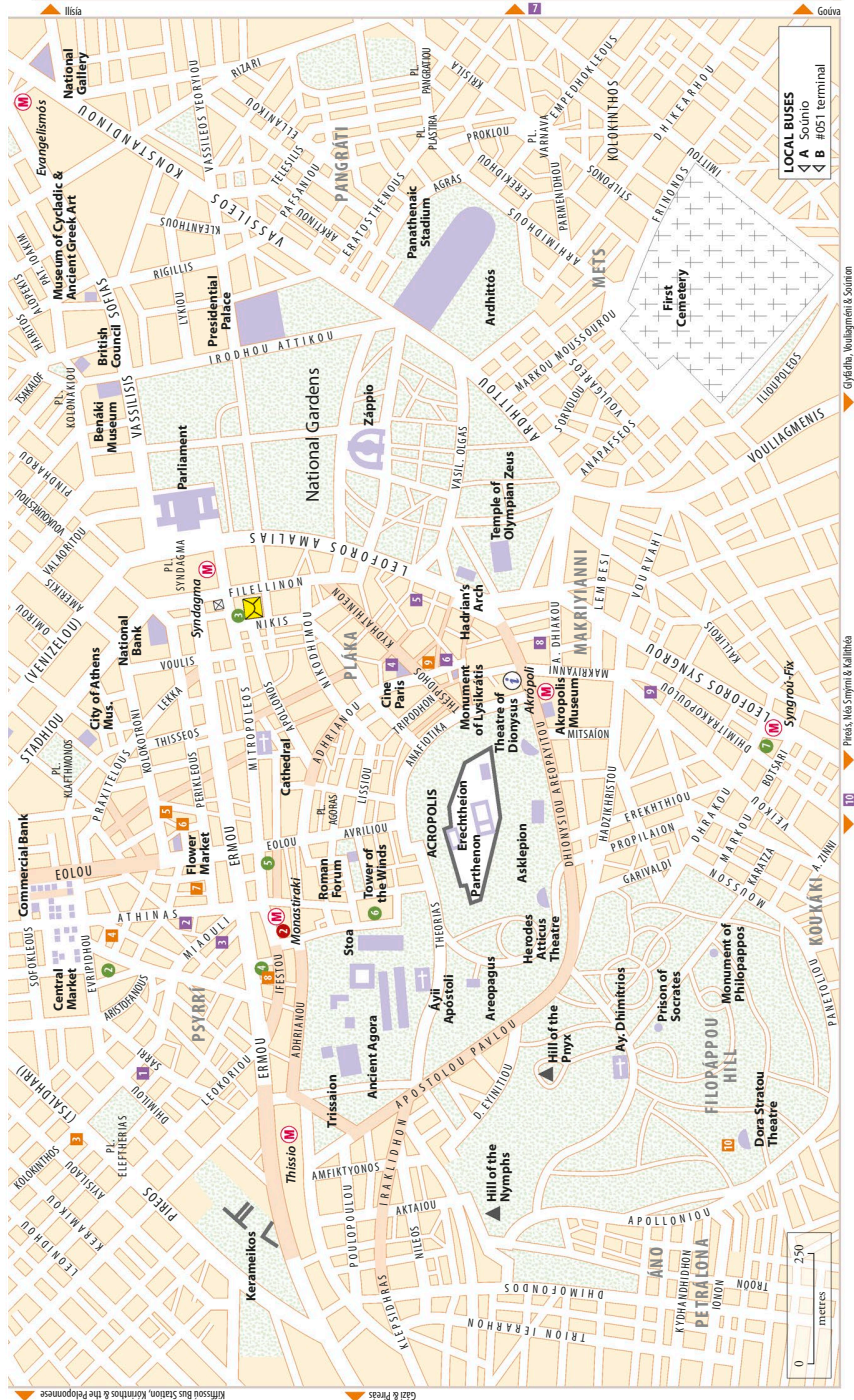

Dominating the southern slope of the Acropolis hill is the second-century Roman Herodes Atticus Theatre, restored for performances of music and classical drama during the summer festival (the only time it’s open). The main interest hereabouts lies in earlier Greek sites to the east, pre-eminent among them the Theatre of Dionysus (same hours as the Acropolis; entrance included in the €20 Acropolis ticket). Masterpieces of Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides and Aristophanes were first performed here, at one of the most evocative locations in the city. The ruins are impressive; the theatre, rebuilt in the fourth century BC, could hold some seventeen thousand spectators.

The Ancient Agora

Northwest of the Acropolis, the Ancient Agora (daily: summer 8am–7pm; winter 8.30am–4pm; €8) was the nexus of ancient Athenian city life, where acts of administration, commerce and public assembly competed for space. The site is a confused jumble of ruins, dating from various stages between the sixth century BC and the fifth century AD. For some idea of what you are surveying, head for the museum in the rebuilt Stoa of Attalos. At the far corner of the precinct sits the nearly intact but distinctly clunky

Doric Temple of Hephaistos, otherwise known as the Thission from the exploits of Theseus depicted on its friezes.

The Roman Forum

The Roman Forum (daily 8am–3pm; €6), or Roman Agora, was built as an extension of the Hellenistic Agora by Julius Caesar and Augustus. The best-preserved and most intriguing of the ruins, though, is the graceful, octagonal structure known as the Tower of the Winds. It was designed in 50 BC by the Macedonian astronomer Andronicus, and served as a compass, sundial, weather vane and water clock powered by a stream from one of the Acropolis springs. Each face of the tower is adorned with a relief of a figure floating through the air, personifying the eight winds.

Sýndagma Square and the National Gardens

All roads lead to Platía Syndágmatis – Sýndagma Square – with its pivotal metro station. It is geared to tourism, with a main post office, banks, luxury hotels and travel agents grouped around it. Behind the Neoclassical parliament buildings off the square, the National Gardens provide the most refreshing spot in the city, a shady oasis of trees, shrubs and creepers. South of the gardens stands Hadrian's Arch, erected by the Roman emperor to mark the edge of the classical city and the beginning of his own. Directly behind are sixteen surviving columns of the 104 that originally comprised the Temple of Olympian Zeus – the largest temple in Greece, dedicated by Hadrian in 132 AD.

Town museums

At the northeastern corner of the National Gardens is the fascinating and much-overlooked Benáki Museum, Koumbári 1 (Wed & Fri 9am–5pm, Thurs & Sat 9am–midnight, Sun 9am–3pm; €7, students €5; www.benaki.gr), with a well-organized collection that features Mycenaean jewellery, Greek costumes, memorabilia from the Greek War of Independence and historical documents, engravings and paintings.

Taking the second left off Vassilísis Sofias after the Benáki Museum will bring you to the Museum of Cycladic and Ancient Greek Art, Neofýtou Dhouká 4 (Mon, Wed, Fri & Sat 10am–5pm, Thurs 10am–8pm, Sun 11am–5pm; €7, Mon €3.50; www.cycladic.gr), impressive for both its subject and the quality of its displays.

To the northwest, beyond Omónia, the fabulous National Archeological Museum, Patission 44 (daily 8am–8pm; €10; www.namuseum.gr), contains gold from the grave circle at Mycenae, including the so-called Mask of Agamemnon, along with an impressive classical art collection and findings from the island of Thíra, dating from around 1600 BC, contemporary with the Minoan civilization on Crete.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

BY PLANE

Athens' Eleftherios Venizélos airport, 33km southeast of Athens, is on metro Line #3 (every 30min, 6am–11.30pm; €10), which runs into the city centre in about 40min. There are four buses from the airport: bus #X93 runs to Kifissou bus station at 100 Kifissou St (every 30min; 1hr 10min); the #X95 goes direct to Sýndagma Square (every 10min; 1hr 15min); the #X96 runs to Piréas port (every 30min; 1hr 40min); and the #X97 to Dafni Metro station (every 30–40min; 1hr 10min). All bus tickets cost €6 one-way. A fixed-fare taxi to the centre will cost you €38 or, from midnight to 5am, €54.

BY TRAIN

Thessaloniki trains arrive at the Laríssis train station to the northwest of the city centre, with its own metro station on Line #2 and on the Proasteiakos Line.

Destinations Kórinthos (hourly; 1hr 20min); Thessaloníki (6 daily; 5hr 30min).

BY BUS

Buses from northern Greece and the Peloponnese arrive at Kifissou bus station, 10min from the centre by bus #051 (5am–midnight). Buses from central Greece arrive closer to the centre at Lióssion bus station, 260 Lióssion St, north of the train station. From here bus #024 goes to Sýndagma Square (5am–midnight). Most international buses drop off at Laríssis train station or Kifissou; a few will drop you right in the city centre upon request. Attica buses to Lávrío, Rafína and Sóunio leave from the KTEL/Mavromatéon terminal at the southwest corner of the Pédhion Áreos park.

Destinations from Kífissou Corfu (3 daily; 10hr); Igoumenítsa (4 daily; 7hr); Ioánnina (6–8 daily; 8hr); Kalamáta (2 daily; 3hr 30min); Kefalloniá (5 daily; 8hr); Kórinthos (1–2 hourly; 1hr 20min); Mycenae-Fíkhti (hourly; 2hr); Monemvasiá (3–4 daily; 4hr); Náfplio (hourly; 2hr 30min); Pátra (1–2 hourly; 3–4hr); Pýrgos (10 daily; 5hr); Spáti (11 daily; 4hr); Thessaloníki (11–12 daily; 7hr).

Destinations from Liossion Delphi (4–5 daily; 3hr); Kými, for Skýros ferries (5 daily; 3hr 30min); Tríkala (9 daily; 4hr 30min); Vólos (10–12 daily; 5hr).

Destinations from KTEL/Mavromatéon Rafina (every 30min; 1hr 30min); Souínio (hourly; 2hr); Lávro (1–2 hourly; 1hr 30min).

BY BOAT

Effectively an extension of Athens, the port of Piraeas lies at the end of metro Line #1 and is the main terminus for international and inter-island ferries. Blue-and-white buses shuttle passengers around the port for free. The other ports on the east coast of the Attic peninsula, Rafina and Lávro, are alternative departure points for some Cycladic and northeastern Aegean islands. Frequent buses connect them with Platia Eghýptou in central Athens.

Destinations from Piraeas Haniá (1–2 daily; 9–10hr); Íos (4–5 daily; 3hr 30min–5hr 30min); Iráklion (1–2 daily; 7hr); Mýkonos (3–4 daily; 2hr 30min–4hr 30min); Náxos (3–6 daily; 4–6hr); Páros (3–6 daily; 3–5hr); Pátmos (1–3 weekly; 9hr); Rhodes (1–2 daily; 16–18hr); Santoríni (4–6 daily; 5–7hr); Sífisos (4–5 daily; 2hr 50min); Sýros (2–3 daily; 4hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist office GNT0 information desks at Dhionysíou Areopayítou 18–20 (Mon–Fri 9am–8pm, Sat 10am–4pm; ☎ 210 3310 392, ✉ info@gnto.gr; 📍 Akropolis) and at the airport (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 10am–4pm).

Tours Alternative Athens (🌐 alternativeathens.com) runs a range of tours off the beaten track, such as the Street Art Tour (€30pp), or the Hip Athens Orientation Tour, which takes in the hotspots and trendy neighbourhoods of the city (€40pp).

GETTING AROUND

All public transport operates daily 5.30am–midnight, while on Fri & Sat the metro and trams run until 2am.

Tickets Single-journey tickets are valid on all forms of transport for 90min (€1.40). Travelcards are also available (€4.50 for 24hr, €9 for 5 days), while a 3-day bus and metro ticket for greater Athens that includes one trip to or from the airport costs €22. If you travel without a valid ticket you are liable for a fine up to sixty times the value of your ticket.

CRIME

Though safer than many European cities, Athens has seen a crime rise in the last few years as the result of tensions between new immigrant communities and the police, an increase in drug use and unemployment, and the city's history of anti-establishment protest. Though not quite no-go areas as such, it's best to avoid walking in parks after dark (especially Pedhíon Áreos), in unlit areas around Omónia Square and in the backstreets behind the Athens Polytechnic. Petty theft is also increasing, especially in the centre and around 📍Victoria.

By bus and trolley Athens' bus and trolley network is extensive but very crowded at peak times.

By tram A tram line runs from Síndagma through Athens to the seaside resorts of Glyfáda and Voúla.

By metro Line #1 runs from Piraeas to Kífissia, with central stops at Thissio, Monastiráki and Omónia; Line #2 runs from Anthóupolis to Ellinikó via Síndagma and a station at the foot of the Acropolis; Line #3 heads east from Ayía Marina all the way to the airport. Tickets (€1.40) are available at all stations from automatic coin-op dispensers or staffed windows. They must be validated before boarding. You are unlikely to use the Suburban railway (Proastiakós) unless you want to travel to Corinth or Kiato and onwards to Pátra.

By taxi Taxis can be fairly expensive. Drivers may pick up several passengers along the way, each paying the full fare for their journey – so if you're picked up by an already occupied taxi, memorize the meter reading. There's a minimum fare of €3.20.

ACCOMMODATION

The city can be deserted in August when a lot of establishments close for holidays and the nightlife moves to the islands and to the seaside.

HOSTELS

Athens Backpackers Makri 12, Makriyiánni ☎ 210 9224 044, 🌐 backpackers.gr. Relaxed hostel in a prime location with clean, simple dorms, internet access, rooftop bar with Acropolis views and a buzzing atmosphere. The €6 walking tour makes it a great place to meet fellow travellers. Very popular, so best to book ahead. Dorms €22.50

★ Athens Style Ayías Theklas 10, Monastiráki ☎ 210 3225 010, 🌐 athenstyle.com. Superb hostel, a few minutes' walk from Monastiráki metro. The roof terrace bar has lounge music DJs in the summer until 1am when the action moves to the club next door, called appropriately Next Door, until 4am. Breakfast €4; locker luggage storage (€2/day). Dorms €24, doubles €76, apartment for four €100

City Circus Sarri 16 📍 213 0237 244, 🌐 citycircus.gr. Surrounded by some of the best street art in Athens, bright by day, less so by night, this is one of the best-equipped hostels in Athens with effusive, obliging staff. The deal with the restaurant below is good: breakfast for €5, two-course meal €11.50, 3 courses €14.50. Offers free city tours. Dorms €25, doubles €55

Dióskouros Guest House Pittakou 6 📍 210 3248 165, 🌐 hoteldioskouros.com. Basic, cheap hostel in the Pláka, with female-only dorms, good at organizing further trips to the islands. Price includes continental breakfast in a beautiful garden. No private bathrooms. Dorms €20, doubles €50, triple €70

Fivos Athinás 23 📍 210 3226 657, 🌐 hotelfivos.gr. Gloomy hostel in an old five-floor building that shows its age, but central, cheap, clean and secure with 24hr reception and a healthy, fruit-and-muesli-based breakfast included. Dorms sleep a maximum of four people and all except those on the top floor have an en-suite bathrooms. Dorms €15, doubles €50

Student and Travellers' Inn Kydathinión 16, Pláka 📍 210 3244 808, 🌐 studenttravellersinn.com. Popular, clean and well-run official hotel-cum-hostel in a prime location close to nightlife. Cheerful rooms, many with private bathrooms, as well as luggage storage, good wi-fi access and a garden bar in season. Dorms €16, doubles €50

Youth Hostel Pagration Dhamáreos 75, Pangrati 📍 210 7519 530, 🌐 athensyouthel.com; trolley bus #2 or #11. Old-style youth hostel in a congenial (if remote) neighbourhood away from the centre with cooking and laundry facilities. Students only, and they insist on seeing an ISIC. Dorms €12

HOTELS AND APARTMENTS

★ Athens Studios Veikou 3a, Makriyiánni 📍 210 9235 811, 🌐 athensstudios.gr. Well-priced dorms and serviced apartments (sleeping 2–4) run by the team at Athens Backpackers. Simple, spacious and clean with kitchen, TV, laundromat and a sports bar on site (beer €3). Extra sleepers can be accommodated on fold-out beds. Luggage storage €3/day. Breakfast included. Dorms €25, apartments €140

★ Marble House Cul-de-sac at Anastasiou Zinni 35, Metro Syngrou-Fix 📍 210 9228 294, 🌐 marblehouse.gr. Beautifully renovated in 2015, this peaceful, welcoming pension lies south of the Acropolis. Most rooms are en suite and with balcony, and all have ceiling fans and a fridge: a/c is €5/day extra. Breakfast €5. Doubles €45

Phaedra Adhriánou & Herefóndos 16, Pláka 📍 210 3238 461, 🌐 hotelphaedra.com. Cheerful and clean rooms with a/c, just over half of which are en suite. Excellent location on a pedestrianized street overlooking the Byzantine church of Ayia Ekaterini. Doubles €70

EATING

If you can stand the touts and tourist hype, Pláka still provides a pleasant setting for an evening meal, though for good-value, good-quality cuisine, outlying neighbourhoods such as Psyrri, Monastiráki, Gázi and Exárhia are much better bets. To really leave other tourists behind, take metro Line #1 and try the cafés and restaurants around Metro Maroussi, Neo Iráklio and Kifissia up north.

Amvrosia Dhrákon 3–5. Right by Syngrou-Fix metro station, this is the best grill on this pedestrian street and always packed. Enjoy a whole roast chicken, choose from a large selection of veggie dishes or munch through a huge kebab platter (€6–9) at the outdoor tables. Take away souvlaki (€2.20). Daily noon–12.30am.

Dhióskouri Dhioskouíron 13, Pláka. Popular, atmospheric café with an unbeatable view of the Agora, where cold drinks and coffees take precedence over slightly pricey snacks. Mezédhes €5–9. Daily noon–late.

Greco's Project Mitropoleos 5 & Nikis, Síndagma. This Greek food joint took Athens by storm when it opened in 2015, offering both takeaway and waiter service at knockdown prices without compromising quality. Kebabs from €2.50. Daily 7am–1am.

Oinopoleion Aischylou 12, Psyrri. Straightforward taverna, the best in a cluster, that excels in grilled/fried seafood, vegetable starters and wine from basement barrels. Arrive early (remember Greeks eat late) or wait for a table (no reservations). Mains €8–9. Sun–Thurs 7am–midnight, Fri & Sat noon–1am.

★ Savvas Ermou 91, Monastiráki 📍 210 3211 167, 🌐 savvas-restaurant.gr. Slightly upmarket though still good-value, sleek kebab restaurant, serving Armenian and

THE ATHENS FESTIVAL

The Athens Festival (📍 210 327 2000, 🌐 greekfestival.gr), from June to late August, encompasses classical Greek theatre, contemporary dance, classical music, big-name jazz, traditional Greek music plus rock concerts. Most performances take place at the Herodes Atticus Theatre – an atmospheric venue on a warm summer's evening. There are also some performances at the ancient theatre of Epidaurus (see p.512). The main festival box office is at Panepistimiou 39 (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–3pm); tickets from €15.

Pontian dishes (€9). Its great selling point is the roof garden, but you must reserve in advance. If unlucky, stop by for a takeaway souvláki (€2.20) anyway. Daily 9.30am–2am.

Thanássis Mitropóleos 69, Monastiráki. Reckoned to serve the best souvláki (€2.50) and Middle Eastern kebabs in Monastiráki. Always packed with locals at lunchtime, but worth the wait. Take away or eat in the garden at the back. Kebab platter €8.90. Daily 9am–2am.

To Athinaikón Themistokléous 2, corner with Panepistimiou. In business since 1932, this is a sophisticated ouzeri with marble tables and old posters, popular with local workers at lunch; strong on fresh seafood. Great prices, too, with main courses for €8–9. Mon–Sat 11.30am–12.30am.

DRINKING, NIGHTLIFE AND ENTERTAINMENT

Clubs and bars do not start filling up until after midnight and stay open until dawn. If you have no idea where to go, just get off at Metro Monastiráki around midnight and walk around.

BARS

★ Baba Au Rum Kleitiou 6, Síndagma. Very trendy bar with colourful decor that sparked a Greek mixology revolution – sample the great selection of enormous rum-based cocktails (€9) from the 160-plus types of rum on offer. Sun–Fri 7pm–3am, Sat 1pm–4am.

Booze Cooperativa Kolokotroní 57–59. Dark, cavernous space with a cool daytime crowd draped at long tables supping draught beer (€3) and playing board games. Stick around at night for DJs, exhibitions and the latest from the Athens avant-garde. Daily 11am–late.

Brettos Kydathinéon 41, Pláka. With multicoloured bottles and wooden barrels lining the walls, this must-go bar is a sophisticated spot which exudes Greekness, full of reminders of its hundred-year-plus history. Ouzo €3.50; cocktails €8. Daily 10am–3am.

★ Couleur Locale Normanoú 3, Monastiráki. Difficult to find even though it's signposted, but persist and climb up the three floors that separate the young and fit on the roof terrace from the young and not so fit on the ground floor – the view over the Acropolis is breathtaking. Cocktails €7.50. Sun–Fri 10am–2am, Sat 10am–3am.

Handlebar Melanthiou 8, Psyrri. Run by Welsh Gareth in conjunction with the bike shop next door, this cosy little bar has become the hub of the Athens' budding cycling community since 2014. Simple snacks till 6pm, 500ml draught beer for €2.50 and live DJs at weekends. Sun–Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri & Sat 11am–1.30am.

CLUBS AND LIVE MUSIC

Bios/Tesla Pireós 84 @ bios.gr. Bios comprises the small, cosy Tesla Bar upstairs, and a raw, minimalist club

STARLIT CINEMAS

Outdoor cinema is a charming Greek tradition with hundreds of alfresco screens throughout the country. A balmy evening watching a classic in a bougainvillea-draped courtyard with a few beers is hard to beat. Try the centrally located Cine Paris at Kydathinaíon 22 in Athens, @cineparis.gr (€8), or the Cinema Kamari just outside Kamari on Santorini @cinekamari.gr (see p.532). Both open mid-May to mid-Sept.

downstairs with an adjoining terrace. From the Stereo MCs to Performance Art – you'll find it here. Fri & Sat 11am–late.

Dora Stratou Theatre Filopáppou Hill @grdance.org. Dancers, singers and folk musicians unite to give spectators an insight into local Greek traditions. Tickets from €15. Late May to mid-Sept Wed–Fri 9.30pm, Sat & Sun 8.15pm.

Gagarin 205 Liossion 205 @gagarin205.gr. Located near Attiki metro station, this is the place to watch the best international up-and-coming bands and more established acts. Gigs start around 9.30pm: check website for details.

Mike's Irish Bar Sinópis 6, Pyrgos Athinón, Ambelókipi @mikesirishbar.com. A lively watering hole which has something to suit everyone, including karaoke, live blues music and big screens for sport. Guinness in cans and Murphy's on draught. Mostly free, some live nights €6. Daily 10pm–late.

★ Six D.O.G.S. Avramiotou 6–8, Monastiráki @sixdogs.gr. A garden bar with an indoor live venue that has taken Athens by storm; there's hardly a local under 30 who hasn't passed through its doors. Its eclectic choice of international bands and a large, shady garden have played as important a role in its popularity as its reasonable prices (beer €5; cocktails €7). Sun–Thurs 10am–3am, Fri & Sat 10am–7am.

SHOPPING

For high-street shopping, head to the boutique stores around Síndagma square. Souvenir shops abound in Pláka, where leather goods, foodstuffs and jewellery are good value; most remain open all day.

Monastiráki flea market An interesting selection of weird and wonderful goods for sale. Sunday is the best time for a visit, when the market expands into the surrounding streets. The nearby Central Market sells local foods. Daily; hours vary according to stall.

Travel Bookstore Sólonos 71. The largest stock of foreign-language travel books in town, plus walking maps. Mon, Wed, Sat 8.30am–4.30pm, Tues, Thurs & Fri 8.30am–8.30pm.

DIRECTORY

Embassies and consulates Australia, Kifissias & Alexandhras Level 6 Thon Bldg ☎ 210 8704 000; Canada, Ethnikis Andistaseos 48 Halandri ☎ 210 7273 400; Ireland, Vassileos Konstantinou 7 ☎ 210 7232 771/2; New Zealand, Kifissias 76 ☎ 210 6924 136; UK, Ploutarhou 1, Kolonaki ☎ 210 7272 600; US, Vassilis Sofias 91 ☎ 210 721 2951/9.

Hospitals Evangelismos (☎ 213 2041 000) is the most central, but KAT (☎ 213 2086 000), way out in Maroussi, is the designated Greater Athens emergency hospital. Both have their own metro stops. The pharmacy at Larissis station is open Mon–Sat 7.30am–11.30pm.

Internet Although there are no internet cafés as such, it's hard to find a café or a taverna that doesn't offer free wi-fi.

Post office The branch at Syndagma Square has the longest hours (Mon–Fri 7.30am–8.30pm, Sat 7.30am–2.30pm, Sun 9am–1.30pm).

CAPE SOÚNIO AND TEMPLE OF POSEIDON

The 70km of shoreline south of Athens has good but highly developed beaches. At weekends the sands fill fast, as do innumerable bars, restaurants and clubs. But for most visitors, this coast's attraction is at the end of the road. Cape Sounio is among the most imposing spots in Greece, and on it stands the fifth-century BC Temple of Poseidon (daily 9.30am–sunset; €8), built in the time of Pericles as part of a sanctuary to the sea god. In summer you've faint hope of solitude unless you arrive before the tours do, but the temple is as evocative a ruin as Greece can offer. Doric in style, it preserves sixteen of its thirty-four columns, and the view is stunning. Below the promontory lie several coves, the most sheltered of which is a five-minute walk east from the car park and site entrance.

The main Sounio beach is more crowded, but has a group of tavernas at the far end, which – considering the location – are reasonably priced. Buses to Sounio leave every hour from Athens' KTEL/Mavromateon terminal: some take the coastal route, which is more scenic than the inland route and takes around two hours (€6.90).

The Peloponnese

The appeal of the Peloponnese is hard to overstate. The beaches of this southern peninsula are among the finest and least developed in the country, while its ancient sites include the Homeric palace of Agamemnon at Mycenae, the Greek theatre at Epidaurus and the sanctuary of Olympia, host to the Olympic Games for a millennium. Medieval remains run from the fabulous castle at Acrocorinth and the strange tower-houses and frescoed churches of the Máni, to the extraordinary Byzantine towns of Mystra and Monemvasia. The Peloponnese also boasts Greece's most spectacular train route, an hour-long journey on the rack-and-pinion rail line from Dhiakoftó to Kalávryta (see box below).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus and train The usual approach from Athens is on the frequent buses and trains that run via modern Kórinthos (Corinth).

By boat From Italy and the Adriatic, Pátra (see p.516) is the main port of the Peloponnese, although some ferries from the Ionian Islands arrive at Kyllíni.

KÓRINTHOS

Whoever possessed Kórinthos – the ancient city that displaced Athens as capital of the Greek province in Roman times – controlled both the trade between northern Greece and the Peloponnese, and the short cut between the Ionian and Aegean seas. It's

DHIAKOTÓ TO KALÁVRYTA RAILWAY

A contender for one of Europe's quirkiest railway journeys, this rack-and-pinion rail line (Odontótis; ☎odontotos.com) from Dhiakoftó to Kalávryta celebrated its 120th anniversary in 2016, and is a must for any visitor to the region (3–5 daily; €19 return). Trains grind their way up vertiginous slopes, rattle through tunnels and clank over crazily narrow bridges on their way through the dramatic Vouraikós Gorge.

unsurprising, therefore, that the city's history is a catalogue of invasions and power struggles, until it was razed by the Romans in 146 BC. The site lay in ruins for a century before being rebuilt, on a majestic scale, by Julius Caesar in 44 BC. St Paul stayed for 18 months and preached there in 51/52 AD.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Nowadays, the remains of the city occupy a rambling site below the acropolis hill of Acrocorinth, itself littered with medieval ruins. To explore both you need a full day, or better still, to stay close by. The modern village of ARHÉA KÓRINTHOS spreads around the main archaeological zone, where you'll find plenty of places to eat and sleep, including a scattering of rooms to rent in the backstreets.

Ancient Corinth

The main excavated site of Ancient Corinth (daily: Nov to mid-April 8am–3pm; mid-April to Sept 8am–8pm; first two weeks of Oct 8am–7pm; second two weeks of Oct 8am–6pm; €8) is dominated by the remains of the Roman city. You enter from the south side, which leads straight into the Roman agora. The real focus, however, is a survival from the classical Greek era: the fifth-century BC Temple of Apollo, whose seven austere Doric columns stand slightly above the level of the forum.

Acrocorinth

Towering 575m above the lower town, Acrocorinth (Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; €2) is an amazing mass of rock still largely encircled by 2km of wall. During the Middle Ages this ancient acropolis of Kórinthos became one of Greece's most powerful fortresses. It's a 4km climb (about 1hr), but well worth it. Amid the sixty-acre site, you wander through a jumble of semi-ruined chapels, mosques, houses and battlements, erected in turn by Greeks, Romans, Byzantines, Franks, Venetians and Ottomans.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Kórinthos is connected to Athens via the suburban rail line to Elefthérios Venizélos airport. The train station is 3km from town with shuttles running between the two.

Destinations Athens (1–2 hourly; 1hr 20min).

By bus The KTEL bus station is at Dimokratías 4, some 200m east of the centre of Kórinthos, with frequent local buses to Isthmós for connections to the rest of the Peloponnese.

Destinations from Kórinthos Ancient Kórinthos (hourly; 20min).

Destinations from Isthmós Athens (hourly: 1hr); Fíchi for Mycenae (8–10 daily; 1hr); Kalávryta (2 daily; 45min–1hr 30min); Kalamáta (7–8 daily; 3hr 15min–4hr); Pátra (1–2 hourly; 1hr 50min–2hr 30min); Náfplio (10–12 daily; 1hr 20min); Spárti (8 daily; 4hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Hotel Korinthos Damaskinoú 26 ☎ 27410 26710. One block from the port and three blocks from the bus station, this small and simple hotel is conveniently located: its owners are keen to show you their city. Breakfast €5. Doubles €50

Marinos Rooms Arhéa Kórinthos, Sysyphus St ☎ 27410 31994, ☎ marinos-rooms.gr. Very popular, family-run hotel right by Ancient Corinth with comfortable rooms. There's a decent restaurant downstairs: breakfast €8. Book in advance. Doubles €50

MYKÍNES (MYCENAE)

Southwest of Kórinthos, the ancient site of MYCENAE is tucked into a fold of the hills just 2km northeast of the modern village of Mykínes. Agamemnon's citadel, "well-built Mycenae, rich in gold", as Homer wrote, was uncovered in 1874–76 by the German archeologist Heinrich Schliemann, who was convinced that Homer's epics had a factual basis. Brilliantly crafted gold and sophisticated architecture bore out the accuracy of Homer's words. The buildings unearthed by Schliemann show signs of having been occupied from around 1950 BC until 1100 BC, when the town, though still prosperous, was abandoned. No coherent explanation has been found for this event, but war between rival kingdoms was probably a major factor.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

You enter the Citadel of Mycenae (daily: April 8am–7pm; May–Oct 8am–8pm; Nov–March 8am–6pm; €12) through the mighty Lion Gate. Inside the walls to the right is Grave Circle A, the cemetery which Schliemann believed contained the bodies of Agamemnon and his followers, murdered on their triumphant return from Troy. In fact the burials date from about three centuries before the Trojan war, but they were certainly royal, and the finds are among the richest yet unearthed. Schliemann took the extensive South House, beyond the grave circle, to be the Palace of Agamemnon. But a much grander building was later discovered on the summit of the acropolis. Rebuilt in the thirteenth century BC, it is, like all Mycenaean palaces, centred on a Great Court. The small rooms to the north are believed to have been royal apartments, and in one of them the remains of a red stuccoed bath have led to its fanciful identification as the place of Agamemnon's murder.

Outside the walls of the citadel lay the main part of the town, and extensive remains of merchants' houses have been uncovered near to the road. A few minutes' walk down the road is the astonishing Treasury of Atreus, a royal burial vault entered through a majestic 15m-long corridor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Three daily buses from Náplio (see below) stop at the gate.

ACCOMMODATION

The modern village of Mykines has one main street, where all accommodation and places to eat are located.

Oraia Eleni (Belle Hélène) ☎ 27510 76225, 📍 bellhel@otenet.gr. Former home of archaeologist Heinrich Schliemann, this second-oldest hotel in Greece looks rather run-down, but it's full of history. What's more, its rooms are spacious and the shared bathrooms spotless. Breakfast included. Doubles €40

NÁPLIO

NÁPLIO, 44km south of Kórinthos, a lively, beautifully sited town with a faded elegance, inherited from when it was briefly modern Greece's first capital, makes an attractive base for exploring the area or for resting up by the sea.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The main fort, Palamídhí (daily: April–Oct 8am–8pm; Nov–March 8am–5pm; €8), is most directly approached by 890 stone-hewn steps up from Polyzoídhou Street. Within its walls are three self-contained castles, all built by the Venetians in the 1710s. To the west, the Acronáplia fortress (free to enter) occupies the ancient acropolis, whose walls were adapted by successive medieval occupants. The third fort, the photogenic Bouúrtzi (free to enter), occupies the islet offshore from the harbour and allowed the Venetians to close the shallow shipping channel with a chain. In the town itself, Platía Syndágmatis, the main square, is a great place to relax over a coffee. There's also a thriving nightlife, with a string of bars along the waterfront at Bouboulínas Street and at Staíkopoulou Street in the centre.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Buses arrive on Syngrou, just south of the interlocking squares Platía Trión Navárhon and Platía Kapodhístia.

Destinations Athens (hourly; 3hr); Epidauros (4–6 daily; 45min); Mycenae (3–4 daily; 1hr).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Byzantio Vassiléos Alexándrou 15. Sit beneath a cloud of pink and purple bougainvillea and feast on specialities such as home-made sausages, organic wine and an enormous coal-grilled platter of meat. Expect to pay about €10/person. Daily noon–1pm.

★ Latini Óthonos 47 ☎ 27520 96470, 📍 latinihotel.gr. Old but refurbished hotel in a quiet street in the centre of the Old Town with spacious rooms. Pay extra for the top-floor rooms for great views of Bourtzi. Breakfast included. Doubles €50

EPIDAURUS

From the sixth century BC to Roman times, EPIDAURUS, 30km east of Náplio, was a major spa and religious centre; its Sanctuary of Asclepius (daily: Jan–March 8am–5pm; April 8am–7pm; March–Oct 8am–8pm; Nov & Dec 8am–3pm; €12) was the most famous of all shrines dedicated to the god of healing. The magnificently preserved 14,000-seat theatre is the venue for some classical-theatre performances during the Athens Festival (June–Aug; 📍greekfestival.gr).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Camping Nicholas I & II Paleá Epidavros 📍27530 41297/41445, 📍nicolasgikas.gr. Two campsites, 2.5km apart, which have wonderful pitches on grass among orange and mulberry groves, right on the beach. An on-site taverna, Mouria, serves Nicholas I and has played host to many a celebrity appearing at the Epidaurus Festival – from Pavarotti to Dame Helen Mirren. Open May–Sept. Book well ahead. Per person €6.50, plus per tent €5.50

SPÁRTI (ANCIENT SPARTA)

Today, SPÁRTI, 112km southwest of Náplio, is just a large provincial town. As the ancient Spartans left no tangible cultural legacy like the Athenians, don't expect any ruins of note. Because of its good road connections, however, and decent hotels and restaurants, it's best suited for an overnight stay and a day-trip to Mystra (see below).

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus The KTEL bus station is at the far eastern end of Lykoúrgou, a 10min walk from the centre.

Destinations Areópoli (5 daily; 2hr); Athens (10 daily; 4hr); Monemvasiá (3 daily; 2hr 30min); Mystra (6–7 daily; 30min); Yíthio (5 daily; 1hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Hotel Cecil Paleológu 125 📍27310 24980, 📍hotelcecil.gr. A warm welcome awaits at this centrally located, if rather noisy, 1930s hotel, with clean en-suite rooms furnished in wood, silk and lace. No breakfast. Doubles €55
Lakonia Paleológu 89 📍27310 28951. Surprisingly cheery hotel on a noisy road, this is your best bet if you are to stay overnight in Sparta. Large clean rooms, fluffy beds, modern bathrooms, the lot. Breakfast in room. Doubles €45

EATING

Diethnés Paleológu 105. The garden here is an oasis of calm, and especially atmospheric in the evenings. Hearty Greek favourites are dished up to the sound of birdsong. Meals around €12–12. Daily noon–midnight.

Zeus Paleológu 72. Modern Greek cuisine and a wide selection of local wines served in minimalist surroundings. A bit pricey but worth it; specialities include roast goat and artichoke bake (€12–18). Daily noon–midnight.

MYSTRA (MYSTRÁS)

A glorious, airy place, hugging a steep flank of the Taïyeto mountains, MYSTRA is an astonishingly complete Byzantine city that once sheltered a population of some twenty thousand. The castle on its summit was built in 1249 by Guillaume II de Villehardouin, fourth Frankish Prince of the Morea (as the Peloponnese was then known), and together with the fortresses of Monemvasiá and the Máni it guarded his territory. In 1262 the Byzantines drove out the Franks and established the Despotate of Mystra.

To explore the site of the Byzantine city (daily: April–Aug 8am–8pm; Sept 8am–6.30pm; Oct 8am–5.30pm; Nov–March 8am–3pm; €12), take the bus from Spárti which stops at the village of Néos Mystrás and then continues up the hill. Make for the top entrance, then explore a leisurely downhill route. Following this course, the first identifiable building you come to is the fourteenth-century church of Ayía Sofia. The Kástro, reached by a path that climbs directly from the upper gate, maintains the Frankish design of its thirteenth-century construction, though modified by successive occupants. Heading down from Ayía Sofia, there are two possible routes. The right fork winds past the ruins of a Byzantine mansion, while the left fork passes the massively fortified Náplio Gate and the vast, multistorey complex of the Despots' Palace. At the Monemvasiá Gate, linking the upper and lower towns, turn right for the Pandánassa convent, which is perhaps the finest that survives in the town. Further down on this side of the lower town make sure you see the diminutive Perivleptos monastery, whose single-domed church, partly carved out of the rock, contains Mystra's most complete cycle of frescoes. The Mitrópolis, or cathedral, immediately beyond the gateway, ranks as the oldest of Mystra's churches, built from 1270 onward.

ACCOMMODATION

Castleview Néos Mystrás 📍27310 83303, 📍castleview.gr. Shady and quiet, this campsite is 500m from the village. A small pool and a good traditional taverna are just two of its attractions. Open April–Oct. Camping per person €6.50, plus per tent €4, bungalows €40

Paleologio Mystras 2.5km from Spárti, 4km from Néos Mystras 📍27310 22724, 🌐campingpaleologio.com; buses to Néos Mystras stop at the entrance (tell the driver in advance). Well-run campsite with good facilities (wi-fi, pool, laundry, minimarket). Open all year. Per person €7, plus per tent €5

MONEMVASIÁ

Set impregnably on a great eruption of rock connected to the mainland by a causeway, the Byzantine seaport of MONEMVASIÁ is a place of grand, haunted atmosphere. At the start of the thirteenth century it was the Byzantines' sole possession in the Morea, eventually being taken by the Franks in 1249 after three years of siege. Regained by the Byzantines as part of the ransom for the captured Guillaume II de Villehardouin, it served as the chief commercial port of the Despotate of the Morea. At its peak in the Byzantine era, Monemvasiá had a population of almost sixty thousand.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

A causeway connects the mainland village of Yéfira to Monemvasiá. The twenty-minute walk provides some wonderful views, but there is also a free shuttle bus. The Lower Town once sheltered forty churches and over 800 homes, though today a single main street harbours most of the restored houses, plus cafés, tavernas and a scattering of shops. The foremost monument is the Mitrópolis, the cathedral built by Emperor Andronikos II Komnenos in 1293, and the largest medieval church in southern Greece. Across the square, the tenth-century domed church of Áyios Pétros was transformed by the Ottomans into a mosque and is now a small museum of local finds (Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; €2). Towards the sea is a third church, the Khrysafitissa, with its bell hanging from an old acacia tree in the courtyard. The climb to the Upper Town is highly worthwhile, not least for the solitude.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Intercity buses arrive in the village of Yéfira on the mainland, from where a free daily shuttle leaves for Monemvasiá every 10–15min. For all onward destinations change in Spárti.

Destinations Athens (3–4 daily; 4hr).

Tourist information Malvasia Travel (by the bus stop) runs all tourist information services, and sells bus tickets.

ACCOMMODATION

All the budget accommodation is in Yéfira, with room prices in Monemvasiá going through the roof in summer.

Filoxenia Yéfira 📍27320 61716, 🌐filoxenia-monemvasia.gr. A stylish hotel by the causeway with good views of the rock from the more expensive rooms. There is a beach in front but it's rather uninviting. Breakfast, a/c, satellite TV all included. Doubles €65

★Malvasia Kastro, Monemvasiá 📍27320 61160, 🌐malvasiahotel-traditional.gr. A peaceful hotel on the rock, full of charm and retaining many traditional features. The views from the more expensive rooms are breathtaking, though to bag one of the two budget rooms in high season, you'll need to book months in advance. Breakfast, a/c, satellite TV, all included. Doubles €65

EATING

Matoula Kastro, Monemvasiá. This long-running family restaurant has plenty of fresh fish on offer, and a shady terrace on which to enjoy the food and the views. Main courses €12. Daily noon–11pm.

To Kanoni Kastro, Monemvasiá. A small and friendly place inside the castle with split-level seating, offering a variety of vistas from its balcony. Mains €7–10. April–Oct daily noon–midnight.

YÍTHIO

YÍTHIO, Sparta's ancient port, is the gateway to the dramatic Máni peninsula and one of the south's most attractive seaside towns. Its low-key harbour, with occasional ferries, has a graceful nineteenth-century waterside, while out to sea, tethered by a long narrow causeway, is the islet of Marathonissi (ancient Kranae), where Paris and Helen of Troy spent their first night after her abduction from Sparta.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Buses from Athens and Spárti drop you close to the centre of town, at the bus station located on Vassiléos Pávlu.

Destinations Areópolis (4 daily; 30min); Athens (4–6 daily; 5hr); Kalamáta (2 daily; 2hr); Kórinthos (6 daily; 2hr 45min); Spárti (6 daily; 50min); Trípoli (3 daily; 2hr 30min).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Meltemi On the Yíthio–Areópolis road ⑦ 27330 23260, ① campingmeltemi.gr. Excellent campsite served by four buses from Yíthio (ask the driver to stop at the site), where facilities include pool with a bar, restaurant and free wi-fi. Also 2-person bungalows. Disabled access. Open April–Oct. Camping per person €6, plus per tent €5, bungalows €30

Saga Pension Tzanetakí ⑦ 27330 23220, ① sagapension.gr. Looks like a Greek apartment block, but it contains spacious and comfortable rooms, most with balconies overlooking the bay. There's also a popular restaurant downstairs. Breakfast €5. Doubles €50

EATING

Barba Sideris Ermoú & Xantháki. Now run by its third generation, this family taverna is right by the sea and specializes in skewered and grilled meat in ladhókolla (wrapping paper). Dishes from €10. Daily noon–midnight.

To Korali Platia Yíthiou. This is the place to do as the locals do – order some ouzo and watch the world go by from the corner of the square. Mains from €8. Daily noon–midnight.

THE MÁNI PENINSULA

The southernmost peninsula of Greece, the Máni peninsula, stretches from Yíthio in the east and Kalamáta in the west down to Cape Ténaro, mythical entrance to the underworld. It's a wild and arid landscape with an idiosyncratic culture and history: nowhere else in Greece seems so close to its medieval past. There are numerous opportunities for outdoor activities too.

Areópolis

The quickest way into the Máni is to take a bus from Yíthio to AREÓPOLIS, gateway to the so-called Inner Máni. For onward travel to the Outer Máni, a change at Ítylo is involved. Should you get stuck overnight, there are a few decent hotels.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus The bus station is in the main square, Platía Athánatos.

Destinations Ítylo (3 daily; 20min); Yíthio (2–4 daily; 45min).

ACCOMMODATION

Hotel Kouris Main Square ⑦ 27330 51340. Not the best-looking hotel facade in the Peloponnese but inside it's surprisingly pleasant and modern with soundproofed rooms all with balconies and galloping wi-fi. Doubles €50

Kardhamýli and Outer Máni

Various attractions lie to the north of Areópolis, along the 80km road to Kalamáta, which has views as dramatic and beautiful as any in Greece. There are numerous cobbled paths for hiking and a series of small beaches, beginning at NÉO OÍTILO with its fine sandy beach, and extending more or less through to Kardhamýli. The fishing village of ÁYIOS NIKÓLAOS has the best fish tavernas and rooms. STOÚPA, with possibly the best beach, is geared towards British tourism, with several small hotels, two campsites, supermarkets and tavernas.

KARDHAMÝLI, 8km north of Stoúpa, is a beautiful place, where orange groves descend to a long pebbly beach from the restored tower-house quarter of ANO KARDHAMÝLI. The former stomping ground of Bruce Chatwin (who wrote The Songlines here) and English author Patrick Leigh Fermor, who lived in neighbouring Kalamítsi, the village also formed the scenic backdrop to the film Before Midnight (2013), starring Ethan Hawke and Julie Delpy.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Buses stop in Kardhamýli next to the main square.

Destinations Kalamáta (1–4 daily; 1hr); Ítylo (Mon–Fri 1 daily; 1hr).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Iphigenia Rooms Kardhamýli ⑦ 27210 73648. Just 100m from the seafront, this makes a wonderful base for exploring the area, with apartments featuring small kitchenettes and bougainvillea-draped balconies – some have great views over the Messenian Gulf. No breakfast. Doubles €50

★ Lela's Kardhamýli. Run by Patrick Leigh Fermor's former cook, Lela's is ideal for a delicious, home-cooked meal with a menu that changes regularly. Go early to grab a table with the best views. Mains €8. Daily noon–11pm.

OLYMPIA

The historic resonance of OLYMPIA, which for over a millennium hosted the Panhellenic Games, is rivalled only by Delphi or Mycenae. Its site, too, ranks with this company, for although the ruins are confusing, the setting is as perfect as could be imagined: a luxuriant valley of wild olive and plane trees beside the twin rivers of Alfiós and Kladheós, overlooked by the pine-covered Mount Kronion. The modern village of ARHÉA OLYMBÍA is adjacent to the site.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The entrance to the ancient site (summer: daily 8am–8pm; winter daily 8am–3pm; €12 including museum; ☎ 26240 22517) leads along the west side of the sacred precinct wall, past a group of public and official buildings. Here the fifth-century BC sculptor Pheidias was responsible for creating the great gold-and-ivory cult statue in the focus of the precinct, the great Doric Temple of Zeus. The smaller Temple of Hera, behind, was the first built here; prior to its completion in the seventh century BC, the sanctuary had only open-air altars. Rebuilt in the Doric style in the sixth century BC, it's the most complete structure on the site. However, it's the 177m track of the Stadium itself that makes sense of Olympia: the start and finish lines are still there, as are the judges' thrones in the middle and seating banked to each side, which once accommodated up to thirty thousand spectators. Finally, in the archaeological museum, the centrepiece is the statuary from the Temple of Zeus, displayed in the vast main hall. Most famous of the individual sculptures is the Hermes of Praxiteles, dating from the fourth century BC: one of the best preserved of all classical sculptures, it retains traces of its original paint.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus Most people arrive via Pýrgos, which has frequent buses to Olympia. The bus stop is at the end of Praxitéles Kondhyli in Arhéa Olymbia.

Destinations Pýrgos (hourly; 45min); Trípoli (3 daily; 3hr).

Guided Tour You can download a free Olympia self-guided tour mp3 (48min) from www.elladaguides.com.

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Diana ☎ 26240 22314, www.campingdiana.gr. The closest campsite, 1km uphill from the site, has some good facilities (pool, internet though mostly at reception, café bar, currency exchange), but there's not much to do except visit Olympia. Open all year. Per person €7, plus per tent €5

Neda Karamanlí 1 ☎ 27210 22563, www.hotelneda.gr. Central and quiet hotel that offers a lot for its price: bathtubs, large pool, roof garden (though the view is nothing to write home about) and private parking, which is difficult in Olympia. Doubles €60

EATING

★ Aegeon Yeoryíou Doúma 4. Unassuming taverna with a welcoming atmosphere, offering everything from baked lamb to pizza – its vegetarian stews can tempt the most committed carnivores. It's a bit pricier than other local restaurants, with mains around €9, but worth it. April–Nov daily 8am–midnight.

PÁTRA

The city of PÁTRA is the third largest in the country, and connects the mainland to Italy and the Ionian Islands. Unlike many other destinations in the Peloponnese, Pátra is a thriving working city and has a life of its own which extends far beyond tourism, despite the number of travellers passing through. There are enough sites to fill a day's sightseeing, in particular the twin churches of Áyios Andréas and the tomb of St Andrew who was martyred in Pátra, though most people pass through quickly. The city is best enjoyed in the evening, when thousands of party-going university students transform the streets. At the heart of the drinking scene are the streets of Ayíou Nikoláou, Ríga Feréou and Pandanássis, all pedestrianized and crammed with bars. Pátra's carnival (www.carnivalpatras.gr) is the best-known in Greece.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Buses arrive at the KTEL Achaia bus station next to the Pátra Infocenter at Agorá Argýri.

Destinations Athens (every 30min; 2hr 30min–3hr); Dhiakoftó for Odontotós train (4 daily; 1hr 30min); Ioánnina (2 daily; 5hr); Kalamáta (2 daily; 4hr); Pýrgos (6–10 daily; 2hr); Thessaloníki (3 daily; 7hr).

By ferry Ferries arrive at Néο Limáni, south of the city. Bus #18 (€1.20) takes you from the port to the centre, while a taxi costs €5.

Destinations Ancona (7–8 weekly; 17–24hr); Bari (2–3 weekly; 17hr); Brindisi (1 daily; 16hr); Corfu (1 daily; 6–7hr); Igoumenitsa (1 daily; 8–10hr); Itháki (1 daily; 6hr); Kefalloniá (1 daily; 2hr 10min); Trieste (1 weekly; 29hr 30min); Venice (1–2 weekly; 32hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Infocenter Agorá Argýri, Ayíou Andréou 12 (daily 7.30am–9pm; ☎ 2610 461740, patrasinfo.com), is one of the best, most helpful and well-manned tourist offices in Greece.

Tourist Police Góunari 52, by the Italian ferry terminal (☎ 2610 455 833).

ACCOMMODATION

Adonis Kapsáli 9 ☎ 2610 224 213, adoniscityhotel.gr. High-rise hotel straight out of a J.G. Ballard novel, that is showing its age, but is conveniently situated by the bus station. It's also the cheapest option in town. Doubles €45

Delfini Iróon Polytechníou 102 ☎ 2610 421 001, delfini-hotel.gr. North of the centre, but with frequent buses into town, this is a generic, functional budget hotel that is amenable to bargaining over its room prices off-season. Doubles €50

The centre and north

Central and northern Greece has a multifaceted character, encompassing both ancient and modern, from the mythical home of the gods on Mount Olympus to the urban splendour of Thessaloníki, and a plethora of landscapes. The highlights lie at the fringes: site of the ancient oracle Delphi, and further northwest at the otherworldly rock-monasteries of Metéora. Access to these monasteries is through Kalambáka, beyond which the Katára pass over the Píndhos mountains provides a stunning backdrop. En route lies Métsovo, perhaps the easiest location for a taste of mountain life, though blatantly commercialized. Nearby Ioánnina, once the stronghold of the notorious Ali Pasha, still retains a lot of character. To the south, closer to Athens, is the monastery of Ósios Loukás, one of Greece's finest Byzantine buildings and worth a detour en route to Delphi.

DELPHI

With its position on a high terrace overlooking a great gorge, in turn dwarfed by the ominous crags of Parnassós, it's easy to see why the ancients believed the extraordinary site of DELPHI, 150km northwest of Athens, to be the centre of the Earth. But what confirmed this status was the discovery of a chasm that exuded strange vapours and reduced all comers to frenzied, incoherent and obviously prophetic mutterings. For over a thousand years a steady stream of pilgrims toiled their way up the dangerous mountain paths to seek divine direction, until the oracle eventually expired with the demise of paganism in the fourth century AD. Today it makes for a pleasant day-trip from the capital.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

You enter the Sacred Precinct of Apollo (daily: summer 8am–8pm; winter 8am–3pm; €12, including museum) by way of a small agora, enclosed by ruins of Roman porticoes and shops selling votive offerings. The paved Sacred Way begins after a few stairs, zigzagging uphill between the foundations of memorials and treasuries to the Temple of Apollo. The theatre and stadium used for the main events of the Pythian games are on terraces above the temple. The theatre, built in the fourth century BC, was closely connected with Dionysus, god of drama and wine. A steep path leads up through pine groves to the stadium, which was banked with stone seats in Roman times.

The museum (summer Mon & Tues 10am–5pm, Wed–Sun 8am–8pm; winter Tues–Sun 8am–3pm) contains a collection of ancient sculpture matched only by finds on the Acropolis in Athens; the most famous exhibit is The Charioteer, one of the few surviving bronzes of the fifth century BC. Following the road east of the sanctuary towards Aráhova, you reach a sharp bend. To the left, the celebrated Castalian spring still flows from a cleft in the cliffs, where visitors to Delphi were obliged to purify themselves. Across and below the road from the spring is the Marmaria or Sanctuary of Athena Pronoia (same hours as main site; free), the “Guardian of the Temple”. The precinct’s most conspicuous building is the Tholos, a fourth-century BC rotunda whose purpose remains a mystery. Above the Marmaria, a gymnasium also dates from the fourth century BC, though it was later enlarged by the Romans.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus The small bus station is on Pávlu & Frídhēríkis, at the opposite end of the modern town of Delphi to the archeological site.

Destinations Athens (4 daily; 3hr); Pátra (1–2 daily; 3hr); Thessaloníki (1 daily; 5hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Apollon Camping 1.5km west towards Ámfissa ☎ 22650 82750, ☉ apolloncamping.gr. The closest campsite to Delphi with a bus stop outside. Facilities include bungalows (sleeping 2), a swimming pool, minimarket and a restaurant with views towards the Corinthian Gulf. Open all year. Dorms €11.50, camping/person €7.50, plus per tent €3.50, bungalows €23

Dimákos Rooms Pávlu & Frídhēríkis 55, Delphi ☎ 22650 82080/82323. Most rooms at this guesthouse have spectacular views towards the valley, and all have a/c and access to wi-fi, but no breakfast. Open April–Oct. Doubles €25

Sibylla Pávlu & Frídhēríkis 9, Delphi ☎ 22650 82335, ☉ sibylla-hotel.gr. Located close to the archeological site, this hotel has spotless and comfortable rooms, and the staff are helpful. There’s also a basic self-service breakfast available for €1.50. Doubles €35

EATING

Taverna Vakhos Apóllonos 31. This taverna has a wonderful setting and serves filling, home-made dishes including a choice of vegan and vegetarian options and wine from Parnassos. Main courses €6–8. Daily noon–11pm.

KALAMBÁKA AND METÉORA

Few places are more exciting to arrive at than KALAMBÁKA and the neighbouring village of Kastráki, about twenty minutes’ walk away. Your eye is immediately drawn to the weird grey cylinders of rock overhead – these are the outlying monoliths of the extraordinary valley of Metéora, familiar to many through films such as the James Bond classic For Your Eyes Only. The earliest religious communities in the valley emerged during the late tenth century, when hermits made their homes in the caves that score many of the rocks. In 1336 they were joined by two monks from Mount Áthos, one of whom established the first monastery here.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Today, the four most visited monasteries are essentially museums. Only two others, Ayías Triádhos and Ayíou Stefánou, continue to function with a primarily religious purpose. Each monastery levies an admission charge of €3 and operates a strict dress code: skirts for women (supplied at the monasteries), long trousers for men and covered arms for both sexes.

Beyond the monastery of Ayíou Stefánou, firmly planted on a massive pedestal, stretches a chaos of spikes, cones and stubbier, rounded cliffs. Visiting the monasteries demands a full day, which means staying two nights nearby. Opening times vary because of particular saints’ days, masses, fast days etc, so check before you leave.

Ayíou Nikoláou Anápavsa and Varlaám

From Kastráki, the fourteenth-century Ayíou Nikoláou Anápavsa (Sat–Thurs: April–Oct 9am–3.30pm; Nov–March 9am–2pm; ☎ 2432 022375) is reached first. Some 250m past the car park and stairs to Ayíou Nikoláou, a clear path leads up a ravine between assorted monoliths; soon, at a fork, you’ve the option of bearing left (for Megálu Meteórou; see below) or right to Varlaám (April–Oct Sat–Thurs 9am–4pm; Nov–March Sat–Wed 9am–3pm; ☎ 2432 022277), which is one of the oldest and most beautiful monasteries in the valley.

Megálu Meteórou and Roussánou

From the fork below Varlaám the path also takes you northwest to Megálu Meteórou (April–Oct Wed–Mon 9am–5pm; Nov–March Thurs–Mon 9am–3pm; ① 2432 022278), the grandest of the monasteries and also the highest. Next you follow trails until you reach the signed access path for the tiny, compact convent of Roussánu (Thurs–Tues: April–Oct 9am–5pm; Nov–March 9am–2pm; ① 2432 022649).

Ayías Triádhos and Ayíou Stefánou

It's less than a half-hour from Roussánu to the vividly frescoed Ayías Triádhos (April–Oct Fri–Wed 9am–5pm; Nov–March Fri–Tues 10am–4pm; ① 2432 022220), approached up 130 steps carved through a tunnel in the rock. The convent of Ayíou Stefánou (Tues–Sun: April–Oct 9.30am–1.30pm & 3.30–5.30pm; Nov–March 9am–1pm & 3–5pm; ① 2432 022279), the last of the monasteries, lies a further fifteen minutes' walk east of Ayías Triádhos; bombed in World War II, it's the one to omit if you've run out of time.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By train Kalambáka train station is located 100m south of the bus station.

Destinations Athens (1 daily; 5hr); Thessaloníki (1 daily; 3hr).

By bus Buses arrive at the bus station in Kalambáka on Ikónomou. All long-distance buses involve a change at Tríkala.

Destinations Athens to Tríkala (6 daily; 4hr 30min); Thessaloníki to Tríkala (4–5 daily; 2hr 45min); Tríkala (hourly; 30min).

ACCOMMODATION

Hotel Metéora Ploutárou 14 ① 24320 22367, ② hotel-meteora.gr. The pick of the Kalambáka hotels. Great value for the location and high standard of service: the en-suite rooms come with wi-fi, a/c and delicious breakfasts. Doubles €40

★ Hotel Tsikeli Kastráki ① 24320 22438, ② tsikelihotel.gr. A wonderful, relaxing guesthouse, with traditionally furnished rooms, free wi-fi and stunning views. Breakfast is served in the lush garden. Doubles €45

Plakias Kastráki ① 24320 22504, ② meteora-plakias.gr. A homely feel accompanies these clean and crisp en-suite rooms, not far from the main square – ask for an upper-floor room for views of Metéora. Breakfast included. Doubles €35

Vrachos Camping At the entrance to Kastráki ① 24320 22293, ② campingkastraki.com. A well-equipped shady campsite with a large swimming pool (with view of the rocks) and good restaurant. Per person €8

EATING

Parádhissos Kastráki. This traditional taverna offers a spacious terrace with beautiful views and a variety of barbecued specialities that are very popular with locals. Service can get rather overwhelmed when busy. Mains €6–8. Daily noon–11pm.

Stéfanos Kastráki. A traditional coal-grill taverna, with a forecourt shaded by a large awning and surrounded by flower beds. It prides itself on the freshness of the ingredients – the lamb kebab is particularly recommended. Mains €5–7. Daily noon–midnight.

IOÁNNINA

The fortifications of IOÁNNINA's old town, former capital of the Albanian Muslim chieftain Ali Pasha, are punctuated by towers and minarets. From this base Ali, “the Lion of Ioánnina”, prised from the Ottoman Empire a fiefdom encompassing much of western Greece. Disappointingly, most of the city is modern and undistinguished; however, the fortifications of Ali's citadel, the Kástro, survive more or less intact. Apart from this, the most enjoyable quarter is the old bazaar area, outside the citadel's main gate.

On the far side of the lake from Ioánnina, the island of Nissí is served by water-buses (every 30min; €2) from the quay northwest of the Fróúrio. Its village, founded during the sixteenth century, is flanked by several beautiful, diminutive monasteries, with the best thirteenth-century frescoes in the Monastery of Filanthropínou.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus The local and Intercity KTEL station is at Yeoryíou Papandréou.

Destinations Athens (5–6 daily; 8hr); Igoumenítsa (6–8 daily; 2hr 30min); Pátra (2 daily; 3hr 30min); Thessaloníki (5–6 daily; 3hr 30min).

Tourist office Dhodhónis 39 (Mon–Fri 7am–3pm; ① 26510 41868) can provide information on the whole Epirus region.

ACCOMMODATION

Filyra Androníkou Paleológou 18 ① 26510 83560, ② hotelfilyra.gr. Five bright, modern two-person studios with small kitchenettes, ideal for self-catering, located in the historic Kástro – with its own car park, a big plus in the Old City. Studios €65

Kendrikon Kolétti 5 📍 26510 71771. Centrally located stone mansion with rooms sporting traditional hardwood floors and furniture scoring high on atmosphere without compromising on modern facilities, such as flat-screen TV, wi-fi and a/c. Offers a two-course lunch for €10. Doubles €50

EATING

Fysa Roufa Avéroff 55. This long-standing traditional restaurant specializes in tripe soup (patsa) and serves large portions of oven-baked dishes, which you can inspect yourself in the kitchen. Very popular with locals. Mains €8–10. 24hr.

★ To Souvlaki tou Vounou Amfíthea. A 10min drive from the town centre by car or taxi, this grill taverna is in a fantastic location by the lake and is a top recommendation by locals. Athens prices, but worth it for the food and location. Free wi-fi. Mains €10–12. Daily 7pm–2am.

THESSALONÍKI

THESSALONÍKI, Greece's second-largest city, feels more Central European and modern than Athens. During the Byzantine era, it was also the second city after Constantinople, enjoying a cultural "Golden Age" until the Ottoman conquest in 1430. As recently as the 1920s, the city's population was as mixed as any in the Balkans: besides the Greeks there were Turks, who had been in occupation for close on five centuries, Slavs, Albanians, and the largest European Jewish community in the Mediterranean – 80,000 at its peak. Finally, with a student population of 120,000, the city's nightlife is buzzing, with many bars and clubs concentrated either in the regenerated warehouse area of Ladhádhika by the port or further up in Valaóritou Street.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Thessaloníki boasts many excellent sights – including a superb archeological museum and some lovely frescoed Byzantine churches – but the most obvious pleasures of Greece's second city are in its street life: its myriad bars, first-rate yet affordable restaurants and pumping clubs.

The Archeological Museum

The renovated Archeological Museum (daily: April–Oct 8am–8pm; Nov–March 9am–4pm; €8) is on Andhronikou 6, a few paces from the White Tower. The museum's highlights are the "Macedonian gold" rooms on the ground floor, containing precious finds from various tombs in the area. There are startling amounts of gold and silver – masks, crowns, necklaces, earrings, bracelets – all of extraordinary craftsmanship.

The Museum of Byzantine Culture and White Tower

The well-curated Museum of Byzantine Culture at 2 Stratou Ave (same hours as the Archeological Museum; €8) is also worth a look for its finely preserved tombs, splendid mosaics, icons and jewellery. Close by, on the waterfront, Thessaloníki's enduring landmark, the White Tower (daily April–Oct 8am–8pm, Nov–March 9am–4pm; €4), the last surviving bastion of the city's medieval walls, tells the story of the city through a high-tech multimedia exhibit. Go to the top for an unforgettable view of the city.

Churches

Among the city's many churches, the unmissable ones are the Rotónda, in the east of the city, originally a Roman rotunda built in 306 AD, decorated with golden mosaics (winter daily 8am–5pm; summer Mon–Sat 10am–4pm, Tues & Fri also 6–9pm; €2); Áyios Dhimítrios (built originally in 413 AD, though the current building dates from 1948), with several seventh-century mosaics and the relics of the saint; the eighth-century Ayía Sofía, a few blocks west of "Rotónda", with superb mosaics of the Ascension and the Virgin Enthroned, and nearby Panayia Ahiropítos (fifth century AD), the largest Paleochristian church in the Balkans (all churches open 8am–7pm; free).

COMBINED MUSEUM TICKET

You can pay to enter each site individually or buy a combined ticket for €15 (valid for three days), which gives entry to the Archeological Museum, the Museum of Byzantine Culture, the White Tower and the Roman Forum: it can be bought at any of the sites.

The photography museum

If, after all the icons and alabaster, you feel like something a little more contemporary, the excellent portside Museum of Photography (Tues–Thurs 10am–5pm, Fri 10am–10pm, Sat & Sun 11am–7pm; €2) is worth a few hours' exploration.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane From the airport, 16km out on the Néa Moudhaniá highway, buses #78 and #78N (every 30min, 24hr/day; 45min) run to the train station and KTEL bus terminal (€2). Taxi into town €20.

By train The train station at Monastiriou 28, on the west side of town, is a short walk from the central grid of streets and the waterfront.

Destinations Alexandroupolis (2 daily; 6hr); Athens (6 daily; 5–6hr).

By bus Most city buses terminate at the Makedonia KTEL terminal, 5km west of the centre (taxi into town €5–6). Buses for Halkidiki leave from a station 7.5km east on the Néa Moudhaniá highway (taxi into town €12).

Destinations Athens (11 daily; 7hr); Ioánnina (6 daily; 3hr 30min); Igoumenítsa (2 daily; 4hr); Litóhoro (hourly; 1hr 15min); Pátra (2–3 daily; 7hr).

Tourist information The tourist office is at Tsimiski 136 (Mon–Fri 8am–3pm; ☎ 2310 221 100) and there's also a summer-only booth at Platía Aristotelous (☎ 2310 222 935).

GETTING AROUND

By bus Tickets for town buses cost €1, and can be bought from a kiosk. You can buy a ticket for two trips within 70 minutes for €1.20; three trips within 90 minutes for €1.30; or four for €2.

ACCOMMODATION

There has been an explosion of hostels in Thessaloníki in the past few years. Note that the ones in Ano Poli are a steep, if short, climb from the centre.

Arabas Sahtouri 28, Ano Poli ☎ 6944 466 97, ☎ hostelarabas.gr. Centred around a shaded BBQ garden and offering free walking tours, game and movie nights plus pub crawls in town, this is the place to meet party mates in Thessaloníki, especially since the top floor is rented to long-term university students. The five-person dorms are en suite with cooking facilities. Laundry €3. Dorms €14, doubles €38

★ Colors Valaoritou 21 ☎ 2310 502280, ☎ colors.gr. Smack-bang in the middle of the Valaoritou nightlife hub but with double-glazed windows keeping out any noise, this is a fabulous, modern, friendly apart-hotel for those who don't want to take a taxi home after partying. Sofabeds for extra people €20. Doubles €50

Crossroads Athanassiou Dhiákou 1, Ano Poli ☎ 2310 203 700, ☎ crossroadsthess.gr. Opened by owner Yorgos in 2015, this small hostel – maximum ten guests – has a cosy, friendship-forming atmosphere. #23 bus comes straight from the train station (stop Ayios Pavlos), #24 goes to the centre. No breakfast, but free coffee. Dorms €15

Little Big House Andokídhrou 24, Ano Poli ☎ 2313 014 323, ☎ littlebighouse.gr. Busy, efficient hostel and café with quiet hours (3–5pm & 11pm–7am) that are enforced with a smile. All rooms with 2, 4 and 6 beds have their own cooking facilities, shower and WC. Breakfast buffet €2. Dorms €17, doubles €48

Nea Mitrópolis Syngrou 22 ☎ 2310 530 363, ☎ neamitropolis.gr. Despite its renovation in 2014 with a new lobby area and new paint on the stucco ceilings, this hotel still oozes faded grandeur. Its location is both central and quiet. Free wi-fi and a/c. Breakfast included. Doubles €40

★ Rent Rooms Thessaloníki Melenikou 9 ☎ 2310 204 080, ☎ rentrooms-thessaloniki.com. Facing the Rotonda with a fabulous outside terrace, this is Thessaloníki's best hostel option. Separate girls' dorms, free walking tours, free bike rental and a choice of six breakfast options all included. Dorms €18, doubles €49

EATING

Myrovóllos Smýrni Arcade off Komninón 32. An old-fashioned Greek taverna with faded photographs for decor, and simple, good-quality food (Smyrniot specialties). Mains €8. Hours are as mercurial as the owner, but generally Mon–Sat noon–2am, Sun noon–4pm.

Savvikos Corner of Polytechniou and Dhodhekaníssou. Classy and shiny kebab shop whose long hours have ensured that generations of revellers remember it fondly. Skewered meat €1.80, chicken and pitta €3.80. Mon–Thurs 11am–7am Fri & Sat 11am–9am.

★ Treis ki Eksinda Ayias Theodoras 7. The name means 3.60 in Greek – which is what you pay for ouzo plus two plates chosen from 27 varieties of meze. An astonishingly good-value ouzeri in the centre of town where the food is excellent, the service top-notch, and mains (€5–6) cost the same as appetizers elsewhere. Half litre of draught beer €2. Daily noon–12.30am.

Zýthos Platía Katoúni 5. A hip bar-restaurant with dozens of well-kept foreign beers and an innovative menu that's the first to get packed in Ladhádhika. Mains €6–8. Daily noon–2am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Bord de l'Eau Egnatía 45. An arty and alternative bar inside a covered passage on Egnatía. It hosts free exhibitions and chilled sounds from DJs every night. Draught beer €4. Daily 11am–2am.

Kismet Kafé Katoúni 11. Intimate and cosy, with hard DJ sounds inside, while the candlelit tables outside make a perfect spot for a relaxed drink. Daily 9pm–late.

La Doze Vilara 1. Dead in the middle of the hip Valaoritou area and flanked by many more bars, this is the one that packs them to the rafters, offering the best cocktails in the area (€8.50). Tues–Sun 8pm–late.

Mýlos Andhréou Yeoryíou 56 ☎ mylos.gr. The main town music venue is the Mýlos complex, in an old flour mill by the port, where you'll find bars, exhibition galleries and a club occasionally plying rembétika. Daily 10am–late.

Urban Zefkisdhos 7. This was the first café/bar in what has become a pedestrian, sit-down-with-your-mates-and-a-beer zone below Ayía Sofia. Quirky decor that reminds you of Budapest's ruin pubs and a delicious €6 mojito. Daily 10am–4am.

DIRECTORY

Consulates Australia, Frágon 13 ☎ 2310 553 355; Canada, Koundouríotou 19 ☎ 2310 256 350; UK, Aristotélous 21 ☎ 2310 278 006; US, Tsimiskí 43 ☎ 2310 242 905. If you need a visa for onward Balkan travel, it's best to get it in Athens.

Hospital Yenikó Kendrikó, Ethnikis Amýnis 41 ☎ 2310 211 221/2.

Post office Vasiléos Irakliou 38 (Mon–Fri 7.30am–8.30pm, Sat 7.30am–2pm, Sun 9am–1.30pm).

HALKIDHIKÍ

When entering HALKIDHIKÍ you leave behind rocky outcrops, stunted shrubs and salt cedars by the seashore and say hello to a French Mediterranean landscape – all chestnuts, oaks, beeches and poplars. Many travellers insist that no other place in Greece can boast beaches like Halkidhiki's, and with 550km of coastline over its three peninsulas of Kassándhra, Sithonía and Mount Áthos, they may well be right. Kassándhra, being closer to Thessaloníki, is the more developed, while Sithonía, further out, is the quieter location.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Although for quite some time Halkidhiki has been the exclusive domain of package tourists, recent initiatives by local tour operators have developed a range of backpacker-oriented activities including mountain biking, watersports, hiking and horseriding (☎ gohalkidiki.com).

If clubbing is your scene, then the town of Kallithéa in KASSÁNDHRA makes a good destination. Just 1km outside the town no fewer than four hangar-like superclubs line up to compete nightly for your euros – at weekends, when the Thessaloníki crowd descends en masse, partying carries on nonstop from Saturday afternoon to Sunday evening. Kallithéa also hosts an unmissable summer cultural event, the Sáni Festival (July & Aug; ☎ sanifestival.gr), bringing together world-class rock and jazz acts, as well as Greek superstars.

For a more tranquil, romantic stay, sandy, scenic SITHONÍA has hidden coves and secret beachheads that provide privacy even in high season. The towns of Nikíti and Neos Marmarás are easily accessible, though you'll need your own car to explore further.

Although MOUNT ATHOS itself is out of bounds to women – a ban that extends to all female animals including chickens and cows – both genders can visit Ouranópolis, the last Greek town before the monastic border. Known as the “City of Heaven”, it's surprisingly loud and expensive, but is a great place from which to take a trip on one of the two daily boats that circumnavigate the peninsula. If you want to stay overnight, however, you're better off heading to nearby Ierissós with its enormous Blue Flag beach and cheap municipal campsite.

The region's most interesting archeological site is the partly and sensitively restored STÁYIRA on Halkidhiki's east coast, the birthplace of Aristotle (Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; free), conveniently situated next to the green, unspoilt village of OLYMBIÁDA.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus KTEL buses for Halkidhiki leave from a station 7.5km east of Thessaloníki on the Néa Moudhaniá highway. To get there, take bus #45/#45A which starts at the Makedonia bus station, 5km west of Thessaloníki city centre, stopping along Egnatias street en route. Buses for Olymbiáda also leave from the Makedonia station; almost all city buses going west stop there.

Destinations Kallithéa (1–12 daily; 1hr 30min); Nikíti/ Néos Marmarás (3–5 daily; 1hr 45min); Olymbiáda (2 daily; 2hr); Ouranópolis (6 daily; 2hr 30min).

Car rental Local operator Drive Hellas rents cars from €18/day and has offices in Thessaloniki, the airport and the Halkidhiki KTEL station (☎ 23104 72600, 🌐 drive-hellas.com).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Armenistís Camping Armenistís Sithonía ☎ 23750 91497, 🌐 armenistis.gr. Set on its own sheltered beach opposite the jagged-tooth peak of Mount Athos, this is more of a village than a campsite, with an open-air cinema, ATM, basket-ball court, spa and watersports. It also offers dorms in large safari canvas tents. Bus from Thessaloniki stops outside the campsite. Open late April to Sept. Per person €7.80, plus per tent €7.80

Blue Dream Sáni ☎ 23750 31249, 🌐 campingbluedream.gr. High-quality campsite right on the beach with restaurant and lively beach bar; conveniently situated for the Sáni Festival. Open May–Sept. Per person €8.50, plus per tent €7.50

lerissós Camping lerissós ☎ 23770 21125. Cheap, municipal campsite that won't win first prize for facilities or services, but its location, on a massive, sandy beach, makes up for any shortcomings. Per person €4.50, plus per tent €4

★ Liotopi Olymbiáda ☎ 23760 51257/51255, 🌐 hotel-liotopi.gr. A family-run hotel at the entrance to the village with lovely rooms and idiosyncratic owners. Free cooking demonstrations show you what you can eat at the excellent nearby Akroyáli taverna that belongs to the hotel. The half-board option (€94 for two) is highly recommended and includes a cooked breakfast and à la carte dinner at the Akroyáli. April–Oct. Doubles €58

★ M.E.L.I Kallithéa ☎ 23740 24220, 🌐 hotelmeli.gr. One of the best-located hotels in Kallithéa: set in a quiet backstreet two blocks from the highway, and also near the nightlife epicentre. Huge rooms with kitchenette and ultra-fast wi-fi and a large common pool with jacuzzi. The young owners are helpful and friendly. May–Sept. Doubles €65

White Rabbit Guest House Psakouðhia, at the crossroads to Ormyliá ☎ 23710 52682, 🌐 whiterabbit.gr.

Run by students, Halkidhiki's only hostel is in a charming, modern villa 800m from the wonderful beach and village of Psakouðhia. With a drum set in the common room, this is more of a retreat than a rowdy backpackers' joint – songbirds twitter in the large garden and psychedelic paintings adorn the walls. Bikes and scooters for rent. Breakfast €3. Dorms €15, doubles €40

EATING

★ Anthoúlas Kriopiýi, Kassándhra. A real find and definitely worth the schlep to the tiny village of Kriopiýi, 5km south of Kallithéa. With a Balkan ambience, good fresh seafood and the best moussaka west of Istanbul, this small family restaurant keeps winning Greek food awards, with good reason: the local suppliers are listed in the menu. Mains €12–15. May–Oct Mon–Fri 5pm–midnight, Sat & Sun 1pm–1am.

VERGÍNA (ANCIENT AEGAE)

In 1977, archeologists discovered the burial sanctuary of the ancient Macedonian dynasty, including Alexander the Great's father and son, at the village of VERGÍNA. The four Royal Tombs (Mon noon–8pm, Tues–Sun 8am–8pm; €8) constitute the focus of an unmissable underground museum. It features delicate gold and silver funerary artefacts, the facades of the tombs, the kings' armours, frescoes (uniquely, with perspective) and the ashes of the deceased royals in ornate ossuaries.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus It's easy to make this a day-trip from Thessaloniki: hourly buses run to Véria (1hr; €9.80 return), from where onward buses (10–12 daily; €3.20 return) cover the final 20min to modern Vergína village. A taxi from Véria to Vergína costs €15 one-way.

CLIMBING MOUNT OLYMPUS

Four to five hours' walking along the well-marked, scenic E4 long-distance path up the Mavrólóngos canyon brings you to Priónia, from where there's a sharper three-hour trail-climb to the Spilios Agapitos refuge. It's best to stay overnight here, as you need to make an early start for the three-hour ascent to Mýtikas, the highest peak (2917m) – the summit frequently clouds over towards midday. The path continues behind the refuge, reaching a signposted fork above the tree line in about an hour; straight on, then right, takes you to Mýtikas via the ridge known as Kákí Skála, while the other fork, an abrupt right, continues for an hour to the Yiosos Apostolidhis hut. From the hut there's an enjoyable loop down to the Gortsíá trailhead and from there back down into the Mavrólóngos canyon, via the medieval monastery of Ayíou Dhionysíou. If you are short of time, you can hike the short 30-minute trail along Enipéas Gorge to the village's water reservoir.

MOUNT OLYMPUS AND LITÓHORO

Highest, most magical and most dramatic of all Greek mountains, Mount Olympus – the mythical seat of the gods – rears straight up nearly 3000m from the shores of the Thermaïkós Gulf. Dense forests cover its lower slopes and its wild flowers are gorgeous. If you're well equipped, no special expertise is necessary to reach the top between mid-June and October, though it's a long hard pull, and its weather is notoriously fickle. The usual approach to Mount Olympus is via LITÓHORO on the eastern slopes, a pleasant village in a magnificent mountain setting. You can buy a proper map of the range in Athens, Thessaloníki or Litóhoros.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus Litóhoros's KTEL terminal is just south of the main square.

Destinations Thessaloníki (hourly; 1hr 15min).

ACCOMMODATION

Enipéas Litóhoros ☎ 23520 84328, 🌐 hotel-enipeas.gr. This hotel, with a central location and balconied rooms with views over a gorge, is the best-value accommodation in the village. Free wi-fi. Breakfast €5. Doubles €50

Olympios Zeus Pláka Litohórou 10km from Litóhoros ☎ 23520 22115. Shady upmarket beach campsite at the foot of Mt Olympus with bungalows to rent (sleeping 2), a pizzeria, grill restaurant and beach bar. Camping/person €7, plus per tent €4, bungalows €60

Summit Zero Gítsa, 5km from Litóhoros ☎ 23520 61406, 🌐 summitzero.gr. You can combine a stay by the sea and a climb up Mount Olympus by staying at this funky hostel. The whole place is highly congenial plus they organize hikes and mountain-bike rides on Mount Olympus. Dorms €15

★ TREAT YOURSELF

Gastrodrómio en Olympos Ayíou Nikoláou 36, Litóhoros ☎ 23520 21300, 🌐 gastrodromio.gr. Who would have thought that Litóhoros would sport one of the most acclaimed restaurants in Greece? If you make it there, splash out on the casseroles made with locally sourced meats and mountain herbs, fresh fish or a platter with thirty different types of Greek cheeses. For those on a budget, the three-course menu starts from €10. Booking recommended July & Aug. Daily noon–late.

The Cyclades

The Cyclades (pronounced with a hard C throughout) is the most satisfying Greek archipelago for island-hopping, with its vibrant capital on Sýros. The majority of the islands are arid and rocky, with brilliant-white, cuboid architecture, making them enormously popular with tourists. Ios, the original hippie island, is still a backpacker's paradise, while Mýkonos – with its teeming old town, nudist beaches and highly sophisticated clubs and bars (many of them gay) – is by far the most visited (and most expensive) of the group. Arriving by ferry at the partially submerged volcanic caldera of Santoríni, meanwhile, is one of the world's great travel adventures. Páros, Náxos and Sífnos are nearly as popular, while the one major ancient site worth making time for is Délos, the commercial and religious centre of the classical Greek world. Note that accommodation prices quoted below can be thirty to forty percent cheaper outside July and August.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By boat Almost all the Cyclades are served by boats from Pireás, but there are also ferries from Rafína, one hour by bus north of Athens.

SÝROS

Sýros is the most populous island in the archipelago, and ERMOÚPOLIS is its capital and port (and capital of the Cyclades as a whole). It's a lively spot, bustling with a commercial life that extends far beyond tourism. Crowned by two imposing churches, the Catholic Capuchin Monastery of St Jean in the medieval quarter of Ano Sýros, and the Orthodox Anástasis, the city is one of the most religiously and culturally diverse places in the whole of Greece.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By ferry The ferry port is in the centre of Ermoúpolis. Destinations Ios (1–2 weekly; 5–7hr); Mýkonos (2 daily 1hr 15min); Náxos (1–2 daily; 1hr 30min–2hr); Páros (1–3 weekly; 3hr); Pireás (2–3 daily; 4hr); Santoríni (1–2 weekly; 8hr 30min); Sífnos (1–2 weekly; 3hr–4hr 30min).

Tourist information Teamwork, Akti Papagou 18 (📍 22810 83400, 🌐 teamwork.gr), is the best place to ask for directions, accommodation and tours.

ACCOMMODATION

Palladion Proiou 3 📍 22810 86400, 🌐 palladion-hotel.com. Quiet, clean, old-school 1970s hotel that has been renovated and modernized, with rooms overlooking a garden – excellent value if you're not overly fussy about the decor. Breakfast included. Doubles €55

Zannikos Rooms Proiou 103 📍 22810 82735. Simple, basic rooms with thin walls, but very well located for both the port and the nightlife. You may have to exercise your mime skills – or speak Greek – to communicate, though. Doubles €40

EATING

Stin Ithaki tou Af Klonos & Stefanou. Tucked down a side street, this welcoming taverna serves up all the Greek classics, with a vibrant bougainvillea growing overhead. Mains €10. Daily noon–midnight.

Yiannena Platia Kanári. Popular, friendly spot, seemingly unchanged since the 1950s, serving great kebabs and other Greek standard fare with views of the seafront promenade. Mains €7. Daily 11am–1am.

SÍFNOS

Although Sífnos – notable for its classic Cycladic architecture and pottery – often gets crowded, its modest size makes exploring the picturesque island a pleasure, whether by the excellent in-season bus service or on foot over a network of old stone pathways.

KAMÁRES, the port, is tucked in at the base of high, bare cliffs in the west. A steep twenty-minute bus ride takes you up to APOLLONÍA, a rambling collage of flagstones, belfries and flowered courtyards. The island bank, post office and tourist police are all located here. As an alternative base, head for KÁSTRO, a short bus ride below Apollonía on the east coast; built on a rocky outcrop with an almost sheer drop to the sea on three sides, this medieval capital of the island retains much of its character. The island's finest beach is, however, VATHÝ, a fishing village regularly connected by bus to and from Apollonía.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By boat The ferries dock at the port of Kamáres.

Destinations Íos (1–2 daily; 2hr 45min–3hr 15min); Mýkonos (1 weekly; 5hr 30min); Náxos (1 weekly; 4hr 30min); Páros (1 weekly; 2hr 50min); Piréas (4–5 daily; 2hr 50min); Santoríni (1–2 daily; 3hr 30min); Sýros (1–2 weekly; 8hr 30min).

Tourist information There is an information booth opposite the dock (summer only Mon–Fri 8am–3pm).

ACCOMMODATION

★ Hotel Stavros Kamáres 📍 22840 33383, 🌐 sífnos.travel.com. Harbourfront hotel whose huge, traditional Greek island rooms have kitchenettes, plus balconies with panoramic beach views. No breakfast. Doubles €60

Makis Camping Kamáres 📍 22840 32366, 🌐 makiscamping.gr. One of the best in the Cyclades, this beach campsite has excellent facilities with a laundry open to non-guests, as well as studios sleeping 1–2 people. Open May–Sept. Camping/person €8, plus per tent €4, studios €50

MÝKONOS

Mýkonos has become the most popular and expensive of the Cyclades, visited by several million tourists a year. If you don't mind the crowds, the upmarket capital, MÝKONOS TOWN (also known as HÓRA), is still the most beautiful and vibrant of all island capitals. Dazzlingly white, it's the archetypal Greek island town with sugar-cube buildings stacked around a cluster of seafront fishermen's dwellings.

The closest beach is Áyios Stéfanos, 4km north and connected by a very regular bus service, though Platýs Yialós, 4km south, is marginally less crowded. A bus service from Mýkonos town and a kaiki service from Órnos, 2km south, connect almost all the beaches east of

DAY-TRIP TO DÉLOS

Boats from the west end of Mýkonos harbour leave for ancient Délos (€38 return), the sacred isle, where Leto gave birth to Artemis and Apollo. It's worth a half-day trip for the magnificent views across to the nearby Cyclades from Mount Kínthos (a 15min walk to the top), and for the archeological site (Tues–Sun 8.30am–3pm; €5), with remains of ancient temples, mosaics and its monumental lion avenue.

By ferry Boats dock at the new port (a 10min walk north of town, or €5 in a taxi) where the bus station is also situated. Catamarans tend to use the old port: check your ticket to make sure you know which port you're leaving from. Kaikia to Délos (see box, p.526) leave from the west end of Mykonos harbour.

Destinations Íos (3–4 weekly; 2hr–5hr 30min); Naxos (2–4 daily; 45min–3hr); Páros (2–3 daily; 50min); Piréas (3–4 daily; 3hr 30min–5hr 30min); Santorini (2–4 daily; 2hr 15min–7hr); Sifnos (occasional; 3hr 30min); Syros (1–3 daily; 45min–1hr 15min).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Information is available from Rooms and Hotels Accommodation, two offices in the old port (April–Oct daily 9.30am–5pm), which can help with accommodation, maps and activities; one office deals with hotels (☎22890 24540), the other with rented rooms (☎22890 24860).

GETTING AROUND

By bus Buses for Kalafátis and all beaches east of town leave from the terminus next to the island ferries. A second bus terminus, for beaches to the south, is located at the other end of town.

ACCOMMODATION

The bus to town stops outside both campsites – the only affordable options on Mykonos – and runs all night in season.

★Mykonos Camping Paraga ☎22890 25915/6, mycamp.gr. The best campsite on Mykonos and one of the best organized in Greece, offering large canvas tents, dorms, bungalows (sleeping 2), a secluded sandy beach, bars, restaurant, maps, activities, the lot. Open April–Oct. Camping/person €10, plus per tent €5, dorms €15, bungalows €40

Paradise Beach Resort Paradise Beach ☎22890 22129/22852, paradise-greece.com. An industrial-size (and feel) campsite on the eponymous beach, also offering cabins and (expensive) bungalows. Don't go there if you want a quiet holiday. Open April–Oct; prices tumble outside June–Aug. Camping/person €10, plus per tent €5, cabins €66

EATING

Antonini Platía Mantó. A reliable choice on the main square, serving Greek family cooking since 1955. Go to the kitchen to choose your dish. Mains €12. Daily noon–late.

Kalamaki Mykonos Platía Mantó. Central and open all hours, it's the only grill left in town to quench the clubbers' munchies. An essential pit stop. Chicken skewers €2.20, salads €5, kebab plate €11. April–Oct 24hr.

Kostas Mitropóleos 5. Small, family restaurant, founded in 1963 and buried deep in the town's labyrinthine centre. It serves everything from seafood to grills – don't miss the saganaki (fried seafood with cheese). Mains €12. Daily noon–midnight.

Nikos Ayias Monís Square. A popular option, strong on fresh fish but also serving traditional Greek cuisine. Get there before 10pm to find a table (no reservations). Mains €15. Daily noon–2am.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Bao's Alefkándhra. The latest trendy, yet informal, hideaway, with a reputation for imaginative cocktails, though drinks are steep (€10–16). Come straight from the beach at sunset for the best photos of Little Venice. May–Sept daily 6pm–5am.

★Cavo Paradiso Paradise Beach ☎cavoparadiso.gr. Close to the Paradise Beach Resort, this packed after-hours club features regularly in the top-twenty lists of clubs worldwide. May, June & Sept open alternate days; July & Aug daily 1–9am.

Jackie O Paraportiani ☎jackieomykonos.com. The busiest of the town's gay clubs, below the church of Paraportiani. The top floor (if you can reach it through the crowd) is a bit quieter. Easter–Oct daily 10pm–6am. Free.

Katerina's Little Venice. Low-key decor combined with sea views from the terrace makes this a relaxing place for a drink. Dress up and go early (6pm) to find a table for the legendary sunsets. Cocktails €12. April–Oct daily noon–late.

Skandinavian Bar K. Yeorgouli. A good choice for the backpacker set, this buzzing, inexpensive multi-bar complex is housed around a small square. Plenty of room for dancing, too. May–Sept daily 8pm–late.

PÁROS

With its old villages, monasteries, fishing harbour and labyrinthine capital, Páros has everything one expects from a Greek island, including a vibrant nightlife, four blue flag beaches and boat connections to virtually the entire Aegean.

PARIKIÁ, the main town, has rows of white houses punctuated by the occasional Venetian-style building and church domes. Just outside the centre, the town also has one of the most interesting churches in the Aegean – the fourth-century Ekatondapylíani (daily 7am–9pm; free). The place culminates in a seaward Venetian kastro, whose surviving east wall incorporates a fifth-century BC round tower. The second-largest village of Páros, NÁOUSSA, a twenty-minute bus ride from Parikiá, retains much of its original character as a fishing village with winding, narrow alleys and simple Cycladic houses.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By ferry All ferries dock at Parikiá, the main town.

Destinations Íos (4 daily; 1hr); Mýkonos (4–5 daily; 50min–2hr); Náxos (6–8 daily; 30–55min); Pireás (3–6 daily; 3–5hr); Santorini (5–7 daily; 2hr 30min); Sifnos (1 weekly; 2hr 50min); Sýros (2–4 daily; 2hr 40min).

Tourist information Located in the windmill in the centre of the roundabout opposite the quay (summer only, during ferry arrivals). Any of the agencies by the ferry docks can help with maps and information.

GETTING AROUND

By bus The bus stop is centrally located in Parikiá next to the quay. There are buses to Náoussa every 30min in July & Aug, less frequently at other times.

ACCOMMODATION

★ Captain Manólis Market St, Parikiá ☎ 22840 21244, paroswelcome.com. Central but unbelievably quiet and freshly renovated; all rooms have inner garden views and free wi-fi, though the bathrooms are on the small side. Breakfast €5. Doubles €55

Dina Market St, Parikiá ☎ 22840 21325, hoteldina.com. Small family pension, showcasing the Cycladic colours of white and blue; it's spotlessly clean and right in the middle of the action, so a bit pricey. Doubles €80

Jimmy's Hostel Livadhia ☎ 698 252 4025, jimmymyhostel.com. Whitewashed hostel with a café, facing the closest beach to Parikiá and run by an extrovert Zorba-like character, this is a place to let rip. Dorms €25, doubles €60

★ Kriós Beach Camping 2km north from Parikiá ☎ 22840 21705, krios-camping.gr. Excellent facilities in a shady site, hosting occasional parties with plate smashing. There are cabins (sleeping 2) and a pool, but why go there when the beach is so much better? Open June–Sept. Camping/person €8, plus per tent €3, cabins €28

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Dubliner/Paros Rock By the bridge, Parikiá. Young, lively and OTT, this complex of bars and clubs is where you will probably end up dancing after a night drinking in town. Cocktails €8–10. Entrance with drink €5. June–Sept daily 11pm–7am.

Happy Cows Just behind the National Bank in Parikiá. This place serves excellent, inventive vegetarian food in kitsch, colourful surroundings: it also makes some concessions for carnivores, such as chicken or seafood. Mains €12. April–Oct daily noon–2am.

Tráta Parikiá. Down a side street off the road heading east out of town. This popular taverna specializes in seafood served beneath a vine-covered patio. Mains €10–12. April–Oct daily noon–midnight.

NÁXOS

Náxos is the largest and most fertile of the Cyclades, with high mountains, intriguing central valleys, a spectacular north coast, sandy beaches in the southwest, and Venetian towers and fortified mansions scattered throughout.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

A long causeway protecting the harbour connects NÁXOS TOWN with the islet of Palátia, where the huge stone portal of an unfinished sixth-century BC Temple of Apollo still stands. Most of the town's life goes on down by the port or in the streets just behind it; the quaint Old Market Street has narrow stone paths leading to small shops and a handful of restaurants and cafés. From here, stepped lanes lead up past crumbling balconies and through low arches of the Bourgo to the fortified medieval kastro, near the Archeological Museum (Tues–Sun 8.30am–3pm; €3), with its important Early Cycladic collection. The town has a laidback feel, with unashamedly long happy hours which last for most of the day. There's a thriving nightlife, with plenty of bars scattered along the waterfront.

Beaches

The island's best beaches are regularly served by buses in season. Within Náxos Town itself is Áyios Yeóryios, a long sandy bay, part of the hotel and restaurant quarter. A short bus ride south, however, you'll find the more inviting Áyios Prokópios and Ayia Anna beaches, with plenty of rooms to let and many good tavernas. Beyond the headland stretches Pláka beach, a 5km-long vegetation-fringed expanse of white sand, which comfortably holds the summer crowds of nudists and campers from the two campsites nearby.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane The airport is a 10min taxi ride south of Náxos Town (€10).

By ferry Boats dock at the quay at the northern end of Naxos Town.

Destinations Íos (2–3 daily; 1hr 45min–2hr 30min); Mýkonos (3–4 daily; 30min–1hr 30min); Páros (4–5 daily; 50min–2hr); Piræas (3–4 daily; 2hr 30min–4hr 30min); Santorini (1–4 daily; 2hr 15min–2hr 30min); Sifnos (1 weekly; 5hr 30min); Syros (2 daily–1hr 15min).

Tourist information You can obtain information at Zax Travel (☎ 22850 23330) or Auto Tour car rental (☎ 22850 25480) opposite the quay, where you can pick up leaflets or leave your luggage (both daily 9.30am–9.30pm).

GETTING AROUND

By bus The bus stop in Naxos Town is opposite the quay.

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Marágas ☎ 22850 24552, 🌐 maragascamping.gr. A shaded campsite right on Maragas beach and the closest to town. Also offers doubles in a hotel behind the campsite. Open April–Oct. Camping/person €9, plus per tent €5, doubles €45

Camping Pláka Ayía Anna ☎ 22850 42700/42031, 🌐 plakacamping.gr. Flanked by Pláka I and Pláka II hotels (where the double rooms include breakfast), this large modern site with its own sandy beach (50m away), surf school and restaurant feels more like a resort than a campsite. Camping/person €8, plus per tent €2, doubles €60

Despina's Rooms Naxos Town ☎ 22850 22356. Hidden (but well signposted) beneath the castle in the Bourgo. Rooms are small but clean and airy, with shared kitchen and bathroom and balconies with sea views. No breakfast. Doubles €45

★ Soula Áyios Yeóryios ☎ 22850 23196, 🌐 soulahotel.com. Clean, whitewashed, bright and beautiful, this is one of the best hostels in the Cyclades. It has everything you need, from secure lockers to free ferry transfers. Breakfast €6. Dorms €18, doubles €45

EATING AND DRINKING

Manólis Garden Old Market St, Bourgo. A peaceful spot for an evening meal, with overhanging vines and an overwhelming scent of jasmine, offering stews and grills and a fantastic vegetarian moussaka. Mains €8–10. May–Oct daily 6pm–1am.

Meze Meze On the seafront. In the centre of the seafront and serving fresh seafood, this is the pick of a row of tavernas. Service is excellent so don't be put off if it's busy, which it always is. Mains €8. April–Oct daily 11am–midnight.

★ Scirocco Platia Evripéous. In the centre of town, this restaurant is something of an institution with a high reputation among locals who flock here for its Naxiot specialities, many based on the local hard cheese. Mains €7–9. Daily noon–midnight.

ÍOS

Once a hippie hangout, Íos remains popular with a younger crowd seeking fun and sun, and as party capital of the Aegean, the island provides this in abundance. However, although no other island attracts more under-25s, Íos has miraculously maintained much of its traditional Cycladic charm, with picture-perfect whitewashed houses and churches. Lively nights lead to lazy days, perfect for exploring the island beaches.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Don't expect a quiet stay in the town of HÓRA, as every evening the streets throb to music, with the larger clubs clustered near the bus stop. To get the most out of the nightlife, start around 11pm with the bars and clubs around the central square, which tend to close at 3am. Around this time the larger clubs just outside town begin to liven up, and the party continues (even if you don't) until 9am.

Mylopótas and Manganári

The most popular stop on the island's bus routes is MYLOPÓTAS, site of a magnificent beach where there's a mini-resort (run by Far Out Camping; see below) offering plenty of activities including quad biking, watersports and diving, as well as parties. It gets very crowded, so for a bit more space, head away from the Mylopótas bus stop, where there are dunes behind the beach. From Yialós, boats depart daily at around 10am to MANGANÁRI on the south coast, where there's a superb blue flag beach.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By ferry Boats dock at the quay in Yialós. Regular buses connect the port to Hóra and Mylopótas (every 15min, 8am–12.30am), but many hotels and hostels offer free transfers.

Destinations Mýkonos (4–5 daily; 2hr); Naxos (2–3 daily; 1hr 45min–2hr 30min); Páros (4 daily; 1hr); Piræas (4–5 daily; 3hr 30min–5hr 30min); Santorini (6–9 daily; 45min–1hr 30min); Sifnos (1–2 daily; 2hr 45min–3hr 15min); Syros (1–2 weekly; 5–7hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Far Out Camping Mylopótas ☎ 22850 91468, 🌐 faroutclub.com. By far the most popular campsite, thanks to its facilities, fun factor and the on-site club. Two-person bungalows also available. Open April–Sept. Camping/person €10, bungalows €50

★ Francesco's Old Town ① 22860 91223, ② francescos.net. A favourite option with backpackers, who come for the vibe and not just the cheap dorm beds or private rooms. Lively bar and terrace with sea views, late breakfast till 2pm and a pool with a view. Dorms €14, doubles €52
Lófos Hóra ① 22860 91481. Right up from the archeological site, this family-owned complex with basic but well-furnished rooms is very conveniently located for both the bus stop and the Hóra nightlife opposite. It's peaceful and quiet— a rarity on Íos. Open May–Oct. Doubles €40

EATING

Lord Byron Old Town. An intimate restaurant with funky decor, serving generous meze plates to share (€12). A restaurant for those with an appetite and a thirst for a good mojito. May–Oct daily 6pm–1am.

The Nest Old Town. Here's where you'll find the locals enjoying veal in a clay pot (youvétsi) for €8. Chatty waiters who love to explain every dish, quick service and reasonable prices. April–Oct daily noon–midnight.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Red Bull Bar Main square. Small bar specializing in dance music – and the well-known energy drink, mixed with large doses of spirits. Cocktails €8. May–Oct daily 10pm–3am.

Slammer Bar Main square. Legendary bar, where you should avoid saying the word "slammer" too loudly. Plays popular music ranging from the 1980s to current tunes. Entry €5 including a free drink. May–Oct daily 10pm–3am.

Sweet Irish Dreams Main street, in front of the church. Satisfy your cravings for a pint of the black velvet drink and dance till dawn – on the tables. Entry €7 including a free drink. June–Sept 6pm–late.

SANTORÍNI (THÍRA)

Santoríni is the epitome of relaxation, with its sun-drenched beaches and ambling, whitewashed stone paths. The island (a partially submerged volcanic caldera poking above the ocean's surface in five places) is a welcome destination for those who have spent too many nights partying on Íos or Mýkonos. As the ferry manoeuvres into the great bay, gaunt, sheer cliffs loom hundreds of metres above. Nothing grows to soften the view, and the only colours are the reddish-brown, black and grey pumice strata layering the cliff face of Thíra, the ancient name of Santoríni. Despite a past every bit as turbulent as the geological conditions that formed it, the island is now best known for its spectacular views, dark-sand beaches and light, dry white wines.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Regular buses meeting the ferries at Órmos Athiníós make their way to the island's capital FIRÁ, half rebuilt after a devastating earthquake in 1956 and lurching dementedly at the cliff's edge. Besieged by day-trippers from cruise ships, it's somewhat tacky and commercialized, though watching the sunset from the cliff-hugging terrace of any of the overpriced restaurants, you'll understand why it's so popular. With a post office, travel agencies and a few hostels, it makes a good base from which to explore the island. The town boasts a couple of museums: the Archeological Museum (Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; €2) and the astonishing Museum of Prehistoric Thíra (Mon & Wed–Sun 8.30am–3pm; €6), between the cathedral and the bus station, where you will find a range of stunning artefacts documenting an advanced civilization that perished forty centuries ago.

Around the island

Near the northwestern tip of the island is one of the most dramatic towns of the Cyclades, ÍA. Jaw-droppingly beautiful and magical, the town is still worth visiting despite the back-to-back chain of luxury hotels clinging to the cliff face. Try to avoid coming from 6–8pm when buses ferry throngs of tourists to admire its legendary sunset views and the narrow winding main street becomes choc-a-bloc with bodies bearing cameras.

COMBINED TICKET

If you're in Santoríni for a while, consider buying a €14 combined ticket covering the four main museums and archeological sites: it can be bought from any of the main museums.

BOAT TRIPS TO THE VOLCANO

Take a boat trip from Firá or Ía to explore the magma-encrusted islets of the caldera and to swim in the sulphurous hot springs. You can book trips of varying lengths costing €18–38 from Dakoutros travel in Firá (daily 9am–9pm; ☎ santorini-excursions.com).

Santoríni's beaches are bizarre: long black stretches of volcanic sand that get blisteringly hot in the afternoon sun. There's little to choose between KAMÁRI and PERÍSSA, the two main resorts – both have long beaches and a mass of restaurants, rooms and apartments. Períssa gets more backpackers, but Kamari is also the gateway to the classical-era Ancient Thíra (Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; €4).

At the southwestern tip of the island, a prehistoric Minoan-era village was unearthed at Akrotíri from beneath banks of volcanic ash (April–Oct daily 8.30am–8pm; €12; bus from Firá or Períssa). Signposted nearby is the spectacular Red Beach, now sadly roped off, as falling rocks have made swimming dangerous – take a picture from afar only.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane The airport is on the east side of the island, and served by infrequent buses to Firá and Monólithos beach (€2.20; 20min). As there are fewer than forty taxis on the island (fare to Firá €40), try to negotiate a free transfer with your hotel.

By ferry Most boats arrive at the functional port of Órmos Athiníon from where buses depart for the island's capital.

Destinations Íos (6–9 daily; 45min–1hr 30min); Iráklion (1–2 daily; 1hr 30min–6hr); Mýkonos (1–4 daily; 2hr 15min–2hr 30min); Náxos (4–6 daily; 2hr 15min); Páros (5–7 daily; 2hr 30min); Piréas (4–6 daily; 5–7hr); Sífynos (1–2 daily; 3hr 30min); Sýros (1–2 weekly; 8hr 30min).

GETTING AROUND

By bus In contrast to the airport, bus services are plentiful enough between Firá and other destinations around the island, but timetables vary widely from month to month.

ACCOMMODATION

★ Fira Backpackers Place Firá ☎ 22860 31626, ☎ firabackpackers.com. Ultra-modern, well-organized hostel with 24hr reception, late check-out, cooking facilities, free laundry and female-only dorms. Its bright, yellow-and-green common lounge with comfortable sofas and digital jukebox makes a great place to chill out. No breakfast. Dorms €30, doubles €67

Kykladonisia Firá ☎ 22860 22458, ☎ santorinihostel.com. Sleek, upmarket hostel with a swimming pool, single-sex dorms and free wi-fi. Try to get one of the rooms with a sunset view. Dorms €28, doubles €70

Perissa Camping Períssa ☎ 22860 81343, ☎ perissa-camping.com. The happening beach campsite on Santorini with an open shaded area where you can kip with your sleeping bag, plus bungalows (sleeping 2). There's a taverna, beach bar and ferry transfers, too. Camping/person €7, plus per tent €3, bungalows €35

San Giorgio Firá ☎ 22860 23516, ☎ sangiorgiovilla.gr. Tucked away to the left of the car park next to the main square, this hotel has clean, excellent-value rooms with a/c, some with balconies. No breakfast. Doubles €80

Santorini Camping Firá ☎ 22860 22944, ☎ santorinicamping.gr. A shady campsite with a pool and restaurant, 350m from the centre of Firá. Prices vary wildly according to season. Camping/person €10, dorms €15

The Dodecanese

The Dodecanese islands lie so close to the Turkish coast that some are almost within hailing distance of the shore. They were only included in the modern Greek state in 1948 after centuries of occupation by Crusaders, Ottomans and Italians. Medieval Rhodes is the most famous, but almost every one has its classical remains, its Crusader castles, its traditional villages and grandiose, Italian-built Art Deco public buildings. The main islands of Rhodes and Pátmos are well connected with each other, and neither is hard to reach.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By ferry Rhodes is the principal transport hub, with ferry services to Turkey, as well as connections with Crete, the northeastern Aegean islands, selected Cyclades and the mainland.

RHODES

It's no surprise that Rhodes is among the most visited of Greek islands. Not only is its east coast lined with sandy beaches, but the core of the capital is a beautiful and remarkably preserved medieval city.

Destinations Iráklion (1–2 weekly; 14–17hr); Kós (2–3 daily; 2hr 30min–3hr); Pátmos (1–2 daily; 5hr); Piréas (1 daily; 16–18hr); Sýros (3 weekly; 9hr).

By bus Buses for the rest of the island leave from two departure points on Averoff St.

Destinations Faliraki (3 hourly; 35min); Línthos (1–2 hourly; 1hr).

Tourist information The municipal tourist office at Averoff 3 (Mon–Fri 7am–3pm; ☎ 22410 35945, 🌐 rhodes.gr) can provide maps and bus timetables.

ACCOMMODATION

★ Niki's Hotel Sofokléous 39, Old Town ☎ 22410 25115, 🌐 nikishotel.gr. Wonderful views over the old town from the roof garden, and breakfast (€5) served outside on a lovely patio. Very quiet, despite being close to all-night bars. Doubles €70

Stay Lohagouí Fanouráki 19–21 New Town ☎ 22410 24024, 🌐 stay-rhodes.com. Opened in 2015, this well-managed, smart new hostel has up-to-date facilities, including a cinema, restaurant, roof terrace and female-only dorms. Dorms €14, doubles €28

Youth Hostel Ergiou 12, Old Town ☎ 22410 30491 or ☎ 6939 663 054, 🌐 hostel-gr19@gmail.com. Old-fashioned youth hostel with four-bed dorms and double rooms. The dorms are basic, but the studios are carefully restored with original features retained. Free wi-fi. Dorms €10, doubles €40

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

★ Niohóri Ioánni Kazoúli 29, New Town. This family restaurant is worth the 10min walk out of the old town, for its Greek cuisine at very reasonable prices (mains €7–8). They also own the butcher's opposite, where all the meat is sourced. Daily 1–11pm.

Rústico Ippodhámou 3–5, Old Town. Busy taverna under a shady vine with a wide range of choices, from seafood and traditional Greek dishes to Italian pasta. Two-course menus including aperitif for €10–12. Daily 9am–11pm.

Stoá Menekléous 32, Old Town. Opposite the old Turkish Baths, this is one of the few busy bars in the Old Town not catering solely to tourists. Come to one of its Friday tango nights and make friends with everyone on the island. Cocktails €6. Daily 10am–late.

Faliráki

Heading down the east coast from Rhodes Town, you reach the island's mega-resort of Faliráki. A few years back, the name was synonymous with 18–30s drink-and-disgrace antics, but the authorities have clamped down and the place is much friendlier and amenable as a result, while the nearby Water-Park also attracts many families. That's not to say that its notorious nightlife has abated: its two main streets are called Bar Street and Club Street, after all.

Línthos and around

LÍNDHOS, Rhodes' number two tourist attraction, lies 35km south of Faliráki, its charm undiminished by commercialism and crowds. On the steep hill above the town, the Doric Temple of Athena and Hellenistic stoa (porch-like building used for meetings and commerce), as well as the Knights' castle, stand inside the town's famed Acropolis (daily 8am–7.40pm; winter closed Mon; €12). Línthos's two beaches on either side of the Akropolis are crowded in summer; you'll find better ones heading south past Lárdhos, the start of 15km of intermittent coarse-sand beach up to and beyond the growing resort of Yennádhí. Inland near here, the late Byzantine frescoes in the village church of Asklipió are among the best on Rhodes.

PÁTAMOS

St John the Apostle reputedly wrote the Book of Revelation in a cave on Pátmos, and the monastery that commemorates him, founded here in 1088, dominates the island both physically and politically. Although the monks no longer run Pátmos as they did for more than six centuries, their influence has stopped most of the island going the way of Mammon like Rhodes or Kós.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

SKÁLA, the port and main town, is the only busy part of the island, crowded with day-trippers from Kós and Rhodes. HÓRA is a beautiful little town whose antiquated alleys conceal over forty churches and monasteries, plus dozens of shipowners' mansions dating from the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Monastery of St John

The Monastery of St John (daily 8am–1.30pm; Tues, Thurs & Sun also 4–6pm; monastery & treasury €4) shelters behind massive defences in the hilltop capital of Hóra. Buses go up (€1), but the thirty-minute walk along a beautiful old cobbled path is much more worthwhile.

Monastery of the Apocalypse

Just over halfway up the hill to Hóra is the Monastery of the Apocalypse (same hours; €2), built around the cave where St John heard the voice of God issuing from a cleft in the rock. This is merely a foretaste, however, of the main monastery, whose fortifications guard a dazzling array of religious treasures dating back to medieval times.

Beaches

The bay north of the main harbour in Skála shelters Méloi beach, with a well-run campsite. For swimming, the second beach north, Agriolivádhí, is usually less crowded. From Hóra a good road runs above the package resort of Grikou to the isthmus of Stavrós, from where a thirty-minute trail leads to the excellent beach, with one seasonal taverna (summer kaíki from Skála).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By ferry Boats arrive at the harbour, in the middle of Skála.

Destinations Pireás (1–3 weekly; 9hr); Rhodes (1–2 daily; 5hr).

By bus The bus stop is next to the harbour; most journeys take about 10min.

Destinations Hóra (7–11 daily); Grikou (6 daily); Kámbos (4 daily).

Tourist information The tourist office is located close to the police station opposite the harbour (summer Mon 9am–5pm, Tues–Sat 9am–9pm; ☎ 22470 31666) and can assist with accommodation.

ACCOMMODATION

Siroco Cochlakas, Skála ☎ 22470 33262, ☎ siroco.patmos.eu. Situated 5min from the port, these fully equipped self-contained, two-person apartments with kitchenette have large private balconies and beautiful sunset views. April–Oct. Doubles €70

Studios Irene Skála ☎ 694 655 8123. Four modern apartments in a wonderful secluded complex with tiled floors, solid wooden furniture and a large shaded garden smelling of basil plants. Free ferry transfers and gourmet meals offered. Doubles €50

EATING

Art Café Skála, behind the post office. A great café-bar to relax in – there are flickering candles, draught beer (€4) and a breezy roof garden with views to the harbour and the monastery. Daily 7pm–4am.

Hiliomodhi Skála. As its nautical decor suggests, this is the place to come for fish and seafood dishes that won't disappoint, with a tasty grilled octopus (€8) the main speciality. Daily 5pm–1am.

The Sporades

The Sporades, scattered across the northwestern Aegean, are an easy group to island-hop. The two most popular islands, Skíathos and Skópelos, have good beaches, transparent waters and thick pine forests, while less-visited Alónissos is woodier with fewer beaches. Skýros, the fourth of the Sporades, is isolated from the others and less scenic, but with perhaps the most character; for a relatively uncommercialized island within a day's travel of Athens it's unbeatable.

SKIÁTHOS

Despite the throngs of holidaymakers, Skíathos remains pretty and alluring, combining a cosmopolitan side with extensive pine forests that descend onto broad sandy beaches. All these elements come together in KOUKOUNARIÉS, 12km southwest from the capital, regularly voted among the best beaches in Greece, with the naturist-friendly Banana beach just beyond it. In SKIÁTHOS TOWN, you can explore the typical two-storey stone houses and visit the church of Áyios Nikólaos built on a large rock beside the old port for some great sweeping views. Near the main town, other beautiful beaches include Kanapitsa, Megáli Ammos and Ahladihés, or, for something more secluded, you can venture north to the cave seascape of Lalária and the unfussy village of Asélinos.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Charter flights from all over Europe (May–Sept) arrive at the Aléxandros Papadhiámántis airport, 3km north of Skíathos Town, which is served by a regular bus to Koukounariés Beach, via Skíathos Town.

Destinations Athens (1–5 daily; 35min).

By ferry Boats arrive in the new port at the centre of Skiáthos Town.

Destinations Skópelos (3–5 daily; 1hr); Vólos (3–5 daily; 1hr 45min–2hr 30min).

By bus The bus stop is by the ferry disembarkation point.

Destinations Koukounariés (1–3 hourly; 20min).

14 ACCOMMODATION

Camping Koukounariés Koukounariés ① 24270 49250, ② campingkoukounariesskiathos.gr. Camping is the best way to experience this glorious beach – and this campsite won't let you down. Shady and serene with good facilities but no pets, no open fires and no noise at night. June–Aug. Per person €11, plus per tent €4

Matoula Paraliakós ① 24270 23252. Simply the best budget option on Skiáthos, these self-catering studios are bright, balconied and breezy, and easy to get to from the port. Free airport and ferry shuttle. Cash only. Doubles €55

EATING

★ Lo&La Moraítidhou Skiáthos Town ① 694 888 8352. This beautiful Italian restaurant serving home-made pasta (€8) and fresh fish makes a change from the usual Greek island grilled-meat diet and it's deservedly popular. Book in advance. May–Oct daily 5pm–midnight.

Lyhnári End of Papadhiamánti, Skiáthos Town. Run by a Greek-Norwegian couple, this tucked-away taverna has thrived by word of mouth due to its tasty Greek and international dishes and the excellent service. May–Oct daily 7pm–midnight.

SKÓPELOS

More rugged yet better cultivated than neighbouring Skiáthos, Skópelos is also very much more attractive. SKÓPELOS TOWN slopes down one corner of a huge crescent of a bay. Within the town, spread below the oddly whitewashed ruins of a Venetian castro, stand many churches – 123 reputedly, though some are small enough to be mistaken for houses.

Beaches

Buses run along the island's main road to Loutráki, stopping at the turn-offs to all the main beaches and villages. Stáfylos beach, 4km out of town, is the closest, but it gets quite crowded; the overflow flees to Velanió, just east and officially nudist. Much more promising, if you're after relative isolation, is sandy

Limnonári, a fifteen-minute walk or short kaiki ride from Agnónidas (which has tavernas and rooms). The large resort of Pánormos has become overdeveloped, but slightly further on, Miliá offers a tremendous 1500m sweep of tiny pebbles beneath a bank of pines, while nearby Kastáni's fine grey sands are the location where scenes from the film Mamma Mia! were shot – don't be surprised to see groups of tourists trying to re-create the dance for Does Your Mother Know on the sands.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By ferry Boats arrive at the quay in the middle of Skópelos Town. The island also has another small port at Loutráki.

Destinations Áyios Konstandinos (4 daily; 2hr 10min–4hr); Skiáthos (3–5 daily; 1hr); Vólos (3–5 daily; 1hr 30min–3hr).

By bus The bus stop is next to the quay, near the taxi rank.

Destinations Loutráki and all beaches (4–7 daily; 45min–1hr).

ACCOMMODATION

Eleni Harbourfront Skópelos Town ① 24240 22393. Simple, clean hotel with nautical decor and a homely atmosphere, situated dead on the harbourfront. All rooms have large balconies and a/c. No breakfast. Doubles €50

Regina Panormos ① 24240 22280. Surrounded by a lush pine forest, these traditional studios with cooking facilities have large comfortable beds, and balconies with superb views of Panormos Bay. No breakfast. Doubles €40

EATING

Wherever you eat, ask first if serve they the local delicacy, Skópelos cheese pie.

Alexander's Garden Skópelos Town. A delightful garden restaurant, serving traditional Greek food alongside more unusual local specials, such as pork with plums (€14). Mains from €9. Daily 7pm–late.

★ O Molos Old Harbour, Skópelos Town. The pick of the tavernas on the waterfront, serving typical Greek cuisine with an excellent salad selection. Speciality is fried cheese with honey (€6). Mains from €8. Daily noon–midnight.

SKÝROS

Skýros remains a very traditional and idiosyncratic island. Some older men still wear the vaguely Cretan-looking costume of cap, vest, baggy trousers, leggings and clogs, while the women favour yellow scarves and long embroidered skirts.

Unlike the other Sporades which are accessed via Vólos on the mainland, Skýros is reached from Kými on the island of Évia.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

A bus connects Linariá – a functional little port with a few tourist facilities – to SKÝROS TOWN, spread below a high rock rising precipitously from the coast. Traces of classical walls can still be made out among the ruins of the Venetian kastró; within the walls is the crumbling, tenth-century monastery of Áyios Yeóryios. Despite the town's peaceful afternoons, the narrow streets come alive in the evening, as the sun sets behind the hills, bathing the white buildings in a soft light.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane There is a small domestic airport on the northern tip of the island, 10km from the town. There are no buses; a taxi to town costs about €15.

Destinations Athens (3 weekly; 40min); Thessaloníki (3 weekly; 40min).

By ferry Boats arrive at the functional port of Linariá. Buses wait for the boats and connect the port to Skýros Town (€1); taxis are a steep €15.

Destinations Kými (1–2 daily; 1hr 40min).

ACCOMMODATION

Hotel Elena Skýros Town ☎ 22220 91738. Centrally located, with tiled floors, white walls and wooden furniture. The rooms are clean and comfortable with a/c and free wi-fi, but no breakfast. Doubles €45

EATING

Adrácti Skýros Town. Tasty local dishes including wild green salads are served on a rooftop terrace with a panoramic view over the town. Mains around €8. No credit cards. Daily noon–midnight.

O Pappous k'Ego Skýros Town. Popular spot with tables spilling out onto the cobbled pavement – it serves up tasty Skýriot specialities such as goat in lemon sauce and pork & onion stew. Mains €8–10. Daily 6pm–late.

to those more used to the stark outlines of the Aegean. The islands were the Homeric realm of Odysseus, and here alone of all modern Greek territory the Ottomans never held sway. After the fall of Byzantium, possession passed to the Venetians, and the islands became a keystone in that city-state's maritime empire from 1386 until its collapse in 1797 when they passed to the French, the British and finally the Greeks in 1864. Tourism has hit Corfu in a big way but none of the other islands has endured anything like the same scale of development. For a less sullied experience, head for Kefalloniá.

CORFU (KÉRKYRA)

A visit to Corfu is an intense experience, if sometimes a beleaguered one, for it has more package hotels and holiday villas than any other Greek island. The commercialism is apparent the moment you step ashore at the ferry dock, or cover the 2km from the airport. That said, CORFU TOWN, the capital, has a buzzy appeal: cafés on the Esplanade and in the arcaded Listón have a civilized air, and become lively bars when the sun sets. The rest of the island is dotted with some lovely beaches and charming villages.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Corfu Town and around

In Corfu Town, the Palace of Sts Michael and George at the north end of the Spianáda is worth visiting for its private Asiatic Museum (daily: summer 8am–8pm; winter 9am–4pm; €6), Archeological Museum (currently closed for renovations) and Byzantine Museum (Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; €4). A combined ticket for both museums plus the Old Fort (daily: summer 8am–sunset; winter 8am–3pm; €6) costs €14. The island's patron saint, Spyridhon, is entombed in a silver-covered coffin in his own church on Vouthrótou, and four times a year, to the accompaniment of much celebration and feasting, the relics are paraded through the streets. Some 5km south of town lies the picturesque convent of Vlahérna,

Ionian islands

The six Ionian islands are geographically and culturally a mixture of Greece and Italy. Floating on the haze of the Adriatic, their green silhouettes come as a surprise which is joined to the plush mainland suburb of Kanóni by a short causeway; the tiny islet of Pondikonissi in the bay is visited by frequent kaikia (€5 return).

Vátos and Pélekas

Much of the island's coastline has been remorselessly developed; the tiny village of VÁTOS, just inland from west-coast Érmones, is the one place within easy reach of Kérkyra Town that has an easy, relaxed feel to it and reasonable rooms and tavernas. It's the best option for independent travellers, and there's a free bus service to the beach of Glyfadhá. Thanks to the village's hilltop location, there are some fine views over the surrounding countryside towards the coast. Nearby PÉLEKAS is rather busy and also inland but it's a good alternative base.

Áyios Górdhis and around

Further south, ÁYIOS GÓRDHIS beach is more remote, but that hasn't spared it from the crowds who come to admire the cliff-girt setting. Áyios Yeóryios, on the southwest coast, consists of a developed area just before its beautiful beach, which extends north alongside the peaceful Korissón lagoon. Kávos, near the cape itself, with its many clubs and discos, is the nightlife capital of the island; for daytime solitude and swimming, you can walk to beaches beyond the nearby hamlets of Sparterá and Dhragotiná.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane In summer charter flights from all over Europe arrive at the airport, 2km south of Corfu Town. Local blue buses #5 and #6 run into town from a stop near the airport (hourly; 10min). A taxi costs €15.

Destinations Athens (2–3 daily; 1hr).

By ferry Boats arrive at the new port, 1km west of Corfu Town.

Destinations Brindisi (3–5 weekly; 4–9hr); Igoumenítsa (5–8 daily; 1hr 30min); Sarande, Albania (3 daily; 30min–1hr 15min).

By bus The long-distance “green” bus terminal is at Lefkimis 7, in Corfu Town (greenbuses.gr). The suburban “blue” buses start from Saroko Square.

Destinations Áyios Górdhis (2–8 daily; 45min); Athens (3 daily; 10hr); Kávos (10 daily; 1hr 30min); Paleokstrítsa (6–11 daily; 1hr); Thessaloníki (2 daily; 6hr).

Tourist information There's an Info Point at the entrance to the Old Fortress (Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎26610 20355).

ACCOMMODATION

CORFU TOWN

Atlantis Ksenophónidos Stratigouí 48 ☎26610 35560, atlantis-hotel-corfu.com. Conveniently located near the New Port. It may be rather colourless and functional, but it has large rooms with a/c and a good breakfast is included. Doubles €75

Dionysus Camping Village Dhassíá, 8km north of Corfu Town ☎26610 91417, dionysuscamping.gr; bus #7 (ask the bus driver to stop here). Campsite with excellent facilities, pitches under olive trees, bungalows (sleeping 2) and sporting activities on offer. Open April–Oct. Camping/person €6.50, plus per tent €4.50, bungalows €24

AROUND THE ISLAND

Corfu Traveler's Inn Áyios Górdhis ☎26610 53935, corfubackpackers.com. Beachside accommodation with plenty of activities on offer, including kayak rental and organized club crawls. The prices include a free pickup, breakfast and dinner. Dorms €23, doubles €45

Pension Martini Pélekas ☎26610 94326, pensionmartini.com. The friendly owners here offer simple rooms with small balconies that boast great views over to Albania. There's a lush garden too, where they put on the occasional barbecue party. Doubles €35

The Pink Palace Áyios Górdhis ☎26610 53103/4, thepinkpalace.com. Raucous but fun holiday complex, with jazzis, excursions, sports facilities, on-site club, 24hr bar and more. Prices include breakfast and dinner. Dorms €24, doubles €56

EATING AND DRINKING

CORFU TOWN

Pane e Souvlaki Town Hall Square. Freshly grilled meats at astonishingly good prices? Yes, and the result is a daily scrum outside this incredibly popular kebab shop. Salads €5, souvlaki €6.50. Daily noon–midnight.

To Paradosiakon Solomouí 20. This colourful restaurant with pavement seating serves traditional dishes such as beef and onion stew, and chicken or veal in tomato sauce. Mains €8–9. April–Oct daily 10.30am–midnight.

PÉLEKAS

Jimmy's At the crossroads of the road to the beach and Kaiser's Throne lookout. A friendly brick-and-stone taverna that serves excellent breakfast and dinner with a great choice of vegetarian dishes – the house wine is good, if a little on the pricey side. Mains €8–10. Daily 8am–11am & 5–11.30pm.

Zanzibar Below the central square on the road to Corfu Town. Very popular bar with an extensive cocktail menu and DJs in the evenings. Beers €5, cocktails €7. Easter–Oct 24hr.

KEFALLONIÁ

Kefalloniá is the largest, and, at first glance, least glamorous, of the Ionian islands; the 1953 earthquake that rocked the archipelago was especially devastating here, with almost every town and village levelled and rebuilt. The 2001 film adaptation of Louis de Bernières' novel, Captain Corelli's Mandolin, was filmed here, attracting a steady stream of tourists.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

There's plenty of interest: beaches to compare with the best on Corfu, good local wine and the partly forested mass of Mount Énos (1628m). The island's size, skeletal bus service and shortage of summer accommodation make renting a motorbike or car a must for extensive exploration.

Argostóli and the north

ARGOSTÓLI is the bustling, concrete island capital. North of here, the beach of Mýrtos is considered the best on the island, although it lacks facilities – the closest places to stay are nearby Dhivárata and almost bus-less Ássos, a beautiful fishing port perched on a narrow isthmus linking it to a castellated headland. At the end of the line, pretty Fiskárdho, with its eighteenth-century houses, is the most stylish place on the island, Greece's own St-Tropez where you can often play "spot-the-celeb".

The east coast

Busy SÁMI, set against a natural backdrop of verdant, undulating hills, nestles itself into a sweeping bay. The town is the second port on the island, with boats to Itháki and Pátra. However, AYÍA EFIMÍA, 10km north, makes a far more attractive base. Between the two towns, 3km from SÁMI, the Melissáni cave (summer daily 8.30am–6.30pm; winter Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; €6), a partly submerged, Capri-type "blue grotto", is well worth a stop. Southeast from SÁMI are the resorts of PÓROS, with regular ferries to Kyllíni.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane Summer flights from many European destinations arrive at Kefalloniá international airport, 7km south of Argostóli. There's no airport bus; taxis to town cost €15.

Destinations Athens (2 daily; 1hr).

By ferry Ferries from Kyllíni in the Peloponnese dock at Póros (5–8 daily; 1hr 15min); ferries from Pátra dock at SÁMI (1 daily; 2hr 10min); while ferries from Zákynthos dock at Pessáda (2 daily; 1hr 30min).

By bus The bus station in Argostóli is just past the causeway, on I. Metaxa.

Destinations Fiskárdho (1–2 daily; 1hr 30min); Póros (2 daily; 30min); SÁMI (3–4 daily; 40min).

Tourist information Customs Office Pier (Mon–Fri 7am–2.30pm; ☎ 26710 22248).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Argostoli Fanári, 2km north of town ☎ 26710 23487, ☎ camping-argostoli.gr. Good facilities including a taverna, minimarket and newly renovated toilets. This is your best bet if you want to be close to town. June–Sept. Per person €6.50, plus per tent €5.

Karavomilos Beach 1km outside SÁMI ☎ 26740 22480, ☎ camping-karavomilos.gr. A shady campsite near the beach, 1km from town with a pool, minimarket and a decent restaurant. Open May–Sept. Per person €8.50, plus per tent €5.

Regina Studios Fiskárdo ☎ 26740 41125, ☎ regina-studios.gr. Centrally located doubles in a detached house on the road to Magano idiosyncratically furnished with floral fabrics in bright colours: rooms come with cooking facilities, a/c and balconies overlooking a large garden. Breakfast €5. Doubles €65.

EATING AND DRINKING

Captain's Table Rizospáston 2, Argostóli. A waterfront restaurant with a nautical theme serving everything from home-made pizza to fresh fish in large portions. Always busy, so service can be slow at times. Mains €8–10. Daily noon–midnight.

Mermaid Restaurant SÁMI. In a wonderful location on the seafront, this friendly restaurant uses local produce to create hearty dishes including a signature meat pie. Mains €7–9. May–Oct daily noon–midnight.

Tzivras Vandhóroui 1, Argostóli. Small traditional restaurant near the market with all Greek fare cooked to a high standard. There's a good selection for vegetarians, such as courgette-and-aubergine bake for €7. Daily 11am–5pm.

Crete

CRETE is distinguished as the home of the Minoan civilization, Europe's earliest, which made the island the centre of a maritime trading empire as early as 2000 BC and produced artworks unsurpassed in the ancient world. The capital, Iráklión, is not the prettiest town on the island, although visits to its superb Archeological Museum and the Minoan palace at nearby Knossos are all but compulsory. There are other great Minoan sites at Mália on the north coast and at Phaestos in the south. Near the latter are the remains of the Roman capital at Gortys.

Historical heritage apart, the main attractions are that inland this is still a place where traditional rural life continues, and that the island is big enough to ensure that, with a little effort, you can still get away from it all. There's also a surprisingly sophisticated club scene in the north-coast cities, and plenty of manic, beer-soaked tourist fun in some resorts in between.

IRÁKLION

The best way to approach bustling IRÁKLION is by sea; that way you see the city as it should be seen, with Mount Iouktas rising behind and the Psiloritis range to the west. As you get closer, it's the fifteenth-century city walls that first stand out, still dominating and fully encircling the oldest part of town, and finally you sail in past the great Venetian fort defending the harbour entrance. The excellent Archeological Museum, at Xanthoudhidhou 2 (April–Oct daily 8am–8pm; Nov–March Mon 11am–5pm, Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; €10, €16 including Knossos), hosts a collection that includes almost every important prehistoric and Minoan find on Crete.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By plane Nikos Kazantzakis airport is 4km east of the city with regular buses to the centre (every 10min; €1.10). A taxi costs €14.

Destinations Athens (4–6 daily; 50min); Thessaloniki (1 daily; 1hr 15min).

By bus For all points along the north-coast highway and Knossos, use the Liménos bus station close to the ferry dock; services on inland routes to the south and west (for Phaestos, for example) leave from the Hanióportas terminal outside the city walls at Haniá Gate.

Destinations from Liménos Haniá (hourly; 1hr 20min); Hersónissos (every 30min; 40min); Knossos (every 10min; 20min); Mália (every 30min; 1hr); Réthymnon (hourly; 1hr 30min); Sitia (5–6 daily; 3hr 15min).

Destinations from Hanióportas Phaestos (8 daily; 1hr).

By ferry Boats dock at the quay at the eastern end of town. As you arrive, turn right to reach the centre.

Destinations Piræas (1–2 daily; 7hr); Rhodes (1–2 weekly; 14–17hr); Santoríni (1–2 daily; 6hr); Sitia (2 weekly; 3hr).

INFORMATION

Tourist information Platía Nikifórou Foká (daily; 8.30am–2.30pm; ☎ 28134 09777/80). For what's on (and much more) in Crete's vibrant capital nowheraklion.com is an excellent website, run by a British expat.

ACCOMMODATION

★ Kronos Sof. Venizelou 2 and M. Agarathou ☎ 2810 282 240, kronoshotel.gr. Iráklion's best budget hotel, recently renovated with double-glazed windows and sea views. Its common areas are leather-clad while the spacious rooms have a/c and wi-fi; the buffet breakfast (included) is pretty good, too. Doubles €60

Lena Lahaná 10 ☎ 2810 223280, lena-hotel.gr. Two-star hotel, in a residential street 500m from the harbour. Quiet, functional, clean and cheerful with a/c in every room plus free wi-fi: en-suite rooms cost €55. Breakfast €8. Doubles €38

Rea Kalimeráki 1 ☎ 2810 223 638, hotelrea.gr. A clean, comfortable pension in a quiet and convenient central location behind the museum, with super-friendly staff: en-suite rooms cost €45. Breakfast €3. Open March–Nov. Doubles €35

EATING

50-50 Bar & Grill Odhós 1866 20 ☎ 2810 286 220. Possibly the best place to try Cretan cuisines and wines, with a great atmosphere on the occasional rebétika music night – reserve in advance for these. Mains from €7. Daily 10am–midnight.

Dipolo Cafe-Taverna Monis Odiyítrias. Not just a taverna but also a grocery shop, this place serves delicious authentic Cretan mezédhes, such as six different types of local cheese and traditionally smoked pork. Mains from €6. Mon–Sat 9am–midnight.

Johnny Burger Minótavrou 4 (El Greco Park). Yummy, innovative burgers that use home-made buns, local graviéra cheese, truffles and seventeen different sauces. Vegetarians are well catered for, too. Mains from €7. Daily 10am–midnight.

THESEUS AND THE MINOTAUR

Legend has it that King Minos built the labyrinth at Knossos to contain the minotaur. This terrifying creature with a man's body and a bull's head fed on fresh maidens and young men – until Theseus arrived to slay the monster, and, helped by Minos's daughter Ariadne, escaped the maze. Theseus subsequently ditched Ariadne on Náxos; yet she fared well, marrying the god Dionysus. On the way back, Theseus forgot to change the ship's sails from black to white – a signal to his father, Aegeus, that he'd survived and slayed the Minotaur – and caused his father's suicide from grief. Aegeus jumped from Cape Soúnio (p.510) into the sea that was subsequently named after him.

14

KNOSSOS AND PHAESTOS

The largest of the Minoan palaces, KNOSSOS (daily: April–Oct 8am–8pm; Nov–March 8am–3pm; €15) reached its cultural peak over 3500 years ago. Evidence of a luxurious lifestyle is plainest in the Queen's Suite, off the grand Hall of the Colonnades at the bottom of the stunningly impressive Grand Staircase. The site was excavated by Sir Arthur Evans from 1900 onwards. At the same time, the Italian Federico Halbherr was excavating the Minoan Palace at PHAESTOS, 35km west of Gortys (see below). Unlike the reconstruction work at Knossos, however, Phaestos remains totally pristine, which, to many, adds to its value and magnificence (daily: summer 8am–8pm; winter 8am–3pm; €8).

GORTYS

About 1km west of the village of Áyii Dhéka, where the bus drops you off, GORTYS (summer daily 8am–8pm; winter Tues–Sun 8am–3pm; €6) is the ruined capital of the Roman province of Cyrenaica, which included not only Crete but also much of North Africa. If you walk here from Áyii Dhéka you'll get an idea of the huge scale of the place at its height in the third century AD.

At the main entrance to the fenced site, north of the road, is the ruined but still impressive basilica of Áyios Títos, the island's first Christian church and burial place of the saint (Titus) who converted Crete and was also its first bishop. Beyond this is the Odeon, which houses the most important discovery on the site, the Law Code – ancient laws inscribed on stones measuring about 10m by 3m.

HERSÓNISSOS AND MÁLIA

The coast east of Iráklion was the first to be developed, and is still the domain of the package tourist. There are some good beaches, but all of them fully occupied. The heart of the development lies around HERSÓNISSOS and MÁLIA, which these days form virtually a single resort. If it's the party-holiday spirit you're after, this is the place to come – its reputation became even more notorious after scenes from The Inbetweeners movie were shot here – and wherever you go, you'll have no problem finding bars, clubs and British (or Irish) pubs.

SITÍA

Sleepy SITÍA, the port and main town of the relatively recently “discovered” eastern edge of Crete offers a plethora of waterside restaurants, a blue flag beach and a less hectic lifestyle than nearby ÁYIOS NIKÓLAOS. At the far eastern end of the island, VÁI BEACH is the most famous on Crete, thanks to its ancient grove of palm trees. In season, though, its undoubted charms are diluted by crowds of day-trippers. Other beaches at nearby Ítanos or Palékastró – Crete's main windsurfing centre – are less exotic but emptier.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

By bus The bus station is on the southern edge of town, a short walk from the centre.

Destinations Iráklion (4–5 daily; 3hr 15min); Váï (3–4 daily; 1hr).

By ferry The harbour is located 500m north of town.

Destinations Iráklion (2 weekly; 3hr); Pireás (2 weekly; 18hr); Rhodes (2 weekly; 10hr).

ACCOMMODATION

El Greco Arkadhíou 13 ☎ 28430 23133, elgreco-sitia.gr. Central, friendly and old-fashioned – in attitude rather than in furnishings – this is an old-school hotel where a daily chat with the receptionist is de rigueur. Breakfast €4. Doubles €45

RÉTHYMNON

West of Iráklion, the old town of RÉTHYMNON is a labyrinthine tangle of Venetian and Turkish houses set around an enclosed sixteenth-century harbour and wide sandy beach. Medieval minarets lend an exotic air to the skyline, while dominating everything from the west is the superbly preserved outline of the Venetian fortress (summer 8am–7pm; winter 10am–5.30pm; €4). Much of the pleasure is in wandering the streets of the old town once the sun has set; there's an unbroken line of tavernas, cafés and cocktail bars right around the waterside and into the area around the old port. Better-value places are found around the seventeenth-century Venetian Rimóndi Fountain, an easily located landmark. The heart of Réthymnon's sparkling nightlife centres on the old port from around midnight.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By bus The bus station is to the west of the city; head around the inland side of the fortress to reach the centre.

Destinations Haniá (hourly; 1hr); Iráklion (hourly; 1hr 30min).

Tourist information Mégaro Delfini at Sofokli Venizelou (Mon–Fri 9am–3pm; ☎ 28310 29148).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Elizabeth Missiria, 4km east of Réthymnon ☎ 28310 28694, camping-elizabeth.net. This campsite is in the hotel strip along the beach, served by frequent buses. Also rents bungalows (sleeping 2). Open May–Oct. Camping/person €8.50, plus per tent €5, bungalows €42. Olga's Pension Souliou 57 ☎ 697 622 3018. These small but attractive rooms are individually decorated and have free wi-fi and a/c. The flower-filled roof garden is a gem; ask to feed the venus flytrap. Breakfast included. Doubles €50

Youth Hostel Tombázi 41 ☎ 28310 22848, yhrhythmo.com. This friendly and relaxed hostel at the edge of the Old Town has clean facilities, cheap breakfasts, women-only dorms and 24hr CCTV for security. Dorms €10

EATING, DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Ice Club Salamínos 12. The town's biggest nightclub, hosting occasional live gigs from bands and Greek acts (normally starting at 8.30pm, prices vary). Their "Hell" club nights are notorious. June–Sept daily 11.30pm–late.

Metropolis Neárchou 15. A funky bar with DJs from a local, eponymous radio station that attracts a lively, hipster/student crowd. It also puts on a scattering of themed events, karaoke and live music. Cocktails €8. March–Nov 11pm–6am.

To Pigádhí Xanthóhidhíou 31. This unpretentious restaurant is great value and recommended by locals. There's an atmospheric garden where you can eat excellent food, and the service is attentive. Mains €7–12. May–Oct noon–midnight.

PLAKIÁS

Réthymnon lies at one of the narrower parts of Crete, so it's relatively quick to cut across from here to the south coast. The obvious place to head is PLAKIÁS, a growing resort that's managed to retain a small-town atmosphere. There are numerous rooms, though it becomes very busy in August.

ACCOMMODATION

Youth Hostel ☎ 28320 32118, 🌐 yhplakias.com. Proud to be the most southerly hostel in Europe, it is set in an olive grove and, with its relaxed atmosphere, it feels more like a taverna or a beach bar. Book well ahead. Open Easter–Oct. Dorms €11

HANIÁ

HANIÁ is the spiritual capital of Crete; for many, it is also the island's most attractive city – especially in spring, when the snowcapped peaks of the Lefká Óri (White Mountains) seem to hover above the roofs.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The port area is the oldest and the most interesting part of town. The little hill that rises behind the landmark domes of the quayside Mosque of the Janissaries is called Kastélli, site of the earliest Minoan habitation and core of the Venetian and Turkish towns. Beneath the hill, on the inner harbour, the arches of sixteenth-century Venetian arsenals survive

HIKING THE SAMARIAN GORGE

The Samaritan Gorge – one of Europe's longest – makes an easy day-trip, with regular buses from Haniá (May–Oct only). Be warned, however, that you won't be alone – dozens of coaches set off before dawn for the dramatic climb into the White Mountains and the long (at least 4hr) walk down. At the bottom of the gorge is the village of Ayía Roúmeli from where boats will take you east to Hóra Sfakion and your bus home, or west towards the pleasant resorts of Souýia and Paleohóra. The mountains offer endless other hiking challenges: Souýia and Paleohóra are both good starting points, as is Loutró, a tiny place halfway to Hóra Sfakion, accessible only by boat.

alongside remains of the outer walls. Behind the harbour lie the less picturesque but livelier sections of the old city. Around the cathedral on Halídhon are some of the more animated shopping areas, particularly leather-dominated Odhós Skrydlhóf.

Beaches

Haniá's beaches all lie to the west: the packed city beach is a ten-minute walk beyond the Maritime Museum, but for good sand you're better off taking the bus from the east side of Platía 1866 along the coast road to Kalamáki. In between you'll find emptier stretches if you're prepared to walk some of the way.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By plane The airport is located in Acrotiri, 15km from Haniá. Buses run regularly into town (5.30am–23.45pm; €2.50). Taxis cost €30.

Destinations Athens (3–4 daily; 50min).

By bus The bus station is on Odhós Kydonías, within easy walking distance of the centre.

Destinations Iráklion (hourly; 3hr); Omalós (for the Samaritan Gorge; 4 daily when the gorge is open; 1hr); Réthymnon (hourly; 1hr).

By ferry Ferries dock about 10km away at the port of Soudha: frequent city buses run from here to the market on the fringes of Haniá old town.

Destinations Pireás (1–2 daily; 9–10hr).

Tourist information Municipal Tourist Office, inside the Town Hall at Milonoyánni 53 (Mon–Fri 8.30am–2.30pm; ☎ 28213 41666).

ACCOMMODATION

Camping Chania 5km west of town ☎ 28210 31138, 🌐 camping-kania.gr. Close to no fewer than four beaches, this small but lively site has Cretan music and karaoke nights, a pool and a restaurant. Any west-heading bus from Platía 1866 will take you there. March–Oct. Per person €7, plus per tent €4

Earini Rooms Halidhon 27 ☎ 28210 57666, 🌐 earini.gr. You'll be sure of a hospitable welcome and clean, decent en-suite air-conditioned rooms at this well-situated guesthouse run by a lovely old lady. No breakfast. Doubles €32

Mme Bassia Betólo 45–51 ☎ 28215 02750, 🌐 mmebassia.gr. A charming pension with a homely atmosphere tucked away in the harbour backstreets. The traditionally decorated rooms are a good size, and there's a tiny roof garden too. Breakfast €5.50. Doubles €60

Pension Nora Theotokopóulou 60 ☎ 28210 72265, 🌐 pension-nora.com. The charming air-conditioned rooms here have use of a shared kitchen. The size and facilities of the rooms vary, as do the prices accordingly. No breakfast. Doubles €40

EATING AND DRINKING

Ellotia Pórtou 6. It can be tricky to find this cosy garden taverna, but it's worth it, as it serves delicious traditional fare in a leafy setting. Grills €8–10. Daily noon–midnight.

Fáka Arholéontos 15. Not facing the port and thus considerably cheaper, this is nevertheless one of the best budget restaurants in Haniá, whose quality hasn't diminished through the years. Cretan lyra-based folk music at the weekends. Daily 11am–midnight.

Tamam Zambeliou 49. A converted Turkish bathhouse that serves up an adventurous menu, including vegetarian food, plus dishes ranging from stuffed goat roll to veal with aubergine purée. Especially popular with veggies and wine-lovers. Mains €8–10. Daily noon–midnight.

SZECHENYI BATHS, BUDAPEST

Hungary

HIGHLIGHTS

- ❶ Castle hill, Budapest The heart of historic Buda. See p.551
- ❷ Thermal Baths, Budapest Wallow in the city's historic baths. See p.555
- ❸ Siófok A must if you're a party animal. See p.559
- ❹ Badacsony Enjoy the walks in this gorgeous region. See p.560
- ❺ Pécs Explore this compact town's UNESCO treasures. See p.562
- ❻ Valley of the Beautiful Woman, Eger Taste local wines in the main square's cellars. See p.564

HIGHLIGHTS ARE MARKED ON THE MAP ON P.547

ROUGH COSTS

Daily budget Basic €60, occasional treat €80

Drink Beer (large) €2–2.50

Food Goulash €3–4

Hostel/pension €15–30

Travel Train: Budapest–Eger €8.50

FACT FILE

Population 10 million

Language Hungarian

Currency Forint (Ft)

Capital Budapest

International phone code 36

Time zone GMT +1hr

Introduction

Bordered by countries as diverse as Austria, Serbia and Ukraine, Hungary is a crossroads at the centre of the continent – what was once known as Mitteleuropa – and it fuses old Europe and new in its mix of Habsburg grandeur and Communist-era grittiness. There is a Central European solidity to its food, buildings and culture, but the more exotic, and undeniably romantic, founding myth of the nomadic, warrior Magyars from the Central Asian steppe is also key to Hungarians' fiery national pride.

15

Budapest, the capital, is a city of imposing scale and wide Danube vistas, split by the river into historic Buda and buzzy Pest, and offering both the old (imperial-era boulevards, Art Nouveau coffeehouses, bubbling Turkish baths) and the new (quirky warehouse bars and summer riverboat clubs). A few hours' travel beyond Budapest is enough to access Hungary's other key charms, from Serb-influenced Szentendre, a short way north along the Danube bend, to the lush wine-growing Badacsony region on the shores of Lake Balaton to the southwest. Balaton, the "nation's playground", also plays host to crowded summer party resorts such as Siófok, or gentler Keszthely. Hungary's three most culture-rich towns beyond Budapest are scattered across the country but not to be missed: Sopron, close by the border with Austria; Pécs, on the far southern tip, ringed by alpine hills; and Eger, just northeast of Budapest, a mellow, historic city famous for its Bull's Blood wine. Across southeast Hungary stretches the enormous Great Plain, covering half the country and home to some beautiful national parks and the cities of Szeged, Kecskemét and Debrecen.

CHRONOLOGY

9 BC Area around the Danube is conquered by the Romans.
434–453 AD Attila the Hun's feared empire is centred in modern-day Hungary.
568 The Avars, nomads from Inner/Central Asia, arrive.
Around 896 The Magyars in Hungary begin the honfoglalás or land-taking (conquest of the region).
1000 Kingdom of Hungary established by King Stephen.
1242 The Mongols attack Hungary.

1526 The Hungarian army is defeated by the Ottomans in the Battle of Mohács and the country is split into three regions, under different forms of government.

1552 The Hungarians hold back the Turks at the Eger fortress – a major date in national consciousness.

1699 The Turks are defeated and expelled from Hungary by the Austrian Habsburgs.

1867 In order to quell separatist calls, Austria accepts greater Hungarian autonomy – in what is known as the Compromise – and the dual monarchy of Austria-Hungary is formed.

1896 Huge celebrations across Hungary for the millennial anniversary – 1000 years since the arrival of the Magyars.

1918 After World War I, Austria-Hungary is split into two countries.

1920 Treaty of Trianon in which Hungary loses two-thirds of its prewar territory.

1919–41 The right-wing dictatorship of Admiral Horthy.

1944 Germany occupies Hungary and installs the Arrow Cross party (Hungarian fascists) in government.

1944–45 Hungary's large prewar Jewish community is decimated as Jews are deported under Nazi occupation.

1945 Soviets invade Hungary.

1947 Soviets consolidate their postwar power in Hungary.

1956 National uprising against Soviet occupation is brutally repressed.

1989–91 Collapse of Communism in the Soviet Union and the eastern bloc.

1990 Hungary's first free elections held.

2004 Hungary joins the EU.

2010 Pécs becomes European City of Culture.

2011 A new constitution is approved by a right-wing Parliament; new election and media laws cause concern among Hungary's EU partners.

2015 Hungary builds a fence across the Serbian border after 200,000 migrants enter the country over the summer hoping to moving to Germany.

HIGHLIGHTS

- |                           |             |                                       |
|---------------------------|-------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1 Castle hill, Budapest   | 3 Siófok    | 5 Pécs                                |
| 2 Thermal Baths, Budapest | 4 Badacsony | 6 Valley of the Beautiful Woman, Eger |

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

Flights to Budapest arrive at Ferenc Liszt airport, 20km from the centre; a bus and metro combination will take you into central Budapest, and there's also an airport bus that will drop you at your accommodation. Wizz Air also flies directly from London to Debrecen.

Most international trains arrive at Keleti station in Budapest, although Déli also handles a few arrivals from Belgrade. Global or One Country InterRail passes are valid on all trains. The international bus terminal is at Népliget (Metro Line 3) in Budapest, with international buses generally operated by Volánbusz. Mahart runs hydrofoils from Vienna which dock at the International Landing Stage on Belgrád rakpart in Budapest.

GETTING AROUND

Public transport in Hungary is cheap and fairly reliable, although the air-conditioning doesn't always work in trains or buses. The biggest problem can be getting information, as English is by no means uniformly spoken.

BY TRAIN

Intercity trains (marked "IC" on the timetable) are the fastest way of getting to the major towns. Seat reservations, a separate numbered piece of card available at any MÁV office (mav-start.hu), are compulsory for services marked Ⓜ on timetables, and cost around 480Ft extra. You can buy tickets (jegy) for domestic services at the station (pályaudvar or vasútállomás) on the day of departure, but it's best to buy tickets for international trains (nemzetközi gyorsvonat) in advance. When buying your ticket, specify whether you want a one-way ticket (egy útra), or a return (retur or oda-vissza).

BY BUS

Volánbusz (volanbusz.hu) runs the bulk of Hungary's buses, which are often the quickest way to travel between the smaller towns. Arrive early to confirm times and get a seat. For long-distance services from Budapest and the major towns, you can book a seat up to 30min before departure; after that, you get them from the driver (and risk standing). For a journey of 100km, expect to pay around 2600Ft.

BY TAXI

Private taxis are notorious for ripping off tourists, so always ask your hotel/restaurant/bar to call you a cab. If you must hail one in the street, use those with markings on the side that show a local taxi company, its logo and its number.

15 ACCOMMODATION

Hostels are common in the main tourist destinations, while across the country the tradition of the homely pension (panzió) or guesthouse (vendégház) still thrives. Here, expect to pay from 8000Ft for a double. Alternatively, try university dorms – rooms are rented out in July and August, and often available at weekends year-round.

Private rooms (vendégszoba) and apartments are also affordable and can be arranged through the Ibusz agency (ibusz.hu), or local tourist offices. Doubles range from 8000Ft in provincial towns to around 10,000Ft in Budapest. Outside Budapest and Lake Balaton (where prices in the summer can double), a three-star hotel (szálló or szálloda) will charge from around 12,000Ft for a double; solo travellers may have to pay this too, since singles are not always on offer.

Campsites range from deluxe to third class. In high season, expect to pay around 2000Ft for two people with a tent, and up to twice as much around Lake Balaton.

FOOD AND DRINK

You are unlikely to go hungry in Hungary. Cafés and restaurants (étterem or vendéglő) proliferate and portions are usually large. Eating out is generally affordable: choose well and you can stuff yourself, plus enjoy a few beers, for under 2000Ft.

FOOD

Kebabs, falafel and small dishes – such as hortobágyi palacsinta (pancakes stuffed with mince and doused in creamy paprika sauce) – cost from as little as 600Ft, and mains tend to start around 1200Ft (or 2000Ft in higher-end restaurants). For foreigners, the archetypal Hungarian dish is goulash (gulyásleves) – a soup including beef and potatoes, brilliantly coloured with paprika and traditionally served in a cauldron (bogrács).

Hungarians like a protein-heavy breakfast (reggeli) featuring cheese, eggs and salami, plus bread and jam. Coffeehouses (kávéház) are increasingly trendy and you'll find many serving breakfast and coffee with milk (tejeskávé) or whipped cream (tejszínhabbal). For most Hungarians coffee means one thing: espresso (eszpresszó).

Traditionally, lunch is the main meal of the day, and lunch set menus (napi menü) can be a highly affordable way of eating out. You won't want for snacks, particularly sweet ones: the old-fashioned cukrászda or patisserie with tempting displays of elaborate cakes is a staple of every town centre. Marzipan is a national favourite, as is ice cream (fagyalt). Pancakes (palacsinta, from around 350Ft) are very popular, as are strudels (rétes; about 600Ft).

DRINK

Hungary's mild climate and diversity of soils are ideal for wine (bor), which is cheap whether you drink it by the bottle (üveg) or the glass (pohár). The country's best-known wine-producing region is the Tokaj-Hegyalja, known predominantly for dessert wine. Bikavér, produced around Eger and meaning "Bull's Blood", is a robust red. Good whites can be found around the Badacsony in the Balaton region and near Sopron.

Wine bars (borozó) are common, but the best way to taste is at source at the wine cellars (borpince) around Pécs and Eger. Harder drinkers favour brandy (pálinka), with popular flavours being distilled from apricots (barack), plums (szilva) or pears (körte). Local beers (sör) to try are Soproni Ászok and Pécsi Szalon, while in Budapest a craft beer scene is well established in the city's famous "ruin bars" (see p.557).

CULTURE AND ETIQUETTE

Hungarians are generally very ready to help if you need directions or assistance. The biggest barrier is still the language – in Budapest you can survive on English but elsewhere you'll need to muster a little German, as well as the polite basics in Hungarian. Never say "thank you" when paying; this is understood in Hungary as "keep the change". If you want to leave a tip, ten percent will do, and, in restaurants, is expected.

Hungary's dominant religion is Catholicism but there are many Protestant churches. Respectful clothing is expected in places of worship. Women travellers should not expect any particular hassle in Hungary.

SPORTS AND OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Hungary is a predominantly rural country, one-fifth covered in forests. The Great Plain, especially the area around Kecskemét and the Kiskunság National Park, offers some of the best horseriding in Europe as well as fantastic horse shows during the summer. It's cheapest to select an independent horseriding operator.

Cycling is very well provided for: Tourinform (see box below) can provide cycling maps with recommended routes, and bikes can be rented in most towns for around 1500–2000Ft a day. Particularly scenic cycling routes can be found around Lake Balaton. There are limited hiking opportunities in Hungary; however, walks in the Badacsony region offer stunning views over Lake Balaton.

COMMUNICATIONS

Post offices (posta) are usually open Monday to Friday 8am to 4pm, Sat 8am to 1pm. The few public phones that are left use cards that can be bought from post offices and newsstands. To make national calls, dial 06, wait for the buzzing tone, then dial the area code and number. To make an international call, dial 00, wait for the buzzing tone, then dial the country code and number. All hotels and hostels (certainly those covered

HUNGARY ONLINE

- 📍 tourinform.hu National tourist office.
- 📍 ibusz.hu Handy portal for viewing and booking cheap private rooms all across Hungary.
- 📍 budapestinfo.hu Comprehensive site with up-to-the-minute listings.
- 📍 bkv.hu Timetables and info for all public transport in Budapest.
- 📍 mavcsopot.hu/en Hungarian train timetables in English.
- 📍 volanbusz.hu/en Bus timetables.
- 📍 jegymester.hu Buy tickets for events and exhibitions online.

in this Guide), as well as many cafés and bars, offer free wi-fi.

EMERGENCIES

Tourists are treated with respect by the police (rendőrség) unless they're suspected of smuggling drugs or driving under the influence of alcohol. Always carry a photocopy of your passport. Pharmacies are identifiable by their green cross signs. Opening hours are generally Monday to Friday 9am to 6pm, Saturday 9am to noon; signs in the window give the location of all-night pharmacies (ügyeletes gyógyszertár). Tourist offices can direct you to local medical centres or doctors' surgeries (orvosi rendelő); these will probably be in private (magán) practice, so be sure to carry health insurance. EU citizens have reciprocal arrangements for emergency treatment, but only at state hospitals.

MONEY AND BANKS

Currency is the forint (Ft or HUF), which comes in notes of 500Ft, 1000Ft, 2000Ft, 5000Ft, 10,000Ft and 20,000Ft, and in coins of 5Ft, 10Ft, 20Ft, 50Ft, 100Ft and 200Ft. At the time of writing, €1=315Ft, US$1=280Ft, and £1=400Ft.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS

- Police 📞 107; Ambulance 📞 104; Fire 📞 105; General hotline 📞 112.

HUNGARIAN

Yes
No
Please
Thank you
Hello/Good day
Goodbye
Excuse me
Good Bad
Today
Yesterday
Tomorrow
How much is...?
What time is it?
I don't understand
Do you speak English?
Where is/are?
Entrance
Exit
Women's toilet
Men's toilet
Toilet
Hotel
Railway station
Bus/train stop
Plane
Near Far
Single room
Double room
Cheap
Expensive
Open
Closed
One
Two Three Four Five
Six
Seven
Eight
Nine
Ten

HUNGARIAN

Igen
Nem
Kérem
Köszönöm
Jó napot
Viszontlátásra
Bocsánat
Jó
Rossz
Ma
Tegnap
Holnap
Mennyibe kerül...?
Hány óra van?
Nem értem
Beszél Angolul?
Hol van/vannak?
Bejárat
Kijárat
Női
Férfi mosdó
WC
Szálloda
Vasútállomás
Megálló
Repülőgép
Közel
Távol
Egyágyas szoba
Kétágyas szoba
Olcsó
Drága
Nyitva
Zárva
Egy
Kettő
Három
Négy
Öt
Hat
Hét
Nyolc
Kilenc
Tíz

PRONUNCIATION

I-gen
Nem
Kay-rem
Kur-sur-nurm
Yo nopot
Vee-sont-lah-tarsh-rah
Botch-ah-not Yo
Ross
Ma
Teg-nop
Hall-nop
Men-yi-beh keh-rool...?
Hine-ora von?
Nem air-tem
Beh-sail ong-oolool?
Hawl-von/von-nok?
Beyah-rot
Kiyah-rot
Nuy
Fayr-fi maws-daw
Vait-say
Sahlaw-da
Voh-sootal-law-mass
Meh-gall-oh
Repoo-lur-gepp
Kur-zel
Tav-oll
Eggy-ah-yas saw-ba
Kay-ta-yas soba
Ol-cho
Drah-ga
Nyeet-va
Zah-rva
Eggy
Ket-tur
Hah-rom
Naidge
Urt
Hot Hait
Nyolts
Kee-lents
Teez

Accommodation and tour prices are often quoted in euros, but you still pay in forints. Standard banking hours are Monday to Thursday 8am to 4pm, Friday 8am to 1pm. Bureaux de change operate longer hours and can be found in the centre of most larger towns. ATMs are widespread, and you can use a credit/ debit card to pay in most hotels, restaurants and shops.

OPENING HOURS AND HOLIDAYS

Shops are generally open Monday to Saturday 9am to 6pm. They close on Sundays and public holidays including January 1, March 15, Easter Monday, May 1, Whit Monday, August 20, October 23, November 1, December 25 and 26. Shopping centres operate later hours and are generally open every day.

Budapest and around

Over two million people – one-fifth of Hungary's population – live in BUDAPEST, and it is the political, cultural and commercial heart of the country. After the 1867 Compromise, which gave the Hungarian monarchy equal status with Austria under the final half-century of the Habsburg Empire and ushered in a high age of Hungarian nationalism, the city was rapidly developed to become a standing celebration of Hungarian culture and power. The sheer scale of its vast iconic buildings, from the castle to the Parliament to the Gellért Baths, testifies to Hungary's central role in European history.

Pest is located on the eastern bank of the Danube and Buda on the hilly west bank. Since the unification of these two distinct cities in 1873, the Danube (Duna) is less a dividing line, more the heart of the capital itself, providing its most splendid vistas, from both banks. Each of Budapest's 23 districts (kerületek) is designated on maps and at the beginning of addresses by a Roman numeral; "V" is Belváros (inner city), on the Pest side; "I" is the Castle district in Buda.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Castle Hill (Várhegy) is the crowning feature of the Buda side; a plateau 1.6km long, it rises steeply from the Danube bank, bearing the imposing Buda Palace, a web of cobbled streets and the Mátyás Church, symbolic of Hungarian nationalism. Pest is thick with hip cafés and bars, as well as being home to the historic Belváros (central old town) and the intimate Jewish district.

Buda: Castle Hill

Castle Hill stands on the western bank of the Chain Bridge (Széchenyi láncíd), opened in 1849, and – amazingly – the first permanent bridge between Buda and Pest. From Clark Ádám tér on the Buda side, you can reach Castle Hill on the dinky nineteenth-century funicular or Sikló (daily 7.30am–10pm; 1200Ft) or take bus #16/16A from Széll Kálmán tér metro station direction Disz tér.

Mátyás Church and Fishermen's Bastion

On Szentárok tér, the busy square at the heart of Buda, stands the bright-roofed Mátyás Church (Mon–Sat 9am–5pm, Sun 1–5pm; 1500Ft). Inside, the church is fabulously exuberant, with the original thirteenth-century structure used as the base for a late nineteenth-century redesign in a Romantic Nationalist style. The splendid gold leaf and nationalist motifs clearly reclaimed the church as Hungarian – it had been a mosque for a time under Ottoman rule. A statue of King Stephen (Szent István) on horseback stands outside – he is revered as the founder of the Hungarian state and the one responsible for converting Hungarians to Christianity.

Behind the church is the neo-Romanesque Fishermen's Bastion or Halászbástya, constructed in 1902 on the spot supposedly defended in the past by the guild of fishermen against would-be invaders. Today it's an excellent place for looking out across the river to the splendid Parliament building rising up on the east bank.

Buda Palace

Topping the crest of Castle Hill, close by the point where the funicular railway emerges, stands Buda Palace. The fortifications and interiors have been endlessly remodelled, with the palace's destruction in World War II only the latest in a long line of onslaughts since the thirteenth century. The National Gallery (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm, last ticket 5pm; 1800Ft; ☎01 201 9082, 🌐mng.hu), which occupies the central wings B, C and D of the palace compound, contains Hungarian art from the Middle Ages onwards, including heavily symbolic nineteenth-century representations of idealized national myths.

On the other side, facing the Palace's Lion Courtyard, the Budapest History Museum in Wing E (Tues–Sun: March–Oct 10am–6pm; Nov–Feb 10am–4pm; 2000Ft; ☎01 487 8800, www.btm.hu) gives some further historical context with a gathering of artefacts from Budapest's dark ages and medieval past, but is rather old-fashioned, and arguably underwhelming for the price.

15 Gellért Hill

Close by the Szabadság híd (Freedom bridge) on the Buda side is Gellért Hill (Gellérthegy), home to the best known of the city's baths, Gellért Baths (see box, p.555), and topped by the Liberation Monument, constructed in 1947 to commemorate Hungary's liberation from Nazi rule. Known by locals as The Bottle Opener, it depicts a woman holding aloft the palm of victory and is one of the few Soviet monuments to survive the fall of the Iron Curtain in situ (most have been destroyed or moved out of town to the Statue Park). Below, the Citadella, a mock-medieval fortress built by the Habsburgs to cow the population after the 1848–49 revolution, hugs the west bank of the Danube.

Statue Park

The Statue Park (Szoborpark; daily 10am–sunset; 1500Ft; ☎01 424 7500, www.mementopark.hu), on the Buda side of the river 15km south of town, houses statues of Marx, Engels, Lenin and friends, as well as heroic scenes from Communist legends, and gives a lively glimpse into Hungary's Communist past for the uninitiated. Buses #101, #101B and #101E depart from Kelenföld metro station (Line 4) every 10 minutes; get off at the Memento park stop. The easiest option, though far from cheap, is to take the private tour bus from Deák tér (daily 11am; July & August also at 3pm; 4900Ft return, includes entrance fee).

Pest: around Vörösmarty tér

Central Vörösmarty tér is flooded with crowded café terraces, and dominated by the Gerbeaud patisserie, a belle époque high-society haunt, now sadly partly converted to a bistro and a cocktail bar. By Gerbeaud's terrace is the entrance to Budapest's underground Line 1, continental Europe's first metro line, and the second in the world after London's, when it opened in 1896. It is now a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

Váci utca, a mix of chic shops and tourist tat stalls, runs south from Vörösmarty tér past the Pesti Theatre, where the twelve-year-old Franz (Ferenc) Liszt made his concert debut. It then continues south to the Central Market Hall (Mon 6am–5pm, Tues–Fri 6am–6pm, Sat 6am–3pm), a grand high-roofed hall whose stalls are laden with Hungarian products and pricey street food. Halfway along the central aisle stands the Kmetty & Kmetty stall with a picture of Margaret Thatcher who famously shopped there during her 1984 visit.

National Museum

At Múzeumkörút 14–16 (the road named after it), and easily accessed by www.kalvinter.hu, is the grandiose Neoclassical National Museum (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 1600Ft; ☎01 338 2122, www.hnm.hu), which gives a comprehensive overview of Hungarian history from the Magyar tribes' arrival to the collapse of Communism.

The Great Synagogue and Jewish museum

On the corner of Wesselényi and Dohány utca stands the Great Synagogue or Dohány Street synagogue (March Sun–Thurs 10am–6pm, Fri 10am–3.30pm; April–Oct Sun–Thurs 10am–6pm, Fri 10am–4.30pm; Nov–Feb Sun–Thurs 10am–4pm, Fri 10am–2pm; 3000Ft; ☎01 343 0420, www.dohanystreet-synagogue.hu). It is the world's second-largest synagogue (the largest is in New York) and the central place of worship for what remains – despite the devastation of the Holocaust – of Central Europe's largest Jewish community. The Byzantine-Moorish interior is worth a

GOZSDU UDVAR

Extremely popular and insanely busy, a magical complex of six interconnecting courtyards between Kiraly utca and Dob utca, Gozsdu Udvar houses an antique market, cocktail bars, American diner-style restaurants, pull-your-own-pint pubs, cafés, handicraft stalls, Latin-themed bars, penny arcades, a gym – and, did we mention, bars?

15

look, but seek out too the silver weeping willow in the “garden of remembrance” named after Raoul Wallenberg, the Swedish diplomat who rescued many Jews during World War II. You will also find there a prominent commemorative plaque to Sir Nicholas Winton who arranged the Kindertransport in 1938, saving 669 children. The ticket also allows access to a new Jewish Museum, next to the synagogue: opened in 2016, it displays items from 1681 (a marriage contract from Verona) to contemporary Judaica (a 2015 octahedral Hannukah Minorah).

St Stephen's Basilica

Looming over the rooftops to the north of Vörösmarty tér lies St Stephen's Basilica (daily 9am–7pm; donation expected; www.basilica.hu), an assertive nineteenth-century cathedral whose heavy ornamentation inspires awe more than contemplation. The dome collapsed shortly after building but is now sturdy enough to climb for its panoramic views of Budapest (July–Sept Mon–Sat 10am–6.30pm; Oct–June 10am–4.30pm; 500Ft). On St Stephen's Day, August 20, the mummified hand of St Stephen – Hungary's most revered relic – is brought out of a side-chapel and paraded round the building.

Parliament

The most unmissable sight in Pest by far is the Parliament, Hungary's biggest and arguably most beautiful building. It houses the old Coronation Regalia, including national hero St Stephen's crown, sceptre and orb, and its impressive interior features sweeping staircases and a 96m-high gilded central dome. There are daily tours of the building – in English – if parliamentary business allows (10am, noon, 1pm, 2pm & 3pm; 2200Ft for visitors with EU passport, 5400Ft for others). Tickets can be purchased on the day from the Visitors' Centre on the north side (daily; Nov–March daily 8am–4pm; April–Oct Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat & Sun 8am–4pm) or in advance from www.jegymester.hu.

Andrássy út

To the east of St Stephen's Basilica, Andrássy út runs dead straight for 2.5km, a wide avenue lined with grand, if sometimes tumbledown, buildings, including the magnificent Opera House at no. 22. At no. 60, out east towards Hősök tere, is the House of Terror (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 2000Ft; www.terrorhaza.hu; ☎ 01 374 2600). Once the headquarters of the fascist Arrow Cross and later of the Communist secret police (the ÁVO), the House of Terror is now a hard-hitting museum to the “dual terror” of Fascism and Communism. Original footage, photographs and interviews with survivors are powerfully used to tell the story of the twin tyrannies that Hungary suffered in the twentieth century.

Hősök tere – Heroes' Square

The bombastic Hősök tere (Heroes' Square) was created to mark the 1000th anniversary of the Magyar conquest in 1896, and its triumphant conquerors and rearing horses recall a time when Hungarian nationalism was at full throttle. Its centrepiece is the Millenary Monument, portraying the Magyar leader Prince Árpád, and the surrounding semicircle of greats of Hungarian history includes King Stephen and Lajos Kossuth, who spearheaded Hungary's short-lived independent government after the 1848 revolution. Also on Heroes' Square is the Museum of Fine Arts at Dózsa György út 41 (currently closed for renovation; check www.szepmuveszeti.hu for details on its reopening), with a good collection of paintings by big names including Brueghel, Rembrandt and El Greco.

BATHING IN STYLE: BUDAPEST'S SPA SCENE

Budapest has some of Europe's grandest baths, and they are much more affordable than you might expect. Hungarians love to wallow in the thermal waters bubbling up from subterranean springs, and a Budapest spa visit is a must-do experience – it's fantastically restorative and sure to ease any aches and pains. A basic ticket covers three hours in the pools, sauna and steam rooms (gőzfürdő), with services such as mud baths (iszapfürdő) or massages (masszázs) extra: for information on all Budapest's baths check budapestgyogyfurdoi.hu.

Built in 1913 on the Buda side of Freedom Bridge, the magnificent Gellért baths, with original Art Nouveau furnishings, stunning mosaics, sculptures and stained glass, offer the most exclusive experience (daily 6am–8pm; from 5100Ft pool and locker). The atmospheric Rudas baths at Döbrentei tér 9 on the Buda side of Erzsébet bridge, meanwhile, house a charming octagonal pool beneath a characteristic Turkish dome (men only Mon & Wed–Fri, women only Tues, mixed Sat & Sun; daily 6am–8pm; from 3200Ft). The popular, highly recommended Széchenyi Baths, by Heroes' Square in Pest, are the hottest in the capital, with large outdoor pools where old men play chess on floating boards, and fun features such as water rapids and underwater bubble jets (daily 6am–10pm; from 4700Ft). On Saturday nights they stage steamy, extravagant SPArties with drinks, DJs and dancing in and out of the water (10.30pm–3am; tickets from €35/10,900Ft at spartybooking.com).

15

The Városliget and Vajdahunyad Castle

The Városliget (City Park), which starts just behind the Hősök tere, holds the Vajdahunyad Castle, a somewhat kitsch imitation Transylvanian castle which incorporates no fewer than 21 architectural styles from across Hungary's regions and was built in 1896 as a celebration of Hungarian art and design. In the courtyard is a statue of the monk Anonymus – a celebrated twelfth-century chronicler of Hungarian history. An artificial lake at the foot of the castle is filled with water for rowing and pedaloes in summer, and ice-skating in winter.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

BY PLANE

From Ferenc Liszt airport, take bus #200E (5.05am–11.45pm; every 7–15min) to Kobánya-Kispest metro station (20 min), from where it's ten metro stops to the centre (Deák tér station). As this involves a journey by bus and metro, buy a transfer ticket (530Ft) from the newsagents at the terminal. An airport shuttle (☎01 296 8555, minibud.hu) will take you to any address you ask for (typically 3900Ft for one, 4900Ft for two to the city centre; tickets from their office in the terminal building) but you may have to wait for other passengers going your way. If you opt for a taxi, use only the official Fő airport company (around 6500Ft to the centre).

BY TRAIN

The three main train stations are all directly connected by metro with Deák tér metro station. Keleti (☎01 313 6835) handles all international trains; Nyugati (☎01 349 0115) receives domestic trains from the Danube Bend and the Great Plain; and Déli (☎01 355 8657) handles services to Lake Balaton. For general train information see ☎01 444 44999, mavcsopot.hu/en.

Destinations from Keleti Bratislava (11 daily; 2hr 40min); Bucharest (4 daily; 16hr); Eger (8 daily; 2hr); Kraków (1 daily; 11hr 40min); Pécs (10 daily; 3–4hr); Prague (8 daily; 7–10hr); Sopron (12 daily; 3hr 20min); Vienna (12–13 daily; 3–4hr); Zagreb (3 daily; 6hr).

Destinations from Nyugati Debrecen (1–2 hourly; 2hr 26min–3hr); Kecskemét (hourly; 1hr 20min); Szeged (hourly; 2hr 20min).

Destinations from Déli Siófok (hourly; 1hr 20min); Badacsonytomaj (10 daily; 2hr 30min).

BY BUS

The international bus station is at Népliget (Line 3), which also serves most domestic destinations, while Puskás Ferenc Stadion bus station (Line 2) serves areas in east Hungary. Volánbusz operates all routes except Budapest–Vienna, which is run by FlixBus.

Destinations from Népliget Badacsony (10 daily; 3hr); Bratislava (2 daily; 2hr 50min); Kecskemét (1–2 hourly; 1hr 20min–1hr 45min); Keszthely (10 daily; 2hr 15min–3hr); Kraków (1 daily; 7hr); Pécs (6 daily; 3hr 30min–4hr 15min); Prague (2 daily; 7hr 15min); Szeged (6 daily; 3–4hr); Vienna (8 daily; 2hr 55min); Zagreb (1 daily; 5hr). Destinations from Puskás Ferenc Stadion Eger (1–2 hourly; 1hr 50min–2hr 10min).

BY BOAT

Regular passenger cruises on the Danube are operated by Mahart (May–Sept; ☎01 484 4013, mahartpassnave.hu), leaving from Vigadó tér pier. International hydrofoils dock at Belgrád rakpart.

Destinations from Vigadó tér pier Szentendre (April Sat & Sun 10am; May–Sept daily 10am; 1hr 30min).

Destinations from Belgrád rakpart Vienna (Tues, Thurs, Sat; 9am; 6hr 30min).

INFORMATION AND TOURS

Tourist information The main Tourinform office in Budapest is at Sütő utca 2, just around the corner from Deák tér metro (daily 8am–8pm; ☎ 01 438 8080). Other branches are at Heroes Square (daily 9am–7pm) and Ferenc Liszt Airport Terminal 2A (daily 8am–10pm) and 2B (daily 10am–10pm).

Discount passes The Budapest Card (4900/7900/9900Ft for 24/48/72hr; ☎ budapest-card.com), available at the airport and tourist offices, hotels and major metro stations, gives unlimited travel on public transport, free or discounted admissions to museums and attractions, and discounts on the airport minibus. All museums offer reduced entry to students.

Tours Budapest Tours offers various free excursions (☎ 70 428 9674, ☎ freebudapesttours.hu), the most popular of which is the Orientation Tour (daily 10.30am from Deák tér; 2hr 30min). Budapest Underguide (☎ 30 908 1597, ☎ underguide.com) runs many specialized tours in English, including the recommended “Topsy” tour (a pub crawl at €49pp – four minimum – including two drinks).

GETTING AROUND

Tickets A basic 350Ft ticket is valid for a single journey on the metro, buses, trolleybuses and trams within city limits. If you travel by metro and bus in a single journey, buy a transfer ticket (530Ft). Tickets are available from metro stations and must be validated in the machines at the entrance before the journey starts, or on board buses, trolleybuses and trams. Travel cards are valid on all metro and bus lines within Budapest and are available in 24hr/72hr/weekly (1650/4150Ft/4950Ft) versions, as well as the 30/5 version (valid for any 5 days in 30; 4550Ft). If you don't have the correct ticket you can be fined up to 12,000Ft.

By metro The metro (daily 5.30am–11.15pm) has four lines (yellow, red, blue and green); services run every 2–15min.

By bus and tram Buses (busz) generally run every 10–15min. Express buses, with the red suffix “E”, go nonstop between termini. Trams (villamos) and trolleybuses (trolibusz) run regularly throughout the day. Nightbuses have three-digit numbers beginning with 9 and run every 30–60min from midnight to 5am. Tram #6 also operates through the night.

By taxi Avoid hailing taxis on the street – you are likely to get ripped off. Instead, use reliable firms such as Főtaxi (☎ 01 222 2222, ☎ fotaxi.hu), Citytaxi (☎ 01 211 1111, ☎ citytaxi.hu), Taxi4 (☎ 01 444 4444, ☎ taxi4.hu) and Taxi5 (☎ 01 555 5555, ☎ taxi5.hu). Charges are 450Ft (flag drop) plus 280Ft/km.

ACCOMMODATION

If you want to be close to Budapest's nightlife, cafés and central sights, the best districts to stay in are V, VI and VII in Pest.

★ Cosmo City Hotel V, Vaci utca 77 ☎ 01 799 0077, ☎ cosmohotel.hu. At the southern, quieter, tip of Vaci utca this designer hotel for budget-conscious travellers offers everything you need for little more than a hostel: lovely purple-and-black colour scheme, large rooms, comfortable beds, galloping wi-fi. Breakfast included. Doubles €70

★ Mandala Hostel VIII, Krúdy Gyula 12 ☎ 01 789 9515, ☎ mandalahostel.com. Beautifully decorated boutique hostel in a listed 1909 Art Nouveau building. Large six- to eight-bed dorms in open-plan/loft-style rooms, rather than the usual bunk beds. Tends to fill last, so definitely worth a try if stuck. Dorms €10, doubles €35

★ Marco Polo Top Hostel VII, Neár utca 6 ☎ 01 413 2555, ☎ marcopolohostel.com. Very well-organized hostel with double rooms and twelve-bed dorms with bunks separated by curtains so they don't feel cramped (though they get hot in the summer). The bar downstairs is the starting point for pub crawls. Wi-fi on first floor only. Dorms €14.50, doubles €50

★ Maverick Hostel V, Ferenciek Tere 2 ☎ 01 267 3166, ☎ mavericklodges.com/eng. Cheery, clean hostel with no bunk beds (dorms have a split-floor open-plan area instead) and good service: rooms with private bathrooms cost a reasonable €48. Maverick also runs a more upmarket hostel in Kazinczy utca which is pricier and not as quiet. Dorms €12, doubles €30

★ Nightingale Ensuite Hostel VIII, József Körút 2 ☎ 70 947 9676, ☎ nightingale.minihotel.budapest@gmail.com. Fresh, chic decor in this friendly hostel offering double and triple rooms only. All but one have their own bathroom and that one has sole use with a private key. Although it overlooks Budapest's busiest road junction, you'll notice little noise. Doubles €33

★ Wombat Hostel V, Király utca 20 ☎ 01 883 5005, ☎ wombats-hostels.com/budapest. With four massive floors, a pop-art common room straight out of a Lichtenstein painting, breakfast buffet for 1000Ft, CCTV for safety, and lighters, earplugs and condoms available at reception, this new kid on the block is setting high standards in Budapest. Dorms €17, doubles €50

EATING

It's easy to refuel cheaply in Budapest with a growing number of outlets serving falafels and kebabs. The two street food areas to explore are the junction of October 6 utca with Zrínyi utca in front of St Stephen's Basilica or the Central Market at Fővám tér.

CAFÉS, CHEAP EATS AND SNACKS

Belvarosi Disznótoros V, Kiraly utca 1d. Farm-to-kitchen self-service grill where you choose cuts of fresh meat and have them cooked in front of you. Great range of pickles and salads with home-made mayo: egg, cheese, potato salad – you name it, they have it. Mon–Thurs 10am–10pm, Fri–Sat 10am–midnight, Sun 10am–8pm.

★ Corso Gourmet V, Vaci utca 54. Astonishingly good-value self-service restaurant on the second floor of a gourmet shop with mains less than 1000Ft (soups and salads at 300Ft are often included in the price of the main course). The entrance leads into the wine section of the gourmet shop – walk through it and take the lift to the second floor. Mon–Sat 8am–9pm, Sun 8am–7pm.

Művészi VI, Andrásy út 29. Classic old coffeehouse (est. 1898), across from the Opera House, decorated in a traditional style with crystal chandeliers and dark wood furnishings. Try a slice of the chocolate and caramel Dobos cake for 850Ft. Mon–Sat 9am–10pm, Sun 10am–10pm.

Vár I, Disz tér 8. The only budget option on the Buda hill, this is a great self-service café serving filling dishes for under 1000Ft especially from the daily lunch menu (11.30am–2pm). Even if you're not hungry, have a seat and sample the best cappuccino in Buda. Daily 8am–8pm.

RESTAURANTS

Castro Bisztró V, Madách Imre tér 3. Shabby-chic bistro close to Deák tér, with a laidback feel and eclectic decor including chintzy floral tablecloths. There's a wide range of vegetarian and vegan options, but the goulash at 1150Ft is the winner. Mon–Thurs 11am–midnight, Fri 11am–1am, Sat noon–1am, Sun 2pm–midnight.

Darshan Udvar VIII, Krúdy Gyula utca 7. Part of a cluster of bar-restaurants in a cul-de-sac off a charming pedestrianized street, convenient if you're staying at Mandala Hostel. Yummy pizzas (1000Ft) sit alongside Hungarian specialties with mains around 1800Ft. Daily 11am–midnight.

Kőleves Kert VII, Kazinczy utca 41. Fun garden gastropub with Hungarian fusion dishes cooked by the same chef as the more upmarket restaurant next door (mains 1300–1400Ft). Go if only to lie in one of their hammocks. Mon–Fri 8am–1am, Sat & Sun 9am–1am.

M VII Kertész utca 48 (off Liszt Ferenc tér) ☎ 01 322 3108. Cosy little restaurant that feels both low-key and very special with quirky interior design and delicious Hungarian-inspired food – the desserts are particularly generous. Mains around 2500Ft. Reservations recommended. Mon–Fri 6pm–midnight, Sat & Sun noon–4pm & 6pm–midnight.

★ Menza VI, Liszt Ferenc tér 2. Stylish, if self-consciously so. Enjoy Hungarian dishes al fresco on the see-and-be-seen Liszt Ferenc tér, consistently one of the best eats in Budapest offering mains around 2000–3000Ft. Daily 10am–midnight.

DRINKING, NIGHTLIFE AND ENTERTAINMENT

For nightlife, head to District VII with its atmospheric “ruin pubs”, namely bars inside run-down and disused buildings. The fortnightly Budapest Funzine (📧 funzine.hu) is a free listings and events magazine in English available from hotels, cafés and tourist information points. Tickets for most music events can be bought through Ticket Express (VI, Andrásy út 18; ☎ 30 303 0999, 🌐 eventim.hu).

Doboz VII, Klauzál utca 10 📧 doboz.pm. Ruin-style hotspot in Budapest set around an inner courtyard where a model of King Kong made out of planks is climbing a plane tree – anyone over 25 might feel out of place. Draught beer 500Ft. Fri & Sat cover 1500Ft. Mon–Thurs 5pm–3am, Fri & Sat 5pm–6am.

★ Fogas Ház VII, Akácfa utca 51 📧 fogashaz.hu. This former dentist's practice became a “ruin pub” with a garden and has now expanded to a multi-level hangout with six bars, three dancefloors (disco, techno, house) and a live acoustic venue – yet it still manages to capture the anarchic spirit that started it off. Daily 6pm–4am.

Instant VI, Nagymező utca 38 📧 instant.co.hu. Labyrinthine venue set around an open courtyard with an offbeat energy and surreal, arty decor. It doesn't fill up until 1am. Mon–Thurs & Sun 4pm–6am, Fri & Sat 4pm–11am.

Szimpla Kert VII, Kazinczy utca 14 📧 szimpla.hu. The original “ruin pub” occupies a chaotic warehouse space with seven bars and a smokers' yard, but is far too often full of stag parties and hostel pub crawls. Daily noon–4am.

SZIGET FESTIVAL

Missed out on Glastonbury? Then head to Budapest in mid-August for one of Europe's “must-do” music festivals. Every year about 400,000 fans (“szitzens”) from more than 80 countries descend on Óbudai island in the Danube, just north of Budapest, for the Sziget Festival (📧 szigetfestival.com). The week-long event attracts top international acts, such as Rihanna, Muse and David Guetta, but also offers a variety of cultural programmes, including theatre, circus, exhibitions, a Roma stage and a large LGBT tent. If you buy the discounted early-bird tickets (sold until the end of May), you'll pay €55–65 per person for a day pass, €219 for a five-day pass and €249 for a seven-day pass. The passes include free transport in the capital and, as the connections with Budapest are excellent, they provide a great opportunity to explore the city during the day.

DIRECTORY

Embassies and consulates Australia, XII, Királyhágó tér 8–9 ☎ 01 457 9777, hungary.embassy.gov.au; Canada, XII, Ganz utca 12–14 ☎ 01 392 3360; Ireland, V, Szabadság tér 7 ☎ 01 301 4960; New Zealand Consulate, VII, Nagymező utca 47 ☎ 01 302 2484; UK, V, Harmincad utca 6 ☎ 01 266 2888; US, V, Szabadság tér 12 ☎ 01 475 4400, hungary.usembassy.gov.

Hospitals You can find 24hr medical help in the centre at Semmelweis utca 14/b (entrance on Gerlőczy utca) ☎ 01 311 6816, and at Dob utca 86 ☎ 01 321 0440.

Pharmacies The pharmacy at Teréz körút 41, near Oktogon, is open 24hr; pharmacies inside shopping centres also tend to be open longer hours.

Police 24hr tourist hotline ☎ 01 438 8080.

Post office The branch in Keleti station is open 24hr while the branch in Nyugati station is open daily 7am–midnight.

SZENTENDRE

SZENTENDRE on the west bank of the Danube Bend is a popular day-trip from Budapest, a picturesque if rather touristy “town of artists” with narrow cobbled streets and quaint houses.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Szentendre was originally populated by Serbs seeking refuge from the Ottomans in the late seventeenth century, and the Serbian cultural imprint remains, particularly in the rococo Blagovestenska Church (April–Oct Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; 400Ft; ☎ 26 312 399), on the north side of the main square, Fő tér. Just around the corner at Vastagh György utca 1 is the Margit Kovács Museum (daily 10am–6pm; 1200Ft; ☎ 26 310 244), displaying the lifetime work of Hungary’s greatest ceramicist and sculptor, born in 1902.

There’s a charming view over Szentendre’s steeply banked rooftops and gardens from the hilltop Templom tér, above Fő tér, where the Serbian Orthodox Cathedral is visible inside its walled garden; tourists are generally not admitted, but you can see the cathedral iconostasis and treasury in the adjacent museum (May–Sept Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; Oct–April Tues–Sun 10am–4pm; 700Ft; ☎ 26 312 399).

Try and spend some time in Szentendre, as there are at least half a dozen more art collections, exhibitions and galleries worth a look – indeed, you won’t want to miss the Marzipan Museum with its sculpted pastries at Dumtsa Jenő utca 12 (daily: April–Oct 9am–7pm; Nov–March 9am–6pm; 500Ft; ☎ 26 311 931). There are spring-welcoming folk dances on March and April weekends, music festivals over the summer and a rich programme leading to New Year’s Eve. Ask Tourinform for details.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train Suburban HÉV trains depart from Batthyány tér in Budapest. Szentendre’s train station is located a 5min walk south of town. If you have a Budapest travel card you have to pay a small surcharge of around 600Ft return at the ticket office at Batthyány tér before boarding.

Destinations Budapest (2–7 hourly; 40min).

By boat Boats depart from Budapest’s Vigadó tér pier (1 daily; 1hr 30min). Szentendre’s docking station is 100m north of the town centre.

Tourist information Tourinform, Dumtsa Jenő utca 22 (May–Aug daily 10am–6pm; Sept–Oct daily 9am–5pm; Nov–April Tues–Sun 9am–5pm; ☎ 26 317 965, iranyszentendre.hu).

ACCOMMODATION

Centrum Panzió Bogdanyi utca 15 ☎ 26 302 500, hotelcentrum.hu. Homely, moderately plush rooms with modern bathrooms, right opposite the riverbank. Breakfast 1000Ft. Doubles 12,000Ft

Ilona Panzió Rákóczi F utca 11 ☎ 26 313 599. Simple rooms in a pleasant location in the heart of the old quarter. Breakfast included. Doubles 12,000Ft

Pap-Sziget Pap Island, 1.5km north of town ☎ 26 310 697, camping-budapest.com; Pap Sziget bus from Ujpest metro station north of Budapest. Well-organized campsite with two-person caravans, bungalows and motel rooms to rent. Convenient for the Hungaroring Formula 1 race and the Sziget festival. Open May to mid-Oct. Camping/tent 4000Ft, doubles 4800Ft, bungalows 8600Ft

EATING AND DRINKING

Aranysárkány Alkotmány utca 1a. Cosy and popular, Hungary’s first ever private restaurant, established in 1977, serves up traditionally filling Magyar cuisine – try the goulash soup served in bread casing for 1200Ft. Daily noon–10pm.

Görög Kancsó Duna Korzó 9. A Greek restaurant with a summer-holiday feel and sophisticated decor; offers glass-enclosed seating along the main Danube bank. Great moussaka for 1990Ft. Free wi-fi. Daily 10am–10pm.

Palapa Batthyani utca 2 just off Dumtsa Jenő utca. Brightly decorated, fun Mexican outfit with lively garden and tequila cocktails. Mains from 1700Ft. Mon–Thurs & Sun noon–10pm, Fri & Sat noon–midnight.

Western Hungary

The major tourist attraction to the west of the capital is Lake Balaton, dubbed the “Hungarian sea”, and all that remains of the Pannonian Sea which once covered this part of Europe. Its built-up southern shore features loud resorts such as Siófok, which brands itself as the “Capital of Summer”, while gentler Keszthely perches on the western tip. Worth a visit if you fancy a spot of swimming during the day while boozing and dancing at night, Siófok is Hungary’s answer to the notorious nightlife of resorts such as Kavos, Malia and Magaluf – without the Mediterranean coyness. By contrast, the four villages that cluster around the Badacsony, a hulk of volcanic rock on the northern shore of the lake, are very charming indeed and the perfect starting point for walks and wine-tasting tours in the Balaton region. Being flat, the lakeshore lends itself to cycling and there are plenty of places where you can rent bikes for around 1500Ft a day.

The wider region of Transdanubia – of which Lake Balaton and Badacsony are part – is the most ethnically diverse in the country. Its valleys and hills, forests and mud flats have been settled by Magyars, Serbs, Slovaks and Germans, and occupied by Romans, Ottomans and Habsburgs. Its towns have been through multiple evolutions and it shows: the delightful Sopron has a gorgeous medieval centre, Roman ruins and Baroque finery to its name, while Pécs boasts the country’s best-preserved Ottoman mosque as well as some fascinating early Christian excavated finds.

SIÓFOK

The biggest, trashiest resort on Balaton, SIÓFOK throbs with summer crowds intent on sunbathing, boozing and clubbing. The two main resort areas are Aranypart (Gold Shore) to the east of the centre and Ezüstpart (Silver Shore) to the west. Though the central stretch of sand consists of a paying beach (daily mid-May to mid-Sept 7am–7pm; 600Ft), there are free beaches 1km either side. You can rent windsurfing equipment and wakeboards from 3000Ft per hour at most beaches.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is on Fő utca at the centre of town.

Destinations Budapest (9 daily; 1hr 30min).

By bus The bus station is at Fő utca 71–81 (☎ 84 310 220). Bus #12 goes all along the south shore, aided by the #21 between July 10 and Aug 20. Bus #2 runs east of Siófok and #61 runs west.

Destinations Budapest (3 daily; 1hr 30min); Keszthely (3 daily; 1hr 30min); Pécs (4 daily; 3hr).

Tourist information The Tourinform office is inside the Víztorony (Water Tower), the town’s landmark on the main square (May to mid-June & mid-Aug to mid-Sept Mon–Fri 8am–6pm, Sat 9am–1pm; mid-June to mid-Aug Mon–Sat 8am–8pm, Sun 9am–1pm; mid-Sept to April Mon–Fri 8am–4.30pm; ☎ 84 310 117, ☞ siofokportal.com).

ACCOMMODATION

Hostels are geared towards Hungarian students, so campsites are a better bet. Tourinform can book private rooms, of which there are plenty during the summer.

Aranypart Camping Szent László utca 185 ☎ 84 353 899, ☞ balatontourist.hu; bus #2, Szabadifűrdő stop. Located 3km east of the centre, this large, well-equipped campsite also has bungalows (2–4 people) to rent. Open May to mid-Sept. Camping/person 1400Ft, plus per tent 1000Ft, bungalows 26,000Ft

Ifjúság Camping Siófok-Sóstó, Pusztatorony tér ☎ 84 352 851, ☞ balatontourist.hu; bus #2, final stop. This smaller, quiet campsite lies 9km east of the centre, not on Balaton itself, but on the shore of a fishing lake. It also has 2-person bungalows. Open end of May to mid-Sept. Camping/person 1000Ft, plus per tent 750Ft, bungalows 4500Ft

EATING

★ Amigo Fő utca 99. Good-value pizzeria offering much more than pizzas (around 1400Ft) with a roast pork platter, for example, at 1900Ft. Well worth walking the 200m east from the bus station. Mon–Thurs & Sun 11am–midnight, Fri & Sat 11am–1am.

Café Roxy Szabadság tér 1. Very pleasant and central wood-panelled café-restaurant; great for a relaxed glass of wine, mid-morning coffee or oven-baked pizza (around 1500Ft). Daily: June–Aug 8am–1am; Sept–May 8am–11.30pm.

DRINKING AND NIGHTLIFE

Flört Sió utca 4 ☎ flort.hu. High-energy techno club with special nights such as XXLparty and – no prizes for guessing the theme – Bunga Bunga. Still, Tiësto, Sasha, Paul van Dyk and many more top DJs have appeared here. Aug daily 10pm–5am, plus occasional nights throughout the year.

Palace Dance Club Siófok-Ezüstpart, Vécsey Károly utca 20 ☎ palace.hu. Hosting 20-hour marathons, Siófok's most notorious club has been open since 1990 and is still going strong, with two floors of house, dance and techno. Party buses will take you there for free if you call ☎ 30 200 8888. Tickets 1000–3000Ft. June–Aug on party nights 10pm–late.

KESZTHELY

KESZTHELY is a gentler counterpart to brash Siófok, with a pleasant waterfront encompassing two bays (one for swimming, the other for ferries). There are stretches of grass and small paying beaches (June–Aug 8am–7pm; Városi Strand 1000Ft; Helikon Strand and Libás Strand 500Ft) that give peaceful views over the seemingly never-ending lake.

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

Walking up from the train station along Mártírok útja, you'll pass the Balaton Museum on your left at Múzeum utca 2 (Jan–April & Oct–Dec Tues–Sat 9am–4pm; May & Sept Tues–Sat 9am–5pm; June–Aug daily 9am–6pm; ☎ 83 312 351, ☎ balatonimuzeum.hu), hosting exhibits on the region's history and wildlife. Kossuth utca, swarming with cafés and shops, leads up towards the beige, Baroque Festetics Palace, which also houses hunting, coach and model railway museums (July–Aug daily 9am–6pm; May, June & Sept daily 10am–5pm; Oct–April Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; palace & coach museum 2500Ft, all museums 4200Ft; ☎ 83 314 194, ☎ helikonkastely.hu). The third-largest palace in Hungary, it was built in 1745 by Count György Festetics, who attracted the leading lights of the eighteenth-century literary and high society scenes. Highlights include the mirrored ballroom, but, given the entry fee, those on a budget may prefer to admire the exterior and pretty surrounding gardens. The palace stages regular summer concerts, and in its cellars you can find the Wines of Balaton museum exhibiting 1500 wines (Tues–Sun 10am–5pm; entrance 600Ft or 1500Ft including three tastings; 2500Ft including five tastings).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is located a 15min walk south of the centre at the junction of Kazinczy utca and Mártírok útja.

Destinations Budapest (7 daily; 3hr 30min); Siófok (7 daily; 1hr 30min).

By bus The bus station is next to the train station, at Kazinczy utca.

Destinations Badacsony (7 daily; 30min); Budapest (7 daily; 3hr 30min); Pécs (4 daily; 3hr); Siófok (2 daily; 1hr 30min); Sopron (2 daily; 3hr).

By ferry The quay is a 10min walk south of the centre, along Erzsébet királyné útca.

Destinations Badacsony (mid-July to Aug 1–2 daily; 2hr).

Tourist information Tourinform, Kossuth Lajos utca 30 (Sept–May Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–1pm; June to mid-June Mon–Fri 9am–6pm, Sat 9am–2pm; mid-June to Aug Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat & Sun 10am–4pm; ☎ 83 314 144, ☎ west-balaton.hu). There is also an infopoint at the Lake Balaton promenade (June–Aug daily 9am–7pm).

ACCOMMODATION

Ambient Apartments Sopron utca 10 ☎ 30 460 3536, ☎ keszthely-apartman.fw.hu. En-suite doubles and small apartments for two or more are offered in this handily located apartment house next to the Festetics Palace. Doubles 7000Ft, apartments 8400Ft

Castrum Camping Móra Ferenc utca 48 ☎ 83 312 120, ☎ castrum.eu. Over 150 pitches in this large campsite 300m from the lakefront, with hedges and trees providing plenty of shade. Open May to Sept. Per person 1600Ft, plus per tent 2000Ft

EATING AND DRINKING

John's Pub Kossuth Lajos utca 46 ☎ johnspubkeszthely.hu. Saloon-style bar with a long but affordable cocktail list and music late into the night. Daily lunch menu for 1150Ft. Club nights at weekends. Mon–Thurs noon–midnight, Fri noon–4am, Sat 6pm–4am.

BADACSONY

The BADACSONY – a hefty hunk of volcanic rock, forming a plateau visible from many kilometres around – is the iconic centre-point of the beautiful wine-growing region that is named after it. Four villages nestle at its feet, and it makes for a lovely base for walks, wine tasting and swimming in Lake Balaton. In particular, Badacsonytomaj has a small-scale charm enhanced by sampling a glass of local wine, never hard to come by, given the abundance of boutique wine cellars and roadside bars (borozó). You can rent bikes at various points along Park utca, the main road by the lake. There is also a clean, paying beach (Strandfürdő May & Sept 9am–5pm; June–Aug 8am–7pm; 700Ft).

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The Baroque Róza Szegedy House (March–May Wed–Mon 10am–5pm; June–Aug daily 10am–7pm; Sept–Oct Wed–Mon 10am–6pm; Nov–Feb Fri–Sun 11am–5pm; 800Ft; szegedyrozahaz.hu) is on Kisfaludy utca, the only road going uphill from Római utca. The walk is a steep but picturesque 2.5km through the Badacsony vineyards. A little further up stands Rose Rock (Róza kő), where local legend has it that if a man and woman sit together with their backs facing Lake Balaton and think about each other, they will marry within a year. The Rose Rock is a good starting point for an invigorating hike to the Kisfaludy lookout tower (437m) and, twenty minutes further north, the Stone Gate (Kőkapu), formed by two great basalt towers. Both points offer splendid views of the lake and the patchwork of Badacsony's vineyards. Several wineries in the area offer wine tasting, including Laposa at Káptalan-tóti Bogyai L. utca 1 (bazaltbor.hu), Szási, at Szentgyörgy-hegy Hegymagas (szaszipince.hu), and Istványi Winery at Káptalan-tóti, Rózsadomb 121 (istvandy-pinceszet.hu).

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The train station is opposite the ferry pier on Park utca.

Destinations Budapest (3 daily; 3hr).

By bus Buses stop on Park utca by the ferry pier.

Destinations Keszthely (8 daily; 30min).

By ferry The ferry dock is in the middle of town (mid-July to Aug only).

Destinations Keszthely (1–2 daily; 2hr).

Tourist information Park utca 14 (Jan–April & Nov–Dec Mon–Fri 8am–4pm; May–June & Sept–Oct Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat & Sun 10am–3pm; July & Aug Mon–Fri 9am–7pm, Sat & Sun 10am–7pm; Sept Mon–Fri 9am–5pm; ☎ 87 531 013, badacsony.com). They can book accommodation and hiking tours in English.

ACCOMMODATION

Borbaratok Római utca 88, Badacsonytomaj ☎ 87 471 000, borbaratok.hu. Outstanding panzió, with large, beautifully comfortable rooms, and an excellent restaurant (mid-March to Dec daily 11.30am–9pm) serving superb Hungarian dishes. Breakfast included. Doubles 17,000Ft. Tomaj Camping Balaton utca 13, Badacsonytomaj ☎ 87 471 321, tomajcamping.hu. Pretty campsite by the lakeside, also known as the “Riviera”, around a 10min walk east of the train station. Also rents wooden bungalows with kitchenette. Open May–Sept. Camping/person 1000Ft, plus per tent 1400Ft, bungalows 10,500Ft.

SOPRON

A captivating town close to the Austrian border, SOPRON retains its original medieval layout with no fewer than 240 listed buildings. From its fourth-century Roman-era town walls to its Baroque central square, it is steeped in history, and its proximity to Vienna makes it a perfect day-trip from the Austrian capital (see p.65).

WHAT TO SEE AND DO

The horseshoe-shaped Belváros (inner town) is north of Széchenyi tér and the main train station. At its southern end, beautiful Orsolya tér (Bear Square) features Renaissance edifices and the yellow and cream Gothic church. Heading north towards the main square, Új utca (New Street – actually one of the town's oldest thoroughfares) is a gentle curve of perfectly preserved homes painted in red, yellow and pink. At no. 22 stands a medieval synagogue (April–Sept daily 10am–6pm; Oct Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 800Ft; ☎ 99 311 327) that flourished when the street was Zsidó utca (Jewish Street).

Fő tér

Fő tér features an exquisite assembly of Gothic and Baroque architecture. Its centrepiece is the Goat Church at Templom utca 1 (April–Oct Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; Nov–March 10am–4pm; 900Ft), so-called because, according to legend, its construction in the thirteenth century was financed by a goatherd whose flock unearthed a cache of gold coins. The attached Chapter house (same hours & ticket), which served as a prayer house and burial chapel, is considered one of Hungary's best examples of Gothic architecture. The Renaissance Storno House, at Fő tér 8, has a good exhibition on the colourful history of Sopron county (Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; 700Ft; ☎99 311 327, 🌐muzeum.sopron.hu), but its highlight is the Storno family apartment on the second floor, a superb example of nineteenth-century bourgeois living quarters (1000Ft extra).

Firewatch Tower

North of Storno House rises Sopron's symbol, the Firewatch Tower (Jan–March Tues–Sun 10am–6pm; April–Sept daily 10am–8pm; Oct–Dec daily 10am–6pm; 1150Ft), founded upon the stones of a fortress originally laid out by the Romans. The Gate of Loyalty at the base of the tower commemorates the townsfolk's decision to remain part of Hungary when offered the choice of annexation to Austria in 1921.

ARRIVAL AND INFORMATION

By train The station is on Mátyás Király utca, 500m south of Széchenyi tér.

Destinations Budapest (6 daily; 2hr 40min); Vienna (2–4 hourly; 1hr 10min).

By bus The station is northwest of the old town, a 5min walk along Lackner Kristóf utca from Ógabona tér.

Destinations Keszthely (2 daily; 3hr); Pécs (1 daily; 6hr 30min).

Tourist information Tourinform is inside the Liszt Cultural Centre at Liszt Ferenc utca 1 (June–Sept daily 10am–8pm, Oct–May Mon–Fri 9am–5pm, Sat 9am–1pm; ☎99 517 560, 🌐turizmus.sopron.hu).

ACCOMMODATION AND EATING

Cézár Cellar Hátsókapu utca 2. A shabby exterior hides a cosy candlelit medieval wine cellar serving a tasting of four glasses of wine plus a meat-and-cheese board for 3000Ft. Mon–Sat noon–midnight, Sun 4–11pm.

